...RIOUS WOMAN WITH AUBURN HAIR ENTERS MURDER CASE

Freeport Authorities Investigate Shooting of Mrs. Bailey.

Doctor in Whose Office the Crime Occurred Rehearses Scene.

Evidence Accumulates to Support His Story of Affair.

Freeport, N. Y., July 1.—Evidence accumulated today to support Dr. Edward Carman's story that Mrs. Louise Bailey, murdered last night in his office, was killed by a shot from outside ...rough the office window. In the physician's room, four feet from the window, detectives found an instrument case, bearing on its white enamel finish, powder burns and a furrow that might have been plowed by the bullet as it sped toward Mrs. Bailey.

The instrument case is so low that had the shot been fired inside the room the person who held the pistol must have squatted on the floor. It was, however, directly in the path that a bullet would ...taken from a pistol fired through the window.

Rehearsed Murder Scene.

In the presence of detectives engaged by the county and by the murdered woman's husband, William D. Bailey, a wealthy New York hat manufacturer, Dr. Carman today rehearsed the murder scene. He was about to pull aside the curtain to permit Mrs. Bailey to leave his office, he said, when he heard a crash of glass and saw a hand with a pistol poked through the broken pane. He and his patient were barely two feet apart, he said, and he did not know at what the weapon was aimed. He ducked behind an operating chair, and as he did so the

URGES DOCTORS TO FIGHT SOCIAL EVIL

Speaker Says Awakening of Public Conscience Is Needed.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 1.—"The eatest prophylaxis against the increase of the social evil is a deep conviction that will keep the youth of our land from temptation," declared Dr. R. F. Miller, in an address yesterday before the bureau of dermatology of the American Institute of Homeopathy in session here. "This is a day of preventive medicine," he said, "and it behooves us as medical men to contribute our part in awakening the public conscience to the value of a clean life as related to our future well-being as a nation. The essential things for a strong nation is to have a generation of men with clean bodies."

TRACES GUN TO GIFFORD

Prosecutor in Albany Murder Trial Questions Pawn Broker.

Society Friends of Accused Youth Testify for State.

Albany, N. Y., July 1.—Efforts of District Attorney Alexander were centered today, at the trial of Malcolm Gifford, Jr., on proving that a revolver similar to the one with which Frank J. Clute was killed was pawned by Gifford in Northampton, Mass., last winter.

Warren T. Risley, a pawn broker of Northampton, testified he had loaned $7 on a revolver and issued a ticket to a person who signed it "M. Gifford."

William J. Kinsley, a handwriting expert, testified that the person who signed the pawn ticket and the one whose signatures appeared on a check and a baggage receipt signed by Gifford were the same.

The prosecution rested its case this afternoon.

Friends Are Witnesses.

Practically all yesterday Young Gifford was under the fire of his personal friends, most of them society folks, whom District Attorney Alexander had called to assist in weaving about Gifford a web of circumstantial evidence. Their stories for the most part dealt with Gifford's actions on the night that Clute met his death and the day following. That the witnesses retained their affection for the defendant was evidenced by the reluctant manner in which they testified.

Probably the most important development came in testimony of Derick Boardman of Troy, Gifford's nearest chum, at whose home the defendant was a guest the night Clute was shot.

Had Black Pocketbook.

Boardman testified he had seen Gifford in the window of his room with a black pocketbook in his hand the morning after the shooting. Later, the witness said, he saw Gifford on the roof outside the window.

Charles E. Carpenter, caretaker at Boardman house, subsequently testified he had found Clute's pocketbook containing his chauffeur's license this roof. Carpenter said he found the pocketbook in a garage and gave it to Derick Boardman's father, C. F. Boardman, turned it over to the district attorney.

MAY ORDER ULSTER MEN TO CARRY ARMS

SIR EDWARD CARSON.

London, July 1.—Ulster volunteers have been notified, according to the Belfast Echo, that the time has arrived when on an order from their commanding officers the men may carry arms openly, and that any attempt to seize the arms of the volunteers who may be carrying them in accordance with this order is to be resisted.

FIVE MEN IN BURNING MINE

Rescue Squads Work Feverishly at Williamson, W. Va.

Flames Break Out on Night When Few Are at Work.

Williamson, W. Va., July 1.—Miners worked with feverish energy today digging a shaft into the workings of mine No. 1 of the Sycamore Coal company, near here, in the hope of reaching five men who were cut off when fire broke out last night.

The throng surrounding the pit realized soon after dawn that the hope was forlorn, but the men, under the direction of a mine inspector and their bosses, continued to dig. Others forced their way into the gas-filled galleries and endeavored to choke the flames with sand, crews being relieved every half hour, but they made little progress. Dense volumes of smoke poured from the openings, and it was feared the fire was spreading rapidly.

The fire broke out in the fan house and that structure was destroyed. Alarmed by the failure of the air, twenty-five men made their way to the surface, but five were caught in the entries far from the opening.

The nearest rescue crew of the United States bureau of mines was at Roanoke, Va., and was expected to reach here during the day.

May Be Saved Yet.

The entombed miners, George Selbold, James Collins, Benjamin James, Henry Lyons and Marion Lyons, were believed by Deputy Mine Inspector Edward Lambert to be in a part of the mine not yet touched by the fire. He said they probably had been cut off by the flames and had taken refuge in a room about 1,000 feet from the mouth. If they could live during the day, there was some hope of saving them, experienced miners declared.

Lines of hose were run into the main entry and water was kept playing on the flames, while seventy-five miners were detailed for work in the excavation.

One hundred men were usually employed in the mine at night, but many of them did not report last night.

Rescue Crew on Way.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 1.—A rescue crew of six men in charge of H. E. Mason, mining engineer, left the bureau of mines station here at 10 o'clock today for Williamson, where the Sycamore mine was reported on fire. It was believed they would be able to reach the mine in time to be of service.

FIFTEEN THOUSAND GET $1,000,000,000 A YEAR

Estimate Is Made in New York Financial District.

New York, July 1.—Estimates made today based upon the total amount of income assessments paid into the office of the income tax collector, indicate that in this one district, which includes the Wall street financial houses, 15,000 persons have a total annual income exceeding $1,000,000,000.

DYNAMITE KILLS FIREMAN; FOUR HURT

Charlotte, N. C., July 1.—Chief Wallace of the local fire department was probably fatally injured, one fireman was killed and three others were painfully injured today by a dynamite explosion in a small fire. The dynamite, stored by a contractor, was ignited by a fire in a barn.

BRITONS LEAVE THE CAPITAL OF MEXICO ON CARDEN'S ADVICE

FIX PROGRAM FOR CONGRESS

Senate Democrats Will Caucus on Work for Session.

President's Approval Is Given to Plan of Leaders.

Washington, July 1.—Definite and final notice to business interests and the country generally that congress will not adjourn without action on the administration trust legislation program, was the primary object of a caucus of senate Democrats called for today, with President Wilson's approval.

A party agreement to pass the trade commission bill, the amended omnibus trust bill and the railroad securities bill, was discussed at the White House today in conferences with administration leaders, who returned to the capital with the word that the plan carried the backing of the president.

It was hoped that by outlining a definite program, congressmen would stop absenting themselves from sessions, and that there would be less difficulty in getting a quorum and in transacting business. Once congress knows that a definite program is to be enacted before adjournment, the president believes the work will be quickly finished.

PLAYING BASEBALL HELD "HAZARDOUS"

Clubs Must Pay New York Tax to Insure the Players.

New York, July 1.—Under the workmen's compensation law which went into effect in this state at midnight last night, the baseball player is recognized as a workman engaged in a hazardous occupation, and ball clubs are taxed accordingly in order to insure him his livelihood in case of mishap. Not alone are the baseball clubs of the state to be taxed, but visiting clubs as well, and a neat sum will be exacted from the National, American, Federal, International and New York State league teague teams.

The eight clubs of the National league, for instance will have to pay $4,500 each to insure players their compensation in case of injury, it is said, which would take from that league alone about $40,000 each year.

The law is compulsory and leaves the club no option in the matter of insuring its players.

Specialist for King Peter.

Vienna, Austria, July 1.—Prof. Francis Chvostek of the medical faculty of the Vienna university, a specialist for internal complaints, was summoned today to proceed to Servia to attend King Peter.

One Thousand Americans Still Remain in Mexico City.

United States "Suggests" That Mediators Abandon Indefinite Recess.

"HALF MEXICO CITY WILL DIE WITH ME."

Vera Cruz, July 1.—"Before I resign, half the people of Mexico City will die with me," is the remark President Victoriano Huerta is credited with having made to friends Monday.

The party was discussing the efforts of the mediators at Niagara Falls to find a solution of the Mexican problem. Gen. Huerta was more grim and taciturn than usual, and showed little of his accustomed jocularity.

Washington, July 1.—Sir Lionel Carden, British minister in Mexico City, has advised the embassy here that a special train bearing British refugees will leave Mexico City today. They will be taken to Vera Cruz. The British subjects are leaving the Mexican capital on the advice of the British minister.

After a conference with Secretary Bryan, President Wilson today authorized the statement that the Mexican situation was as favorable as it may be until the Mexican factions get together. Further the president refused to discuss the Mexican situation.

While no statement was made at the White House regarding the recess of the mediation conference, officials close to the president said he was very hopeful that Huerta, Carranza and Villa would agree on a definite plan for settling the international affairs of Mexico.

Reports to the Constitutionalists here that Gen. Villareal had left Carranza at Monterey and gone to confer with Gen. Villa at Torreon, were taken to indicate that an effort is being made within the Constitutionalist ranks to compose the differences between the first chief and his fighting general. Villareal is a close friend of both men.

Capital Has 1,000 Americans.

Mexico City, July 1.—There has been no recent movement of Americans from the capital—1,000 are still here. The American school, which closed April 22, will be reopened today.

The Mexican foreign office last night informed the Brazilian minister that Edgar Mackey, an American 18 years of age, imprisoned by the Federals at Soledad, state of Vera Cruz, will be released immediately in accordance

STARTLING RISE IN MISSISSIPPI RIVER

La Crosse, Wis., July 1.—A sensational rise in the Mississippi river here over night caused great alarm and resulted in official warnings being sent up and down the river by the United States weather bureau. Today the river stood at ten feet above low water mark, the highest point in years. Two feet more will let the river into town, low places of which are already flooded. Heavy rains and swollen streams emptying into the Mississippi from above will mean a steady rise until Saturday, the weather observer predicts today.

ROOSEVELT'S "BOSS" TALK IS ANSWERED

Penrose Tells Something of His Experience With Colonel.

Shows His Own Relations With the Former President.

Recounts Fake Contests Instituted to Block Taft's Plans.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 1.—United States Senator Boies Penrose, who was in this city last night, gave out a statement replying to Col. Roosevelt's speech before the mass meeting of the Progressive league. The senator referred to the rebuke of bossism, and continued:

"It is difficult for me to determine just when Mr. Roosevelt reached the conclusion to which he refers. It certainly was not in 1908, when the returns from Pennsylvania in the presidential election were sent to him by me as chairman of the Republican state committee, and to which I received from him the following reply:

"'My dear Senator Penrose—Upon my word, of all phenomenal returns, the returns from Pennsylvania are most phenomenal. I congratulate and cordially thank you. Faithfully yours,

"'THEODORE ROOSEVELT.'

During Roosevelt's Presidency.

"In fact, during the whole period of Mr. Roosevelt's presidency my relations with him were cordial. I cooperated with him in nearly all of his policies as a member of the United States senate, and when potent elements in the Republican party were plotting to defeat Mr. Roosevelt for the nomination in 1904, I was, as chairman of the Republican state committee of Pennsylvania, most active in having him indorsed for nomination and election at our state convention.

"I cooperated in forcing similar resolutions on the state committee in Ohio, which occurred very soon afterward, against the opposition of Mr. Hanna. As chairman of the Republican state committee of Pennsylvania, in the same year, I was largely instrumental in giving the splendid majority to

PEACE IS NEAR, SAY WESTINGHOUSE MEN

Strikers Are Optimistic Over Conference With the Managers.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 1.—So quiet were the Westinghouse strikers in East Pittsburg during the night that the state constabulary was withdrawn from the streets and did not reappear until this morning. The grievance committee of the strikers discussed the conference they had yesterday with President E. M. Herr of the Electric company, and reported to the general strike committee. They instructed a sub-committee as to the course it was to follow at the meeting scheduled for this afternoon with Mr. Herr. Strike leaders expressed the belief that their differences with the companies would be cleared up in time for the men to return to work next Monday.

MADE SURE OF GRAND DUKE

Assassins' Plans Insured His Death on Bosnia Visit.

Anti-Servian Riot Occurs at Agram, in Croatia.

Vienna, July 1.—The conspiracy against the lives of Archduke Francis Ferdinand and the duchess of Hohenberg was so well planned that it would have been impossible for them to escape from Bosnia alive, according to some members of the late archduke's suite who returned here today.

The officials declared that two clockwork bombs were found beneath the table on which luncheon was awaiting the archducal party on the return to the city hall. A similar infernal machine also was discovered in the chimney of the room occupied by the Duchess of Hohenberg at Ilije, a watering place a few miles from Sarajevo, and a woman was caught with several bombs in her possession.

The bullet which killed the archduke was an explosive one.

It has been ascertained by the authorities that Gavrio Prinzip, the assassin, is the son of the proprietor of a hotel at Sarajevo, and past his twentieth year, so that he may be sentenced to death for the crime.

Croatians Are Angry.

Agram, Croatia, July 1.—Anti-Servian demonstrations continued here today when a crowd gathered in front of the town hall and demanded that the mayor return a Servian decoration recently conferred on him.

Another crowd went to the house of the speaker of the Croatian diet, who is a Servian, and made a noisy demonstration against him. Several people were arrested but later released.

MARYE SLATED FOR ST. PETERSBURG JOB

Washington, July 1.—George T. Marye, Jr., of San Francisco, has been finally determined upon for ambassador to Russia. President Wilson today prepared his nomination for transmission to the senate.

Later the nomination was received by the senate and referred to the usual committee.

San Francisco, Cal., July 1.—George T. Marye, nominated today by President Wilson to be ambassador to Russia, is a retired stock broker, who at one time was president of the San Francisco stock exchange. Born in Baltimore in 1849, his father brought him West in the early days of the gold rush.

THE DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Caucus was called for agreement upon the administration legislative trust program.

Senator Burton resumed his attack on the river and harbor appropriation bill.

Joint resolution empowering President Wilson to invite foreign delegates to the International Congress on Home Education in Philadelphia in September was passed.

HOUSE.

The rules committee postponed its vote on the woman suffrage constitutional amendment until Aug. 1.

Calendar Wednesday bills were set aside until tomorrow and the conference report on the legislative appropriation bill was debated.

Railroad officials opposing the bill for Federal inspection of locomotives were heard by the interstate commerce committee.

Allege Suicide and Also That Mrs. McAlpine Was Responsible.

Claimed That Lumberman Received Wound Other Than That of Bullet.

Companies Have to Pay Stiff Sum for Delaying the Trial.

In her fight in the courts fo collect approximately $90,000 on accident insurance policies held by her late husband, John McAlpine, well known Duluth lumberman who was mysteriously shot in the basement of his East end home on the morning of Aug. 15, 1913, Mrs. Sarah McAlpine is facing two distinct allegations, one that her husband was a suicide, and the other that she was responsible for his death.

In amended answers which were filed late yesterday afternoon with the clerk of the district court, the Fidelity & Casualty company of New York, the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance company of Los Angeles and the London Guaranty & Accident company, Ltd., set up a double defense to the three actions brought by the McAlpine widow to collect as beneficiary under three accident insurance policies held by her late husband.

The first defense set up is that of suicide. The insurance companies, however, are not relying upon this defense alone and have also pleaded in their answers that Mrs. McAlpine was also responsible for the death of her husband.

Manner of Death.

The Fidelity & Casualty company of New York, which has refused payment on a $50,000 policy, in its amended answer pleads the following allegation with reference to the manner of his death as a defense in the suit to enforce payment on the policy.

"Defendant admits and alleges that a bullet discharged from a revolver,

MAN IS MURDERED FOR CARD STAKES

Body Is Robbed of Exact Sum He Won at Cards.

New Lisbon, Wis., July 1.—Following a card game here last night, William Sturdevant, the winner in the game, was killed on his way home from the saloon in which the game occurred and his body was robbed of the exact sum he won in the gambling. His own money, with it in his purse, was carefully counted out and was left. It still was on his body when it was found in the morning. The police are looking for a stranger from whom Sturdevant won the money and who left the saloon with him. His name and whereabouts are unknown.

FIXES TIME OF GIRL'S DEATH

Prosecutor in Petras' Trial Weaves State's Net Closer.

Negro Tells of Seeing Defendant Follow Miss Hollander.

Geneva, Ill., July 1.—The state introduced a witness today at the Anthony Petras murder trial to prove that Theresa Hollander was clubbed to death in St. Nicholas cemetery the night of Feb. 16 last between the hours of 9:40 and 10 o'clock.

This evidence the state considers highly important, as Petras, who rode home on the same street car with Miss Hollander, leaving it at 9:40 o'clock, in his alibi told the police he got home about 10 o'clock.

The witness who was relied upon to fix the time of the crime is Joseph Parlow, who said he got off the street car four blocks away from the cemetery at the corner where Miss Hollander alighted, and ran home past the graveyard, observing as he ran that the gate of the cemetery was open. He was running, he said, because the night was cold and he had just come from recent sweating toil in a shop.

Did Not See Man.

On cross-examination he admitted that some days after the murder he had said he believed he saw, as he passed the cemetery, a huge man with a gray cap peering around the graveyard tool shanty, near where the body of Miss Hollander was found. He said, however, that this story was the result of over-wrought feelings and that he had seen no one.

Walter Hickman, colored, testified that he rode home on the same street car as Petras and Miss Hollander the night of the murder, and that Petras got off a block beyond where Miss Hollander alighted, and turned and ran swiftly back. Attorney Gunsul, for the defense, tried to make Hickman admit that he had told him he had invented this story, but Hickman said:

"Why, Mr. Gunsul, Mr. Gunsul, I never told you nothing of the kind, sir! Nothing like it! All I know is that fellow"—pointing to Petras—"rushed off the car, jumping on my foot, and ran down the street fast."

William Abens, who went to arrest Petras, testified that before he told Petras what he was arrested for, Petras asked: "Is Tressie killed?"

SECRETARY McADOO: "NEED ANY HELP?"

SMOKE CHECK DURING JUNE

Inspector Reports on Black Smoke Nuisance Which He Has Observed.

Quarter of Buildings Inspected Violate Ordinance; West End Lax.

Fourteen of seventy-seven smokestacks which were checked during June by Smoke Inspector J. W. Schneider violated the ordinance, according to the report submitted to Mayor Prince this morning.

The statement shows that the stacks of forty buildings were checked, of which ten emitted dense smoke for more than six minutes, the maximum allowed by the ordinance. Four of thirty-five locomotives passed the limit, as did one boat. Only one tug was checked and it showed no smoke.

The smoke inspector says that in the downtown district the locomotives are complying well with the requirements, but that this is untrue west of Tenth avenue west. He asserts that there is much room for improvement in the western end of the city.

The stacks which went over the limit were:

CLOQUET MINISTER STRICKEN IN PULPIT

Cloquet, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. C. O. Swenson, pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church suffered a stroke of paralysis while closing his Sunday morning service and remained unconscious a long time. Rev. Swenson has served here fourteen years.

REVISE PLANS FOR THE JUNIOR LEAGUE

Work Will Be More Appropriate for Boys and Girls.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 1.—Preliminary to the opening of the international convention of the Epworth league of the Methodist Episcopal church here tonight, the board of control held two business sessions. The consitution of the Junior league was revised to make it more appropriate for boys and girls than hitherto, yet bringing it in line with the requirements of the regular Epworth league work.

The board also gave over to the board of Sunday schools the management of the Knights of Methodism, formerly held jointly by the board of Sunday schools, the Men's Brotherhood and the Epworth league.

Next year's meeting of the board will be held in San Francisco. The place of meeting for the next international convention of the league, in 1918, was not decided.

ROOSEVELT GOES TO THROAT DOCTOR

New York, July 1.—Col. Roosevelt came back from Pittsburg today after his speech there last night attacking the Wilson administration. He declared he felt fine.

The colonel visited national Progressive headquarters during the forenoon, and hereafter he will go there every Wednesday instead of to his editorial offices. Today's visit was his first. He planned also to visit Dr. Holbrook Curtis, a throat specialist.

GERMANS CRITICIZE AMERICAN NAVY

Berlin, July 1.—"America's navy department lives from hand to mouth, not knowing what ships will be available next year, and for this reason the department is unable to follow consequential plans for the future, either as to organization or disposition of fighting strength."

This is but one of the criticisms contained in Germany's official marine annual, "Nauticus, 1914," which has just been issued.

SOUTHWEST PROSPEROUS

Duluthians Return From National Rotary Convention at Houston.

Big Crops and Canal Having Good Effect on Business.

George H. Bate, A. C. Kienly and Charles Oppel returned yesterday from a tour of the Southwest. They went as delegates from the Duluth Rotary club to the national convention at Houston, Texas.

"I was particularly fortunate in being able to visit about fifteen of the largest cities in the South on my trip, and I found much of interest," said Mr. Kienly today.

"The Central South is in rather good condition and with prospects of an excellent crop year, the general business tone is good. Kansas City and Wichita, Kan., seem to be the first two cities feeling the advance effect of the crops and Wichita was a surprise to me. Oklahoma City, which has not been progressing since the boom, has again started forward and the people are boosting their city vigorously.

A. C. KIENLY.

"One feature that particularly impressed me in the South was the fact that a great many of the Southern planters are turning their attention toward corn and much of the land used for cotton is now being given over to corn. This change has taken place because of the tariff changes, and it is particularly interesting inasmuch as the South will, this year, produce very fine crops and it is claimed that next year will see a great corn crop in the South.

"The oil industry is booming and many new fine wells are being opened, and of course, this means that new towns are starting up.

Effect of Canal.

"The opening of the Panama canal is going to have and is now having a great effect on the South.

"The Gulf cities, in particular, expect to benefit and real estate in New Orleans is having some increase, while dock property has advanced very rapidly.

"Galveston, which is only thirty miles from Houston, where we made our headquarters, is a wonderful city and as you know, the entire city of Galveston has been raised eighteen feet, and the inhabitants feel perfectly secure by the great sea wall erected after the devastation of that city. The excellent crop prospects and the opening of the Panama canal are doing wonders for the South, and this is being manifested by the erection of many new buildings in Houston, San Antonio and Galveston.

"All of the Southern cities are giving a great deal of attention toward their park systems and this was particularly interesting to us Duluthians.

"The Texans believe that the oil interests and the railway interests are playing a big part in the Mexican trouble and they are very anxious to see the matter straightened out; but, on the other hand, it is surprising what little effect the Mexican trouble is having on the average business in the cities near to the border."

SUSPECT MANDAN BOYS.

Youngsters Believed to Have Rifled Postoffice Boxes.

Mandan, N. D., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Postoffice inspectors who have investigated the robbery of several lock boxes of the Mandan postoffice, are satisfied that the work is that of children, but they have been unable to obtain any clue as to their identity.

Though the lock boxes of the First National bank and the Missouri Valley Grocery company were rifled, only 21 cents was actually lost. There was considerable non-negotiable paper in the boxes. The stolen mail, all opened, was found scattered about the streets near the postoffice.

BURGLAR TOOLS IN THE POTATO BIN

Instruments Used at Gasser Robbery May Provide Clew.

The tools used by the burglars in breaking open the M. M. Gasser office safe last Saturday night, when $685 was stolen, were found in the potato bin this morning by one of the store employes.

From all appearances these tools were made especially for just such a job as was done last Saturday, that of prying a safe door open, instead of blowing it off. There is a large can-opener tool of steel, which must have been used after slight incisions were made into the door. In this way the men, using the can-opener tool, which is made just like a can-opener used by housewives, could cut their way to the hinges. Long bars, with points on one end and straight edges on the other, were also found and these must have been used in prying the door off.

These tools must have been made especially for the job Saturday and the police hope to be able to learn where they were made and in this way get a clew to the burglars. If descriptions are obtained a comparison will be made with those received from Brainerd, where the city clerk was beaten and robbed last Monday to see if the same men did both jobs.

Worth Seeing at the Shriners' Carnival---Will Remain All Week.

The famous Filipino midgets, who were brought to this country by the government for the feature attraction at the St. Louis World's fair, will be the center of attraction tonight on the carnival ground and will be there all this week. The little lady is only 21 inches in height, and is 40 years old. The little man, her brother, is 36 years old and 24 inches in height. They are without a doubt the smallest people alive in the world today.

RIVAL FACTIONS IN IRELAND CLASH

Omagh, County of Tyrone, Ireland, July 1.—The rival volunteers, Ulsterites and Nationalists, came into collision here last night and fierce fighting followed. Several civilians and policemen were injured.

BUILDERS ARE MORE ACTIVE

Permits in June, 1914, Exceed Those of Same Period Last Year.

Increase of $500,000 Is Shown in General Improvements.

The first half of this year Building Inspector S. M. Kielley has issued 328 building permits for improvements estimated to cost $1,608,002, according to figures which have been prepared by Deputy Adolph Anderson.

During the same period last year 681 permits were issued for improvements estimated at $2,657,759. This includes a permit of $1,500,000 for new ore dock at the West end. Eliminating that the first half of the present year shows an increase of more than $500,000 over the same period a year ago. There is also a big gain in the number of permits issued. The building inspector states that the most encouraging feature of the local building situation is the large number of homes which are being built in all parts of the city.

Building operations during June were much heavier than in June last year. Last month 165 permits were issued for improvements estimated at $251,205, as compared with 163 permits issued during June of 1913 for improvements estimated at $145,284.

IOWA'S EXPENSES GO UP $2, 598,641

Increase in Biennial Expenses Is Shown By Report.

Des Moines, Iowa, July 1.—The cost of running the state government increased $2,598,641 during the biennial period which closed last night, compared with the biennial period which ended June 30, 1912, according to the figures prepared by Q. A. Willis, deputy treasurer of state. All of the state's business was closed up yesterday and the officials will at once begin preparing reports to be presented to the legislature when it meets next winter.

SHOOT DEPOT AGENT; STEAL TYPEWRITER

Robbers Raid North Escanaba Soo Line Depot Again.

Escanaba, Mich., July 1.—The Soo line depot at North Escanaba was robbed for the fourth time recently last night when burglars shot Agent J. N. Cook through the shoulder and escaped with a typewriter as their only loot. When the bullet struck Cook he fell to the floor, apparently dead. The robbers made no attempt to open the cash drawer and escaped.

BIG VIRGINIA PIGEONHOLE

Seventeen Caught in Dragnet for Violating Liquor Laws.

Three Women Among Accused Caught in Biggest Range Raid.

Virginia, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The biggest raid of violators of the liquor laws ever pulled off here, if not on the Mesaba range, was made today when the police swooped down upon unlicensed drinking places, and with the patrol wagon carried seventeen people, three of them women, to the city jail.

The affair created a mild sensation and is the first chapter in the campaign started by City Attorney Montague and the new administration to clean up the town.

Hired Detectives.

The police were aided in getting evidence by detectives who have been working here for some time visiting suspicious places and getting evidence that is deemed sufficient to result in heavy punishment being inflicted. The raids were completed this afternoon. Some of the accused will be arraigned late today and the balance in the morning. There was a great skirmishing around for bail and hiring lawyers. The raids were made on Mesaba avenue, on the North side in the Franklin location and other places. The suspects were arrested on "John Doe" warrants.

JUNE MARRIAGES SET NEW RECORD

June, 1914, broke all records in the marriage license business. The records of the clerk of the district court, where the wedding permits are dispensed, show that 144 couples secured licenses in Duluth during the month of brides and roses. The record exceeded the June, 1913, figures by twelve, 132 licenses having been issued during the corresponding month last year.

HARMONY HALL AT LESTER PARK REBUILT

Since the well known Lester Park pavilion was destroyed by fire in February, 1913, this popular place has been without ample shelter or accommodation.

During the time the park has been without this accommodation, Mr. Gunderson has been requested and urged to rebuild.

As a result Harmony hall has been remodeled and a new maple floor laid which is pronounced by many as the best in the city.

For the Fourth Mr. Gunderson will have the La Brosse orchestra at the hall. There will be dancing in the afternoon and evening and refreshments will be served on the grounds.

Weather—
Fair weather tonight and Thursday; not much change in temperature; moderate westerly winds.

HAS LEGAL NUT TO CRACK

Court Must Decide Whether Agreement Is "Lease" or "License."

Action Is Brought By Fee Owners Against Mine Corporations.

Because the word "license" is used throughout the document instead of the usual term "lease," the Niles Land company hopes to terminate the lease granted the Chemung Iron company in 1902 and later transferred to the Oliver company.

The case is now being heard before Judge Booth in Federal court, and the decision will probably hang on the interpretation of the two words.

The plaintiffs contend that the document is simply a license to occupy the land and can be terminated. The defendant companies claim it is a lease and can be terminated only by mutual consent or by expiration of the time fixed.

The plaintiff company claims that the mine has not been worked and that the only money received was the minimum royalty agreed upon in 1902, when the lease was made. This is $12,500 from April, 1902, to April, 1903, and $18,500 yearly since that time.

The defendant companies claim that they have leased the property and as there is no clause in the lease to the effect that the mine must be operated each year with a certain production or that the lessee is under any obligation to work the mine, the plaintiff has no right to attack the lease, until its termination.

Yesterday afternoon Chester A. Congdon, who was secretary of the Chemung company when the lease was made, continued his testimony on the lines that every lease has a minimum royalty clause and in nearly every instance a working clause to the effect that the mine must be operated, if the lessor so has it in mind. Joseph B. Cotton attorney for many mining companies in the last twenty years and the Oliver Mining company until recently, testified in a similar way. Mr. Olds of Davis, Kellogg, Severance & Olds, St. Paul, attorneys for the defendant companies, is conducting the examination of the witnesses.

Duluthians Testify.

Mr. Cotton continued this morning, after which testimony was given by Mr. Congdon again and then by George D. Swift, secretary of the Oliver Iron Mining company, and Dan H. Ball and Joseph Chandler, attorneys from Chicago, who are well known experts in the drawing up of mining leases. Mr. Chandler is on the stand this afternoon.

The cross examination is being conducted by Judge Sharp, one of the attorneys for the plaintiff company.

Rich Must Support Wife.

Louis Rich, 27 years old, chauffeur for A. B. Coates at Virginia, was arrested this morning on a charge of non-support preferred against him by his wife, Theresa Rich. She claims he failed to support her from April 26 to June 26. Rich pleaded guilty and was fined $100 or sixty days. He presented a $250 bond, which will be forfeited should he fail to support his wife for one year. The execution of the sentence was ordered stayed for a period of twelve months.

Held to Grand Jury.

Herbert W. Anderson, 21 years old, who was arrested in Chicago last Thursday on a charge of having stolen fifty-eight platinum crucibles from the assay office of the Oliver Iron Mining company at Ely, waived examination when arraigned in police court yesterday afternoon. He was bound over to await the action of the September grand jury.

Fined for Selling on Sunday.

Louis Scheknan, 42 years old, was arrested by Capt. Fiskett this morning on a charge of having broken the Sunday laws by selling an article to W. F. Jamison. He pleaded guilty in police court and was fined $10 and costs or ten days. He paid his fine.

Big Crowds Attend Auction Sale.

Thousands of people daily are crowding the furniture auction sale at the Cameron - Johnson - Horgan clearance sale; much of this fine stock of furniture is going for about one-half of manufacturer's cost. A three-piece solid mahogany bedroom suite that retails for $275 went last night for $80. Hundreds of other pieces sold for one-fourth of their real value, this stock is going under the auctioneers hammer regardless of cost or value. Cameron says, he will empty the salesrooms and wareroom in less than fifteen days at present rate of rapid selling. Hours of sale, 2:30 and 7:30 p. m. daily. See today's ad, this paper—come bring your friends, 2110-2112 West Superior street is the place where you make the price.

Pageant Committee Meeting.

A meeting of the Duluth Festival and Pageant association will be held at the Commercial club at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening, when three vacancies in the board of governors will be filled. Other important business matters are to come up for final disposition. The meeting tomorrow will probably be the last until next fall.

Wants Damages From City.

Sigrid Johnson wants $1,000 from the city for injuries which she sustained when she stepped into an open manhole on South First avenue east and the railroad tracks the night of June 8 and $60 for the clothes which she claims were rendered unserviceable at that time. She asserts that she was nearly swept into the sewer by the rushing water in the pipe. The notice was filed this morning with City Clerk C. S Palmer.

Returns From Motor Trip.

W. C. McCarter, proprietor of the Duluth Business university, has returned from an extensive motor trip through the East He motored all through Ontario, visiting many old and familiar scenes and spent a most delightful vacation. He also visited Detroit, Chicago, Saginaw and other points, but says that Duluth "has it on them all" with the important exception of roads and streets. He says these are Duluth's weak points and should be remedied at once to prevent odious comparisons by tourists who are accustomed to better conditions at home.

Will Test His Sanity.

NEW ENVELOPE RULES EFFECTIVE

Postmaster-General's Order of Last Spring Now Operative.

Regulations regarding "window" envelopes, which were made by Postmaster General Burleson last spring, went into effect this morning and local business houses are all warned in circulars sent out yesterday to the postmasters throughout the country against any infraction of these rules.

From today on all "windows" in envelopes must be one and three-eighths inches from the top and three-eighths of an inch from the bottom and both sides. They must not be colored and must be as transparent as possible, while the envelope must bear the return address of the sender.

A violation of these rules, according to the order received yesterday from A. M. Dockery, third assistant postmaster general, will mean that the letters will be returned to the sender or sent to the dead letter office at Washington. The local postmasters are requested, however, to inform the concerns failing to comply with these rules that the infractions were made. This, the order states, should be done for a few days, until all are acquainted with the new rule.

If the contents of a "window" letter are not properly folded, so as to make the address legible, the letter will also be returned to the sender or to the dead letter office. Address changes must not be made on the "window" part, but on the opaque envelope, continues the order.

DULUTHIANS PRESENT

At Ironwood Wedding, in Which Band Man Was Bridegroom.

Ironwood, Mich., June 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Ebba Sederholm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sederholm of Ironwood township, and Herbert Dixon of this city, were married at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of about 100 invited guests at 5 p. m. Monday, Rev. John Hendrickson, pastor of the Swedish Mission church, officiating. The bride wore white silk crepe du chine over messaline and a tulle veil. She carried a shower bouquet of yellow rose buds. Miss Stella Swanson, cousin of the bride of Ashland, was bridesmaid and wore white embroidered volle over pink messaline and she carried a large arm bouquet of pink roses.

William Sederholm, brother of the bride, was best man.

The Norrie band of which Mr. Dixon is an old member serenaded the bridal party. Mr. and Mrs. Dixon left for Chicago and Milwaukee, where they will spend their honeymoon, returning by way of Duluth and Ashland, and they will be at home after Aug. 1.

Those present from out-of-town were: Mr. and Mrs. John Sederholm and Miss Margaret La Lond of Duluth, Robert Dixon and daughter, Miss Georgiana Dixon of Superior, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Swanson, Miss Stella Swanson, Mr. and Mrs. William Gustafson of Ashland, Wis.

EXCHANGE NOTES INTEREST FAILURES

Transactions in Stated Securities Are to Be "Flat."

New York, July 1.—Official cognizance was taken by the stock exchange today of default in July interest on the 5 per cent bonds of the Chicago & Indiana Coal company, the 4 per cent refunding bonds of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad, the 6 per cent first mortgage bonds of the Evansville & Indianapolis railroad and the 4 per cent refunding bonds of the St. Louis & San Francisco railway. The committee on securities of the exchange ruled that transactions in these issues were to be "flat"; that is, with interest added.

The first three properties are identified with the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific system, now in process of financial readjustment. The St. Louis & San Francisco bonds form an important part of the bonded debt of the 'Frisco system, now under receivership.

The exchange was expected to take similar action later in the day regarding the various issues of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton railroad, whose fiscal agents reported yesterday that funds to meet interest payments were not at hand.

PARCEL POST PATRONS CARELESS

New System Has Been in Operation Just Year and a Half.

Although the parcel post was instituted just a year and half ago today, the people are not yet acquainted with the proper method of preparing packages for shipment, according to the clerks at the local postoffice.

"It seems strange that the public cannot acquaint itself with the regulations regarding parcel post," said one of the clerks this morning. "Here it is a year and a half since the parcel post was started and mistakes are being made daily by the scores. Many times each day we are compelled to undo parcels and repack them for the senders, but this is impossible during the busy hours and as a result we incur the enmity of hundreds of Duluthians. But we can't help it, and if the public would only take time to study the regulations and rules regarding the packing of parcels, there would be no trouble whatever and hundreds of packages would never be held up in transit and as many turned down at the stamp windows.

"Our biggest trouble is in the handling of packages containing liquids. These are rarely ever packed properly and in many cases the bottles or containers have been smashed and hundreds of dollars of mail absolutely ruined. Glassware and breakable articles are hardly ever packed in the right manner, with the exception of the business houses, of course.

"Just a little more care and attention is all we ask of the Duluth people. It is new, of course, but these rules must be learned and now is as good a time as ever."

APPEAL FROM $28,000 VERDICT

Cloquet Lumber Company Asks for Retrial in Burn's Case.

The Cloquet Lumber company, against which concern Granville A. Burns was granted a judgment of $28,000 at the last January term of Federal court, is today arguing for a new trial before Federal Judge Page Morris.

W. B. Phelps is presenting the argument for the defendant company, while Bert F. Lum is representing Mr. Burns. It is expected that the hearing will continue until late this afternoon.

Mr. Burns sued the lumber company for payment of logs, he claims, were taken off his land by the defendant corporation. A jury returned a verdict in his favor, granting him reparation amounting to $28,000 for his loss.

SEATTLE VOTES DOWN CITY MANAGER PLAN

DRY NAVY ORDER IN FULL EFFECT

Washington, July 1.—Secretary Daniels' famous order banishing intoxicants from the navy went into effect today. It not only abolishes the traditional "wine mess" of the officers, but bars all alcoholic liquors from every ship and shore station of the navy.

Beginning today any officer found in possession of alcoholic liquor on board ship or at any naval station will be guilty of misconduct.

AMERICA FLIES AT SIXTY MILES AN HOUR

Hammondsport, N. Y., July 1.—Flying over a measured course today, the America, the Rodman Wanamaker trans-Atlantic flying boat, developed a speed of sixty miles an hour. This was attained with the motors throttled to 1,200 revolutions a minute as against a possible maximum of 1,300. The test was made at this speed to offset a lack of some 200 pounds of load.

THE WINDOW SHADES.

Philadelphia Telegraph: In the beginning it pays to get shades of a good quality. They look well until they are really worn out. The cheaper ones soon crack and show little pinheads of daylight through their broken surface. They sag more quickly than the expensive ones and the cheap rollers are more likely to get out of order, too, than the first-class ones.

The shade should be long enough so that when it is pulled down to cover the window it is not necessary to strain it—that is to say, when it is down there should be two or three thicknesses of the holland or cambric still on the roller.

If by chance a shade is too short for this it can be easily lengthened at home. Buy some heavy and strong cloth the color of the shade. A good quality of paper cambric will do. Untack the shade from the roller and stitch a strip of the new material, the width of the shade, to its top. Cut this strip wide enough to give the desired added length to the shade and tack it carefully on the roller again.

A cracked shade can be greatly benefited with a coat of oil paint, bought in a can at a paint shop. The shade should be laid on the floor, on a sheet of newspaper, and painted thoroughly on one side. When this is thoroughly dry the shade should be turned and painted on the other side.

Some persons use the fabric of the old and soiled shades in this way: Soak the old shades in soap and water and then rub them on a rubbing board and boil them. This proceeding takes out much of the sizing or dressing put in them to make them stiff and shiny. The resulting cloth is strong and can be used for cleaning cloths.

Big Crowds Attend Auction Sale.

Thousands of people daily are crowding the furniture auction sale at the Cameron - Johnson - Horgan clearance sale; much of this fine stock of furniture is going for about one-half of manufacturer's cost. A three-piece solid mahogany bedroom suite that retails for $275 went last night for $80. Hundreds of other pieces sold for one-fourth of their real value, this stock is going under the auctioneers hammer regardless of cost or value. Cameron says, he will empty the salesrooms and warerooms in less than fifteen days at present rate of rapid selling. Hours of sale, 2:30 and 7:30 p. m. daily. See today's ad, this paper—come bring your friends, 2110-2112 West Superior street is the place where you make the price.

Inspector Makes Report.

Electrical Inspector J. W. Schneider issued eighteen permits to set thirty poles during June, according to his monthly report. He also investigated six complaints.

Finds Business Good Here.

J. E. Tarelton, assistant to the vice president of the Union Draft Gear company, was a visitor in the city yesterday. He stated that he found business conditions here better than in most parts of the country.

Lay Off on Fourth.

Saturday being the Fourth of July there will be no clinic at the courthouse on that day. The next clinic will be next Tuesday morning at the regular time.

Pageant Committee Meeting.

A meeting of the Duluth Festival and Pageant association will be held at the Commercial club at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening, when three vacancies in the board of governors will be filled. Other important business matters are to come up for final disposition. The meeting tomorrow will probably be the last until next fall.

Wants Damages From City.

Sigrid Johnson wants $1,000 from the city for injuries which she sustained when she stepped into an open manhole on South First avenue east and the railroad tracks the night of June 8 and $60 for the clothes which she claims were rendered unserviceable at that time. She asserts that she was nearly swept into the sewer by the rushing water in the pipe. The notice was filed this morning with City Clerk C. S Palmer.

Returns From Motor Trip.

W. C. McCarter, proprietor of the Duluth Business university, has returned from an extensive motor trip through the East He motored all through Ontario, visiting many old and familiar scenes and spent a most delightful vacation. He also visited Detroit, Chicago, Saginaw and other points, but says that Duluth "has it on them all" with the important exception of roads and streets. He says these are Duluth's weak points and should be remedied at once to prevent odious comparisons by tourists who are accustomed to better conditions at home.

Will Test His Sanity.

Charles Akin, 26 years old, was arrested by Patrolman Olson last evening as an insane suspect, and he will be taken before the judge of probate sometime today.

NEW ENVELOPE RULES EFFECTIVE

Postmaster-General's Order of Last Spring Now Operative.

Regulations regarding "window" envelopes, which were made by Postmaster General Burleson last spring, went into effect this morning and local business houses are all warned in circulars sent out yesterday to the postmasters throughout the country against any infraction of these rules.

From today on all "windows" in envelopes must be one and three-eighths inches from the top and three-eighths of an inch from the bottom and both sides. They must not be colored and must be as transparent as possible, while the envelope must bear the return address of the sender.

A violation of these rules, according to the order received yesterday from A. M. Dockery, third assistant postmaster general, will mean that the letters will be returned to the sender or sent to the dead letter office at Washington. The local postmasters are requested, however, to inform the concerns failing to comply with these rules that the infractions were made. This, the order states, should be done for a few days, until all are acquainted with the new rule.

If the contents of a "window" letter are not properly folded, so as to make the address legible, the letter will also be returned to the sender or to the dead letter office. Address changes must not be made on the "window" part, but on the opaque envelope, continues the order.

DULUTHIANS PRESENT

At Ironwood Wedding, in Which Band Man Was Bridegroom.

Ironwood, Mich., June 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Ebba Sederholm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sederholm of Ironwood township, and Herbert Dixon of this city, were married at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of about 100 invited guests at 5 p. m. Monday, Rev. John Hendrickson, pastor of the Swedish Mission church, officiating. The bride wore white silk crepe du chine over messaline and a tulle veil. She carried a shower bouquet of yellow rose buds. Miss Stella Swanson, cousin of the bride of Ashland, was bridesmaid and wore white embroidered voile over pink messaline and she carried a large arm bouquet of pink roses.

William Sederholm, brother of the bride, was best man.

The Norrie band of which Mr. Dixon is an old member serenaded the bridal party. Mr. and Mrs. Dixon left for Chicago and Milwaukee, where they will spend their honeymoon, returning by way of Duluth and Ashland, and they will be at home after Aug. 1.

Those present from out-of-town were: Mr. and Mrs. John Sederholm and Miss Margaret La Lond of Duluth, Robert Dixon and daughter, Miss Georgiana Dixon of Superior, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Swanson, Miss Stella Swanson, Mr. and Mrs. William Gustafson of Ashland, Wis.

EXCHANGE NOTES INTEREST FAILURES

Transactions in Stated Securities Are to Be "Flat."

New York, July 1.—Official cognizance was taken by the stock exchange today of default in July interest on the 5 per cent bonds of the Chicago & Indiana Coal company, the 4 per cent refunding bonds of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad, the 6 per cent first mortgage bonds of the Evansville & Indianapolis railroad and the 4 per cent refunding bonds of the St. Louis & San Francisco railway. The committee on securities of the exchange ruled that transactions in these issues were to be "flat"; that is, with interest added.

The first three properties are identified with the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific system, now in process of financial readjustment. The St. Louis & San Francisco bonds form an important part of the bonded debt of the 'Frisco system, now under receivership.

The exchange was expected to take similar action later in the day regarding the various issues of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton railroad, whose fiscal agents reported yesterday that funds to meet interest payments were not at hand.

PARCEL POST PATRONS CARELESS

New System Has Been in Operation Just Year and a Half.

Although the parcel post was instituted just a year and half ago today, the people are not yet acquainted with the proper method of preparing packages for shipment, according to the clerks at the local postoffice.

"It seems strange that the public cannot acquaint itself with the regulations regarding parcel post," said one of the clerks this morning. "Here it is a year and a half since the parcel post was started and mistakes are being made daily by the scores. Many times each day we are compelled to undo parcels and repack them for the senders, but this is impossible during the busy hours and as a result we incur the enmity of hundreds of Duluthians. But we can't help it, and if the public would only take time to study the regulations and rules regarding the packing of parcels, there would be no trouble whatever and hundreds of packages would never be held up in transit and as many turned down at the stamp windows.

"Our biggest trouble is in the handling of packages containing liquids. These are rarely ever packed properly and in many cases the bottles or containers have been smashed and hundreds of dollars of mail absolutely ruined. Glassware and breakable articles are hardly ever packed in the right manner, with the exception of the business houses, of course.

"Just a little more care and attention is all we ask of the Duluth people. It is new, of course, but these rules must be learned and now is as good a time as ever."

APPEAL FROM $28,000 VERDICT

Cloquet Lumber Company Asks for Retrial in Burn's Case.

The Cloquet Lumber company, against which concern Granville A. Burns was granted a judgment of $28,000 at the last January term of Federal court, is today arguing for a new trial before Federal Judge Page Morris.

W. B. Phelps is presenting the argument for the defendant company, while Bert F. Lum is representing Mr. Burns. It is expected that the hearing will continue until late this afternoon.

Mr. Burns sued the lumber company for payment of logs, he claims, were taken off his land by the defendant corporation. A jury returned a verdict in his favor, granting him reparation amounting to $28,000 for his loss.

SEATTLE VOTES DOWN CITY MANAGER PLAN

Seattle, Wash., July 1.—Complete returns from more than half the voting precincts in the city indicate that the new charter submitted to the voters was defeated by a vote of 2 to 1. The proposed charter provided a city manager plan of government with a council of thirty members elected by wards.

36,960,000 ACRES SOWN TO COTTON

Washington, July 1.—The area planted to cotton this year is 36,960,000 acres, the department announced today. The condition of the crop on June 25 was 79.6 per cent of a normal.

DRY NAVY ORDER IN FULL EFFECT

Washington, July 1.—Secretary Daniels' famous order banishing intoxicants from the navy went into effect today. It not only abolishes the traditional "wine mess" of the officers, but bars all alcoholic liquors from every ship and shore station of the navy.

Beginning today any officer found in possession of alcoholic liquor on board ship or at any naval station will be guilty of misconduct.

AMERICA FLIES AT SIXTY MILES AN HOUR

Hammondsport, N. Y., July 1.—Flying over a measured course today, the America, the Rodman Wanamaker trans-Atlantic flying boat, developed a speed of sixty miles an hour. This was attained with the motors throttled to 1,200 revolutions a minute as against a possible maximum of 1,300. The test was made at this speed to offset a lack of some 200 pounds of load.

THE WINDOW SHADES.

Philadelphia Telegraph: In the beginning it pays to get shades of a good quality. They look well until they are really worn out. The cheaper ones soon crack and show little pinheads of daylight through their broken surface. They sag more quickly than the expensive ones and the cheap rollers are more likely to get out of order, too, than the first-class ones.

The shade should be long enough so that when it is pulled down to cover the window it is not necessary to strain it—that is to say, when it is down there should be two or three thicknesses of the holland or cambric still on the roller.

If by chance a shade is too short for this it can be easily lengthened at home. Buy some heavy and strong cloth the color of the shade. A good quality of paper cambric will do. Untack the shade from the roller and stitch a strip of the new material, the width of the shade, to its top. Cut this strip wide enough to give the desired added length to the shade and tack it carefully on the roller again.

A cracked shade can be greatly benefited with a coat of oil paint, bought in a can at a paint shop. The shade should be laid on the floor, on a sheet of newspaper, and painted thoroughly on one side. When this is thoroughly dry the shade should be turned and painted on the other side.

Some persons use the fabric of the old and soiled shades in this way: Soak the old shades in soap and water and then rub them on a rubbing board and boil them. This proceeding takes out much of the sizing or dressing put in them to make them stiff and shiny. The resulting cloth is strong and can be used for cleaning cloths.

Recount Places Richard Jones on Ballot in J. R. Randall's Place.

Will Be Second Nominee for State Senator in Fifty-Eighth District.

Richard Jones will be the second nominee for state senator of the Fifty-eighth district instead of John R. Randall.

The recount of the ballots yesterday showed that Jones received 763 votes instead of 754 and that Randall received 754 votes instead of 757. This gives Jones nine more votes than Randall instead of three less, as was shown by the returns sent in by the judges after the primary election. Senator Pugh is the other nominee.

The recount was made by Inspectors Charles R. Norlin, C. L. Hood and H. K. Glunt under an order issued by Judge Fesler of the district court.

Jones' gain was made in the city districts, the Fourteenth to the Twenty-eighth city districts being part of the Fifty-eighth legislative district. It also includes the towns of Fredenberg, Rice Lake, Gnesen, Colvin and Canosia. These showed no changes.

Three disputed ballots found during the recount were laid aside for judicial interpretation should it develop that they would prove a factor in determining the nominee. One other disputed ballot was not credited to either candidate by the inspectors. The recount showed the following changes from the first count: Fourteenth district, Jones lost one; Fifteenth district, Jones gained one; Seventeenth district, Jones gained four; Eighteenth district, Jones gained five; Nineteenth district, Jones gained five; Twentieth district, Jones gained one; Twenty-second district, Randall gained one; Twenty-fifth district, Randall gained two; Twenty-seventh district, Jones lost one; Twenty-eighth district, Jones gained one. In the Sixteenth, Twenty-first, Twenty-third, Twenty-fourth and Twenty-sixth districts the recount showed no changes.

EX-NAVY MAN KILLED BY SOUVENIR SHELL

Brockton Man's Friend Is Badly Injured in Explosion.

Brockton, Mass., July 1.—The explosion of a six-pound percussion shell today resulted in the instant death of Thomas W. Cook and severe injuries to Stephen F. Heal. The explosion wrecked the house where the men lived, and the detonation was heard all over the city.

Cook, who was formerly in the navy, brought the shell home as a souvenir of the Chinese revolution. It burst while he was trying to remove the outer cover.

NEW ORLEANS IS TOO ACTIVE

Federal Government Calls Off Most Rigid Quarantine Rules.

No More Cases of Bubonic Plague Are Found There.

New Orleans, La., July 1.—Normal business conditions prevailed here today in the forty-nine blocks of the downtown district which had been under quarantine because it was feared bubonic plague might spread. The quarantine was declared off last night after stringent measures had been taken for its enforcement. The lifting of the embargo was directly due to telegraphic advices from Dr. Rupert Blue, surgeon general of the United States public health service, whose message said that steps of the character planned were not warranted at this time.

Before the quarantine was declared off more than 3,500 permits to breadwinners to cross the dead line had been issued, street car conductors locked the doors of their cars while traversing the district under observation and amusement resorts in the infected zone temporarily had gone out of business.

No New Cases.

Although the restrictions as to the movements of human beings were removed, rats still were under the ban and a campaign of extermination will be waged against them. One of the regulations promulgated today by the city board of health requires that "all rats caught by individuals shall be immersed in kerosene and reported to the board of health laboratory."

No alarming symptoms have been shown by any of the twenty-seven inmates of the Volunteers of America home who were isolated when the plague was discovered in the home. This fact, and the failure to discover other cases in the city, although a number of persons suffering from various maladies were placed under surveillance, has led local health authorities to believe the situation is well in hand.

MYSTERIOUS WOMAN WITH AUBURN HAIR ENTERS MURDER CASE

pistol was fired and quickly withdrawn.

Detectives learned today that a few minutes after the shot was fired, a young woman hurried into the Freeport railroad station, apparently in great agitation, and took the first train for New York. She was described as well dressed and auburn haired.

Dr. Carman today insisted that he had not met Mrs Bailey until she called at his office last night for professional advice.

Seek Some Motive.

The police and county authorities today are seeking a motive for the murder.

William Bailey, husband of the dead woman, is a hat manufacturer in Brooklyn. He was surprised to learn that his wife had been a patient of Dr. Carman, and declared that so far as he knew she had no enemies.

Dr. Carman, too, told the authorities that he knew of no cause for the crime, or any reason to believe the shot was intended for him.

Mrs. Bailey was shot through the heart and died instantly. According to Dr. Carman, she arrived at his office, which is in his home, at 7:30 o'clock. An hour later, he said, she was preparing to leave when a window pane was broken, a man's hand holding a revolver was thrust in and the shot fired that ended her life.

Her First Visit.

Dr. Carman said today that Mrs. Bailey's visit to his office last night was her first, and that he had not been acquainted with her before that time.

Two men patients who were waiting in the physician's outer office when Mrs. Bailey was shot, said they heard no noise until they were startled by the report of a pistol. When they entered the consultation room Mrs. Bailey was dead and they helped Dr. Carman carry her body to a couch.

So many persons had trampled the grass outside the windows of the doctor's office that bloodhounds brought to the scene today proved useless.

Lombardo for Peacemaker.

El Paso, Tex., July 1.—Miguel Diaz Lombardo, Constitutionalist representative at Paris, cabled today that he would leave at once for El Paso. This was taken here as indicating that he would act as an unofficial peace commissioner between Gen. Carranza and Gen. Villa in their yet unsettled estrangement.

Jolt for Mediation Plans.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 1.—Plans for the indefinite recess of mediation were somewhat disturbed today by the suggestion of the United States government that such a break might be interpreted generally as a disruption of the proceedings. The Washington administration believes the departure of the mediators and delegates might fail to influence the Constitutionalists to hurry their delegates to the proposed informal conferences with the Huerta commission.

Justice Lamar conveyed the views of the Washington government to Ambassador Da Gama and Minister Naon today, after which both diplomats cancelled their reservations for tonight and said they would not leave until tomorrow. The mediators explained that the recess did not signify an adjournment, but they thought they could be of more service in Washington and elsewhere in forwarding the peace program.

Huerta Men Take Same Stand.

Immediately after the conference with Justice Lamar, the mediators talked with Emilio Rabasa, head of the Huerta delegation. It was understood that he, too, was unwilling that mediation should recess without some definite understanding as to the future.

The Huerta delegates consider that their work on the international controversy is finished, and it is believed would like to have other delegates appointed by Gen. Huerta to take care of internal questions.

No objections were offered by the American government to the recess, but merely an expression of preference. There is no disposition on the part of the United States to press the point, however, in view of the plans of the mediators to keep in touch with each other and to know their efforts to bring the Constitutionalists and Huerta delegates in the conference.

Mandan Bank Reorganized.

Mandan, N. D., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—F. S. Graham, formerly of Minneapolis, who recently purchased a controlling interest in the Farmers and Merchants bank of Mandan, which was for a time in the hands of the state bank examiner, has brought about the reorganization of the institution as the Merchants National bank. It will have a capital of $50,000.

The applicants for the charter are: Mr. Graham, Ed Schulenberg of Mandan, H. L. Henke of Mandan, William Maas of Glen Ullen, N. D., and G. M. Hopp of Cayuga, N. D.

DREADED NIGHT IN BUTTE UNEVENTFUL

Rival Unions Meet, But No Violence Breaks Out.

Butte, Mont., July 1.—The two unions of the Butte metal miners, after holding undisturbed meetings last night, continued today to enroll members in their organizations. What had been predicted would be a night of serious consequences passed quietly. No high officials of the Butte local No. 1, Western Federation of Miners, and no general officers of the federation are in Butte.

The old union officers refused to state the number of miners who had re-enrolled in the union. The new independent organization which has broken from the federation's jurisdiction had 3,177 names on its books last night.

The fire department began tearing down the menacing walls of the Miners' Union hall, which was wrecked by dynamite last Tuesday night.

Moyer Blames Mayor.

Helena, Mont., July 1.—Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, declared last night that the movement to organize the independent union of miners in Butte was a conspiracy between Industrial Workers of the World and the present Socialistic administration of Butte. Referring to the present administration of Butte, Mr. Moyer said:

"Mayor Duncan is in sympathy with the Industrial Workers of the World because he sees therein a chance to use the new independent union as a nucleus around which to build up a Socialist organization."

JAPANESE TO HELP CONDUCT HOSPITAL

Tokio, Japan, July 1.—A meeting of the prominent Japanese was held today under the presidency of Count Shigenobu Okuma, the Japanese premier to organize a Japanese council for the extension of St. Luke's American Episcopal hospital, under the direction of Dr. R. B. Teusler, into a modern international hospital. An American council already has been formed in New York for this purpose, and it is intended to make the hospital a practical monument of international friendship and co-operation in medical science.

BADGER CONVICTS ARE EARNING MONEY

Over $20,000 Paid Them By Contractors in One Year.

Madison, Wis., July 1.—Over $20,000 was paid by contractors to prisoners in the penitentiary at Waupun, according to a compilation made by President Ralph E. Smith of the state board of control in discussing the amount of payments made in a single year.

"Wisconsin has the contract system of prison labor, and it is the general impression that the contractor receives all the profit," says Mr. Smith. "It is interesting to note, however, that for the year ending June 30, 1914, convicts received for overtime, paid by the contractor, the sum of $20,295.96. Many prisoners have made as high as $15 to $20 a month for overtime. This money, of course, was all assigned to their individual account and credit.

"The board of control is now given entire authority over the matter of the payment of a prisoner's wage and the method of its distribution. A resolution has been passed providing for the payment of 15 cents per day to all prisoners working on state construction, or at particularly hard labor about the institution, such as the engine and boiler room. A schedule has been adopted for the payment of a wage in the twine plant. The amount to be paid to each prisoner will be dependent upon the amount of tonnage or twine handled by him."

THREE NEW LAWS GO IN EFFECT IN IOWA

Workmen's Compensation Act Is Among Them.

Des Moines, Iowa, July 1.—Three laws passed by the thirty-fifth general assembly became effective in Iowa today. They were the workmen's compensation act and employers' liability measure, the state insurance commissioner act and the teachers' institute law.

The workmen's compensation act protects every worker in the state, with the exception of farm hands and persons employed in purely a clerical capacity. In the future persons when injured will draw half salary when off duty due to injury, or if the firm is not protected by industrial insurance, the employe may file suit for damages and the firm will be deprived of the usual defenses.

PLANS NOT TO BE CHANGED

Efficiency Commission Not Affected By Criticism From Wisconsin.

More Evils Than Benefits in Having Standing Appropriations.

St. Paul, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Wisconsin's reference bureau believes that Minnesota's efficiency commission is making a serious mistake in not providing standing appropriations in its schedule. Dr. C. C. McCarthy warns the Minnesota commission that there will be times when very necessary work will be crippled by the legislature's neglect.

Such-and-such a project, he argues, is considered by the legislature and adopted. The performance may take years to show results. It may be rejected by any subsequent session of the legislature. But it ought not to be discarded merely by negative action. It ought not to be necessary for its friends to go through the same fight every time to get it on the list of things to be done. Once adopted, it ought to stay on the list until it is taken off by positive action.

He assures the commission that this one mistake is bad enough to offset all the good their work can bring.

Will Not Change Plans.

That is bad news. Because the Minnesota commission has no intention of changing its plans. The state has already adopted the policy of requiring new appropriations from each legislature, and the commission recommends that that method be followed. Standing appropriations are confusing, misleading and sometimes mischievous.

"No doubt there will be times," says Dr. John H. Gray, "when state work will suffer for want of an appropriation to carry it on. There may be serious loss on that account. That is an evil of all popular government. But there is no way to avoid it without running into greater evils. The commission knows no way to retain popular government that does not leave with the people and their representatives the possibility of making mistakes."

There Is a Remedy.

It is not to be supposed that any legislature will fail to provide for the governor's salary or the expense of the auditor's office. For such serious breach as that there is a remedy in an extra session. It is true that there are fine things attempted, a health campaign perhaps or some stunt for social betterment, that cannot demonstrate its usefulness for a period of years.

Even so, the commission holds that the people will have to get along till they want it and know they want it. You can't confer wants on a people any more than you can confer a diamond, for example, on a baby. The baby will lose it faster than you can hand it to him. People can't keep a diamond of health or social service till they know its value.

Insist on people having things they don't want—or don't know they want—and if they are real folks they will be very apt to break something. It is even possible that in Wisconsin so many benefits have been conferred on the public that they will undo some of the good work that has been done for them.

U. S. EXPRESS GOES OUT OF BUSINESS

Has Succeeded in Disposing of Property It Held.

New York, July 1.—The United States Express company withdrew at midnight last night from the transportation field, in which it has been active for sixty years. With the exception of a few hundred miles of electric traction lines, the mileage operated by the United States Express company has been reassigned to the American, Wells-Fargo and Adams Express companies, the first two taking over the larger portion. The properties of the retiring company have been for the most part appraised, and it has been successful in disposing of most of its holdings and wagon equipment at all important places. Other express companies will carry out its contracts for shipments.

American and Wells-Fargo.

Wilmington, Del., July 1.—Announcement was made yesterday that the American Express company will cooperate with Wells-Fargo company in taking over the business of the United States Express company. Both companies will occupy all of the present United States Express offices and they will handle the business jointly.

MORE JUNE BRIDES THAN EVER IN 1914.

Chicago, July 1.—There were 4,450 June brides in Cook county this year, more than in any month in history, according to the semi-annual report of the marriage license bureau. The increase is below normal, probably due, the report says, to the brickmakers' strike, which kept many thousands of men idle for several weeks.

"The number of marriage licenses taken out is sharply affected by economic disturbances," says the report. "Forty persons came from Wisconsin to get married, probably to evade the eugenic laws of that state."

BETTER CALL FOR MONEY

Financial Situation Is Becoming Firmer, Says Duluth Banker.

Preparations to Handle Crops Made By Grain Dealers.

Distinct improvement in the call for money during the last few days is commented upon by Duluth bankers. That is attributed to early preparations on the part of grain dealers to finance the expected record crop movement in the Northwest. There has besides been a broadening inquiry of late from the local wholesale establishments, all of whom are looking forward to sharp expansion in their volume of business during the fall months.

"The call for money shows signs of expanding. The country is already beginning to look to the centers for funds to handle the crops, and speaking generally the financial situation is becoming firmer," said David Williams, vice president of the First National bank yesterday afternoon. "From all reports, if nothing happens, the harvest is going to be a bumper one. The whole commercial situation in the Northwest is sound, and if the harvest results come anywhere nearly up to present expectations, we are going to have a busy time in Duluth during the fall months."

Commenting on the present situation, the City National bank in its July letter on trade conditions says:

"It is hopeful to note that we gradually lapsed into business quietude and that more recently we have begun to lift ourselves out of it. There are many indications of an improved situation, among them being decreasing immigration, decreasing business failures and the generally reported fine condition of crops.

"Most business men have noticed that the last few days of a congressional session usually witness a period of unsatisfactory business and that the pick-up almost immediately follows the adjournment of congress, even though such adjournment comes in midsummer. This year, the business improvement cannot be strong until the early fall. The winter wheat harvest will start things moving and this, followed by other crops which promise to be good, will put a large amount of money into the hands of the farmers and they as a rule know where to spend it to the best advantage. With ample money to move the crops, and with ample cars in which to haul them, it is expected that this year crop moving will not be a hardship but a pleasure and a business booster.

"As we stated last month, business will move along slowly but more steadily from now until the first of September, after which a real improvement will be in evidence, although no sensational business boom should be expected. Crops will be good, business will be better and the supply of money is sufficient to take care of all legitimate needs."

MORROW IS MEMBER OF MORGAN FIRMS

J. P. Morgan Retires From National City Bank Directorate.

New York, July 1.—Dwight W. Morrow became a partner today in the banking firms of J. P. Morgan & Co. of this city, Drexel & Co. of Philadelphia, Morgan, Grenfell & Co. of London, and Morgan, Harjes of Paris. Mr. Morrow is 49 years old.

J. P. Morgan yesterday retired from the directorate of the National City bank. His retirement follows the statement issued by his banking house several months ago that the senior member and his partners would gradually withdraw from many of the boards with which they had been identified.

COBURNE QUITS KANSAS OFFICE.

Topeka, Kan., July 1.—F. D. Coburne, secretary of the state board of agriculture, ended his official connection with the state last night when he closed his desk, shook hands with the office force and turned over his title of "secretary" to J. C. Moller, his assistant. He had served twenty-two years as secretary.

In a statement issued with his bulletin on the crop situation, Mr. Coburne said:

"It is the desire of the retiring secretary to have the public understand that never during his nearly twenty-two years of service, has he predicted or made estimates on crops. The reports were as to acreage as far as wheat is concerned."

It was stated that the figures published in connection with the secretary's crop bulletin were not Secretary Coburne's, but an estimate based on the condition of crops as shown in his report.

SAY AMERICA CAN CARRY FULL CARGO

Hammond Port, N. Y., July 1.—Preliminary tests of the Rodman Wanamaker trans-Atlantic flyer virtually were completed last night when Lieut. Porte and Glenn H. Curtiss announced themselves satisfied that the America will rise from the ocean with the full load of fuel and supplies required for the flight to the Azores islands.

Lieut. Porte expects to leave here tonight for New York city, where some arrangements connected with the flights will occupy his attention until Friday, when he sails for Newfoundland.

FINNISH WORKERS ARE INCORPORATED

The Orr Finnish Workers' association, organized for the purpose of promoting the moral, educational and political welfare of its members, filed articles of incorporation yesterday afternoon with Charles Calligan, register of deeds. The articles provide for an initiation fee of 25 cents and monthly dues of 15 cents. It is also provided that members are liable to such special assessments as may be levied from time to time by the Socialist party. Officers of the association are: John Mattson, president; Charles Auvinen, secretary; Julius Jalkanen, financial secretary; Alex Brandt, treasurer, and John Makela, general overseer. With Easlias Wepsala, Peter Rissanen, Henry Annala and Emil Leivo they form the directorate.

LANGUAGE TOO STRONG

Morris Baritz Yells "To Hell With Heaven" and Is Arrested.

Street Speaker Pleads Not Guilty—Trial Next Week.

Fiery talk in his street address before a crowd of 200 men at First avenue west and Superior street last evening caused the arrest of Moses Baritz, Socialist, on a charge of using profane language. He pleaded not guilty when arraigned in police court this morning and his trial was set for next Tuesday morning. Baritz is out on $15 bail.

About two weeks ago Chief Troyer issued a warning against the use of profanity by all street speakers, and the arrest last evening is the outcome of this order. It was during the course of his address, the police allege, that Baritz declared:

"To hell with heaven."

Patrolman Cavanaugh, who was on the corner of Superior street at the time, heard the expression and he immediately placed Baritz under arrest.

Nearly all of his hearers followed Baritz to police headquarters and they quickly collected a purse of $50 to secure his temporary freedom. They then assembled at the Socialist hall, 310 West First street, where Baritz finished his address.

Baritz came to Duluth several weeks ago to conduct a series of addresses here on Socialism. He is from Manchester, Eng., and well known as a street speaker throughout this country and Canada. He said that the policeman did not comprehend the sense of his remarks, or the meaning he meant to convey.

DOUBLE DEFENSE BY INSURANCE COMPANIES IN McALPINE CASES

then owned by said John McAlpine, penetrated his skull and brain and caused his death.

"Defendant further alleges that John McAlpine's death was caused by his own wilful, wrongful and intentional act, to wit, suicide and his death was caused by the wilful, wrongful and intentional act of the plaintiff, Sarah McAlpine.

Similar charges are also made in the amended answers of the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance company of Los Angeles and the London Guaranty & Accident company, Ltd., which are contesting claims of the widow amounting to $15,000 and $24,000 respectively. Portions of the amended answers which touch upon the manner of the lumberman's death are identical in both cases, having been drawn by the same attorney and are pleaded as follows:

Wound in Head.

"For a further defense, defendant alleges on information and belief that on or about the fifteenth day of August, 1913, a bullet fired from a revolver then owned by the said John McAlpine penetrated the skull and brain of the said John McAlpine, and caused his death, and that about the same time he received a wound on the head, other than the gunshot wound, that would have resulted in his death. That the death of the said John McAlpine was due to his own, willful wrongful and intentional act, and that the said death of the said John McAlpine was due to suicide.

"Defendant further answering and as a further defense alleges on information and belief that the death of the said John McAlpine was caused by the wilful, wrongful and intentional act of the plaintiff, Sarah McAlpine, and that she struck or caused to be struck the blow with a blunt instrument which fractured the skull of the said John McAlpine and fired or caused to be fired the shot from the revolver of the said John McAlpine as a result of which a bullet penetrated the skull and brain of the said John McAlpine, and which caused his immediate death.

"Defendant further answering admits that the plaintiff Sarah McAlpine is the beneficiary named in the policy of insurance, and that no part of the amount mentioned has been paid to her and that she has demanded payment thereof."

Testimony which may have an important bearing on the issues in the case was given Thursday morning at Minneapolis when the desposition of Clive T. Jaffray, vice president of the First National Bank of Minneapolis, was taken. It will be introduced in evidence by the defendant insurance companies upon the trial of the case. The deposition was filed this morning with J. P. Johnson, clerk of the district court.

Mr. Jaffray testified to a certain loan which his bank had made Mr. McAlpine during the month of November, 1912. The loan was for $10,000 and for four months.

"When it was due what was done about it?" the witness was asked.

"He paid $4,000 and renewed it for four months."

"And when it became due again what was done about it?"

"He wanted it renewed and I wouldn't do it."

During the course of the examination, Mr. Jaffray was also asked:

"After declining to extend the loan, did your bank get any payment?"

"No."

"Did you get anything from Mr. McAlpine?"

"Yes."

"What did you get?"

"A check for $6,000 plus the interest; 6,000 odd dollars."

"Was the check paid?"

"No, the check was dated ahead."

"Do you remember what the date was?"

"My impression now is that the date was a day after he was either killed or committed suicide."

The witness then identified a letter which he had received from Mr. McAlpine, under date of Aug. 4, as follows:

"First National bank, Minneapolis, Minn.—Gentlemen: Find inclosed my check on City National Bank of Duluth for $6,044.33 dated Aug. 18, 1913. This includes interest on $6,000 from July 11 to Aug. 18 at the rate of 7 per cent. This will be taken care of on the 18th inst., possibly before.

"I regret very much the delay, and if you people knew the reason, I think that you would be willing to give me this time I am asking. This will be attended to promptly on the 18th. Kindly present this check on the morning of the 18th. This will be a great favor to me, and thanking you in advance, I am, yours respectfully,

"JOHN McALPINE."

Check Unpaid.

"The check was protested at the City National bank and is still an unpaid claim against the estate, the witness testified.

Failure to have their defense in shape to go to trial yesterday cost the three defendants $565. With the understanding that this amount be paid to A. E. McManus, attorney for Mrs. McAlpine, District Judge Fesler granted the application of the insurance companies for a continuance over the present term. The cases are now set for the first day of the September term of court.

The cases were scheduled to come on for trial yesterday morning. At that time, however, attorneys for the insurance companies presented a motion to the court for a continuance of the cases over the term, on the grounds that they had not been given ample opportunity in which to prepare their defense. Attorney McManus objected to the delay, and after listening to arguments pro and con, Judge Fesler ordered that the case might be continued provided that the insurance companies pay to the plaintiff's attorney an amount equal to one-half of 1 per cent of the face value of the policies and an additional $100 to be divided pro rata among the three companies. The claims on the policies aggregate $89,000.

Pleads for Time.

In his statement to the court in support of the motion for continuance, Attorney Theodore Hollister of counsel for the insurance companies declared that a large amount of money was involved in the cases, and that the defendants ought not to be obliged to rush into the trial of the cases with their defense half prepared.

Mr. Hollister stated that the contest over the payment of the policies was not like the ordinary lawsuit, owing to the fact that it was necessary to secure evidence from various parts of the country and to take a large number of depositions. He asserted that more time was needed in which to inquire into the financial condition of the insured.

In this connection, Mr. Hollister declared that he expected to secure evidence which would prove that John McAlpine, reputed to be wealthy at the time of his death, was really in hard financial straits, and that he faced a condition which few men would care to face. He stated that he expected that the evidence would develop that Mr. McAlpine was in "such a condition as would be an inducement to suicide."

Mention was made of several depositions which have been or are expected to be secured from out-of-town witnesses. Among them was one which may be secured by the insurance companies from Mrs. W. H. Titus of San Francisco, Cal., who is a sister to Mrs. McAlpine, the plaintiff. Other depositions have already been taken from witnesses residing at Eau Claire, Wis., among them R. E. Parkinson, J. T. Joyce, R. R. Chase, L. V. Ripley and Charles H. Henry.

The Titus Testimony.

In an affidavit of Theodore Hollister and A. G. Briggs of counsel for the insurance companies, which was read by the former in support of his motion for a continuance over the term the following reference was made to the anticipated testimony which would be given by Mrs. Titus:

"That affiants have been informed and believe that sometime previous to the death of the said John McAlpine, Mrs. Mattie B. Titus had specifically charged the said John McAlpine, deceased, with having in his lifetime forged the name of W. H. Titus to a certain contract, involving a large amount of land in California, and timber in California, and a large amount of money, and threatened him with criminal prosecution therefor, and had also some months prior to his death commenced an action in the courts of California to set aside the alleged forged instrument.

"That said action was pending and had been pending for several months prior to the death of the said John McAlpine and that the commencement of said criminal action was imminent, and known to be to said John McAlpine at least for some days prior to his death. That upon learning of said facts deponents immediately took steps to arrange for obtaining the testimony of the said Mattie B. Titus. That at first and for a considerable time, the said Mattie B. Titus refused to take with or make any disclosures with reference to said matter to the representatives of defendants, and did only finally consent to give her evidence on the fifteenth day of June, 1914."

Troyer a Witness.

It was also stated in the affidavit for continuance which was read by Mr. Hollister and later filed with the clerk of the court, that C. H. Troyer, chief of police, was absent from the city and that he was a material witness. The affidavit stated:

"That if present and sworn as a witness, the said Troyer would testify that on the morning following the death of the said John McAlpine, deceased, A. E. McManus, counsel for plaintiff, took Alice Spaulding McAlpine, the then wife of the son of plaintiff, one Dale McAlpine, into the vestibule onto the back porch of the residence of said John McAlpine, deceased, and said to her:

"'By God, you have to stand by us now, Alice.'

"That said transaction and statement by said McManus was prior to the autopsy of the deceased and prior to the inquest held for the purpose of determining the cause of death. That deponents allege on information and belief that the said McManus was then acting as attorney for plaintiff and advisor in regard to the matter of recovering insurance on the policies in these actions, and other policies.

"That Chief of Police Troyer would also, if sworn upon the trial of these actions, testify as follows:

"That the plaintiff admitted and stated to him the morning after the death of the said John McAlpine that no one could possibly have come in through the open window of the basement of the residence of the plaintiff, and leave said window in the condition in which it was found. That said facts would have an important and material bearing upon one of the defenses set out in the answers in these actions, and that said Troyer as such chief of police made some investigation and inquiry bearing upon the cause of death of said deceased, and has knowledge in relation to numerous facts and circumstances bearing upon the cause of death of the said deceased, but deponents are not sufficiently advised as to the extent of his knowledge so as to enable them to state just what he would testify in detail, other than as herein stated. That they are informed and believe that if this action is continued to the next term of court, he will return to the city of Duluth in ample time so that his evidence can be obtained."

Objects to Delay.

Attorney McManus offered strenuous objection to delaying the trial of the case. He stated that he had several witnesses which had been brought here from outside cities at considerable expense and that he had not been given any intimation that a continuance of the causes would be sought until a few moments before the cases were called for trial yesterday morning.

Attorney McManus charged the insurance companies with bad faith and declared that they were practicing dilatory tactics with the view of "tiring" and "wearing out" the plaintiff. He stated that the insurance companies had been given ample opportunity to prepare their side of the case and, so far as depositions went, he said, he was willing to stipulate what they would testify to.

Nothing to Conceal.

"We will also admit," said Mr. McManus, "that John McAlpine was $700,000 in debt. We have nothing to conceal about that. Some reference has been made to the fact that no inventory of the estate has been filed with the probate court so that the attorneys for the defense might examine it. We will produce the inventory now if they want it."

Attorney McManus said that it would be a hardship to his client, Mrs. McAlpine, to have the cases set over for two months, that it was time that the matter be settled now. He also stated that an important witness, the physician who had performed the autopsy over the body of John McAlpine, was about to leave for Europe and might not be back in time for the trial. Mr. Hollister offered to stipulate that a deposition might be taken as to his testimony, but Mr. McManus declined the offer stating that he did not care to disclose the evidence before the trial of the case and the defense had shown their hand.

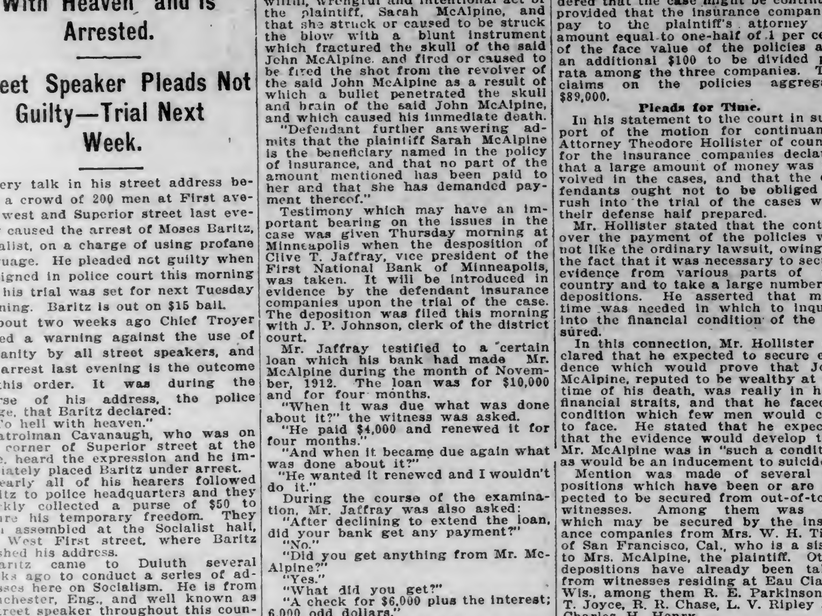

Mrs. McAlpine Watched.

During his argument to the court, Mr. McManus also asserted that in justice to Mrs. McAlpine the cases should be disposed of without delay. He stated to the court as a matter of belief that detectives had been engaged to watch every move his client had made, that her mail had been intercepted and her telephone line tapped.

Mr. Hollister resented the insinuation of counsel for Mrs. McAlpine that the insurance companies had put detectives on the trail of Mrs. McAlpine. He said that he was ignorant of the fact, if it were true and stated that he believed that his relations with his clients were of such a nature that he would be apprised of anything of the sort.

which the letter which was mentioned referred.

Reason for Change.

"I am further informed that Roosevelt refers to the fact that I opposed him for nomination at the Republican national convention in 1912, and I take it that this is the real reason for his change of attitude. Men are apt to be bosses to their enemies and leaders to their friends.

"Even Mr. Roosevelt cannot escape the frailties of human nature. I exercised my privilege as a Republican, and as a Republican United States senator, to use my own judgment as to what course I should follow in the presidential contest of that year. Mr. Roosevelt had assured me in the most positive terms that his ambition had been fully satisfied, and that under no circumstances would he ever be a candidate again for the presidency. He assured many members of the United States senate and prominent Republicans from all over the country to the same effect. He had taken himself, as far as we were informed, entirely out of consideration in connection with this office.

In the Convention.

"In the Republican national convention Mr. Roosevelt at no time had a majority of the convention. I cannot, in the limits of this statement, go into details as I would like to do. As the campaign progresses, should this discussion be continued I shall be glad to meet all comers and all questions. It is sufficient to say that the rules under which the convention acted, regarding delegates and all other matters of procedure, were precisely the rules which Mr. Roosevelt had insisted on in the national convention of 1908.

"It will be recalled that Mr. Roosevelt absolutely had named Mr. Taft for the presidency. Whether Mr. Roosevelt considers this an act of bossism or not I do not know, but to me at the time it seemed like the most offensive act of bossism that could be perpetrated in American politics.

Convention of 1908.

"In 1908, in the convention of which I am speaking, Mr. Roosevelt, through a cabinet officer who was in full charge and in hourly communication with the White House, insisted on defeating any rule proposed to alter the system of southern representation. It was defeated on the floor of the convention absolutely through the boss orders issued by Mr. Roosevelt's personal and official representative, and the southern representation was maintained as heretofore. Delegates elected for Fairbanks were ruthlessly thrown out by the committee on credentials. All the other contests or delegates opposed to Mr. Taft were treated in about as cold-blooded a way as I have ever witnessed in my attendance on meetings of the national committee in twenty years. The convention was organized, and nominated Mr. Taft.

Fake Contests.

"When the convention of 1912 came around, the convention was called upon to organize under the rules which Mr. Roosevelt had forced upon the party against my protest and that of my Republican associates four years previously. If there was anything wrong in the rules, I was the one who made the effort to have them corrected and was the one who tried to have my efforts avail. The fake contests were gotten up at the last moment after Mr. Roosevelt had reached his belated determination to become a candidate from the Southern states. There was no merit, and of course, the committee on credentials decided against them.

"The motives ascribed to me by Mr. Roosevelt to the effect that my course was dictated by any desire to share in the control of the Republican party, even at the risk of party defeat, are too silly for me to give serious consideration.

As to Tariff Commission.

"I have not, of course, opportunity to discuss Mr. Roosevelt's address in full; neither am I called upon, I suppose, to do so at this time. His generalities of course are commendable; his specific recommendations about a commission to regulate business and a commission to legislate for the tariff are to my mind superficial and fraught with very great dangers. Certainly the tariff legislation should not be delayed by interminable investigations of any more tariff commissions. The people are sick and tired of theorists and demagogues whom they have listened to long enough. They are now demanding practical results and an early restoration of prosperity."

PAYS $700 AND GETS SON BACK

New York Man Gives Evidence Leading to Eight Arrests.

New York, July 1.—The return home today of Frank Longo, an 8-year-old boy who was kidnaped on May 13, led to the arrest of eight men who, the police say, form the nucleus of a band of kidnapers who have been terrorizing Italian merchants of the city for several years.

Most of the men arrested are in some way connected with the bakery business, and it is believed they preyed mostly on those with whom their business brought them in contact. Longo, a banker, paid a ransom of $700 before his son was returned to him.

HEALTH TALKS

by William Brady, M.D.

Avoiding Typhoid

IMMUNIZATION against typhoid fever is now available to every man, woman and child who may, by any possibility, be exposed to infection this season. Before going away to the country, the mountains or the seashore, insure your health against this ever present danger.

It is not a dangerous nor even an unpleasant experience to be immunized against typhoid. The average individual suffers much more discomfort from ordinary vaccination against smallpox. Typhoid immunization consists of a course of three simple hypodermic injections, no more painful nor dangerous than ordinary hypodermic injections, administered ten days apart. The very worst effects observed are a one-day headache and slight general "misery" after the first dose, though the majority of individuals do not feel any particular effects.

What Is the Prophylactic Used?

The medicine injected to prevent typhoid is a measured number of the killed typhoid germs. It is given on the good old principle that nothing is so effective as the hair of the dog that bites you. It prevents typhoid fever in the same way that an attack of the fever itself renders an individual immune to further attacks. There is good evidence that it confers an immunity lasting at least three years, how much longer the immunity lasts will not be known until the lapse of more time. Last year there wasn't a single death from typhoid in the whole United States army, due to the universal use of the prophylactic.

Vehicles of Typhoid Infection.

Drinking water from wells, springs or brooks in the country is always unsafe, unless you know that it is not polluted. Clearness and good taste is no criterion to judge by; typhoid germs affect neither of these characteristics. Wells near farm buildings, particularly out-buildings, are especially unsafe, since human excrement may readily find its way through soil drainage into the water.

Cooks in the best of health may be deadly carriers of typhoid germs, as has been demonstrated in many epidemics. Vegetables washed with polluted water have carried the disease. Flies have been caught with the germs on their feet. Butter, milk, even ice sometimes contains typhoid germs.

Boil the drinking water if in doubt. Do not rely upon filters or any chemical germicide in the water.

The avenues of possible infection are so many and so insidious that safety demands the use of the new prophylactic as a preliminary for a healthful vacation.

Questions and Answers.

Mrs. A. T. asks: Can appendicitis be cured by taking olive oil? Will you recommend any doctor or doctors who treat appendicitis without using the knife?

REPLY.

Appendicitis can be cured by olive oil about as well as you could cure it with any other laxative. No, I cannot recommend doctors who take such desperate chances with a treacherous disease in these days of safe surgery. Not every case must be operated on, but personally we'd rather take our chances with the operation than with the disease. By the way, it is a very dangerous thing to take a laxative in the presence of any acute inflammation in the abdomen like appendicitis.

B. M. writes: Can you tell me why some people have trouble keeping their equilibrium while walking on smooth ground after dark, yet have no such trouble in daylight?

REPLY.

Sometimes this is a symptom of locomotor ataxia, sometimes it is a symptom of certain eye troubles, and sometimes it is noted in cases of simple neurasthenia or psychasthenia—nerve weakness.

Woman's Realm.

Miss Emma Louise Maghan and Alex W. Johnson of Superior were married at noon today at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Maghan, 1819 Piedmont street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. A. McGaughey of the Second Presbyterian church in the presence of the immediate relatives. The drawing room in which the marriage took place was decorated with pink peonies.

The bride wore a gown of white voile shadow lace over white satin and carried a shower bouquet. The bridesmaid, Miss Myrtle Maghan, sister of the bride, wore a costume of pale blue crepe du chine trimed in shadow lace. Albert Norain was the best man.

At the wedding breakfast that followed the ceremony the color scheme of pink and white was carried out in roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson left this afternoon for a short wedding trip. The bride wore a black suit and white hat. They will be at home after July 15.

"A DOLL'S HOUSE."

Ibsen's Play Will Be Interpreted By Mme. Labadie.

Mme. Harriet Labadie's reading of Ibsen's "A Doll's House," will begin promptly at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow evening at the Orpheum theater. Those who enter after the beginning of the performance will not be seated until the end of the first act.

Mme. Labadie, who returns to Duluth under the auspices of St. Luke's hospital, is regarded as one of the foremost readers of the day. The Citizen of Ottawa, Can., said of her:

"Dramatic interpretation by one person has its limitations, but these are by no means so rigidly defined as would appear and are but broken bonds to be overridden by such a rare gift of outward reaching personality as Mme. Labadie last night brought to her presentation. It is open to question in fact, whether the drama does not gain something in this, the more purely imaginative form of expression; whether its lack of appeal to the senses be not balanced by an added directness of appeal to the intellect. But on one thing there can be no difference of opinion and that is that Mme. Labadie is in the very forefront of dramatic readers of the day. Only a mature experience of life, a sympathetic insight into the inner meaning of its infinite complexities, could make flesh and blood personalities of such a diversity of temperamentally opposed characters as Ibsen has grouped in 'A Doll's House.'

"There was magnetism, the compelling power of personality, a touch of genius perhaps in the slight change of expression, the new intonation of voice, the variation in attitude that bespoke the coming into being of a new personality. With eyes half closed one could all but see, could actually feel, the presence of Nora Helmer, of her sternly upright husband, of the family doctor, of any and all characters in their entrances and exits. It was a varied and wonderful series of portraitures."

"OTHELLO."

Dr. Abbott Opens Series of Lecture Recitals on Shakespeare.

The first of a group of three lecture-recitals on Shakespeare was given this afternoon by Dr. Edgar C. Abbott of Boston at the home of Mrs. Henry H. Myers, 2505 East First street. Dr. Abbott's subject was "Othello."

Although the course of lectures is under the auspices of the guild of St. Paul's Episcopal church, the list of patrons and patronesses includes persons of many denominations who are interested in literature.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Mother Love Is Always Needed.

Yesterday I was talking to a young college man who had just received his degree and I was entertained while he unfolded his ideas on the future of civilization. He is an optimistic young enthusiast, and for that I admire him. But when he seriously proposed that the world generally devolve itself into one big family, with persons specially trained to undertake the various duties, I felt a sort of dismay and disappointment.

This young man proposes that the proper way to conduct our homes is on the co-operative plan. Let a number of families form themselves into a group and let the labors resulting from such an association be turned over to trained and efficient persons in certain lines of endeavor.

It might be well to have a competent chef prepare the meals and have the house kept in order in its several departments by skilled persons. But when this young man proposed that the children be turned over to trained persons, to be fed, taught, disciplined and watched over in this institutional sense from the time they are born until the time they are able to go forth and do for themselves, and that the mothers sally forth to some productive occupation and turn their earnings into the common fund at the end of the week, my heart rebelled and I looked askance at the young man.

It is a little discomforting to hear a young man calmly declaring for mothers to join the ranks of the wage earners, turning their wages into a common fund and giving their children over to trained lackeys to be reared. You wonder wherein his mother failed or if he is simply a type who has missed the beauties of the true home life.

But whatever he is, and whatever he missed, we do not want to develop many young women or young men with the idea that children can be brought up on any cut and dried rules of hygienic and scientific training and become anything worth while. Because without mother love and insight and instinct to bring out the best in a child and create a desire for a home and the lasting impression that "home is best," we cannot progress far.

Amusement Notes.

In the production of "The Rosary" by the Baldwin Players which is being greeted by crowded houses at the Lyceum this week the discriminating public is given an opportunity to see the growing unrest and irreligion of modern times. "The Rosary" is a faithful picture of the misery and unhappiness that surely comes upon man who lacks faith in the supreme good and its inevitable triumphs.

A typical American family is taken as a fair example of every day conditions that obtain throughout the United States. The husband, a man immersed in business, the exacting business of Wall street and the stock exchange.

Little by little he has fallen away from the faith in his fathers. He has replaced it by an agnostic attitude. The wife believes; her confidence in an all-wise, all-pervading good has not been shaken; and so when storm and stress come, the man with no anchor is swept away by the storm of agony; the woman remains steadfast, moored by her faith to outride the tempest.

Through all the heartbreak and tears, through all the agony and anguish, clear and serene, moves the wonderful figure of a modern Catholic priest whose life has been dedicated to God and the service of his fellow men. It is his clear spiritual vision that sees through the web that has been woven about the two people whom he loves and it is his faith and God-given power that sets them free.

The tremendous story, powerful in its simplicity, is interwoven with the higher threads of sane humor, of the sort that one loves to take away from the theater and muse over in idle moments.

Matinees will be given today and Saturday. No increase in prices for the Saturday (Fourth of July) matinee, notwithstanding it is a holiday.

Tonight at the Empress theater the two performances will close a successful engagement of four good acts of vaudeville and three fine reels of pictures.

Helen Dixon and the Rambler sisters have proved the hit of the bill. The three girls are attractive and have a neat, classy act full of popular songs and fancy dances. They put over the songs in charming style and show cleverness in their dancing. Close rivals for first honors are Earl and Edwards, two rising comedians, and the musical Kuehns. The musical Kuehns present an act of songs and violin playing, while the two young men, Earl and Edwards, put on a clever comedy talking act. Cycling Crane has a comedy cycling act. Mr. Crane uses many peculiar shaped cycles in this act.

"Our Mutual Girl," chapter 23, which comprises part of the film program, is a very interesting photo reel, showing how Margaret, who has been missing for the past three weeks, is found. "Silent Sandy" is a two-reel comedy drama on love and devotion.

"The Speculators," the name suggests the show, but not the fascinating music contained, will be the attraction at the Empress for the last half of this week, commencing with the matinee performance Thursday, July 2. In this show, Arthur Clamage, the eccentric German comedian; Don Clark, Duluth's own light comedian; Grace Fields, Trixie Ayers, Frank Carey and Jess Weiss, the clever dancer, are all suitably cast in roles. The songs are plentiful while the chorus will appear in new costumes.

EARLY PURITAN NAMES PASSING FROM USE

Hartford Times: A certain set of Christian names taken from the Scriptures has been in use so long that we do not think of them as Bible names. Among them are Adam, Moses, Samuel, David, Daniel, Solomon, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. Others taken from the saints, like Peter, Paul, John, Stephen and Matthew, originally given to children because they were born on the saint's day, are still so common that we think of them as English names.

These names antedate the use of surnames, as may be inferred from the fact that nearly all of them have given rise to patronymics, like Jacobson, Peterson and Stevenson. In the twelfth century missionaries sent out by the authorities used to baptize whole villages at once, and to save time invested all the men with the name of John or some other saint and the women usually Mary or Martha.

To distinguish the Johns some additional name like Short or Strong or White or Black was given him by the neighbors, and so Christian names and surnames were united.

After the reformation it became the fashion among the Puritans to give children the names of characters from the Old Testament and odd ones like Melchisidek or Barzillai were preferred. Among these were Abel, Levi, Jesse, Amos, Asa, Isaiah, Ephraim, Gideon, Malachi, Job, Abner, Hosea, Ezekiel, Jeremiah, Zachariah, Asher, Eli and hundreds of others.

For some reason the use of these names has largely ceased. We can understand why Ebenezer has been dropped, though once one of the most common names in New England, for it is decidedly unmelodious.

No modern girl could fall in love with an Ebenezer. But most of the Puritan Bible names have a strong manly ring and have been borne by able men. That they are going out of use is very evident from comparing the early class lists of Yale with later ones.

Twenty-five classes in the early eighteenth century, numbering 375 graduates, show 119 with Puritan given names. This is about 30 per cent. Ten classes in the twentieth century, numbering 3,037, show but twenty-five given names of this class, or less than 1 per cent. Ebenezer and Barzillai have completely disappeared. Nor is Peletiah or Zadoc to be found.

We can only hope that the descendants of these ancient worthies have inherited some of their sterling qualities, though they do not perpetuate the name.

THE PRECIOUS MAPLE.

The American Boy: The inroads that are being made upon the hard maple trees of the country must needs alarm every boy who has a taste for genuine maple sirup with his buckwheat cakes. Nor is the crystallized liquid distributed in the form of sugar cakes to be lightly surrendered by boyhood. A bulletin of the United States Department of Agriculture points out that maple is one of the most widely used of native hardwoods and so brings warning that the sirup supply is in danger. Maple is a favorite flooring, being especially in demand for roller skating rinks and bowling alleys. How many joy-producing trees do you suppose must be slaughtered to floor a skating rink? It is reported that the shoe manufacturers of Massachusetts use thirteen million board feet of sugar maple every year in the manufacture of shoe lasts. You see much bird's-eye maple furniture—sugar trees were cut to make it! The strength and hardness of this wood cause it to be used for a wide variety of purposes. Altogether one billion, one hundred and fifty million feet of sugar maple are cut in the United States every year. So make the most of your opportunities to consume real maple sirup, for the time is coming when the only "maple" sirup obtainable will be the kind concocted from brown sugar flavored with the juice of the corn cob.

WHY THE AUDIENCE STAYED.

San Francisco Chronicle: This theater shall be nameless and this manager likewise, but that isn't going to hurt auybody's feelings.

With the tremendous business being done by at least four of the attractions playing the city the past week, some house had to suffer a drop in its natural takings, and this was the house. The nameless manager emerged at intermission and went to a near-by bar for strength and courage that he might bear under up the blow to his box-office pride. At intermission time, it must be explained, this bar ordinarily gets a rush trade from this particular theater. Now the manager came in alone.

"Isn't this intermission?" asked a bar tender.

"Sure."

"Well, where's the audience?"

The manager looked around at the empty cafe.

"Didn't he come over?" he asked. And then: "I guess he's asleep."

A BORN STATESMAN.

Kansas City Journal: "What's the idea, George?" inquired Mr. Washington. "Why do you chop down this cherry tree? Have you anything against cherry trees?"

"No, sir."

"Maybe you are in favor of deforestation?"

"No, sir."

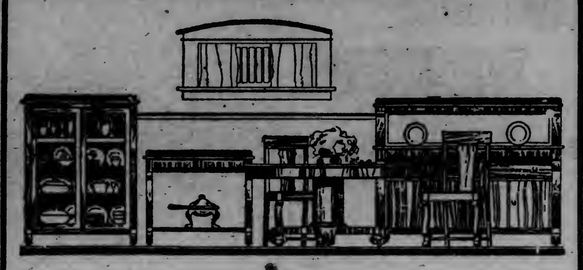

"Doing this for a moving picture concern?"

"By no means."

"Then why chop down a tree?"

"I just thought of going on the stump," replied the future father of his country, and then Mr. Washington realized that George was a born statesman.

WILL TAKE REFERENDUM

Commercial Club Members Will Express Opinion on Trust Legislation.

Vote Will Be Taken on List of Ten Questions.

Duluth business men will express their opinions of the proposed trust legislation before congress at the meeting of the public affairs committee of the Commercial club next Monday night.

This will be part of the referendum being conducted by the chambers of commerce of the United States to obtain the country's views upon the congressional trust program. It was recently announced that the full report of the special committee which has had this in charge is on file at the Commercial club. A list of ten questions based upon the most significant problems brought out by the report has been prepared and will be voted upon Monday night. The meeting will follow a dinner to be served at 6:15 at the club rooms.

The ten propositions to be voted upon Monday night, as prepared by the committee, are as follows:

1. The committee recommends that there should be no attempt by statute to forbid discrimination in prices of commodities.

2. The committee recommends that a proposal to compel persons controlling the product of mines to sell to all applicants, who may be responsible, is wrong in principle and unworkable in practice.

3. The committee recommends that there should not be statutory prohibition of conditions accompanying sales and leases to the effect that buyers or lessees cannot handle or use the products of competitors.

4. The committee recommends that the final decree in an equity suit brought by the government, which establishes the existence or the non-existence of a restraint of trade or of a monopoly, should be conclusive evidence as to the same general fact in private actions brought against the same defendants under the anti-trust laws.

5. The committee recommends that interlocking of directors among competitive business corporations, including railroad corporations, should be prohibited regardless of the size of corporations, if elimination of competition among the corporations in question would constitute a violation of the Sherman act.

6. The committee recommends that interlocking of officers and directors between railroads and industrial businesses with which they transact a substantial volume of business (for example, in the relation of buyer and seller), should be prohibited except in such instances as the interstate commerce commission may determine are not detrimental to the public interest.

7. (A) Should interlocking of officers and directors between railroads and bankers with whom they have financial transactions be entirely prohibited?

(B) Should there be legislative prohibition of such interlocking with a provision that a finding of the interstate commerce commission to the effect that in a particular instance there was no detriment to the public interest would prevent illegality in that instance?

(C) Should there be legislation in a form which would not pronounce illegal existing conditions, but would authorize the interstate commerce commission upon finding a detriment to the public interest in any interlocking to order that it be terminated?

8. (A) Should the problem involved in preventing concentration of credit be referred for investigation and recommendation to the federal reserve board or some other competent body?

(B) Should these problems be the subject of immediate legislation, for example, in the form of a prohibition of interlocking of officers or directors among banks, if any bank in question is of a certain size?

9. The committee recommends that corporate ownership of stock, directly or indirectly, of competitor corporations should be prohibited if elimination of competition among the corporations in question would constitute a violation of the Sherman act, except in such cases as the interstate commission (or the interstate commerce commission in the case of railroads) may determine are not detrimental to the public interest.

10. The committee recommends that there should not be an attempt to regulate the shares of stock issued by corporations engaged in interstate commerce.

CATHEDRAL HOME OF GIRL OUT OF JOB

Stenographer, With Sight Failing, Finally Is Arrested.

San Francisco, Cal., July 1.—For more than two months Miss Lenore Mistrot, a young stenographer, friendless, out of work and almost penniless, found nightly lodgings in the vestibule of St. Mary's cathedral, according to a statement she made to the police.

Five days ago the young woman, acting strangely, was found by the sexton in the cathedral and was arrested. Since her arrest she had refused to eat until released yesterday. Then she talked of her hardships and told the police she attended each vesper service since Easter, had lingered until the cathedral was empty and had then found sleeping places in unfrequented parts of the edifice. When the doors were opened for early morning mass, she slipped away.

Two and a half years ago Miss Mistrot came here from Dallas, Tex., she said, and had lived comfortably until an injury to her sight had thrown her out of work.

WABASH-PITTSBURG DEALINGS FLAYED

Townsend of New Jersey Demands Investigation By Government.

Washington, July 1.—By resolution in the house Representative Townsend of New Jersey asked the interstate commerce commission to investigate the affairs of the Wabash Pittsburg Terminal Railway company, and made startling charges regarding its financial affairs.

He asked the investigation with a view to ascertaining what physical properties, franchises and other things of value the company has acquired by purchase or otherwise since its organization under the Pennsylvania laws on May 9, 1904.

In a speech he declared that "no other story of high finance, as the alleged facts are presented to me, sets forth such a tangled tale of trickery, shifty dealing, repudiation, denunciation of contracts and spoliation as this." He said that his purpose in bringing the matter before congress was, first, that such investigation may lead to retribution, in part at least, to investors; to punishment of the looters; to re-establishment of this corporation upon a sound, healthy and honest basis, and to rid Wall Street of one of the scandals which has brought hundreds of reputable financiers into undeserved rebuke."

LIGHTNING SPLITS CHURCH IN KANSAS

Kansas City, Kan., July 1.—Lightning which accompanied heavy rains here late yesterday struck the Danish Lutheran church and split it into two parts as though struck by a heavy cleaver.

Static electricity in the air, due to the lightning, caused a 500-watt electric lamp on the flagpole of a tall office building to burn brightly for more than fifteen seconds. Passersby thought the building had been struck by lightning and called the fire department.

At Stanley's stables a man was killed by lightning while milking a cow.

A hail storm near Florence and a heavy rain in Marshall county are said to have caused damage to crops.

Dominican Rebels Beaten.

Washington, July 1.—Dominican revolutionists have been defeated at San Pedro Macrois on the southern coast of the island, according to reports to the state department. This is the second battle on the south coast, indicating the spread of hostilities which until recently had been confined to Puerto Plata and the northern districts.

GOOD PROGRESS MADE ON PAVING

Will Finish Lower Half of Superior Street Within Ten Days.

The paving of the lower half of Superior street between Fifteenth and Thirteenth avenues west, will be completed within another ten days, if the present rate of progress is kept up. Only four blocks of the distance, that between Twenty-sixth and Thirtieth avenues, still remain without the brick, and this is expected to be finished early next week.

The preparing of the upper side of the street for concrete foundations has been completed from Twenty-fifth to Twentieth avenues and the crew in charge of the big mixer is close behind the preparatory gang. The mixer is making progress at the rate of about 250 feet each day on a paving thirty feet wide. The biggest work was probably done Monday when the mixer traveled 289 feet.

The street railway company completed its work of relaying rails last night. New rails of the heaviest type have been put down in the place of the lighter kind that have done service for more than ten years.

CHURCHES WILL HOLD A PICNIC

West Duluth and Superior Congregations Join in Program.

The official board and Epworth leagues of the First Norwegian-Danish Methodist church have jointly planned a picnic for that congregation and the congregations of the West Duluth and Superior churches to be held Saturday at Grassy Point. An all-day program is arranged for the affair.

It is the intention that the picnic will bring out a large part of the membership of the three churches in order that these people may become better acquainted and that a closer relationship may be cemented between the church organizations.

The picnic grounds at Grassy Point are south on the end of the car line at Seventy-first avenue west. The committee in charge has arranged to place national flags as markers for the crowd to follow. Arrangements for extra street car service has also been made.

The program will begin at 10:30 a. m. A feature of the morning program will be the singing of national songs by the choirs of the three churches. Short patriotic address will also be given.

The sports program will begin at 1 o'clock. A feature of this program will be a baseball game between the married men and bachelors of the West end church. The other contests include a thirty-yard dash for married women, 100-yard dashes for married men, boys, girls and young men, sack races, pie-eating contests, milk-drinking contests, nail-driving contests for women, and a tug-of-war between teams representing various church organizations.

Pastor Installed.

Rev. O. D. Salter was officially installed as pastor of the Hazelwood Presbyterian church, Thirty-ninth avenue west and Fourth street, last night. Pastors from various Presbyterian churches of the city took part in the ceremony. The charge to the pastor was given by Rev. J. A. McGaughey of the Second Presbyterian church and the charge of the congregation was given by Rev. W. L. Staub of the Westminster Presbyterian church. Rev. F. J. Barackman and Rev. W. W. Lawrence also took part in the program.

Series of Sermons.

A special series of three sermons has been planned by Rev. Milton Fish, pastor of the Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street upon his arrival. Tomorrow evening the pastor will preach on "God's Call Out of a Noble Past." Sunday morning the subject will be "God's Call Through a Crucial Present" and Sunday evening the subject will be "God's Call Unto a Glowing Future." The pastor will also tomorrow evening give a report of the Northern Baptist conference held at Boston and of the International Sunday School convention held at Chicago.

West End Briefs.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Peterson of Brainerd are guests at the home of Mr. Peterson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Peterson, 418 North Twenty-seventh avenue west.

Miss Jessie Bond of Houghton, Mich., is a guest this week at the home of Miss Kathryn Conroy, 506 North Twenty-first avenue west.

Rev. Milton Fish, pastor of the Central Baptist church is expected to return home tomorrow from Boston where he has been attending the annual conference of the Northern Baptist churches.

The Sunshine Society of the Trinity English Lutheran church will have an outing at Lincoln park Friday afternoon. The meeting will be the final one held by the society this summer.

The choir of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street, will entertain this evening at a concert in the church. The Minnesota College Concert troupe of Minneapolis will present the program.

The meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Hazelwood Presbyterian church, announced for tomorrow afternoon has been postponed until Tuesday afternoon. The meeting will be held in the church parlors, Thirty-ninth avenue west and Fourth street.

The Young Ladies' Society of the Zion Norwegian Lutheran church will hold a moonlight excursion around Minnesota Point on the steamer Favorite tomorrow evening. The steamer will leave the Twenty-first avenue dock at 7:45 p. m.

URGES ADVERTISING OF CATHOLIC CHURCH

Bishop McFaul Says Publicity Is Needed Today.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 1.—More publicity for the Catholic church and its doctrines was urged by Bishop McFaul of the Trenton diocese, following a pontifical mass which formally opened the annual convention of the American Catholic Educational association.

"We must let the people know who we are and what we stand for," said the bishop. "There has been too much of a disposition to keep our religion to ourselves."

GLAND FROM BABOON GIVES CHILD MIND

Surgeon Describes Operation Before the Paris Academy.

Paris, July 1.—The radical cure of a cretin—on suffering from cretinism, a disease characterized by physical deformity and imbecility—by grafting the thyroid gland of a monkey, was described last night at the academy of medicine by Dr. Voronoff, a well-known surgeon.

The patient, a child of 14 years, was attacked by myxoedema at the age of 8 as an aftergrowth of scarlet fever. His physical and intellectual growth stopped. Six months ago Dr. Voronoff, in the presence of nineteen doctors, grafted on the child's neck the right lobe of the thyroid gland of a large baboon.

Almost immediately the patient began to improve, and marked development took place in body and mind. While formerly the patient was apathetic and stupid, he became active and quick-witted.

Members of the academy consider the operation of great importance and tending to confirm the great possibilities of constructive surgery as introduced by Dr. Alexis Carrel of New York. Special interest in the case lies in the fact that this is said to be the first time that the grafting of an organ from a lower animal has been successful.

Dr. Voronoff attributes his success to special technique as a result of a number of experiments in grafting. In the opinion of those who have followed the experiments, many cretins condemned to a mere vegetative existence may, under the new treatment, be transformed to useful members of society.

SYMPATHY FOR CARRANZISTAS

John Lind Says His View Has Been Correctly Represented.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 1.—"As far as the impression is conveyed in these letters that I am in sympathy with the Constitutionalist cause, that is true," said John Lind, late special envoy of President Wilson to Mexico, when shown a copy of alleged correspondence from Capt. S. G. Hopkins to Gen. Carranza. The letters indicated that Mr. Lind had been liberal in giving counsel to the Constitutionalist cause.

Mr. Lind will not discuss any statements of alleged fact in the letters themselves. "Of course I cannot discuss communications that I do not know are authentic," he said. "Persons who will steal private correspondence will just as soon forge letters." By this remark Mr. Lind evidently indicated his idea of the way in which the letters came into the possession of the New York Herald.

Mr. Lind was asked what he thought of the general impression conveyed by the letters that British interests were backing Huerta, and that American magnates were interesting themselves in the cause of the Constitutionalists. This also he declined to discuss further than to say that a published interview with Frank Dodson of St. Paul gave a good size-up of the situation.

Mr. Dodson said that the Pearson interests had had things much their own way under Diaz and Huerta, and that Lord Cowdray could obtain pretty much what he wanted from Huerta.

"The American interests naturally resented this, but I doubt if they were in a position to do much," added Mr. Lind.

I. W. W. LEADER AT PATERSON FREED.

Paterson, N. J., July 1.—Carlo Tresca, the Industrial Workers of the World leader placed on trial here yesterday for the second time after the disagreement of the first jury, on the charge of inciting listeners to assault the silk mill owners in a speech delivered during the silk workers' strike in 1913, was acquitted by the jury last night.

Armour's Quality Products

U.S. INSPECTED AND PASSED BY DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE ESTABLISHMENT No. 2

SPECIAL BULLETIN — JULY 1, 1914

A Sane Fourth for Mother

Buy the Veribest Brands of Canned Meats—keep the larder well stocked. Then Mother will always be ready for good wholesome meals on hot days in which she will feel like joining the family and eating something herself.

And she will always have enough in the house to be ready for the unexpected guest—or for a sudden picnic or cool evening meal, out on the porch, that she can prepare in a jiffy. This is the biggest and best idea for mothers in this country today.

The food products prepared and sold under the Veribest label are like all of the Armour products—of the highest quality.

This quality is obtainable only through the modern and careful hygienic methods of packing that are standard in the preparation of all products bearing the Armour blue and yellow label.

The guaranty of their purity and wholesomeness is the Government stamp; the guaranty of their quality—highest quality—is the name of the foremost packing firm in the country—Armour's.

Veribest Offers Variety

Armour's quality products, packed under the Veribest brand—the standard of top quality in canned goods—offer a sufficient variety to suit every taste and to furnish the foundation of meals for almost every occasion, particularly in the Summer.

See how much time Mother can be away from the kitchen if she will draw upon this Veribest list:

Soups
Pork and Beans (with or without tomato sauce)
Sardines
Corned Beef
Boned Chicken
Sliced Star Bacon

Armour's Star

"The Ham What Am"—and Bacon, too

Armour's Star Brand is the standard of highest quality in hams and bacon.

Only the choicest hams from cornfed, barrow hogs are branded with the "star." That is the foundation of the quality. The secret of the delicate, nutty flavor of Star Brand Ham and Bacon lies in the mild sugar cure. The result is a flavor and piquancy of taste, obtained by using condiments blended with utmost care, that is found only in Star Ham and Bacon.

There is wisdom in always keeping a whole ham on hand. Whenever in doubt as to "what to have," it is baked ham, boiled ham or cold ham that the family sits down to. And there never was a time when a ham or bacon meal disappointed or did not satisfy.

You can buy Armour's Star Ham and Bacon at nearly every dealer's.

Learn to look for the oval label in yellow and blue with the word "Star" in white across the middle bar. Insist upon it from your grocer or butcher. It is your guarantee of the highest quality and flavor. Try this:

Barbecued Ham Slice "Star" ham very thin and cook in a hot skillet until lightly browned. Remove to serving platter. Add to the fat, left in pan, three tablespoonfuls vinegar mixed with one and one-half teaspoonfuls English mustard, one-half teaspoonful sugar and a pinch of paprika. When thoroughly hot pour over ham and serve at once.

"Drink Grape Juice"

Dr. W. A. Evans, former Health Commissioner of Chicago, and one of the leading medical writers of the country, was quoted recently in the Chicago Tribune:

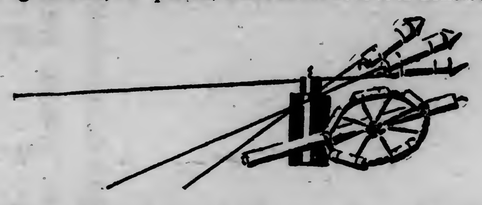

> "In hot weather drink Grape Juice. Take a glass; pour it half full of Grape Juice and fill with cold water from the tap. Put in a piece of ice and drink."

Here is an ideal drink; and the advice coming from a man who ranks in authority along with Dr. Harvey Wiley and Dr. Woods Hutchinson in messages of health that everybody can read and understand, it is well worth trying out.

Armour's Grape Juice is the first juice of ripe Concord grapes, pressed and bottled where Concord grapes grow to perfection.

It comes to you pure, undiluted, unfermented—a natural drink that is healthful, palatable, a thirst-quencher.

For afternoon teas—porch parties—in the form of "long" drinks, for punch, sherbets or ices it is delicious.

For National Dessert—Pie

You can have good piecrust only by using the best shortening — Armour's "Simon Pure" Leaf Lard.

This is made wholly from leaf fat, which every housewife knows is the richest and most delicate fat for lard. The leaf fat is rendered in an open kettle as our grandmothers did it.

In baking, less "Simon Pure" Leaf Lard is required than of other shortening, because it is richer, "goes farther", and is therefore more economical. Unequalled for baking and frying. Packed in airtight pails.

Dainty Lunch Summer Sausage Light Supper

Summer (or dry) Sausage is made of the choicest meat, seasoned with a mixture of spices and packed in a casing. There are many varieties to choose from.

Summer (or Cervelat), a German variety, in which the meat is chopped very fine, smoked and air dried.

Goteborg, a Swedish sausage, which is chopped somewhat coarser than summer sausage, flavored differently and smoked more.

Milan and Alpino Salami (Italian varieties), unsmoked, quality very choice, and delicately seasoned with spices with a touch of garlic added.

This sausage will keep indefinitely in a cool place, and there are grades to suit all tastes and pocketbooks. Be sure you get Armour's

Try Veribest Sandwiches

Try these dainty and appetizing sandwiches for luncheons, for the picnic, for the afternoon party.

Wedding Sandwich Rolls

Slice white bread as thinly as possible, butter lightly, spread slice with Veribest deviled chicken thinned with a little cream or olive oil. Lay on the other slice a lettuce leaf. Roll the slices very closely and pile on a serving dish. A pinch of celery salt or paprika may be added but Veribest Meats are already delicately seasoned.

Princess Sandwich

To one can of Veribest Deviled Chicken add the juice of half a lemon, two tablepoonfuls melted butter, twelve walnuts chopped fine, a little salt and paprika. Put this mixture between thin slices of buttered bread. Trim the crusts and cut into fingers.

Windsor Sandwiches

To the contents of can of Veribest Deviled Chicken add a half cupful o finely chopped celery and four tablespoonfuls of cream. To the contents of one can of Veribest Deviled Ham add a little tomato catsup. Slice and butter the bread. Put a layer of the chicken mixture on one slice, put on top another slice of bread and then a layer of shredded cress; put a thick layer of the ham mixture on another slice and cover it over the cress. Press firmly together and cut the slices into halves lengthwise. Wrap in waxed paper or tie with baby ribbon.

French Chicken Sandwich

Cover one tablespoonful of gelatine with one of cold water; soak for five minutes and then add ten tablespoonfuls of thick cream; stand this over the teakettle and stir until gelatine is dissolved. Beat into this the contents of one can of Veribest Deviled Chicken and stand it aside in a square pan until cold. Cut into very thick slices; put a slice on a slice of buttered bread, cover with another slice of bread and cut into fancy shapes.

THE COLONEL'S DISCONTENT.

Col. Roosevelt, if we may judge by the political speech he made last night in defying the doctors and opening the Bull Moose campaign in Pennsylvania, is very much discontented with the way things are going in this country.

The tariff law is all wrong and certain ruination. Our foreign policies are wretched errors. Our failure to have a war with Mexico is a blunder of the most atrocious character. Our attempt to brush off Colombia's coat after he had kicked her down stairs is a shame and a disgrace. In short, the country is going headlong to the bow-wows, and its only salvation is to put the Progressive party in power.

My! but that's a dreadful situation! It's really much worse than the Colonel pictures it, because if it is true that the nation's only hope is for everybody to join the Bull Moose party and elect Bull Moosers to office, what are we to say of such things as the failure of the Bull Moosers of Minnesota to cast enough votes at the recent primaries to save the legal standing just granted it by a new law? The country manifestly is not only going to the dogs, but is doggedly determined on getting there as fast as possible.

The Colonel, though,—and this is reassuring,—talks for all the world like a spokesman for the Outs, who are also the Want-to-Get-Ins. His talk sounds just like that, and like nothing else on earth.

His speech makes it very clear that the chief offense of President Wilson and the Democratic party is not in holding wrong theories and applying wrong remedies, but in keeping US out of office.

And how he did tear into Penrose! No doubt it was all deserved, and we can all take a lot of satisfaction in it on that account.

Yet Penrose seems pained and surprised, and that's rather natural, too, when you come to analyze it. You see Penrose did not become a wretched and despicable boss in the Colonel's eyes until quite recently—not, indeed, until the early summer of 1912, when the Colonel was trying to get the Republican nomination which he had sworn he wouldn't take, and when Penrose was trying—successfully, it turned out—to keep him from getting it.

Manifestly, Penrose's worst offense was not in being a venal politician, not in taking over the ugly machine of the Colonel's good friend Matt Quay and running it, not in betraying the public interest, not in servitude to special privilege, not in disloyalty to popular government. Oh, no! It consisted in none of these things, because Penrose was as guilty of all of them as he is now when, in 1904, he exerted his machinery to help make Roosevelt president again; and then he was "my dear senator," and was heartily congratulated and thanked. Penrose did not take on a dark hue in the Colonel's vision until the early summer of 1912. His unforgivable offense, manifestly, was not in being a corrupt boss, but in opposing ME for the presidency—in dashing that third cup of coffee from those expectant lips.

The Colonel is discontented, but it's merely poetic justice that he should suffer some that way. About his last official act was to make William Howard Taft president of the United States; and it is right that the Colonel, in punishment, should feel a little discontent to make up for the discontent he thus made the American people feel from 1909 to 1913.

There is ground for a suspicion that Japan never will be satisfied over the terms of that California law until she is permitted to dictate them herself.

OF COURSE!

The city has definitely decided to take an appeal to the supreme court in the street railway franchise case.

That comes in the category of things that are of course. The issues are too important and the case means too much to the city not to go the whole length with it, especially as the additional expense will be slight.

It is to the best interests both of the city and the street railway company, even if the latter cannot see it, that the old jug-handled franchise be replaced if possible by a modern one under which the company can be made to be as enterprising in all things as it already is in some things. A more elastic franchise, giving the city power to compel the company to expand, would make the city grow, and the growth of the city would profit the company.

Of course the case will be appealed.

That Iowa man who ate two hundred and thirteen spring onions is naturally a scentsiwhiff chap.

ONE GOOD OF MEDIATION.

When the United States accepted the offer of mediation made by Argentina, Brazil and Chile, The Herald said that it would be worth while anyway even if it came to nothing directly, because it would give the Latin-American nations a fairer notion of us and our motives—something "dollar diplomacy" has been trying vainly to do for years.

There is utterly no question today that this good has come, anyway. There is almost a revolution in official and public sentiment toward this country in South America; and the A. B. C. incident has done it—that and our refusal to demand indemnity from Mexico for the cost of occupying Vera Cruz.

Says the New York Evening Post: "While the Mexican mediation is not yet complete, one of its happiest results has already been fully attained. We refer to the great revulsion of feeling in favor of the United States which has been wrought in South America. Highly gratifying to true American pride are the dispatches from the Argentine, from Chili, and from Brazil, testifying to the warmth of appreciation there of the attitude of our government.

"It is not simply that their own representatives were assigned so honorable and useful a part. They speak of this country as having set a 'grand example,' not only in turning to an agency of peace, when it had the power to impose its will on Mexico by force, but in disclaiming all thought of a money indemnity and in so emphatically seeking to establish the independence, along with restored order, of our sister republic.

"All this certainly constitutes a great achievement, irrespective of what remains to be done in working out troublesome details; and President Wilson deserves the heartiest recognition for the resourcefulness and courage with which, in what seemed the very crisis of war, he devised this fortunate means of at once averting hostilities and securing the good will of all South America."

President Wilson's foreign policies, condemned by Roosevelt and other jingoes because they are so different, will justify themselves, if, in the hearts and consciences of the American people, they have not already done so.

Football, says a consular report, "promises, in a measure, to change the national life" of Germany. At least one may safely expect it to change some individual countenances.

A PROPHET.

Charles D. Hilles of Dobbs Ferry, New York, is out with a prediction that the fall elections will produce a large increase in the number of Republican members of congress. Mr. Hilles, you may remember, is chairman of the Republican national committee.

What! the same Hilles?

Yep!

The same Hilles who a little more than two years ago was predicting confidently the overwhelming re-election of William Howard Taft, who afterwards carried two small states?

Yep!

Hm!!

It is said there are no motion-picture theaters in Haiti. Any relation between this fact and the frequency of revolution there?

THE SENSIBLE THING TO DO.

The Kansas City Star reports approvingly that "now the weather has settled into what the weather bureau placidly calls 'fair and continued warm,'—meaning scalding hot," it is evident that Kansas City people have learned how to dress for the summer weather.

"Ten years ago," says the Star, "a man who appeared on the streets in linen or Palm Beach or white flannels was so curiously dressed as to attract attention. The average person dressed conventionally in warm clothing and suffered accordingly.

"But at last people have decided they might as well be comfortable as possible in semi-tropical weather, so they are adopting semi-tropical dress."

Very sensible, to be sure. It's a great wonder they did not think of it sooner. Very sensible thing to do.

Almost as sensible as to come to Duluth to spend your summer, where the day temperatures are in the seventies, rarely in the eighties, hardly ever in the nineties and never in the hundreds; and where the night temperature is in the fifties and sixties, and the lake breeze puts you under blankets.

But of course if you can't come to Duluth, the white panties are wise wear.

There is one policeman in London to every 470 persons, but statistics fail to show how many persons in each four hundred and seventy are militant suffragettes.

The Treaty With Colombia

Editorial in the Springfield Republican.

It is desirable that cordial relations be restored between the United States and Colombia; and it is also desirable that Colombia and the republic of Panama, territorial neighbors, be brought into ordinary diplomatic relations. It is more than ten years since Panama was separated from Colombia, but Colombia has not yet recognized Panama's independence, much less exchanged ministers with her. But for the military protection which Panama secures from the United States on account of the canal, Colombia and Panama would at this moment be at war. For, in the eyes of Colombia, the republic of Panama is still nothing but a revolted province taken under the wing of a great power.

There is no escape from the fact that this situation will be long continued, unless Colombia is conciliated by the elimination of her grievance. The perpetuation of the ill-feeling which Colombia now nurses against the United States would be detrimental in two very material ways. In case of war between the United States and any European or Asiatic naval power of the first rank, there would inevitably be a naval struggle for the control of the inter-oceanic waterway. The canal must always be a strategic point of the utmost importance. Would it be advantageous to the United States in such a war to have Colombia sympathetic with and probably eager to aid the enemies of this country in their operations on sea and land for the capture of the canal zone? The other reason why the perpetuation of Colombia's grievance against the United States would be detrimental is that every Colombian will be a propagandist of hatred against us in Latin America, while the present situation endures.

No administration at Washington could view this state of affairs with indifference and no administration has viewed it with indifference. Secretary Hay, in President Roosevelt's time, made efforts to conciliate Colombia. Secretary Root in turn sought to negotiate for a settlement. Secretary Knox, even in the last winter of the Taft administration, made advances to the Bogota government. As late as February, 1913, President Taft's representative at Bogota submitted to the Colombian government a memorandum outlining a basis of settlement between the two countries, and it began with these words:

> The government and the people of the United States sincerely regret the occurrence of events that, in any manner, may have changed the long and sincere friendship which existed for almost a century between Colombia and the United States.

In all of those efforts to effect a settlement, the United States government refused to submit Colombia's claims for compensation for the loss of the isthmus to international arbitration, say, to The Hague court. There were two reasons, first our government did not wish to admit that its political action in helping Panama to establish her independence was reviewable by any outside tribunal; second, our government would not risk judgment in the matter of money damages by international arbiters. All the secretaries of state from Hay to Bryan have been shrewd in refusing to arbitrate Colombia's money claim, for it is easily conceivable that if the Panama isthmus were to be given a money value by an international tribunal it might condemn the United States to pay Colombia an indemnity the size of which would make $25,000,000 look like 30 cents.

In considering the treaty with Colombia now pending in the senate, it is worth while to remember that it is in strict accord with the policy of our government under three successive administrations in two vital particulars—first, that Colombia shall be conciliated, if possible, and induced to recognize the independence of Panama; second, that the settlement with Colombia shall be direct rather than through the agency of an international tribunal of arbitration. In brief, this treaty is fairly and consistently exposed to attack, not in principle, but merely in detail.

The treaty fully accomplishes the broad purposes in view. It would heal at once Colombia's open sore and permit the Panama canal to be opened to the traffic of the world with the blessings of all nations. Does it in detail, however, grant too much to Colombia? Does it humiliate the United States, or in any way tarnish our national honor? There have been two points of criticism thus far developed—it may be added with considerable bitterness. The money payment of $25,000,000 to Colombia is condemned; and it is charged that the "sincere regret" expressed by the United States in the first article, "that anything should have occurred to interrupt or to mar the relations of cordial friendship" between the two nations constitutes an apology repugnant to our national pride.

As for the $25,000,000 indemnity, it is too much or too little, according to the point of view. The amount is generous. It is certain, however, that our government would not like to have the size of the payment fixed by an international court after an impartial appraisal of the money value of the isthmus to Colombia as a piece of real estate. The isthmus has been valuable enough to the United States to make our government spend some $400,000,000 building a canal through it. How much was it worth to Colombia as a piece of property, as a national asset Nature had given her? That property, or asset, was taken from Colombia by force for the benefit of this country.

If one admits that the use of force was justifiable, the expropriation became analogous to the exercise of the power of eminent domain by a state or city in taking private property for public uses. If the state or city takes your land against your will, it still must pay you a fair price for the property taken. Compensation in such cases is a principle imbedded in municipal law. According to the same principle, morally speaking, Colombia is entitled to compensation, in cold cash, and unless Colombia gets it, not only Colombia but very many other people will always believe that Colombia was robbed. The only question is, how much? The Republican does not pretend to say how much, with any precision; what is certain is that some amount will some time have to be paid.

The expression of "sincere regret" in the treaty seems to enfuriate many critics, but the Republican has always regretted very much indeed that "anything should have occurred" to destroy the friendship that formerly existed between Colombia and the United States, and to have it said in a treaty does not bother us a bit. Facts are facts. Something did occur "to interrupt relations of cordial friendship." All such interruptions anywhere may be sincerely regretted by the whole world. Americans today may sincerely regret, without humiliation or treason to their flag, that anything ever occurred to interrupt their relations of cordial friendship with Spain or with England, with whom they waged war. Regretting sincerely is no more a confession that the United States was wrong in fighting Spain in 1898, or England in 1912, than regretting a dog fight, which carried sorrow and bereavement into the next house, is a confession to your neighbor that you had no right to keep a dog.

The Power of Fashion

St. Louis Republic: Partially completed estimates of the amounts involved in the failure of a great chain of retail stores with headquarters in New York city show the liabilities as totaling about $35,000,000.

If the report that has reached the United States department of commerce is correct this great failure may be traced in part to a whim of fashion. There are other reasons, of course, but this is given as the one that finally pulled down the great corporation and affected the stock markets.

It may be summed up in the statement that women have ceased to wear petticoats. The hobble skirt, the tube gown, the sheath gown and the various other form-revealing fashions crippled the white goods trade. Linens, muslins and other fabrics, once staples in feminine wear, remained on the shelves.

Then the diaphanous gown put in its appearance. That settled the white goods trade. The laces, the ruffles and the lingeries that were stacked up in warehouses and stock rooms, on shelves and in ships' holds became a drug on the market. Nobody wanted them. They were so much useless stock and the money that was tied up in their manufacture and in their purchase was lost.

The great chain of New York concerns, reaching all the way across the continent, was overstocked with white goods, so the story goes. They could not be sold, they could not be exchanged, they could not be given away, and they were useless as premiums.

Great is fashion when the buyers guess right. It is ruin when they do not.

The Panama Canal and American Trade.

Lincoln Hutchinson in the Yale Review: The situation, then, on the eve of the opening of the Panama canal, is somewhat as follows: The markets of the Pacific ocean basin are, as a result of developments going on within the countries concerned, rapidly increasing their demand for industrial and structural materials, especially the numerous products of iron and steel; and are decreasing relatively, their demands for clothing materials and foodstuffs. The United States, under existing conditions of competition, has on the whole more than held her own against her chief European rivals in regard to the chief class of goods which is in increasing demand. We are also purchasing increasing quantities of the vegetable and animal raw materials which are assuming a more important place among the products that the Pacific countries have to sell, and we have just passed a tariff act which will facilitate their purchase. The trade routes, by which this commerce has been carried on, have been such that for dealing with many of the most important Pacific countries, the European trader has had considerably greater facilities in delivering his goods than the American. The new canal will also alter routes that in those markets where the American trader has already had a certain advantage in facilities, his position will be greatly strengthened, while in several important ones where he has had less favorable facilities, he will now have a distinct advantage over his competitors. If he will seize this moment of opportunity, and heed the repeated warnings of our consuls as to the necessity for a systematic study of the markets and the requirements of packing, invoicing, credits, and numerous other technical details, there is every reason to expect, in the next decade or two, an enormous expansion of our commerce with the entire west coast of North and South America, with the Pacific islands, with Japan and all of northern China and possibly with New Zealand and parts of Australia.

Hitting the Mark.

Life: The Army and Navy Journal comes pretty close to the real basic trouble in Colorado when it says:

> Many of the strikers are foreigners who do not speak English, and it is very difficult to make them understand when an endeavor to explain a situation to them is made. Naturally they are bitterly incensed against the state troops and mine guards for the deaths of their women and children and men.

The difficulty was not with the situation, but with explaining it. Wages were adequate. The bosses were gentle and kind. The gunmen were engaged for purely altruistic purposes. Working conditions were clean and pleasant, and living conditions ranged all the way from commodious to luxurious. The owners in New York stood ready to sacrifice their dividends to the last penny in order that their employes might be comfortable and prosperous. But there was no way in which these truths could be got to the employes. They were happy, but they didn't know it.

How could they help being incensed at losing their wives and children when there was nobody around to explain it to them? What we need out there is not United States troops, but interpreters of exceptional expository ability.

What He Left.

Pittsburg Chronicle: Residing in a little village is a lawyer who is famous for drawing wills, in which branch of business he has long enjoyed a monopoly of the country for miles around.

A few months since a wealthy man died. There was much speculation as to the value of the property, and the town gossip set about to find out the facts. He hunted up the lawyer, and, after a few preliminary remarks about the deceased, he said rather bluntly:

"I suppose you made Brown's will?"

"Yes."

"Then you probably know how much he left. Would you mind telling me?"

"Not at all," the lawyer answered, as he resumed his writing, "he left everything he had."

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the tricks of the social climbers who make up a considerable factor of Washington's population, is to send out invitations to some kind of a function and get into the papers with a list of those invited. There is no law against sending invitations to whomsoever one desires. Of course, getting the people to come in is something else again, but if the list of those invited reaches the society column the climbing hostess is fairly well satisfied. She knows that a lot of people will be properly impressed. Occasionally, however, in groping for big names, a hostess of this type will overstep the bounds of plausibility. For example:

The other day a Washington society writer for one of the big New York papers was talking over the telephone to a congressman's wife, who had come here with the intention of stepping right into the very capitalest of capital society.

"Yes," said the climber, reading from a list of names, "Admiral and Mrs. Dewey are coming, and——"

"Well, well, that's really remarkable," cut in the society editor; "you know Admiral and Mrs. Dewey rarely accept invitations out. This will be about the first time for two or three months."

"And the Cardinal and Mrs. Gibbon," went on the climber, unabashed.

That was too much for the society editor.

"What a stupid reporter I am," she remarked. "I didn't even know the cardinal was married. I suppose if the pope got married I would be one of the last to hear about it."

Another society reporter, by the way, who is an observing person, declares that she can spot all manner of political intrigue and lineups by the tone of voice of the women folk over the phone.

Let us say that Representative Mix is against the president on a piece of pending legislation, but this is not generally known. He hasn't said a word to anybody except his wife about his feeling toward the president. A man's wife is likely to catch his point of view and think that he is exactly right in whatever notion he has. The next time the society reporter inquires about a social doings and mentions the name of any of the president's family and Representative Mix's wife doesn't refer to the White House with the usual measure of enthusiasm in her tone, one may know that something is up politically. So it goes.

Nothing more irritates a certain type of Washington society woman than to have one intimate that an invitation to the White House or to an exclusive little affair at the home of a cabinet officer would mean much to her. As one woman put it, carefully adjusting her lorgnette, "I've bean"—bean, mind you, not been—"I've bean in smart society for a great many yehs—yes, a great many yehs, and relly, relly, I simply cawn't give any time to the official set."

You catch the distinction. The official set is here by virtue of political recognition and is constantly shifting, but people in smart society are there because they have "bean" there always.

The diplomatic circle, of course, forms one distinct social set, but there are gradations even within that. As I understand it—or rather, as I overheard a paunchy-cheeked, tiaraed old dowager explaining one night, the wife of one of the most prominent foreign diplomats in Washington does not really belong at all. Some one asked the dowager why not.

"Oh, she just simply doesn't," was the reply. "Look at her waist line."

And speaking of capital S society a woman who has been mixed up in it for years, but who doesn't take it seriously, was telling me the other day that you can tell exactly the grade of society to which a woman belongs just by her small talk. She divides society into five grades. The first or lowest is made up, she says, of those women who talk about the things they have tried to cook and the high cost thereof. Passing on to the next grade we find women who do not cook themselves, but talk about their help, what trouble they have getting maids that will set the table properly and all that. The next group takes in women who think it is a bit crass to discuss the servant problem for small talk, but confine themselves to conversation about their children. Then there is the European group—made up not of Europeans, but of people who have been to Europe once or twice and use Europe as a basis of their light conversation. The last and highest grade of society is confined to those who have become blase on Europe and never mention it, but stick closely to such topics as Newport and polo. When one can talk about practically nothing except polo and do it gracefully, then, so I am informed, one really belongs.

The Superman.

This is the man who raced
Once on a wanton track
Lured by the life debased,
Leading a wayward pack;
Brutal as fiends uncaged,
Potent to scar and stain,
Ruthless his passions raged—
Kinsman of blood-marked Cain!

Zeal won him devotees
Flaming in word and deed,
Lovers of blasphemies—
Folly and shame and greed;
See him, sinner of old
Who, in his falling, fell
Low as perdition's hold—
Low as the pit of hell!

Like to the sunbeam fleet
Bringing the seed to birth;
Like to the blossom sweet
Springing in slimy earth;
So, by a subtler art,
Magic was wrought unseen
When to his sodden heart,
Love came where lust had been.

This is the man made new,
Facing the shining goal,
Captain of gallant crew
Saving the shipwrecked soul;
First in the glorious fray
Glad to be sacrificed,
Climbing the grief-filled way—
Kinsman of martyred Christ!

Zeal wins him devotees
Glowing like twice-born youth—
Lovers of veritiles—
Mercy and faith and truth;
See him, sinner of yore,
Helping despair to rise
High as hope's golden door—
High as God's paradise!

Governorship Talk

What the State Press Thinks.

Sizing Up the Support.

Austin Transcript (Rep.): "Lee will have the support of his party," says the Minneapolis Tribune. Not knowing what party is Lee's party, we can't say as to that. But we do know that the Democratic party and at least one-half of the Republican party will vote for Hammond.

"If He Becomes Governor."

Virginia Enterprise: No doubt Game Warden George Wood heaved a sigh of relief when he saw that the returns were all for William E. Lee. Despite all that has been said and done, Mr. Eberhart could never have been expected to feel kindly toward Wood after H. A. Rider's letter was published, the one raising his salary and asking for a contribution to the campaign fund. Naturally that strained the entente cordiale between him and the governor's henchmen. Wood ought to be handsomely rewarded by Mr. Lee if he becomes governor. He helped Mr. Lee wonderfully and most people who have followed his ups and downs are convinced that he really wants to be a game warden and have people with high power rifles miss him from ambush.

Condemns Lee's Campaign.

Anoka Union (Rep.): Nothing favorable can be said of the Lee campaign. It was a dirty one all the way through.

On Which Horse?

Deerwood Times: William E. Lee, Long Prairie, Minn., candidate for governor on the Republican ticket at the general election on Nov. 3, 1914—sounds good to a lot of us poor folks, doesn't it? Mr. Lee trimmed Governor Eberhart "to a frazzle," as the immortal Teddy might ejaculate, and demonstrated beyond any reasonable doubt that the people of Minnesota are tired of having someone else dictate their affairs. Congressman Hammond defeated Lawler, and the race at the general election will be between Lee and Hammond, with the chances even. Democracy stands an excellent chance and so does Republicanism. The question is the man. Mr. Lee is a banker. He knows, naturally, how to cut down expenses, and that is the big issue just at this time in Minnesota. Mr. Hammond is a Minnesota congressman. He has always stood for the good things in national affairs. He doesn't wait to be told what to do, because he doesn't have to be told. He would make good as governor.

Unrest Among Republicans.

St. Peter Free Press: Now that the nomination of Congressman Hammond is assured it is given out that he will have the active support of outside Democrats of national prominence, and that one of them will be Speaker Clark. Mr. Lawler is also reported as favorable to the nominee and expected to speak for him during the campaign. On the other hand, a certain element in the Republican ranks, that stood out so strenuously for the nomination of Governor Eberhart, is giving signs of unrest and takes great pains to enumerate the good qualities of Hammond and to call attention to the supposed weak points of Lee, the successful Republican candidate. All of which clearly suggests the possibility of an unusually mixed up political scrap.

But it would be a great mistake to assume that the success of either candidate hinges principally upon party principles and personal accomplishments. While the personality of a candidate is always a strong factor in a political campaign, it is not likely to be of much avail in this particular contest, where both parties are unable to agree among themselves upon the leading issues involved.

Maybe So and Then Some.

Pine River Sentinel-Blaze: The Duluth News Tribune says that Lee still has a fight to make before entering upon the duties of governor of Minnesota, intimating that there are a lot of Republicans who will vote for Hammond—not Lee. Maybe so.

Hammond the Most Dangerous.

Madison Independent Press: The early returns from the primary election last week indicated that Daniel W. Lawler of St. Paul had been nominated for governor by the Democratic party of this state, but later returns show that he was defeated and that the Hon. W. S. Hammond of St. James was the man nominated and not Mr. Lawler. This simply means that the Republican candidate has a bigger fight on his hands than he would have had if Lawler had won.

Imperilling Liberty

Duluth Masonic Calendar: While it may be necessary, as we are told, to give up more and more of our personal liberties in order to attain the ideal civilization, it has occurred to us on many occasions that there must be a point where the benefits to be received from such a civilization may not give an adequate return for our investment of personal rights in it, and we are glad to receive some substantial encouragement from so eminent an authority printed in such a well tempered and generally wise paper as the Outlook (until it got into party politics). The article copied here will bear study and much thought. Any civilization without individual personal liberty and the recognition of personal rights is as empty as the other Utopian ideas and visionary schemes which have from age to age been foisted upon the unthinking by superficial reformers who always try to reform others and not themselves. Chief Justice Cullen does not speak strong enough to suit us as the danger is great and the results of acquiescence slavery instead of liberty:

> Edgar M. Cullen, former chief justice of the state of New York, in a recent address to the State Bar association upon "The Decline of Personal Liberty in America," said:
> "Unless I am utterly mistaken, there is now a strong tendency in courts, in legislatures, and, worst of all, in the people themselves, to disregard the most fundamental principles of personal rights. When I was young, liberty was deemed to be the right of the citizen to act and live as he thought best, so long as his conduct did not invade a like right on the part of the people to compel the other part to do what the first part thinks the latter ought to do for its own benefit. The only way in which our own conduct can be secured against the inroads of paternal or Socialistic government is to be alert to protect the conduct of others and to condemn violations of private rights equally, whether the violation is of our rights or of those of others."
> That it should be necessary to discuss the "Decline of Personal Liberty in America" in such vigorous language is indeed an ominous sign of the times.

Clothiers' Expectations.

New York Times: With business conditions in general showing a slight change for the better, which no doubt will become more marked as time goes on, the manufacturing clothiers expect that initial fall orders received will have to be supplemented later on with more substantial ones. It is the general sentiment in the clothing trade that retailers will wait until the last minute, and then crowd manufacturers with orders for merchandise needed at once.

Second Wind.

Prof. Yandell Henderson in the Yale Review: The probable explanation of "second wind" is as follows: In the deep breathing of an athletic person taking moderate exercise at sea level, lack of oxygen plays no part. The effect is wholly due to an increased production of carbonic acid stimulating the respiratory center, which responds proportionally. On very violent exertion at sea level, however, and on even moderate exertion at a great altitude, the oxygen supply to the tissues of the body is temporarily insufficient. Substances other than carbonic acid, such as lactic acid, are produced, and, when these substances reach the respiratory center by the way of the blood, they excite it to such activity that one over breathes. That is, the violent panting ventilates the carbonic acid out of the blood more rapidly than the body is producing it. The substances which thus over-stimulate the respiratory center are not volatile and cannot be given off by way of the lungs, but they appear to be rather rapidly oxidized in the blood. When the carbonic acid has been considerably diminished a part of the stimulus to the respiratory center is removed so that one can breathe more moderately; that is, one gets his "second wind." When the exertion stops, the production of the stimulating substances ceases, and the quantity of carbonic acid in the blood having been reduced below the amount necessary to stimulate the respiratory center, one falls into a period of apnoea followed by Cheyne-Stokes breathing, like an engine with a sensitive governor and no flywheel. Breathing oxygen under these conditions hastens the combustion of the acid substances which have accumulated in the blood.

In a Bad Way.

Philadelphia Telegraph: They were talking automobile reminiscences and Congressman Jacob Johnson of Utah recalled the experience of Smith along a country road.

The inexplicable thing had happened some ten miles from a garage and Smith was mauling over the machine with a monkey wrench when a farmer came along.

For awhile Hiram stood in silence watching the efforts of the autoist and then human nature asserted itself and he broke into conversation.

"Some car ye've got there, pard," he remarked admiringly. "What power is it?"

"Forty-horse power," said Smith, continuing to plug away with the monkey wrench.

"Forty hoss, eh?" returned Hiram, still working his eyes. "What seems ter be the trouble with it?"

"Well, as near as I can figure it out," answered Smith, with a sort of a cross between a sigh and a cuss, "about thirty-nine of the horses are dead."

INTEREST RATES IN WISCONSIN.

To the Editor of The Herald:

As a frequent reader of your valuable paper I wish you would answer these questions through your Open Court column:

"1. What is the maximum rate of interest allowed on loans of money in the state of Wisconsin?"

"2. Can a contract be enforced if (after all parties have signed) it was discovered to be drawing an illegal rate of interest?"

"Is the contract void or can it be adjusted by paying a legal rate of interest?" A READER.

Duluth, June 30.

The maximum interest rate allowed in Wisconsin is 10 per cent. The penalty for usury in Wisconsin is loss of interest. The contract could therefore probably be enforced without interest, but you should consult a lawyer on the question and explain to him the details of the case.—The Editor.

DULUTH GRAIN MEN "NO. 1 HARD WITH NO DOCKAGE" IS OPINION OF GROWERS

Speaker at Banquet Sums Up Friendly Feeling Toward Traders.

Board of Trade Members Show They Have No Secrets.

Visitors Learn Details of Marketing Grain Crop of Northwest.

Get-together was the all-pervading spirit manifested at the dinner tendered by the Duluth Board of Trade to its guests, the grain shippers of the Northwest, at the Masonic temple last evening.

It was the largest and most representative gathering ever held in Duluth nearly 650 being present and they came from an area extending over four states, Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Montana.

Co-operation between the grain shipper and the grain man who markets his produce at the lake terminals, was the keynote of the various speakers.

As W. J. McCabe, president of the board, said in the course of his address of welcome that the shippers had been invited to visit Duluth with the idea that they might become better acquainted with the men to whom they had been forwarding their grain, and that they might be able to see for themselves the facilities afforded and the methods in vogue for marketing it. These he felt firmly convinced are the most up-to-date on the continent.

Wide Open.

"Yes," we are going to throw everything we have wide open for your inspection, we are even going to give you a chance to search at the elevators tomorrow for the muck-talked of suction blower," said Watson S. Moore, toastmaster for the occasion.

The mayor, W. I. Prince, in his address of welcome in behalf of the city, referred to the community of interest existing between the grain producers of the Northwest and the Duluth commission merchants.

"We are all of one great family in these Northwest states, and we can all best promote our own interests by getting together in social and commercial intercourse," he said. He commended the high plane of ethics on which the business of grain marketing is conducted by members of the Duluth board of trade.

Isaac S. Moore, cashier of the American Exchange National bank, in speaking to the toast of the "Banker and the Grain Trade," referred to the immensity of the financial operations involved in marketing the grain at this point, making it necessary for Duluth banks to carry large reserves in order that the movement might not be hampered. During the busy season as much as $1,000,000 a day must be provided on occasions to take care of the trade, he averred. He could only remember one occasion, and that several years ago when as a result of financial stringency, the grain movement was hampered for a few days, leading to a general decline in the market for the time being. With the coming into operation of the Federal reserve banking system he did not think there would be any danger of a recurrence of such a money stringency.

Responds for Guests.

Thomas Pindray of Jamestown, N. D., in replying for the guests, said that the trip had been well worth the time and money spent in taking it. He had entertained many enormous ideas regarding the methods of conducting the grain trade, but these had been swept away as a result of what he had seen. "I am glad," he said, "to know the men to whom I am shipping my wheat. I believe them to be fair and straight clear to the bottom. I am satisfied that Duluth must grow with the Northwest, and we have scarcely yet scratched the surface in these three states in an agricultural way. Not more than half of North Dakota is yet under cultivation. You can imagine the amount of stuff that will move when we get settlers in to fill up the unoccupied areas, and proper farming methods are generally adopted. When that time comes I feel sure that Duluth will be able to handle the trade, no matter how large it is."

"Number One Hard."

R. Y. Breed of Crookston, Minn., a city which he described as second only to Duluth in importance in the state, made a humorous reply in behalf of the visitors. "You grain men of Duluth are a bunch of No. 1 hard wheat and no dockage," he said. "We farmers of the fertile Red River valley need you and you need us. We will try to do our part in producing the grain, and we feel sure that you will continue to do yours in marketing it for us."

S. C. Rector of Judd, N. D., said the organization of get-together clubs always accomplished good in any community. The movement tended to correct any petty jealousies and to rub off the rough edges. He expressed himself as pleased to see that idea being extended between the grain growers and the grain commission men on this occasion. "I wish that people who do so much talking without understanding their subject would turn in and investigate for themselves. If they did that in connection with the grain trade as we are doing in Duluth now, they would find that there is no reason for calamity howling," he said.

J. Ralph Pickell of Chicago, secretary of the council of grain exchanges, made a happy response to the toast, "The Trend of the Times." He predicted that a great struggle will develop in the United States in the not distant future between radicalism and conservatism. He claimed Samuel Gompers to be the most powerful individual in American politics today, and that he can accomplish more in getting a bill through than any other politician. Said he: "Radicalism is growing. A great political war between the conservative citizens of the country and the propertyless class, the radicals, is coming. 'The old order changeth.'"

Mr. Frick's Talk.

A. W. Frick, speaking for the commission men, said: "It gives us much pleasure to see such a generous response to our invitation to come down to Duluth and meet with us. We are very glad to see you. We believe much good must result from such a gathering as this. We want to get better acquainted with you, and we want you to get better acquainted with us. We are really not such bad fellows when you come to know us.

"Our committee has tried to prepare a program for your entertainment which will be pleasing and instructive. We want you to see Duluth; to see our elevators and learn all about them; how your grain is inspected, how it is unloaded, cleaned, weighed, and in fact, learn all about how your shipments are handled here. Before you go home we want to know all about how your interests are being looked after in this market. I have been a member of the board of trade for nearly thirty years and many of the grain firms that were engaged in the handling of your shipments thirty years ago are still here and keenly on the job looking after your interests to see you receive the highest market price for your grain when it is sold, and to see to it that the state department gives your grain the proper grade and dockage; to see your grain is sold to responsible purchasers and that the money is promptly returned to you.

"We need you in our business and we honestly believe you need us in your business. For that reason, we are glad you have come to this meeting. By exchange of ideas we can learn much from each other. The great Northwest is just commencing to get on the job. France raises more wheat than our Northwestern states and they have been at it since the crusades, but with the assistance of our agricultural colleges and the agriculture department of Washington we are learning to get the most out of the land. Our children will be better farmers on account of scientific knowledge received at these colleges.

Marketing the Crop.

"It is a big undertaking to market the great crops that are being raised and the much greater ones to be raised in the future. We think we appreciate your part of this undertaking, and we want you to know what we are doing down here. Our function is to provide an exchange where buyers and sellers may come together for the marketing of these crops, and secure the money to finance the crop movement. The board of trade spends much money in gathering up information from the four corners of the earth for the benefit of its members that they may be informed as to the value of your grain. Let me tell you, your commission man is lying awake nights thinking how he may best serve your interests and thereby merit your continued confidence."

ROMANCE OF GRAIN TRADE

Julius H. Barnes Gives Striking Talk on Marketing System.

Lakes Save Ten Cents a Bushel; Duluth to the Sea.

In a speech that was the result of twenty-six years of experience in the grain business at the Head of the Lakes, Julius H. Barnes of this city, held the closest attention and interest of the banquet guests.

In a remarkably vivid manner the speaker viewing the markets of the world, told what might be called the romance of grain transportation, how the Great Lakes saved 10 cents of hauling above that charged by the railways, made an able defense of the exchange and prophesied that there would be a lake to ocean route for ocean vessels within a few years. Mr. Barnes' address in part follows:

Duluth has tried today to show you by practical demonstration the facilities possessed by nature and developed by art for the rapid and economical marketing of the grain crops of the West.

"I wish you could follow with me to see that never-ending stream of grain flow East, and then abroad; follow its distribution into the thousand channels that lead to Europe's welcoming mills and feed Europe's hungry people.

"I wish I had the tongue of eloquence to paint for you the romance of this trade as I have seen it, and to make you feel that which is a fact, that you are an integral part of the great machinery of distribution which provides the standard food of the whole world and its people.

"In the year 301 A. D., almost 1,600 years ago, Diocletian, emperor of Rome, issued a famous price-fixing edict.

"Today twenty centuries of failure of such attempts is still disregarded by the superficial lawmaker and the same methods are proposed year after year for the correction of abuses as have always failed and always will fail against natural laws of trade.

Fixing Prices.

"In this edict Diocletian fixed the maximum prices for over a thousand articles of daily use. The penalty for the violation of this edict was death, and history records that many persons were put to death for violations of this trade edict.

"As nearly as we can tell this law remained in force some three or four years, causing endless loss, trouble and suffering, and finally went the way of all such laws.

"The most that law can do is to give fair play between man and man and to allow natural trade influences to work under natural laws.

"Eggs were fixed at 5 cents per dozen, and they now bring 25 and 30 cents. Cheese was fixed at 7 cents per pound, and it now brings 20 to 25 cents. Beef was fixed at 4 cents per pound, and it now brings nearer 25 cents. Pork, a favorite food with the ancient Romans, was fixed at 9 cents per pound, and now brings over 20 cents.

"Sheep's milk was fixed at 5 cents per quart. Rye was fixed at 45 cents per bushel; barley at 45 cents per bushel; wheat at 75 cents per bushel, and you will notice how striking it is today that the prices of rye, barley and wheat have not materially advanced.

"The wage list fixed for the year 301 A. D. is particularly interesting in comparison today. A baker was to get 21 cents per day and his keep, a bricklayer 21 cents and his keep, a carpenter 21 cents and his keep, a painter 21 cents and his keep, a stonemason 21 cents and his keep, a blacksmith and a wagonmaker 21 cents and his keep, while a farm laborer was allowed 11 cents per day and his keep.

"Compare that with the wage list today, which has increased ten fold, while foodstuffs have remained almost the same, and you will see that the basis for the high cost of living complaint today is not that life cannot be sustained economically, but that life demands so much today which the year 301 had never heard of.

"When one looks back 1,500 years at such a comparison of wages and of food prices; when one finds a great agricultural country like the United States thriving and growing each year more prosperous, more firmly fixed as a financial world power, one is tempted to look for the reason, if there be a reason, how and why the American grain grower has been enabled to prosper, receiving for his product almost the same price level as 1,600 years ago, and buying the product of other labor receiving ten times the wages of that period. Perhaps there is no reason, but that a multitude of causes work towards one great result.

"But there are some conclusions of my own that I want to present to you for your thought and your own conclusions.

"The food supply of Rome came from the rich land of Egypt, replenished in fertility each year by the overflow of the River Nile. The arrival of the grain fleet was a great public event, and its safe passage across the Mediterranean, short though their voyage seems today, was hailed as a public blessing.

"No country can exhaust its resources without thought or care and prosper long.

Low Point in 1896.

"In 1896 the low point of the crop value per acre in this country was reached at $7.94. Since then there has been a steady improvement until in 1913 the high point was reached at $16.31, more than double the crop value per acre achieved in seventeen years.

"The agricultural department tells us that in 1857 the cereal crops of the United States amounted to about three billion bushels and their value to $1,250,000,000. The average cereal crop of the United States now amounts to five billion bushels and its value to about $8,000,000,000.

"The crop production of this country in twenty-six years has almost doubled and its value is two and one-half times as much.

"Have you, who live here in our Middle West and Northwest, ever stopped to think why it was that a cereal country growing grain and grain which must sell in the same consuming markets abroad as the grain grown by pauper labor of Russia, India and Argentine, has been able to grow and prosper? Why it is that farm values have shown such a substantial increase, and been justified therefor, when the surplus of their crop must market in competition with these other cheap labor countries? Isn't it worth a little thought to see why this should be, when they pay a scale of labor far above that of these other countries? When what they buy in manufactured implements must be bought as a product of well-paid and skilled labor, and their grain when delivered in the same markets abroad has no greater value than the grain of these less fortunate competitors of yours?

"This is the conclusion to which I have come.

"I believe the prosperity of our West and Northwest, almost 2,000 miles from the seaboard, is due to two things; one, the great deep water highway of the Great Lakes with its cheap transportation costs, reaching into the very heart of this continent, and the other to the gradually perfected system of grain marketing, a system which exists in no other country in the world.

No Favoritism in Trade.

"There is no favoritism shown in trade. Trade laws follow natural channels and only the strongest survive. It is my honest judgment today that if the great cheap transportation of the Great Lakes did not exist the West, Middle West and Northwest would not be great consuming markets for the manufactures of the East; farm values would be lower by far than they are today, and the main streets of our agricultural towns would not see many automobiles drawn up along the curb.

"I believe this system of water transportation on the Great Lakes, of which Duluth is the far western end, is the biggest asset of the whole United States, the very biggest.

"I will show you what I mean. The rate of freight on grain from Duluth to Buffalo today, a thousand miles, is less than 1 cent per bushel. The rate to haul that grain by rail for that distance is 12 cents and a fraction per bushel. If this harbor of Duluth had no outlet to the East save by railroad the price of grain in Duluth market today would be 10 cents less than it is, because it would take 10 cents per bushel more to deliver it to the same consuming markets.

"In 1845 no boat could sail from Duluth to Buffalo because at the foot of Lake Superior a shallow river with a fall prevented boats from going from one lake to another. In 1845 all the freight for Lake Superior was unloaded on one side of Sault Ste. Marie and drawn by a horse and cart to the other.

"In 1855 the first shallow canal was opened and there have been four constructed since, each larger and deeper than the other, until the rate of 1 cent per bushel for 1,000 miles of grain transportation stands today as the marvel of the world.

"Since 1555 from Lake Superior alone 900,000,000 tons of freight have passed through the canals constructed by the Federal government and at a saving of at least $3 per ton or $2,700,000,000. On the freight traffic of a single great lake. During that time in grain alone 3,500,000,000 bushels have moved, and at a saving of 10 cents per bushel it reflects a gain to the Western and Northwestern farmers on the traffic of a single lake of $350,000,000.

"But, if it is true, and you in the grain trade know that it is true, that the price which a shipping surplus of grain will bring makes the price of the entire crop, then this 10 cents per bushel saving on western grain has been reflected in the returns to the grower on every bushel of grain affected by the Great Lakes.

A Comparison.

"Just think of it! the Saskatchewan Provincial commission, investigating the condition of the grain raisers of Saskatchewan last year, among other conclusions, expressed this; that it cost the farmers an average of 5 cents per bushel to haul their grain from the farm to the nearest railroad station, an average haul of six to eight miles; 5 cents per bushel to haul grain six or eight miles, and we have at times of low freight shipped it from Duluth to Liverpool, 4,000 miles, for 5 cents per bushel.

"Since the first of last May our firm alone has chartered thirty-seven tramp steamers to load at Montreal. We have not been able to load a single tramp steamer through Philadelphia or New York, Boston or Baltimore, because the water route to Montreal delivers grain there so much cheaper than the water route to Buffalo and the rail from Buffalo to New York.

"Two years from now the Erie canal between Buffalo and New York will equalize this parity once more, and the Northwestern grain grower will feel, perhaps, the economy of transportation, too, in his relative price.

"I may be a dreamer, but when I see the commercial effect of such transportation savings, I believe the business thought of the United States is big enough to see the added benefit of a still greater project, and that is the deep waterway from the lakes to the ocean.

"There exists today a water channel of fourteen feet in depth between Duluth and Montreal, too shallow for the ocean carrier to reach the upper lakes. Three years from now around the principal obstruction, the Niagara Falls, there will be completed by the Canadian government the new Welland, with a depth of twenty-five feet. There then remains a stretch of forty-five miles of St. Lawrence river navigation to be deepened from fourteen feet to ocean depth.

Marketing System.

"But I said there was another cause in my judgment, which has contributed to the prosperity of the grain grower of the West. That was the marketing system. And this is what I mean. Dry goods, groceries, hardware and drugs, and the thousand other commodities distributed in this country pay a jobbing profit alone of 20 to 50 per cent. The grain grower pays his commission and a single 1 per cent. The exporter would be glad to take it from the primary market in the West and deliver it abroad for a guaranteed profit of 1 per cent, 2 per cent for the middleman's profit between the farmer and the consuming mill.

"How can business be safely done, business which runs into millions and millions of dollars per year, on such a margin with all its attendant risk and responsibility?

"It is done so because out of the experience of years, based on the protection of our grain exchange system, millers, merchants, insurance men and bankers who furnish the funds to finance the movement, have all learned the safety of the grain movement; have all learned that an immense volume of trade can be safely done on a narrow margin.

"Only in America can the grain raisers find in the daily paper the exact value of their products. Only in America can he by telephone in a few minutes transact the sale of all or part of his year's production at a price which he knows is equal to that obtained by any other grower.

"The three main criticisms leveled against the grain exchange are, first, that the exchange before admitting a member will scrutinize his record and that it demands that that record show the simple marks of honesty and fair dealing, and that the applicant must possess such modest means as will be a surety that his engagements and his contracts will be fulfilled, and that grain shipped to him in trust will be faithfully accounted for.

"Second, the claim is made that there is no excuse for daily and hourly fluctuation in the prices, that the fact that there is such fluctuation must prove that the exchanges manipulate the prices solely for the purpose of collecting profits from such fluctuations.

"And, third, that because the total recorded trading on an exchange far exceeds the volume of actual grain receipts that the surplus of such trading is purely fictitious and, therefore, classed as undiluted gambling.

"As to this first point, the scrutiny of the record of a man who solicits shipments in trust to him of a commodity so easily marketed that it practically is the equivalent of actual money has been developed by the exchanges themselves at their own desire to protect the grower, the miller and the dealer.

"Our energy can be solely directed to perfecting our transportation system, to seeking for new and enlarged markets for northwestern grain and the security of our contracts afforded by the grain exchange and its membership plays some important part in allowing us to market grain from grower to foreign miller at so small a percentage of profit.

"As to the second point, the daily fluctuation, you must remember that wheat is a world's great food; that the annual crop of the world ordinarily ranges to 4,000,000,000 bushels, that wheat, as no other crop, is raised largely in one continent and consumed largely in another, that the distribution is so perfect that there is scarcely ever a burdensome surplus of one crop carried into that of the next. Yet a world's crop which amounted to 3,300,000,000 bushels in 1908 and to 4,100,000,000 bushels in 1913, must enlarge its consumption and must do that by making the price so attractive that enlarged uses are found for wheat.

A World Market.

"In years of small production the price fluctuation will be upward until substitutes are found in some direction so that the crop consumption will be adjusted to the crop supply. Every day in the year has its influence in fixing the amount of that year's supply. Every day in the year somewhere on this globe wheat is being seeded. Every day somewhere it is maturing. Every day somewhere it is being harvested and as long as nature itself is so fickle in its granting of weather conditions and as long as grain is of such a nature that the year to year prospect is so small to such weather and growing conditions, then there must always be an attempt to forecast the year's supply and an anxiety lest it be in some measure depleted.

"The anxiety of a drouth tonight, relieved by showers over night followed by renewed apprehension tomorrow when those showers are learned to be insufficient, will always and should always be reflected in the daily fluctuation that records human judgment.

"To you who have no interest you expect me to defend the grain marketing system. As a matter of profit I care not. I believe with twenty years' experience, with twenty years' knowledge of transportation methods, that the same energy, ambition and application could produce me larger money returns under such a grain marketing system as Russia has today.

"I believe if the grain exchanges were wiped out of existence tomorrow and no protection in the way of hedges afforded the grain buyer and the miller of this country, that I would handle fewer million bushels in the year, but I would have more net dollars in the treasury of my company at the close of it.

Logical Market.

"I feel that what I have said tonight has failed of its entire purpose if I have not impressed on you that here at Duluth, where rail and water meet, here at Duluth, the farthest western end of nature's great water highway, is the logical point for a natural grain market.

"Duluth, situated in the cheap route of grain movement, has its possibilities measured and bound only by the productiveness of this western country. What that productiveness may sometime reach no one would dare to state. A country which has increased its cereal crops from three billion bushels to five million bushels in twenty-seven years forms a sound basis for great optimism.

"Duluth has, I believe, served you well in the past, but it has a future yet to develop which will excell any service it has been able to render in the past."

HOW BOARD IS ORGANIZED

Secretary Macdonald Explains Value of Duluth Market to Shippers.

Entire Income Is From Members' Dues and Office Rentals.

One of the most interesting talks of the evening was that given by Charles F. Macdonald, secretary of the Duluth Board of Trade.

Mr. Macdonald, who is the active executive officer of the organization, went into details regarding it, and showed its value in the marketing of grain.

He spoke as follows:

Mr. Macdonald spoke as follows:

"The United States is the greatest grain producing nation of the world, its annual yield averaging from five to six billions of bushels. More than one billion bushels pass through the ten or twelve primary markets of the country and are there converted into money which is returned to the producers of the grain. Three markets handle nearly 700,000,000 bushels of this. Our Northwestern market have handled 200,000,000 bushels in the four months following harvest. On the Duluth Board of Trade in a year of normal crops there is sold in three months an average of 1,000,000 bushels each day. In a single day 10,000,000 bushels of grain have been sold in the primary markets of the country, seven millions in three markets, and all of that volume of grain was absorbed with only slight fluctuations in prices.

"The magnitude of these marketings almost staggers the imagination and yet this stream of commerce flows so smoothly and with so little resistence that the general public is hardly conscious of its existence. Enormous volumes of money are employed in its movement and yet, timid as we all know capital is, it is always available for the handling of grain. You can get money for the grain business with comparative ease when almost every other line of commerce finds its lines greatly curtailed if not entirely cut off.

Merchants' Borrowings.

"A great grain merchant was once asked by an Eastern banker what his maximum borrowings were in the midst of the big grain movement.

"'I cannot say,' was the reply. 'It may be $3,000,000 or it may be $10,000,000.'

"The banker was staggered. 'Why those sums are enormous and yet you seem to attach no importance to them. What do your present loans amount to?'

"The grain man replied that that was a matter of detail that he did not give a great deal of attention to, leaving it to others in his organization. 'But what is the amount of the assets of your bank,' he asked.

"'About $5,000,000,' replied the banker.

"'How long would it take your bank to liquidate?' asked the grain man.

"'Two or three years,' was the response.

"'Well, I can liquidate in forty-eight hours,' the grain man told him.

"His borrowings were offset by the actual grain for which there is always a definite market value, and which he could almost instantly convert into cash. This is why the millions that grain men borrow are quickly and easily obtainable. That is why grain collateral is prized above all others by bankers.

"Now, what is it that enables your grain to be marketed in such volume with so little disturbance of price and that enables the men handling it to procure so readily the great sums of money required for its movement; that makes it possible for the grain merchant to liquidate in forty-eight hours where other lines of business requires months and years?

Marketing System.

"It is the marketing system that has been developed and brought to its present high state of perfection by the American grain exchanges. It is the grain exchanges that have by their system of marketing preserved the grain trade from domination by any trust or monopoly and have led the thinking producers to wish that some similar system might be developed for the marketing of their products which cannot come upon the exchanges. No commodity that is dealt in upon the grain exchanges where trading is free and unrestricted is or ever will be in the grip of a monopoly or trust.

"A government agent in reporting recently the result of his investigation of the wheat and flour trade found one of the most noticeable characteristics of the trade to be the intense competition evident in the business and the absence of combination which, he said, had not yet entered this field, the producers and distributors being independent operators, and all jealous of their independence.

"Now, what is this institution that has developed this finest system of marketing that the world has ever known and kept out the combination and the trust? What is the grain exchange? It is simply a market place where buyers and sellers meet and deal in commodities. Most of your towns and villages have the same thing on a smaller scale. When you have a load of hay or wood to sell and you drive with it to town you do not go from house to house seeking a purchaser; you go to the market place, and to that place come the buyers. Who establishes that market place? The town or village, and it has the right to regulate it, to see that order is preserved. If it chooses it can limit the hours during which the market place shall be used; it chooses at any time it can change its location. But it can dictate to no man the price at which he shall sell or to another what he shall pay.

The Town Market.

"The grain exchange stands to the traders in grain in exactly the same relation as the town or village to the market there. It has established a market place where buyers and sellers trade with great convenience and with advantage to themselves and the clients they represent.

"It determines the hours when trading shall be conducted on the exchange and establishes regulations that bring uniformity in methods, that insure the observance of all agreements and that decree that all transactions must be in accordance with the highest standards of commercial honor. It provides the traders with the information they require to trade intelligently. The price of grain at any moment is always posted on the blackboard so that they have not the necessity that you have when you go to your hay and wood market of finding out for yourself the prevailing prices; they are always before them.

"The grain exchange has no more voice in the price of commodities dealt in by its members than has your town or village in the price of hay or wood. It never buys or sells a bushel of grain, has no control over the prices paid by the traders on its floor, and can say to no man how much business or how little business he shall do. It is an absolutely open and free market. The exchange does say to its members that they must do business for all at a uniform charge for their services; that the man having one car to sell shall pay no higher charge per car than the man having 100 cars.

"But the responsibility that rests upon the grain exchange is much greater than that upon the village or town. There, each dealer is present in person, selling his own property; on the grain exchange, because of the enormity of the business and the wide territory from which the grain is drawn that is an impossibility. The owners of the property must entrust it to agents for sale and delivery. In the busy season single commission merchants will have consigned to them daily property valued at thousands of dollars and the public welfare demands that that property be guarded with the most utmost care, and its owner provided with the greatest possible security for the return to him of its value. The wealth of the nation will never be measured by the products of its soil and that its people who live upon the fruits of the soil shall receive the value of what they produce and enjoy prosperity is a matter of vital concern.

Must Show Responsibility.

"Recognizing this responsibility, the grain exchange admits no man to handle your property unless he can show that he is entitled by financial ability and by his record for integrity and commercial honor to be entrusted with it. No man with those requisites has ever been barred from membership. That the exchange shall always hold its standard of membership high is vital to you. It is your protection. Do you not ship grain to exchange members for sale with the same feeling of safety that you deposit your money in the bank? The grain exchange with its careful scrutiny of its membership and its requirements of commercial conduct have brought to the business this high degree of confidence. I ask you, is this not worth while?

Board's Income.

"The grain exchange is often referred to as a wealthy institution having unlimited funds at its command. Now, I will tell you just what the income of the Duluth Board of Trade is. It annually assesses to 200 members $60 apiece. The $12,000 raised in this way goes to the maintenance of the exchange floor, the purchase of quotation service from other markets and market information that must be had, the rental of telephones for the use of members and the employment of clerks, etc. In order that the business may be concentrated and thereby transacted by a maximum of convenience and efficiency, the Board of Trade has erected an office building in which it rents offices. The rentals are at an ordinary rate that obtains in the city of Duluth and these rentals, if not paid to the Board of Trade would go to other building owners. The assessments made each year are, in fact, not sufficient for the association purposes and the building earnings have to be drawn upon for the deficiency. This constitutes the entire income of the Duluth Board of Trade. It has been organized for nearly thirty-five years but has never paid a dividend, and I do not believe any member expects that it ever will, but on the contrary will be very much surprised if his annual assessment ever ceases.

"In closing I wish to say a word to you as secretary of the Duluth exchange. The market is your market; it is your grain that is sold there and that makes its business. It is your right to know what is done upon the exchange and we recognize that right. The government of the exchange is in the hands of various members, and I want to say that after more than seven years of service as secretary, I can testify that every man who has to do with its affairs gives to its service his best ability and judgment cheerfully and unselfishly. Each of these members has his own business and the grain business is an absorbing one, its demands upon the time and energy of those engaged in it being insistent. For that reason, the secretary is peculiarly the representative of the exchange as an organization. Its welfare and its reputation are perhaps more particularly before him, and I wish to say to you that the secretary's office is always open to you for any information it can give, and invite you to come to it. The rules of the board of trade are framed as much for the protection of those who deal through members as for members themselves, and the man who believes that they are administered or interpreted in the interest of a member as against a non-member in case of controversy knows nothing of the spirit that has always actuated those entrusted with the government of the exchange."

House Rules Committee Changes Date of Its Meeting.

Washington, July 1.—Discouraged, but undaunted, by President Wilson's declination to use his influence for congressional action on a constitutional amendment for woman suffrage, leaders of the votes for women fight turned their heavy artillery in the direction of the house rules committee today, only to find that a meeting called to vote on the Mondell-Bristow amendment had been postponed until Aug. 1.

According to plans, the committee was to meet and vote on a special rule providing time for debate on the amendment in the house at this session of congress. When the suffragists reached the capitol they were surprised to find the committee room empty and that the meeting had been postponed. Fearing a coup by their enemies, the suffragists appointed sentinels to watch the committee room, and dispatched others to appeal to individual members to have a meeting.

SWEDEN IS PROGRESSING

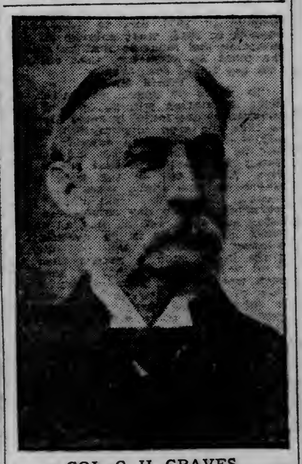

Col. C. H. Graves Says Industrial Development Has Been Substantial.

Working Men Do Not Have Comforts of American Laborers.

After a nine years' absence, broken by but one visit to the United States, Col. C. H. Graves, former minister to Sweden, has returned to make his home in Duluth.

"One grows extremely tired of constant formality," said Col. Graves today. "It is good to be back home. I have not as yet seen any country as good and as comfortable as the United States. I think that if everyone left this land for even a short time, he or she would return with a deeper sense of appreciation of our land and the various institutions of this country. In the years that have elapsed since I was here last, Duluth has changed mightily and the changes have made a wonderful improvement in the city."

During his service as minister to Sweden, Col. Graves had ample opportunity to observe the industrial, commercial and social conditions of the land that is bound closely to the United States by the fact that thousands of the Swedish people have become citizens of this nation. "Sweden," said Col. Graves, in reply to a question as to its general progress and the nature of its industries, "is enjoying a remarkable progress. In the past one of the gravest handicaps against the commercial development and rapid progress of that country, was the lack of coal. You know that all the coal used in Sweden is imported. This problem is being solved more or less successfully by the utilization of the water falls and all water power in the manufacture of electric power.

Steel Industry.

"I would say that the manufacture of steel and the iron industry are the leading industries of Sweden. While these industries are not conducted upon the gigantic plane of this country, considerable progress is being made in the development. The Swedes are the finest steel workers in the world. The workmen are experts of the highest caliber and the quality of their manufactured output is of the highest."

It was interesting to hear from Col. Graves that the development of the commercial industries of Sweden is having a direct and important bearing upon the immigration question. The colonel declared that the immigration from Sweden to the United States has fallen off immensely, due to the creating of a greater demand for workmen and the increasing of the wage scale through the expansion of the industrial side of the nation.

In speaking of the economic situation in Sweden, Col. Graves touched upon the question of the high cost of living as it is viewed in that land.

"The Swedish working man receives about two-thirds of the wage scale of the American working man," said Col. Graves. "I should say that it costs him just as much to live. The Swedish laborer overcomes the problem of living by a more simple mode of existence than that of the American laborer.

Plainer Living.

"I should say that the Swedish laborer lives upon plainer food and enjoys fewer of the advantages of the American laborer. The wage scale in Sweden has increased during the last few years, and it is directly due to this increase that today the United States is receiving less immigration from that country.

"There is some Socialism in Sweden. Those dissatisfied with economic conditions existing in the city of Stockholm in regard to the building code. It seems that it is necessary to secure the approval of the government before building. The Swedish government has expressed its wish that the greater part of the population of Stockholm reside in apartment houses, so as a result the people of a city of 350,000 people are chiefly housed in apartment houses of uniform appearance and construction.

As a matter of fact, according to the statement of Col. Graves, there are very few residences of a private nature in the city. As a result Stockholm is solidified, unified and is built in a compact area.

Public Ownership.

Sweden has experimented successfully with the government ownership plan. The government owns the railways, or part of them, and the telegraph system and one telephone line. In addition to this Col. Graves declared that the government is acquiring control of the water power sites.

"In my opinion," continued Col. Graves, "Sweden is taking its place as one of the real progressive countries of the world. The development of the mines of the northern section of the country, coincident with the development of the water power, has vastly and rapidly increased the industrial activities. Sweden is a conservative land, and its progress has been slow, but the foundation is solid. There is very little illiteracy in Sweden. With the solid people to make its progress sure and steady, and with the mines and timber and manufacturing industries combining, Sweden will in the future become one of the industrial factors of the world.

"In my opinion Sweden will be one of the last nations of the world to become a republic. The people are very well satisfied with King Gustav. Conservatism is the hall mark of that country, and the Swedes appear to be eminently satisfied with the conduct of the affairs of state."

During his stay in Sweden Col. Graves constantly met many people who had but recently been in Duluth and Northern Minnesota. In this way he kept in very close and active touch with conditions here. The colonel declared that conditions were made extremely pleasant for Mrs. Graves and himself and that he would leave many good friends in the country where he has served for so many years.

STEAMER W. H. MACK IN CANUCK MERGER

R. M. Wolvin Buys American Steamer for Big Canadian Fleet.

R. M. Wolvin of Winnipeg, and a partner in the Duluth Shipping company, has just purchased the steamer W. H. Mack of the Jenkins Steamship company, which will be added to the fleet of the new Canadian steamship merger, which the Norcross lines, with which Mr. Wolvin is identified, joined. The Mack is a modern steel steamer, 354 feet over all, forty-eight beam, and her gross tonnage is 3,781. She was built in 1903.

This is only one of several deals that have gone through recently or are pending in which Canadian interests are taking over American boats. James Playfair, who has formed a counter trust, so to speak, in Canadian lines, following the big Canadian merger, throwing Mr. Playfair out of the management of the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation company, is negotiating for several steamers, it is understood, and has already purchase four from this side of the boundary.

GREAT COAL TOWER.

Apparatus Costing $100,000 Being Built at Soo Docks

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 1.—One of the largest coal towers on the Great Lakes, and the largest in that vicinity, is being erected by the George Kemp Coal company on its dock here. The structure will represent an expenditure of $100,000. The tower will have a capacity of 10,000 tons, which is large enough to load almost any boat on the lakes. It will stand 100 feet high, a rectangular structure with a base of 31 by 51 feet. The foundation is to be concrete, sunk to a great depth so that it will be solid and cannot be weakened by the water. The rest of the tower will be of wood and steel, the timbers used being monster pieces. These chutes will project from the waterfront side to convey the coal from the tower into the boats. These chutes will be of such great capacity that they will be able to empty the tower in a few hours. Coal will be conveyed from the bottom of the tower to the pockets in the top by means of an electrically operated endless bucket conveyor. There will be three pockets.

REPAIRING DAMAGES FROM SATURDAY'S GALE

The steamer Matasfa and the barge Hartnell, both of which were damaged in Saturday's gale, are in the dry dock at Howard's pocket, and the steamer H. H. Brown, injured in an attempt to tow in the Hartnell during the same blow, will go to the shipyard some time today. She has been at the Northwestern coal dock at the foot of Fifth avenue for several days, unloading her cargo.

It has been found that the damage to the Hartnell is more extensive than was at first supposed. There will have to be twelve plates replaced in her bow, where the Brown hit her, at least five plates will have to be replaced in her bottom and a new stem will be necessary. The Matasfa will need a new rudder, shoe and stern tube. Some frames and plates will have to be fixed up.

The America, after having some damages fixed up, left the shipyards last night.

Miss Catherine Sherwood	2,395

The "Shrine lady" contest will end at 9 o'clock Saturday evening at the carnival ground, Thirtieth avenue west and Third street. The winner will receive a $200 diamond ring as a gift from the Shriners, while a gold watch and a mesh bag will go to her nearest competitors.

RINES FORBIDDEN TO VIEW VOTE

County Auditor Says That Search During Recount Is Against Law.

Henry Rines, defeated candidate for the Republican nomination for state auditor at the June primaries, was not permitted to examine the vote on his race with J. A. O. Preus while the recount in the Jones-Randall contest was being made at the county auditor's office yesterday afternoon.

He was permitted to do so at the city hall while inspectors were going over the various city precincts, but when he attempted to continue the examination at the courthouse County Auditor Halden stepped in and refused to allow him to examine the ballots or returns from the towns outside of the city.

Mr. Halden's contention was that the court's order permitted a recount only as to the vote on the Jones-Randall contest.

CIRCUS ADVANCE AGENT IS HERE

Harry Earl Was Deskmate of George Ade on Old Chicago Record.

Harry Earl is in Duluth today.

To the average citizen the name of "Harry Earl" doesn't carry any significance, but almost anybody who has ever worked for a circus or a newspaper in the United States knows Harry Earl. He is not known to the general public because he has been engaged in seeking publicity for the Ringling Brothers rather than himself, but his wide acquaintance among newspaper workers and circus people is due to his personality.

Mr. Earl is the soft-spoken, modest, and self-effacing press agent of the "World's Greatest Shows." He is the very antithesis of what a circus press agent is expected to be. He looks like the capable, hard working cashier of a small bank, and he can probably count more friends between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts than any advance man in the "game."

Mr. Earl graduated from newspaper work into the circus business. He was a deskmate of George Ade on the old Chicago Record.

"George still wears the same size hat he used to," said Mr. Earl. "He is one of the finest fellows in the world, and likes nothing better than to get a front seat at the circus and munch peanuts."

ROOSEVELT FLAYS HIS POLITICAL RIVALS IN SPEECH AT PITTSBURG

People Pack Hall to Hear Him Rail at the Bosses.

He Makes Uncompromising Bull Moose Campaign Speech.

Colonel Shows Less Vigor Than on Tour Two Years Ago.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 1.—Former President Roosevelt last night made his first speech here in the 1914 campaign. He spent five hours in Pittsburg, and was welcomed enthusiastically. In his address before the Pennsylvania Progressive league, he criticized the policies of the Wilson administration, attacked Senator Boies Penrose and appealed for support of the Progressive ticket.

It was apparent as soon as Col. Roosevelt began to speak that he did not possess his former strength and vigor. There was a noticeable change in his manner as compared with that of two years ago.

He spoke with comparative ease after the first few sentences, but there was a huskiness in his voice which showed that his throat still was troubling him. Persons in the rear of the building at times found it difficult to hear him. His gestures were less rapid and vigorous than of old, and as he neared the end of his speech he plainly was weary.

Coined New Phrase.

Col. Roosevelt coined a new phrase in last night's speech when he spoke of "government by convulsion." By this, he said, he meant the passing back and forth of power between the Republican and Democratic parties, which he said would happen unless the people entrusted the power to the Progressive party.

The former president's speech was regarded by Progressive leaders here as an indication of the line of attack which the party would follow in this year's campaign. It was an uncompromising speech. Before he made it the report had gone out that he would hold out the olive branch to the Republican party, but there was no hint of such a thing in his remarks. He appealed to individual Republicans to support the Progressive ticket, but suggested no dealings with the Republican party as an organization. He denounced the Republican leaders, who he said had misrepresented the people.

Attacked Penrose.

He attacked Senator Penrose unsparingly.

"Let him go in sack cloth and ashes," he said, "because it was owing to him and his associates that the Democratic party now has power to do wrong. No more scandalous appeal could be made than to return him to power to right the wrongs for which he is primarily responsible."

The Wilson administration's policies, Col. Roosevelt said, were responsible for backward business and unemployment.

Judging from appearances it might have been thought that the campaign was in full swing, and that it was October instead of June. On the all-day ride from New York Col. Roosevelt was greeted by crowds of varying size at the stations. On his arrival here, he was greeted by several thousand persons who blocked the streets near the station and cheered him. The colonel made a brief speech there and hurried on to Exhibition hall, where he delivered his principal address.

Hall Was Packed.

All of the 4,000 seats in the hall were packed, and every foot of standing room space which the police did not hold clear was crowded. On the way to the hall, half a mile through the heart of the city, the streets were roped off to keep back the crowds.

The administration's tariff laws, Col. Roosevelt hailed as a colossal failure, particularly hard upon the farmer; its anti-trust program he branded as an economic absurdity. Its foreign policy he styled as "wretched," but upon this he did not elaborate. The Democratic tariff, he insisted, had brought distress upon the nation, had not lowered the cost of living and had chiefly benefited foreign rivals of American business. The solution rested, he argued, in support of the Progressive movement, and the enactment of laws providing for tariff revision by a non-partisan commission.

Of the "bosses," Mr. Roosevelt said what he has heretofore—that they thwarted the rank and file of the Republican party by the nomination of Taft at Chicago and in so doing, "deliberately put the Democratic organization and Mr. Wilson into power."

In conclusion, the colonel sketched the Progressive idea of needed anti-trust regulation by properly empowered commissions, contrasting such proposals with legislation now pending at Washington, which he found woefully inadequate. Such a program alone, he contended, proved the inadequacy of the Democratic party. "It is and always will be," he said, "the State's Rights party, the 'party-afraid-of-power.'"

Warn Against "Bosses."

Yet the colonel warned those dissatisfied with the administration not through their resentment to throw their support to the leaders he had attacked. To do so, he said, would only ensure a continuation of "government by convulsion, of a governmental see-saw between two set of policies."

He spoke a word concerning those whom the Progressives would welcome to the party. "We will gladly work," he said, "with any men who will themselves, with open sincerity work for those (Progressive) principles, provided that they are men of such character as to justify confidence in their good faith. In this spirit we ask all good citizens to co-operate with us when, as here in Pennsylvania, we hold aloft the flag of good citizenship, and fight to translate these sound and lofty principles into governmental practice."

Col. Roosevelt came here to speak in support of the candidacy of Dean Lewis for governor and of Gifford Pinchot for United States senator. Their qualifications he touched upon at the opening of his speech. Thereafter he confined himself to the national issue outlined.

"The present national administration," he said, "is pursuing a course that prevents the existence of prosperity, and that does not offer a single serious or intelligible plan for passing prosperity round, should prosperity in spite of the administration's efforts, at some future time return to our people.

"This is true both as regards the trust question and the tariff question. As regards both the only wise course to follow is that set forth in the national Progressive platform. The nation should deal with both by continuing executive action through administrative commissions of ample power. One commission should shape our tariff policies so as, with thorough knowledge disinterestedly acquired to give proper encouragement to our merchants while also giving proper protection to our wake-workers, our farmers and our business men. The other commission should exercise strict supervision and control over big business. We should treat it with entire justice, drawing the line not on size, but on misconduct. We should encourage the big business man who does well and regards his great abilities as a trust to be exercised as much in the interest of the public as in his own interests. But we should check and punish him effectually and promptly when he exercises those abilities to the detriment either of the smaller business man with whom he competes or the wage-workers who should share with him the benefits of his and their common efforts or of the general public whom he serves.

Tariff and Cost of Living.

"As regards the tariff, I wish especially to call your attention to the promises made by President Wilson and his supporters two years ago. They asserted that their method of tariff reduction would reduce the cost of living and would thus solve the trust question because, as they said, the trusts were the creatures of the tariff. We then answered that their promises were empty words, that no such results as they stated could or would follow from the course they advocated and that only by the method we proposed could either the trust or the tariff question be dealt with so as to abate the existing evils and at the same time increase the general well-being. Two short years have proved us to be right. Their promises have not been kept. Their performance has brought distress upon the nation. The cost of living has not been reduced. But the ability of the average man to earn a living has been greatly reduced. Not the slightest progress has been made toward solving the trust question. But the business community has been marassed and harried to no purpose; and the prosperity of the business man has been checked, exactly as the prosperity of the farmer and the wage-worker has been checked. As for the farmer, the present tariff, the administration's tariff, was so framed as to result in the sacrifice of his interests. He had no spokesman, no friend in high quarters and his welfare was contemptuously sacrificed. At every point where his interest was concerned, he was made to suffer. As for the wage-worker, the result of the tariff was that he suffered even more than his employer, for he was thrown out of employment and lost the means to earn his livelihood.

"As for the employer, sometimes he has been able to struggle on with the loss of profits, sometimes he has had to close his shop. In businesses in in which any of the big trusts were concerned, it was the small competitors of the trusts who were injured and in many cases ruined. Tariff reduction as put into practice by the present administration has chiefly benefited foreign rivals and competitors. It has done grave injury to the business community and the farming community and has caused suffering to the wage-workers and the whole policy of the administration has been one to cause our people in business, our people on the farms, our people with dinner pails, to look toward the future with grave concern and apprehension.

Attacks Penrose.

"It is, of course, essential to rebuke those leaders who by their action helped to put the present administration in power, and, moreover, it is of vital consequence to the future well-being of our people to drive from public life all men whose political activities in state and nation alike have been such as those of Senator Penrose. This is not only a political but a moral issue. I mention the name of Senator Penrose merely because he typifies a class. I am not concerned with him as an individual; I am concerned with him as a type. Mr. Penrose stands in Pennsylvania as Mr. Barnes stands in New York. When we fight these men and their activities, we are fighting the battle of all decent men, and in particular we are fighting the battle of the honest Republican rank and file, whom these men have misrepresented and betrayed.

"It is well to keep in mind that we now have Mr. Wilson's administration, that we now suffer from a wretched foreign policy and from home policies in national affairs which have seriously impaired the well-being of our people, primarily because of the action of Senator Penrose in associating with men of the same type like Mr. Barnes. Messrs. Penrose, Barnes and their associates at Chicago, taking advantage of the fact that national nominating conventions are not protected by law, followed a course of conduct morally every whit as bad as that which at elections result in wrongdoers of humbler rank being put in stripes. They stole from the rank and file of the Republican party the right to govern themselves; to nominate their own candidates and promulgate their own platform. They took this action with the deliberate purpose of electing a Democratic president, because they infinitely preferred the triumph of their nominal party foes to seeing the control of their own organization wrested from their hands by the rank and file of their own party. They are foes of decent citizenship. Their political lives depend upon their keeping politics in such condition that decent men cannot succeed them and that the ordinary citizen cannot get control of their own government.

"Rather than see this control broken, Messrs. Penrose, Barnes and their associates deliberately put the Democratic organization and Mr. Wilson into power at Washington.

"Of course, our contest must always be primarily one for principles. It must always be a contest to enact into law and reduce to the domain of executive action those principles. But it is impossible to do this effectively until we drive from political leadership the boss whose very existence in politics is the negation of these principles. There is no use in endeavoring to put into effect our platform for social and industrial justice if the legislative and executive officers of government are mere sub-officers of a boss, whether this boss be Mr. Penrose, Mr. Barnes or Mr. Murphy.

Crooked Politics and Crooked Wealth.

"Much of our effort is to secure laws protecting the labor of women and prohibiting the labor of children in mines and factories, providing for workmen's compensation and the like. • • • This effort is bound to come to naught if, in its actual working, the forces of government are administered by men whose whole theory of action is based on the alliance of crooked politics with crooked wealth.

"Much of our effort is to help the men who live on farms. • • • This effort will fail if the government of state and nation is controlled by men who treat with derision the very idea of seriously studying the conditions in the open country that need remedying.

"Much of our effort is to help industry. We propose to make the conditions such that honest men can earn a fair living for themselves and their families without the haunting fear of being prosecuted for violations of law which they did not and could not know were such and which were not violations of sound public policy.

"Much of our effort is to help men and women workers. Just as we believe in co-operation among the farmers and the business men so we believe in co-operation among the wage workers. And we further believe that the wage workers and the business men must co-operate together and work closer together for their mutual advantage. It has been the cut-throat competition of the past—the competition that Mr. Wilson is determined to preserve by law—which has not only hurt business and prevented the business man from working most effectively for the common good, but which has forced the working man to work for ruinously small wages. We propose to substitute the era of co-operation for the era of competition among the business men and farmers and wage workers; and as a necessary corrollary we believe that the government must in thorough going fashion supervise and regulate this movement toward co-operation.

"But this effort will come to naught if honest business men support sinister politicians whose interested endeavor is chiefly to help the crooked business man whose success is achieved by swindling his fellows. In their resentment at the national administration because of its part in bringing them to sore need, many business men and working men and farmers threaten to vote even for a politicians as Mr. Penrose in hope of securing relief. Those who do will invite a worse disaster than that from which they now suffer. It was the politicians like Mr. Penrose who are responsible for the existence of the present national administration. To put them in power would merely ensure in a short time another violent swing of the pendulum against them and a continuation of government by convulsion, of a governmental see-saw between two sets of policies, both inimical to the general welfare and two sets of politicians, neither of them responsive to the public needs."

To meet such a situation, Col. Roosevelt argued that the voters of Pennsylvania should repudiate Penrose and his nominees and followers and further should oppose the supporters of the present administration. Concluding his indictment of the "bosses," he outlined what he styled the "specific performances" of the Progressive party in the matter of state and national legislation, and again took up the tariff question.

For Tariff Commission.

"We Progressives advocate the immediate creation of a non-partizan commission," he said, "with power to propose revision of the tariff rates, schedule by schedule, treating each case on an intelligent consideration of its merits, divorced from favoritism and the fostering of special interests. The program would not be attended by the reckless haste, the improper influences, the sectional party politics which characterize our present methods of tariff legislation by general law; and remember that exactly the same methods were pursued in making the present tariff law, as in making the Payne-Aldrich law which it superseded. Our proposed methods would never disorganize business by a complete change in all the tariff schedules at one time. This is the progressive tariff program, and I ask all honest believers in a protective tariff, and especially all working men, to consider the fact that this is the only program offering hope of permanent well-being; whereas the alternative program is one of violent oscillation between such tariffs as the Payne-Aldrich bill made by Senator Penrose and his associates and the present tariff bill, made by President Wilson and his followers, such as the gentleman now running for the senate in Pennsylvania on the Democratic ticket.

"Of the Progressive anti-trust program," he said: "We believe in co-operation among the business men, among farmers and among wage-workers. • • • It is evident that the problem of all anti-trust legislation is effectively to determine on the one hand what trade practices are unfair, and on the other to prevent the exclusive control of any factor essential to production by any person or corporation or group operated as a unit. It is primarily an administrative problem. To meet it, we must have adequate administrative machinery.

"The Progressives therefore advocate the creation of a strong interstate trade commission and would give such commission, primarily, three powers:

"First, the power of investigation. The commission should be able to ascertain on complaint or on its own motion whether a monopoly in fact exists, and if it does exist, the basis of its monopolistic power.

"Second, the power directly to prohibit all unfair trade practices within its jurisdiction. This power would enable the commission to stop all monopolies based on unfair and oppressive trade practices. Whatever monopoly is based on such practices, what is needed is not the right to recommend that suits be brought by the attorney general, or by aneone else. What is needed is the direct power in the commission itself to stop the wrong.

"Third, the power to stop the exclusive control of a factor necessary to production by an order adapted to the circumstances of the peculiar case. The order may involve changes in organization, in management or in the conduct of the business. Where exclusive possession of a natural resource is the basis of the monopoly, it may be necessary to subject its possession to the obligation of public service, that is, the obligation to sell to others a reasonable amount at reasonable rates.

"Our constructive program of anti-trust legislation has no quarrel with large business organizations as such. On the contrary, we recognize that business efficiency in production can be attained only through business organization. But we demand that the government be clothed with all the necessary power to crush monopoly with its attendant evils.

"Contrasted with this program we have the Democratic anti-trust program now under discussion in the senate of the United States. That program proves the inadequacy of the Democratic party for the present and the future of the nation. It is, and always will be, to state's rights party, the party opposed to strong Federal action, the 'party-afraid-of-power.'

Made Futile by Fear.

"We cannot control our great national business without power, national power. But the Democrats dare not use power themselves, nor let any one else have it. Their trust program, as it stands today, is made futile by this fear. Their official administration bills propose a weak Federal trade commission, with no power except to investigate and report. They fear to give the government the strength to cope with corporate abuses. They fear to give the commission power to prevent unfair trade practices. Indeed, their measures would hardly give the commission power really to investigate, much less to destroy by proper administrative order, monopolies based on the exclusive possession of a factor essential to production. To the powers of investigation and recommendation which the bill proposes to give to the commission, so far as they go, we have no objection. It is the inadequacy of the commission's power to destroy monopoly which we condemn. Progressive congressmen voted for the bill, not because it represents an adequate attempt to deal with a great problem, but in the hope that a day will arrive when the so-called trade commission will be given sufficient power to make it a real trade commission, such as our national platform promises, and such as the bills as we have introduced would provide.

"The house of representatives has also passed a bill supplemental to the Sherman anti-trust act. Many of the provisions of this bill deserve commendation, especially those which prohibit certain forms of unfair trade competition which the courts have not as yet clearly condemned, but which upright business men everywhere recognize as wrong and tending to monopoly. Similar provisions will be found in the Progressive anti-trust bills.

"But the Clayton bill goes hopelessly wrong in that it forbids specifically any combination or agreement in interstate commerce between any two or more corporations, firms or even individuals, which in any way lessens or restricts the competition between them. This is the hub of their whole position. They propose that two farmers selling milk across a state line cannot co-operate; and that two men doing any business across a state line cannot form a partnership or a corporation. They insist that there must be no big business power, concentrated power or large enterprise anywhere, and that our business must go back to the period of not merely 1850, but 1650; to the cobbler's bench, the grist mill and the blacksmith forge.

Competition a Curse.

"This is economic absurbity. • • • Unlimited competition has proved one of the greatest curses of modern civilization. It was unlimited competition which created the great trusts, exactly as it created the sweat-shop and is chiefly responsible for child labor. The New Freedom is merely the exceedingly old freedom which permits each man to cut his neighbor's throat.

"The Progressive plan, on the other hand," said Col. Roosevelt, "will allow business concentration in so far as such concentration gives social and economic efficiency and good service. But it will also give the government full power to see that business concentration does serve these necessary ends, and that it is not used for unfair competition or for monopoly or for the unfair treatment of labor or for any other anti-social end.

"This is the only tenable position on the trust problem, for it faces the facts and does not try to turn back the hands of the clock. By long and disappointing experience, we have had several cardinal facts hammered into us.

"First, we cannot, and do not want to destroy all corporations; we must have units to do our work.

"Second, we cannot make every man compete with every other man; we cannot go back to 1850, still less to 1650.

"Third, we cannot destroy monopoly by attacking all forms of concentration, whether monopolistic or not.

"Fourth, we cannot destroy real monopoly by attacking its legal form. We must find out and take away the real economic basis of monopoly, which is a very different thing.

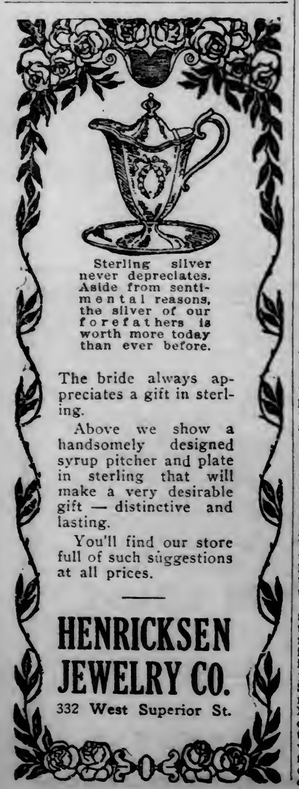

"Fifth, we can get no effective results through the courts, with their slow and restricted procedure.

"Sixth, we must encourage honest business and allow that business concentration which will give the power necessary to serve us. This policy of the encouragement of decent business is as important to the welfare of people, as is our other policy of effective warfare against corrupt and unfair business.

"Seventh, there must be co-operation among business men, among wage workers, and among farmers.

"We have had now twenty-four years experience with trying to regulate business by destruction," the Colonel concluded. "The result has been nearly flat failure. The administration proposes a policy of further destruction, even more unintelligent in conception and certain to be more futile in performance, than the existing policy which it amends.

"The only alternative is the Progressive plan. • • • From all of this it follows that we have a right to ask good citizens to join against the present administration. The policies of the administration should be rebuked by the people and senators and congressmen returned to Washington who will strive to end these policies."

Concerning the Intrinsic Price of the Overland and the Inflated Price of Some Other Cars

PROBABLY the most confusing problem every automobile buyer faces is the wholesale manner in which many automobile dealers seem to willingly cut prices.

In fact this evil has grown so bad of late that some explanation is necessary.

In the automobile business, the fault does not lay entirely with the dealer. It can be traced, directly, to the manufacturer. And here is how it is worked out:

Many manufacturers place a price on their car which is anywhere from 20% to 30% above its intrinsic value. Thus they figure they can give the dealer a high theoretical discount (which he cannot earn) as well as a high price (which he cannot get) so that he (the dealer) can juggle the price around to his heart's content, and, by offering his product at an apparently cut price can deceive the public into believing they are saving some money. Or else they leave the price alone and throw in an extra tire or two all of which amounts to the same thing.

This is a notorious snare and one of the oldest deceptions known to business.

For the advertised price was inflated from the start.

Right down in his heart the manufacturer knows that in order to meet competition the dealer must cut the advertised price. Thus the manufacturer thinks that because the dealer can slightly cut this inflated price it will act as a great inducement to the buyer. The trick being, that because the dealer cuts the swollen price the buyer is supposed to be duped into believing he is getting a bargain—whereas exactly the opposite is true.

For instead of getting more for the money the buyer still gets less for more money.

The car—the price of which fluctuates at the will or whim of the dealer on the pretense or subterfuge of effecting a saving—is a good car NOT to buy.

Beware of the dealer who has a fluctuating scale of prices. He is a good man to stay away from. By necessity any car that he handles must have a fluctuating value and must have back of it a fluctuating service.

Can you go into John Wanamaker's in New York and attempt to strike a bargain?

Can you go into Marshall Field's in Chicago and start to haggle over the price of anything?

If you want a Big Ben clock, a Victrola, a Howard Watch, a Steinway Piano, a Gillette Safety Razor, or any one of a hundred other staple articles—haven't you got to pay the advertised price which is fixed at its source of manufacture?

So it is with the Overland car. The price is fixed at the factory. The price is made as low as it can be made. Value considered—none are lower.

The fact that the Overland price is maintained in spite of pretty keen competition is pretty good evidence of the stability of our dealers and the faith the public have in the Overland car itself.

Even the cut prices of other manufacturers are usually above our staple prices.

We have but one logical inducement to offer—the car itself at the advertised price—no more—no less.

The fact that we are shipping over 5000 cars a month—the fact that we are doing more business than any of those offering inflated car values—the fact that we do more business in one month than some manufacturers do in twelve months—proves that our policy must be fundamentally correct, and that the policy of some of the others must be fundamentally incorrect.

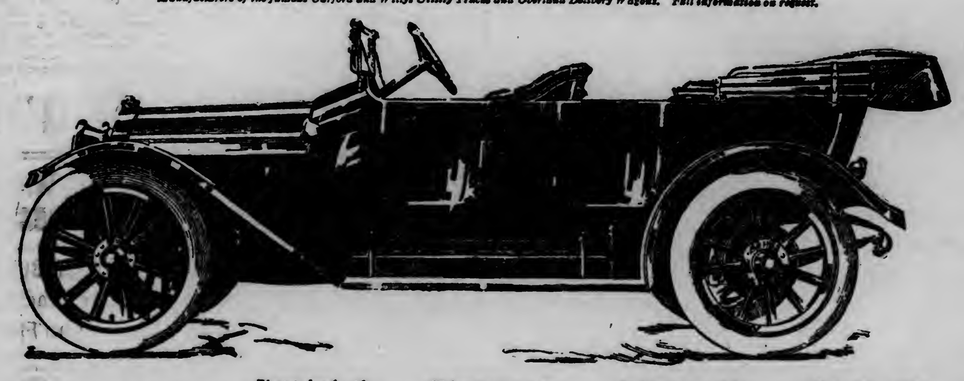

Careful comparison with other cars will show that a car of the Overland quality and mechanical efficiency offers much greater intrinsic value for less money than any other similar car in the world.

We say again—beware of the dealer who approaches you with a cut from his price. He is endeavoring to deceive you into thinking you are saving money.

We want you to become acquainted with the Overland. Come in and see us. Thorough demonstration — any time—any place.

ON THE IRON RANGES

SUMMER SCHOOL IS OPENED AT RAPIDS

Run Along Industrial-Normal Lines and One of Novel Features.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—An industrial-normal school, said to be the first along those lines ever attempted in Minnesota, began here Monday.

The only other summer schools similar to it are the summer sessions of the various normal schools and at the state university. Every teacher who will teach in the rural districts of District No. 1, Itasca county, will be required to attend either the summer school here or one of the summer schools at the normals or the university. Rural teachers of the schools of other districts in Itasca county are also required to take the summer course.

Some Good Talent.

Excellent talent compose the faculty. Supt. E. A. Freeman is in charge. A. M. Foker of the Alexandria schools is in charge of the manual training. Miss Grace Norton of the domestic science department of the Grand Rapids high school is instructing the teachers in that department; W. J. Corwin, supervisor of the manual training department of the schools of District No. 1, is instructor in the agricultural subjects; Miss Sutton of Hibbing is teaching the teachers how to teach the primary grades. Aside from the regular lectures by the instructors, G. E. Keenan, superintendent of the Deer River schools, George B. Aiton, formerly state inspector of high schools, Supt. J. A. Vandyke of Coleraine, superintendent of the Canisteo district (District No. 2) schools, Supt. McGuire and others will address the teachers.

THEATER RUINS ARE DANGEROUS

Owner of Burned Hibbing Playhouse Ordered to Raze Structure.

Hibbing, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Village Recorder Haley was instructed by the council yesterday afternoon to wire John A. Healy, proprietor of the burned Healy theater, telling him that the walls of the theater are a menace to life and must be torn down forthwith. Members of the council declared that the walls are in an exceedingly dangerous condition and that to delay in razing them would be to make him liable to the charge of criminal neglect. It is the intention of the council to proceed at once with the work of razing the building if Mr. Healy does not act himself.

A request from the village council of Kitzville for electric light service to Kitzville was referred to the water, light, power and building commission.

$500 For Celebration.

The usual appropriation of $500 for the Fourth of July celebration was made by the council after it had been addressed upon the subject by Judge Thomas F. Ready of the Fourth executive committee.

Village Engineer Hawley was instructed to prepare plans and specifications for paving Fifth avenue, McKinley street and portions of First and Fourth avenues.

Tonight a special meeting will be held to allow the pay roll.

MANY ARE BURIED OUTSIDE CEMETERY.

Hibbing, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—It has developed that the north line of the Hibbing cemetery is more than fifty feet too far north owing to a mistake in the original survey. This large section of the burying ground is thickly dotted with graves which are really not inside the cemetery proper at all. While it is not expected that any steps will be taken in the matter, it might in time become necessary to move all the graves in this section of the cemetery.

HEARING POSTPONED.

No Conclusions Reached in Deer River Case.

Deer River, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Justice of the Peace Tellin heard part of the testimony in the case against Nona Boyer, who is under arrest charged with shooting her husband, Ray Boyer, here. The hearing was continued for ten days in order to get the testimony of Boyer, who, while he is recovering nicely from the revolver shot wound, is still unable to be present to testify. The testimony brought out was about as it has been published in The Herald.

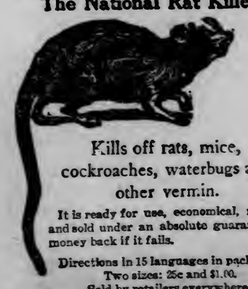

BOYLE NOW BENEDICT.

Assistant St Louis County Attorney Weds in Mill City.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 1.—Edward L. Boyle of Virginia, assistant county attorney of St. Louis county, and Miss Elizabeth McCarthy, daughter of Shields McCarthy, a former resident of Marquette, Mich., who for several years was a teacher in the Virginia schools, were married here yesterday morning at St. Stephen's Catholic church. Rev. Father Gaughan officiated. The bride was attended by Miss Millia Blake of Marquette, Mich., and the groom by his brother, John Boyle of Duluth. Senator James P. Boyle of Eveleth, a brother of the groom, also attended the ceremony. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Boyle left last night for an extended visit in New York and other Eastern points. Upon their return they will make their home at 518 Locust street, Virginia.

HIBBING RECTOR WILL DELIVER FOURTH ADDRESS

REV. F. E. COOLBAUGH.

Hibbing, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The plans for the celebration of the Fourth here are practically completed. A parade starting at 9:30 a. m. will be one of the big features of the day. There will be various floats in line. Speaking will be held at the armory at 1:15 and Dr. F. E. Coolbaugh, local Episcopal rector, will deliver the principal address. There will also be music and the reading of the Declaration of Independence. At 2:15 the celebration will be transferred to the new ball park where a ball game will be followed by sports and specialties. In the evening a display of fireworks will serve as the main event.

TOWN OF BALKAN CASE IS PROBED

Title of Officers to Their Positions Is Attacked.

Hibbing, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—A hearing was had yesterday afternoon at the council chamber here before Assistant Attorney General Clifford Hilton on the quo warranto proceedings involving the title of the present officers of the town of Balkan to their positions.

The information was filed by C. V. Magnussen, a homesteader living north of Chisholm and one of the defeated candidates for supervisor in Balkan town last fall. Neal Beaton of Duluth, and C. R. Woods of Chisholm appeared for the informant while all of the supervisors of the town of Balkan, Messrs. Bates, Kowalke and Sullivan were present.

Colonization Alleged.

It is claimed by Magnussen that the Oliver Iron Mining company colonized voters across the line at the Monroe location on Balkan territory, living the men in tents, shacks, etc., for thirty days, and at the election these men were taken to the polling place at the Bungalow school house five miles north of Chisholm, where they voted in the Balkan election, thereby defeating Magnussen and his colleagues and electing Messrs. Sullivan, Bates and Kowalke as supervisors.

In case the attorney general's office is satisfied that there is ground for bringing the quo warranto proceedings the matter will be heard shortly in the supreme court.

FAVOR CONCRETE ROAD.

Balkan Town Board and Hibbing Council Like Idea.

Hibbing, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. F. Bates, chairman, A. J. Sullivan and E. F. Kowalke, constituting the board of supervisors of the town of Balkan, were in Hibbing yesterday and declared that they have not been approached in any way as to the matter of concreting the Hibbing-Chisholm road. "All we know about the matter," said Mr. Sullivan, "is what we have read in the newspapers."

"We are willing to meet with the village council of Hibbing and the board of supervisors of the town of Stuntz at any time," said Chairman Bates. "We think that if anything is to be done the different boards and councils ought to get together and discuss the matter. I don't see how we could act intelligently in the matter in any other way."

Asked as to whether they were in favor of concreting or paving the road the members of the board said that the matter should first be gone over by a joint meeting of the boards interested.

The village council of Hibbing yesterday afternoon immediately after the visit of the Balkan officials to Hibbing were informed of the desire of Balkan for a conference, said that it would meet in conference any time the Balkan board cares to name. The matter will be brought to the attention of the town board of Stuntz tonight.

MUST USE LEAD PIPE

Instead of Iron in Making Hibbing Water Connections.

Hibbing, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The water, light, power and building commission last evening discussed various matter of work now in progress. A. C. Schirmer and P. E. Clark appeared before the commission and asked that the commission compel users of water hereafter to use lead pipe in making water connections instead of cast iron pipe, inasmuch as the latter rots away in a few years. The request was favorably acted on. Estimates of $92.79 for electrical work and $341.16 for cement work on the new white way were allowed.

JESMORE SOON TO TAKE POSITION

Eveleth, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles Jesmore expects his commission as postmaster at Eveleth soon and is preparing to take charge of the office. Mr. Jesmore will dispose of his livery business at once and devote his entire time to the office. The resignation of Postmaster Edward H. Hatch has been accepted and C. B. Hoel is now serving as acting postmaster until Mr. Jesmore's commission is received.

APPEAL ARGUED IN HIGH COURT

State Seeks to Establish Title to Ore Under Gopher Lakes.

St. Paul, Minn., July 1.—A suit to test the ownership of upward of $200,000,000 worth of iron ore in the bed of lakes in Minnesota was argued in the state supreme court yesterday.

The case was brought by Attorney General Smith on an appeal from Judge William Cant, St. Louis county district court. Judge Cant held that lessors of mineral property on the shore of Longyear lake near Chisholm to iron companies were owners of the property.

History of Case.

The Euclid Iron Mining company owned a lease to property in which the other defendants were interested, on the shore of Longyear lake, near Chisholm. This company asserted the fee title extended to the middle of the lake, and began extracting ore from the lake bed.

The state asserted ownership to all ore in lake beds, but its contention was dismissed in the St. Louis county district court. The state then took this appeal.

The briefs estimate the ore in the bed of Longyear lake at 54,000,000 tons. Many other lake beds on the Iron range have rich deposits which can be taken out by the riparian owners should the defendants in this action be successful. It is conservatively estimated by the state auditor that the bed of Embarrass lake contains 100,000,000 tons involved in this litigation.

The case is expected to go to the supreme court of the United States before it is finally determined.

The state was represented by Attorney General Lyndon A. Smith and Assistant Attorney General C. Louis Weeks. The claimants, Eliza Korrer, E. N. Korrer, Annie L. Korrer, John Brennan, the White Iron Lake Iron company, Albert B. Coates, Martha R. Coates, his wife, and the Euclid Iron Mining company, appeared through Crassweller, Crassweller & Blu, Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell, John Brennan and T. J. Doyle, all of Duluth.

WINTON ROBBERY; STORE IS GUTTED

About $1,500 Taken From Berglund Bros. Store Tuesday Night.

Winton, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The biggest robbery ever pulled off in this section became known today when Gus Berglund of Berglund Bros., who run one of the largest stores here, opened the place for business this morning. A rough estimate places the value of the goods taken at $1,500, and it may run higher.

There appears to be no clew, not even to the way the goods were taken away. Entrance was made through the rear door by cutting a hole big enough for a man's arm, so that the bolt holding the door could be slid back.

Officers Notified.

This inclines Marshal Thompson to the belief someone familiar with the place participated in the robbery. He has wired Sheriff Meining and the police of Duluth, Superior and range towns, giving substance of goods taken as follows: $200 worth of jewelry, twenty-nine men's suits of clothes, three revolvers, half dozen safety razors, five dozen knives, two gold pens, practically all the linen in the store.

PREVENTS WIFE KILLING HERSELF

Eveleth Man Discovers Her Taking Poison and Gives Emetic.

Eveleth, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Gust Neistron of Fayal is said to have attempted suicide yesterday by taking paris green. Her husband discovered her taking the poison and administered an emetic. A physician was summoned and she is pronounced out of danger. Mrs. Neistron is 32 years of age and the mother of five children. No reason is assigned for the attempted suicide.

BOYLAN DEFIANT.

Says Enemies Would Recall Him for Gas Plant Attitude.

Virginia, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—No one seconded Alderman McGhee's motion at the council meeting last night to rescind prior action voting to appropriate $70,000 for a municipally owned gas plant, so the idea will probably be carried out. During the discussion Mayor Boylan said that certain people had threatened to recall him because of his position in favor of the plant, but he dared them to go ahead.

The council failed to exercise an option taken recently on thirty-two lots in the new Williams addition for playground purposes. The property was to have been purchased for $1,000 per lot but the step was finally deemed ill-advised.

Auditor S. S. Williams, who has passed the last few weeks examining the city's books, reported that with the exception of a few minor clerical errors, affairs were in good shape.

Want Municipal Market.

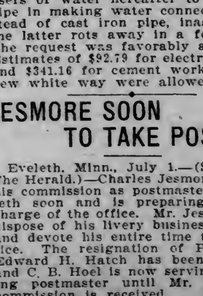

More than 1,000 signatures have been secured by William Thitcher, a local merchant, who is circulating a petition, asking for the establishment of a municipal meat market here. He asks that the city council appropriate $25,000 for the building. He claims that local meat dealers charge exorbitant prices and that a city market is needed. The petition will be presented to the council next month.

VIRGINIA WILL BE HOST ON THURSDAY

Gathering of Range Municipal Officers to Bring Throng.

Virginia, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—This city is in gay attire for the meeting here tomorrow of the Range Municipal league, the new organization composed of city and village officers of the two iron ranges. It is expected there will be a large crowd. Morning and afternoon sessions will be devoted to discussion of range matters.

The principal address of the meeting will be delivered by James P. Boyle of Eveleth. C. L. Tenks of St. Cloud, president of the State Municipalities association, will give an address on what work is being accomplished by the state association. Prof. Price of the extension department of the state university will also give an address on the conditions throughout the state.

Mayor Victor Power of Hibbing will talk on "County Division."

President Doyle and other members of the association will also give short talks on subjects of importance to the range.

The afternoon session will adjourn at 2 o'clock to give the members an opportunity to see the class of ball which the Virginia team of the Northern league is putting up. The session will be continued later in the afternoon.

Banquet in Evening.

In the evening there will be a big banquet at the Fay hotel banquet room. Judge R. J. Montague, city attorney, will be toastmaster.

GIVEN NINETY DAYS.

Eveleth Man Punished for Beating Mother-in-Law.

Eveleth, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Carl Cavanini failed to find clemency when brought before Municipal Judge Moylan yesterday charged with beating his mother-in-law. The evidence showed the son-in-law had lived off the bounty of Mrs. Person for a month. He was sentenced to pay $100 and costs or serve ninety days. Being unable to pay Cavanini was sent to the jail at Duluth.

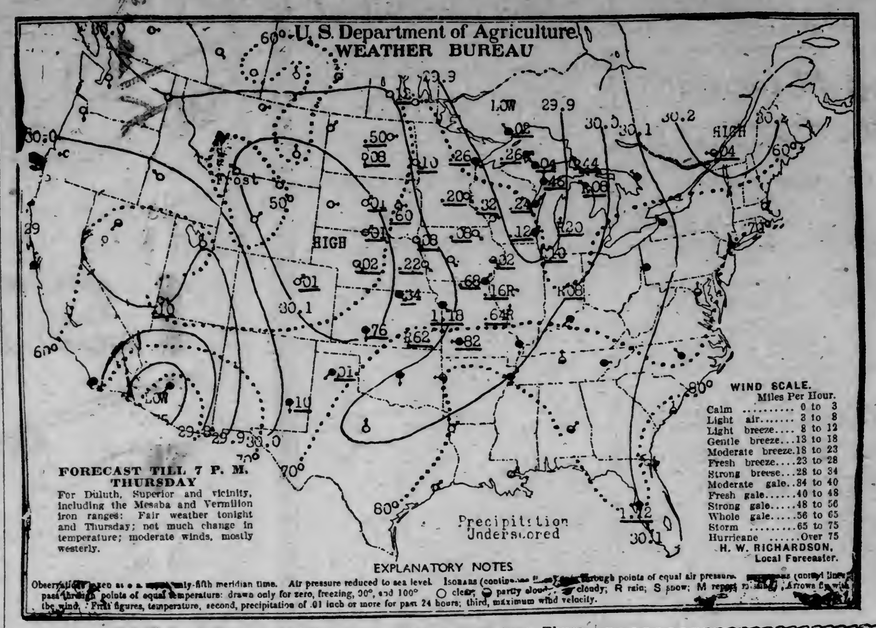

It is alleged that he attacked his wife and mother-in-law with a club. A short time ago he caused the arrest of his wife on a charge of adultery but failed to make out a case.

BAR INTOXICANTS AT EVELETH PARK

Eveleth, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—No intoxicants are to be sold or served at the city picnic grounds which have been opened this year between Ely Lake and St. Mary's Lake. The park makes an ideal picnic ground and it was deemed best to forbid the serving of intoxicants on the grounds. However an unused piece of ground adjoining the park can be used in case it is desired to have beer at any of the large picnics.

A pavilion, benches, tables, water taps and drinking fountain have been provided at the park and it has already been the scene of several large picnics and numerous private affairs. Lodges or other organizations desiring the grounds for picnics can have dates reserved by applying to Park Commissioner George Brince. The grounds are so large that it is not necessary to reserve dates for small picnics.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

FORECAST TILL 7 P. M. THURSDAY

For Duluth, Superior and vicinity, including the Mesaba and Vermilion iron ranges: Fair weather tonight and Thursday; not much change in temperature; moderate winds, mostly westerly.

EXPLANATORY NOTES

Observations taken at 8 a. m. seventy-fifth meridian time. Air pressure reduced to sea level. Isobars (continuous lines) through points of equal air pressure. Isotherms (continuous lines) through points of equal temperature: drawn only for zero, freezing, 50°, and 100°. Clear; ◑ partly cloudy; ● cloudy; R rain; S snow; M report missing. Arrows fly with the wind. Four figures, temperature, second, precipitation of .01 inch or more for past 24 hours; third, maximum wind velocity.

FAIR

The sun is doing its best to break through the clouds today, and maybe it will succeed. Illustrious Potentate-Weather Observer Richardson let his foot slip somehow, and the Shriners, whom he is expected to favor, have been getting bathed instead of being given the fair weather expected. He says the weather will be fair tonight and tomorrow. A year ago today was beautiful.

The sun rose this morning at 4:17 and will set this evening at 8:06, giving fifteen hours and forty-nine minutes of sunshine. The sun is now well on the back-track.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Showers fell over the lake region, the Northwest, Upper Mississippi and Lower Missouri valleys, and Southwestern states during the last twenty-four hours. Heavy rains fell over Florida, Western Missouri and Eastern Kansas. Hot weather continues in Southern states."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, July 1.—Forecasts for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Thursday:

Wisconsin—Generally fair tonight and Thursday; not much change in temperature.

Minnesota, Iowa, North Dakota and South Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Thursday; no important change in temperature.

Montana—Fair tonight and Thursday; not much change in temperature.

Lower Michigan—Showers this afternoon; generally fair tonight and Thursday.

Upper Michigan—Fair tonight and Thursday; rising temperature Thursday.

VIRGINIA PLANS TENNIS CONTEST

Virginia, Minn., July 1.—A tennis tournament for the grades and classes of the high school will take place on July 15 at the Technical high school courts. There will be three divisions, the upper classmen, lower classmen of the high school and the grade students. The tournament will last for three weeks.

BUHL BRIEFS.

Buhl, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The "Tom Thumb Wedding" was successfully given last night under the direction of Mrs. Jones at the high school auditorium. There was a large attendance.

Harry Miller, clerk of the town of Great Scott, who has been confined to the house by sickness for three weeks, was out yesterday for the first time.

The funeral of Mrs. Nels Peterson, who died Sunday night of typhoid fever, will be held tomorrow from the Methodist church, Rev. J. E. A. Idstrom of Hibbing officiating. She leaves a husband and a 16-months-old daughter, who was taken to St. Luke's hospital yesterday, sick with the fever.

Kitzville Wants Lights.

Hibbing, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—A committee from the water, light, power and building commission will visit Kitzville to ascertain just what that village desires in the way of light service for which it has made application to Hibbing. Hibbing already has a light line running to the Kitzville schoolhouse and the commission will probably furnish light to Kitzville.

Alleges Threat.

Eveleth, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles Radulovich has been arrested on complaint of Mary Bozicevic who alleges that the prisoner threatened her life. Health Commissioner Dr. N. C. Bulkley has sworn out a warrant for the arrest of Mike Erickson on a charge of failing to clean his premises. Both cases will be tried before Municipal Judge Moylan.

Bury Carson Lake Woman.

Hibbing, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Rosena Ugarkovic, wife of Nick Ugarkovic of Carson Lake, who died Sunday from cancer, was buried yesterday afternoon from the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Rev. Father Gilli officiating. Mrs. Ugarkovic was 44 years old and leaves a husband and three children.

Adjourn Board Meet.

Hibbing, July 1.—The board of review of the town of Suntz met yesterday afternoon and adjourned for one week to allow Professor Jos. Moran additional time to complete the assessment. Mr. Moran reported that the work is well under way.

Road Contracts Pending.

Hibbing, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The July meeting of the board of supervisors of the town of Stuntz will be held this evening. Several contracts for roads will be let.

ST. LOUIS ADOPTS NEW CITY CHARTER

St. Louis, Mo., July 1.—The voters of St. Louis adopted a new city charter yesterday, which within sixty days will begin the inauguration of radical reforms in the municipal administration. The total vote as given out by the board of election commissioners was 48,849 for and 44,158 against the charter.

DO YOU NEED BUILDING UP?

There are conditions of ill health in which no one particular organ appears to be at fault, yet the patient is miserable and unable to pursue the activities of daily life with vigor and enjoyment. Sometimes the cause is attributed to the imagination but the patient knows that the debility is real.

The remedy evidently is a medicine that will benefit the whole system rather than a part. The blood reaches everywhere and an improvement in its quality is quickly followed by an improvement in the whole organism. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make a visible improvement in the condition of the blood. The microscope will verify this improvement but the patient can see it in the mirror as shown by increased color in cheeks and lips and added brightness of the eyes. There will also be a new elasticity in the step. These things record an improved tone in the body and if this tonic treatment is persisted in for a reasonable length of time, depending upon the degree of debility, the condition of ill health will be removed.

Those who are interested may obtain the pamphlet "Building Up the Blood" free on request from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. All druggists sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

CHISHOLM'S FOURTH.

Everything Ready for Big, Old-Fashioned Celebration.

Chisholm, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—If the weather is favorable the celebration of the Fourth here will be a hummer. The various committees reported at a general meeting that everything is all right for a big time. The funds were gone over carefully and amounts assigned for various needs.

In addition to the regular celebration there will be a grand torch light procession and it is expected that this parade will attract a large number of people. Special costumes have been ordered. This part of the program is expected to substitute for the Mardi Gras which was formerly decided upon. The fire works will be fine. Dancing will furnish the evening's entertainment. The base ball game between Hibbing and Chisholm will be the feature of the day's celebration due to the rivalry that has developed between the teams the last few games that have been played. The speaker for the day will be engaged today. As soon as the speaker's stand has been placed the parade committee will outline the route which will terminate at the speaker's stand.

CHISHOLM WAGES HAVE BEEN RESTORED

Chisholm, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village council last night discussed the wage schedule, and on motion of trustee McNiven, supported by trustee Jakse, the wages were restored to $2.50 per day for eight hours, effective today.

On recommendation of the village engineer the order was placed with the Red Wing Sewer Pipe Co. of Red Wing, Minn., for segment tile; their bid being $5,662.

Claims of the election board which served on the 16th of the month were audited and ordered paid.

The village engineer was instructed to prepare estimates on the cost of cement walks on First and Second avenues, south of Lake street, and also for the proposed season's paving.

On account of some liquor licenses coming up for hearing today the council adjourned until 8:00 tonight.

CHISHOLM PAIR ARE BOUND OVER

Chisholm, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Clement Ressette and Andrew Carrodi, two natives of the Austrian Tyrol, were held to the grand jury yesterday in $500 bonds each after a preliminary hearing before Acting Municipal Judge Cook for dynamiting the pop wagon of I. E. Folsom. The chief point argued by the attorney was whether the damage exceeded $25. Judge Cook decided that the damage was in excess of $25 and they were bound over to the grand jury which meets in Virginia in August.

CHISHOLM MAN WEDS IN MILL CITY

Chisholm, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mr. Bliven returned yesterday evening from Minneapolis and is passing the cigars around among his friends, saying that Monday in Minneapolis he became the husband of Miss Vera Dahlstrom, formerly a teacher in the public schools here. Mr. Bliven did not bring his bride with him, but she will come to Chisholm in a few days and they will take up housekeeping here. The wedding took place at the home of the bride in Minneapolis.

WILPIN SCHOOL TO BE VOTED ON

Hibbing, July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The school board voted last night to submit to the electors of the district at the annual meeting on the third Saturday of this month the proposition to build a one room school house at the DuPont location near Wilpin, six miles east of Hibbing. The board passed the June pay roll so that employes may have their money for the Fourth and decided to call for bids for altering the basement stairway in the Washington school, decorating the Kitzville school and supply coal for the coming year. The coal contract will amount to about $14,000.

CARSON LAKE DITCH PROGRESSES

Hibbing, July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—All the steam shovel work on the big ditch surrounding Carson lake has been completed by the contractors, Coons & Butler of Hibbing and only a little hand work remains to be done. The ditch was constructed for the purpose of taking care of all the surface water that now runs into Carson lake. A pumping station has been installed on the east side of the lake by the Oliver company and two centrifugal pumps have been installed with a capacity of 2,500 gallons each. The pumps were tested yesterday and will be put to work at once. The opposite side of the lake is being filled in. When the lake is pumped dry a shaft will be installed and the mine will be worked as an underground proposition.

GLEASON OPTIMISTIC.

Eveleth's Mayor Looks for Improvement in Mining World.

Eveleth, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mayor J. J. Gleason, who recently returned from a trip to the Menominee range in Michigan, states that in his opinion the present depression in the iron market and the resulting hard times on the ranges can not last much longer. At present conditions on the Michigan range are much the same as on the Mesabe, the mines working with about half shifts. The business depression is artificial, Mr. Gleason states, and not in keeping with actual conditions. Buyers must have ore, he says, and can not delay much longer in placing their orders.

BIWABIK ALL READY.

Planning to Entertain Big Crowds on the Fourth of July.

Biwabik, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Biwabik is getting ready for a big Fourth of July celebration, and a great number of outside people are expected to be in town to enjoy the festivities.

Mrs. Peter McCall and son are visiting with relatives in Eveleth this week.

F. P. Botsford of the Pickands-Mather company of Elba was in town Monday on business.

Dr. L. E. Spurbeck was called to Two Harbors recently by the death of his mother, Mrs. George H. Spurbeck.

G. A. Richards returned the last of the week from a business trip to Michigan points.

Mrs. Walter Donnellan left Monday for Iron River, Mich., where she will visit relatives for about a month.

Earl Howerton has returned from Vona, Colo., and is now employed at the Iron Range roundhouse.

K. S. Johnson attended to business matters at Duluth the first of the week.

N. B. Shank is in Duluth attending to business.

Richard E. Dallman returned Tuesday from a month's vacation spent at Princeton, Fond du Lac and Oshkosh, Wis.

Miss Delia Munn and Miss Emma Munn of Brookston are visiting their sister, Mrs. Alfred Hoel.

Quickest Relief Known For All Sore Feet

The following is absolutely the surest and quickest cure known to science for all foot ailments. "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of warm water. Soak the feet in this for full fifteen minutes, gently rubbing the sore parts." The effect is really wonderful. All soreness goes instantly; the feet feel so good you could sing for joy. Corns and callouses can be peeled right off. It gives immediate relief for sore bunions, sweaty, smelly and aching feet. A twenty-five cent box of Calocide is said to be sufficient to cure the worst feet. It works through the pores and removes the cause of the trouble. Don't waste time on uncertain remedies. Any druggist has Calocide compound in stock or he can get it. It is not a patent medicine. Prepared only by Medical Formula Co., Dayton, Ohio.

MURDERED MAN'S WIFE ARRESTED

Livingston, Mont., July 1.—Mrs. Malinda M. Zimmerman, widow of James D. Zimmerman, the rancher who was murdered June 10 at his ranch near Dalleys spur, between Livingston and Gardiner, has been arrested for the crime.

The woman's arrest follows a series of circumstances. It is said she has told different stories, and that a piece of hay was found in her hair the following morning. When Zimmerman's body was found, it was covered with hay and lying in the stable. However, she maintains her innocence.

Fatal Birthday Present.

Janesville, Wis., July 1.—Aiming his birthday present, a .22-caliber rifle, at his brother, Ernest, 9 years old, Edward Krueger, shot him dead in the presence of the family at the Krueger home, two miles from Milton Junction.

Detective Burns Dropped By Association of Police Chiefs.

Troyer in Line to Be Chosen Head of Association.

Asked for the reasons why Detective William J. Burns was dropped from the honorary list of members of the International Associatalon of Police Chiefs at the recent annual convention held at Grand Rapids, Chief Chauncey H. Troyer, who returned this morning, said that the famous sleuth had incurred the disapproval of the members by his actions in Atlanta last spring, by the methods he employed when he took up the case of Leo M. Frank, the young factory superintendent, who has been convicted of murder and who is now awaiting the death penalty.

Four of Detective Burns' assistants were recently indicted by the Wayne county grand jury of Georgia on charges of perjury and bribery, and it was for this reason that their chief was dropped as an honorary member Chief Troyer said this morning.

In addition to the dropping of Detective Burns from the honorary list, a large number of former city officials and mayors in all parts of the country, were also dropped. A man is only kept as an honorary member while he is in some official position, or actively engaged in detective work.

Chief Troyer, who was elected fifth vice president of the international association, was given many honors by the members. He was chosen to several committees and will in all probability be re-named on the executive committee by President Sylvester of Washington, D. C. The positions of third, fourth and fifth vice presidents were created this year and it is the plan to follow a series of successions and in this way the local police chief may in five years be named president, should he retain his position as head of the police department in Duluth. It is understood that President Sylvester who has been at the head ever since the organization of the association, is anxious to drop out as the chief executive and the vice presidents will be named to the position from year to year, acording to the tentative plans.

Mrs. Troyer, who visited with friends at White Pigeon, Mich., during the convention, met the chief following the gathering and they both went to his old home in Indiana. She returned with him this morning. Last Saturday they both attended a reunion of the Troyers and Schrocks at Goshen, Ind. There were 100 members of the two families gathered at the reunion. Mrs. Troyer made her first visit with relatives since her marriage twenty-three years ago.

DOMINION DAY ACROSS BORDER

Canadians Celebrate National Holiday—Herald Flies Union Jack.

"The maple leaf, our emblem dear,
The maple leaf forever,
God save the king and heaven bless,
The maple leaf forever."

Following The Herald's plan of flying the flags of various nations on their national holiday, the Union Jack is today floating from the masthead of the Herald building.

Today is Dominion day, and all Canadians, who are true lovers of their native land, whether they live in their own country or elsewhere, observe this occasion just as the people of the United States observe the Fourth of July.

Dominion day is the anniversary of the uniting of all the provinces of Canada under one government, the Dominion of Canada, just as the various states of the union are organized under the Federal government of the United States.

Up to 1867 all the provinces of Canada were separate and under a separate government, under the direct supervision of the English crown. Through the efforts of Sir John Macdonald, George Brown and others, the union of all the provinces was peacefully effected. The country then decided to have a parliament, consisting of a lower house, the members of which were elected by the people, and an upper house whose members were appointed by the crown. Over the whole is a governor general appointed by the English government.

Canadians have great patriotic pride in this day, and speeches are made, programs of various kinds given and fireworks shot off. In fact, it is celebrated very much as the Fourth of July is here.

WILL BE MARRIED AMONG THE SNAKES

At Least That Is What the Carnival Press Agent Says Will Happen.

The press agent of the Tom W. Allen carnival is suffering from brain fag and reverting to "old stuff." Here is the story he handed to the Herald today:

"A romance that began in a small Montana city several weeks ago will culminate in a den of snakes at the Shriners' mid-summer carnival tomorrow evening.

"Early in May Sylvia Dale, snake charmer, appeared with her den of reptiles in a small Montana city and it was there that J. F. Williams first met his bride-to-be. He immediately fell in love with the young woman, who was fearless and who daily worked among such venomous creatures. He admired her nerve and before the Tom W. Allen show left that city, he succeeded in obtaining a promise that she would write to him.

"After a correspondence of more than a month, Williams finally 'popped' the question and he agreed to help her carry out her life long dream of marrying in the den of snakes. Yesterday afternoon he arrived in Duluth for the ceremony, which will take place at the carnival grounds, Thirtieth avenue west and Third street, at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening. A minister will be selected today."

Last evening, despite the inclement weather, a large crowd was at hand and the carnival show was again a success. Many newsboys were the guests of Mr. Allen, owner of the show, and the Shriners. They were taken to every amusement feature and on every riding device free of charge.

The management of the carnival announced this morning that the grounds have been sprinkled with sawdust and shavings to cover the mud caused by the rain.

WEBSTER-ASHBURTON TREATY IS INVOLVED

Case of Much Importance Argued Before Supreme Court.

St. Paul, Minn., July 1.—A notable array of legal talent appeared before the supreme court yesterday to argue a case involving the barge canal system planned by the Minnesota Canal & Power company from the Birch lake drainage basin in Lake and Cook counties to Duluth.

The canal litigation involves the Webster-Ashburton treaty made between England and the United States in 1842 in regard to the non-interference by each nation with the navigable capacity of boundary waters between the United States and Canada.

Want Damage Appraisal.

The Minnesota Canal & Power company tried unsuccessfully in the district court to have commissioners named to appraise the damage that would be done by the construction of their proposed canal system. They desired to obtain the land and water rights involved in an ambitious project of linking the iron range and the North woods with Lake Superior by exercising the power of eminent domain on the ground that it is a public corporation. The defendants and respondents all own water rights and land in the Birch lake drainage basin, and their assertion is that the canal concern is not a public corporation within the meaning of the law and cannot take the property it desires and has no right to divert the waters from the water shed of this basin into its canals.

It is asserted that the navigation and navigable capacity of boundary waters, to which the Birch lake basin is tributary, would be interfered with in violation of the Webster-Ashburton treaty which defined the Canadian boundary line.

The plaintiffs and appellants, the Minnesota Power & Canal company, appeared through Tyler, Corneau & Eames of Boston, Mass., and Butler & Mitchell of St. Paul. The defendants and respondents are: The Gilham Boom company, the Fall Lake Boom company, the St. Croix Lumber company, the Northeastern Minnesota Power company, George A. St. Clair and others. They were represented by a long list of legal talent, including H. J. Grannis, J. A. P. Neal, Thomas J. Davis, L. C. Harris, J. A. Wharton, Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell, W. G. Crosby, I. C. Buell and Wilson & Morgan, all of Duluth, and J. N. Searls of Stillwater.

Organization Perfected at Bemidji to Uphold Dry Provision.

Bemidji, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thirty business and professional men organized an 1855 Treaty Enforcement league, with J. J. Opsahl president and Harry Reynolds, secretary and treasurer. Funds are being raised to carry on a campaign for the enforcement of the treaty.

to the Fisher-Ellis bill because of the so-called "string" provision by which the state reserves the right to purchase at any time the Boston & Maine stock held for the New Haven by the Boston Railroad Holding company. This stock comprises 51 per cent of the total Boston & Maine issue. The New Haven company's opposition is based on the claim that retention of the state's right to purchase the stock will depreciate its value.

"IF MAN HAD A TAIL, HE COULD WAG IT"

Chicago Professor Says So, and Claims Evolution Proved.

Chicago, July 1.—"Man once wore a tail," asserted Elliot Downing, assistant professor in the University of Chicago, in a lecture yesterday in which he defended the theories of the evolution of man.

"The fact that man has all the equipment necessary to wag a tail is evidence of his evolution from the ape," said the professor. "Why should he have all the tail muscles if he hadn't once had a tail?"

He said there are 198 useless bits of organism in man's bodily composition that he once made use of.

$80,000 Midway Fire.

St. Paul, Minn., July 1.—Three men were injured when fire, starting in a lumber shed in the Midway district last night, destroyed three buildings, causing a loss of more than $80,000. C. Severance, night watchman at the Zimmerman sales stables, was seriously burned while aiding in removing 200 horses.

VERDICT FOR $400.

Employe of Grain Firm Recovers Part of Salary.

A jury in Judge Dancer's division of the district court late yesterday afternoon returned a verdict for $400 in favor of Clifton H. Sowle who sued Woodward & Co., grain dealers, for a breach of his salary contract. Sowle asked for $700.

Sowle was engaged by the company as solicitor for a period of one year. On Nov. 19, 1913, less than six months after the contract for the year's employment had been made, he was dismissed. The company refused to pay him salary for the remaining months claiming that he was incompetent.

To Quit Teaching Latin.

Madison, Wis., July 1.—More evidence tending to prove that Latin is really a dead language is furnished by the state board of normal regents who have just voted to discontinue the subject in all the normal schools except at Superior and La Crosse. The reason given is that the classes are so small as to make the courses impracticable. Some schools have as few as eight students in the classical courses.

Goes With Fosston Schools.

St. Thomas, N. D., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—L. G. Mustain, superintendent of the St. Thomas schools, and president of the Tri-County Educational association, one of the most important educational bodies in the state, has accepted the superintendency of the Fosston, Minn., schools, for the coming year.

Just Between You and Me

By BRUCE

IF all the fighters of the land had the system of Frankie Whitney it would be an easy and delightfully simple manner to keep a tab on them. Whitney's scrapbook—a huge affair, two by four feet and bolted together—arrived yesterday ahead of the fighter. In this book is contained an illuminating record of the ring doings of the lad who is to fight Pal Brown on Saturday evening.

This book contains newspaper clippings from papers from the Southland to New York city. It contains stories of Whitney's battle with Battling Nelson in Atlanta, which was witnessed by 5,000 people—of his battle with Charley White—and of his battle with Joe Mandot, pride of the Southland, who was groggy and took the count of nine in the third round of his fight with Whitney.

One quality of ringmanship that is possessed by Whitney, all of the various newspaper writers where the scrapper has appeared, agree on—and that is that Whitney never stalls a second in the ring.

Whitney never has asked for concessions of weight since he started in the fighting game. He fought Cal McCarthy in San Francisco when the Irishman came in at 150 pounds. He let Battling Nelson come in at catch weights. He fought and beat Clarence English and allowed the Omaha fighter to weigh what he pleased. Whitney didn't even ask weight from Freddy Welsh.

After reading through volumes of matter of the various fights of Whitney, it is not difficult to form the opinion that he is a fighter from the first gong to the last—and that he is willing to stand toe to toe and slug until some one drops.

The Atlanta Journal declares in its account of the battle with Battling Nelson, that Whitney stood and battled the Dane breast to breast in every round and beat the hegewisch bear at the game that he made famous.

Slugging is Pal Brown's game. In Whitney, the lad who received an ovation from the fight followers of the Southland, the range boy will meet a tartar and one who will pay him in his own coin and stand and swap wallops.

It is expected that the Southern lad will reach the Head of the Lakes today. This will give Whitney three days to get used to the brand of weather hereabouts and to put several finishing touches to his condition.

Brown is content to plug away up on the homestead and will remain there until the time to leave for Superior.

Some More Tennis Talk.

IN a short typewritten recital of yesterday we touched upon the amazing and expert tennis proclivities of Maurice McLoughlin. Today, ladies and gentlemen and others as well, we offer for your inspection and possible approval, Lindley Murray—a tennis player, we repeat, and not a grammarian.

Young Murray is a student of Leland Stanford—or at least he attends that institution, which is in California and is presided over by David Starr Jordan and has produced a world's champion high jumper. Quite enough fame for one institution of learning.

While our subject of yesterday, Maurice McLoughlin, has a national standing in the lawn tennis world, as a consequence of his sterling work in the quest of the Davis cup, it must be said that Lindley Murray is coming to the front with rapid strides and is rapidly being reckoned as one of the stars of the net world. His play in the East has become one of the popular topics of conversation, and should Lindley continue to play as he has been playing, he will halt the talk of the new fall shoulders for men.

The Late Luther Lad.

LUTHER McCARTY was, in the opinion of the horde who follow the dope, the greatest heavyweight since the blossoming days of James J. Jeffries, the last of the line of the truly great fighters of the past. Death stalked in and carried the young fighter away in the very midst of his ring activities. We have left Carl Morris, Gunboat Smith, Al Palzer and Frank Moran—and it looks as if the lot was not of the class sufficient to produce a champion.

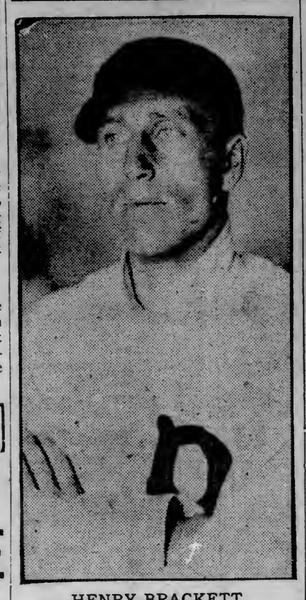

Johnson may drop off from the attack of the years, for Father Time has a wonderful punch. There is no fighter in sight who looks menacing in the least—and it is the business of the knights of the ring to look that way.

Business Is Slack.

IT IS said that 5,000 people were at the depot in England when Gunboat Smith got off the train. It is said that there are many idle people on the other side of the pond. We believe it.

DOOK OUTFIELDER IS MURDERING THE BALL

HENRY BRACKETT.

Henry Brackett has been hitting the pill at a terrific clip since the team started the road games. The hitting of the tall outfielder has featured all of the games played since the Dooks left home. Brackett started the terrific bombardment of the game in the last few games in the st home series, his welting of the spheroid being particularly effective in the two Virginia games. Darby O'Brien predicted that Brackett would go up this season, and if his hitting is continued the scouts will be on his trail.

Second Game of Present Series Ends With Score 8 to 8.

Brackett, Bond and Collins Lead in the Attack.

Winnipeg, Man., July 1.—The second game of the Winnipeg-Duluth series ended in a tie here last evening. The score of the combat was 8 to 8 at the end of the eighth inning, when the game was called because of darkness. The game of Monday evening was called at the end of the ninth round with the score knotted.

Winnipeg scored eight runs in the opening round of the battle and the fans expected an easy victory. Blancke was away off form and was hit very hard. Clarence Grina replaced the poet pitcher and held the hitters of the local club in check.

The Dooks counted two in the second round, came back in the fourth with two more, scored two more in the sixth and then tied up the game in the first of the eighth with two more runs.

Fred Boardman, a southpaw twirler who has been with the St. Paul team of the American association, joined the team yesterday and went in to finish the final round. Wilke, the first man to face Boardman, tripled, but he retired the next three runners.

Brackett led the visitors in the attack, getting four hits out of four trips to the plate, including a double. Bond's triple and the home run of Jimmy Collins were both timely swats and figured directly in the run getting of the visitors.

The two tie games of yesterday and the previous day will be played off some time in August.

FORT WILLIAM TAKES ANOTHER

Fort William, Ont., July 1.—An error by Fortman prevented Lefty Hawkins from blanking the Winona aggregation in an exciting contest here last evening. The local pitcher won, however, by a score of 2 to 1, helping the team to its third straight victory.

Owing to a severe cold, Manager Lizette was unable to play, while Campbell is stricken with diphtheria. Kramer played first base and Dreis third, a change which benefited Fort William considerably, as the boys played with an edge they lacked under Lizette. Score: R. H. E.

SUPERIOR FORFEITS GAME TO VIRGINIA

Virginia, Minn., July 1.—Because Manager Landry refused to allow the Superior nine to continue playing after rain had delayed the game in the ninth inning here yesterday, Umpire McGarry declared the game forfeited to the locals, 9 to 0.

The Virginians tied it up four all in the ninth. Landry's one-handed catch was the fielding feature of the contest. Score: R. H. E.

THREE STRAIGHT FOR FARGO TEAM

Grand Forks, N. D., July 1.—Fargo-Moorhead won its third straight game yesterday by defeating the local nine, 3 to 1. The locals had a near rally in the ninth session, but Foster, who earlier in the game had scored the Forkers' only run, after making a three-bagger, hit into a double play when the bases were full and retired the side. NATIONAL LEAGUE

Giants, 3; Dodgers, 1.

New York, July 1.—Jeff Tesreau, who was ordered out of Monday's game by Umpire Johnson, came back yesterday and beat Brooklyn in the third game of the series, 3 to 1.

In addition to pitching a strong game for New York, Tesreau broke a tie in the fifth inning, when he drove in Stock with a three-base hit and scored himself on a wild pitch. Reulbach also pitched a fine game for Brooklyn, the champions scoring their first run on a passed ball, while the side should have been retired when Tesreau tripled in the fifth. The sensational fielding of Fletcher was the feature. Sam Trainer, a local semi-professional catcher, joined the Brooklyn club yesterday. Score: R. H. E.

Cubs, 5; Reds, 1.

Chicago, July 1.—Cincinnati's errors in the fifth and seventh innings, coupled with a fusillade of hits, which included a home run by Saier in the eighth, gave Chicago the second game of the series yesterday, 5 to 1. Humphreys held the visitors to four hits, and in his one bad inning, the seventh, he forced a run upon his opponents by walking a man with the bases filled. The fielding of Berghammer and Zimmerman were features. Score: R. H. E.

Double-Header Divided.

Boston, Mass., July 1.—Philadelphia and Boston divided a double-header yesterday, the visitors taking the first contest, 5 to 4 in thirteen innings, and Boston winning the second, 4 to 2. Darkness stopped the second game after eight innings had been played. Philadelphia took the opener by outhitting the home team.

In the sixth inning of the second game, Boston scored four runs on four hits, a sacrifice, a base on balls, and bunched hits in the first two innings off Pogue and Gilligan, and scored enough runs to cinch the second game of the series. The final score was 9 to 2. Shackelford started for Milwaukee, but was replaced by Cutting after three hits had been made off him in the second. Cutting twirled fine ball. Umpire Owens was hit by a foul tip from Killifer's bat in the first inning, opening an old fracture. He umpired the inning out, but retired after the first and Connolly finished the game. Score: R. OWLS TO MEET EAGLE TEAM

Crack Lodge Ball Teams Will Play on Fourth—Double Bill Sunday.

A game that is attracting considerable interest among the baseball fans of the city, is the one scheduled for Saturday at Athletic park between the Owls and the Eagles.

Both of these teams have been practising for the past month. Both are among the strongest in the lodge league and the Fourth of July meeting promises to settle a dispute as to the ability of the two teams that has been waged since their organization early in the spring.

Interest in the outcome is high among the members of the two lodges.

At Desmond park on the Fourth the Elks will meet the Samaritans, in the same league schedule, as a part of a Fourth of July program.

Double Header Sunday.

The Fitwells and Northerns and the Big Duluths and Pease Hardware Baseball team of Superior will furnish a double header attraction at Athletic park on Sunday afternoon.

As the Fitwells and Northerns are among the strongest amateur teams in the city, and as the added attraction of the Big Duluths and Pease teams should make the baseball card a very attractive one, it is expected that there will be a large crowd on hand.

Fines Federal Umpire.

Chicago, July 1.—President Gilmore of the Federal league, who returned today from Buffalo, announced that he had fined Umpire Anderson $50 for violating a rule which provides that "old" balls must be kept in play as long as possible. Anderson, it was charged by Kansas City players, in a recent game, kept throwing new balls onto the field.

A Game Wanted.

The Duluth Heights, Jr., baseball team wants a game for the Fourth of July with any team in the city of the average age of 18 years. For games call Grand 1292-X or Grand 1270-Y.

Red Sox, 5; Athletics, 3.

Philadelphia, July 1.—Boston mixed hits with battery and fielding errors by Philadelphia and won yesterday's game, 5 to 3. The home team hit R. Collins' delivery hard, but sharp fielding kept the score down. Manager Carrigan of Boston was sent off the field by Umpire O'Loughlin for disputing a called ball on E. Collins in the sixth inning. Thomas took Carrigan's place. Score: R. H. E.

STAR SOUTHPAW SIGNED FOR DOOKS' HEAVING STAFF

Fred Boardman, Formerly of St. Paul American Association Team, Has Joined Darby O'Brien's Crew.

Fred Boardman, the southpaw that The Herald stated would possibly join the White Sox in the near future, made his first appearance with the Dooks yesterday and in his brief trial showed the goods.

According to the statement made by President Harry A. Blume before the departure of the team, the salary offered for the services of the latest acquisition to the twirling staff of the White Sox, is one of the largest paid any player in the Northern league.

An agent of the White Sox was authorized to carry on the negotiations with M. J. Kelley of the St. Paul team, and while the original figures regarding the amount of money that will be paid to Boardman, may not be carried out, it is known that it cost the club some real money to secure the services of the port side flinger.

President Blume is of the opinion that the Dooks have an excellent chance to win the pennant. The pitching staff, since the desertion of Dick Leahy, has been the weak spot of the team. The acquisition of Boardman, if the young man proves up to the nice things that have been said of him, will give Darby O'Brien one of the best staffs in the league and will increase the oriflamme chances of his wrecking crew of ruthless vandals.

Team Showing Strongly.

George E. Lennon, Manager Friel and Business Manager Mike Kelley of the St. Paul team joined praises in their appraisal of Boardman. Friel declared that the southpaw is a comer, and that all he needed was a trifle more experience to make him a real star of high caliber.

As a member of the pitching staff of the White Sox the youngster will get all the experience his system craves for.

Thus far the present road trip has been one of the most successful that any team under the management of Darby O'Brien has ever made. For some reason the Duluth teams of the past few seasons have been poor travelers. After playing at a torrid pace in the home series the Dooks up to the present time are playing a swell brand of baseball on the road.

Should Darby bring his gang home in third place the pennant hopes of the fans will be greatly increased. The fans will be crazy. Grand Forks comes after the Winnipeg stand. While Wheeler's Flickers have slumped some the past few days, the fact remains that the former manager of the Three-I league has one of the sweetest ball teams of the Northern.

Duluth is playing two games at Winnipeg today. This is Dominion day and there will be morning and afternoon contests. The Dooks open the Grand Forks series tomorrow, playing Thursday, Friday and a double-header on the Fourth. That will give the touring White Sox two double-headers in four days, and here is where the services of Boardman will be used to the utmost advantage.

ANOTHER EXPERIMENTER

Reds' Third Baseman Disappears After Talking With Tinker.

Chicago, July 1.—Bert Niehoff, third baseman for the Cincinnati National league club, has jumped to the Federal league, it was reported last night. It is thought he will play with the St. Louis club.

Niehoff warmed up with his teammates yesterday afternoon, but when the game was called, he was nowhere in sight. He reappeared a few minutes later in a box where Joe Tinker, manager of the Chicago Federals sat. The two remained there throughout the game.

Tinker refused to talk and Niehoff has not been found since he left the ball park.

ONLY TEN ENTRANTS.

National Balloon Race List Reduced By Honeywell Withdrawing.

St. Louis, Mo., July 1.—Capt. H. E. Honeywell of St. Louis has withdrawn from the national elimination balloon race that is to start from here July 11 in order that his balloon, "Uncle Sam," may be piloted by Paul McCullough of St. Louis, another entrant to the race. The withdrawal of Capt. Honeywell reduced the number of entrants to ten.

It originally was planned that McCullough should pilot the balloon "Million Population Club," but this balloon was destroyed in the recent Portland, Or., race.

Robert E. Volker, president of the St. Louis Aeroclub yesterday received a telegram from John Watts of Kansas City, saying that the balloon Kansas City II was not destroyed in the Portland race as reported, and that he would pilot it in the approaching elimination contest.

The inflation of the racing balloons will begin at 10 o'clock July 11 and special gas will be supplied at the rate of 160,000 cubic feet an hour. The first balloon will be released at 4:30 p. m. and the other balloons will be re-

HENLEY REGATTA ON; LARGE GALLERY

American Takes Fourth Heat of Diamond Sculls Event; British Experts Fear American Invaders.

Henley-on-Thames, England, July 1.—A broiling hot day greeted the opening today of the Royal regatta here and found tens of thousands of lovers of aquatic sports gathered along the banks of the Thames.

The river near the shore was crowded with houseboats and launches. The crowds included many Americans who had come to watch the performances of the American entrants in the various events.

James B. Ayer of the Boston Union Boat club beat R. Gould of New Zealand and Jesus college, Cambridge, in the fourth heat of the diamond sculls by two lengths. Time, eight minutes, 44 seconds.

The craft on the river were so arranged to leave an open way 110 feet in width in the center of the river for a distance of a mile and 550 yards. The course stretched from the end of the island along to Phyllis court.

The day's program was largely taken up with the eliminatory heats of the diamond sculls, in which there were a number of scullers from across the Atlantic. These were Paul Withington, James B. Ayer and William Tudor Gardiner of the Union Boat club of Boston, and Robert Bibbie, amateur champion of America, from the Don Rowing club, Toronto.

The American crews and scullers were out on the water early for tuning up spins. They seemed to revel in the heat, which was sorely felt by the British rowers.

Both Harvard and Boston appeared to be at the top of their form and English experts admitted today that they feared for the results of tomorrow's heats in the grand challenge cup between Harvard and Leander and Boston and London respectively.

BOMBARDIER GETS LOST PRESTIGE

English Boxer Knocks Out Australian Challenger in Second Round.

London, July 1.—Bombardier Wells, the English pugilist, knocked out Colin Bell, an Australian boxer in the second round at the Olympic last night. The contest was for the heavyweight championship of the British empire, and was scheduled to go twenty rounds.

Wells, by his victory, won $10,000 and regained some of his lost prestige, for, while it was recognized that so far as science was concerned, he was in a position to meet any heavyweight, his frequent defeats led to the opinion that he lacked the stamina, backbone and nerve necessary to make him a first-class fighter. But the form he displayed last night against the rugged Australian champion has again caused him to be numbered among the "white hopes."

In the opening round Bell used rushing tactics, making play for the Bombardier's weak spot, his stomach, but the Englishman kept cool and made excellent use of his superior science, several times stopping Bell with well directed lefts to the face.

In the second round, Bell sent Wells to his knees with a swing to the jaw. No sooner was the Englishman back on his feet than Bell rushed again, expecting to finish him, but the Bombardier landed a terrific right to the point of the jaw, sending Bell to the boards, where he remained until counted out.

Wells's victory was cheered by the big crowd for several minutes.

Kid Retains Title.

New Orleans, La., July 1.—"Kid" Williams of Baltimore successfully defended his newly acquired title of bantamweight champion of America in a ten-round no decision bout here last night with Pete Herman, of New Orleans. A newspaper decision gave Williams seven rounds, Herman two and one a draw. The fighting was fast from the start with Williams the aggressor.

McCue Replaces Wolgast.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 1.—Mattie McCue will be the man to take Ad Wolgast's place in the ring with Joe Rivers here July 4. This was decided last night.

Johnson's Bets Attached.

Paris, France, July 1.—The courts have authorized an attachment against "Jack" Johnson, the heavyweight champion pugilist on claims by two creditors for sums of $3,500 and $11,120 respectively, provided no appeal is entered within a fortnight. The alleged creditors claim they were to receive these amounts of a stake won by Johnson in his fight Saturday night.

DISCIPLINES PLAYERS.

Manager Herzog of Reds Among Those Fined and Suspended.

Chicago, July 1.—President Tener of the National league yesterday disciplined three players who participated in the disorder of Monday's Cincinnati-Chicago game in this city. Manager Herzog and Catcher Mullaney of Cincinnati were suspended for three days and Good of Chicago was fined $25. In addition to his suspension, Herzog was fined $50 for flinging his bat so far that it fell into a box in which several spectators were sitting.

SCHUMANN-HEINK DIVORCE ENTERED

Her Name Is Cleared, But Charges Against Rapp Sustained.

Chicago, July 1.—A decree of divorce in favor of Mrs. Ernestine Rapp Mme. Schumann-Heink), wife of William Rapp of New York, was entered by Judge Denis E. Sullivan in the superior court today.

The decree provides that Mrs. Rapp may resume her maiden name, Ernestine Schumann-Heink, and that the defendant shall pay the costs of the suit. It also finds that the statutory charges made against the complainant, Mrs. Rapp, in the defendant's amended answer were not supported by the evidence introduced.

The decree was granted on statutory charges, which it is held Mrs. Rapp proved against her husband. An appeal is allowed by the decree upon the defendant's filing a cost bond and bill of exceptions within sixty days.

CLEAN HANDS MAXIM UPHELD

Federal Court of Appeals Sustains Judge Sessions in Killifer Case.

Outlaw League's Attorney Says That Ruling Does Not End Fight.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 1.—The United States circuit court of appeals here today affirmed the decision of United States District Judge Sessions in the case of Catcher William S. Killifer, Jr. Judge Sessions had refused to grant an injunction asked for by the Chicago Federal league club restraining Killifer from playing with the Philadelphia National league club and the case had been appealed.

The opinion of the appellate court was rendered by Judges Warrington, Denison and Tuttle and follows:

"We are led to agree with the view of Judge Sessions, that the complainant's suit could not be sustained under the maxium, "He who comes into a court of equity must come with clean hands," and the application of this rule derives additional force from the reasons he stated and the authorities he cited. Upon the whole it is vain to urge that the learned trial judge abused his discretion.

"The order denying a temporary injunction is affirmed with costs; and with direction to dismiss the bill, unless complainant shows to the satisfaction of the trial judge, that under amendments to their bill of complaint, they are able to and will at final hearing produce additional and substantial evidence, but such dismissal if ordered shall be without prejudice to the rights of any of the parties to institute such actions at law as they may be obliged respecting the subject of the present suit."

Killifer, who was under reservation to the Philadelphia Nationals signed a Federal league contract and "jumped" to that league. Later he reconsidered his action and went back to the Philadelphia National league team.

The Chicago Federals then sought an injunction restraining him from playing with the Philadelphia club, but in a decision rendered at Grand Rapids, Mich., on April 10, last, United States Judge Sessions denied the injunction because, in his opinion, the Federals had not come into court with "clean hands." The Federals then asked that an appeal be allowed and Judge Sessions granted this request.

In this appeal, the Chicago Federal league contended that Judge Sessions had erred in his decision because he did not grant the temporary injunction and because it had come into court with clean hands.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 1.—E. E. Gates of Indianapolis, attorney for the Federal league, said last night when informed of the decision of the United States circuit court of appeals in the Killifer case that it by no means ends the fight for the possession of the catcher.

The appeal from Judge Sessions' ruling, he said, was only on the interlocutory order which seldom is overruled by the higher court and that the case will now go back to Judge Sessions for argument and decision on the facts and points of law at issue. Mr. Gates came here in connection with the Chicago American league club's injunction to prevent Hal Chase playing with the Buffalo Federal league team. He said last night that there probably would be important developments in the Chase case.

Boston, Mass., July 1.—William H. Killifer, catcher of the Philadelphia Nationals, was highly elated when informed that the United States circuit court of appeals at Cincinnati had affirmed the decision of the lower court in denying an injunction to the Chicago Federal league club to restrain him from playing with the Philadelphia team.

"This certainly is a great victory for us," he said.

C. H. & D. COMPANY TO DEFAULT JULY 1

Certain Interest Payments Will Not Be Met, It Is Said.

New York, July 1. — The Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton Railway company, it was authoritatively stated in the financial district today, will tomorrow default interest payments on the following issues: $3,162,000 5 per cent bonds of the Indiana, Decatur & Western division; $4,722,000 4 per cent bonds of the Cincinnati, Indianapolis & Western division, and about $1,800,000 4 per cent unguaranteed first and refunding bonds. This last amount is said to be held principally by banks and was taken in 1909 for payment of floating debts held by those institutions.

Issues of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton on which interest payments probably will be made tomorrow, are: $17,000,000 general mortgage 1 per cent bonds, $7,500,000 guaranteed first refunding fours; $2,728,000 4½ per cent Dayton & Michigan division bonds, and $2,000,000 4½ per cent Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton second mortgage bonds.

DETROIT MURDER NOT FOR REVENGE

J. A. Burbank's Death Ordinary Crime—Bandit He Killed Identified.

Detroit, Mich., July 1. — After an extensive investigation the police have abandoned the theory of revenge as a possible motive for the killing of J. Albert Burbank, local hardware merchant, early Sunday morning. One, or possibly two highwaymen, they claim, lay in wait for Burbank as he approached his home. When attacked the merchant shot one of his assailants dead and then fell dead himself, a victim of the highwayman's bullets.

The officers are puzzled by conflicting stories of persons who say they heard the shots. One person is positive he saw two men running away, one of them falling dead as the result of his wounds. Others claim they saw only one man run after the shooting, and his body was picked up a block distant from where Burbank fell.

The dead highwayman was identified as George Moore, who had been a frequenter of various rescue homes. He is known to have spent considerable time in the vicinity of Burbank's store, and it now is believed he followed the merchant when he left his place of business late Saturday night.

NEW LAW ON GARNISHMENT

Labor Leaders Will Start Fight to Protect Honest Workers.

Say Exemption Period Should Be Interpreted as Calendar Month.

An effort to secure more favorable legislation for the laborer in garnishment cases will be launched by the legislative committee of the Minnesota Federation of Labor at the state convention to be held in Duluth in July.

The two features of the present law that will draw the fire of labor leaders are the definition of "necessities of life" and "exemption to meet present expenses."

The complaints are: First, that under the present law, which went into force in 1913, too many things are considered under the present interpretation of the law as necessities of life, and subject to the garnishment clause; second, that the clause covering exemption gives no protection to the worker.

William E. McEwen conferred with John Ryan of St. Paul, secretary of the Minnesota State Grocer's association, this week while the latter was here from St. Paul, and both are of the opinion that the law could be revised with advantage.

Offers no Protection.

Mr. McEwen declares emphatically that the law does not protect the honest but unfortunate worker, and that the law should be revised so that the worker would be protected against want and privation if he is honest and worthy of protection. No effort will be made to shield the "dead beat."

"The old law," says Mr. McEwen, "exempted $25 during a thirty-day period. The present law offers practically no protection, and garnishment proceedings may leave the honest toiler's family destitute. For instance, if a man has received $35 of his wages, for a thirty-day period, an attachment may be filed so that a creditor may take every cent of his wages for the remainder of the thirty days. The wage-earner might be making every possible effort to meet the demands of his creditor, but if the attachment were made, the debtor would have no protection. When the law was framed, the framers intended that the exemption period should mean a calendar month and that the garnishment papers should be filed so that the debtor should be exempted $35 after the filing of the papers to meet his present needs. The same thing was true of the old law which exempted $25 during a thirty-day period.

"A case was brought to my attention a few days ago where a man making only $60 a month and having ten children to support, was garnisheed and every cent due him was taken by a firm which had sold him furniture. Eighty per cent of the bill had been paid and the sale had been made on a contract so that the dealer could take back the goods if not paid for within the stipulated time. Despite all this the man's wages were taken in a heartless manner and his children left without proper means of support.

"What we want is that the law shall be revised so that a worker will be given enough leeway to prepare to meet the demands of his creditors if they decide to garnishee him. You will note that the law gives him no protection if he has drawn $35 of his wages."

Following is the clause covering exemptions in the new state law:

"The wages of any person, not exceeding $35, due for any services rendered by him for another during thirty days preceding any attachment, garnishment or the levy of any execution against him, provided, however, that if the action, in which such attachment, garnishment, or levy of execution is made, is brought to recover the purchase price of necessaries for the use of the debtor or his family dependent upon him, and any such debtor shall have been paid wages amounting to $35 or more earned during said thirty-day period, then in any such case, such debtor shall not be entitled to any exemption under this subdivision in wages earned during said thirty-day period, except the $35 theretofore paid.

Approved April 19, 1913.

PAY 10 CENTS EACH FOR LIVE RATS.

Galveston, Texas, July 1.—Ten cents each for live rats is offered by the health authorities here. The rats will be examined for traces of bubonic infection. City, state and Federal health authorities and business interests have combined forces for a sanitary campaign.

MOUNT LASSEN HAS ANOTHER ERUPTION.

Red Bluff, Cal., July 1.—Lassen peak exploded yesterday in its thirteenth eruption since May 30, with a dense column of black smoke that shot up thousands of feet and then drifted slowly northward. A few minutes later a smaller column fringed with whitish steam ascended more gradually. The eruption lasted longer and had the appearance of being more violent than any that preceded it.

After taking the angle of elevation with a transit, the county surveyor estimated the height of the first column at 3,000 feet. At the end of an hour it had dwindled to 500 feet and its color indicated that it was mostly steam. The black of the first outburst was undoubtedly due to a heavy freight of volcanic sand.

Counting the eruption of Sunday night, reported from Mineral, this last is the thirteenth decisive outbreak of Lassen peak since it first awoke a month ago yesterday.

JULY 23 WILL BE "CIRCUS DAY"

Ringling Brothers Will Spread Their Big Tents Here Three Weeks From Thursday.

Three weeks away!

What? Why, the circus of course! Yes, it's coming. When? On Thursday, July 23, "Ringling Brothers' World's Greatest Shows" will spread their fourteen acres of canvas here. So it is up to the youngsters to begin saving and be good, for they have only twenty-one days to get together the necessary price of admission, and the smell of the sawdust is in the air.

As for wonders the show is full of them. First, Duluthians are promised a big, brilliant and superb spectacle, "Solomon and the Queen of Sheba." Trainloads of scenery and properties representing an investment of $1,000,000 are used in its presentation. A cast of 1,200 people, 300 dancing girls, 32 camels and 735 horses are necessary to enact it.

Four trains made up of eighty-nine sixty-foot cars will haul the tents, horses, elephants, menagerie, side show and sundry paraphernalia of the circus.

A varied and extensive program consisting of 375 novelty acts representing the best talent in Europe and America and fifty clowns will entertain in the mammoth main tent. The menagerie tent will house 1,003 wild animals. Forty-one elephants, boxing and wrestling kangaroos, beautiful high school horses and trained seals will perform tricks in the three rings. Beautiful and graceful "nymphs of the air" will do hair-raising stunts on trapeze and tight-ropes and golden chariots with prancing steeds will race on the hippodrome track. So, is it to be wondered at, that "circus day" is a treat to look forward to?

SUMMER RESORT IN NORTH DAKOTA.

Grace City, N. D., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—On the shores of Lake Juanita, near here, a summer resort, the only one in Foster county, is being established. Docks and boathouses are being constructed. Two large launches and a number of smaller ones and row boats are plying the waters, which have been deepened by the construction of a dam. There is about seven miles of shore line around which an auto speedway has been constructed.

AUTOMOBILES FOR CLARK AND MARSHALL.

Washington, July 1.—After days of parliamentary wrangling both houses of congress agreed to appropriate for automobiles for Vice President Marshall and Speaker Clark. Each will have a car costing $4,500. Republican Leader Mann, referring to the Baltimore convention said:

"I think we ought to give him a slight recognition of his great abilities as speaker, remembering that, but for a chance, he would now have been president, enjoying the privilege of many automobiles. I do not wish to draw comparisons between the speaker and the president, but if Champ Clark had been nominated and selected president, we all would have been proud of him in that position."

CHILE WILL HAVE EMBASSY IN U. S.

Washington, July 1.—Official dispatches from Santiago report that the Chilean committee on foreign affairs has reported favorably on the measure raising the legation here to the rank of an embassy, and that the bill will become a law within a few days. Henry P. Fletcher is American minister to Chile. With the change in rank President Wilson will nominate an ambassador.

White Slaver Sentenced.

Helena, Mont., July 1. — Pleading guilty to a white slavery charge in the Federal court here, E. M. Pirtle, indicted by the grand jury for bringing Nona Wright from Wyoming to Great Falls, Mont., for immoral purposes, was sentenced by Judge Bourquin to thirteen months in the Federal penitentiary at McNeil Island, Wash.

Gangplank Falls; One Killed.

Boston, July 1.—Henry Cosgrove, an aged Roxsbury man, was killed and four other persons were hurt, one seriously, when a gangplank leading from a pier in Charlestown to the White Star liner Cymprie, broke and fell upon the people below it.

The most seriously injured was Mrs. T. W. Randalph of Somerville. The accident occurred just before the liner sailed for Liverpool. The visitors were in the crowd that had gathered to bid farewell to departing friends.

Sunday School Meeting Ends.

Chicago, July 1.—The triennial convention of the international Sunday School association, which opened here last Tuesday, closed last night.

FEW FLIES AT MEAT SHOPS

Inspector Finds Butchers Keeping Markets in Sanitary Condition.

Five Shops Go Out of Business in June; One to Follow.

Thus far this season local butcher shops have been quite free of flies, according to the monthly report of Meat Inspector Leo Bernhardt for June, submitted this morning to Dr. H. E. Webster, director of public health.

The inspector states that during June five butcher shops went out of business, and that of those remaining, but one has a sausage room underground. He says that that will soon be eliminated and that no others will be allowed.

During the month 584 veal carcasses were inspected and nine condemned. Four years ago during the same month sixty out of 965 inspected were condemned. The instructions sent out by the health department relative to proper methods of shipping are credited with the improvement. The inspector also condemned 105 pounds of pork, 150 pounds of beef and thirty pounds of mutton.

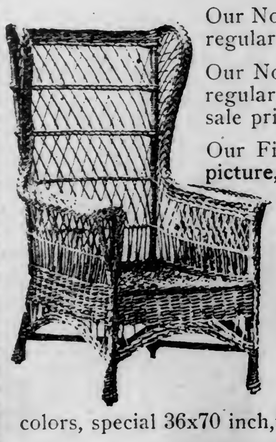

NEVADA'S DIVORCE LAW IS HELD VALID

Carson City, Nev., July 1.—The validity of Nevada's new divorce law was sustained by the state supreme court in a decision handed down today in the Worthington case, which was sent up from the district court of Reno three months ago to test the constitutionality of the act. The supreme court decision means that applicants for divorce in Nevada must reside one year in the state before the courts will acquire jurisdiction.

DELIGHTFUL VISIT ENDS

Grain Growers and Shippers Leave After Enjoyable Entertainment.

Have New and Better Feeling for Duluth Since Visit.

The close of the visit of the Northwestern grain growers and grain shippers will come this evening after they return from a trip up the St. Louis river, a trip which, by the way, turned out to be under the most delightful weather conditions. That they are going away pleased with what they have seen, what they have heard and with the entertainment that has been extended to them would be putting it mildly, as one North Dakotan said today.

"It is too bad," said he, "that these things do not happen oftener, or rather, that it has not happened before. Misunderstandings are bound to arise in business between unseen sellers and unseen purchasers, and this lack of personal touch, augmented by the agitation of would-be office holders for political reasons, soon creates a breach. Visitations of this kind where farmers and the men in the market rub elbows, eat together and fraternize in general is the thing which keeps the agitators out and brings the producer and the purchaser so close that when they deal they do it on a more or less personal basis. This visit has certainly borne fruit; and Duluth never has done a thing that will prove more profitable to her; nor has the Duluth board of trade anything to regret about it."

The visitors visited the board this morning and marched to the foot of Fifth avenue west, headed by the Third Regiment band, where the steamer Columbia was taken for a trip about the harbor and up the St. Louis river to the Spirit Lake annex of the boat club.

The first stop was at the Consolidated elevators, where about half the passengers landed to inspect the elevators, the boat then going to the Peavey elevators, where the others inspected the houses. From the elevators they went to the boat club at Spirit lake for luncheon, and in the afternoon inspected the new steel plant.

At 2:30 this afternoon a large number of the board of trade men who were unable to take the boat this morning, left by train and joined the visitors at Spirit lake, coming back on the Columbia later in the afternoon to witness an exhibition by the flying boat. At 6 o'clock the visitors will be landed so that they may prepare to catch their trains for their homes.

AN EXTRA ATTRACTION.

The Famous Filipino Midgets Will Be at the Shriners' Carnival—They Are Smaller Than Gen. Tom Thumb.

The management of the Shriners' carnival has secured the famous Filipino midgets as a feature attraction for next week. These midgets are without a doubt the smallest adults alive in the world.

They were awarded medals of honor by the government at the St. Louis exposition. They are just eleven inches smaller than was the famous Gen. Tom Thumb. See them dance.

SCARE WITNESSES IN BLACKMAIL CASE?

Heavy Knobs Thrown Into Chicago Federal Building.

Chicago, July 1.—An attempt to intimidate witnesses in the investigation of blackmail charges against certain business agents of labor unions, is suspected in connection with the throwing of four missiles through a skylight of the Federal building here last Monday.

The facts leaked out today when it was discovered that the missiles, four metal knobs torn from a deposit vault and weighing a pound each, were thrown from a vacant floor of an adjoining building. Workmen have been making repairs on this floor.

One of the knobs fell on Judge Mack's courtroom while court was not in session. Another startled occupants of the United States marshal's office. This office adjoins the grand jury chambers, where J. J. McLaughlin, investigator of the blackmail charges, was expected to be a witness Monday.

James H. Wilkerson, United States district attorney, said he had been informed of the occurrence and was at a loss how to account for it.

NEXT CONCERT AT LESTER PARK

Mother Nature Provides a Pole for the Flag-Raising Sunday.

The next free band concert, which will be given next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in Lester park, will be featured by a flag raising on the new pole which has been prepared by Henry Cleveland, manager of the park department.

To say that Manager Cleveland prepared the pole may be slightly misleading, for old Mother Nature was chiefly responsible. The pole is a tree supported by its own roots, which is somewhat of an innovation. The tree died a natural death and the bark dried and peeled without any intervention on the part of man. Last week the park manager had a steeple jack remove the limbs, trim it smoothly and affix the rigging. The tree is eighty-one feet high and stands near the rustic bride which spans Lester river. A better flag pole could not have been made to order.

The flag will be raised during an intermission of the band concert. Lester Park being in Safety Commissioner William A. Hicken's own bailiwick, Mayor Prince has put it up to him to secure a strong-voiced orator of the rising generation to read the Declaration of Independence and a young woman to raise the flag. He suggested that one be from Lester Park and the other from Lakeside, in order that honors might be evenly distributed.

The concert will be given by the Third Regiment band under the direction of Charles Helmer. The mayor said that the program will be announced before the end of the week.

The street car company will hereafter help advertise the city's open air band concerts by signs displayed on the street cars. The company made this agreement at the request of Mayor Prince.

Superior

WILL CONSIDER SECESSION PLAN

Residents of Allouez and the Tenth ward will decide on whether or not they will take the matter of secession into the courts, at a meeting to be held this evening at the Franklin school. The secession movement was started some time ago because of failure to provide water, sewer and other improvements for the suburb. Some of these improvements have been ordered since the agitation to secede was started.

TOOK POISON BY MISTAKE; DIES

Mrs. John Berg, 714 Winter street, died at St. Mary's hospital at 10 o'clock last evening from the effects of taking poison by mistake. She was brought to the institution in an unconscious condition and died shortly after arriving at the institution. Mrs. Berg had intended to take a small quantity of cough medicine, but in the dark had picked up the wrong bottle. Police Surgeon D. R. Searle was called immediately to attend the woman.

SUPERIOR WILL HAVE ZOO IN PARK

Superior will have a zoo. Animals will be secured and installed in cages at Billings Park.

Such was the decision reached last evening at the meeting of the Superior Rotary club. The funds for the purchase of the bears, deer, wildcat, leopard, lion, tigers and other animals too numerous to mention will be secured by asking each citizen of Superior to contribute towards the scheme just $1. The collection of the money will begin at once.

Will Rebuild Elevator.

A permit for the reconstruction of the Belt line elevator, which was totally destroyed by fire last fall, was issued yesterday by the building inspector. The permit calls for an expenditure of $145,000. The work has started and it is planned to have it ready to receive grain on Sept. 1.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

HENLEY HEATS FOR DIAMOND SCULLS

Henley on Thames, July 1.—Robert Dibble of the Don Rowing club, Toronto, amateur sculling champion of America, beat F. F. V. Scrutton of the Vikings club in their heat in the Diamond sculls.

Giuseppe Sinigaglia, the Italian giant, beat E. D. P. Pinks of the London Rowing club, one of England's hopes, in the fifth heat of the Diamond sculls.

G. C. Fripp of Manchester, England, beat William Tudor Gardiner in the seventh heat.

Dibble won his heat by three lengths in the slow time of 9 minutes 40 seconds, while Fripp won by two lengths in 9 minutes 17 seconds.

PHANTOM MIKE MAY FIGHT WINNER

Coffroth Would Match Gibbons With Winner of Murray-Chip Fight.

St. Paul, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mike Gibbons, local "phantom" middleweight boxer, will likely meet the winner of the Murray-Chip twenty-round bout to be held July 4 at San Francisco.

Promoter Coffroth is hot after Gibbons to sign for Labor day.

DOUGAN'S NEW JOB.

Star Twirler for Winnipeg to Coach Jamestown Football Team.

Jamestown, N. D., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Stanley Dougan, star pitcher of the Winnipeg Northern league club, has been elected as football coach for the Jamestown college, and will take up his work here at the close of the Northern league season.

Dougan gained his football experience at the University of Ohio. As a member of the Winnipeg pitching staff Dougan has the distinction of being the only heaver of the league who has hurled a no-hit game up to the present time this season.

FAST POWER BOAT RACE IS EXPECTED

Peoria, Ill., July 1.—Sixty of the fastest power boats in the country have been entered for the seventh annual regatta of the Mississippi Valley Power Boat association, which will open here on the Illinois river tomorrow. Among the craft expected to equal, if not break all previous records for power boats on inland waters, are the Baby Reliance V, which has done 56 miles an hour in time trials, and the Kitty Hawk VI.

The Oregon Kid, famous Western racer, arrived today. Among the entries are ten boats which have records of forty miles an hour or more. Tomorrow the Peoria Yacht club will entertain the incoming boatmen and tomorrow the visitors will be the guests of the Illinois Valley Yacht and Canoe club.

Li'l Atha Lax in Dates.

London, July 1.—Jack Johnson, the negro heavyweight pugilist, today failed to keep his appointment at the offices of a sporting paper here, where he was to sign articles for a fight with Sam Langford, to take place in October. The promoters, however, received an intimation that he would arrive here tomorrow.

VOTING TRUST WILL DROP THE SOUTHERN

New York, July 1.—The Southern Railway company, which has been controlled by a voting trust agreement since 1894, is to be handed over to the shareholders on July 31 next, according to a statement issued by the surviving trustees. These are Charles Lanier and G. E. Baker, who, with the late J. P. Morgan, comprised the voting trust.

SATURDAY IS THE FOURTH OF JULY

Saturday Business Will Be Done Friday This Week

It will be the biggest Friday on record for it's the day before the "Fourth," when thousands of present and prospective citizens of Duluth, U. S., are in the habit of buying their new suits.

Your "Fourth-of-July" suit is ready at the busy Columbia Store for a first and last try-on. Whatever price you can afford or wish to pay, a Columbia Suit will be found the peer of any at like or similar prices.

Here is what we positively know to be the best fifteen or thereabout Suit sold on Superior Street. It is our famous COLUMBO $14.50 SUIT, which has brought back into a place of honor the moderately priced suit that was so long in well-deserved contempt because of its general shoddiness and poor workmanship. We sell even silk-lined blue serges at $14.50 and guarantee them as we do every Columbia article.

Here is the C. C. C. $19.50 SUIT, a marvel of goodness, style and reliability.

And here are $25 SUITS from the foremost American Wholesale Tailors. Suits that throw the old-fashioned Retail Tailor into the discard, just as modern hats and shoes have done to the old-time hatter and shoemaker.

Take a look at our "Fourth-of-July" windows, where many samples of $14.50 Columbo Suits are on display, where soft hats and straws at moderate prices are shown and shirts and ties of the finest sort tell you what is what in the world of fashion upon this glorious "Fourth" of 1914. Celebrate past events but wear the latest styles of the present season.

FOR THE BOYS—Little Columbo $4.90 Suits in blue, gray and fancy shades or Play Suits in a score of cute devices. As an Extra we offer this week BLUE Serge Suits at $4.90 with TWO pair of trousers.

$4 Silk Shirts at $2.95.
$1.50 Cufturn Shirts at $1.15.

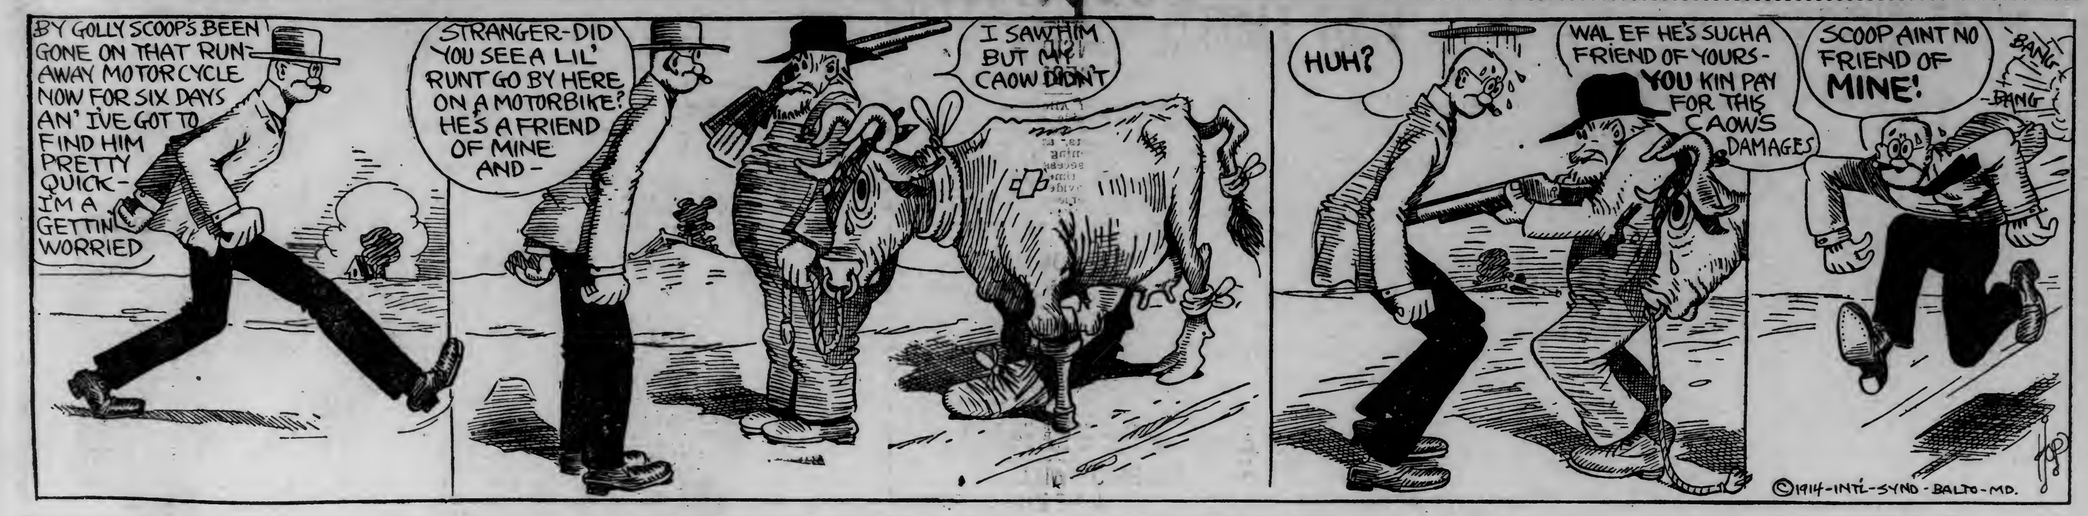

A remarkable SHOE SALE is on this week in our BARGAIN BASEMENT. For obvious reasons we are taking a cold-blooded loss of $1,500 on shoes we shouldn't have in the house at this time. They are shoes for women, men, girls and boys. The slaughter prices are 48c, 98c, $1.98 and $2.48. THE BIG LOTS are WOMEN'S OXFORDS AT 98c. If you will just think that $3.50 is the lowest priced shoe we handle you can realize the importance of this sale to the shoe-consuming hill climbers of Duluth.

Vacation togs for city and country use. Canes, 50c to $10.

BOLT KILLS IN STEEPLE

Rainy River Man Is Lightning Victim in Baudette Church.

Lghtning Strikes Him as He Is Working Near Iron Cross.

Baudette, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Albert Morisette of Rainy River, who had the contract for the erection of the new steeple and gallery for the Sacred Heart church here, was struck by lightning during the storm here yesterday. He lived a few minutes after the crash, dying in the arms of Father Bossus.

Mr. Morisette had gone to the tower to gather his tools preparatory to going to his home when the storm, which had threatened all the morning, caught him in the steeple near the iron cross. It was the only bolt of lightning which occurred during the storm. The church was damaged to the extent of $200. Mr. Morisette's clothing was on fire. The bolt passed the entire length of his body. When found he was in a sitting position.

He leaves a wife and two small children and other relatives who reside in Rainy River.

Many Children Escape.

Had the storm been an hour earlier in the morning, there would have been twenty-five small children in the church receiving instructions for their first communion on Sunday.

The priest's house was damaged some by the bulging of the walls and plaster falling. People living near the church received some of the shock.

TRIAL IS POSTPONED.

C. H. Moyer's Counsel Agrees to Case Going Over.

Houghton, Mich., July 1.—O. N. Hilton, attorney for the Western Federation of Miners, has agreed to a postponement of the trials of Charles H. Moyer and other officials and members of the union. The charges of conspiracy growing out of the recent strike of copper miners were to have been heard in the district court at L'Anse on July 6. Because of the absence of witnesses the prosecution was unwilling to proceed and it is expected the change in program will be approved by Judge O'Brien. The exact date to which the trials will be postponed was not announced.

DITCHING CONTRACT AGAIN AWARDED

Middle River, Minn., July 1.—Because the Lana Construction Co. could not furnish the required bonds to guarantee the dredge work on the Moose river system, the state again advertised for bids and the contract was let at Bemidji to the Northwestern Drainage company at 12 cents a yard.

The bid of 9½ cents by the Lana company was considered too low by all surety companies and they refused to bond.

The delay of more than sixty days, caused by the bond matter and new advertising necessary, has been very annoying to settlers and means there will be little digging done this year, if any at all. Middle River will be the headquarters for the Northwestern Drainage company.

Avoid Danger of Blood Infection

Get Your Blood Strong to Resist Daily Perils

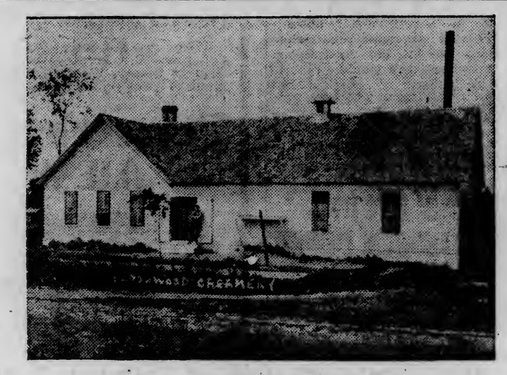

A host of people have thanked their lucky star to have used S. S. S. for the blood instead of those dangerous drugs such as mercury, calomel, arsenic, etc. It is an easy matter to get the blood poisoned from contact with disease germs. They lurk in almost everything we touch or handle and a slight scratch or skin abrasion is often the gate of entrance for a vast army of germs. If the blood is impure, if pimples, boils, eczema or other eruptive conditions make the skin a danger spot use S. S. S. at once and fortify the system. Get your blood strong and full of red corpuscles to renew tissue health. Let S. S. S. keep down tendency of all germs to multiply and your skin will soon renew itself. These facts are explained in a beautiful book just issued and will be mailed free by The Swift Specific Co., 110 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

Get a bottle of S. S. S. today of any druggist but insist that you will have nothing else.

For more detailed directions write the Medical Dept., as suggested in circular around the bottle.

DAIRY INDUSTRY GROWS IN FLOODWOOD DISTRICT

THE FLOODWOOD CREAMERY.

Floodwood, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.) — The annual meeting of the Floodwood Co-operative creamery was held yesterday. Reports showed that the farmers have delivered from June 1, 1913, to June 1, 1914, 32,159 pounds butter fat, which brought in a revenue of $10,400. The farmers have received in cash, $9,000. In addition to that a dividend of 8 per cent was paid on the creamery stock. This makes the third dividend of 8 per cent paid during the four years the creamery has been running—which is considered an unusual good showing for a new country. The average price paid for butter fat during the year was 28½ cents; number of stockholders, farmers, 72; merchants, 19; patrons furnishing cream, 98; value of the creamery plant, $4,500.

The farmers expect to bring in about two or three car loads of new milch cows during this summer.

The officers of the association are: N. O. Stagoberg, president; L. P. Graff, vice president, and M. W. Hingley, secretary and treasurer.

Elmer M. Johnson, the manager of the creamery, is among the best buttermakers in Minnesota. During last year he scored first prize three times in the State Buttermakers contest, in the Sixth district. The Golden Rod butter is known all over the northern part of Minnesota and especially in Duluth. Among Duluth people who are good creamery customers are Ed Hazen, Harry Gerhardt, J. T. Armstead, W. H. Tischer, George Blackwood, W. F. McKay, County Engineer E. K. Coe and others.

DETROIT PLANNING BIG CELEBRATION

Aeroplans Flights, Parade, Ball Game and Other Features.

Detroit, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Elaborate preparations are being made for a rousing Fourth of July celebration here. Almost every business firm in the city is assisting and will be represented in the parade. Seventy-one firms have already stated that they will take part. The Morgan fife and drum corps of Minneapolis, which is coming to Detroit for the G. A. R. encampment, will be here for the Fourth.

Another prominent feature will be an aeroplane flight. Ralph E. McMillen, an English aviator, has been secured for a flight in a Curtiss aeroplane. A ball game will be played by Lake Park and Thief River Falls teams. The Pelican Rapids band of twenty-five pieces will furnish music. Special train service has been arranged on both the Northern Pacific and Soo railroads. The Scenic moving picture theater is to be open free all day and a game of water baseball is planned for on the lake. The celebration promises to be one of the biggest ever held in this part of the state.

RAPS COMMISSION.

Oshkosh Merchant Attacks Methods of Badger Vice Probers.

Oshkosh, Wis., July 1.—A heated controversy between Chairman Teasdale of the commission and Frank Stein, representing a dry goods house where women are employed, featured the afternoon session here yesterday of the legislative vice commission. Mr. Stein was opposed to the plan of having girls appear before the commission and claimed that the inquisitorial body tries to make out that every girl is a prostitute. He said that the commission cast a reflection upon the character of every working girl and that he would refuse to permit any girl employe of his to testify in secret session unless he also was present.

The session in Oshkosh was closed after a secret session last evening.

A number of physicians testified yesterday afternoon, but their testimony failed to bring out any figures or statistics concerning the people of Oshkosh in general.

Dr. M. E. Corbett, the principal witness, would not say from his own experience how large a percentage of the people have venereal diseases during their lives.

As to surgical operations, he estimated that about 5 per cent are directly due to such troubles.

WILL HONOR EARLY DAY MISSIONARIES

Monument to Be Unveiled to Martyrs at Walhalla, N. D.

Walhalla, N. D., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—A monument to pioneer day missionaries, of four different denominations, two of whom were killed by warring Indians, will be unveiled here tomorrow.

The martyr missionaries are all buried in the Walhalla cemetery, which is one of the oldest and most historic in the state. The missionaries to whom the monument is erected, follow:

Elijah Terry, Baptist, killed in 1852.

Sarah Barnard, Presbyterian, died in 1853.

Mrs. J. Spencer, Congregationalist, killed in 1854.

Alex Goldie, Evangelist, died in 1893.

Rev. John Scott, Presbyterian, died in 1900.

Mrs. John Scott, Presbyterian, died in 1912.

Each of these missionaries saw several years of active experience in what was then a wild frontier. Mr. and Mrs. John Scott, the last survivors of the early day force of mission workers, spent over forty years, each engaged in active missionary endeavor.

BEMIDJI WEDDING.

Kelliher Man and Wilton Girl Are Married.

Bemidji, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Jule Achenbach of Kelliher and Miss Lottie Brennan of Wilton were married by Rev. John J. T. Philippe, at St. Philip's Catholic church here at 8 o'clock, Tuesday morning. Many friends attended. The bride wore white chiffon over white satin, with an embroidered tunic and carried bride' roses. Miss Frances Bowers, the bride's attendant, wore white crepe and carried pink roses. Jack Hill of Kelliher attended the groom. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Brennan of Wilton and the groom works for the Crookston Lumber company.

DUNN CENTER WINS VICTORY.

Dunn Center, N. D., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dunn Center won another victory in favor of capturing the county seat of Dunn county, when the commissioners rejected all bids submitted for the erection of a new courthouse at Manning to take the place of the one destroyed last winter. The commissioners took the position that as long as there was a likelihood of the county seat being removed from the inland town of Manning to Dunn Center on the railroad, that it would be a waste of the taxpayers' money to construct a courthouse here until the matter was settled.

CHECKER PLAYER DIES.

Dr. W. E. Truax, Once Champion in Minnesota, Called on Coast.

Moorhead, Minn., July 1.—Dr. W. E. Truax, who lived in Moorhead during the early days of the city, and who later moved to Breckenridge, died in California last week of diabetes and his remains were brought to Breckenridge by his wife and daughters for burial. He came to Minnesota as an agent and train dispatcher for the Northern Pacific, but resigned and studied medicine. He was mayor of Breckenridge and coroner for many years. Dr. Truax's hobby was checker playing and he became an expert of international reputation. He was champion of the state and also of the Western part of the United States for several years. He also played at Edinburgh, Scotland, and London, Eng., with the experts of those countries.

Four children are left besides the widow. They are Paul, auditor of Wilkin county; Walter, cashier of the Genesea, N. D., bank; Miss Sadie, who has been with her parents; and Mrs. J. L. Mathews of Minneapolis.

INTRUDER IS SHOT.

Washburn Barber Wings Man Found in His Home.

Ashland, Wis., July 1.—Duncan Arsenau was brought to a local hospital Monday from Washburn with two bullet wounds. He was found in the home of L. D. Goodnough, a barber at Washburn. Upon entering his home and finding Arsenau there Goodnough commenced shooting at him, inflicting two serious wounds. Goodnough is in jail.

WOULD CHEAT LAW.

Confessed Slayer Said to Have Taken Poison in Prison.

Stillwater, Minn., July 1.—Albert Masterman, when received at state's prison here under a confession of murder in St. Paul, is supposed to have attempted suicide Monday afternoon. Accompanied by his wife, brother and a deputy sheriff, he was taken to the new prison. After entering the outer gates he took a small bottle from his coat pocket and drank the contents. He was seized and examined and is recovering. The bottle contained a compound prepared by a St. Paul pharmacy.

Suicide Near St. Cloud.

St. Cloud, Minn., July 1.—Domestic troubles are alleged to have been responsible for the suicide of Fred Schultz, aged 56 years, a farmer near here. The body was found swinging from a tree yesterday by Sheriff Ben Schoener, who went out with a warrant to arrest the man for causing a disturbance. Schultz had gone to the farm to attempt to become reconciled to his divorced wife.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

St. Cloud—At St. Boniface church at Melrose of which Rev. Mgr. B. Richter is the pastor, confirmation services for a large class were solemnized Sunday. Rt. Rev. Bishop James Trobec of this city conferred the sacrament upon the members of the class.

Berlin—As Mrs. Charles Spall was driving over a bridge her horse took fright and ran away on Monday. The horse took to the sidewalk and collided with a lamp post, throwing Mrs. Spall out. She received serious injuries about the head and shoulders.

Neenah — The Wisconsin Sunday School association, which maintains its head offices in this city, is laying plans for the opening of a summer camp for girls at Camp Onaway, on the Chain o' Lakes, Waupaca.

Stevens Point—While bathing in Rock Run, Edward Prinz, 11 years old, son of Matthew Prinz, was drowned. The body was recovered.

Tomahawk—Dominic Miller, 8 years old, was drowned in the Tomahawk river while playing with a brother, who also fell in the water but was rescued by a boy scout.

Sauk City—Harry Nelson, 9 years old, lost his footing by stepping off a bank in the Wisconsin and drowned before help could reach him.

Madison—E. J. Buehler, Baraboo, a telephone lineman, was arrested here on Sunday on the charge of stealing $150 from Julius Lewer, proprietor of the Portland hotel, Oregon, Wis. The police found $100 in one of his shoes, and it is said he confessed.

Milwaukee—One arm supported by his cane, the other by a police officer, Alva McGee, 74 years old, landed in central police station at about 1 o'clock Monday morning, at the end of a hilarious nght about town. Notwithstanding his years, the prisoner was in a pugilistic frame of mind.

This is the Danger Month for Your Baby

THIS is the month when babies slip from their mothers' arms, when Summer complaint makes their days dark and their nights heavy.

But it will be a safe month for your baby if you see that his food is right. Summer complaint comes to babies whose food is wrong—whose little bodies are not strengthened to fight the Summer heat. It is cow's milk that brings Summer complaint—cow's milk that comes from sick cows—cow's milk that grows sour in the heat—cow's milk that often contains the germs of consumption.

If you can't nurse him—keep the dangers of cow's milk from your baby—keep him healthy with the only safe thing to take the place of mother's milk—made from pure cow's milk, in clean dairies, with the heavy cow dangers eliminated and the light baby needs added. Always fresh because you add only cold water and boil to prepare it.

Send the coupon for this sample package of NESTLÉ'S. It is your first step toward keeping the baby well all Summer. Send the coupon also for the free book by specialists.

EXPECT NEW FIRE HALL THIS YEAR

Plans Being Drawn for Building on Central and Cody.

West Duluth will have a new fire hall before Dec. 31 this year if money for the construction of the building can be secured. This is the opinion of Commissioner Hicken, who is planning the new home for the department.

Plans for the building are being drawn by an architect and will probably be ready within a few days. The matter of providing the money for its construction will be taken up with the other commissioners within a short time.

The building will be located on Central avenue and Cody street, on the corner just north of the present location. The building will be constructed of brick with a concrete foundation. It will be two stories high, having a fifty-foot frontage on Central and be 110 feet deep along Cody street.

The rear end of the building will be arranged for the West Duluth police station. On the second floor over the police station will be located the West Duluth municipal courtroom. Sleeping quarters for the firemen will be arranged in the front part of the second floor.

It is expected that the entire Company No. 8 will be motorized by the time it is ready to go into its new quarters. The company has now a combination, hose cart, chemical and engine, and it is likely that a motor hook and ladder truck will be provided also.

ARRANGE DANCING PARTY FOR GUESTS

Royal League Will Entertain Advisory Council July 24-26.

Plans for the entertaining of the advisory council of the Royal league, which will meet in Duluth on July 24, 25 and 26, at a dancing party on the evening of July 25, at Fairmont park, were made last night at a meeting of a joint committee of West Duluth and Pocahontas councils held at the home of Mrs. E. J. Amon, 626 North Fifty-sixth avenue west. Invitations will be out in about three weeks. Arrangements were made to allow admission to the hall only to those presenting invitations.

The dancing party will be only one of the features of entertainment for the delegates. An automobile ride about the boulevard on the morning of July 25, a moonlight trip around Minnesota point on the evening of July 24, and a steamboat ride to Fond du Lac on July 26, have also been planned. The excursions and automobile trip are being arranged for by the joint committee of the four Duluth councils.

NO OBSERVANCE OF THE FOURTH

Nothing Has Been Planned to Take Place of Firecracker.

"To all outward appearances West Duluth might be several months away from any consideration of an observance of the Fourth of July," said a prominent West Duluth citizen this morning in commenting on the appearance of Central avenue. The remark followed a walk down the principal thoroughfare where only one merchant had so far taken the trouble of placing a flag in his window and that was half shielded.

"The Fourth this year will be nothing like those of the past," he said. "It is to be lamented that no preparation of any kind has been made to observe the day in a patriotic manner. Even the merchants appear to have lost sight of the fact that the nation's greatest holiday is only three days off.

"The ordinance doing away with the deadly firecracker and other unsafe noise dispensers is all right, but the city as a whole should have made provision for something to take their place. The day should be observed with some demonstration that is fitting and make an impression on the young minds.

"Every merchant on the street should be patriotic enough to at least decorate elaborately for the occasion."

Red Men Will Meet.

MONEY POURING INTO TREASURY

Sixty Saloon Licenses Expire Within Space of Few Days.

Dollars are pouring into the office of City Treasurer Grant E. McLean by the thousands.

The money is principally for saloon licenses. About sixty licenses expire at this time within a few days of each other and the proprietors of the thirst parlors are wending their way city hallwards to shove $1,000 each across the city treasurer's counter. Their principal occupation is taking in the money across the mahogany but at least once a year they must reverse the operation if they are to continue disposing of intoxicants at retail.

The licenses which expire are being carefully checked up. If the city has not received its coin the police will be instructed to close the doors of the delinquents. In these days of law enforcement some of the booze dispensers have been having difficulty making both ends meet and it is not impossible that among them are some who will be unable to produce the necessary $1,000 for their licenses.

HICKEN WILL GET SALOON SENTIMENT

Will Prepare Map of District Where Frey Saloon Is Situated.

Safety Commissioner W. A. Hicken will carefully check the petitions which have been presented for and against granting the application of J. J. Frey for a saloon license in the Grand hotel at 5217 Ramsey street, West Duluth.

He will have a map prepared and he will show on it the residence of those who have signed the petitions. In this manner he will be able to see at a glance what proportion of the residents in the vicinity of the proposed saloon are opposed to it and how many are indifferent or favor it.

In addition to the petitions for and against the saloon the West Duluth W. C. T. U. has sent the council a communication asking that the application be vetoed. They state that the majority of the people living in the vicinity of the Grand hotel do not want a saloon there and that a saloon should not be foisted on them against their wishes.

BRAINERD ROBBERS NOT YET CAUGHT

One Suspect Believed Implicated in Recent Duluth Robbery.

Brainerd, Minn., July 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The search for the desperadoes who beat V. N. Roderick, local city clerk, into unconsciousness and robbed him of $1,388 city money and $120 of his own, continues here and in scores of outside places. The man arrested by Deputy Sheriff Claus A. Theorin at the Brainerd depot and whose pockets bulged with a loaded revolver and a pair of brass knuckles, is being held, and Chief Troyer of Duluth thinks he may be implicated in a recent daring safe robbery there. The deaf and dumb man over whom such a furore was made, is apparently innocent. The hotel man at the City hotel vouched that the deaf and dumb person was asleep in his room at the time of the robbery.

Other Cities Helping.

It is a source of gratification to Brainerd officials to see the co-operation given by Duluth, St. Paul and Minneapolis police. At Minneapolis, says County Attorney G. S. Swanson, the police have under surveillance a suspect, and Chief of Police Oscar Martinson will hold him for the Brainerd authorities. The city clerk of Brainerd was bonded $1,000 as city clerk and $1,000 as municipal court clerk.

WEST VIRGINIA IS IN DRY STATE LIST

New Law Takes $1,000,000 From the Public Revenues.

Wheeling, W. Va., July 1.—West Virginia entered the column of prohibition states last midnight, and today its residents are trying to adjust themselves to the new conditions imposed by the Yost act, said to be one of the most drastic prohibitory measures ever enacted in the United States.

Of the 1,200 retail and wholesale liquor establishments on June 1, many had closed their doors before the week began. Only a few kept open until the last minute, when their passing was attended with the tolling of church bells throughout the state.

The last day of licensed sale of intoxicants was beclouded by five sudden deaths. One man was murdered in a Charleston saloon and robbed of 90 cents.

Mingo county had the bloodiest record, as four deaths occurred there. Henry Carlton and Henry Maynard, deputy constables, attempted to arrest Hiram Prince, who had drawn a revolver in a saloon at Naugatuck, and in the shooting which followed Carlton was killed. Prince died of his wounds later.

Laid in Supply; Die.

Aaron Meredith and Thomas Doran, miners, were cremated when their cabin at Rose Siding was burned to the ground. The men had laid in quantities of liquor, and accidentally set fire to their cabin.

The Yost prohibition law closed 1,200 saloons in 75 cities and towns; closed 12 breweries and one distillery; throws 3,000 men out of employment and takes from the revenues of counties, towns and state almost $1,000,000. It is one of the most drastic prohibition measures ever put into effect and contains the following provisions:

Spirituous liquors can be made and sold only for medicinal mechanical and sacramental purposes.

Repeated illegal selling of liquor is punishable by confinement in the penitentiary.

Close recording and tabulating of interstate liquor shipments.

Its provisions affect all organizations as well as individuals.

Demonstrations planned by anti-liquor organizations were postponed because it was feared public displays might bring on trouble.

The law was indorsed by a majority vote of 91,886 in November, 1912.

GETS $275 FROM "PAUPER'S" ESTATE

Landlady Who Befriended Man Finds $19,000 in His Room.

New Haven, Conn., July 1.—Believing him penniless, Mrs. Emma A. Merriam provided for James Fielding at her home for years. Today it was brought out in the probate court that Fielding, who died recently, left $19,000 in cash, a large part of which was found stuffed into an old suitcase in his room. Mrs. Merriam submitted to the court a bill for Fielding's board and was allowed $275.

OBITUARY

Sir Francis J. Campbell, who was principal of the Royal Normal College and Academy of Music for the Blind from 1872 to 1912, and who was knighted by the king in 1909, died in London, June 30.

Georges Perrot, the archaeologist, perpetual secretary of the academy of inscriptions, died in Paris, June 30.

The Earl of Wemyss and March, the "father" of the house of lords, died in London, June 30. Born in 1818, he was until quite recently considered one of the liveliest members of the British house of lords.

Edmund Payne, a comedian, well known to English theater-goers, died in London July 1. He was born in 1865.

PRISONER IS PUT ON PAROLE

Mike Thompson, former secretary-treasurer of Great Lakes local, No. 2, of the Tug Firemen's and Linemen's Protective association, who was arrested yesterday morning on a charge of having appropriated to his own use $103.77 of the association's funds between Jan. 1 and Feb. 28 last, pleaded guilty on his own petition before Judge Bert Fesler in district court this afternoon. Thompson waived examination in police court yesterday and was given a hearing this morning and bound over to the grand jury.

Judge Fesler paroled the prisoner under a state reformatory sentence on condition that he make regular monthly reports to Col. F. E. Resche, probation officer. Thompson told the court that he took the money because he was hard up. His attorney, Richard M. Funck, and Assistant County Attorney Forbes both recommended that Thompson be paroled.

PERSONAL INJURY CASE GOES TO JURY

Shortly before noon today, the personal injury case brought by Gust Kapsotes against the Great Northern Railway company was given to the jury in Judge Ensign's division of the district court. Up to 2:30 o'clock this afternoon no verdict had been reached. Kapsotes is seeking $20,000 damages for injuries received while in the employ of the defendant company as a section hand in the Kelly Lake yards, Oct. 25, 1913.

MUST REMOVE BARN.

Mayor Declares M. Kaner's Stable Is a Nuisance.

After looking over the barn owned by M. Kaner, 1219 East Seventh street, Mayor Prince declared this morning that the structure must be removed. He said that it constitutes one of the worst nuisances which he has encountered in many months.

He explained that it is too close to a school building and is surrounded by good homes. The barn now occupies part of the alley. The city will order it off the alley and will refuse any permits for moving or repairing it. This will leave the owner no alternative except to tear it down. The mayor was accompanied by Commissioners Murchison and Hicken, and Health Director Webster.

ROOT WILL NOT BE SENATE CANDIDATE

Albany, July 1.—United States Senator Elihu Root will not be a candidate for re-election, according to a letter written by him to William Barnes, chairman of the Republican state committee and made public at the senator's request. The letter states that Mr. Root "cannot under any circumstances be a candidate for re-election."

MOUNT LASSEN ON ANOTHER ERUPTION

Red Bluff, Cal., July 1.—After less than twenty-four hours of quiet, Lassen peak burst forth early today in another eruption—the fourteenth in the series that began May 30. No flames were seen, but the vast plume of blackened steam from the crater waved a mile high in the sky and volcanic ash fell at Macomber Flats, thirteen miles distant.

The true volcanic nature of the eruption, as determined by J. S. Diller, of the United States geological survey, was further emphasized today by the stench of sulphur perceptible at Volta and at Viola, twenty-two miles down the wind to the north.

NEED MORE FUNDS FOR SALEM VICTIMS

Salem, Mass., July 1.—Urgent need for more funds for the relief of the fire sufferers was emphasized at the meeting of the relief committee today, and it was voted to re-issue the appeal for financial assistance made last Saturday night.

THEODORE, HAITIEN REBEL, IS KILLED

Washington, July 1.—Senator Davilmar Theodore, the Haitien revolutionist leader, has been killed in battle with fifty of his followers near the Dominican frontier. Capt. Eberle of the cruiser Washington today so reported information from two members of the Haitien cabinet.

NEGLIGENCE LAID TO RIVER PILOT

St. Louis, Mo., July 1.—Charges of negligence in skillfulness and inattention to duty have been filed against S. B. Withrow of Winona, Minn., pilot of the excursion steamer Majestic that sank in the Mississippi river near here on June 20. Withrow will be tried before the local board of steamboat inspection.

WIRE LEASES HIT BY GRAIN DEALERS

Commercial Companies Accused of Virtually Cutting Rates.

New York, July 1.—Complaints made by members of the Grain Dealers' association of Chicago regarding the private leased wire system of the telephone and telegraph companies were investigated today at a hearing by the interstate commerce commission. The order directing the investigation alleged that the companies, by leasing wires, give rates less than the published tariff, and that these wires are used by others besides those who lease for private commercial business.

The American Telephone & Telegraph company, the Postal Telegraph company and the Western Union Telegraph company were represented at the hearing by counsel.

M. C. Rority, assistant to the vice president of the Western Union, said he believed the company found the leased wire business more remunerative, mile for mile, than commercial traffic. Lack of available facilities, he said, had forced the company to decline requests for more leased wire business.

GET OUT PETITION TO KEEP OHIO WET

The Liquor Interests Seek Amendment to State Constitution.

Columbus, Ohio, July 1.—Two campaigns on the liquor question began in Ohio today. Wet interests announced they would circulate petitions to initiate a constitutional amendment forbidding statewide prohibition. Dry forces, led by the Anti-Saloon league, announced they would circulate petitions to submit a constitutional amendment establishing absolute prohibition in the state.

"Liberal" interests today submitted the form of their petition to Secretary of State Graves, who approved it. They announced their petitions would be in the hands of circulators before Saturday.

SIX WEEKS' REST IS ROOSEVELT ORDER

Throat Specialist Will Let Him Talk Some Then.

New York, July 1.—Dr. Holbrook Curtis, the throat specialist, told Col. Roosevelt today he would have to rest six weeks. Then, after the colonel had made a few speeches as a test, the doctor said, he would be able to tell more definitely just what Mr. Roosevelt could do in the campaign.

Col. Roosevelt agreed that the six weeks was preferable to the four months' rest recently prescribed by another physician.

"Maybe the doctor will let you be a candidate for governor after all," said the questioner.

"They won't have to let me," answered the colonel.

He did not make it clear just what he meant by this remark.

POVERTY'S ADVANTAGE.

Lippincott's: In his office one morning a Chicago broker had occasion to use a pocket knife. He had forgotten his own, as was the case with every clerk in the room who owned such an implement. Finally the office boy was summoned, and at once produced a knife.

"How is it, Henry?" asked the boss, "that you, of all the force, always have your knife with you?"

"I suppose it's because wages are so low," suggested the boy. "I can't afford more than one pair of pants."

A BIT OF CONEY ISLAND

Embargo on Noises Would Render Many Persons Jobless—Sausages Lead in Race for Symmetry.

Djuna Barnes in the New York Press: I have seen a good many sad people at Coney Island, but none so sad as the man who carried a 20-inch red plush bear by the right foreleg about with him all of one day last week and tried to forget that he had made a lucky throw.

I've seen a lot of symmetry at Coney, but no symmetry ever ran through a family with the perfect perfection of a bevy of frankfurters.

To say that Coney is bright and glad and shining, and new and full of paint and prospects, would give me the rarest pleasure, yet to see what there is in the other end of a nickel is in the blood of all of us, and so, though Coney is cringing in the glare of a broad day, with the furtive eyes that a woman wears when she's lost a hook, and though the awnings have lost their paint and the streets their beauty, and the sense of perspective is gone, still we will continue to spend that nickel, that dime, that quarter, trying to see where was the glory of yesterday.

Coney's Terrible Wail.

As one breaks through the crowd at the station and dodges the little man in red who tries to take you somewhere free, you catch the terrible, high pitched feline wail, growing louder as you listen to the indrawn, corset hampered wail of sensation that a woman lets loose as the dip of death is taken.

It is not a beautiful thing to hear, and yet if Kipling were to lean against the traffic a moment and were to hear this cry he would go away and write something about "the wail of a wincing woman."

The sound of articulate Coney is the voice of the female; the body of Coney is the man.

Endless men in twos, threes and fours walk the streets with never a sign of a girl for miles it seems. Once more it is the times speaking. When a girl is seen she is usually alone or with another girl, and when she is not and does embellish the side of some young, barefaced man, there is not a picture studio that is not bartering for her future place in the family album. Not a picture man but tries to produce ancestors.

"Have your picture taken with your wife," he shouts and smirks beside his dummy motor car. And if she gets by him with the young man who is obviously not her husband, a fat man opens an abyss of portent and literally tries to throw nourishment into her system.

If an embargo were placed on noise at Coney, if silence were required, there would be a lot of people who would lose their jobs. If the transactions of the mongers were carried on in the same language there would be money in manicuring.

The Best Side of Coney.

Perhaps the best side of Coney is not its showy side after all, not the part that has a nigger thrusting his head through a canvas loop to taunt the money out of place, not the sudden wild dashes that the photographer makes upon the wayfarer, not the garish colored Japanese lanterns and the sideshow with its fat lady and its human enigma, not the stands of penny cones and 3-penny ice cream sandwiches, not the merry-go-rounds with their ring grabbing, fully clated, abruptly consequential society of riders; but that little dim, ivy grown beer garden with its sedate squares of cheese set rigidly in the center of the little green tables and the papa and mamma eating a quiet lunch from an egg basket while the voice of another country speaks.

"Dat is good!" is heard.

At a table at the left two long haired bourgeoises sit and draw their future in little said trailings or forefinger and thumb upon the dust; a girl feeds chunks of weird Italian bakery stuff to a wailing baby. All this you caught between an ivy leaf that curved up and an ivy leaf that curved down.

"Yah, dass iss goot!" wafts over to you again.

Then the bent over fortune teller appears with her two moth-eaten birds and her table of cards and her bleared eyes, and the tap of her stick reaching in a thin staccato down the street to a doorway within which they have moton picture with fried potatoes and roast beef for nothing extra.

Serve Novices With Steak.

A man stands there swinging a cane. He is dwarfed and somewhat stout and cheerful, and his trousers bag at the knees. "Step right in! Stay as long as you please; it doesn't cost you a cent." Another revolution of the bright toffee-hued cane, "R-r-r-r-i-g-g-ght in—step right in!"

Up Surf avenue, looming six feet seven, in gigantic suit of serge, steps the giant jauntily. He tilts the testing hammer; he hits the rubber cushion; the block ascends, runs up and up, hitting with scorning swiftness two hundred, three hundred, four; the bell rings; the block descends, a little regretfully. The giant takes his hat off; he wipes his forehead; he smiles and displays enough teeth to furnish two ordinary men, it seems.

The goal is effective; lesser men pay their nickel and try to put themselves in a class with the man who is six feet seven. It is ridiculously easy—the bell rings at once, the lesser men's muscles have answered the call; they cannot understand their strength; they are stronger than they thought; they try their arms in a few palm-up motions in the air—they look at the bulging, animal-like, gorilla muscles of the giant; they go away and either get vastly drunk or propose to marry. The giant smiles.

I said, "Why do you do this?" and he said, "Five dollars does it." Advertisers please take notice.

And that's merely Coney's hip of fate.

A City of Booths.

I don't suppose anyone has rightly estimated the number of little businesses in Coney, and yet I'll wager that there are more business men per inch in Coney than in New York.

The streets are broken up with seemingly a million little booths with a thousand and one different things, and yet each booth is stocked with about the same things that the others have. Hot dog stands come one in every three. Of the other stands the shooting galleries are too numerous to count. There are, in fact, more shooting galleries than anything else at Coney, excepting sand.

The municipal bathhouse stands on long, white legs knee deep in the sand, like a patient, colorless woman. A really very good person can lose his character out there. There's nothing to prevent him from getting down to his basic impulses. I've seen a lot of nice people who didn't look it. Like the best chairs in the parlor, they are better under linen.

Then another thing—people should be careful about going into the water; some can just about stand going in half mast.

Well, after I had stood about Surf avenue long enough to catch any runaways or any fainting fit or anything like that, and after I had made those mental notes about the bathhouse, I turned around again and started back.

Chemicals in Chiffon.

We drank two of those abominable things that a white clothed attendant passed off as sodas, frothing about a large lassitudinous lump of badly frozen cream which took considerable will power to swallow. The after effects are also no impetus to a dervish. A few hundred people per day bring sedate week-end dregs of ambition here merely to dose them with cheerful chemicals in chiffon.

We strolled through Luna and could have been weighed fifteen different times for fifteen cents. The crazy village and the Castle house are somewhat close together—we hope there isn't any significance in this. The Castle house itself is white and green and attractive and brittle looking and somewhat Venetian and prosperous. It's going to give a lot of people a definite excuse for idling more time away inside the city of the crescent moon.

What's the use of going into details about the things that are new about Coney, anyway? Every one knows that each season brings its surprises. The only thing to do is to hold your faith in some part of humanity while testing the depraved inventions that some mean person has contrived to play upon you.

Covering Feet of Clay.

There is one nice thing about Coney, one perfectly happy element—its policemen. They are the most unconcerned uniformed individuals I ever saw. They are perpetually upon a holiday, or so it seems. They never hurry—they would be losing caste; they never worry—that would be losing prestige; they never find anything wrong, for that would be absurd; they move about upon timed legs and they smile endlessly, a placid, comprehending, wooden smile.

It's all right, anyway. Every place hasn't a joyful reputation, and those that go to it find that they are welcome and that they might indeed have spent the day in worse fashion.

There are things here that hide the obvious—the sun that touches cheap linen lightly, the wind that shares its caresses equally, the waters that engulf gently the awkward tyro, and last, but not least, the kindly sands of Coney, that cover many feet of clay.

SAYS HOMEOPATHY IS GAINING POWER

Dr. George Royal of Des Moines Reports to Doctors.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 1.—Results of the efforts made in the interest of advancement of homeopathy during the last year were outlined today by Dr. George Royal of Des Moines, Iowa, chairman of the council on medical education, at the American Institute of Homeopathy convention in this city. Dr. Royal declared that as a result of placing the educational work of the institute in the hands of the council for a period of five years, the council has been enabled to initiate a program which has made it comparatively easy to obtain help from the homeopathic profession and the laity.

Dr. Royal announced that a hospital with college facilities costing $300,000 would be built in Kansas City. A survey of every state has been made to find resources for the establishment of new homeopathic hospitals and colleges, and much will be done along this line during the next year, he said. The number of students attending homeopathic colleges, Dr. Royal added, is larger now than it has been in six years.

MAY TEACH MUSIC IN HIGH SCHOOL

Plan Will Be Opposed on Grounds of Economy Only.

A short time ago, at the recommendation of the Matinee Musicale, the teachers committee of the board of education offered the position of teacher of music in the Central high school to Miss Winifred Scumway of Chicago, but she refused, having accepted a better position before receiving the Duluth offer.

Now the Matinee Musicale has recommended Mrs. Ann Dixon of Des Moines, Iowa, and it is probable that she will be named at the regular monthly meeting next Friday evening. That there will be a fight against the establishment of such a position at this time, there seems little doubt. This will likely be led by F. A. Brewer, whom some term "the watch dog of the treasury." Mr. Brewer says that nobody would like to see the position established more than he but that the tax situation will not permit it, and his objection will be on the grounds of economy and actual financial impossibility.

Duluthian Takes Office as United States District Attorney.

St. Paul, Minn., July 1.—Judge Alfred Jaques of Duluth today took the oath of office as United States attorney for the district of Minnesota, succeeding C. C. Haupt. He took the oath of office before Charles L. Spencer, clerk of the United States district court, and assumed the duties of his new position.

MONTEREY WILL BE CARRANZA CAPITAL

Saltillo, Mexico, June 30.—(Via Laredo, Tex., July 1.)—Gen. Venustiano Carranza arrived here today and began preparations to remove his capital to Monterey. He was accompanied by G. Canova of Havana, who claims to be a representative of the United States department of state, and George C. Carothers, who has acted in that capacity. They joined Carranza at Monterey last night.

TELLS COST OF FIXING JURY

Professional "Framer" and "Fixer" Talks About His Business.

"Slicky" McMahon Tells System When Arrested in Chicago.

Chicago, July 1.—"Slicky" McMahon, confessed jury and witness briber, was indicted today on charges of jury "fixing." McMahon chatted cheerfully today of his confessed specialties, and declared his business has been established systematically.

His assistants comprised fifty or more men, including three saloonkeepers, said McMahon. He explained that witnesses were "framed," while jurors were "fixed."

Work among veniremen from among whom a certain jury was to be chosen he called "field work."

"Field work costs heavily—from $2,000 to $12,000," said McMahon. "As many as fifty men are employed sometimes on big cases."

Price List Given.

He submitted the following as being an approximate price list: Fixing a murder jury, $5,000 to $15,000; field work on murder trials, $2,000 to $12,000; fixing larceny, assault and similar cases, $200 to $1,000; fake witnesses before testimony, $10 to $50; fake witnesses after testimony, $100 to $500; framing jurors, investigations, etc., $50 to $250; investigation of court records, $5 to $25; intimidation of witnesses or influencing not to prosecute, $50 to $200.

McMahon said, as an instance, that if he wanted to fix his own case he would go to one of the saloon keepers in the ring. The saloon keeper would bring in his "fixer" and the "fixer" would then get his venire list from a court clerk in the plot, and the field work would begin. He said jurors were usually approached during the lunch hour.

CANTEEN SCANDAL ECHO IN PARLIAMENT

Lord Saye and Sele Calls Charge Against Him Foul Lie.

London, July 1.—The canteen scandals, which culminated last May in the conviction of nine British army officers and eight civilian employes of Lipton's, limited, had an echo in the house of lords today. Lord Saye and Sele, formerly lieutenant colonel of the Royal Scots fusiliers and now controller of the king's household, said the charge that he had tempted Lieut.-Col. Whitaker of the Second Yorkshire regiment, who was sentenced to six months imprisonment, was a foul lie.

EDUCATION CHEAP IN CATHOLIC SCHOOL

Atlantic City, N. J., July 1.—The average cost per year of educating children in Catholic institutions ranges from $12 to $17 as against $24 to $45 for the public schools, according to a report of the executive committee of the Catholic Educational association in convention here. The report showed that in 1,742 Catholic institutions, including parochial schools, there are 1,700,000 children enrolled. "Less expensive instructors than are employed in the public schools," was given as the reason for the lower per capita cost of education.

More than 500 educators, representing the leading Catholic universities, colleges and schools of the country, are attending the convention.

OUR FEDERAL HEALTH SERVICE.

Review of Reviews: If plague breaks out today in Calcutta, or Amoy, or St. Petersburg, or at Punta Arenas on the Straits of Magellan, or at Basra on the Persian Gulf, or at Topeka, Kan., or at any place else in the whole wide world, certain governmental authorities at Washington will know of it tomorrow and the organization of defense against it will be put in operation. If the contagion is beyond our own borders a barrier is immediately thrown up which makes it next to impossible for the disease to enter at any of the 17,000 miles of American coastline. If it is within, and a serious menace, a cordon of health police is thrown around it and science is set to work on its extermination. If it is some strange malady outside the realm of established knowledge, the spotlight of science is flashed upon it and all that man knows is brought to the solution of its riddle.

The Federal agency having in hand the gigantic undertaking of battling the disease of the world is the public health service of the United States. With the idea that health is a national asset, this government bureau has been placed under the treasury department. The backbone of the service is its staff of about 140 surgeons who bear commissions, thus comprising a military organization which wears a uniform. Supplementing these is a staff of some 250 acting assistant surgeons, various internes, pharmacists and hospital attendants, which brings the direct employes of the bureau up to 1,500.

HIS TRUSTY SWORD.

Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegram: Mr. Brown, an elderly gentleman, was entertaining some friends one night, and during the evening some of the guests paused to admire a particular room where arms of various kinds decorated the walls.

Among the arms was a sword that attracted considerable attention, and one or two of the guests asked that it be taken down for closer inspection. The host, of course, complied.

"Speaking of this sword," said Brown, as he tenderly took the carving tool from the wall, "never will I forget the day I drew it the first time."

"I thought that blade had a history," remarked a guest eagerly. "Where did you draw it, Mr. Brown?"

"At a 25-cent raffle," was the happy rejoinder of Mr. Brown.

HANDY PATTERN CASE.

Contributor New York Press: Having things in readiness to do with and taking advantage of the few minutes "between acts" will accomplish a great deal. I have three small children and have had to spend a good deal of time in hunting up their patterns. I made a case that has been very satisfactory. I bought a piece of denim one yard long; I cut two strips, one eighteen inches and the other fourteen inches wide. I put them together, having the lower edges meet. Then I bound them with bias seam tape and stitched three pockets twelve inches apart. I embroidered the initials of each child on a pocket. In the top of the eighteen-inch piece I placed three buttons and on the top of each pocket I placed a button. When not in use button and fold.

MARKET HAS STRONG TONE

Wheat Sells Higher on Wet Weather News Over Northwest.

Flaxseed Scores Good Advance With Active Inquiry From Crushers.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 1.—The market turned strong at the close on Northwest weather reports. July wheat closed ⅞c up; September ⅞@¼c up and December ⅝@½c up. July durum closed ¼c up and September unchanged.

Oats closed ½c off at 33⅛@33⅜c for on the track or to arrive. Rye closed unchanged at 57c for on the track or 56c for to arrive. Barley closed 1c off at from 41c to 50c.

Puts on Minneapolis September wheat closed at 78⅝@79c, and calls at 79⅝@79¾c.

Wheat was strong around the opening this morning, in line with substantially higher Liverpool cables and improved Eastern inquiry. It became quiet and eased off later.

Reports of an overplus of moisture throughout the Northwest also exerted a sustaining influence. In their advices, notes of warning were sounded by some of the experts covering North and South Dakota, to the effect that the heavy rains have brought about too rank a plant growth in many localities, and while no material damage has resulted thus far, there is danger of the grain lodging and rust developing in the event of hot weather setting in before the surplus moisture has a chance to dry up. This condition is leading to some nervousness on the part of operators, it being recognized that the market could easily be put up several points in the event of any scare developing.

Advices from over the winter wheat territory were favorable from every direction. Intimations came to the effect that threshing returns in the Southwest are far exceeding expectations. It is predicted that the movement of the new grain to market will be heavy next week.

The cash and new future market locally again ruled strong as a result of the rapid diminution of supplies in the elevators. Stocks are now down to 4,977,000 bu of all grains, a decrease of 131,000 bu during the last three days. Charterings of vessels for the moving of stuff East have been heavy of late, Tomlinson & Co., for example, reporting that nearly 2,000,000 bu will be loaded out on their boats alone within a week.

July wheat opened ⅛c up at 86¾c and gained ¼c more up to the final hour. September opened ⅛@⅜c up at 80½c, and eased off 3c, and the December option opened ⅛@⅜c up at 81½c and also eased off fractionally. July durum opened ⅛c up at 85¼c and held there, and the September option opened unchanged at 82c and weakened fractionally.

Flaxseed Turns Strong.

Flaxseed turned strong with steady inquiry from crushers and light offerings. The situation in the seed is regarded as becoming increasingly bullish by many in the trade, by reason of the large decrease in acreage sown over the Northwest this season. Final prices showed advances of 1¼@1⅝c.

Foreign markets were irregular, Antwerp closed 2½c up, Buenos Aires 1c off, and London ¾c off.

July flax opened unchanged at $1.57¾, and closed ¼c up at $1.59 asked. September opened unchanged at $1.60¼, and closed 1⅛c up at $1.61⅝. October opened unchanged at $1.60⅛, and closed 1⅝c up at $1.61⅝ bid, and the November option opened ⅛c up at $1.60½ and closed 1¼c up at $1.61⅝ bid.

MARKET GOSSIP.

The Minneapolis cash market was strong, with excellent demand for cash wheat. One northern blue stem sold at 2 to 4c over July bid; velvet chaff at 1⅞@2½c over July. Flour demand was not so good, but sales were fair. Cash one northern wheat sold at from 84¼ to 87⅝c and No. 2 northern at from 83¼ to 85¾c.

Cincinnati Price Current says: Reports from our correspondents based on conditions existing June 24 to 26 are to the effect that the states of Ohio, Indiana, Missouri and Oklahoma have not had sufficient rainfall to maintain the normal growth condition of the crops and considerable deterioration has resulted in those states on that account. This drought condition has also existed in southern Illinois. A favorable and satisfactory condition has been maintained in Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska, although rain has been somewhat excessive recently, preventing satisfactory cultivation and laying by of the corn crop. Minnesota and a portion of South Dakota have received too much rain and the crops are beginning to show deterioration on that account by too rank growth of straw and consequent lodging of grain. The winter wheat crop is now being harvested, and the reports indicate that the yields per acre exceed expectations and estimates. We now estimate the winter crop of the surplus producing states in bushels and the growth condition and acres as follows:

Ohio, 42,427,000 bu; Indiana, 44,233,000 bu; Illinois, 42,246,000 bu; Missouri, 39,509,000 bu; Iowa, 10,298,000 bu; Nebraska, 69,996,000 bu; Kansas, 137,636,000 bu; and Oklahoma, 43,137,000 bu; total, 429,340,000 bu.

John Inglis wired from Huron, S. D.—"From Tracy to Huron it is still showery. Crops are suffering from excessive moisture, with drowned out spots enlarging. The leaves are off color. There is a heavy stand of hay, but it is too wet to cut. Corn is late and needs sun. It is still cool. Hot weather would scald, as the fields are watersoaked."

Lecount wired Baker from Aberdeen, S. D.—"In this territory the stand and color are good. Wheat is heading and looking fine. Crop is about an average. One-half the wheat here is badly affected by red rust. They must have a let up in rain or wheat will be damaged. Have had too much rain."

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool—"Wheat market opened with moderate covering induced by the late steadiness in America and the prices were ⅛ to ¼d higher. Following the opening there was a further advance of ⅛ to ⅜d with outside support owing to firmer Manitoba offers and expectations of lighter Russian shipments this week. At 1:30 p. m. steady it was ¼ to ⅜d higher."

TRADING IS RESTRICTED

Uncertainty Marks the Movement of the Representative Stocks.

Little Disposition to Trade in View of Impending Developments.

New York, July 1.—Conditions abroad were I responsible for the moderate setback registered by the local stock market in today's early dealings. International issues ruled lower in London, where apprehension regarding the situation in Ulster was revived. The deadlock in the Mexican negotiations also exerted an adverse influence. Losses did not exceed fractions and in most cases recoveries speedily ensued. The only gains of note were Atlantic Coast Line, Brooklyn Rapid Transit and Liggett & Myers preferred, which advanced a point. Trading was fairly active with indications of some investment demand.

Quotations again receded after the first rush of short covering that movement constituting a large part of the first hour's activity. The market then drifted idly with business at low ebb. Expiration of the bond conversion privilege accounted for the comparative strength of Brooklyn Transit, but such changes as were recorded elsewhere had no especial significance. Gains of 1 to 2 points in various industrial securities of a speculative character attracted little attention.

Bonds were irregular. Rock Island collaterals ruled firm in the face of unfavorable May earnings.

New York Central fell a point on publication of the system's earnings for May, showing a net loss of $2,267,000. A drop of 2 points in New Haven to 63¾ brought that stock to within a fraction of its low record. The list as a whole was inclined to sag in sympathy.

Trading became increasingly dull in the last session and the list again inclined toward a lower level.

Representative stocks moved with some uncertainty today, but a few of the minor issues in the special group were higher. Dealings were restricted, the professional element showing little disposition to make new commitments in view of impending developments. The close was heavy.

LEGAL NOTICES.

ORDER TO EXAMINE FINAL ACCOUNT—
State of Minnesota,
County of St. Louis—ss.
In Probate Court. In the Matter of the Estate of Roger S. Powell, Decedent. The petition of Rina H. Powell, as representative of the above named decedent, together with her final account of the administration of said estate, having been filed in this court, representing, among other things, that she has fully administered said estate, and praying that said final account of said administration be examined, adjusted and allowed by the Court, and that the Court make and enter its final decree of distribution of the residue of the estate of said decedent to the persons entitled thereto, and for the discharge of the representative and the sureties on her bond. It is ordered, that said petition be heard, and said final account examined, adjusted, and, if correct, allowed by the Court, at the Probate Court Rooms in the Court House, in the City of Duluth in said County, on Monday, the 27th day of July, 1914, at ten o'clock A. M., and all persons interested in said hearing and in said matter are hereby cited and required, at said time and place, to show cause, if any there be, why said petition should not be granted. Ordered further, that this order be served by publication in The Duluth Herald, according to law.
Dated at Duluth, Minn., June 29th, 1914.
By the Court,
S. W. GILPIN, Judge of Probate.
Attest: A. R. MORTON,
Clerk of Probate.
(Seal, Probate Ct., St. Louis Co., Minn.)
D. H., July 1, 8, 15, 1914.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE—
Default having been made in the payment of the sum of Sixteen thousand and ten Dollars, which is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice upon a certain Mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Charles Neally and Hattie M. Neally, his wife, Mortgagor, to Fitger Brewing Company (a Minnesota corporation), Mortgagee, bearing date the 7th day of November, 1908, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of St. Louis and State of Minnesota, on the 19th day of November, 1908, at 3:30 o'clock P. M., in Book 261 of Mortgages, on page 169, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said Mortgage, or any part thereof;
Now, Therefore, Notice is Hereby Given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said Mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said Mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said Mortgage, viz: Lots Seventeen (17) and Eighteen (18), Block Eight (8), Chisholm, Minnesota, according to the Recorded Plat thereof on file and of record in the office of Register of Deeds of said County, excepting minerals, in St. Louis County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said St. Louis County at his office in the Court House, in the City of Duluth, in said County and State, on the 18th day of July, 1914, at 10 o'clock A. M., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and One Hundred Dollars' Attorneys' fees, as stipulated in and by said Mortgage in case of foreclosure and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.
Dated June 3rd, A. D. 1914.
FITGER BREWING CO.,
By A. FITGER, President.
P. C. SCHMIDT, Mortgagee.
Attorney.

CHARACTER IN THUMBS.

Tit-Bits: Just as the chin gives qualities to the face, so the thumb marks the personality of the hand, and is an unerring index to a man's natural strength or weakness of character.
The man with a long, straight thumb, square at the tip, possesses good mental capacity, and can always be relied upon to carry out successfully any work with which he may be entrusted. His temperature is even and judicial; he is a born governor of men, overcomes difficulties, carries himself with dignity, and by his ability to concentrate all his faculties upon the matter in hand, combined with his tenacity of purpose, rapidly becomes a power among his fellows.
If the thumbs be long, thick and heavy at the top, with the joints prominent, a tyrannical and cruel nature is indicated, everything being viewed from an intensely selfish standpoint.
A short, straight thumb shows obstinacy and driving power. If very thick and heavy at the tip, a brutish, unreasoning disposition will be noticed.
A short thumb, tapering at the tip, denotes an inconstant, changeable nature, particularly in matters of the affections. A man with a tapering thumb cannot concentrate, and has, consequently, little continuity, in addition to being unpunctual and unable to work except in spurts. Such a man takes up many things, but finishes nothing properly, and often makes others suffer from his indecision.
If the thumb lie close to the hand, a cautious, timid, mean nature is indicated.
If the thumb curve outward at the tip, adaptability to people and circumstances is shown, accompanied by natural politeness and a tendency to make compliments. The owner is broad-minded, a good conversationalist, impulsive, generous and easy-going.
If the curve be very marked and the whole thumb stands away from the hand, extravagance and want of principle in money matters will be found, accompanied by boasting, a desire to "show off" and vain pride in any abilities to accomplishments which may be possessed. The nature is also highly impulsive, erratic and careless.
If the first joint, that which forms part of the hand, be full and fleshy, a warm and affectionate nature is denoted; but if very full, sensuality lowers the character.

ACCOUNT OF EXPENSES.
Hearst's Magazine: Chief Justice Holmes of the United States supreme court, tells a little story illustrative of the difficulty of forming a habit of economy:
"It occurred to a late brilliant lawyer shortly before his death to buy a memorandum book in which to jot down the lines of his daily expenditure. 'I can compare notes from day to day,' he said, 'and find out how much I spend, and so regulate my expenditure here and there.' Accordingly, the book was bought, and after the great lawyer's death his executors, in going over his effects, came across it. One of them, interested to know how far his friend had been successful, opened the book and read. 'One memorandum book, 35 cents.'"

GOOD BAIT.
Sunday Magazine: Fish stories are supposed to be unique as stretchers of the imagination; but none beats the story told by a recent British visitor at Washington.
It seems that one of his acquaintances a traveler of some note, had sold a small farm to an Irishman, and the latter was complaining because there were no birds in his garden.
"Set some traps," suggested the traveler, "and they will come."
"Sure an' will they come thin?"
"Yes. I was once in Africa, and there wasn't a woman, I had been told, within 200 miles. I wanted someone to cook. So I hung a pair of earrings and a bracelet on a tree, and the next morning found five applicants under the branches."

TRADES HAVE SPECIAL AILMENTS.
Tit-Bits: Most trades have ailments peculiarly their own, and one of the very latest of workmen's complaints to be discovered is the "Conductor's thumb." This affliction is generated by the continual use of the steel "punch" or clipper, which is employed to mark the passenger's ticket. The pain, very slight at first, gradually increases and spreads to the palm of the hand, bringing in its train a species of cramp of the hand, and compels those affected to handle their "punches" very gingerly.

FOR SHREDDING SOAP.
An ordinary wire soap cage or holder makes an excellent soap shredder, says the Christian Science Monitor. Remove the cake of soap from within the holder, close it and simply rub the soap across the outside, and soon one has a holder full of shredded soap which may be emptied out into the boiler; or the holder and its contents may be immersed in the water.

DUBOIS SHOWS HOW ROOSEVELT IS WRONG ON COLOMBIAN PACT

Former U. S. Minister to Bogota Interprets the Treaty.

Tells of Efforts at Settlement Under Roosevelt and Taft.

Criticizes Former President's Course in Panama Affairs.

Hallstead, Pa., July 2.—In a statement issued here last night dealing with the proposed Colombian treaty, James T. Dubois, who was United States minister to Colombia under the Taft administration, takes issue with the views recently expressed by Col. Roosevelt and explains his own reasons for supporting the treaty. He also analyses the treaty at some length.

Regarding his difference with Col. Roosevelt on this subject, Mr. Dubois expresses regret at opposing "a great leader whose fortunes I devotedly followed ten years," and states that "no man will tolerate the thought that any of Col. Roosevelt's acts was inspired by tainted motives; but no man is always right."

Negotiations for a treaty during the Taft administration failed, he says, because his instructions, out of excessive care not to impugn the motives of President Roosevelt "in taking" Panama, failed to give Colombia sufficient justice. The pending treaty, he believes, should be heartily approved by the American people.

Takes Issue With Roosevelt.

Taking issue with Col. Roosevelt regarding the character of the public men in Colombia, Mr. Dubois declared that they compare well with the public men of other countries in intelligence and respectability, instead of being "blackmailers and bandits." Quoting Mr. Roosevelt's declaration that the people of Panama were a unit in demanding the revolution, he says: "A handful of men, who were to be the direct beneficiaries of the revolution, conceived it, and not the hundredth part of the inhabitants of the isthmus knew of the revolt until an American officer, in the uniform of the United States army, raised the flag of the new republic."

Regarding the acting president,

6,000 RAT TRAPS ARE SET IN NEW ORLEANS

Second Focus of Infection Is Found in the City.

New Orleans, La. July 2.—Six thousand baited rat traps today did silent duty in the infected zone of this city, where they had been placed by direction of health authorities in their vigorous campaign to eradicate bubonic plague. Two hundred employes of the city placed the traps, rat-proofed residences and business houses and kept a general surveillance in the prescribed area.

The discovery of a second focus of infection, believed to be the correct one, enlarged the territory over which strict watch is being kept. The warehouse of the Volunteers of America, on Girard street, where W. W. Wilkinson yesterday told President Dowling of the state board of health that he had been bitten by fleas prior to developing bubonic plague while lodging at the Volunteers' industrial home on St. Joseph street, was today given special attention by the health department.

Prior to the arrival here today of Dr. Rupert Blue, surgeon-general of the United States public health service, no other new measures for stamping out the contagion had been adopted.

KAISER NOT GOING TO AUSTRIAN CAPITAL

Severe Cold Will Prevent Attendance at Royal Funeral.

Potsdam, Germany, July 2.—Emperor William suddenly abandoned today his intended trip to Vienna to attend the funeral of the late Archduke Francis Ferdinand. It was announced that he was suffering from a severe cold attended with symptoms of lumbago.

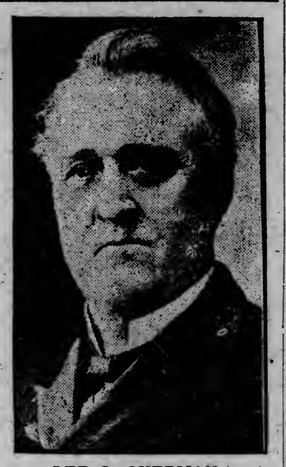

In court circles here it is said that the emperior's illness is of the slightest character and need not have prevented his trip to Vienna. The abandonment was dictated, it was said, by his majesty's wish to spare the aged Emperor Francis Joseph the trouble and agitation of entertaining.

Bodies at Trieste.

Trieste, Austria, July 2.—An imposing demonstration today acompanied the landing here from the Austrian battleship Viribus Unitis of the bodies of the assassinated Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his consort, the duchess of Hohenberg. The entire community thronged the shore or stood on board ships in the harbor at an early hour. On the San Carlo wharf a large space had been kept free for the two catafalques which were draped in gold and black. The two coffins, shrouded with national flags, were transferred from the battleship to shore amid artillery salutes and the tolling of church bells. Right Rev. Andrew Karlin, bishop of Trieste, assisted by a large number of clergy, blessed the bodies and a long procession was then formed.

All the men along the route stood with uncovered heads, and most of the women wore mourning. The buildings were mostly draped with black, and business houses were closed during the time of the passage of the procession to the railway station. The train is expected to arrive at Vienna this evening.

TELLS ABOUT USE OF SENATE STATIONERY

LEE S. OVERMAN,
Senator From North Carolina.

Washington, July 2.—Senators Overman and Chilton were principal witnesses today before a committee investigating charges of misuse of official letter heads for promotion of a North Carolina gold mining project. Mr. Overman testified he bought $2,000 of stock in the mine when a treasury expert told him the property was worth $60,000,000. Mr. Chilton testified he owned $2,500 worth.

Senator Overman testified that his stenographer had written for a promoter letters highly commendatory of the project, without his knowledge, upon letter heads of the rules committee. The stenographer corroborated that, and a messenger told of giving some of the letter heads to the promoter, by whom, the senator testified, his son-in-law was employed as an attorney.

Senator Chilton said he knew nothing of the use of the census committee letter heads until later, when he found the promoter had been using it.

Both senators testified it was customary for constituents to use stationery in their offices.

NAVY IS HURT BY PLUCKING

So Says Secretary Daniels Who Will Seek Law's Repeal.

Fifteen Officers, Many Fully Capable, Retired From Service.

Washington, July 2.—Naval officers were discussing with gratification today Secretary Daniels' announced determination to urge congress at its next session to repeal the law of 1899, known as the Personnel act, under which the "plucking board" picked fifteen officers for compulsory retirement this year.

Included in the list of those whose active careers were ended yesterday by the recommendation of the board were several captains with distinguished records. While the health of some of the officers "plucked" had been regarded as somewhat unsatisfactory, their condition was not such as to warrant medical condemnation.

The officers retired, with their present stations and home addresses, follow:

Capt. John H. Gibbons, commanding battleship Utah, Washington, D. C.

Capt. Frank W. Kellogg, commanding battleship North Carolina, Waterbury, Conn.

Capt. John C. Leonard, commanding battleship Virginia, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Capt. Frank K. Hill, army war college, Washington, D. C., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Capt. George R. Evans, commanding battleship Nebraska, Washington, D. C.

Commander of Colliers George N. Hayward, Chicago.

Commander John B. Patton, commanding battleship Tennessee and receiving ship at New York, Columbia, S. C.

Commander Provost Babin, en route to United States from Asiatic stations, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Commander William H. Whitted, inspector Cramp shipyard, Philadelphia, Reldeville, N. C.

JERKED FROM CAR BY ARM; DIES ALONE

Iowa Man's Companions Fail to Notice the Accident.

Burlington, Iowa, July 2.—Clifford Johnson, aged 25, met death in an unusual automobile accident last night. As the automobile passed over a bridge Johnson stood up and raised his arm. It caught in the bridge girder, whisking him from the machine. His companions in the tonneau were dozing and his absence was not noticed for several minutes.

When his friends retraced their path in search of him, Johnson was found dead. His arm had been pulled from the shoulder socket and he had bled to death.

INCOME OVER EXPECTATIONS

Wilson Administration Ends Fiscal Year With Surplus.

Panama Canal Will Drain Treasury as Heretofore.

Washington, July 2.—There was great elation in Democratic circles here today over the fact that the Wilson administration closed the fiscal year Tuesday with its income exceeding ordinary expenses by $33,784,452.

The figures as announced by the treasury department showed that the total receipts for the year aggregated $734,343,700, while total disbursements were $700,559,248. The total receipts were a million and a half more than Secretary McAdoo says was originally estimated.

Nearly $33,500,000 poured into the treasury Tuesday, the last day of the year, and brought the total receipts up to $734,343,700.20. What had promised before to be a substantial deficiency turned to a surplus.

Income Tax Helped.

Corporation and income tax payments furnished the stream of gold at the finish. From this source came $26,161,782.82 between the opening and closing of the treasury Tuesday, and last night Secretary McAdoo and other administration officials were pointing proudly to the total figures as proof of their promises as to what would be accomplished under the new tariff.

Must Pay On Canal.

The treasury surplus, this year at least, will be wiped out by Panama canal expenditures, which have been paid from the general fund. During the twelve months $34,826,941 has been spent on the canal, and when this has been charged off there will be a deficit for the year of $1,010,058.81 on the books.

Last year the canal expenditure amounted to $41,741,258, and the final deficit was $400,733. Last year's total receipts were only $691,140,000, but on the other hand the ordinary expenditures were only $654,805,000, or $45,754,248 below this year's total. Secretary McAdoo estimates that approximately $3,500,000 in scheduled income and corporation taxes, assessments not paid in June because penalty does not accrue against these assessments until July 10, would have been a clear surplus of approximately $2,500,000.

FIERCE HEAT WAVE SWEEPING FRANCE

Many Prostrations Are Reported in City of Paris.

Paris, July 2.—A heat wave of exceptional intensity is spreading over a large part of France. The highest temperature registered yesterday was 98 degs., Fahrenheit, at Rochefort. In Paris the temperature reached 93 degs. A large number of prostrations have been reported in this city.

THREE DIE IN FIRE IN MANCHESTER, N. H.

Manchester, N. H., July 2.—Three lives were lost early today in a fire which slightly damaged the lodging house of Mrs. David Mayo, in North Elm street. John Reed was killed when he disregarded a policeman's warning and jumped from a third floor window. Frederic Caron and Albert La Chance were suffocated in their rooms on the top floor of the four-story frame building.

MORGAN HAS "VERY CORDIAL" VISIT WITH PRESIDENT WILSON

Financier, at His Own Request, Received at White House.

He Refuses to Disclose Nature of Their Conference.

Other Prominent Men Will Be Heard By Executive.

Washington, July 2.—J. P. Morgan and President Wilson had nearly an hour's conference today at the White House on general business conditions.

It was the first of a series of talks the president plans to have in the near future with captains of industry and finance, learning their views and giving his own, on the industrial and financial situation of the country as well as measures in congress.

White House officials said the conference between the president and Mr. Morgan had been just a friendly discussion of the general subjects.

Mr. Morgan refused to disclose what had taken place. As he stepped into his carriage he said: "My visit with the president was very cordial. You will have to ask him what we talked about."

At Morgan's Request.

It was said at the White House that Mr. Morgan had asked for the engagement, and it was explained that the two men are personal friends. Another version of the meeting was that Mr. Morgan had been invited through friends to give his views to the president.

Next week the president will have an informal conference with Henry Ford, the Detroit manufacturer, who will be entertained at luncheon at the White House. It was said the president had invited Mr. Ford.

Officials close to the president said Mr. Wilson would take such an opportunity to outline his views to the heads of big business in person.

Mr. Morgan's engagement was more or less of a surprise to those who have observed the course the president

THREATENED OVER PHONE

Dr. Carman Finally Gives Clew to Murder in His Office.

Will Not Say Whether It Was Man or Woman.

Freeport, N. Y., July 2.—Two weeks before Mrs. Louise Bailey was murdered in the office of Dr. Edwin Carman some one called Dr. Carman on the telephone and threatened his life. With apparent reluctance, and more than thirty-six hours after the tragedy, the physician gave this information to the district attorney. Dr. Carman refused to say whether the threatening message came from a man or a woman, and remained silent under further questioning.

On the strength of this information detectives continued to work on the theory that the assassin who on Tuesday night broke a window in the doctor's office, poked a revolver through the hole and fired the shot that killed Mrs. Bailey, a patient, had sought the doctor's life and not her's.

Seek for Motive.

In searching for a motive for the murder, the police today are working on two theories. One is that a lunatic killed Mrs. Bailey when shooting at Dr. Carman. The other theory is that a woman fired the shot.

Dr. Carman has served upon many lunacy commissions in Freeport, and the police believe some person who was committed to an asylum through his instrumentality sought revenge, and missed his aim.

Sheriff Stephen Pettit said he had discovered in the Carman home a telephonic device, the wires of which led

OPPOSE JAPANESE GOING TO MICHIGAN

Labor Leaders Say Such Colonization Will Not Be Endured.

Lansing, Mich., July 2.—The announcement that 400 Japanese laborers from California are coming to locate in Alger county, this state, has started anti-alien land law agitation here, and it is reported an attempt will be made at the next session of the legislature to enact an anti-alien law similar to the one in California. The Japanese will engage in vegetable farming when they arrive in Alger county.

"We will never stand any Japanese colonization in Michigan," said O. L. Hildebrant, president of the Michigan Federation of Typographical Unions. Other labor leaders expressed similar opinions, and the affair has been referred to the state board of agriculture.

PLAN IS DEVISED TO BEAT NEW "DRY" LAW

West Virginians Would Get Booze From Ohio Towns.

Wheeling, W. Va., July 2.—Organization of two local express companies to operate between Wheeling and "wet" towns in Ohio, brought from anti-saloon league leaders today the statement that the question would be submitted to the interstate commerce commission on the ground that to become a common carrier an express company must carry less than 50 per cent of one commodity. They are also insisting that persons to whom liquor is consigned must appear personally at transportation offices to claim it. It was said that the railroads have promised to co-operate with them in enforcing the rule.

SHIPWRECKED AND MAROONED.

HUERTA DELEGATES WILLING TO CONFER WITH REBEL AGENTS

FINANCIER HAS [illegible] TALK WITH PRESIDENT

J. P. MORGAN.

Send Statement in Response to Note of Mediators.

Carranza's Plea for Time Is Given to Public.

Sir Lionel Carden Criticized By Britons in Mexico.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 2.—Communication between the two warring factions in Mexico, which it is hoped eventually will lead to conferences for the establishment of peace, was begun today, when the delegation representing Gen. Huerta formally addressed to the three South American mediators a note to be transmitted to the Constitutionalists' representatives in Washington.

In this the Huerta delegates expressed their willingness to discuss measures of peace with the Constitutionalists and bring to an end the civil strife which has been devastating their country for the last year.

In Response to Note.

The Huerta delegation wrote, in response to a note from the mediators, delivered to them as well as the American delegation, suspending the sessions of the mediation because the international side of the controversy had been adjusted and calling attention to the correspondence with Gen. Carranza, in which he asked for more time to consult his subordinates about peace conferences.

The Huerta delegates replied in two separate communications, one setting forth their own approval and gratification at the amicable settlement of the international conflict and the other, intended for transmission to the Constitutionalists, explaining in effect their readiness to begin informal conference upon the selection of a provisional president and the solution of kindred problems of an internal character.

Troops Stay in Vera Cruz.

The disposition of the American forces now at Vera Cruz has been left for consideration until such time as the two factions agree on the new provisional government. While the protocols already signed cover many phases of the international situation, it is generally recognized that until a provisional government is actually agreed upon and a date set for recognition of the new government, American troops will not be withdrawn and international questions not finally settled.

The mediation colony is disposed to

PLAN TO PUSH TRUST BILLS

Senate Leaders Prepare to Secure Early Action.

Democrats Adopt Resolution to Finish Work Before Adjourning.

Washington, July 2.—Having formally resolved, in party conference, to remain in Washington until the administration anti-trust program is finally disposed of, Democratic leaders in the senate were determined today to press the proposed legislation to a conclusion. These measures include the trade commission bill, the Clayton anti-trust bill and the railway securities bill.

Decision that congress should not adjourn until the anti-trust legislation had been passed was reached at a conference of senate Democrats late yesterday. A resolution to that effect was adopted which was intended as an answer to the propaganda for immediate adjournment of congress.

Not Bound to Precent Bills.

The resolution does not bind senators to vote for the bills without change. It was proposed by Senator Stone, after a talk with President Wilson and other Democratic leaders.

If the party leaders decide in the future that it will be necessary to mark party measures of the three house bills or the substitutes offered for them, another conference will be held for the purpose of binding Democrats to some definite legislation. Some senators thought the resolution might bind senators to vote for the bills, but Senator Kern, chairman of the conference, declared that such was not its purpose, and a clause stating this in specific terms was adopted by a close vote.

Text of Resolution.

The resolution says:

"Resolved, That the conference of

FIFTY DRIVEN FROM TUNNEL BY FLOOD

Cofferdam Breaks in Construction Work at Baltimore.

Baltimore, Md., July 2.—Fifty men employed in constructing a tunnel along Jones Falls, from Preston street to Mount Royal avenue, narrowly escaped being drowned early today when the cofferdam at the mouth of the tunnel at Mount Royal avenue gave way under the pressure of high water.

The men fled just ahead of the wall of water, and escaped up the shafts by climbing ropes and timbers.

THE DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Debate was resumed on the river and harbor bill.

Investigation of charges of misuse of senate stationery in promotion of a gold mine in North Carolina was begun in a committee.

Voted to adjourn from Friday until Monday.

Banking committee approved the nomination of A. C. Miller of San Francisco for the Federal reserve board and continued consideration of the four other nominations.

HOUSE.

Bills under the calendar Wednesday rule were considered.

Consideration of the Adamson bill for granting rights to build dams on navigable rivers for opening water power resources was deferred until Tuesday.

Rucker bill proposing amendments to the campaign publicity law was considered.

SAY CENT RATE WILL HURT MAIL SERVICE

Wisconsin Postal Employes Oppose Proposed Change.

Green Bay, Wis., July 2.—A fight against the 1 cent postage measure, pending bofere congress, will be made by members of the postoffice clerks' association and the Letter Carriers' association of Wisconsin when they assemble in the annual state convention at Eau Claire on July 4.

The clerks and carriers of the state, it has been learned by local postal employes, are not in favor of the proposed reduction that is being advocated by business men. They consider that the increase in the amount of mail matter which would follow a rate reduction would work as a detriment to the service. The employes of the offices claim that important business letters and personal letters would be classed with the ordinary circulars if the price of mail were cut to a penny. They point to this as one way in which legitimate business would suffer and the postal service would be crippled.

WESTINGHOUSE MEN STILL HOPE TO WIN

Say Failure of Settlement Has Not Weakened Cause.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 2.—Westinghouse strike leaders said today they had lost none of their force because of the failure of peace plans yesterday, and they had not given up hope of a settlement. The strike committee was called to a special meeting, to consider a new proposition, the nature of which was not made public.

Troopers of the state constabulary continued to patrol, but they had little to do. Hundreds of strikers surrounded the entrances to the works, and pickets were on duty, but it was a good-natured crowd without a semblance of disorder.

The daily mass meeting of strikers instructed the committee to call on Governor Tener to withdraw the troopers, and a telegram was also sent to Mr. Tener as president of the National League of Baseball Clubs that if the troopers were not withdrawn the strikers would withhold their patronage from the Pittsburg National league club.

MINE WORKERS' LEADERS MEET.

Kansas City, Mo., July 2.—Members of the international executive board of the United Mine Workers of America met here today at the call of John V. White, president. It was expected the conference would spend most of the time discussing a number of problems arising out of the Vancouver island miners' strike. A number of routine appeals from the various districts are to be considered and disposed of.

ALIENATION SUIT HEARD

James J. Ryia Wants $2,000 Damages From Parents of His Wife.

Charging that the affections which his child-wife held for him were alienated by her parents, James J. Ryia, 23, tailor, employed at the Peerless laundry, is asking a district court jury to award him a $2,000 verdict against Charles and Sarah Atol, parents of Victoria Ryia, his wife. Trial of the action was begun before Judge Ensign yesterday afternoon.

Ryia and 14-year-old Victoria Atol were married Aug. 24, 1913, and already have been involved in two divorce cases, both of which, according to Ryia's testimony may be traced to her parents. The first one was brought within two months after the wedding. It was dismissed after Ryia had become reconciled with his wife. In November they resumed the relations of man and wife and lived together until February, when Ryia again found himself defendant in a divorce case.

Charles Atol, one of the defendants in the case, is a merchant engaged in business at 1532 West Superior street, and one of the most prominent members of the local Syrian colony. His defense is that Ryia abused and mistreated his daughter and that when she complained to him of such treatment he advised her to leave her husband and return to her parents. The first divorce case her uparents. The first divorce case was dismissed, but a second one in which it is charged that Ryia has been systematically cruel ever since the marriage, is now pending.

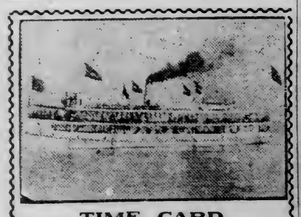

The suit for alienation appears to have grown out of a family quarrel in the family of Mrs. Atol. Her brother, William Abalan, with whom she has not spoken for eleven years, is in court as a witness for Ryia against his sister and brother-in-law and frequent allusions haveheen made by attorneys for the defense to his connection with the case.

Mrs. Ryia, the child-wife, will not take the stand. This was decided upon yesterday afternoon when Judge Ensign Norton, attorney for Ryia, announced that the plaintiff would exercise his legal right to refuse to allow his wife to testify in the case. She was not in court this morning. In the divorce case which is now pending, Mrs. Ryia charges among other things that her husband slapped her face three days after the wedding and that they separated two weeks later.

C. O. Baldwin, of Baldwin, Baldwin & Holmes, is trying the case for the Atols.

WHITE CHIPS HARD TO FIND

Youth Spent $28 Trying to Draw One From a Bag.

An investigation made by Shriners and the carnival management of the allegations made by members of the Oneota and Hazelwood Improvement club that games of chance were being operated at the Shriners' carnival at Thirtieth avenue west, this morning disclosed the fact that two confidence men were operating there yesterday and that they "fleeced" several Duluthians.

One of the young men who fell victim to the game told how he lost his money, and as a result the police and local Shriners are on the lookout for two men, who claim Chicago as their home, and who are eager to bet on the drawing of colored chips from a bag.

This young man would pay 10 cents for an opportunity to draw a chip from a bag, which was supposed to contain green and white chips. From all appearances the confidence man placed these chips in the bag, but, in reality, he used sleight-of-hand operations and only the green ones made their way in the bag. If a white chip was drawn out, the man declared his willingness to pay 20 cents. Of course, there were only green ones there and as a result this young man soon discovered that he had lost $28, trying to draw a white chip, as he began doubling his bets trying to recoup his losses.

Upon learning of the deception and trick played upon him, the young man made complaint and this is how the report got out that there were games of chance in operation on the grounds.

The carnival management said this morning that every act or stand is legitimately operated and that it will permit no gambling on the grounds.

ANOTHER SALOON CLOSES ITS DOORS.

Another saloon has closed its doors. J. R. Joyce, who recently secured a transfer of his license from First avenue west to 216 Central avenue, West Duluth, has failed to pay his $1,000 license fee. He stated at the city hall that he would close his doors and as his license expired yesterday he is not open for business today. The others whose licenses expired have paid their fees.

LAKE TRIP LANDS COUPLE IN JAIL

Harry Harvey, 23, sold his automobile at Port Arthur the other day and he decided to come to Duluth and celebrate. But he did not come alone and that's why he is now in jail, waiting to be taken back to the Canadian port.

The young automobile mechanic decided that company would be much better on a boat trip to Duluth and he took Louise Deslaurles, 21 years old, a waitress at Port Arthur, along with him. They declared that they were married, but upon investigation here yesterday afternoon, when they arrived on the steamer Easton, the local immigration authorities learned differently and so notified the Booth line officials.

They were taken into custody, and are now at police headquarters waiting to be taken back to Canada. They will leave on one of the boats tomorrow morning.

PURER MILK BEING SOLD BY DULUTH DAIRYMEN

Official Scores for Second Quarter Issued By City Inspector.

George C. Stone's Dairy Heads List, With Sebenius Herd Second.

Local dairies showed a pronounced improvement the second quarter of the present year over the first quarter, according to Milk Inspector Gust Hedman's report for June, submitted to Dr. H. E. Webster, director of public health, this morning.

He states that the average scores of the dairies and the average butter fat tests are better and explains that while the bacteria count is somewhat higher this is to be expected because of the warmer weather. Compared with June of 1913 the count of last month shows a big decrease, being but 116,500 per cubic centimeter as compared with 240,300 per cubic centimeter the same month of the previous year. He says that the dairies have been making many improvements, such as white-washing barns, building new milk houses, cleaning their premises and installing more up-to-date and sanitary equipment.

In his report the milk inspector asserts that many dairymen have been complaining that housewives have not only been providing dirty receptacles for milk, but have been keeeping it in warm pantries or fly-infested kitchens, which nullifies all their efforts to furnish pure milk. He adds that many of their bottles are returned to them in such condition that it is almost impossible to clean them. He states that the bottles have been used for kerosene, vinegar and other purposes, for which they are not intended. "People cannot expect good milk if they are not careful themselves," comments the inspector.

Cream Shipments.

The report points out that some of the cream which has been shipped into the city has been unsatisfactory as to the bacteria count, but that an improvement is expected as shippers have been warned to be more careful. The ice cream situation is characterized as satisfactory. Inspector Hedman says that so much ice cream is consumed during the summer months that it might be considered a staple product and that keeping it pure and wholesome is quite a problem.

During the month fifty-seven cows were tested for tuberculosis and three were condemned. Five of fifty-eight samples tested for butter fat were found below. The average was 3.97 per cent. Forty-one samples were tested for bacteria. The report shows numerous other miscellaneous duties performed by the inspector.

The Caribou farm, owned by W. R. Stone, scored highest among the dairies with a credit of 96.7 per cent. J. U. Sebenius was second with a score of 94.6 per cent. Several others scored over 90 per cent.

The detailed score for the quarter, including the average butter fat and the average bacteria count, is as follows:

WHERE TO GO; WHAT TO TAKE
Merchants Make Suggestions for Fourth on Special Page of Herald.

Where to go and what to take with you on the Fourth of July is readily told in a special page on The Herald this evening. Excursions on lake and river, and what is doing at the parks, are told about and suggestions as to outfits for the day are given by local merchants.

A lake trip to south shore points leave the city at 11 o'clock tomorrow evening and returning at 11 o'clock on Saturday evening can be taken on the steamer America, at a cost of only $1. The steamers Columbia and Favorite will ply between Duluth, Superior and Fond du Lac, each making trips during the day at a round trip fare of 50 cents.

The parks offer another way of spending the day. A program that will keep all busy is planned at Desmond park on Park point. Here the visitors will be allowed to enjoy swimming, shoot the chutes, be able to see baseball games and an aeroplane flight. At Lester park throngs are expected to spend the day. Several local organizations have planned to picnic there on the Fourth. During the afternoon and evening there will be dancing at the pavilion. Merchants have made arrangements to supply large crowds with refreshments.

For those who wish to get away from bothering with home cooking or carrying with them lunch baskets, the St. Louis hotel has prepared to serve a special "French dinner." The menu is being arranged under the direction of George W. Lawrence, maitre d'hotel.

ASSUMES EXTRA COST

Missabe Road Agrees to Bear More Expense on Highland Job.

Instead of paying for the improvement of Highland street from Fifty-ninth avenue west to Sixty-first avenue west, the Duluth, Missabe & Nothern will bear the expense of the work as far as Sixty-second avenue west, according to Commissioner Roderick Murchison, head of the works division.

The block between Sixty-first and Sixty-second avenues involves a much heavier cost than any of the others because of the large amount of rock excavation. This will bring the railroad's share of the cost to approximately $30,600, which does not include the cost of building the subway itself, which is estimated at $50,000.

The estimated cost of grading and gravelling the street from Fifty-seventh avenue west to the Getchell road, which it intersects near Sixty-sixth avenue, is $42,039.56. Deducting the share of the railroad and the $2,500 which the city will pay for intersections, the amount remaining to be borne by the property benefited is reduced to approximately $9,000. It is figured that this would leave the cost per lot about $60, which is so low that the city officials feel certain that no objection will be made to the improvement.

When the subway under the tracks is built and the grading and graveling of Highland street is completed it is expected that it will become the main thoroughfare between West Duluth and Proctor and the tributary territory. It will afford a much easier grade and be in better shape than the present route. Later it is probable that a street car line will be constructed over this route.

At the special council meeting to be held this afternoon, or at an early meeting, the commissioner will introduce a resolution rescinding the previous resolutions passed ordering the improvement of Highland street and submit another containing the revised figures. The new resolution will then lay over for sixty days, as required by the charter.

Marroquin, whom he quotes Col. Roosevelt as describing as an "absolute and controlled dictator," Mr. Dubois says:

"He was a helpless and hapless old man, placed in the midst of great national unrest and disorder at the close of the most disastrous Civil war in the history of Colombia. He was not in accord with the congress, and the congress was alive with discord; the 5,000,000 of innocent and hapless people saw the true interests of their country destroyed by the selfish disputes of less than 100 men.

"If Roosevelt Had Realized."

"If Theodore Roosevelt had realized the true situation in Bogota, he would have reinforced his patience with sympathy for that helpless people who had been, for 100 years, our best friends south of the Rio Grande."

The claim made by Col. Roosevelt that the Colombian treaty is a blackmailing agreement is dealt with by by Mr. Dubois in his interpretation of the document.

"While negotiating for a treaty, I made the Colombian authorities understand that under no circumstances would the United States apologize to any nation for political acts—that was our unwritten law that never had been and never would be broken. In purely informal conversations and in my unofficial memorandum, I suggested that chivalrous expression of regret that our friendship had in any way been marred, such as any real gentleman would freely grant to another, might later be embodied in the treaty as a balm for the wounded feelings of a once friendly nation which had been humiliated before the world, whose credit had been destroyed in foreign countries, whose borrowing ability had been annihilated and whose persistent appeals for arbitration had been ignored.

"The opposition to this feature on the ground that it is an apology, is not just and is not in the true interests of the United States. If the Anglo-Saxons are to live in harmony with the Latins on this continent, they must treat them with absolute justice, just as we shall exact justice from them."

No Blackmail.

Dealing directly with Article III of the treaty, providing a payment to Colombia, which Col. Roosevelt attacked as blackmail, Mr. Dubois describes the claims of Colombia for the unpaid armuities on the cession of the Trans-Isthmian Railroad company, the reversionary rights in the Panama railroad and Panama's portion in the Colombian national debt, all of which, in his opinion, should be met by the United States.

"Under the contract of 1887," he says, "Colombia ceded the Trans-Ithmian Railroad company to the Panama Railroad company for a period of ninety-nine years, and for this she was to receive $250,000 annually during the life of the contract. At the time of separation of Panama there were remaining sixty-four annuties unpaid, amounting to $16,000,000.

"The concession also insured to Colombia reversionary rights in the Panama railroad at the expiration of the contract in 1907.

"The physical value of the railroad shortly after the revolt was placed at $16,444,000. In addition Colombia claims that she is entitled to several millions of dollars for that part of her national debt incurred in the interests of Panama before the revolution, a claim that was recognized in the treaty of 1909, made under the Roosevelt administration.

"Altogether, these claims total about $36,000,000."

As to Colombia's Rights.

"Though Col. Roosevelt asserts that all of the civil rights, titles and pecuniary interests of Colombia passed to Panama at the moment of actual separation, Mr. Dubois declares that these rights had been virtually recognized by the Roosevelt administration itself.

"Colombia," he says, "by an agreement concluded in 1889, contracted a debt of $3,000,000 with the railroad company, mortizable in twenty-nine years by the company's $250,000 annual payments. The mortization actually preceded and the debt would have been liquidated in 1909. But as the United States prevented, by physical force, the suppression of the insurrection on the isthmus by Colombia six years before the debt could be entirely paid, and never attempted to exact the six missing installments of the mortization they recognized Colombia's right of ownership."

"These and other material claims of Colombia," says Mr. Dubois, "justify the indemnification article of the treaty, to say nothing of the tremendous territorial loss and humiliation that Colombia has sustained."

WILL SUPPORT THE REPORT

Congressman Hammond Indorses Work of Efficiency Commission.

Its Conclusions in Accord With His Views of State Management.

Congressman W. S. Hammond, who many believe will be the next governor of Minnesota, is thoroughly in accord with the work of the efficiency commission and will, to quote him, "be found supporting the work so well begun."

Politics does not enter into Mr. Hammond's calculations when matters of economy and efficiency in government, and a saving to the taxpayers are involved, and he has written to C. P. Craig of Duluth, chairman of the efficiency commission, indorsing the work of that body. The congressman has heretofore declared himself in favor of any measure or measures that will tend toward bettering state government as to efficient management of its affairs and as to running the state on the lowest possible cost commensurate with proper administration.

When the result of the primary election of June 16 became definitely known, and it was settled that Congressman Hammond was the Democratic nominee for governor and that William E. Lee would be his Republican opponent, Mr. Craig sent them copies of the preliminary report of the efficiency commission in order that they might have a basis for investigation and study as to what the commission would probably report to the next legislature.

This was done with an entirely nonpartisan object by Mr. Craig, who has entered heart and soul into the movement to reduce the cost of state business and at the same time put it on a better and more businesslike basis of handling. He felt that whoever wins the election in November, should have first hand knowledge of what has been accompanied by the commission that he may suggest changes or indorse or reject any or all of the conclusions reached.

This morning Mr. Craig received a reply from Mr. Hammond, dated at the latter's home town, St. James, in which he says:

"I beg to acknowledge receipt of a copy of the preliminary report of the efficiency commission. I am somewhat familiar with the work of the commission and, in a general way, with the recommendations of this report. I have not given it careful consideration but I think it very largely accords with my own views and that I shall be found supporting the work so well begun."

has taken since he entered the White House in having conferences with captains of industry. It had been pointed out that Mr. Wilson was receiving the big business men of the country less frequently than his predecessors—in fact, had not been asking their advice at all on legislation affecting business, as many other presidents have done. When the currency bill was in passage through congress the president even declined to receive some members of the Morgan firm.

White House officials today said that one of the features which had entered into public discussion of the administration's trust legislation policy and what the president had characterized as a "psychological depression," caused by a campaign to halt the trust bills in congress, was an inference that Mr. Wilson did not care to meet the big business men of the country face to face and discuss with them personally the issues in which they are so vitally interested.

Willing to Hear Views.

By a series of informal conferences with leaders of industry and finance of which those with Mr. Morgan and Mr. Ford will be the first, it is the idea to show that the president is approaching the subject with an open mind, willing to hear the views of big business first hand and outline his own views in return.

Although there are other subjects interesting Mr. Morgan at present, in which the government has a part, it was said today's talk was to be a personal one on business. The interstate commerce commission's report on its investigation of financial affairs of the New Haven railroad is nearly ready for submission to the senate, and the time is drawing near to July 15, the date which President Wilson and Attorney General McReynolds have agreed upon for filing the anti-trust suit for the dissolution of the New Haven merger, unless the Massachusetts legislature takes certain action which is necessary to a dissolution, and which has been recommended by the attorney general and Chairman Elliott of the New Haven board. Whether those subjects were to enter into today's conference was not known.

lier Leonidas, Springfield, Ill.

Lieut.-Com. Ulysses S. Macey, in charge of navy recruiting station, Philadelphia, Adrian, Mich.

Lieut.-Com. Carlton R. Kear, gunboat El Cano, Washington, D. C.

Lieut.-Com. John W. Schoenfeld, battleship Minnesota, Westfield, N. Y.

Lieut. Franklyn W. Osborn, Jr., gunboat Castine, Eugene, Or.

Lieut. William J. Moses, cruiser Raleigh, Seattle, Wash.

Retired on Request.

In addition to the plucking board's list, Secretary Daniels announced that the following officers had been placed on the retired list at their own request:

Capt. Harrison A. Bishpham, navy yard, Philadelphia.

Commander Emmett R. Pollock, battleship Vermont, Bloomington, Ill.

Commander Irvin V. G. Gillis, battleship Michigan, Washington, D. C.

Commander Raymond Stone, battleship New Jersey, Mobile, Ala.

Commander Simon B. Fullinwider, battleship Connecticut, Raton, N. M.

Commander Edwin H. Delaney, awaiting orders at Washington, D. C., Cleveland, Tenn.

A number of other officers had asked for voluntary retirement, and had all the applications been accepted, the board would have been relieved of the necessity of "plucking." But last year the president decided not to permit the voluntary retirement of any officer who has not had twenty service years after graduation from the naval academy. The law requires the creation of forty vacancies annually, with fifteen compulsory retirements if necessary.

Of Highest Ability.

Included in the list of "plucked," this year are the names of some officers who have been so prominent in naval circles as to cause great surprise among their colleagues at their retirement. Capt. Gibbons has been superintendent of the naval academy and naval attache to the American embassy in London, assignments given to offcers of the highest professional ability.

Capt. Hill is one of the younger school of officers who became prominent through his outspoken criticisms of defects in the emplacement of armor on the older battleships, which led to radical changes in the designs.

Secretary Daniels explained that there was absolutely nothing on the records of any of these officers to show that they were not fitted for any naval service in the matter of habit, temperament and professional ability. He pointed out that the plucking law had some time ago resulted in the elimination from the navy of officers who were plainly disqualified but now the naval lists were in such shape that the committee was confronted with the task of determining not who was unfit to be retained in the service, but rather who could best be spared out of the list of thoroughly competent officers.

Democratic senators, after due consideration, hereby declares that the present session of congress should not adjourn unless at least the following bills now pending in the senate have been finally disposed of."

It names by the official number the trade commission, the railroad securities and the Clayton anti-trust bills as the measures to be included.

The explanatory clause attached to the resolution read as follows:

"The resolution hereinbefore adopted is intended merely as an expression of the purpose of the majority party in reference to adjournment."

Senators who hope to get away from Washington within the next six weeks or two months, found a morsel of comfort in the announcement from the conference that Senator Kern, as majority leader, will ask the senate to hold night sessions next week to take up the calendar and "other business." At the same time Senator Lewis, Democratic "whip," was instructed to keep a quorum present at all times.

Party Views Given.

Prosperity and depression were pictured in another senate debate today. Republicans cited instances of industrial dullness and business reaction, while Democrats asserted that business conditions were better in the United States than anywhere else in the world.

Senator Simmons started the argument when he quoted the official treasury figures showing a surplus for the fiscal year just ended. "The treasury may be in a satisfactory condition," interjected Senator Gallinger, Republican, "but the industries of the country certainly are not."

Shoes Are Cheaper.

He then read from letters saying a New Hampshire shoe manufacturer had lost a $200,000 yearly contract from a Baltimore customer who found he could buy shoes cheaper in England under the new tariff. Senator Gallinger also presented correspondence to show that the wool manufacturing industry in New Hampshire had fallen off.

Senator Hollis, Democrat, replied that a personal investigation in New Hampshire had convinced him that labor was better employed there than it ever had been before.

Senator Martine, Democrat, asserted that a sewing machine plant in New Jersey which usually closes down for a month in the summer had this year been unable to close for more than a week.

regard the protocols thus far signed as terms of peace which represent an agreement between the United States and Mexico to resume diplomatic relations upon the fulfilment of a single condition—the establishment of a provisional government by agreement of the Mexican factions. It is being taken for granted that Gen. Carranza ultimately will send delegates, but no one ventures to predict when.

Emilio Rabasa, head of the Huerta delegation, said today that he and his colleagues probably would leave here tomorrow for Buffalo and New York, there to wait definite word as to the time and place which the Constitutionalist delegates shall designate for the peace conferences. Ambassador Da Gama of Brazil and Minister Naon of Argentina planned to leave here tonight.

Carranza's Note.

The last note from Gen. Carranza, which was in reply to a communication from the mediators under date of June 21, was made public today. It says:

"The confidential agency of Gen. Carranza at Washington has replied to the note of the mediators addressed to him June 21, stating:

"'The chief of the Constitutionalist government duly appreciates the noble purpose of the mediators in addressing him an invitation to treat directly with delegates of Gen. Huerta on the organization of a provisional government capable of bringing about in a prompt and consistent form the pacification of Mexico.

"'But notwithstanding his good-will to give to the country an organic and durable peace by any means which will not bring to naught the great sacrifices which the Mexican people have made in the present struggle, he is compelled to consult the opinion of the generals of the Constitutionalist army before deciding on the appointment of delegates to confer on his behalf with those of Gen. Huerta regarding the possibility of reaching an agreement putting an end to the war.

Obliged By Promise.

"'This obligation arises from the promise made by Mr. Carranza and by all Constitutionalists, faithfully to carry out the plan of Guadaloupe, which proposes to restore theConstitutional order by means of a provisional president, and which would be modified if such government were made to emanate from a possible agreement with the delegates of Gen. Huerta, as well as from this earnest desire that any agreement reached be strictly fulfilled.

"'With this end in view, and in furtherance of the efforts of the mediators to procure a peaceful solution of the struggle which the Mexican people have been compelled to sustain in the defense of its institutions, the first chief has already addressed the generals of the Constitutionalist army in consultation, and only desires to request the mediators to allow him a short period of time, during which he hopes to receive answers from his companions in arms, in order to appoint delegates to treat with the delegates of Gen. Huerta.'"

Seek Communication.

Washington, July 2.—Constitutionalist representatives in Washington sought today to get into communication with their chief, Carranza, to learn the result of the referendum among his generals over the proposal for conferences with Huerta's delegates.

With mediation proceedings at Niagara Falls suspended, after practical settlement of the international conflict, chief interest in the Mexican situation centered in the attitude that Carranza and his military leaders would take toward meeting the envoys of their enemy. It was suggested that while Carranza had promised an early definition of his stand, yet it might be delayed by efforts to iron out the differences that have arisen among the revolutionary chiefs.

Carranza was in Saltillo, preparing to move his provisional capital to Monterey.

Criticize Carden.

Mexico City, July 2.—In spite of the insistent advice of Sir Lionel Carden, the British minister, only thirty-six British subjects, mostly women and children left for Vera Cruz today. They are on their way to Jamaica. Several who had decided to leave were deterred from doing so at the last moment by the high rate of foreign exchange, the Mexican pesos today being worth only 27 cents of American money.

The British minister was today the target of much bitter criticism by his countrymen here on account of the radical change in his attitude recently displayed. When he was asked to state the real reason for having advised British subjects to leave the capital he said there was no special cause except the general unsatisfactory political conditions, with the possibility of an acute crisis occurring at any moment.

Will Meet Villa's Men.

Torreon, Coahulla, Mex., July 2.—Antonio Villareal, governor of Nuevo Leon, will be one of Carranza's delegates who will meet Gen. Villa's commission in this city according to a telegram received today at the headquarters of the division of the north. Villareal was reported as having left Saltillo yesterday and was expected here today.

from the doctor's office to a closet in the bedroom of his wife. According to the sheriff, Mrs. Carman admitted to him she had the instrument installed because she "wanted to hear what went on" between her husband and women patients, and that she had been "much comforted" by what she had overheard.

His Wife Told Him.

The sheriff also said that Dr. Carman, when questioned about the telephonic device, told him his wife admitted to him that she had the machine put in. He said she had hid the receiver in the attic. The sheriff said Mrs. Carman, at his request, had gone to the attic and brought the instrument to him. A revolver of small caliber also was found in the physician's home.

In her talk with the sheriff, Mrs. Carman denied ever having seen Mrs. Bailey.

Loses Leg Stealing Ride.

St. Ignace, Mich., July 2.—Mike Noba, a woodsman, who was working near Grayling was brought from Trout Lake, having had a foot cut off by a freight train. He and two companions were trying to board a box car; the companions had climbed in and were dragging Noba in by his hands when his foot got under the car wheel, the men dropped him and he fell.

Pickpockets to Waupun.

Eau Claire, Wis., July 1.—John W. Davis, alias George Day, St. Paul, and John Hutchinson, alias John Hart, Minneapolis, the two pickpockets who broke jail here a week ago and led Sheriff Neher on a 1,800-mile race before he caught them, yesterday pleaded guilty and were sentenced to two years each at Waupun prison.

THE RICHMAN BROS. CO.

20 WEST SUPERIOR STREET

FEW IDLE MEN IN THE CITY

Green Fields and Fresh Air Lure Men From Streets.

"Harvest Fever" Expected to Cause Exodus After the Fourth.

The lure of country air and the green fields is gradually emptying Duluth of idle men. Labor agents say that there were fully 1,000 idle men here a month ago, but now the streets and "jungles" are practically deserted within the city limits.

It is doubtful if there were 200 idle men on Superior street and around the docks today. A few stood in front of the employment offices, but labor agents say that most of them have gone to the "jungles" in the rural districts or else have obtained employment. A good many are not too fastidious to sleep in the box cars in the freight yards, but the improvised camp in the country near the tracks seems to be the most popular resort.

Labor agents are not receiving many orders for men. A few calls are coming in from the big woods and from the farms, but the great wave of migratory labor is not yet on in full force. A general movement to the wheat fields of the Northwest will probably start in earnest after the Fourth. Most of tht transitory workers will try to get a few days work in the hay fields to carry them over until harvest. The barley and rye harvest is just about to begin in the Northwest and wheat and oats will be ripe the latter part of this month.

The warm weather in May brought on the grain fast, but heavy rains during June are said to have caused a heavy growth of straw, which will delay the ripening period.

After the men pass the Fourth they are expected to shift rapidly and get on the ground ready for the harvest.

GRAIN GROWERS THANK TRADERS

North Dakota Men Say They Had Great Time Here This Week.

Because of the royal entertainment which the grain shippers, business men and farmers of North Dakota received while in Duluth Tuesday and Wednesday, the delegation from Northwood, N. D., has drawn up a set of resolutions of thanks to the Duluth board of trade for the entertainment and instruction in the methods of handling and marketing grain. The resolutions follow:

"Be it resolved, That we, the undersigned farmers, business men and grain shippers of Northwood, N. D., do hereby tender to the board of trade of Duluth, Minn., and other citizens of Duluth concerned, our earnest appreciation of the opportunity afforded us of examining in detail the manner in which the grain of North Dakota and the Northwest is handled and marketed at this point and we thank them for the many courtesies shown us in this connection.

"Be it further resolved, That inasmuch as our observations and investigations and the splendid manner of our entertainment have favorably impressed us as to the high standing and integrity of the Duluth board of trade, as well as with the generous hospitality of said board and of the citizens of Duluth generally, we are deeply appreciative of the various courtesies extended to make our visit here one of profitable knowledge as well as extraordinary pleasure, and do therefore tender to said board and citizens for the excellent treament accorded us our most sincere and hearty thanks.

"Be it also resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded for publication to the Duluth newspapers.

WRITES THAT HE IS AURORA MURDERER

Anonymous Correspondent Adds He Intends to Kills Himself.

Geneva, Ill., July 2.—An anonymous letter was received today by Judge C. E. Irwin, who is sitting in the Petras murder trial, in which the writer said that it was he who clubbed Theresa Hollander to death in St. Nicholas cemetery, Aurora, the night of Feb. 16 last.

"I did it," the letter, a scrawling few words, read, "and I am going to jump into the lake today."

The letter was posted at Chicago.

Louis Hollander, father of the slain girl, was on the stand again today and was led away protesting. He wanted to tell what his daughter had said to him the night of the murder, with reference to Petras, and the testimony was held inadmissable.

Capt. Fred Grass of the Aurora police force, who followed Mr. Hollander on the stand, said he examined Petras the night that he was arrested and that he found blood on his undergarments.

Patrolman Joseph Butien, who had Petras in charge for a while the night of the arrest, said that Petras asked him "is the girl killed?" although he had said nothing to Petras of the charge on which he was taken.

MICHIGAN NAVAL MILITIA COMING

Nearly 100 From Escanaba and Hancock Are in Party.

From seventy-five to 100 officers and men of the Hancock and Escanaba, (Mich.) Naval militia will be guests of the Duluth Naval militia Saturday and Sunday. Local naval men are preparing an elaborate program of entertainment for the Wolverine excursionists.

The Michigan men are expected to arrive in Duluth some time Saturday morning on thmeir ship Yantic, and the Duluth militiamen have decided to board the Gopher and go out to meet the Yantic and accompany her to her anchorage. The Gopher will also accompany the Yantic a short distance down the lake when she departs Sunday noon.

Completion of the plan of entertainment has been delayed, however, because the details as to the number of men and the time of the arrival of the Michigan militia has not yet been learned.

WANTS LIND DATA GIVEN TO HOUSE.

Washington, July 2.—Representative Kahn of California, Republican, has introduced a resolution to direct the secretary of state to transmit to the house, if not incompatible with the public interest, the correspondence with John Lind, President Wilson's personal representative in Mexico.

He specified "documents in relation to assurances given by Lind to Capt. S. G. Hopkins of this city, or any other person, to the effect that war material might be exported from Mobile, Pensacola, or other Gulf ports in small vessels to Cuba, where their course might be altered to the mouth of the Rio Bravo, and that there would be no intereference whatsoever with shipments made in this way."

The resolution was referred to the foreign affairs committee.

Arrested on Theft Charge.

St. Paul, Minn., July 2.—A. Dye, 28 years old, formerly employed by the Great Western road as cashier of the Sycamore, Ill., office, was arrested yesterday by Detectives Paul Gottfried and J. McKinley and Special Agent Frank King, in the union depot baggage room, charged with embezzlement. Dye is alleged to have stolen $500 from the Chicago Great Western office in Sycamore, Ill., one and one-half months ago.

THE PICTURES NEED CLEANING.

Maude B. Hymers in Farm and Fireside: Many a housewife, after the semi-annual housecleaning, feels a vague dissatisfaction with the pictures on her walls; they seem not to reflect the shining cleanliness of the other furnishings.

It will not suffice to call the pictures clean when they have merely had their faces washed and their backs whisked. This does not take into account the characteristic of grease-laden steam to hunt corners, and the tendency of dust to insinuate itself into the smallest crevices. If you look closely you can see both beneath the surface of your pictures, manifesting themselves in the form of a general haziness. To be really clean, pictures should have a thorough overhauling once a year.

First remove the brads which hold the wooden backs in place, and lift the picture off the glass. wipe the picture itself with a dry, clean cloth, or if much soiled, with a piece of fresh bread changing as it becomes blackened. If stains are present a reliable wall paper cleaner may be used with discretion. The color of the washcloth used on the glass will be sufficient evidence that dirt may find its way between frame and glass.

When putting the picture together again see that there are sufficient brads to hold the glass firmly without any "give" when the face is pressed; and finish by gluing heavy wrapping paper over the entire back to within a few inches of the edge of frame. This will do much toward excluding dust in future.

Gilt frames should be restored by an application of liquid gold, and white ones re-enameled, neither of which is difficult to do. Indeed it may be well to go over the entire collection of frames, using the same enamel or stain, one which has been selected because of its complete harmony with the general coloring of the room. This is inexpensive, and will do much toward improving the appearance of your home.

U. S. AND CHINA LEAD OPIUM FIGHT.

The Hague, Netherlands, July 2.—The international opium conference here is making slow progress toward an agreement. Turkey entirely refuses to commit herself to any rules for the suppression of the traffic. Other powers refuse to proceed without Turkey.

The American delegation is striving to have the convention of 1912 executed by such powers as are willing to adhere to it, without waiting for all the governments.

The United States and China are the two nations taking the most active part.

Montana Poll Tax Invalid.

Deer Lodge, Mont., July 2.—The poll tax statute of Montana was held invalid by Judge H. V. Balliton in the case of E. C. Pohl, who sued to recover from the Milwaukee railway company poll tax collections from employes. The action was a test case and is being financed by the different unions of the state.

Injured Man Improving.

McIntosh, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—United States Land Commissioner John Peterson of Oklu, who was injured about four weeks ago in an auto wreck, is slowly improving. He is now being cared for in the Bethesda hospital at Crookston. Hopes are entertained that he will ultimately regain use of his limbs.

Roosevelt in Seclusion.

PATRONIZING OF HOME INDUSTRIES

Commercial Club Will Discuss Subject and Investigate Complaints.

The patronizing of home industries will be one of the subjects to be brought up at the meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club tomorrow night. A director of the club said this morning that the reason the matter would be taken up was because some of the business men who are loudest in making the claim that West Duluth people are not patronizing West Duluth merchants, are side stepping West Duluth contractors when it comes to doing any building or improving.

This member of the club said that at present four buildings are being erected by West Duluth merchants and that each of these four has let their minor contracts, such as electric wiring, plumbing, plastering and decoration to uptown men without even going to the trouble of asking for prices from local men.

The intention is to thrash out the proposition and request as many merchants as possible to be present at this meeting.

"It is only fair to suppose that if a merchant wants the business of West Duluth people, that he in turn should give first consideration to a West Duluth man when he wishes any special work done," said this director of the club. "It is through co-operation in that way each patronizing the other as far as possible that a community can be built up. If the merchant wishes his neighbors to spend their money with him, then he in turn should spend his money with his neighbors."

ARE BRIDGING KEENE'S CREEK

Construction work on the Keene's creek bridge which will be the connecting link between the Getchell road and Highland street is being pushed rapidly. It is expected that the bridge will be completed and turned over to the county commissioners before Aug. 15.

This month it is expected that the city will let the contract for the grading and surfacing of Highland street from Sixty-second avenue to a connection with the Getchell road east of the bridge. The cost of this work is estimated at less than $2,000.

At the close of the shipping season on the D., M. & N. the railroad will begin the construction of its part of the work. This includes the lowering of the level on Highland street for the approach to the subway under its tracks at this point near Fifty-ninth avenue.

GUARDIAN SUES BANK.

M. J. Filiatrault Brings Action in Behalf of Sadie Dass.

M. J. Filiatrault of West Duluth, as guardian for Sadie Dass, a minor, started suit in district court yesterday afternoon against the American Exchange National bank to recover $1,093.45, which belongs to the girl, or to compel the bank to transfer the deposit to his credit.

Filiatrault alleges that the child's mother, Isabella Dass, had this amount on deposit in the savings department of the bank when she died Sept. 5, 1913, and that on Aug. 31 preceding her death she gave her passbook to her daughter and assigned the deposit to her.

BALL TEAMS WILL MEET ON FOURTH.

One of the most interesting amateur baseball games of the season is expected to be held Saturday at the Fifty-second avenue grounds, when the Zeniths line up against the Big Duluths. Backers of the teams have put up a purse of $50 for the winners.

The game will begin promptly at 2:45 p. m. Kilton and Quesnelle will handle the indicators. Roy McDougall will pitch for the Zeniths and either McLaughlin or Clark will hold the mound position for the Big Duluths.

The Zeniths are expecting to hear from the manager of the New Duluth team for an early game to be played in the suburb.

SIGN PETITION FOR DR. SEASHORE.

A petition signed by about 300 residents of West Duluth placing in nomination the name of Dr. D. E. Seashore for school director for one year has been prepared by West Duluth people. The petition will be filed with the clerk of the school board tomorrow.

Dr. Seashore was appointed to fill out an unexpired term caused by the resignation of Dr. S. H. Boyer. Dr. Boyer's term would have expired next year. As far as is known Dr. Seashore is the only candidate whose name is being petitioned for on the short term.

Enjoy Free Show.

West Duluth "kids" as well as grownups who were on the street this morning gathered to watch with interest a "fakir" who was experimenting with a toy boomerang. The man was giving demonstration of what could be done with the toy and for nearly half an hour threw the boomerang around sheds, teams on the streets, telegraph poles and other objects.

The street was lined with spectators while he threw the toy out into the air only to have it return to his hand after it had completed a circle.

SEVERAL GERMANS QUIT MEXICO CITY

Tell of Fears of Disturbances in Huerta's Capital.

Vera Cruz, July 2.—Sharing the apprehension felt by most foreigners in Mexico City, several Germans arrived at Vera Cruz today from the capital. They said the German minister, Admiral Paul von Hintze, on Tuesday advised his countrymen to purchase foodstuffs sufficient to last at least eight days, and to store them in a concentration house chosen far from the center of the city.

In the same house there are a number of Japanese, whose government has provided them with rifles and machine guns, and in case of necessity they will join the Germans in defense.

Anticipating an early disturbance of peace in the capital, five American nuns who had been attached to the School of the Sacred Heart as instructors, also arrived here today.

NOW AFTER EQUIPMENT

Railroads of Country Ordered 20,000 New Cars in June.

Rate Decision Expected Soon—"Never Saw Such Wheat."

The managements of the various railroad systems over the country are looking forward to the heaviest grain movement on record this season and they are now coming into the market more freely for cars and equipment. It is thought that a notable revival in the steel trade will materialize after the decision of the interstate commerce commission in the freight rate case. According to intimation by members of the commission the suspense will be over within a few days now.

Railroad orders for June are estimated to have aggregated 20,000 cars, 115 locomotives and 165,000 tons of rails. Previous to June the best month this year in the equipment way was February, when 13,500 cars were ordered. Production of pig for last month aggregated over 450,000 tons, or considerably better than May.

It is reported that inquiries for rails and equipment have been put out by practically all the roads operating in the Northwest and the going ahead with considerable improvement work that has been held back some time is forecasted from now on till the late fall months. The Northern Pacific, Soo line and Great Northern are expected to go ahead with extensions in Western North Dakota and Montana and many betterments are to be carried through at other points.

E. H. Mudge, president of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railroad, said in the course of an interview at New York that this country had never seen such wheat as is being harvested this year. He places the yield in Kansas at 150,000,000 bushels, whereas that state had never before produced more than 100,000,000 bushels of winter wheat in a season. He looks for an extensive movement in wheat for export via the gulf for the first time in five or six years.

The corn crop is looking splendid through the Southwest, he averred. He describes soil conditions to be excellent as a rule with abundant moisture to carry the plant through for a time. Corn now stands around four feet in height throughout the Southwest.

DIVINITY SCHOOLS OF TWO SECTS UNITE

Baptists and Congregationalists Will Seek to Absorb Others.

Chicago, July 2.—The Chicago Theological seminary and the divinity school at the University of Chicago have become affiliated, it is announced by Dean Shailer Mathews. The seminary is one of the largest educational institutions of the Congregational church. It will be moved from its present location to the university campus, where new buildings for it were erected at a cost of several hundred thousand dollars.

Dean Mathews said negotiations for merging have been entered into with the Disciples' divinity house, the Ryder house, representing the Universalist sect, and the Norwegian Baptist theological house.

"The associated faculties of the allied schools will constitute the largest group of theological educators connected with any institution in the United States," said Dr. Mathews.

WINONA ASSEMBLY MAY GET RECEIVER.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 2.—Efforts of creditors of the Winona assembly to effect a settlement of the financial difficulties of the institution resulted in the filing of an involutary petition in bankruptcy against the assembly in Federal court here yesterday, which threatens to throw the immense Presbyterian church property at Winona, Ind., into the hands of a receiver. Financial affairs of the assembly have been in litigation for several months. William J. Bryan, secretary of state, is a director in the assembly.

Splendid Medicine Stomach Trouble

I Suffered for Several Years Peruna Restored My Health

Mrs. Elizabeth Reuther, No. 508 Twelfth St., N. W. Washington, D. C., writes: "I am pleased to endorse Peruna as a splendid medicine for catarrh and stomach trouble, from which I suffered for several years. I took it for several months and at the end of that time found my health was restored and have felt splendidly ever since. I now take it when I contract a cold and it soon rids the system of any catarrhal tendencies.

Over Ten Years Ago.

"I would not be without Peruna. Although it was over ten years ago that I first gave you my testimonial, I am of the same opinion as when I wrote it, and give you the privilege to use it as you see fit. I still use Peruna when I think it necessary. I am recommending it to my neighbors whenever a chance occurs."

I Still Praise Peruna.

Peruna is undoubtedly a splendid medicine for the stomach. A great many people after years of searching for a remedy finally try Peruna and are cured. This remedy is especially helpful in cases of weakness of the stomach. Those who prefer to take tablets instead of liquid medicines can get Peruna Tablets.

West End

GAMBLING AT CARNIVAL CHARGED

Improvement Club Appoints Committee to Make Investigation.

Charges that alleged gambling devices were being operated at the carnival on Thirtieth avenue west and Third street were made last night at the meeting of the Oneota and Hazelwood Improvement club, held at the Merritt school. The charges were made by members who alleged that they had been informed that roulette wheels, lottery chances and other devices were being operated.

Following a discussion of the subject a committee consisting of O. M. Holmes, Conrad Wicklund and Joseph B. Gibson was appointed to conduct an investigation. The committee will visit the carnival grounds for that purpose this evening.

The club also discussed the campaign for school directors. Indorsement was given the candidacy of Dr. D. E. Seashore, Dr. L. Q. Greeley, Capt. D. E. Stevens and O. J. Larson.

NEANDER CHOSEN TO HEAD SPAA CLUB

Members Arrange for a Series of Games on July 4.

The Spaa Club of the Second Presbyterian church, 1515 West Superior street, held its annual election of officers at the playground in the rear of the church last night. The following officers were chosen: Nels Neander, president; Miss Agnes Campbell, vice president; Miss Nellie Page, secretary; and Alex Macrae, treasurer.

Plans were made for a series of games to be played on July 4 and also for a basket lunch to be served on the grounds at 5 o'clock that evening. Basket ball, volley ball and other games will be played between teams composed of young men and young women.

The Spaa club has been organized only one year, but has now a membership of nearly 100 young people. Its grounds have been considerably improved this year. Tennis will be added as one of the sports for this season.

Plan Lawn Social.

Women of the Tabernacle Society of the St. Clement's Catholic church have planned to entertain Wednesday evening at a lawn social at the home of Mrs. Owen Devaney, 2725 West Second street. A musical and literary program is being arranged.

M. E. Midweek Meeting.

H. S. Hoshour of the Y. M. C. A. will conduct the midweek meeting at the Grace Methodist church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street, this evening. Mr. Hoshour will talk on the recent students' missionary conference held at Kansas City.

McNaughton Funeral.

The funeral service for Hector C. McNaughton, manager of the Capitol elevator on Garfield avenue, who died suddenly Tuesday morning was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from his home, 908 Garfield avenue. Interment was made at Forest Hill cemetery. Rev. J. A. McGaughey, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church officiated.

West End Briefs.

Rev. Milton Fish, pastor of the Central Baptist church, returned home this morning from Boston, where he has been attending the Northern Baptist conference.

James Murphy, 3728 West Third street, has returned from a visit to relatives at Newcastle, N. B.

The Young Ladies' Society of the Zion Norwegian Lutheran church will entertain this evening at a moonlight excursion. The steamer will leave Twenty-first avenue west at 7:45 p. m.

Mrs. H. M. Carr, 3907 West Third street, has as her guest, Mrs. Ross of Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bennett, 3820 West Third street, have left for Eastern Canada, where they will visit relatives for two months. They were accompanied by their daughter, Miss Clara Bennett.

The Sunshine Society of the Trinity English Lutheran church will meet tomorrow afternoon at Lincoln park. The meeting will be the final one held this summer.

FINED FOR REFUSING TO TELL GOWNS' COST

French Banker Appeals in U. S. Customs Case.

Paris, July 2.—Henry Munroe, a banker, is appealing before the tribunal of the Seine for an order to set aside a sentence of ten days in jail and the payment of a fine of $150 for refusing to disclose the amounts paid by Miss Dolan, a Brookline, Mass., dressmaker, for dresses purchased in France which were seized on their arrival in Boston on the ground that they had been undervalued.

Andre Lesourd, Miss Dolan's counsel, declared American customs offices maintained in Paris what amounted to a fiscal espionage agency. Purchasers are shadowed by spies, he said, and French export houses refusing to permit all books to be examined find their goods destined for the United States are held up.

SUGAR TRUST LOSES DAMAGE SUIT POINT.

New Orleans, La., July 2.—Damage suits aggregating $150,000,000 filed against the American Sugar Refining company, charging violation of the Sherman law, must be tried in the United States court in Louisiana, under a ruling of Federal Judge Foster. Attorneys for the corporation, in an exception to a test trial, contended that as the company was incorporated under the laws of New Jersey, suits for damage should be tried in the New Jersey courts.

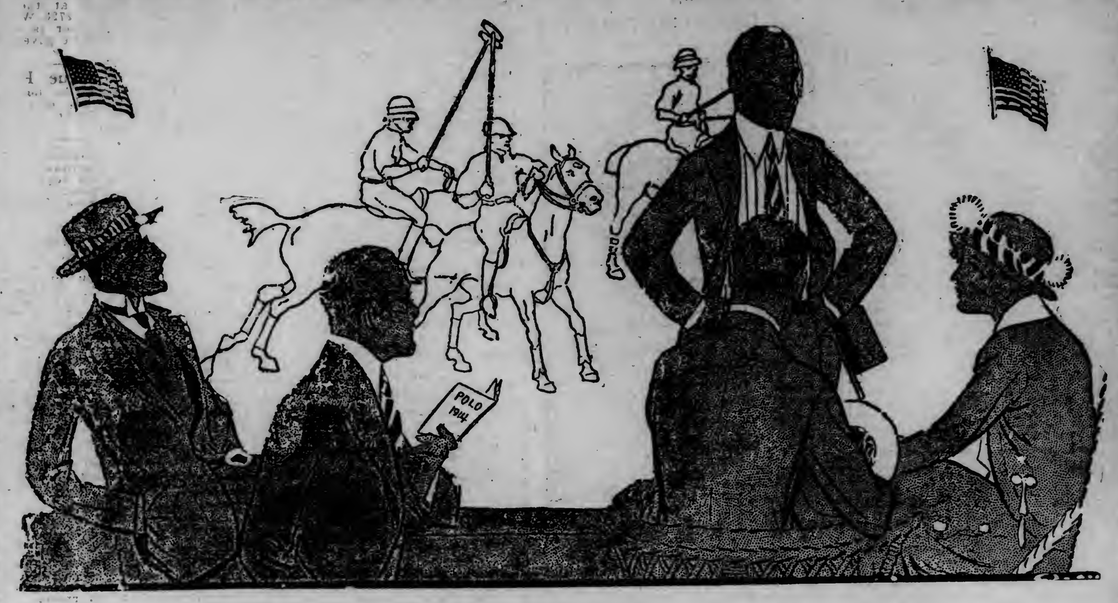

FIFTEEN YEARS FOR NEGRO BLACKMAILER.

New York, July 2.—Joseph Burton, the negro who was recently captured in a spectacular attempt to blackmail the Cunard Steamship company, was sentenced yesterday to fifteen years in Sing Sing prison.

Burton had demanded that officials of the line throw a packet containing $10,000 from the back platform of an express train on the signal of a green light which would flash at some point along the route. At the signal the train came to an abrupt stop, two police detectives leaped from the platform and the negro was taken.

COMPLEXION RUINED BY PIMPLES

Itched and Burned Badly. Also Had Blackheads. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In Two Weeks Completely Well.

724 E. N. Ave., Olney, Ill.—"When my trouble first began I noticed little pimples coming on my face. They itched and burned so badly that I had to scratch them and that only made them worse. About a week later my face was so badly covered with pimples and blackheads that I was ashamed. My complexion was ruined. The pimples would sometimes bleed and fester.

"I bought a box of complexion cream and used it but without effect. I also bought some —— and complexion cream but with the same poor result. One day I heard of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I decided to give them a trial. So I got a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment, washed my face with the Soap and applied the Ointment and in two weeks I was completely well." (Signed) Chas. E. McGinn, May 5, 1914.

Samples Free by Mail

In the care of baby's skin and hair, Cuticura Soap is the mother's favorite. Not only is it unrivaled in purity and refreshing fragrance, but its gentle emollient properties are usually sufficient to allay minor irritations, remove redness, roughness and chafing, soothe sensitive conditions, and promote skin and hair health generally. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

TEACH HOME MAKING IN SCHOOL, IS URGED.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 2.—A plea for teaching of home-making in colleges, high schools and elementary schools, and a promise of government support in every effort to introduce such a course, brought hearty applause from every woman who heard Philander P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education, address the annual convention of the American Home Economics association at the college for women of Western Reserve university yesterday.

Dr. Benjamin F. Andrews of Teachers' college, Columbia university, in speaking on "Buying for the Household," said the department of agriculture is investigating a method for fattening cattle which should yield more meat and less suet at twenty cents a pound.

Miss Sarah Louise Arnold, dean of Simmons college, Boston, and president of the association, declared that haphazard spending of the family income is threatening the well-being of the nation.

MOSQUITOES LIKE CANARY BIRDS

The Old Fisherman Warns Those Who Plan to Spend the Fourth Fishing.

The Old Fisherman got back a few days ago from four days' fishing on the upper reaches of the Gooseberry.

"The boys all know Frank Remmels, who is caretaker of the old Gooseberry clubhouse," said the Old Fisherman. "Frank now spends most of his time trapping wolves. He has been having good luck with wolves, and has trapped twelve this spring and summer.

"Fishing is fair in the north shore streams, but the mosquitoes are as big as canary birds, and thicker than the hair on a dog's neck. Anybody who goes out for the Fourth should take along about a gallon of mosquito dope, and plenty of netting. Without these preparations, you couldn't spend an hour in the woods."

SAY SPORTSMEN ACTED AT POLLS

Claim Made North Dakota Nimrods Voted Game Law Sentiments.

Souris, N. D., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—That the hunters of North Dakota demand proper protection for game was demonstrated during the recent primaries when U. L. Burdick one of whose planks favored the abolition of the game wardens and turning over the enforcement of the game laws to the local officials was defeated, State Senator Garden of this place, who adopted the same platform, was snowed under and in Cavalier county, Magnus Snowfield, who made a fight against Senator McLean, failed.

Garden's defeat is attributed directly to his stand on game law enforcement. His position frightened some of the local sportsmen and they strongly opposed his candidacy and worked for his opponent.

Why McLean Won.

In Cavalier county Senator McLean was chairman of the fish and game committee of the upper branch of the legislature at the last session. He was widely known as a thorough sportsman and an enthusiast for game protection. Because of his attitude Snowfield, his opponent, followed the cue of Candidate Burdick for the Republican nomination for governor. The sportsmen rallied to the support of McLean and Snowfield was badly defeated.

The sportsmen of the state oppose retrograde legislation. They worked for some years to get game laws on the North Dakota statutes and are now endeavoring to have additional improvements made in the law at the coming session.

TWO WOUNDED IN ST. LOUIS STRIKE.

St. Louis, Mo., July 2.—One man was stabbed and another beaten into unconsciousness in a battle between striking ice wagon drivers and strike breakers here last night. When a wagonload of patrolmen reached the scene they found only the two wounded men lying unconscious on the sidewalk. The drivers of ice wagons on the south side struck last week, demanding recognition of their union.

Woman's Realm

At the regular monthly meeting of the Women's council held yesterday afternoon the committee on education, through its chairman, reported on the number of members who would be elected July 11 to fill the places on the board of education made vacant by those whose terms expire, and spoke of the candidates for election and re-election. A letter was read from the Retail Merchants' association regarding the suggestion of the council that women give their orders to grocers early on Saturday in order that deliveries on Saturday night need not be made later than on other nights, and as the meeting was an open one, women in addition to the members of the council were given an opportunity to hear several interesting talks. Mrs. F. L. Barrows, Mrs. J. L. Washburn and Mrs. P. L. De Voist, who were delegates to the biennial of the General Federation of Women's Clubs at Chicago last month, gave their impressions of the convention, Mrs. Stanrod of Idaho, and Mrs. George Dean of Chicago, who also were delegates, spoke of the meetings; and Mrs. E. A. Shores of Seattle told of club work in Washington.

Mrs. Barrows said of the convention: "We came back with memories of the thrills it gave us to get even a glimpse of the latent force of this great body of women to see the eagerness for service manifested everywhere throughout the membership, from the highest officer to the most unknown club woman, and to realize this great organization of approximately 1,000,000 club women might and undoubtedly will become a force for civic righteousness, unequaled in the history of our country.

"Some of our leading financiers, men who have been rather skeptical about women's public moral obligations, happened to be at the Blackstone or the Congress during the biennial. They were immensely surprised and vitally interested in the scope and manner of the woman movement as demonstrated at the biennial, as was shown by the many questions they asked. It is going to be easier to interest these men in our problems after this.

Minnesota's Part.

"We were proud of Minnesota, of our sixty delegates and ten to fifteen alternates, and of the many speakers chosen from our state. Among other speakers we claim two of the young girls who spoke on president's night, Dorothy Loyhed and Agnes Potter, daughter of Frances Squire Potter. We were proud of the prominence given to Minnesota women on important commmitteesfi. We held three state meetings during the convention and gave a luncheon to our state president."

Mrs. Frances Squire Potter, who was for many years intimately associated with club work in this state, was one of those for whom memorial exercises were held on the Sunday of the convention. Of her Mrs. Barrows said: "It would be hard to portray to an audience a true picture of that vivid personality, of that vigorous power and optimistic nature that rose always from the depths of sorrow, tragedy and bitterness to sublime self-forgetfulness and thoughtfulness of others. The empty chair tied with a bow of red ribbon in the front tier of boxes at the Auditorium and the faces of her children and friends at the memorial services will long remain with those who attended that beautiful testimonial and who knew and loved Mrs. Frances Squire Potter."

Praises Mrs. Pennybacker.

Mrs. Washburn, whose general impressions of the biennial were published in The Herald just after her return from Chicago, praised the efficient president of the federation, Mrs. Pennybacker of Texas, who showed great tact and justice and who used just the right amount of parliamentary law at the sessions. Speaking of the justice of Mrs. Pennybacker, Mrs. Washburn told how the anti-suffragists protested after the passage of the suffrage question, desiring that it go on record that the suffrage question had not been carried unanimously. Mrs. Pennybacker said: "The chair rules that the minority be heard and that it be entered upon the minutes. The incident is closed," thus putting an end to all discussion of a question that had been settled.

Mrs. Washburn described the way in which $20,000 was raised to complete the $100,000 endowment fund, established that the interest of the amount might be used for the furtherance of national club work.

Up to the Chicago meeting Minnesota had paid about half the money for which she was assessed. Mrs. Atwood of St. Cloud, the president of the Minnesota federation, pledged $12,000 for her state, giving a note for the amount.

The "Pioneers."

Mrs. Washburn told of the "Pioneers," an association formed at the biennial held in Boston six years ago. Any woman who sat in council of the General Federation in the nineteenth century, or was president of a club directly connected with the federation is eligible to the "Pioneers." Mrs. Washburn has this honor. At every biennial Mrs. William Todd Helmuth, the 76-year-old president, entertains the "Pioneers," members of the council, state officers and speakers at a dinner, which though large is delightfully informal.

Suffrage Question.

Mrs. De Voist spoke of the suffrage question that came up and was disposed of so quickly at the Chicago biennial. She told how the talks on suffrage were given at just the proper time during the convention and how Mrs. Pennybacker put the question that meant so much to the club women of the country and was of great interest to the people at large, for the United States was waiting to see what action that great body of women would take in regard to the most vital question of the age.

The need for women to have a part in the government was shown by the talks made at the convention on such subjects as "Condition of Women and Children in Industry," "Woman's Part in the Housing Problem" and "What Seven Million Women Expect of One Million Women."

Mrs. Pennybacker presented the question of suffrage that was carried by an overwhelming majority. In a business like way she announced, "The ayes have it." When a suffragist asked, "May we give three cheers for the passage of the resolution?" the president replied, "The incident is closed" and took up the business that came next in order.

Double Victory.

Mrs. De Voist said, "On the same day the suffrage resolution was passed the supreme court handed down its decision that votes for women were legal. I can conceive of no way a woman can register an opinion as in casting a ballot. It is our duty to register our choice. In Illinois 1,600,000 women have the ballot; the ground is ready for civic truth."

Mrs. E. W. Matter, chairman of the educational committee, reported four members of the board of education will be elected July 11, three for three years and one for one year. The names suggested by the educational committee were Dr. Seashore, W. E. Magner, John H. Norton, Andrew Nelson and E. R. Cobb. It was understood Mr. Magner had announced his refusal to run and Mr. Nelson had not fully announced his plans. Mrs. Matter pointed out that Mr. Cobb is on the finance committee and has been treasurer of the board for many years. Dr. Seashore was commended for the interest he has shown as a member of the board of education and his acceptability to his co-workers. "I hope we will have a report at the next meeting of the number of women who went to the polls," Mrs. Matter said.

Mrs. John Jenswold, Jr., corresponding secretary of the council, read a letter from the Retail Merchants' association indorsing the suggestion made by the Woman's council that grocers take no orders on Saturday afternoons after 4 o'clock, the grocers accepting the idea with the provision that the time for taking orders be extended one hour.

At the close of the meeting a group of council members were hostesses for a social half hour, serving punch and wafers.

AMERICAN GIRL IS FAMOUS COURT BEAUTY

PRINCESS RADZIWILL.

Princess Antoine Radziwill is one of the most beautiful American girls in the courts of Europe. She was the beautiful Dorothy Deacon of Boston. She and her sister were for many years noted beauties of Paris and London. The princess was accused recently of driving a pair of lions to a chariot at a costume ball in Rome; but it proved to be another Princess Radziwill. This portrait of Princess Antoine has just been made by Lallie Charles of London.

"Seven Ages of Woman."

At "The Seven Ages of Woman" bazar given last evening by the Philathea class of the First Norwegian Lutheran church, the booths at which articles suitable for each age were sold, were decorated with appropriate colors. Miss Clara Hovdahl and Miss Glennie Persgaard sold dainty baby articles at a white and blue booth. The child's booth, of green and white, was presided over by Miss Elsie Amundson who offered children's articles for sale. At the school girls' booth, decked in red and white, were books, pennants and other suitable articles. Miss Esther Dahl was in charge. Miss Jennie Landfald and Miss Sophie Solheim were at the debutante's booth that was arranged with pink and white decorations. The bride's booth in white, containing articles appropriate for bridal gifts, was under the supervision of Miss Geneva Dahl. Miss Inga Brende, Miss Clara Anderson and Miss Clara Langdahl had the booth representing the sixth age, or the housekeeper. Here a lunch was served. Articles for grandmother were sold at a lavender and white booth, presided over by Miss Elizabeth Anderson and Miss Matilda Landfald. Home-made candy was sold at all the booths.

Preceding the sale the following program was given:

Piano solo ..... Miss Gudrun Thrana.
Talk ..... Rev. Mr. Falkstad.
Vocal solo ..... Miss Adella Gronseth.
Reading ..... Miss Evelyn Morterud.

Miss Austria Wold, president of the class, was in charge of the bazaar.

DINNER DANCE.

Many Dinner Parties at the Country Club.

Many small dinner parties and several large ones were given at the Country club last evening. Among the diners were: Mr. and Mrs. Ward Ames, Jr., who entertained fourteen guests; Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Abbott, who also entertained fourteen; Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Paine, twelve; Mr. and Mrs. William Harrison, eleven; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Turrish, ten; Mr. and Mrs. G. Ashley Tomlinson, eight; Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Windom, four; Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Walker, four; Mrs. Louise Fraker, three; Mrs. W. C. Winton, five; Mr. and Mrs. David Williams, six; Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kelly, five; Mr. and Mrs. M. J. O'Brien, four; John Markell, R. S. Walker, A. B. Wolvin, J. E. Granger, D. G. Cutler, Jr., and J. R. Mullin each three guests.

As usual there was a bridge party at the club in the afternoon and a dance following the dinner.

LECTURE-RECITAL.

"Othello" Is Subject of Interesting Talk.

In the lecture-recital on "Othello" given yesterday afternoon by Dr. Edgar C. Abbott of Boston under the auspices of the guild of St. Paul's Episcopal church at the home of Mrs. Henry H. Myers, the lecturer traced jealousy, the key note of the play, from its beginning to its effects. The many jealous persons in the world are embodied in the character of Othello, Dr. Abbott thinks. He characterized Iago as Shakespeare's Satan, the only character in literature without one redeeming feature. Dr. Abbott gave many quotations from the play.

The other lecture-recitals of the course will be given Monday and Wednesday afternoons at the homes of Mrs. Guilford G. Hartley, 1305 East Superior street, and Mrs. Millie Bunnell, 2017 East Superior street. The subjects of them will be "As You Like It" and "Hamlet."

Matinee Party.

In honor of Mrs. John B. Arnold of New York, formerly of Lester Park, Mrs. John L. Fuller of 4327 Robinson street entertained yesterday at a matinee party at the Lyceum. After the performance Mrs. Fuller entertained her guests at luncheon. Those in the party were:

Mesdames—
G. V. Heathcote, G. Smith of Superior, F. B. Mitchell, W. L. Alexander, H. E. Webster, N. F. Russell, R. M. Ritchie, J. P. Armstead, J. I. Thomas, J. A. Kirkwood, Frank D. Paine, S. Alexander, Jesse Norton, F. J. Ober, J. B. Greenfield.

Bridge Party.

In honor of her guest, Mrs. Max Krasnovsky of Milwaukee, Mrs. J. M. Oreckovsky of East Third street entertained at four tables of bridge yesterday afternoon. Pink peonies were the decorations.

Aftenro Society.

Mrs. Lief Jensen, Mrs. Edward Johnson and Mrs. Christ Nelson were the hostesses for the social half hour that followed the business meeting of the Aftenro society yesterday afternoon. Miss Edel Sodahl and Erling Sodahl gave a piano duet.

The next meeting of the society will be held Aug. 5. After the business session at the home of Mrs. Christ Sanders, 3314 Minnesota avenue, the members will be entertained at the home of Mrs. E. Rasmussen, 3301 Minnesota avenue.

Dance at Oatka.

At the first Wednesday evening dance held at Oatka branch of the Boat club last evening Mrs. Helen Shores Savage and John D. Hurdon demonstrated the new dances.

Red, White and Blue.

At the regular meeting of the Red, White and Blue society held yesterday afternoon in Cascade park Mrs. Josef Lonegren commended the members for the interest they took in the recent tag day. It was decided to hold the meetings during the vacation on Wednesdays instead of on Saturdays. The society has bought a flag, 8 by 12 feet, to be given to the children of Nopeming sanitarium for the Fourth of July. Members of the society will visit the sanitarium Sunday, July 12.

After the business meeting the twenty-six members who were present were entertained at luncheon by Miss Ruth Wiberg of 611 Mesaba avenue. The next meeting will be held at Chester Park, Aug. 4.

Lawn Social.

The Tabernacle Society of St. Clement's church will give a lawn social Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Owen Devaney, 2725 West Second street. If the weather is not favorable the social will be given the next evening.

Epworth League Picnic.

The Endion Epworth league picnic will be held Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock at Park Point. All are requested to attend.

Union Auxiliary.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Union church will hold its regular monthly meeting Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Cecil Hawkins 630 North Seventeenth avenue east.

"A Doll's House."

Mme. Harriet Labadie will interpret Ibsen's "A Doll's House" at the Orpheum at 8:30 o'clock this evening for the benefit of St. Luke's hospital. The story of Nora Helmer's forging her father's name to a note on which she borrowed money to save her husband, her terror when her husband learns of her deed and the craft of the despicable lawyer who made the loan are all vividly portrayed by Mme. Labadie in her reading of the play from the time Nora is shown romping with her children to the last moment when she closes the door of her home behind her.

Mme. Labadie has done much to make the plays of Ibsen popular in this country, "A Doll's House," "Hedda Gabler," "An Enemy of the People" and "The Master Builder" being on her repertoire.

Tea and Shower.

In honor of Miss Susanne Irvine, daughter of Mrs. John Irvine, whose wedding to William David Jones will take place next Wednesday, Mrs. John F. Dennis of 3719 Minnesota avenue entertained this afternoon. Tea was served on the lawn and a bundle shower was a feature of the entertainment. The decorations in the house were pink peonies and pink sweet peas.

Personal Mention.

Mrs. George D. McCarthy of 911 East Fifth street left yesterday for Akeley, Minn., to visit her sister, Mrs. E. A. McConville.

Thomas Bardon, Jr., of Ashland, Wis., and J. T. Bristol of Chicago, who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Madden of 721 East First street, left last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Matter have returned from Oberlin college, where they attended Willard Matter's graduation exercises.

Mrs. James Ogle of the Adams apartments has as her guest for a month her mother, Mrs. John Leith of Bay City, Mich.

ACTRESS WILL RIDE IN AEROPLANE

Miss Lola May Plans to Fly on Afternoon of Holiday.

Miss Lola May, leading woman with the Baldwin Players, wants to fly.

Moreover Miss May is going to fly on July 4.

For several years she has had a desire to make a flight in an aeroplane, and hearing of the exhibition to be given on the Fourth at Desmond park, she besought Aviator Roger Jannus to allow her to accompany him on one of his flights that afternoon. He consented, and following the matinee at the Lyceum Miss May will proceed to the Fifth avenue dock, where she will be met by a motor boat and taken to the park. She expects to be in the air within fifteen minutes from the time she leaves the stage.

Amusements

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS

LYCEUM—The Baldwin Players in "The Rosary."
EMPRESS—"The Speculators."

Amusement Notes.

The Baldwin Players have won fresh laurels in their magnificent production of "The Rosary," which they are presenting at the Lyceum this week to large and delighted audiences. Matinees will be given today and Saturday.

What is the cause of marital unrest? Why is it that the percentage of divorce cases rises steadily every year in the United States?

"The Rosary," written by Edward E. Rose, and produced by the well known theatrical managers, Messrs. Rowland and Clifford, quietly and modestly projects a word into this turmoil of opinions, which many believe will revolutionize the ethics of marriage and divorce.

"Look within," it says. "Look into the hearts and souls of men and women today. See if there be within the same rugged faith that carried a republic from the wilderness and raised above it our Stars and Stripes.

"The Rosary" takes you into the heart of a typical American family. It shows the peace and happiness there, then suddenly unmasks the canker spot—the lack of faith in the husband.

There will be no increase in prices for the holiday matinee next Saturday. Seats are now on sale for the entire week.

The third engagement of Arthur Clamage, Don Clark and associate players will begin at the Empress theater with a matinee today. The attraction is the frolic of fun and music, "The Speculators."

This musical comedy for pure fun and amusement is said to cast "The Girl From Luxemburg" and the "Pink Widow" into the shade. Nearly every line has a laugh, and the roles assumed by Arthur Clamage, who again appears as the eccentric German, and Don Clark as Will Cheatam, give the two comedians ample opportunity to pull some fine comedy. The role of prima donna is in the hands of Grace Fields and is very capably handled and her song numbers are plentiful and charming. Trixie Ayers, the dashing soubrette, has a lively time in "The Speculators," while the chorus is trained in many new complicated and clever dances, wearing new costumes of dazzling colors and daring style.

The music is of the haunting variety. Many of the songs have never been heard in Duluth before. Some of the song hits are "At the Country Fair," "The End of the World," "Can't Get Away From It," "Annhouser," "Somebody Eyes," "In the Candle Light," "Back to Indiana" and others.

MISS DOIG AGAIN LEADS IN CONTEST

Miss Nellie Doig is again leading in the "Shrine lady" contest, having risen from third to first place this morning with a gain of 2,000 votes. Miss Florence Lusk is second and Mrs. Frank Hamm, third.

The "Shrine lady" contest, which is one of the features of the Shriners' midsummer carnival, will come to a close at 9 o'clock Saturday evening at the carnival grounds, Thirtieth avenue west and Third street, when the winner will be announced and the award of the $200 diamond ring made by Potentate Richardson of Aad temple.

The six highest candidates in the contest and their respective ballots, follow:

Miss Nellie Doig	11,691
Miss Florence B. Lusk	10,835
Mrs. Frank Hamm	10,811
Miss Esther Gomberg	5,110
Miss Bertha Reed	3,269
Miss Catherine Sherwood	2,631

OBITUARY

Col. James W. Pender, 83 years old, who, as chief of artillery under Gen. Longstreet fired the first gun at the battle of Gettysburg, died in El Paso, Texas, June 30. Col. Pender built the first railroad across the Andes.

T. L. LAMMERS DIES IN THE WEST

Theodore L. Lammers, a well-known geologist and mining engineer, and in the early days connected with the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, died last Friday at his home in Spokane, Wash. Mr. Lammers left here ten years ago with his family to make his home in the West.

Mr. Lammers had a wide acquaintance in Duluth. He is survived by Mrs. Lammers and three daughters. Mrs. Lammers visited in Duluth last summer.

H. N. COLVIN CALLED.

Well Known Duluthian Dies After Several Weeks' Illness.

Hiram N. Colvin, 64 years old, manager of the woodwork department of the Kelly-How-Thomson company, died this morning at St. Luke's hospital, following an illness of several weeks. He was prominent in the order of Knights of Pythias.

Besides a widow, Mr. Colvin is survived by five children. He lived at 5729 Tioga street and was very well known in the city.

The funeral will be held Monday afternoon from the K. P. hall and interment will be at the Forest Hill cemetery.

DECISION AGAINST WOODMEN AFFIRMED

Springfield, Ill., July 2.—The judgment of Judge Creighton of the Sangamon county circuit court, in which he held that the by-laws increasing the rates of insurance of the Modern Woodmen of America were not legally adopted, and restraining the head officers of the camp from putting the rates into effect, was affirmed by the appellate court today. The court held that the by-laws adopted by the head camp in Chicago in January, 1912, did not receive the necessary vote of the delegates to the head camp.

FILE PROTEST AGAINST PAVING

Commissioner Murchison, head of the works division, received a petition this morning protesting against the improvement of South First avenue east from the railroad tracks to Buchanan street, and Sutphin street from Lake avenue to South First avenue east. It was signed by about a dozen property owners.

They claimed that the paving should not be laid for at least three years. A petition asking that the work be done was received more than a year ago, and it is improbable that the protest will be allowed to prevent the work being done this season. Bids for the work will be opened next Monday morning at the office of the works division. The avenue is in a growing wholesale district and is in bad shape. The city officials feel that it should be improved. Two large wholesale buildings are to be erected on the avenue this season, according to statements at the city hall.

MONEY FOR FOURTH.

City Employes Will Get Stipends Before Big Holiday.

City employes will not be "broke" on the Fourth. The city council will hold a special meeting this afternoon to pass the payroll and they will be able to draw their monthly stipends tomorrow.

The men who are employed on the paving of West Superior street will get their coin this afternoon. It will be distributed by City Treasurer Grant E. McLean, who will tae the money out in an automobile. The payroll amounts to over $5,000.

OBSERVATIONS

—By PEGGY PEABODY—

New American Woman Not Necessary.

The development of a new type of American woman is the ambition of Anne T. Morgan, daughter of the late great financier.

According to Miss Morgan, the old-fashioned woman is too timid, too retiring and too narrow in her interests, whereas the modern woman is too masculine, too blatant and too far removed in every way from the grace and charm, the gentle strength and pleasing independence that ought to be combined in our twentieth century ideal of womanhood.

I have seen women of the old school who impressed me forcibly that they were lacking in the essence of true womanhood for all that they were in a slavish, disgruntled sort of a way, devotees of home and children, and in a prudish fashion so modest that they could not speak, let alone think, about some of the vital things of life.

To be frank and fair, I have also observed many "new women" who turned me sick with dread lest their tribe might be increased. But on the whole, I do not think that the finest type of old-fashioned lady and the best representation of the new brand of woman are so widely dissimilar. They are different only as the times are different not fundamentally, and never will be.

For example, I was chatting with a noble, white-haired woman of 70 years, only yesterday. She has a compelling dignity and a fine but not too apparent modesty. These two things are part and parcel of all true women. She has not been a silent or self-effacing partner. Fortunately something better was demanded of her, and it was in her to respond. Just the same she has been a good servant to her husband and children as well as their loving, happy companion, for a full fifty years, and is still.

I found myself comparing her with a dozen women, all of them modern in thought and sympathy yet devoid of all defensive masculinity unless it be their occupations. Some people are incensed that women become lawyers, doctors, architects, publishers, and what net, yet among those that I have in mind do I find essentially womanly character of the highest order.

We need no new type of American womanhood. There is one represented by women old and young, varying only as time and standards change, that is quite worthy of emulation. It is only necessary that more of us pattern after this type, which while it progresses with the rest of the world, retains all the noble virtues that woman has ever possessed, and must continue to.

A Skin of Beauty is a Joy Forever.

DR. T. FELIX GOURAUD'S Oriental Cream or Magical Beautifier.

Removes Tan, Pimples, Freckles, Moth Patches, Rash and Skin Diseases, and every blemish on beauty, and defies detection. It has stood the test of 64 years, and is so harmless we taste it to be sure it is properly made. Accept no counterfeit of similar name. Dr. L. A. Sayre said to a lady of the hautton (a patient) "As you ladies will use them, I recommend 'GOURAUD'S CREAM' as the least harmful of all the skin preparations." For sale by all druggists and Fancy Goods Dealers in the United States, Canada and Europe.

WARRANTS OUT FOR MARAUDERS IN BUTTE

Moyer Calls Conference of Union Heads at Helena.

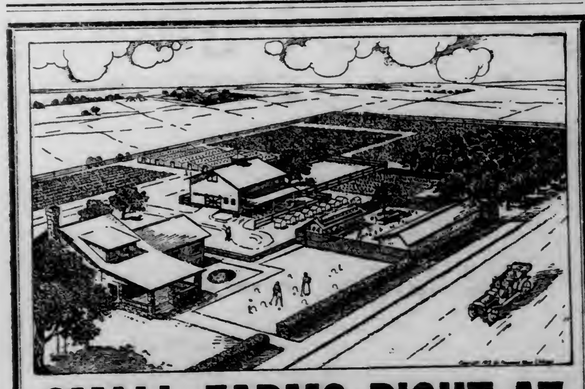

Butte, Mont., July 2.—Arresting officers were armed today with county warrants for persons accused of implication in the raiding of the local headquarters of the Western Federation of Miners and blowing up and robbing the union's safe June 13, while other warrants charged the theft of powder from the Stewart mine on the night of June 23 and the blowing up of Miners' Union hall. The charge of robbing the miners' safe has been preferred against "Kid" Davis and "Red" Foley.

County Attorney J. J. McCaffrey, who advised offering rewards of $4,000 for the apprehension of those guilty of participating in the recent riots and dynamiting, says it is probable that in the course of a few days he will ask for rewards for persons who will furnish information which will lead to the arrest and conviction of persons who committed the offenses.

Moyer Calls Conference.

Helena, Mont., July 2.—Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, announced last night that a conference of the international heads of crafts affiliated with the miners' union will be held in Helena Sunday. A discussion of the Butte labor situation, Mr. Moyer hopes, will bring about some solution of the present unsettled condition among the miners of Butte.

Mr. Moyer said he had received replies from the heads of the electricians' union, the carpenters' and joiners' union, and the International Association of Machinists. He expects that other labor leaders will also attend the conference.

Connected with Duluth and Superior by two splendid macadamized auto roads and three railway lines, with dozen trains daily, with daily mail and telephone service.

SUNNYSIDE GARDENS

offer every inducement that the small farmer can possibly want, and we predict that it will become the most profitable small fruit district in the country. There is a reason why—strawberry growers in this district have taken as high as $1,000 per acre from their berries, and you can do as well if you follow their example.

CITY TO HAVE QUIET FOURTH

All Business Will Be at Standstill; No Public Celebration.

Stores Open Late Friday Night; Many Picnics and Excursions.

As there will be no public celebration in Duluth, Saturday, July 4, every one will be left to find his own entertainment. Practically all business will be suspended for the day.

In order that Duluthians may lay in a supply of all necessities for Saturday and Sunday, the stores will remain open until 10 p. m. Friday for shoppers. On Saturday the banks, stores, city and county offices will be closed all day. The postoffice employes will enjoy but a partial holiday, however, as the coming of the Fourth on Saturday will make two holidays coming together, and cause an accumulation of mail. One delivery will be made all over the city at 8 a. m. and the general delivery window will be open only from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m. The usual holiday collections of mail will be made. The public library and all its branches will be closed throughout the day.

As nearly every one in the city will be free to seek amusement varied programs will be outlined by individuals, families and parties.

Fishing will probably be one of the most popular forms of amusement Saturday, and as two holidays come together, parties will seek the streams and lakes surrounding Duluth and for some distance away.

Family and party picnics at the various parks will be common, and there will be many family reunions to make the day enjoyable. Excursions to Fond du Lac, 'round the horn, and also excursions by rail will fill in a wide space in the amusement gap. The theaters will put on matinees as well as evening performances.

WILL RAISE FLAG AT LESTER PARK

New Pole Will Be Dedicated During Free Band Concert.

The Stars and Stripes will be raised on the new flag pole at the city band concert at Lester Park next Sunday afternoon by Miss Agatha M. Norton and the Declaration of Independence will be read by George H. Bush.

The ceremony will take place during an intermission of the concert, which will be given by the Third regiment band under the direction of Charles Helmer.

The flag pole is a tree which died out and peeled but is still firmly supported by its roots. Manager Henry Cleveland of the park department had a steeplejack trim it and attach the necessary rigging. It is eighty-one feet high and makes an excellent pole for the purpose.

TAGS TO LIFT CHURCH DEBT

Colored Churchmen Select July 11 to Raise $5,000 Fund.

Duluthians will be tagged on July 11 for the benefit of Duluth's colored churchmen.

The congregation of St. Mark's African Methodist Episcopal church recently went $5,000 into debt to build a house of worship, and the tag day was hit upon as a good way to square off the indebtedness. Mayor Prince, with whom the matter was taken up, has given his consent, and on Saturday, July 11, the young women of the congregation will be out with tags.

The church was built by Rev. Timothy Tyler, erstwhile pastor of the local flock but now proprietor of a barber shop located at Delavan, Wis. Just after the church had been built and before he had preached in it, the Rev. Mr. Tyler, leader of the flock, became intoxicated and created such a disturbance that he was immediately discharged from the employ of the congregation. He was also dismissed from the ministry and was obliged to go back to his old trade, that of a barber.

According to Foster Byrd, chairman of the mortgage committee and one of the stewards of the congregation, Mr. Tyler is seeking to get back into the ministry. Mr. Byrd said that splendid progress is being made by the congregation under its new leader, Rev. George R. Holt, and expressed the hope that the coming tag day would go a long way in reducing the church's indebtedness.

SIXTY WOULD BECOME CITIZENS

Judge H. A. Dancer of this city is conducting a special session of the Lake county division of the district court at Two Harbors today. The occasion is a hearing on about sixty applications for citizenship. The regular day for the hearing on the applications happened to fall within a few days before primary election day and as the law provides that no citizenship papers be issued within sixty days of an election the hearing had to be continued until after the election had taken place.

To Ward Off Summer Complexion Ills

To keep the face smooth, white and beautiful all summer, there's nothing quite so good as ordinary mercolized wax. Oily, freckled or discolored skin, so common at this season, is gently absorbed by the wax and replaced by the newer, fresher skin beneath. The face exhibits no trace of the wax, the latter being applied at bedtime and washed off mornings. Creams, powders and rouges, on the other hand, are apt to appear more conspicuous than usual these days of excessive perspiration. Just get an ounce of mercolized wax at any drug store and use like cold cream. This will help any skin at once, and in a week or so the Complexion will look remarkably youthful and healthy.

Sun, winds and flying dust often cause squinting and other contortions which make wrinkles. You can quickly get rid of every wrinkle, however produced, by using a harmless face bath made by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pt. witch hazel.

LASSEN INDULGES IN ANOTHER ERUPTION.

Redding, Cal., July 2.—For the third time in the last forty-eight hours Lassen peak broke into eruption today. The outburst is the fifteenth in the series that began May 30, and except that its duration was not so great, was almost an exact duplication of that of yesterday.

TAKES FIVE MEN TO HOLD TWO WOMEN

Suffragettes Fight Like Wildcats in Welsh Court.

Carnarvon, Wales, July 2.—Two militant suffragettes, Georgiana Lloyd and Phyllis North, created a scene today when brought up for trial at the Carnarvon sessions on charges connected with a window smashing campaign on June 2 at Criccieth, in the constituency of Chancellor of the Exchequer Lloyd-George.

The prisoners fought like wildcats and it took five wardens to keep them in the prisoner's enclosure.

A detective from Scotland Yards told the court that Miss North was a member of the "arson squad" which had set fire to the pavilion in the botanical gardens at Kew several months ago, and that a short time since she had inherited a fortune of $450,000.

Each of the women was sentenced to three months' imprisonment.

THE DEMOCRATS MEAN BUSINESS.

Yesterday's conference of Democratic senators put it beyond doubt that before congress adjourns laws will be passed covering the main points of the administration's trust program.

The resolution adopted does not bind the senate majority to the bills in the form in which they passed the house—does not, indeed, bind it to pass them at all. In terms, all that is pledged is action upon them; but the effect of it is that they will be passed, and probably in a form not greatly different from the present one.

This is what the country needs, and we believe it to be what the country wants. Failure of trust legislation at this session means uncertainty and continued agitation; and nothing could be worse for business and industry.

The trust program is not radical. It is aimed at the gross abuses of free competitive conditions—the very abuses that have all but destroyed competition—abuses that are held such almost unanimously. There are not defenders enough of the evil practices these bills forbid to make it worth while to count them.

When the tariff bill was pending there were loud outcries that it would ruin business. Yet the tariff bill was passed and not a single industry has been harmed in the slightest degree. The passage of the tariff bill, with the assurance it carried that there would be no more tariff tinkering for a good long while, was positively wholesome in its effects on business.

When the currency bill was pending there were loud outcries that it would ruin business. Yet when it became law there was a unanimous agreement that it was the very thing business needed.

Now that these measures to prevent business abuses and to curb dangerous business powers are pending there have been more loud outcries that they would ruin business. These cries have dwindled lately, as hope of defeating action paled; and now that it is made certain that there is no such hope, they can be confidently expected to cease.

And it may be expected as confidently that when these bills are law, legitimate business will be proudly declaring that they were just what it wanted all the time.

Moreover, if they turn out to be effective—if they stop the monopoly-breeding practices that tyrannized business and made the people subjects to greed—the three great questions of tariff, currency and trusts will have been settled for a long time to come. And that means a period of quiet, of calm, of busy peace—a period when all we shall have to do will be to work and make money and discuss such undisturbing public questions as conservation.

And THAT is precisely what business and industry need above all things.

Apparently somebody has given a tip to Mount Lassen about the value of advertising.

CANNING TIME.

The "old-fashioned housekeeper," who used to spend a good deal of the summer "putting up" fruits and vegetables for winter use, is spoken of usually in the past tense, as though she were an extinct institution like the dodo and the megatherium.

That's a great mistake.

Canning time is just as busy a time now as it ever was, and the scope of canning operations has been so broadened that in all probability it is even busier than it used to be.

Indeed, there is hardly anything grown in gardens that cannot be "put up" for winter use. Jams, jellies and preserves are old-time familiars. Pickled beets and the like have long been known. But nowadays string beans, green corn and other summer delicacies are prepared in the growing seasons and brought to table in the winter with almost all their summer toothsomeness; and only the other day we heard of a Duluth man—yes, a man—who knows how to can chickens in a way to beat the cold storage warehouse and the food trust.

Duluth owes to the Homecroft movement, which is being kept alive by the Commercial club, a very widespread revival and growth of the home canning industry. This movement teaches not only the virtues and values of home gardening, but also the economies and profits of "gardening for the year around"—which means canning and preserving for winter use the surplus of the garden's summer yield. There is hardly anything grown in the kitchen garden that cannot be canned; so that in the average Homecroft home there is never a day the year around when the table cannot be furnished forth with food "out of our own garden."

It's a domestic science well worth studying. It makes for economy, pleasure and health. The home with a good back yard garden and a housewife who knows how to put up its products for the winter's use is a home where good living and good cheer abound.

A Chicago professor asserts that if man only had a tail he'd be able to wag it. As a bit of hot weather consolation, why not add that he could tie a fan to the end of it?

THE FOURTH HAD A RELAPSE LAST YEAR.

It seems not to be generally known that the recently reformed Fourth of July had a little relapse last year.

For the first time since the safe and sane Fourth came into fashion, there was an increase in the number of serious accidents on the Fourth; and this despite a marked increase in the number of communities celebrating safely and sanely.

Still, at that the statistics were nowhere near so appalling as they used to be. Here are the figures:

Year.	Cities Celebrating Sanely.	Serious Accidents Reported.
1908.....	4	5,623
1909.....	20	5,307
1910.....	91	2,923
1911.....	161	1,603
1912.....	258	988
1913.....	394	1,163

The number of cities celebrating sanely reached high water mark last year. The number of accidents should, properly, have then reached low water mark. Instead, it reacted, and with more sane celebrations there were more accidents.

Why?

Simplest thing in the world: these sane celebrations have been too tame, or, more likely, it has been as it is in Duluth, where there has been no real celebration at all.

Youth, deprived of its old amusements and not supplied with anything to take their places, has simply rebelled and slipped back to the old dangerous and enjoyable way. That's all.

Tame celebrations or no celebrations at all are not dealing fairly with either the youth of the land or the Fourth of July itself.

It's all right to cut out the part that shocked nerves, wrecked fingers and toes and ears and noses and took lives, and that set buildings afire and made horses run away; it's all right to do away with these nuisances, and the Fourth is the better for it.

But it's no fair doing away with the old type of fun and not giving a new type of fun in its place.

The noisy and dangerous old Fourth was a peril; the safe, sane and tame new Fourth is a deadly bore.

The country had enough of "government by convulsion" in the administration just preceding Taft's. Now it is enjoying a few years of government by convolution.

OUTLAWS.

Official representatives of the Industrial Workers of the World, the new element in agitation and disturbance, have callously admitted policies and practices that should serve to put this organization beyond the reach of sympathy, and to deprive it of the protection created by law for purposes that are wholesome and publicly useful.

They have admitted that their members put machinery out of commission as a matter of policy. Even for so small a thing as a wish for a day off, "the worker drops a screw-driver into the machinery."

Officers of this organization have testified before the Federal Industrial commission that it is their policy to do as little as possible and as poor work as possible and to damage materials and machinery as much as they can. "The I. W. W.," says Edward Zurcher, secretary and treasurer of the Industrial Workers of the World, "does not advocate arbitration, mediation and conciliation."

In brief, the aim of this organization is to annoy employers by any means whatever to such an extent as to force them to turn the industries over to the workers. Peace is abhorrent to the principles of the association. Disturbance, destruction, commotion, disorder, strikes as often as possible and kept up as long as possible—these are the tenets of the I. W. W.

Enough has been told by these official representatives to warrant any employer in refusing to employ a member of the I. W. W.

Enough has been told to warrant denying to its leaders the right of free speech which they are abusing and the existence of which they are thereby jeopardizing.

Enough has been told to justify jailing those caught carrying out this destructive program, or jailing for conspiracy those caught advocating such methods.

Enough has been told to warrant deporting every unnaturalized member of the I. W. W.—and the great majority of its leaders and members are men who have abused the hospitality of this asylum of the world's persecuted.

The program of the Industrial Workers of the World is at war with organized labor, with the peace and welfare of society, with free government, even with Socialism itself.

There is no room in this country for a policy so outrageous, or for men so irresponsible and unpatriotic as to pursue it.

Col. Roosevelt's latest phrase is "government by convulsion." Why must he insist this way on talking about his own administration?

"Langley's Folly"

Chicago Press Club Scoop: The newspapers of this country are doing no less than make reparation for their own distressing mistake about Prof. Langley's first heavier-than-air flyer. Langley was a quiet man, not easily drawn out. His original model, a small one, made flights in the museum of the Smithsonian institution, and made them gracefully. But the idea of flying was one the Washington correspondents were unprepared to entertain, and they attended the flight of his first machine loaded with grins. When that unhappy vessel actually did rise in the air and fly before something went wrong and it made a dive to the bottom of the Potomac, they pulled their grins and distributed them none too politely to all the papers here and in Europe. It was a light phrase—"Langley's folly;" yet it was enough to break a great man's heart. It killed him.

But he had broken loose from the earth with the first mechanical, dirigible air vessel, and pioneered a mighty art. His "folly" had been constructed by request of the government in the period of the Spanish war. Its failures at Quantico are historic in the annals of aviation. The "aerodrome" was handed over to the Smithsonian institution and preserved. The opponents of the Wright patents had always held that many ideas in those patents were borrowed from Langley. Curtiss got permission to try the relic. He had to fix up the wings, and he had to devise pontoons for getting a start from the water, but the old engine and motor were only oiled up, an obsolete engine and an obsolete motor, five cylindered, with distinctive spark plugs, and many peculiarities that the progress in gasoline engine construction during the past sixteen years has discarded. Yet the machine did fly, it did carry Curtiss up, and it behaved pretty well in a puffy wind such as aviators detest.

Thus it is made clear that Langley's folly was the highest wisdom for his time, and that its failure was due, not to itself, but to the unavoidable inexperience of Langley himself in running such a machine. The Wright claim, sustained up to date by the courts, has a new peril to encounter. Whatever ideas Langley actually put into his "aerodrome" may be held to be non-patentable afterward, but that is a question that the judiciary of the United States will have to settle later.

Steak and High Living.

F. S. Dickson in the Yale Review: When the increased cost of living is discussed today, the complainant usually begins by quoting the prices of rib roast or sirloin steak. In 1740, the best beef sold in Boston at 12 cents a pound, but from Colonial days down to a very late period meat was supplied in a most primitive manner. As late as the '70s everybody, even in considerable towns, kept chickens, and nearly everybody a pig and a cow, and all this livestock was permitted to roam at will through the streets. Pigs were butchered in the back yards of private residences, and the carcass hung from the branches of a convenient apple tree. The butcher bought what cattle he could, and at times the meat was excellent in quality, but more often the carcass was that of a cow that no longer gave milk, of a bull that had lost its bloom, or of a steer whose work under the yoke was no longer efficient; and invariably a steak for dinner was heralded by the vigorous pounding with the potato masher wielded by the stalwart arm of the cook. The average quality of beef was so poor that pork was rightly preferred as food, and was sold for double the price of beef. In 1737 Francis Filkin notes a sale of "twenty pounds of boul bife" for 75 cents, which would be 3¾ cents a pound; cheap enough for "bife," be it ever so "boul."

On a Business Footing.

Chicago Journal: Out in California Rev. Dr. Aked, late of Liverpool, is in trouble over some of his too liberal opinions. Dr. Aked is always very outspoken, and not long ago he shocked many people by declaring that there was such a thing as too much zeal in religious matters.

"Neither with the heathen nor with our own people," he told us, "does it do to advocate religion on mercenary grounds. For instance, I know a manufacturer who last Easter told all his hands that he would pay them if they went to church. The hands all agreed, and a fine show they made. The manufacturer, scanning their ranks from his pew, swelled with joy and pride.

"But after the service one of the foremen approached him.

"'Excuse me, sir,' he said, 'but the fellows want me to ask you if they come to church again tonight, do they get overtime?'"

In Hiding.

Judge: "Hips are coming in again."

"Hurray! Now mother can come back from Europe."

Never Again for Teddy!

Henry Watterson in Louisville Courier-Journal.

That Teddy will contribute to the gayety of nations in the campaign immediately ahead of us adds to the joy of his return. But, as readers of the Courier-Journal may have surmised, we are not as much afraid of Caesar as we used to be. Indeed, when we bethink ourselves of more than four million of politic idiots who voted for him in 1912, we could wish they might be segregated from the rest of their countrymen so that they could have their Diaz entirely to themselves.

All the same Teddy will never be president again.

Once a friend of Mr. Blaine said to him, "Give it up. The doom of Clay, of Webster, of Calhoun and of Douglass is upon you. It is written in the book of fate that you will never reach the White House. If ever you are nominated with the likelihood of election, you will die before the day of election. If ever you are elected, you will die before the day of inauguration." And the statesman of Maine, still despondent over the strange fatuity of 1884—the succession of mishaps and blunders—Conkling's defection, Belshazzar's Feast, Burchard, the rains in Western New York the day of election—bowed his head and sadly replied, "It looks very like it."

Teddy is just as sure of never getting there again as Blaine was of never getting there at all.

This is by no means to say that he is not a politician of surpassing fertility and resources. The scheme of pasting the Republican label upon the Roosevelt bottle is a clever scheme. He will probably carry it through.

Standpatism of the Penrose-Cannon variety is dead outside of Pennsylvania and if Teddy succeeds in having Gifford knock the face off Penrose and electing Palmer to succeed him in the senate it will be dead there. In any and every event, the Republican party needs very much more than a dose of peruna. First of all it must be reorganized, readjusted and realigned. It must then take the pick-me-up treatment. Teddy still has enough of the old high tariff tonic to tincture a barrel of new-fangled protectionism. With this to begin on the rest will become as easy as falling off a log.

Nothing, however, will avail, for the whole bunch will surely fall off the log. It is not in the books to set aside the time-limit placed by the third-term tradition upon the presidency in favor of practical life tenure, because not alone would the resumption of power by Theodore Roosevelt place the machinery of future elections in his hands but the argument for a third term would be equally strong for a fourth and a fifth term. In short, sensible people must everywhere see that we should never be able to get him out except feet foremost.

With Teddy back in the White House the glory of the tennis court would at once recur and revive. He would be his own sword bearer; Caesar to date, Cromwell—not William Nelson—on the side; Perkins to hold down the lid of the money chest; Pinchot to carry the cup; the Constitution nothing as between and among friends.

The folks won't have it. It is too early. It is too obvious. Armageddon already looks like Rosinante and the battle for the Lord, as sung by the double quartet, emits a twang of burnt cork.

We shall have lots of fun. But not the man-on-horseback, not the Mexicanization of the republic, not the Diazification of the presidency. So, all hail, Teddy; Hon hunter thou art and discoverer thou shalt be; never autocrat again! Turn over the pages of your little old Macbeth, dear boy, and, when found, stick a pin!

"Fisherman's Luck."

Chicago Journal: "Fisherman's luck"—what is it? The average man loves to fish. Perhaps more men like fishing than any other sport. Yet more know less about fishing than about anything else.

And no man can have done much fishing without realizing that there are several unsolvable mysteries—connected with it.

For example:

Two men sit in opposite ends of a boat. They are using precisely the same tackle, bait, etc., and are fishing with equal skill. One of them will catch a dozen fish. The other won't have a bite.

Let them change places and change rods. The lucky man still catches. The unlucky man doesn't. Why?

Sometimes a man who is lucky at fishing today will have no luck tomorrow and vice versa. On the other hand (seemingly apart from any special skill), some men are lucky at all times in fishing, while others are absurdly unlucky. Why?

Why do fish bite least just before a thunder storm and best just after one? Why do they bite better in warm weather than in cool, in cloudy rather than in sunny? Why do they bite least when the wind is to the north and best when it is south? And why can some men catch fish in a northwest gale when others can't even catch them on a warm, showery day in the dark of the moon?

Why can some people jam a bit of bait carelessly on a hook, fling it into the water and draw up a mess of big fish, while others, fishing scientifically, can't catch even a minnow?

We are told there is a reason for everything—a logical explanation for everything.

Who will step modestly forward and explain that world-old mystery known as "fisherman's luck?"

2,000 Varieties of Roses.

Frank A. Waugh in the Woman's Home Companion: The list of varieties of roses is interminable. It would be easy from the catalogues to make up a collection of 2,000 varieties. Of course no one wants so many as that. There are a few beautiful sorts which everyone desires to grow and most of which are approved by years of success. The best of all the white roses is undoubtedly Frau Karl Druschki. It is thrifty, hardy and bears grand large semi-double blossoms. Next to this the best white rose is probably Mme. Plantier. Among pink roses we may place Kaiserin Augusta Victoria at the head, followed by Magna Charta, Mme. Caroline Testout, Mrs. John Laing, Paul Neyron and President Carnot. The favorite red rose is undoubtedly General Jasequeminot, but other good red sorts are Gruss au Teplitz, Alfred Colomb, Anne de Diesbach and Killarney.

The Catch.

The guide declared the pickerel
Were simply there in swarms.
He said the bass were biting well
In spite of all alarms.

His stories of the rainbow trout
Deserved a special prize.
He swore that perch were all about
And of the largest size.

I have no unkind things to say
About the yarns he told,
I merely know I fished all day
And only caught a cold.

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—As we were remarking here a while ago, Oscar Underwood, who is the calmest man in the world, is timid about just one thing, and that is riding rapidly in an automobile. The other evening a friend of his persuaded him to take a little whirl through the park in a new machine the friend had just bought.

"The doctor told me I needed something to take me out in God's fresh air," explained the friend, as he put on speed. "I can see already that it is going to be a fine thing for my nerves to get out this way."

After they had ridden along at about thirty-five miles an hour for some little time, Underwood remarked in his quiet way:

"Your doctor may be exactly right about it. This may be a fine thing for your nerves. But,"—with a sigh—"you've nearly ruined mine."

Representative Billy Kent of California has an old friend, a guide, who lives all alone out in the mountains of that state. His nearest neighbor is about twenty miles away and as a rule he does not see more than one or two human beings in a month. And that is exactly the way the old fellow wants it. He dotes on the solitude and isolation of it all, and would keenly dislike having anybody around to bother him. A few months ago, for some unaccountable reason, things were a little brisk up his way and two different men went by the same week. The old chap told Kent about it, remarking as he finished:

"I guess I'll sell out here and move."

"Why?" asked Kent. "You've lived here all your life. What would you want to move for?"

"Oh, I can't stand so much traffic going by," replied the old guide with a frown.

John Bassett Moore, who was counsellor for the state department for the first year of the Wilson administration, was lauding the late President McKinley's attitude in declining to be a presidential candidate at a national convention where he had gone pledged to another man.

"His refusal was so vigorous," said Moore, "that it left no doubt of its sincerity. Later on when there was talk of a possible third term, he was equally positive in saying he would not permit his name to be used.

"And," remarked Moore, having in mind the case of a certain explorer, "as events of recent years have demonstrated, the matter of refusing a third term is a point on which it is almost impossible to make one's self clear."

Representative William G. Sharp of Ohio, who is to be the next ambassador to France, devotes himself to astronomy whenever he has a little time to spare. He keeps a telescope at his home in Elyria and often will slip into his little observatory and ransack the heavens by the hour for odd sights. Every little cowpath on the moon is as familiar to him as the byways in his own township. No matter what hour of the night it may be, nor how dark and stormy, Sharp can tell you the exact location of any constellation you may desire. The chances are that he will not be in Paris, France, a month before he knows the stars and planets on exhibition there just as well as he does those at home.

Senator Ollie James has for many years been addicted to neckwear of severe acoustics, but the other day he appeared with a scarf that exceeded all limits even for him. It was a mammoth four-in-hand of red, white and blue, and the colors were worked into circles, dots, rings, horseshoes and other designs. The proprietor of all this neckwear was called by his friend, the vice president, to preside over the senate, and all afternoon the members had to face an object that kept calling attention to itself like a great headlight.

When the vice president finally resumed his seat a senator walked over to him and said:

"You're to be congratulated on finding your desk still here. Ollie James presided all afternoon with that fiery scarf of his and the desk never caught."

Mrs. Champ Clark received a letter one day shortly after her husband became speaker of the house from a young woman out West, who was in trouble and desired advice. She had seen Mrs. Clark's picture in the paper and thought she might know what to do. So she laid her case before the speaker's wife. Mrs. Clark wrote and advised the girl the best she could, and it happened that everything turned out all right. Young women in other parts of the country felt a similar desire about that time to get a few words of advice from the wife of the speaker. Every one who received such a letter from Mrs. Clark told their friends about it and still others wrote to her. Today Mrs. Clark has such a large correspondence from young women over the country seeking counsel in all sorts of matters that she has to get a stenographer and dictate letters for several hours each week.

With Emerson at Concord.

Henry A. Beers in the Yale Review: Once or twice Mr. Emerson visited the school, taking no part in its proceedings, but sitting patiently through the hour, and wearing what a newspaper reporter described as his "wise smile." After the lecture for the session was ended, the subject was thrown open to discussion and there was an opportunity to ask questions. Most of us were shy to speak out in that presence, feeling ourselves in a state of pupilage. Usually there would be a silence of several minutes, as at a Quaker meeting waiting for the spirit to move; and then Mr. Alcott would announce in his solemn, musical tones: "I have a thought"; and after a weighty pause, proceed to some Orphic utterance. Alcott, indeed, was what might be called the leader on the floor; and he was ably seconded by Miss Elizabeth Peabody, the sister of Nathaniel Hawthorne's wife. Miss Peabody was well known as the introducer of the German kindergarten, and for her life-long zeal in behalf of all kinds of philanthropies and reforms. Henry James was accused of having caricatured her in his novel, "The Bostonians," in the figure of the dear, visionary, vaguely benevolent old lady who is perpetually engaged in promoting "causes," attending conventions, carrying on correspondence, forming committees, drawing up resolutions, and the like; and who has so many "causes" on hand at once that she gets them all mixed up and cannot remember which of her friends are spiritualists and which of them are concerned in woman's rights movements, temperance agitations, and universal peace associations. Mr. James denied that he meant Miss Peabody, whom he had never met or known. If so, he certainly defined the type. In her later years, Miss Peabody was nicknamed "the grandmother of Boston."

Northern Minnesota, Land of Opportunity

Chorus of Minnesota Boosters.

Any Part of It, Too.

Anoka Union: Anyone who will leave Minnesota for a better state plays a losing game, and will wish to be back again.

By No Means a Wild Prediction.

Virginia Enterprise: Time is proving conclusively that there isn't any worthless land in Minnesota. Land considered worthless only a few years ago is today being developed into fine farms. In Beltrami county there are under construction twenty-six ditches which will reclaim 1,000,000 acres of land. With every ditch is being built a road. In the vicinity of Thief River Falls, what was ten years ago a wilderness is today one of the garden spots of the state. They used to speak of the lands in that section as worthless.

The development that has come to that section is not yet evident in the Mesaba range country, but it is coming. A quarter of a century will see practically every foot of land in this section under cultivation. This calls attention to the fact that this section of St. Louis county ought to begin to take some interest in itself.

A Patent Truth.

Rush City Post: Eastern and Northern Minnesota offer the finest inducements to settlers to be found in the country. There is still available in Chisago county choice land at reasonable prices, which can be easily obtained. Diversified farming can be carried on. Potatoes, hay and grain flourish. There is plenty of timber country yet to be obtained, providing fuel and lumber for the settler. Dairying is one of the constantly increasing industries and the markets to the Twin Cities of St. Paul and Minneapolis and the growing metropolis of Duluth at the Head of the Lakes make this section of Chisago county, around Rush City, the ideal agriculturist's location.

Development Due to Co-operation.

Deerwood Times: Northern Minnesota is developing fast. It is daily becoming more and more like the famous garden where Adam and Eve first made each other's acquaintance. It is fast assuming numbers in population that will—possibly—one day rank favorably with the crowded condition of the oriental countries. It is slowly assuming a financial condition which may one day place it upon an equal foundation with the United States mint, as far as money-making qualities are concerned. But all these developments cannot bring themselves about. They can only be due to a sincere and hearty co-operation by and between every settler, every business man and every woman in Northern Minnesota. And that is why we have the Northern Minnesota Development association and its semi-annual meetings. The woman on the Northern Minnesota farm is just as much a factor in the development of that part of the state as is her hard-working husband. Her encouragement, and her tireless efforts are responsible for the push and vigor with which her husband "digs in" from early until late in efforts to bring about the changes that result in prosperity. The N. M. D. is not a limited organization. Its territory embraces the entire northern part of the state and any person residing in that territory is urged to be present at the meetings. There's no limit and no restrictions. That's why it is successful.

A Grand Old State.

Walker Pilot: "Southwestern Minnesota is the garden spot of the world," says Brer Welles of the Worthington Globe. And Northern Minnesota is the natural park of the world, as Welles well knows, having lived up this way until recently. All in all, it's a grand old state, isn't it, brother?

Roosevelt Malice

New York World: Mr. Roosevelt's attack upon Mr. Whitman is mean, malicious and contemptible.

What if Mr. Barnes does favor Mr. Whitman's nomination for governor by the Republicans? Does that make the district attorney a Barnes "rubber stamp?" Mr. Roosevelt was nominated for governor by Platt. Did that make him Platt's rubber stamp? He was nominated for vice-president by Platt and Quay. Did that make him Platt and Quay's rubber stamp?

Mr. Whitman has been district attorney of New York county for more than five years. There is no office in the state that offers more numerous or more subtle opportunities to play machine politics. Can Mr. Roosevelt name a single instance in which the administration of justice under Mr. Whitman has ever been swerved by so much as a hair's breadth by political considerations?

A man who has been president of the United States should be ashamed to try to besmirch an honest, conscientious public official of Mr. Whitman's character. That is the sort of thing that Mr. Roosevelt has been shrieking against for thirty years.

The Progressives are under no obligation to indorse Mr. Whitman for governor. He is not a Progressive. He does not pretend to be a Progressive. He is openly and publicly opposed to many of the principles in the Progressive platform. If the Progressives want a man of their own party for governor, that is their affair; but it is despicably dirty politics for Mr. Roosevelt to insinuate that Mr. Whitman as governor would be a corrupt tool of Barnes.

If Mr. Roosevelt really thinks Mr. Whitman is that sort of man, let him refer the issue to a referendum of the voters of New York. Let him agree to take the Progressive nomination for governor, provided, Mr. Whitman receives the Republican nomination, and see which polls the larger vote in this state.

Has Mr. Roosevelt the moral courage to stake his presidential chances in 1916 on the outcome of such a contest?

Says Men Are All Alike.

In the July Woman's Home Companion appears the story of a coquette in which the coquette gives the following advice to her cousin:

"Don't make the stupid mistake thousands of women make. Don't! Every woman thinks her husband is different. But, trust a worldly woman, my dear, of much experience, men are all alike. They tire of what they know is entirely their own. The thing a man should never lose sight of is that his wife is attractive to other men as well as to himself."

Hard to Understand.

Philadelphia Ledger: It is a strange thing that some men should have been wasting time as ordinary burglars when the New Haven was within such easy reach.

Twenty Years Ago

From The Herald of this date, 1894.

Senator Cushman K. Davis of Minnesota today received at Washington the following telegram from D. D. McInnis, President 209, A. R. U., Duluth: "We, the railway employes of Duluth earnestly request you to support Senator Kyle's mail train resolution now before congress. Please answer." Senator Davis replied by wire with the following emphatic declaration: "To D. D. McInnis, Duluth, Minn.: I have received your telegram. I will not support Senator Kyle's resolution. It is against your own real welfare. It is also a blow at the security, peace and rights of millions of people who never harmed you or your associates. My duty to the Constitution and the laws forbids me to sustain a resolution to legalize lawlessness. The same duty rests upon yourself and your associates. * * * You are rapidly approaching the overt act of levying war against the United States and you will find the definition of that act in the Constitution. I trust that wiser thoughts will regain control. You might as well ask me to vote to dissolve this government."

The St. Louis county Republican convention organized this afternoon with W. A. Cant as chairman and S. S. Williamson as secretary, after being called to order by the county chairman, George W. Buck. After the committee on credentials had reported, O. D. Kinney moved that the convention name by acclamation Charles A. Towne as its choice for congress and that he be authorized to select his own delegates. The motion prevailed amidst a whirlwind of applause. Delegates were selected to the judicial convention, and an adjournment was taken until evening.

Charles Salter, the well-known West Duluth druggist and son of Rev. C. C. Salter, was married at noon today to Miss Daisy Dyer at the home of the bride's parents on Third avenue west.

At a meeting of the chamber of commerce yesterday, Charles F. Johnson was elected secretary at a salary of $40 a month. He will devote considerable time to the chamber and keep the office open.

A telegram from Pasadena, Cal., announces the death there yesterday of Charles W. Leviston of Duluth. He was a resident here for about eight years and was 34 years of age.

George E. Welles, formerly secretary of the Duluth board of trade, is now executive agent of the New York Life Insurance company for Toledo and Northwestern Ohio.

At the Republican caucus in the Second precinct of the Second ward, H. B. Moore, R. N. Marble, P. M. Graff and A. E. Humphreys appeared and announced their intention of casting ballots. Their votes were challenged, whereupon they renounced their connection with the Democratic party and declared their intention to vote the Republican ticket this fall. They were then allowed to vote.

How to Become a Nagging Wife.

In the July American Magazine a man who has been married for twenty-five years contributes "A Husband's Story," in which he describes, as follows, a period in which his wife nagged him:

"In her nervous condition she commenced to take extreme dislike to my friends and to demand that I give them up. I had made friends in the city, many of whom I enjoyed, who broadened my views and gave me ideas that were useful. During that period, if I mentioned the fact that some one was my friend, my wife instantly was prejudiced against that person. As a result I ceased to invite friends to our apartment; but many of them asked us to attend little affairs. Several times I had half accepted such invitations, and when my wife refused to go I was compelled to withdraw the acceptance. Soon we found ourselves cut off from any social intercourse and closer and closer drawn within our own circle—which consisted of four persons, including the cook. All the while, my wife maintained that I was out 'having a good time' at my work, while she had to remain at home with the baby.

"To avoid wrangling I assumed an apologetic manner, pretending to admit a degree of guilt instead of contradicting her. I strove to calm and soothe her by admitting that she was in the right, even when she was most wrong. This proved perhaps my most serious blunder. One friend, a doctor specializing in nervous troubles, seriously advised me to rebuke her sharply and to make her understand. I dreaded giving her the pain I knew such a course would cause. It would have been better to do it then, for she began to consider me weak because I yielded to her and to take advantage of this supposed, or perhaps real, weakness. So the habit of complaining and of adopting an accusing manner toward me grew upon her unconsciously.

"I always could divert the argument by reverting to two subjects; the baby and the home we were to have. We always agreed upon these things. I did not realize then that they were the only two things in which she really was interested, and that the proper way to have averted most of the trouble was to get her interested in more things. She was rebelling, unconsciously, against the narrowness of her life, and resented my broader life in business."

A Big Man.

TRAFFIC RULES.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The new traffic ordinance forbidding autos to cross a crossing while the gates of street cars are open is just what is needed in Duluth. I sometimes drive an automobile down town, and after being in cities where the traffic regulations are very strict I find it is much easier on the public and on the driver of the automobile to have a fixed set of traffic rules to follow.

While this new traffic ordinance has just passed, why don't the commissioners have all traffic on Superior street regulated by traffic policemen on Fifth, Fourth, Third, Second, First and Lake avenues to regulate the street traffic, such as vehicles and street cars. I think there would be less chance of accidents. Have it passed as an ordinance that all street cars and vehicles of all kinds could not cross an avenue without the proper signal from the traffic police. When pedestrians are crossing at a corner they ought to make square corners. This will not only protect them from autos, but also from street cars.

I do not think that the average driver of an automobile could have such a chance to speed on the main street if some strict traffic laws were passed in Duluth. For Duluth is large enough for traffic policemen. Now for a "Bigger, Better Duluth."

A HERALD READER.

Duluth, June 30.

"IF."

To the Editor of The Herald:

Will you kindly publish Rudyard Kipling's poem "If"?

OUT OF TOWN SUBSCRIBER.

Grand Forks, N. D., June 30.

If you can keep your head when all about you
Are losing theirs and blaming it on you;
If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you,
But can make allowance for their doubting, too;
If you can wait and not be tired by waiting,
Or being lied about don't deal in lies,
Or being hated don't give way to hating,
And yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise;

If you can dream—and not make dreams your master,
If you can think—and not make thoughts your aim,
If you can meet with Triumph and Disaster
And treat those two imposters just the same,
If you can bear to hear the truth you've spoken
Twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools,
Or watch the things you gave your life to, broken,
And stoop and build 'em up with worn-out tools;

If you can make one heap of all your winnings
And risk it on one turn of pitch-and-toss,
And lose, and start again at your beginnings
And never breathe a word about your loss;
If you can force your heart and nerve and sinew
To serve your turn long after they are gone
And so hold on when there is nothing in you
Except the Will which says to them: "Hold on."

If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue,
Or walk with kings—nor lose the common touch,
If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you,
If all men count with you, but none too much,
If you can fill the unforgiving minute
With sixty seconds' worth of distance run,
Yours is the earth and everything that's in it,
And—which is more, you'll be a Man, my son.

—Rudyard Kipling.

THE CALAMITY HOWLER

By SAVOYARD.

Washington, July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The voice of the calamity howler is heard in the land, and in congress it is tremendously vociferous. It is employed to transmit a good deal of silly lying, such as the assertion that a bond issue is imminent. It chuckled when the income tax did not yield as much as was estimated. Now as to that, either the boasts we have been making about the vastness of our wealth were gross exaggerations, or there are a great many rascals among our rich folks. That we have the rascals with us is certain and there is a pretty good chance for some elegant and high-toned millionaires to get into jail.

Our importations of foreign goods are very heavy, whereat there is an unusually dismal howl from such statesmen as Mondell of Wyoming, and Humphrey of Washington, in the house of representatives, and the Hon. Smoot and others in the senate. These argue that every piece of goods we buy from abroad takes a job away from an American laborer, whereas the fact is that no cargo of goods can come to us from abroad that does not set an American laborer to work to make something to exchange for it. If that were not true it would be impossible for international trade to exist. That is what it is founded on. That is the body and the soul of trade between the nations. It is stark-naked absurdity to export everything and import nothing. If all men had believed in and practiced that nonsense, which is the soul of a protective tariff, from the beginning, one of two things would have happened—mankind would be dwelling in caves and dressed in skins to this good day, or the Almighty in disgust would have destroyed the world long ago.

It seems that recently our bankers sent abroad gold worth $50,000,000. And they are howling about that, though there would be just as much sense in it to howl about sending abroad cotton, or wheat, or provisions, or other commodity. When gold leaves one nation and goes to another it is in response to a demand for it. It goes in bulk, and though it may be coined, it is sold as bullion. Just now there is a great demand for gold in France, and that gold that we sent abroad fetched a higher price in Paris than it could command in New York. The bankers who shipped it made money by the transaction and thus added to the sum of the aggregate wealth of this country. The Hon. Smoot says that is ruination and he howls about it.

Now, that gold will come back and a great deal more as soon as we harvest the present crops. Cotton and wheat will attend to that blessed balance of trade your standpatter talks so much about and knows so little about. The "balance of trade" has been "against" England for fifty years, and during that period the "balance of trade" has been "in favor of" Mexico. If you wanted to borrow money to which of those countries would you go for the loan?

John Sherman, in his line the greatest statesman the Republican party ever produced, used to give his party credit for good crops, and actually there were thousands of folks who believed him. Absurd as it may seem, the G. O. P. got tens of thousands of votes every year for a double decade as a result of that somewhat blasphemous claim. If there were anything in such pretension I know certain statesmen on Capitol Hill who would be swift to reproach Mother Nature with an utter lack of patriotism at this time. Indeed, it is next to treason for the soil to yield such a crop of wheat as that now harvesting with a Democratic administration in charge of affairs.

The country cannot adjust itself to the new tariff right off. It will take at least two years. At this writing the Democratic tariff is less than nine months old. It will require two yeears to adjust business to the new banking law which will not be organized before the first of August, 1914. Then the proposed anti-trust legislation is not yet out of the senate and may not be the law until October. It will take some time for business to adjust itself to that. Then how unreasonable and how unjust it is to pass judgment on these things till they have had a fair and honest trial. Every fair-minded man ought to go to the polls next November with a determination to give Wilson's policies a trial and it will take until the presidential election in 1916 to do that.

We know one thing, and that is that the grip of the money power is relaxed, that Wall street does not run this administration. We know that the parcel post has cut down the charges of the express companies enormously. We know that the taxes levied on the country were writ by congress and not by a set of manufacturers. We know that the banking law was not writ by Wall street. We know that it will be a long time before another great railroad is wrecked as New Haven and Boston & Maine were. We know that this administration has accomplished more in fifteen months than any other administration of our history ever did in four years. We know these things.

As for Mexico, Wilson has had but two things in view—avoidance of war and a restoration of order in that unhappy land. He may fail in his endeavor to maintain peace, but all good men and women must applaud his motives. Had he been the weakling and coward that the fools and knaves in congress call him, this good moment tens of thousands of new made widows and orphans would fill our land with sorrow.

Trust him. Woodrow Wilson is a patriot and a statesman. Trust him.

TO REFOREST STATE LANDS

State Association Campaigning for Passage of Amendment No. 9.

Want Survey Made and Lands Unfit for Agriculture Set Aside.

Campaigning for the amendment to the state Constitution providing for the setting aside for reforestization purposes of all state land unfit for agriculture, E. O. Buhler of St. Paul and Caryl B. Storrs of Minneapolis arrived in Duluth today, after a ten days' trip through the northern and western part of the state.

They are the guests today of Z. D. Scott of Duluth, who is active in the work of the State Forestry association, an independent organization that has the promotion of forestry for its purpose.

The proposed amendment to the Constitution is known as No. 9, and the campaign which will be conducted by the State Forestry association will seek to interest every development association, farmers' club, commercial club, fraternal society and women's club in the state. There will be an exhibit at every county fair and at the state fair, showing the good that could be accomplished by the amendment.

On the trip Mr. Buhler and Mr. Storrs were accompanied by a motion picture photographer, and the reels will be used in the campaign.

"This is a non-political campaign," said Mr. Buhler. "The intention is, if the amendment is carried, to have a survey made of all the state lands, and them divided into two classes, those which are suited to agriculture and those which are not. Then those which are unsuited for agriculture will be turned over to the proper state department, to be handled on scientific principles. They will be reforested where it is necessary, and every effort will be made to conserve the timber. It would simply mean that the state would do what any private owner would do, if he held the land. A good business man who held such land would reforest it and seek to preserve what timber he already had. Why should the state not do the same thing?"

The recent trip taken by Mr. Buhler and Mr. Storrs was for the purposes of gathering material for a publicity campaign lasting from now until the fall election.

BETTER TEACHERS' PAY.

One of Things to Be Considered at St. Paul Meeting.

St. Paul, Minn., July 2.—Dr. Joseph Swain, president of the National Educational association, is here for the annual convention which opens July 4 and continues one week. Dr. Swain, who is president of Swarthmore college, was elected president of the association last year after his presentation of a report on teachers' salaries, tenure and pensions.

"Better pay for teachers," is the slogan of Dr. Swain, who declares that the changing times, greater demands and qualifications required "have so altered the status of the teacher that salaries must be increased if competent teachers take up the vocation and remain in the work."

Arrangements for the meeting, which is expected to be one of the largest in the history of the association, are nearing completion, Secretary Durand Springer states.

WANT RECEIVER FOR DENVER WATER WORKS

Denver, Col., July 2.—A bill looking toward the appointment of a receiver for the Denver Union Water company was filed in the United States district court yesterday by counsel for the New York Trust company, trustees under a mortgage for $8,000,000 given by the water company. Failure of the defendant to meet the principal of the mortgage, which became due yesterday, is the prime cause of filing the petition.

FINED FOR PRINTING SPEECH IN ADVANCE.

Paris, July 2.—The correctional court has imposed a fine of 500 francs on the Figaro for printing the speech which the public prosecutor will deliver at the trial of Mme. Caillaux. The Temps and several other newspapers were fined 50 francs each for printing a copy of the speech taken from the Figaro.

GET JURY TO TRY COAL STRIKE SUIT.

Binghamton, N. Y., July 2.—A jury has been completed in the action brought by A. D. Wales against the United Mine Workers of America to obtain $200,000 for services in settling the 1902 coal strike. Col. Roosevelt will testify. Men of prominence in the political and labor world from all parts of the country have been subpoenaed, and A. D. Wales is the first witness to testify. The evidence of Col. Roosevelt will be read to the jury.

BOY SCOUTS PAGES FOR THE BAPTISTS.

Kansas City, Mo., July 2.—Two hundred boy scouts, acting as pages, are meeting delegates to the twenty-first annual convention of the Baptist Young People's Union of America, meeting jointly with the Baptist young people's conference of the South, which began here today. Late last night nearly 300 delegates, representing 6,000,000 Baptists, had arrived.

Weighty questions of the church will have no place on the program of the four days' convention which will be devoted largely to addresses and conferences tending to inspire the young people to greater service in church and missionary work.

CADETS AND NAVAL MEN AT VATICAN.

Rome, July 2.—The pope yesterday received in the consistery hall of the Vatican, 550 cadets from the Annapolis navy academy, and twenty-five officers and fifty seamen from the battleships Missouri, Idaho and Illinois, recently arrived in Naples. They were presented by the vice rector of the American college in Rome. The pontiff imparted to them the apostolic benediction. The officers were afterward received by Cardinal Merry Del Val, papal secretary of state.

URGES LAWS TO HELP TO REBUILD SALEM.

Boston, Mass., July 2.—Two bills designed to provide the city of Salem with funds needed to reconstruct public buildings and to re-establish other municipal agencies destroyed by the conflagration, have been sent to the legislature by Governor Walsh.

One bill authorizes the city to borrow $700,000 outside its debt limit by issuing bonds for a loan to run forty years at 4½ per cent. The other bill provides that the state tax shall be abated for the current year, and that the city may borrow $100,000 in anticipation of taxes. Both bills were referred to the committee on taxation.

CORN FROM JAPAN REACHES SEATTLE.

Seattle, Wash., July 2.—Three thousand bags of corn arrived from Japan yesterday consigned to a local milling company. The price of the grain landed in Seattle is the same as that of corn from the Middle States, and the quality is high. Further importations are expected.

WILL CLAIM STRIKE REALLY IS LOCKOUT.

Chicago, July 2.—Representatives of shop employes of the Illinois Central who have been on strike for thirty-three months, met here yesterday to collect evidence for presentation to the United States commission on industrial relations when that body meets here next fall. It is hoped to show that 35,000 employes of the railroad were in effect locked out when they insisted on their right to organize, although the demonstration has generally been called a strike.

Forty-eight Years on Force.

Baltimore, Md., July 2.—Police Marshal Thomas Farnum was retired from active duty yesterday after forty-eight years of service in the Baltimore police department. He had been head of the uniformed police for twelve years.

GRASP THIS OPPORTUNITY. FORTUNES TO BE MADE

Progress Oil & Gas Company

CALGARY, ALTA - NON-PERSONAL LIABILITY

OIL BUILT UP THE GREATEST FORTUNES KNOWN TO MAN. IT IS MAKING NEW FORTUNES

every day. Oil has made more people rich—with less risk and smaller original investment of money—than probably any other investment known.

This is not theory. IT IS A FACT, BACKED BY FACTS.

You know that oil has made it possible for one man to give away $115,000,000 for charity and still remain the richest man on earth.

Forty-four California oil companies—out of a total of fifty-nine, the stock of which is listed on the California Stock and Oil Exchange—paid in dividends alone over Nineteen Million Dollars.

We can cite you hundreds of cases—the space is too small here—of increases of from 100 per cent to many thousands per cent in the value of oil stocks.

One hundred dollars is not much. But look at this short table and see what $100 invested in oil stocks made:

$100 invested in the New York Oil Co. made..$3,900.00
$100 invested in the Hanford Oil Co. made....$4,000.00
$100 invested in the San Joaquin Co. made....$5,700.00
$100 invested in the Peerless Oil Co. made....$6,250.00
$100 invested in the Kern River Oil Co. made..$9,500.00
$100 invested in the Central Oil Co. made....$15,000.00
$100 invested in the Alende Oil Co. made.....$30,000.00
$100 invested in the Home Oil Co. made.....$40,000.00

WILL END "LEASE" AND "LICENSE" CASE

With the adjournment of Federal court this noon the attorneys in the equity suit that is being heard before Judge Booth concluded presenting their testimony and this afternoon counsel for the Niles Land company, plaintiff in the hearing against the Chemung Iron company and the Oliver Iron Mining company, began the rebuttal and final arguments.

It is expected that the case will be concluded either late this afternoon or some time tomorrow morning. In either event a decision will be given by Judge Booth immediately following the hearing, it is expected.

The suit was begun last Monday morning and has continued throughout the week. There has been an array of talent connected with the case rarely seen in local courts and the battle between the attorneys has been watched very closely by many Duluthians.

Judge Booth will be compelled to decide on the difference between the words "license" and "lease," and it is believed this decision will have bearing on the outcome of the case. The Niles Land company leased its Mesaba mine to the Chemung company in 1902 and now wishes to have the lease annulled on the grounds that the word "license" was used throughout the contract and that the defendant companies have failed to operate the mine at all since 1902 and have only paid the minimum royalty or ground rent of $18,500 a year. The iron companies claim the lease cannot be terminated until it expires.

This morning Benjamin F. Myers, and his brother, Henry H. Myers, testified.

GETS NEW TRIAL.

Damage Suit Against Canadian Northern to Be Reopened.

Joseph B. McGilligan, who lost in his suit for damages against the Canadian Northern road last March, was yesterday afternoon granted a new trial by Federal Judge Morris. It will probably be heard during the next term of court, or immediately after the calendar is finished.

McGilligan claims that he was injured while riding on the Canadian Northern road from Virginia on Jan. 22, 1913, when there was a wreck on the road. He asks $15,000 damages. At the recent trial a verdict was returned for the defendant company.

Appearing for McGilligan at the hearing of the motion yesterday were W. M. Steele and A. E. McManus, while H. Christopher represented the defendant company.

SCORES FILM CRIME SCENES

Pinkerton Says Decorated Vice in "Movies" Has Evil Effect.

Motion pictures that tend to make heroes and martyrs of criminals and which paint vice attractively should be forbidden by law, according to William Pinkerton, famous detective, in his address on "The Educational Value of Motion Pictures," made at the convention of police chiefs in Grand Rapids recently. Copies of the address were received this morning by Chief Troyer, who concurs with Mr. Pinkerton in the latter's sentiments on the subject.

The famous detective declares that train hold-ups and other crimes should not be tolerated and should never be permitted to be shown on a screen, especially to children.

Sections of the address, which especially appealed to the many police chiefs at the convention, according to Chief Troyer, follow:

Mode of Instruction.

"The moving picture has become a mode of instruction as well as a form of entertainment. Within its province lies a dangerous power for evil that cannot be too seriously considered. A written story of crime and human frailty may pass from memory, but a pictured delineation is apt to remain. Like an anecdote in a speech, the pictured scenes of evil deeds adhere to the mind like shadows to the sun. Take a serial picture of sordid crime, like those that illustrate shocking features of white slavery, drug depravity and gun men gangs, what good purpose can any normal, unselfish person expect them to serve? To the rough and weak and ignorant, it is like throwing more fuel on a fire already hard to control. Pictures that tend to make heroes and martyrs of criminals and decorate vice should be forbidden by law.

"Train hold-ups, bank burglaries, acts of pocket picking, counterfeiting, black hand methods, gun men tactics, highway robbery and other crimes and degrees of outlawry, or any story which embellishes disrespect for law should never be tolerated by promoters or officials.

"And here I would like to call attention to an offense of the moving picture guild that calls for heroic treatment from official censors. How can we expect the young, shiftless and vicious to have any respect for law and its representatives if pictures are freely exhibited showing policemen to be both tools and crooks? This faithful guardian of the peace and dignity of our streets is held up to ridicule and scorn, and projected as a many-sided grafter at every chance. It does not take a long head to see this is an insinuating way of weakening respect for authority.

"Hardly a day passes that one does not read of the practical effects of moving pictures that depict with exaggerated detail some phase of crime and point with ridicule to the attempts of the police to clear up its puzzling features."

TURNS UP NOSE AT POOR FARM

Young Six-Footer Peeved at Poor Beds and Plain "Chuck."

Whether Olaf Johnson, 20 years old, six feet tall and weighing 185 pounds, is feigning illness and symptoms of tuberculosis in order that he may be deported to Sweden as an undesirable citizen, or whether he is just lazy and wants to be a county charge, the local immigrant officials are unable to say. But at any rate, they showed up his game yesterday afternoon and now Olaf has disappeared and in all probability will not bother either the immigration office or the poor farm authorities any more.

Yesterday afternoon Olaf came to the immigration office in company with a friend, who said that he was unable to care for the "sick young man" any longer. Olaf, he said, had come to this country but three weeks ago and after working five days at the steel plant, had quit, declaring he was too ill to continue any longer. He asked if the immigration officials would not interest themselves in the case and take charge of Olaf.

The officials did interest themselves and when Olaf began to cough and show symptoms of tuberculosis, he was taken to a physician, who was unable to find any trace of the disease whatever. In fact, he declared that Olaf was in perfect health, a picture of strength.

When Olaf learned that it would be impossible to deport him he asked what was to be done and he was told that the poor farm is the only alternative in a case of this kind and that he would be taken there and placed in the institution as a county charge. He asked all about poor farms in this country, what foods were served, what beds were given the inmates and sundry other questions. And when Olaf reached the poor farm, he examined the beds and rooms and questioned other lodgers and then with the declaration that the institutions here are not at all like those in Sweden, left the building and disappeared. He has not been seen since.

"DO" LUTH THIS MONTH

Official Joke of Building Managers Who Are Headed This Way.

The pre-convention number of the Buildings and Building Management, the official organ of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers, arrived at the Commercial club today.

The magazine, which is edited by C. A. Patterson, secretary of the association, is a Duluth number. From cover to cover it is filled with articles and photographs, dealing with the convention here July 14 to 17 primarily, but with Duluth, as a city, as well.

The number contains a page of convention brevities; a number of statements from prominent building managers as to why they are coming to Duluth; a fac-simile of a written invitation by President J. E. Randall of Chicago; the official program of the meeting and sketches and photographs of the speakers; photographs of the officers of the association; sketches and photographs of various building managers, including Whitney Wall of Duluth; an article on Duluth hotels with photographs of some of them; an article on Duluth office buildings and managers with photographs of some of the buildings and of J. L. Cromwell, W. M. Prindle, John A. Stephenson and Henry Nolte, and the last of a series of articles on Duluth by George D. McCarthy, assistant secretary of the Commercial club. The article deals with the entertainment program here and several views accompany it.

The predictions of the national officers are that the Duluth convention will be the greatest in the seven years' history of the association. A special train is to be run from Chicago to accommodate delegates who assemble there. The Detroit building managers have made arrangements for a boat to convey them and delegates from other lake cities. Fully 80 per cent of the reservations made here to date include women, so the building managers have evidently been impressed by the glowing accounts of Duluth's cool summer weather and outing opportunities, and will bring their families.

In fact, the cool weather advertising has evidently been too effective, judging from the following paragraph from Buildings and Building Management:

"The Duluth managers want us to besure to remind you to bring your overcoat along. This sounded so much like a press agent story that we took a trip over to the weather bureau and secured some data on Duluth temperatures. They were right. Take along some ear muffs and a fur cap—would be our suggestion."

Other paragraphs are not so pessimistic, however. For instance:

"Why swelter in Birmingham, New York, Dallas or St. Louis, when you can go to Duluth and spend four joyous days?"

"Fishing is good—that's what they tell us—up in Minnesota and Wisconsin. Better pack the old kit and bring it along."

The following is labeled "Our Joke:"

"'What are you going to do this summer,' a New York manager asked the manager of an adjoining structure.

"'Oh, Luth, I suppose,' was the answer.

"'Do what?' returned the first manager.

"'Duluth, in July, of course,' was the come back."

NATION-WIDE APPEAL FOR HELP FOR SALEM.

Salem, Mass., July 2.—A nation-wide appeal for financial assistance for the 10,000 refugees who have been living under tents since the fire of June 25 was decided on today at a meeting of the general relief committee. This appeal will be made through telegrams sent by Governor Walsh to the governors of other states and the mayors of principal cities.

POSITIVE

Assurance That Gaskin Is Coming Here to Prove His Words---Message Has Been Received at the Orpheum Pharmacy.

It is now a certainty that Gaskin, the famous Quaker Health Teacher, is coming here to Duluth to spend a limited time in proving the grand virtues of Quaker Remedies. A wire was received yesterday at the Orpheum Pharmacy which told of his having arranged for this city next on his list.

The statement does not seem very important at first thought, when the people of this city fully realize that Gaskin himself will be with them to teach the principles of Good Health the real significance of the matter will at once be seen. This man has traveled extensively and always in the interests of health for those who are desirous of obtaining it by his teachings. The great Quaker Extract and Quaker Oil of Balm, which are the remedies being introduced by Gaskin, are for the stomach, the liver, the kidneys and any catarrhal condition, also worms of any kind.

The following remarkable cases, recently reported from the Orpheum Pharmacy, Detroit, will give the public a vague idea of just what can be done and is now being done by the Quaker Remedies.

Mrs. Hattie Lewis lives at 1433 Military avenue. She suffered from a severe stomach trouble for many years during which time she developed such fearful symptoms as: Bloating of the stomach after eating; belching of gas; headaches and dizziness; tired and sore feeling on rising; pains across the stomach and bowels; shortness of breath; palpitation of the heart; choking sensations; changeable appetite, which was at times ravenous, then again very poor; loss of flesh and ambition.

Mrs. Lewis tried many remedies in an effort to get rid of her trouble, but they only gave her a little temporary relief. This certainly discouraged her and she was skeptical of all medicines. And who could blame her? But now she is a well and hearty woman, and has a wonderful story to tell to those who are interested. It is this:

She bought a treatment of three bottles of Quaker Extract from Gaskin at the Standard Drug Store in her city. She began taking it according to directions. Only after the fifth day she became slightly nauseated in the morning, and in a few minutes had expelled the entire cause of all those years of suffering and misery—a horrible life-sapping tapeworm, 68 feet long and with head, neck, complete and alive! Now she has gained several pounds, and is strong and well again. Write to her, and she will gladly tell you that this statement is facts and truth.

Gaskin will arrive here tonight and promptly at nine o'clock tomorrow morning will be at the Orpheum Pharmacy to prove that these same Quaker Remedies will create the same grand results for Duluth people. He will charge nothing for his views on Good Health.

MUCH WHEAT IS PLACED

Million Bushels to Go East Within the Next Week.

Several Cargoes Loaded—Charters Being Made for Future Cargoes.

Despite the low rate paid grain carriers, a good deal of wheat is scheduled to go east by boat within the next week. It is estimated that at least 1,000,000 bushels will be sent within that time, and more charters are looked for to be made right along, as the carriers have grown tired of waiting. The rate is three-fourth cent for the current business.

The steamer H. A. Berwind, which the visiting shippers of the northwest saw loaded at the Peavey elevator, went out yesterday with 369,000 bushels of wheat. Today several cargoes will go out. The Culver Adams—the old Sahara—will take out about 280,000 bushels of wheat; the Martin will take 140,000 bushels of barley and 60,000 bushels of wheat; the George W. Peavey will take 50,000 bushels of barley, 85,000 bushels of wheat and 120,000 bushels of flax, and the James E. Davidson will take 330,000 bushels of wheat.

A good many charters are being made for future cargoes. The prevailing rate for August cargoes is 1c to 1⅛c and that for September 1¼c to 1½c.

Finds Stolen Bicycles.
Several bicycles stolen from the store shed of Harry Saunders, 203 West First street, were yesterday found in the possession of a 7-year-old boy, who claims they were given to him by a playmate. The bicycles were returned to their owner by Patrolman Montgomery and the boys given a good lecture by the officer.

Asks City for Damages.
Rose M. Gosselin filed notice of a claim of $500 damages against the city with the city clerk yesterday afternoon. She alleges that the city is responsible for an inadequate culvert which caused five lots owned by her near Sixty-third avenue west between Roosevelt and Bristol streets to be flooded June 2. She claims that growing crops were destroyed and part of her ground washed away.

Branch Liquor Store Sold.
J. J. Wall sold his branch liquor store at No. 2 West First street in June, 1913, to James Parkhurst. Peter Branch, who was manager of the Wall branch store, is now located at Wall's retail and wholesale liquor store at 310 West Superiot street.

SUGGESTION A LITTLE LATE

Contractor Tells City What to Do When Job Is Nearly Done.

Contractor E. A. Dahl had backfilled most of the trenches dug for service connections before he complained to the city council that sand or gravel should be used, according to City Engineer Wilson.

In a letter which he sent to the engineer in response to that official's statement that the city would agree to pay Dahl $500 for backfilling the trenches with sand or gravel, he states "of course, you will open again at your or the city's expense all trenches which we have already under your order backfilled with clay and gumbo, in such a manner that we can properly backfill same with sand and gravel." He also reiterates that he cannot guarantee the pavement from not settling over trenches backfilled with clay and gumbo.

In answer Engineer Wilson states that the city offered Dahl more than $500 to backfill the trenches with suitable material other than that found on the work. He points out that he wrote Dahl on June 17 that the city would pay him 85 cents per yard for such material and that as the contract would include the use of 700 yards, or more, this would have amounted to about $600, or over.

"You refused to accept the proposition at that time and could give us no definite answer as to what you proposed to charge for supplying such material" wrote the engineer. "We do not feel under any obligation to you whatever to pay for opening up any trenches which have already been backfilled, as you already have refused to accept a better offer than $500. I cannot see that anyone but yourself is to blame that you did not avail yourself of this offer. However, if you wish to fill the remainder of the trenches at the same rate we will pay you in the proportion of $500 for the whole, or better still, will stay by our original offer of 85 cents per yard.

"You understand, of course, that by your simply stating that you are not responsible for the work, can in no way relieve you from the terms of your contract, and that we shall hold you strictly to your contract, regardless of any protest or statement to the contrary."

Fairmont Park.
Miss Dunham, formerly of Uniontown, Penn., has located in Duluth, opening a neat little refreshment parlor at Fairmont park. The location, at entrance to park on Waseca street, suggested the Waseca Wigwam the name of her place of business. Miss Dunham is expecting a large crowd for the Fourth and is now making preparations to take care of them.

McINTOSH BEATS FOSSTON TEAM.

McIntosh, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The McIntosh ball team played the fast Fosston team yesterday afternoon a ten-inning game, and won; score 8 to 7. Batteries, Holton and Haven, Stadvold and Fogerberk. This makes nine straight games won by the local boys.

The Middy Blouse Is "the" Garment for Outing Wear. New Styles in Uncommonly Good Middies $1.50

Our Middy Blouses are mighty good looking when you buy them and they stay good looking because we have them made from good materials.

We've seen middies which we could buy to sell for 50c and 98c but you really wouldn't want to wear them after they have been washed, as the weight of the fabric is largely due to the starchy dressing which leaves the fabric coarse and sleazy after the first tubbing. The styles we offer tomorrow are very smart. There are dainty all white blouses, or those trimmed in navy or red.

To add to the interest tomorrow, we will include our $1.75 and $1.98 lines in the $1.50 lot. Take your choice tomorrow.

Special Tomorrow—Lovely White Voiles

Just for a rousing Day-before-the-Fourth bargain we offer our White Voile Waists with cluny Val laces set in collar and down the front and finished with dainty touches of embroidery. Very aristocratic styles—your friends would hardly expect you paid as little as $2.98 for them, and yet for tomorrow we offer these waists, and also several plainer models in one lot at $1.98 for choice.

$1.98

White Tub Skirts

Mew Models of Most Decided Style

Special $4.98

Regularly we sell these handsome new wash skirts at $5.98 and $6.50, and mighty unusual values are they at those prices. They are made up $4.98 in waffle and krinkle crepe in tunic and ripple effects and will go on special sale tomorrow at $4.98.

Lovable little Wash Dresses for outing, street and business wear. Fine assortments at $3.98, $4.98, $6.50 and $7.50.

Most up-to-date little styles in white and colored, striped or figured Crepe Voiles, "fussed up" with organdy collars—organdy vestees—and silk girdles. The skirts are in the highly fashionable long Russian tunic effects. The assortment is broad and varied, and every taste will find its liking. There are sizes 16 to 44. Do not do without one—you can so easily secure such becoming little dresses for such little money.

Colonial Pumps Are the Fitting Footwear for the 4th

In the days when the Declaration of Independence was signed, men and women wore footwear similar in style to what we offer you for tomorrow. But the shoes we have for you are ever so much better looking, ever so much finer fitting, ever so much more comfortable than could be had at any price in Revolutionary days.

HERE ARE PATENT OR DULL LEATHERS—CUBAN OR FRENCH LOUIS HEELS.

Good makes and good materials in footwear that need not be hidden. Prices range $3.50, $4.00 and $4.50.

"BABY DOLL" PUMPS ARE THE STYLE FEATURE FOR MISSES AND CHILDREN.

Here they are, white, patent or dull leathers; heavy or light soles. Prices range $1.50 to $3.00.

ON THE IRON RANGES

VALUE IS PLACED UPON THE PROPERTY

Damages to Be Paid By Hibbing for Ten Acres Is Fixed.

Hibbing, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The jury appointed to pass upon the proceedings of this village to condemn the southeast quarter of the southeast quarter of the southeast quarter of 12-57-21, (ten acres), returned a verdict before Judge Leckve granting the prayer of the village for the condemnation of the property and allowing the state of Minnesota $5,000 on the property and the Armour Iron Mining company, which holds a lease from the state, $500 for its rights.

The jury viewed the property June 26 and then adjourned until today. The members of the jury were O. J. Lindberg, William Wearne, Harry du Chambeau, M. Rogalsky, Martin Trewhella, J. C. Carson, W. Brown, F. A. Klass, John Makl, Charles Bardessono, F. J. Ryan with J. C. Agnew as foreman.

May Be No Appeal.

Hibbing, the state and the Arthur Iron Mining company each have the right of appeal. It is believed that the state and the village will be satisfied with the action of the jury while nothing is known as to the intentions of the mining company.

The village is now sinking a well on the property to test the presence of water and wishes also to put a reservoir on it. The tract lies just west of First avenue and north of the Great Northern tracks where the road from Hibbing turns into Alice.

PERMANENT HIGHWAY IS NOW DESIRED

Hibbing, Chisholm and Town Board to Have Joint Meeting.

Hibbing, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. H. McNiven, a member of the Chisholm village council, has addressed letters to the members of the board of supervisors of the town of Balkan and also to the town of Stuntz and the village of Hibbing, suggesting that a joint meeting of all four bodies be held here immediately following the auto-treaty mass meeting to be held here Friday.

Mr. McNiven points out the great necessity that prevails for making the Hibbing-Chisholm highway a permanent, solid roadway and suggests that it will be possible to secure such a roadway only by co-operation on the part of the two towns and the two villages.

It is believed that all of the boards concerned will act favorably upon Mr. McNiven's suggestion and that a joint meeting can be arranged for at that time.

Expensive Repairs.

In this connection Town Clerk V. J. Benoe of Stuntz calls attention to the fact that the maintenance of the Hibbing-Chisholm road last year up to Aug. 1 cost the town of Stuntz $3,500, showing the urgent necessity from the standpoint of economy of a more permanent road.

PLAN MESABA FIGHT AGAINST DRY TREATY

Meeting to Be Held at Hibbing to Resist Proposed Action.

Hibbing, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—A district meeting, with representatives from all the towns of the western end of the Mesaba range, will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. in the Armory here to take steps to combat the enforcement of the Indian treaty of 1855 so far as it applies to the sale of liquor.

President Victor L. Power of Hibbing will preside as president of a committee for the Western Mesaba, of which E. C. Kiley of Grand Rapids is vice president and Mayor Joseph Austin of Chisholm, secretary.

Delegates will be present from Cohasset, Grand Rapids, Nashwauk, Keewatin, Hibbing and Chisholm. The Chisholm delegation has chartered a special car on the Mesaba Electric railway and will bring to the meeting some seventy-five business men of Chisholm.

Commercial Club Acts.

Committees were arranged for at a regular meeting of the Commercial club last evening and appointed by President W. L. Galloway to work to prevent the enforcement of the treaty in this section.

The club unanimously decided to have resolutions prepared and forwarded to the department of the interior, setting forth the conditions which now prevail here as utterly different from the conditions that obtained in 1855 and pointing out that on that account the treaty should in no wise be enforced. The club also desided to appoint a finance committee to secure liberal funds to carry on the fight and a combined reception and delegate committee to attend the district mass meeting called for Friday afternoon at the Armory and to welcome representatives from other towns who will come to that meeting.

The sentiment voiced at the meeting of the club was emphatically against any enforcement of the treaty and for the taking at once of every possible means to combat the enforcement of the treaty.

Committees Named.

The following committees were appointed by President Galloway:

Resolutions—J. L. Lewis, D. D. McEachin, Robert Stratton.

Finance—Peter McHardy, W. J. Ryder, Oscar Lindberg, E. C. Kleffman, J. L. Lewis and D. D. McEachin.

MOUNTAIN IRON WILL CELEBRATE

Mountain Iron, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Local people are working faithfully to insure the celebration of the Fourth. There will be a parade in the morning followed by a program of sports winding up with dancing and fireworks in the evening. The parade will start at 9 a. m. It will include floats, bands, city officials, school board, 150 children representing different nationalities, pageant of Uncle Sam, Goddess of Liberty and different states of the Union.

After an address of welcome by the mayor, the reading of the Declaration of Independence and addresses there will be a band concert and at 1 p. m. the following sport program will begin:

Boys' 100-yard dash, under 12 years; girls' 100-yard dash, under 12 years; boys' three-legged race, 12 to 18 years; girls' egg race, 12 to 18 years; boys' sack race, 12 to 18 years; men's free-for-all 100-yard dash; ladies' nail driving contest; climbing greased pole free-for-all; catching greased pig free-for-all; ball game; fat men's race; married ladies' race; tug of war, Mountain Iron vs. Brunt location; P. Hagen, C. Walker and D. E.Burley, judges of sports; Charles Murphy, starter of races.

CHISHOLM MAN TO SPEAK ON FOURTH

Mayor Joseph Austin to Deliver Address at Virginia.

Virginia, Minn., July 2.—(Special The Herald.)—With prospects of favorable weather Saturday the local committees in charge of plans for the celebration of July Fourth are making fine progress and look for a successful affair in every way. The city is already decorated for the range municipal meet being held here today and more decorations are being placed this afternoon.

The committee in charge of the celebration is composed of H. V. Peterson, Alexander Reid, L. A. Peterson, M. F. Marion, J. F. Toeller, secretary; Douglas Greely, treasurer; William J. Archer, president.

JOSEPH AUSTIN.

Mayor Joseph Austin of Chisholm has been engaged to deliver the address which will be given at the corner of Chestnut street and Central avenue. Chester Whiting of this city will read the Declaration of Independence.

Parade in Morning.

A feature of the day will be the parade.

The parade will form at the city hall at 8:30 a. m., and will march west to Virginia avenue to Maple street, to Railroad avenue, to Chestnut street and to break up at Virginia avenue.

The formation of the line of march will be as follows: Standard bearer, police, firemen, mayor, city council and speaker of the day, Virginia and Winona baseball teams, fraternal organizations, autos and carriages, floats, calithumpians, etc.

Five bands are to furnish the music for the day, and one of the features will be the playing of the Buck Tail band, a musical organization composed of the veterans of the Civil war. The famous Scotch pipers from Lanark on the Slyde will be here in their kilts and furnish music.

Alexander Reid and a committee will have charge of the amusements for the children at Olcott park. Spectacular fireworks will feature the night's program.

Commencing at 1:30 in the afternoon, the sporting events will take place and liberal prizes have been offered for the winners. Racing, jumping and other events will be pulled off, and a feature will be water sports if entries can be secured.

EVELETH'S LIBRARY IS FORMALLY OPENED

Eveleth, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new municipal library was formally dedicated and thrown open to the public last evening. Many witnessed the dedicatory exercises. After the completion of the program those present were shown over the building and refreshments were served in the club rooms.

The library was erected at a cost of $30,000 exclusive of the cost of the site on Pierce street at the north end of Central Park.

The library is finished and furnished throughout in waxed golden oak. The first floor is used exclusively for library purposes.

At the left on entering the basement is a well furnished club room designed for the use of any club or society. At the right is a room fitted up as a men's reading room. This is a cheery and homelike room, provided with a fire place, easy chairs and reading tables where men will be permitted to seek the solace of tobacco while reading. This is an innovation in libraries in this part of the county.

Boyle on Carnegie Gift.

The principal address of the evening was delivered by Senator James P. Boyle who referred as follows to the acceptance of a donation from Andrew Carnegie: "I agree with those who said that Mr. Carnegie has more money than he had ever earned and more money than any one man has any right to possess. But Mr. Carnegie is not to be blamed for this. It is the fault of the people themselves, the fault of the system which permits a man to amass such a fortune. And Mr. Carnegie is to be admired for using his wealth as he does to assist in the education of the people. Only through education can the system be changed. A change of administration will not do it."

G. A. Whitman, president of the library board, formally presented the building to the city and Mayor J. J. Gleason accepted it.

Miss Clara F. Baldwin of the state library board, spoke on the purpose of the modern library.

Architect W. J. Sullivan of Duluth, designer of the building, was called upon for a few remarks.

Vocal solos by Miss Inez Davey and M. Magnuson, a piano solo by Miss Florence Pfremmer and music by Tobin's orchestra were enjoyable features of the program.

The members of the library board are G. A. Whitman, president; A. E. Pfremmer, secretary; Dr. C. W. More, Peter Peterson, D. W. Freeman, George E. McCormick, B. O. Greening, Solomon Sax and C. B. Hoel.

Miss Margaret Hickman of Red Wing is librarian.

Accused Pair Held.

Virginia, Minn., July 2.—H. E. Richards and M. Hicks, two Missabe railroad brakemen, arrested on complaints of local girls, waived examination and were bound over to the district court.

RANGE MUNICIPAL OFFICERS MEETING

Virginia, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—About eighty officials of range villages and cities were on hand when President Doyle of the Range Municipal league called the meeting to order in Moose hall this morning and more are expected this afternoon. After a few preliminary addresses an adjournment was taken until 1 p. m. when the session was resumed for a short time after which the meeting recessed at 3 that all might witness the Virginia-Hibbing ball game, the Winona team scheduled to play here having failed to arrive.

Banquet Big Event.

The big event of the gathering will be the banquet this evening at the Fay hotel with Mayor Boylan as toastmaster. Judge Hughes will speak. Mayor Power of Hibbing will discuss "County Division"; Senator Boyle, "Brewery Control of Saloons," and Mayor Austin of Chisholm and others will also speak. Hibbing and Eveleth both seek the next meeting of the league.

MUST MAKE CONNECTIONS.

Nashwauk Council to Force Water Connections Before Paving.

Nashwauk, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village council took up the paving matter and passed on the village pay roll so that employes could get their money for the Fourth. An ordinance was read compelling all property owners to connect with the water and sewer where the paving is to be done. Engineer Jensen reported that the plans and specifications were ready for the bidders.

The village council in a body, Attorney Lewis, Engineer Jensen and Editor Haugen attended the second meeting of the range municipalities in Virginia today. The trip was made in automobiles.

EVELETH STORE BURNS.

Popping of Fireworks Adds Zest to Conflagration.

Eveleth, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The general merchandise store of Frank Shebat was destroyed by fire early yesterday. The blaze caught near a large stock of fireworks and people in the vicinity were awakened by the popping of fire crackers and the whizzing of rockets and pin wheels. The building is within a half block of the fire station but no alarm was turned in until the whole place was on fire, and the building and stock is practically a total loss.

Mr. Shebat opened the store less than three months ago. He estimates the loss on building, stock and fixtures at $3,650. He carried $2,800 insurance.

TRAGEDY OF WOODS.

Itasca County Settler Perishes With His Cabin Home.

St. Paul, Minn., July 2.—A tragedy of the North woods was revealed yesterday in a report to C. E. Keller, state fire marshal. The clerk of Alvwood township, Itasca county, wrote Mr. Keller that upon examining a homesteader's burned shack in that neighborhood a few days ago the charred body of a man supposed to have been Hjalmer K. Hoiseth was found lying across the bed. The origin of the fire is not known.

HIBBING SEEKING N. M. D. A. MEET.

Hibbing, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Commercial club last evening authorized President Galloway to appoint a committee to have in charge the matter of presenting to the Brainerd meeting of the Northern Minnesota Development association the petition of Hibbing to be named as the summer of 1915 meeting place of the association, and to do everything in their power to secure that meeting for Hibbing. Effective work to this end was done by the delegates who attended the Thief River Falls meeting from Hibbing and it is believed that a vigorous effort will land the next summer meeting for Hibbing.

VIRGINIA ELKS PLAN CARNIVAL.

Virginia, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local Elks are to have a carnival all the week of July 13 and the following committees have been named: D. D. Morgan, E. J. Steuerwald, C. S. Blaid and R. A. Beers, carnival queen; C. L. Brundage, J. L. Booth, Douglas Greeley, F. D. Stowell, B. Jereissati, E. F. Johnson, C. T. Crawford and T. H. Coombe, publicity; A. E. Bickford, J. E. Hanson, Charles Grabowsky, D. E. Shea and V. I. Frazer, finance; P. J. Erickson, James F. Lavick and E. O. Sorenson, finance.

John J. Kelly, manager for the Tom W. Allen shows, is here making arrangements for the show.

Hibbing Church Sale.

Hibbing, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The ladies of the Episcopal guild will hold a bake sale Friday at Miss Gaver's gift shop, corner of Mahoning street and Third avenue, beginning at 9 a. m., of baked beans, rolls, home-made bread, doughnuts, cookies, light and dark cakes.

Accused Discharged.

Eveleth, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles Radulich was discharged by Municipal Judge Moylan when arraigned yesterday for an alleged threat against the life of Mrs. Mary Bozicevic as the complaint was faulty. The complaint alleged that the threat was made June 28 while evidence was introduced to show that it was made on June 21.

AH! HOW "TIZ" HELPS TIRED, ACHING FEET

Nothing Like "TIZ" for Sore, Sweaty, Calloused Feet and Corns.

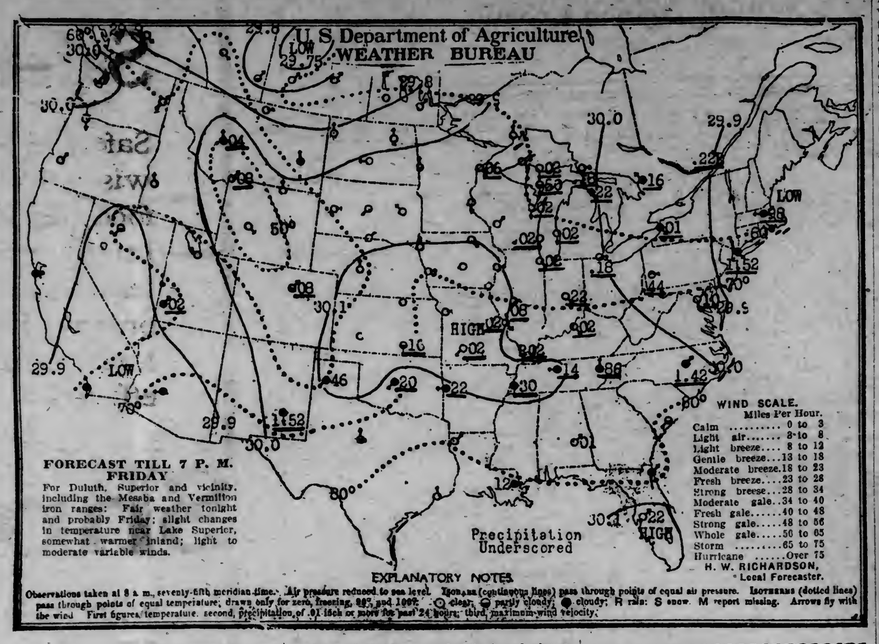

Ah! what relief. No more tired feet; no more burning feet; no more swollen, bad smelling, sweaty feet. No more soreness in corns, callouses, bunions.

No matter what ails your feet or what under the sun you've tried without getting relief, just use "TIZ." "TIZ" is the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up the feet. "TIZ" cures your foot trouble so you'll never limp or draw up your face in pain. Your shoes won't seem tight and your feet will never, never hurt or get sore and swollen. Think of it, no more foot misery, no more agony from corns, callouses or bunions.

Get a 25 cent box at any drug store or department store and get instant relief. Wear smaller shoes. Just once try "TIZ." Get a whole year's foot comfort for only 25 cents. Think of it.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

FAIR

The weather man is certainly making good on his fair weather promises. He promised that yesterday and today would be fair, and last night was perfect. Today would be hard to beat anywhere or at any time; and he is still making good for he says that same conditions will prevail tonight and tomorrow.

A year ago today was beautiful but there was rain at night. The sun rose this morning at 4:17 and will set this evening at 8:06, giving fifteen hours and forty-nine minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

During the last twenty-four hours showers fell over Southwestern Montana, Utah, Colorado, New Mexico, Northwestern Texas, Oklahoma, Southern Kansas and from the Mississippi eastward to the Atlantic coast. Heavy rain fell at New York, Raleigh, N. C., and Roswell, N. M. Hot weather continues in the extreme South."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, July 2.—Forecasts for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Thursday:

Wisconsin—Fair tonight and Friday; warmer tonight and in east portion Friday.

Minnesota—Fair tonight and probably Friday; somewhat higher temperature tonight in east and south portions.

Iowa—Fair tonight and Friday; warmer in north and central portions tonight.

North Dakota—Fair tonight, becoming unsettled Friday with possibly showers; cooler Friday.

South Dakota—Fair tonight, becoming unsettled Friday with possibly showers in west portion; warmer in east portion tonight; cooler in west portion Friday.

Montana — Unsettled weather tonight and Friday, probably local showers; cooler in northeast portion tonight.

Lower Michigan—Fair tonight and Friday; warmer in east portion tonight.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

ENGLISHMEN ELIMINATED

Three Americans and Germans Survivors in Henley Grand Challenge.

Henley-on-Thames, July 2.—Not an English crew remained in the contest for the grand challenge cup, the chief event of the Royal regatta, after the rowing of today's four heats. The three trans-Atlantic eights—the Union Boat Club of Boston, Harvard university second crew and Winnipeg, Can.—as well as the Mayence Rowing Club of Germany, were all victorious over their English opponents. In tomorrow's semi-finals, Harvard is pitted against Winnipeg and Boston against Mayence. The Germans' time of 7 minutes 22 seconds was the best recorded, beating Harvard's performance by 15 seconds.

The day's program opened with the first heat in the grand challenge cup, between Winnipeg and Thames. This was won easily by the Canadians in 7 minutes 55 seconds.

Boston beat the London eight all the way in the next heat of the same event. The Americans led by a length and a half at the half distance and finished fresh four lengths ahead in 7 minutes 48 seconds.

In the next heat Harvard beat Leander, but did not have such an easy time as Boston. Leander led at the start, rowing 39 to Harvard's 37, but Harvard went up level at the island, where the crews were coming into the straight. Then the Americans took the lead and won the fastest heat of the day by a length in 7 minutes 37 seconds. They finished fresh while Leander showed distress.

The Mayence Rowing Club of Germany beat Jesus college, Cambridge, in the fourth heat of the grand challenge cup by three-quarters of a length in 7 minutes, 22 seconds, beating Harvard's time by 15 seconds.

BUYS RELEASE OF "KID" TAYLOR

President P. J. Schroeder of the Superior baseball club of the Northern league today announced the release of Jack Landry as manager of his club and the employment of Kid Taylor, now manager of the Virginia club, as Landry's successor.

Taylor managed Superior in 1911 and 1912, winning the pennant in 1911. This is his first year as manager at Virginia, where his team is in the first division. Taylor's release was purchased from Virginia. Landry was formerly a Superior outfielder and later an umpire. He was signed by Superior as manager this spring.

"Welcome Home."

London, July 2.—Lord Wimborne and the members of the British polo team which won the polo cup at Meadowbrook, today were given a "welcome home" luncheon by the Pilgrims. Field Marshal Lard Roberts, who presided, spoke of the intense gratification felt in the British Isles at the return of the polo cup and paid a tribute to "the true sportsmanlike spirit which had characterized all the struggles for it on American polo fields."

Women's Tennis Contest.

Wimbledon, Eng., July 2.—Mrs. Larcombe today defeated Miss E. Ryan of California in the final round of the all-comers ladies' lawn tennis singles championship by two straight sets, 6-3, 6-2. Mrs. Larcombe, who was the champion in 1912, meets the holder, Mrs. Lambert Chambers, for the title.

SIR THOMAS FACETIOUS.

Willing to Exchange Boat Racing "Mugs" With America.

Chicago, July 2.—In congratulating James A. Pugh on the christening of Disturber IV, which will compete for the Harmsworth Motor Boat trophy at Cowes next month, Sir Thomas Lipton cabled Mr. Pugh today as follows:

"I think the Harmsworth mug and the America's mug would both be benefited by trips across the ocean."

Disturber IV will be given speed trials here every day next week.

ILLINOIS RIVER RACE.

Three Days' Power Boat Regatta Opens at Peoria.

Peoria, Ill., July 2.—The annual three-day regatta of the Mississippi Powerboat association began here on the Illinois river this afternoon with speed trials, first heats in three classes and the Webb trophy free-for-all championships, in which twenty-one boats are entered.

Motor boat entries from all the important power boat centers of the country arrived last night and today. Kitty Hawk VI, owned by H. H. Tinken of Canton, Ohio, and expected to set new records for time and distance, stripped one of her gears in a trial spin last night and her entrance in the races today was problematical.

RACES AT FARGO.

Matinee Planned Saturday at State Fair Grounds.

Fargo, N. D., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because so many horses are being trained on the tracks at the state fair grounds the owners have decided to give a matinee Saturday afternoon for the accommodation of the holiday crowd. Don Densmore will give an exhibition mile. He has rounded to in fine shape despite the frequent rains which have prevented as much track work as had been intended. He will soon be able to do a mile in fast time. He has shown a number of halves at a clip that pleases Al Russell, who has the great little horse in charge. D. A. Dinnie of Grand Forks, who owns Densmore and other horses on the local tracks, plans to take in the grand circuit this year with his string.

Wins Princess Stakes.

Newmarket, Eng., July 2.—Lord Cadogan's The Curragh today won the Princess of Wales stakes of $10,000 for 3 and 4-year-olds over a distance of a mile and a half. The king's Brakespear was second and Col. Hall Walker's White Prophet third. Six ran.

ONE TRAIN ROBBER KILLED IN OREGON

Pendleton, Or., July 2.—One robber was killed and one robber and a deputy sheriff wounded in a gun battle between three masked bandits and passengers on west-bound Oregon-Washington Railroad & Navigation company passenger train No. 5 early today.

The hold-up was attempted two miles east of Meacham, fifty miles east of Pendleton.

The wounded robber and his companion escaped to the wild mountainous country near the scene of the attempted hold-up and two posses are in pursuit.

ARREST COMPANION OF DISGUISED GIRL

La Crosse, Wis., July 2.—The arrest yesterday of Hazel Ellingsworth, aged 22, of Chicago, who was dressed in man's clothing, has resulted in a white slave prosecution under the Mann law of the girl's companion, Charles Hunter, aged 30, also of Chicago. The two were picked up as tramps, but after being taken to the station, where the girl was booked as a man, her sex was discovered. White slave proceedings against Hunter were begun when the young woman admitted they had been making the rounds of Greek railroad camps in Wisconsin and Illinois.

B. Y. P. U. MEETING AT KANSAS CITY OPENS

Kansas City, Mo., July 2.—Three thousand Baptist young men and young women were called to order here today at the twenty-first convention of the Baptist Young People's Union of America, meeting jointly with the Baptist Young People's union (south).

After an address of welcome by Dr. J. C. Armstrong of Kansas City and a response by Rev. George P. Beers of Baltimore, Md., N. W. Hamilton, D. D., president of the B. Y. P. U. (south), delivered an address in which he urged the churches to take a more aggressive part in the social lives of the young people.

"If the churches do their duty the young people will be saved from worldly and wasted lives and the churches will find that in saving the young people they have saved themselves."

Honors for Cleveland.

In the report of the board of managers, special honor was given the Wilson Avenue B. Y. P. U., Cleveland, Ohio, for being the first in the international field to fulfill the 100 per cent standard of excellence as set forth in the last convention. Honorable mention was made of the Parkside union, Buffalo, N. Y., and Calvary union, Kansas City. Other societies mentioned as attaining 100 per cent, were: Sixth Avenue B. Y. P. U., Brooklyn, N. Y.; First B. Y. P. U., St. Paul, Minn.; Ottawa B. Y. P. U., Ottawa, Ill.; Beth Eden B. Y. P. U., Denver, Col., and Estherville B. Y. P. U., Estherville, Iowa.

RAISING FINE STOCK.

Stockmen Around Belfield, N. D., Improving Their Herds.

Belfield, N. D., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The ranchers of this part of North Dakota are growing thoroughbred stock and are making more money on smaller herds than formerly when they raised grades and scrubs merely for beef. A local ranching firm shipped sixteen thoroughbred Shorthorn sires to head Montana herds. They also shipped three cars of high class draft horses to Montana. The draft horses raised in this section now are in striking contrast to the bronchos of the early period and they are in great demand in the horse markets everywhere. Shipping horses and cattle to Montana appears something like carrying coal to Newcastle but the breeding of the local live stock made them most desirable even in a live stock country.

SANTA FE ENDS ITS RETRENCHMENTS.

San Bernardino, Cal., July 2.—Announcing that the retrenchment policy put into effect some months ago had been terminated, the Santa Fe railroad increased yesterday the working hours of 1,000 men in the shops at this point from forty to fifty a week.

Iowa Colleges Merge.

Sioux City, July 2.—The merger of Morningside and Charles City colleges of Charles City was effected yesterday. Under the terms of the agreement the work now being carried on by the two institutions will be conducted at Morningside college. Dr. Alfred E. Craig, president of Morningside college, will be president of the joint institution.

ACTION OF SINGLE SPOONFUL SURPRISES MANY

Duluth people who bought the simple mixture of Buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler-i-ka, are surprised at the INSTANT effect of a SINGLE SPOONFUL. This remedy is so complete a bowel cleanser that it is used successfully in appendicitis. Adler-i-ka acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel and ONE SPOONFUL relieves almost ANY CASE of constipation, sour or gasey stomach. ONE MINUTE after you take it the gases rumble and pass out. W. A. Abbett, Druggist, 205 West Superior street.

WHAT NEURASTHENIA IS

Neurasthenia is a condition of exhaustion of the nervous system. The causes are varied. Continuous work, mental or physical, without proper vacation periods, without proper attention to diet and exercise, also worry over the struggle for success, are the most common causes. Excesses of almost any kind may produce it. Some diseases, like the grip, will cause neurasthenia. So also will a severe shock, intense anxiety or grief.

The symptoms are over-sensitiveness, irritability, a disposition to worry over trifles, headache, possibly nausea.

The treatment is one of nutrition of the nerve cells, requiring a non-alcoholic tonic. As the nerves get their nourishment from the blood the treatment must be directed toward building up the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood and with proper regulation of the diet have proved of the greatest benefit in many cases of neurasthenia. A tendency to anaemia, or bloodlessness, shown by most neurasthenic patients, is also corrected by these tonic pills. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Two useful books "Diseases of the Nervous System" and "What to Eat and How to Eat" will be sent free by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., if you mention this paper.

THE BANQUET

Did you ever attend a banquet at which there were smoking and speaking after the eating? Have you ever been in your butcher's smokehouse? Perhaps you see the parallel. Both hurt your eyes and did you brown; only in the smokehouse you didn't feel the hot and cold chills run up and down your back. These came from the poisons in the air.

You can keep out of the smokehouse, but you want to go to the banquet hall. Make a kick!

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

Written for The Herald By Rev. J. S. Kirtley, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, JULY 5.

Matthew 20:1-16: The Laborers in the Vineyard.

By Rev. J. S. Kirtley, D. D.

CONNECTION.

It is very necessary to see how this parable is connected with last Sunday's lesson which closes with the statement that the last shall be first and the first last. The rich young man had turned away and Peter wanted to know what he and the others, who had started in at the first and had sacrificed most, would get as a reward. The answer was that the rewards would be abundant, but all would be on a level; the first to enter would be the same as the last and the last the same as the first. The motives of the disciples will make the essential differences. This parable, then, is spoken mainly for the twelve, though also for the self-seeking Pharisees.

THE LESSON.

I.

Securing the Laborers. 1-7.

"For the kingdom of heaven is like unto a man that was a householder, who went out early in the morning to hire laborers into his vineyards. And when he had agreed with the laborers for a shilling a day, he sent them into his vineyard. And he went out about the third hour, and saw others standing in the market place idle; and to them he said, Go ye also into the vineyard, and whatsoever is right I will give you. And they went their way. Again he went out about the sixth and ninth hour, and did likewise. And about the eleventh hour he went out, and found others standing; and he saith unto them, Why stand ye here all the day idle? They say unto him, Because no man hath hired us. He saith unto them, Go ye also into the vineyard."

1. BARGAIN.—As people were doing then in Palestine and are still doing in the East, so would the Savior, our King, be doing in the centuries to come. The owner of the vineyard has to have extra help in the rush season, as the farmers in Kansas do, and there is surplus labor and the surplus laborers go early in the morning to the market place of the village, as they come by the hundreds every morning to the packing houses in Chicago to take the place of those who are sick or laid off, or to seek any new position that may have been created. The day's work begins at sunrise, say 6 o'clock. That's the first hour. All the laborers in sight are engaged and put to work at the usual wages and it is entirely satisfactory to both. One shilling, or 17 cents had the purchasing power of $1.70 in our money. Christ promises eternal life to all who enlist.

2. INFORMAL.—As he didn't have enough hands to handle the fast ripening grape crop, he went back at 9 and 12 and 3 and picked up all the new men who had come in and put them to work without a definite bargain—he would pay them "what was right." He did that because they were not working the whole day and because their slowness to come to the labor market might have indicated to him that they would prove inferior, although they might have been hunting work elsewhere all the morning—probably were doing that very thing. The laborers accepted that arrangement because they had confidence in the man or thought that if he gave them only a little it would be that much clear gain and might lead to permanent employment. Theirs was a loose bargain but satisfactory to both. Christ wants men at all times.

3. LAST CHANCE.—There were some men who were unemployed at 5 in the evening, had given it up and were simply hanging around. The man was willing to hire them, too, because he had work to do and was interested in men. They were willing to work and had probably been to all the place in the country round about. "No man had hired them" was the true reason they were idle. If the man can get an hour's work from them and they can earn an hour's wages, so much the better for both. But there is a revelation of the master and of the servants coming when he settles with them.

II.

Paying Their Wages. 8-16.

"And when even was come, the lord of the vineyard saith unto his steward, Call the laborers, and pay them their hire, beginning from the last unto the first. And when they came that were hired about the eleventh hour, they received every man a shilling. And when the first came, they supposed that they would receive more; and they likewise received every man a shilling. And when they received it, they murmured against the householder, saying, These last have spent but one hour, and thou hast made them equal unto us, who have borne the burden of the day and the scorching heat. But he answered and said to one of them, Friend, I do thee no wrong; didst not thou agree with me for a shilling? Take up that which is thine, and go thy way; it is my will to give unto this last, even as unto thee. Is it not lawful for me to do what I will with mine own? or is thine eye evil, because I am good? So the last shall be first, and the first last."

1. JUSTICE.—He had his own way of paying the men who came in last but those who came in first got exactly what they were promised. There should have been no complaint from them. But when he comes to settle with the others there will be a chance for trouble and he knew that in advance, for he knew the character of the people of that day, that they didn't as a rule work for what they could do but for what they could get. That matter of rewards ran through their whole life. If a man served God well he would have plenty. So the Jews had come to think of material rewards for all they did. Trouble is surely coming when he settles with the men who have not worked all day.

2. GENEROSITY.—The master, for some reason, pays the latest comers the very same he paid those who worked all day, a strange thing to do. He had a right to do so, of course, but it wasn't good business from the business standpoint. At any rate it was not required even by the unwritten law of kindness. To the one set of workers he was just, to the others generous. Why the unusual generosity? Partly because he was fond of doing generous things and there is room in any right business relation to show such a spirit; partly because they needed so much to live on and if they did good work the next day they would have to have enough to eat, so it was wise to give them enough to get good food with; also partly because they deserved it, for they were willing and anxious and had done all they could to get work and stayed right there in the best place to get any stray job that had not been given out. They had put in the time and deserved some sort of recognition for it. Browning says it is not what man does but what man would do that exalts him. In the first instance it was just to pay the men what he promised; in this it was just to be generous. It seems that under all the circumstances he would hardly have done justly by the late comers had he done less, though there was no bargain nor established usage to compel it—only his own sense of brotherliness. To wait and watch and be ready to do one's best when the opportunity comes is in itself a sort of service which the noblest sort of men will recognize in some adequate way.

3. JEALOUSY.—If the first group got what they were promised why should they complain? There was no reason why they should but they did and there was a reason why they did. It was jealousy, or envy. They had the wrong spirit, both toward their work and their fellow workers. They didn't work in order to achieve a worthy purpose, but simply to get the money. One who practices medicine for the pay alone will soon lose both his character and his practice; he must have an interest in humanity or in the therapeutic art, for scientific or artistic or humane reasons. Those men were working only for the 17 cents a day. Besides they had none of the spirit of altruism which Jesus brought to the world and has released to run such a wonderful course among us. You will be glad to have others do better than you, provided you are doing your best and they are trying to do their best. In this case those who were last became first simply because the first ones were personally undeserving. We are the only ones who can cheat us out of any thing good. The twelve apostles deserved the warning. Christ puts first and last together and it is left with the first whether they shall drop back.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

Where the feeling of brotherhood is highly developed the good fortune of another occasions only satisfaction. No one can feel discomfort over the good fortune of one whom he greatly loves. It was this brotherly feeling that was to characterize all men in Jesus' conception of the Kingdom of God.—Bosworth.

The boy came into the room and held up two crisp five-dollar notes. "My wages, father!" he exclaimed proudly. Smiling in sympathy, the father asked, "All of your wages?" "Why, yes," returned the boy. "Think a moment, son. How about the evening you wanted to go down town and business claimed you? Then, how about the times customers have been trying and you have kept your patience and shown courtesy? The little obliging services you have rendered your fellow clerks? The noon you walked out of your way to deliver a parcel as a special favor to a patron? All these, my son, have entered into your character, have added to your manhood. These are your true wages."—Blessing.

Safety in Summer

Safety in Summer comes from a wise selection of easily digested foods which supply the maximum of nutriment with the least tax upon the digestive organs. Food follies in Summer lower vitality and decrease efficiency. The ideal diet for the sultry days is with fresh fruit and green vegetables, a combination that is cooling and satisfying, supplying all the strength needed for work or play. The world's universal, staple breakfast cereal. Ask your grocer.

Always heat the Biscuit in oven to restore crispness; then pour over it milk or cream, adding salt or sugar to suit the taste. Deliciously nourishing for any meal in combination with berries or other fruits of any kind. Try toasted Triscuit, the Shredded Wheat Wafer, for luncheon with butter, cheese or marmalades.

BUILDING NEW RURAL SCHOOL

Several Structures Planned or Already Nearing Completion.

Considerable building activity is noticeable in the various rural school districts of the county at the present time. Commenting upon new school buildings which are being erected in the county this summer, the Rural School Bulletin, published from the office of N. A. Young, county school superintendent, says:

"School District No. 71, which is located just outside of the city limits of Duluth at the end of the Woodland car line, has just received a loan from the state in the amount of $7,000 which will be used toward the erection of a school of four rooms. This new building is to take the place of an old one-room building which, owing to the rapid growth in population in that vicinity, is now too small. It is very probable that the upstairs rooms of the new building will not be completed on the inside this fall as only two rooms will be needed for next year.

"The school board of District No. 77 will open bids on the 27th of this month for the construction of a two-room rural school which will cost about $5,000. This building will be provided with a suite of rooms in which the teachers are to live.

"A new one-room rural building is to be constructed by the school board of District No. 31 this summer. The building will be located about a mile or a mile and a half from Zim.

"School District No. 19 is planning to erect two two-room buildings this summer. One of the buildings is to take the place of an old building at Gowan, while the other is to take the place of the old Moore school which is located about six miles north of Floodwood.

"The county board of education will complete the construction of School No. 45 by the 4th of July. School No. 45 is located about eight miles west of Angora and is big enough to accommodate about sixty or seventy children. It has two class rooms and a hall and a suite of rooms in which the teachers are to live. The contract price was $4,350. When completed, with all necessary furniture and heating plants, the cost will be possibly $5,000.

"Plans and specifications are now being drawn for a Holmberg school which is to be located in the county district about seven miles northwest of Cloquet. This building will be complete in every way and will cost $8,000.

"The county board of education will build four or five one-room schools this summer.

"The building of a new two-room schoolhouse upon the present site of the Jackson school in District No. 6 has been authorized, and it will be erected some time during the summer."

PREFERENCE IS GIVEN TO WOMEN

They Do Superior Work as Compulsory Education Officers.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 2.—The board of education of this city is much impressed by the value of women as compulsory attendance officers. Owing to some sharp work several years ago the requirements for qualifying examinations were so worded that only men could take them. Consequently, the number of woman officers has decreased until the force included only four. On the recommendation of the chief of the force, backed by the approval of the superintendent of education, the board intends to change all this.

Chief Gideon has made a thorough study of the causes of truancy and he has frequently found the home conditions responsible, and has also found that social-service work that improved the home conditions is a great aid to the bureau in keeping the young people in school.

He is, therefore, led to the conclusion that prevention is far better than the cure of truancy and the social-service work is the most successful instrument for prevention. With this in mind it is his intention to extend the work in the homes, and for this reason he desires additional woman attendance officers. Much of the social-service work, he says, can be done better by women than men and some of it men cannot be expected to do at all.

Mr. Gideon has this to say regarding the need of additional woman attendance officers:

"In the enforcement of the compulsory-attendance law, the attendance officer is in daily relation with the home and with the school and one of his most important duties is to discover and, if possible, to remove the causes of unlawful absence from school; for in this as in other fields of social work, prevention is better than cure. His dealings, therefore, are largely with the mother whose carelessness and general incompetency in the home are responsible for the child's absence. In such cases as require constructive work in the home the male attendance officer is handicapped by his inability to enter the home and familiarize himself with conditions there. Such information is essential to an intelligent disposition of the case and can be secured with unquestionable propriety only by a woman. The male attendance officer wisely adheres to the invariable rule not to enter a home during the absence of the father. I believe, therefore, that, while the value of men as attendance officers is not to be discounted, there is a need in this field for intelligent women, skilled in dealing with social problems."

EXPECTS TO TALK ACROSS ATLANTIC.

London, July 2.—"Mr. Marconi contemplates being able to telephone from Carnarvon, Wales, to New York before the end of this year," was the statement made today by the manager of the company in testifying before the Dominion's royal commission on imperial communications. He added that Mr. Marconi also expected to increase the speed of the wireless telegraph to 300 words a minute.

HAS HELD ONE JOB EIGHTY-ONE YEARS

Farmhand Who Is Said to Be More Than 100 Years Old.

Roxborough, Pa., July 2.—Jake Hoebach rounded out a pleasant celebration of his 104th birthday by eating a juicy half section of a cherry pie. "If I live until I am 200," he said smacking his lips and looking longingly at the remaining section of the pastry, "I will never get over my fondness for cherry pie."

Jake is employed as a farmhand on the country estates of D. H. Kirkner, 3d, in Roxborough. He has held his present job for eighty-one years, and has never once been tired of his work. Mr. Kirkner inherited the farm from his father more than fifty years ago, and with the inheritance came Jake.

Jake says he will never get over his fondness for farm work. Here is the daily work program of this spry young man of 104 years: 4 a. m., gets up; 4:15, feed the horses; 4:25, start milking; 5:30, breakfast; 5:45, curry the horses; 6, hook up for the milk train; 7, back and take out a load of hay or plow; 8-11, chores; 12, knock off for dinner; 1 p. m., fix wagons and other odd jobs; 4, take the cows into milk; 5, clean horses; 6, supper; 6:30, loaf around; 8, go to bed.

Roxborough's oldest resident went to work for the Kirkner family in 1838 after he had walked all the way from New York to his present place of employment.

The old man was born in Thuringia, on the estate of Duke Otto, a famous landgrave. Jake left his native land because of the continuous contention among his countrymen.

"The landgraves," he said, "were fighting with the people from the south, and I got tired of seeing the fields planted and then all torn up by the fighters. So I came to America. When I landed in New York I heard there was no fighting in Philadelphia, and I decided that was the place I wanted for a home. So I walked over."

Many years ago Jake carved a watering trough from a solid block of soapstone, which he carted from the quarry at Lafayette. The trough, which is still in use at the farm, weighs 3½ tons. He used an old chisel and an ax to cut it out.

BANK BOOKS CLOSED TO CHICAGO COUNCIL.

Chicago, July 2.—Efforts of the city council to trace the split checks with which interest on deposits of the city treasurer with the La Salle Street Trust & Savings bank were paid, were checked here when Judge Windes declined to issue an order compelling submission of the bank's books to the council's investigation committee.

City deposits in the defunct institution were more than a million dollars drawing 3 per cent. It was found that 2¼ per cent was all that was going to the city treaturer and identity of the recipient of the remaining ¾ of 1 per cent is still a mystery.

Maclay Hoyne, state's attorney, opposed production of the books on the ground that it would embarrass the grand jury investigation.

SAYS SHE WILL BEAT JOHNSON

California Woman Is After Scalp of the Governor.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 2.—Mrs. Helen K. Williams, a newspaper woman of San Francisco, is the candidate of the Women's Republican League of California for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor, the first woman in the state to enter the field for so high an office.

At the primaries, which will decide her candidacy, women will vote. In the opinion of the members of the league the occasion is ripe for the nomination of a woman. As they put it, this year is the time, the primary is the place and Mrs. Williams is the girl. Mrs. Clara Shortridge Folts, a prominent woman lawyer and a leader of the suffrage fight, puts it this way:

"Any gentlewoman, wise, willing and learned, and a loyal, growing Republican, would be the equal of any man, living or dead, in the office of lieutenant governor. Mrs. Williams is that woman and all good Republican women will work shoulder to shoulder to elect her."

Mrs. Williams thinks that "if women are capable of casting the ballot, they are also capable of holding office, no matter how important." "If I am elected I shall adhere to the Republican platform. If any other woman is nominated by the Republican party I shall work day and night for her election. My one ambition now is to bring about the defeat of Hiram Johnson and his Progressive ideas in California, and I believe that I can best do this by getting right out on the stump and making a vigorous campaign for election."

Mrs. Williams is publisher of the Women's Citizen. A native of Wexford, Ireland, she has lived in California from childhood. She confesses that she does not know how to crochet and couldn't cure a baby of the croup, but then, as she says, she hasn't any babies and doesn't want to crochet.

MOTHERS ASK BAN ON ODIOUS SONGS

Movement to Censor All Songs Before Given Copyright.

Washington, July 2.—An agitation against certain types of popular songs has been started by the national congress of mothers and a movement is on to have a censor appointed to pass on all songs before they are copyrighted.

It is argued by members of the congress that the power of music is flagrantly misused and that it is made the vehicle of objectable and demoralizing words and ideas.

At the recent convention of the congress held here the matter was discussed and a resolution was adopted asking that a censor be appointed with a woman on the board. Now the mothers are agitating to have congress appoint this commission in order that it may begin immediately to pass on all songs presented at the library of congress for copyright.

Songs which destroy the reserve between the sexes, those which are aimed at the sanctity of the home and those which are vehicles of irreverence are scored by the mothers, who believe the popular song might be artistic in composition and elevating in sentiment if something were done to stop the flow of cheap and vulgar music that now finds its way to the public by way of the vaudeville stage.

UNIONISTS PERMIT HOME RULE MOVE.

London, July 2.—When the bill to amend the Irish home rule bill came up for second reading in the house of lords, the Marquis of Lansdowne, the Unionist leader, announced that as Ireland was one vast armed camp, it was necessary to find a way out of the calamity which was threatening. The Unionists therefore, he said, would give the amending bill a second reading and introduce amendments during the committee stage in regard to the area to be excluded from the operations of the home rule bill, the duration of the exclusion and the government of the excluded area. The Unionists, he concluded, would not agree to the second reading of the home rule bill itself.

HEALTH TALKS

by William Brady, M.D.

Find the Carrier

MONTH by month there accumulates more and more evidence to support the conclusion that the aerial transmission of disease is a myth; that dust as a germ carrier is of little or no importance in sanitation; that personal contact with the disease itself or with carriers, human, animal or insect, explains the spread of infectious or epidemic disease.

Our foremost authorities on tuberculosis have formulated the axiom that "a careful consumptive is not a menace to adult associates under ordinary conditions of life." Prolonged and intimate contact with the disease seems to be an essential factor of infection. If the careful, cleanly consumptive does not contaminate his environment, why should it be necessary to disinfect or fumigate his apartments after his removal therefrom?

Importance of Personal Cleanliness.

As Dr. C. V. Chapin, the eminent health superintendent of Providence, observes, "terminal disinfection and fumigation of the apartments of consumptives concentrates popular attention on a very unimportant source of the disease." Dr. Chapin is the apostle of medical asepsis in America. He declares, and offers the most convincing practical proof to uphold the declaration, that if physicians and attendants of the sick would practice the same scrupulous degree of personal cleanliness—asepsis—as surgeons practice in the operating-room, there would be little need for fumigation after the illness.

For several years Dr. Chapin has managed to keep the sanitary records of Providence on an enviable plane without the aid of fumigation and disinfection of rooms after scarlet fever and diphtheria. He considers such work a foolish waste of public funds which is kept up simply from force of custom—a custom founded on ancient delusions that microbes traveled in the air from house to house during epidemics.

Mosquitoes the Carriers.

Yellow fever was strongly believed to be carried in the air and on personal objects until the absolutely indispensable role of the stegomyia mosquito as the intermediary carrier of the disease was established. Now the only barricade between the yellow fever victim and the patient in the next bed is a screen of mosquito-bar.

The more we learn about germ carriers and the mode of spread of communicable diseases, the less reliance do we place on the use of fumigation. Even in smallpox the sanitarians say that quarantine and disinfection cannot control the disease without the general application of preventive inoculation with vaccina. The modern problem in sanitary administration is —Find the carrier.

Questions and Answers.

Bertie W. asks: (1) What is your opinion of San Antonio as a resort for one with tuberculosis of the lungs, of several months' standing? (2) Would it be possible for a young person to recover and remain well if the residence was maintained? (3) Is tuberculosis hereditary? (4) What are the chances of acquiring the disease through marriage?

REPLY.

1. San Antonio is a good climate for early (incipient) cases. No climate will save a patient in the later stage—the cavity stage.

2. Yes, the majority of incipient cases recover under proper management.

3. No. Children acquire it by contact with infected parents or others in the home, also from milk from tubercular herds.

4. One would be almost certain to acquire tuberculosis in this way. That is, if the partner has open tuberculosis—active disease of the lungs.

ANSWER TO F. L. B.

The physician you mention is a reliable man. On the contrary, the one who offers free examination is a wolf in sheep's clothing. Choose the man who thinks his services are worth a fee, and you will have chosen wisely.

ANSWER TO P. C. S.

I can't see how you could learn from a "doctor book" that your stomach is out of place. Nothing short of a medical examination or an X-ray picture will tell you that.

Dr. Brady will answer all questions pertaining to Health. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Dr. Brady will not prescribe for individual cases or make diagnoses. Address all letters to Dr. William Brady, care of The Herald.

Just Between You and Me

By BRUCE

KING MIDAS of the fabled days of old had nearly all the gold in the world. J. Rockefeller was not in the market at that time. King Midas, so the fable rambles, offered tons of gold for the love of a maiden, and the dame looked upon Middy with cold and disdainful eyes. This was before the days of the high cost of living.

Frank Farrell, owner of the New York American league club, is reputed to have considerable of the coin of the realm. He has offered considerable of his considerable portion for a baseball player. As in the distant case of King Midas, the guy with money to spend can't spend it for what he would have.

Charles Mullen has been secured by Farrell from the Lincoln club of the Western league. It is hoped in the desperate quest for players that this player, a discard from the big show, will fill the infield gap of the Yankees.

While the ranks of the professions are crowded and men of real ability have been known to ask for things to eat because they were hungry and penniless, the man who knows how to play baseball can find work.

Sometimes the college baseball player has it on the graduating M. D.

A Point for Publicity.

DEAR sisters of the strenuous grind for votes for women, hark but a moment. It is said that the real boss of the Cornell rowing camp is Mrs. Courtney and not old man Courtney.

Neatly inscribe this fact on the suffrage literature and send it broadcast throughout the doubting land.

It Is Hard to Forget.

FROM Paris, city of beauty, of boulevards and incredible credulance, come news items to the general effect that of all the fighters in the land the one most feared by Jack Johnson is Gunboat Smith.

In the warm and sultry days of the approach of the Reno quarrel Gunboat Smith appeared from out the alkali dust and asked for work among the perspiration squad of the Johnson camp. Being in need of huskies to keep at high tide the muscular grind, the sailor of Uncle Sam's flotilla was taken on.

While Johnson and the sailor were boxing one day, someone spoke to Johnson and he turned his head just for the moment. When he woke up he asked in savage tones where Gunboat Smith was. It was reported that he was eight miles away and still running strong.

Allowing for general improvement in the gunner and general disintegration upon the part of Johnson, there may be some basis for the reputed anxiety of the dinge in the matter of having Gunboat Smith as his next opponent.

On the other hand, should the gunner get into the ring with Johnson, there might also be some anxiety upon his part. The white man might mentally drift back to the Reno afternoon and the punch and the subsequent run for life and liberty, and then shudder as the consequences of the long nursed wrath of the black.

Verily, this fighting game is not a bed of roses.

Michigan's Great Team.

STUDENTS, those who don't study, but attend college to please their parents, and some people who don't attend college, are of the opinion that the Michigan baseball team has a very excellent claim to the intercollegiate championship of the United States.

The Wolverines have won twenty-three and lost six games. Michigan shut out Cornell twice, defeated Pennsylvania in two out of three games and defeated Notre Dame, as well as a host of other colleges.

Taken in connection with the remarkable football record of last year's Michigan team, the students of the Ann Arbor brain culture institution have lots of reinforced basis for rising and waving little silk pennants and giving three rousing rahs.

Wolgast broke his arm and nearly broke Tom Jones' heart. McCue got the place that Wolgast was to fill in the card. Mr. Jones' heart is in better condition. This is a funny world, and it is an ill wind that blows no one good.

BASEBALL MESS IS BECOMING THICKER

Federals Will Try Anti-Trust Law—Organized Ball Charges Conspiracy Because of Action Toward Contract Players.

Chicago, July 2.—The Federal league will invoke the Sherman anti-trust law in its fight for the services of Marsans and Chase, according to a statement made by President Gilmore today. Charges that organized baseball is a combination operating in restraint of trade will be made by attorneys of the independent league when the next stage in the Marsans case, now in the Federal courts, is reached.

President Gilmore declared that his league was not discouraged by the adverse ruling in the Federal court of appeals in the Killifer case at Cincinnati yesterday. Neither the ten-day clause nor the reserve rule, on which the main Federal fight had been based, was directly involved in the Killifer case, he said, and with added evidence he declared himself confident that higher courts would sustain the claims of the new league.

Cincinnati, July 2.—August Herrmann, chairman of the national baseball commission, when informed here of Federal League President Gilmore's statement that the Sherman anti-trust law might be used against organized baseball, said:

"The Federal league leaders probably have forgotten that we invited investigation along that line and did so long before the present condition was thought of. We would welcome such an investigation at any time. On the other hand we are even now contemplating action against the Federal league along the line of conspiracy because of their actions toward our players who are under contract. It is possible that such a course will be taken shortly.

"We are not restraining Marsans and Chase from playing, but are trying to get these men to play. It is the Federal league which is keeping them from playing if any one is."

Buffalo, N. Y., July 2.—A motion will be made in the supreme court here on Monday for an order vacating the injunction granted on June 20 restraining Hal Chase, the former Chicago American league first baseman, from playing with the Buffalo Federal league club.

Notice of the motion and Chase's affidavit in answer to the complaint were filed in the county clerk's office yesterday.

Boardman Gets Bad Beating, and Blancke and Sharin as Well.

Winnipeg, Man., July 2.—Fred Curtis and some of the rest of his recently converted Canadians, celebrated Dominion day in regal and befitting manner yesterday by defeating the Duluth pennant contenders in two one-sided games of baseball.

The Peggers copped the opening encounter by the score of 12 to 0 and the second affray by the count of 8 to 1. Boardman, the highly touted pitching star of the visitors, was given an unmerciful beating in the first game. The Maroon hitters hit his offerings to almost every corner of the park. Blancke and Sharin met with the same fate in the second game. Hargrove was called upon to finish the game.

One of the largest crowds that ever witnessed a ball game in this city was on hand. It is estimated that over 10,000 fans were in attendance at the two games. The park was jammed and ground rules were necessary because of the overflow.

WINONA AND TWINS SPLIT DOUBLE BILL.

Fort William, Ont., July 2.—Winona and the Fort William Twins divided the double Dominion day offering of yesterday. Winona was beaten in the first game by the score of 8 to 4 and won the second contest by the count of 6 to 0. Meyers was at his best in the concluding contest and held the Twins to five widely disseminated hits. Weidel was wild and ineffective. Block of the Winona team won the 100-yard dash from Dreis of Fort William in the attendant festivities. Score:

First game—

	R.	H.	E.
Winona	0 0 0 2 1 0 0 1 0	4	7	4

POOR OLD RED SOX ARE BEATEN AGAIN.

Virginia, Minn., July 2.—Chicken was easy for the hitters of Kid Taylor's aggregation in the game of yesterday and Virgina won from Superior by the score of 8 to 1. Matts was effective for the Ore Diggers. Rain stopped the game at the end of the sixth round. Features of the game were the fielding of Kernan and Brokaw. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Virginia	2 0 0 0 2 4	8	11	1
Superior	0 0 1 0 0 0	1	5	0

Batteries—Matts and Agnew; Chicken and McGovern.

FARGO MAKES IT FOUR STRAIGHT FROM FLICKERS.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 2.—The Unglaub aggregation of Fargo and across the river Moorhead won yesterday's game by the count of 9 to 5, thus making a clean sweep of the series and putting a severe crimp in the pennant aspirations of the Flickertails. Donley was easy for the visitors and Greisel proved effective after the removal of Klontz, Eddie Wheeler was benched for strenuous riding of Umps Olson. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Fargo-Moorh'd	4 0 3 0 2 0 0 0 0	9	11	2
Grand Forks	0 2 0 2 0 0 0 1 0	5	12	2

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Cubs 7; Reds 0.

Chicago, July 2.—Larry Cheney held Cincinnati to one hit yesterday while his teammates batted Benton opportunely for two runs and bombarded Koestner for a total of five runs in one inning, shutting out the visitors 7 to 0. Berghammer made the lone hit in the seventh inning. Cheney had the bases filled with only one out, but the fielding of Saier and Corriden retired the side.

Third Baseman Niehoff of the Cincinnati club who was reported about to join the Federal league, played his regular position yesterday.

Score:

Cincinnati	0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0	0	1	2
Chicago	1 1 0 0 0 0 5 x	7	11	2

Batteries — Benton, Koestner and Clark; Cheney and Bresnahan. Umpires—Eason and Quigley.

Cardinals 5; Pirates 1.

St. Louis, Mo., July 2.—Casey Hagerman pitched his first full game for St. Louis this season yesterday and won from Pittsburg, 5 to 1. Until the ninth inning not a man got beyond second base. In the seventh inning, with St. Louis at bat, the reserve players on the Pittsburg bench hooted Umpire Klem. Klem warned them and when they continued their demonstration, he fined each of them—nine in all—$10 each. This angered Manager Clarke and he jumped from the bench, abusing Klem in violent language. Klem then ordered Clarke and his utility players from the field.

Score:

Pittsburg	0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1	1	5	2
St. Louis	0 1 1 1 1 0 0 1 x	5	7	1

Batteries — Conzelman, McQuillen, Manaux and Coleman; Hyatt; Hagerman and Wingo. Umpires—Klem and Emslie.

Phillies Win Two.

Boston, Mass., July 2.—By bunching hits and taking advantage of errors, Philadelphia won two games from Boston yesterday, the first 7 to 2 and the second 5 to 0. Davis, one of the local recruit pitchers, faced the visitors in the first game and was batted hard. Mayer did not allow Boston a hit until the sixth. In the second contest Alexander shut out the home team with five scattered hits. Gowdy was put out of the second game for disputing a decision by Umpire Rigler. Scores:

First game—

Philadelphia	4 0 0 0 0 0 1 2 0	7	10	2
Boston	0 0 0 0 0 0 1 1 0	2	6	3

Batteries—Mayer and Doolin; Davis and Gowdy. Umpires—Hart and Rigler.

Second game—

Washington	1 0 0 3 0 1 0 3 x	7	11	0

Batteries—McHale, Cole and Sweeney; Shaw and Henry. Umpires—Chill and Sheridan.

FEDERAL LEAGUE

St. Louis 7; Kansas City 4.

Kansas City, Mo., July 2.—Kansas City was defeated by St. Louis yesterday, 7 to 4. Crandall was master of the situation at all times. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
St. Louis	2 0 1 1 0 0 0 0 3	7	13	2
Kansas City	1 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 2	4	11	2

Batteries — Crandall and Chapman; Adams, Cullop and Easterly.

Brooklyn 7; Buffalo 5.

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 2.—Brooklyn defeated Buffalo 7 to 5 yesterday in the first game of the series. Marion held Buffalo to one hit up to the seventh, but was hit freely in that inning and the eighth, when he was taken out. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Buffalo	0 0 0 0 0 0 1 4 0	5	10	1
Brooklyn	1 0 1 0 1 3 0 1 x	7	11	2

Batteries—Anderson, Brown and Lavigne; Marion, Lafittee and Land.

AMERICAN ASSN.

Champs Take Two.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 2.—The champions went back into first place yesterday by defeating Minneapolis in both games of a double header by scores of 8 to 1 and 2 to 0. Dougherty pitched fine ball in the opening game, allowing but five hits, while both Patterson and Hogue were hit hard. Bill Case, a Chicago semi-professional pitched for Minneapolis in the second game, which was a pitchers' battle. Case allowed only three hits, but Young was more effective with men on bases. The fielding of Clark and Barbeau featured. Scores:

First game—

	R.	H.	E.
Milwaukee	0 3 0 0 1 1 0 3 x	8	16	0
Minneapolis	0 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 0	1	5	5

Batteries—Young and Hughes; Case and Rondeau. Umpires—Connolly and Owens.

Divide the Spoils.

Kansas City, Mo., July 2.—St. Paul won the first game of a double-header yesterday, 3 to 2, and the locals took the second, 6 to 2. The first game was a pitchers' battle between Walker and Gallia. Richie had things his own way in the second game. Roth, Kansas City's left fielder, knocked two home runs on his first two trips to the plate. Scores:

First game—

	R.	H.	E.
St. Paul	0 1 2 0 0 0 0 0 0	3	11	0

Batteries—Karger and James; Richie and Geibel. Umpires—Johnstone and Erwin.

Senators 6; Colonels 5.

Louisville, Ky., July 2. — Louisville lost to Columbus yesterday, 6 to 5, after the locals made a determined rally in the eighth, but fell one run short, Northrup hitting into a double play with three men on bases.

Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Columbus	0 2 0 0 0 4 0 0 0	6	9	2
Louisville	0 0 0 0 0 1 4 0	5	7	1

Batteries — Scheneberg, Taylor, Davis and Smith; Ellis, Leverett, Northup and Severeid. Umpires — O'Brien and Westervelt.

JIM'S DAD IS COMING

Veteran Syracuse Coach Will Look Over His Son's Proteges.

Will Help Jimmy, Jr., Put on the Finishing Touches.

James A. Ten Eyck, father of coach James, accompanied by Mrs. Ten Eyck, is expected to reach here tomorrow. The veteran coach of the Syracuse crews is coming to see son Jimmy, to watch the work of the Duluth crews between now and the time they leave for the national, and to lend an occasional word of advice in the final shaping of the men.

Walter Glass, stroke of the Syracuse eight, and Art Osman, stroke of the junior varsity eight, are expected to arrive here on Saturday or Monday. The elder Ten Eyck left Cleveland last evening and Glass and Osman left Buffalo on a freighter last evening.

"You couldn't keep father away from here," said Coach Jim Ten Eyck Junior, yesterday. "He is kind of crazy about the Duluth crews since his visit of last season and he will make the trip to Kenora with us."

From now on the members of the crack senior four will do more rowing as a four. So far this season the Moores, Rheinberger and Horak have been unable to give a great deal of time to rowing as a four. The work in the eight has taken up a great deal of the boys' time. From now until they go to Kenora the members of the four will get down early and will take some long workouts in the four.

Winnipeg at Henley.

Jim Ten Eyck for one does not believe that the Con Riley eight at the Henley is so strong as the eight of last year and the year previous.

Riley, Aldous, Henderson, Sprague, Eadie, Wickson, Carruthers and Culver make up the present crew that is to row for the grand challenge cup. Paddy Allen, Patton, Baker, Webb and MacLennan of the 1912 eight are not in the boat, and Ten Eyck is inclined to the belief that the present eight is not quite the grand aggregation that Con genially presided over two seasons agone.

Jimmy is inclined to believe that the Harvards, which eight is the Harvard second eight, should make a great try for the grand challenge cup.

With the arrival of Glass and Osman there will be some shifting in the crews. Osman is to go into the senior eight and Glass may try the doubles with Roy Kent.

From this point on the finish will be put on the crews for the Northwestern at Kenora.

Balloon Lands Safely.

New York, July 2.—The balloon America III., which, with officers of the Aeroclub of America as passengers, made a trial flight from Philadelphia, landed in Northern New Jersey early last night. Leaving Philadelphia in a rainstorm at 2:40 p. m. after christening the balloon, the party came down safely at 6:10 on the edge of Lackawanna lake, near Lake Hopatchong.

Stiff Terms, But They Qualify.

Sioux City, Iowa, July 2.—Ten drivers qualified in the elimination events at the Sioux City automobile speedway for the 300-mile sweepstakes Saturday. An average speed of seventy miles an hour, or one lap in 1:42 flat was required of each driver.

AMERICAN CREWS WIN

Winnipeg, Union and Harvard Eights Victorious in First Heats.

One American and One Canadian Left in Sculling Contest.

Henley on Thames, England, July 2.—The Winnipeg Rowing club eight of Canada today defeated the Thames Rowing club in the first heat for the grand challenge cup at the Royal regatta. Winnipeg won by 1½ lengths in 7 minutes and 55 seconds.

The Union Boat club of Boston eight won by four lengths from the London Rowing club in its heat in the grand challenge cup. The time was 7 minutes and 48 seconds.

Harvard university second eight beat the Leander Boat club in its heat.

James B. Ayer of the Union Boat club of Boston was beaten by Giuseppe Sinigaglia of the Lario club, Como, Italy, in his heat of the diamond sculls. The Italian won by three lengths in 9 minutes 30 seconds.

Only one of the three American entrants for the diamond sculls survived the first round of the Royal regatta yesterday. James B. Ayer of the Union Boat club, Boston, easily disposed of R. Gould of New Zealand and Jesus college, Cambridge, but William Tudor Gardiner succumbed to G. C. Fripp and Paul Withington to J. Lawrence Tann in the latter case after a most exciting finish in which the American came within an ace of overtaking the Englishman at the finishing line.

Robert Dibble of Toronto, American amateur champion, also won his race, sculling beautifully throughout. Dibble also defeated J. Lawrence Tann of the Thames Rowing club in his heat in the second round of the diamond sculls today.

Southern Lightweight Arrives and Takes Workout in Preparation for Coming Encounter; Gibbons May Meet Jack Dillon at Hudson.

BY BRUCE.

The Independence evening fight card offering of the Twin Ports Boxing club is the choicest boxing morsel offered to the fans in these parts since the Hedman law became effective in the state to our immediate south.

Jack Doyle and Freddy Couture, in the semi-windup, present a bout that is as good as the majority of main bouts that have been offered in the shows in these parts.

Doyle is a featherweight who has fought the cream of the down-East talent, including the great Patsy Klein, and has also gone out of his division and boxed and defeated such boys as Pal Moore and New York

THE GOOD JUDGE HELPS THE FAT FAN OUT

HE used to switch tobacco every few weeks. Then a friend gave him a small chew of "Right-Cut." Steady user now. Says it's the Real Tobacco Chew.

Quite the regular thing with "Right-Cut" users. A man is glad he found it—and just naturally passes the good word along.

Pure, sappy, full-bodied tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the old size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short shred so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary candied tobacco makes you spit too much.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up with molasses and licorice. Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste in "Right-Cut."

If your dealer does not sell it, send us 10c. in stamps for a pouch of "Right-Cut" Chewing Tobacco.

Knock... Brown. The record of Doyle is a long and meritorious one as ring records are considered.

Fans in these parts have seen Doyle in action but once. That was the evening he stopped little Burke of St. Paul. Burke was substituted at the last moment. After this start in this section of the country Doyle went to the Twin Cities and administered two artistic and thorough lickings to Johnny Sokol and Billy Defoe—and Defoe is considered the toughest nut in the region of the two fair cities to the south of us.

Doyle will have to show all his wares against Couture. The Milwaukee boy is there. Peanuts Schribel had made a sensation in the Milwaukee rings and along came Couture and gave the Schribel one a lacing.

"I'll Win," Says Whitney.

Frankie Whitney reached Superior yesterday and immediately got down to business.

During the afternoon the southern lightweight took on four of the local boys. In his workouts Whitney gave all the indications of being a fighter. He is a quiet chap, and has little to say. With his citizenship garb on he looks little like the fighter, and in this respect is something like Brown.

"Brown is the card in these parts," quoth Whitney. "A win for me will give me the chance to do some fighting around the Head of the Lakes. I am sure that I am going to take the measure of Brown. I am not underrating him at that. He is good and tough, but I think I have his number."

Whitney is the possessor of a voluminous ring record. The bitter want of money for the needs of a young wife suffering from tuberculosis drove the carpenter lad into the roped arena. As an amateur boxer, while wielding the hammer, Whitney showed ability, and as a professional he has met and beaten some of the best in the ring.

If Whitney beats Brown he will possibly meet Jose Rivers or Charley White across the ferry road. If Brown wins he will have re-established himself again in the esteem of the fans. The incentive for both of the contestants is one that should send both into the ring to make a rousing battle.

Dillon and Gibbons.

Promoter Mike Collins of the Hudson club is in the East. With the return of the main noise in the down river club it is expected that immediate negotiations will be taken up with a view of matching Mike Gibbons and Jack Dillon of Indianapolis.

This would make a bear of an encounter. It would rouse the followers of boxing all over the state and would pull a big gate for the genial Mike.

Some good card is needed down Hudson way. Johnny Tillman failed to draw or arouse enthusiasm. The Fagen-Gibbons proposal was received with listless interest. Mike Gibbons is the class of the world—one of the real and genuine ring stars of this land of ours. A match between Mike and the husky Dillon, a boxer capable of beating most of the heavyweights in the world, should be a thriller and would be the means of bringing out the great fighting abilities of both men. Such a fight would be worth traveling miles to see.

MAKING GOOD HIS THREAT TO BOLT

Negotiations on for Transfer of Baltimore Franchise to Richmond.

Richmond, Va., July 2.—A deal was closed here last night, contingent upon the sanction of the International and Virginia leagues whereby the Baltimore team in the International league will be transferred to Richmond, and the Richmond franchise in the Virginia league to Lynchburg, now without professional baseball.

A meeting of the Virginia State league will be held today, and if the offer is accepted, the Baltimore team is expected to play its first game here Saturday. Jack Dunn, owner and manager of the Baltimore team, left last night for New York to attend a meeting today of the International league, which he expects will approve the transfer.

Jeanette Gets Decision.

New York, July 2.—Joe Jeannette of Hoboken, N. Y., outpointed Battling Jim Johnson, colored heavyweight of Philadelphia in a ten-round bout here last night. Jeannette weighed 197½, Johnson, 230.

Vancouver, B. C., July 2.—Johnnie O'Leary won a decision from "French" Valse, lightweight, in a fifteen-round fight here last night.

Up to Title Play.

Wimbledon, Eng., July 2.—Norman E. Brookes of Australia beat Otto Froitzheim, the German champion in the final of the all-comers men's singles lawn tennis championship here yesterday. The score was 6-2; 6-1; 5-7; 4-6; 8-6. Brookes will now have to play A. F. Wilding, holder of the title.

TOURNEY IS IN PROGRESS

Draw Made for Tennis Play on the Longview Courts.

Duluth to Be Largely Represented at State Tourney.

The round robin tennis tournament of the Longview club is in the first stages of its infancy. The wretched weather conditions of the last month have prevented any real progress in the Longview or Boat club tournaments.

All of the players have been divided into groups of five each. Each player in each group will play every other player of the same group. The player winning the greatest number of games in his group will be drawn in the second draw. This method will elminate all but twelve players. The twelve remaining will be divided into two groups of six players each and will play down in the same way. The winners of the two groups will play off in the finals.

With good weather during the coming month it is expected that tennis play will show great progress.

The State Tournament.

There will be a large number of players from Duluth in the state tournament, if those who have handed in their names keep their promise.

Walter Fraker, L. A. Kennedy, W. E. Kennedy, C. K. Dickerman, J. F. Thompson, A. M. Washburn, H. J. La Bree, J. B. Becker, R. A. Bissonette, J. E. Gardner, Frank Falk and C. Lesure have promised to represent Duluth in the play for the state title.

There will be play on the Longview and Oatka courts all day the Fourth.

Following is the group draw of the Longview tournament:

Group A—W. D. Balley, captain; W. N. Ryerson, A. L. Agatin, H. C. Matzke, H. S. Newell.

Group B—W. H. Kilchil, captain; W. P. Abbott, T. A. Gall, D. C. Duncan, Dr. F. J. Patton.

Group C—W. S. Telford, captain; W. P. Harrison, H. W. Zinsmaster, C. D. Steele, Stewart Collins.

Group D—H. J. La Bree, captain; L. L. Culbertson, J. B. Becher, W. Pressentin, J. E. Gardner.

Group E—R. A. Bissonnette, captain; W. H. Sanford, T. Hanson, Ed Ingalls, Frank Falk.

Group F—Dr. E. L. Cheney, captain; A. R. Burquist, James Owens, R. N. Chaffee, R. E. Johnson.

Group G—Walter Fraker, captain; W. E. Wright, M. G. Wisted, Ralph Pinneo, J. A. Sinclair.

Group H—L. A. Kennedy, captain; C. E. De Witt, Ben Finch, Dr. H. W. Clark, J. F. Thompson.

Group I—W. E. Kennedy, captain, A. G. Darling, C. K. Dickerman, W. F. Starkey, Roger Smith.

Group J—A. M. Washburn, captain; N. F. Davis, Dr. A. N. Collins, F. W. Paine, W. E. Lauterbach.

Group K—W. Amundson, captain; C. C. Colton, Dr. N. H. Gillespie, Rod McLeod.

Pitchers "Going Down."

Louisville, Ky., July 2.—"Gene" Woodburn, pitcher for the Louisville American Association club, is released to the Sioux City team, of the Western league.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 2.—Thomas "Buck" O'Brien, a pitcher, was released yesterday by the Indianapolis American Association club to the Memphis club of the Southern association. O'Brien came to Indianapolis from the Boston American League club.

BATTED BALL IS FATAL FOR SHORTSTOP.

Mineral Point, Wis., July 2.—Binks Alton of this city died here yesterday from the effects of being struck on the temple by a batted ball at Platteville Tuesday in a game between the business men of Mineral Point and Platteville at the annual inter-city picnic. The accident occurred in the fifth inning but the game went on. Alton was playing shortstop.

OUTLOOK FOR FALL BRIGHT

Jobbers' Current Sales Are Already Showing Good Expansion.

Cutting Out of Free Storage Will Help Duluth Houses.

Duluth wholesalers and manufacturers are growing more optimistic than ever regarding the general trade outlook for the coming fall.

Though complaints regarding an overplus of rain have been received from over the Northwest, no actual deterioration is thought to have resulted so far, except in a few districts. A dry period for a time now will set everything right and secure an aggregate yield of all grains that will equal if not surpass the bumper harvest of two years ago, in the opinion of experts.

The recently announced decision of the railroads to abolish the free storage privilege that has up to the present been accorded Twin City jobbers at the Head of the Lakes afforded great gratification to wholesalers here.

"This action on the part of the railroads removes an unfair privilege, and will aid us greatly in developing trade, especially in our immediate territory," said V. R. Waldo, sales manager of F. A. Patrick & Co., today.

Similar views are held by officials of other local establishments. It is expected that the removal of the discrimination under which the houses here have so long labored will lead to a substantial increase in the general volume of jobbing trade at this point.

Grocery Orders Expand.

The placing of orders in grocery lines by retailers over the Northwest is broadening, according to the Twohy-Ehlman Mercantile company of Superior. This is attributed mainly to the brighter ening business outlook and an apparent increase in consumptive requirements in many directions. Quotations in most commodities are ruling firm, with an advancing tendency noted in some directions. Sugars are steady on the higher basis reported a week ago. An expansion is noted in the demand, due to liberal requirements for preserving purposes.

Coffees are slightly easier, attributable to continued uncertainty as to the Brazilian loan, upon which the ability of that country to finance its valorization plan depends.

There is no special change in the situation in dried fruits other than that the advance lot of the new-season apricots is expected to make its appearance next week. Quotations will show a slight decline consequent upon the heavy crop. Everything else in the fruit list is firm, with dried prunes especially so. Canned vegetables are tending easier on account of the expected good supplies in all green stuffs this season. Provisions are generally easier following the declines in the live hog market. A drop in bacon has come about.

Dry Goods Dealers Hopeful.

Substantial improvement in the volume of dry goods business being booked was reported by F. A. Patrick & Co. As a result of the hopeful outlook over the Northwest, retailers have begun to request the forwarding of goods included in their fall orders. The bulk of the orders will, however, be filled next month after the harvest has been practically assured. The volume of new business being taken by the house is said to be showing a gain every day. Mail and sorting-up orders are in gratifying volume. Large shipments of mackinaws, auto robes and other woolen goods are now being made to Eastern points.

Getting Ready for Fall.

"We are getting ready for a heavy fall trade. Our expectations in that way are based on the reports we are receiving from the trade over our territory," said F. E. Church, sales manager of the Northern Shoe company today. Its factory is closed down this week for the annual inventory and repairs. Salesmen will start out next week on a sorting-up trip in goods for immediate delivery. The company's half year is said to be closing up satisfactorily.

Paper Trade Good.

An increase of over 25 per cent in its aggregate trade for June over last year was noted by the Peyton Paper company. Orders in building and roofing papers are said to be coming to hand in surprising volume, indicating growing activity in new construction throughout this district. Business in general stationery lines is also showing expansion.

Hardware Lists Steady.

Trade in hardware specialties and staples is described by the sales managers of the Kelley-Howe-Thomson company and the Marshall-Wells Hardware company as good in all lines. Country merchants are said to be ordering more freely. For that the belief that prices are now at their low levels is in a great measure responsible. A reduction of $1 a ton in quotations in nails and wire became effective at the beginning of the week. Other list figures are practically unchanged.

PHYSICAL VALUATION ORDER IS ISSUED

Railroads Must Report to Interstate Commerce Commission.

Washington, July 2.—A physical valuation order issued by the interstate commerce commission requires railroads to take inventory of all materials and supplies some time during April, May or June of each year, and adjust the inventory to June 30. For the year 1914 the inventory may be taken any time prior to Sept. 1, but should be adjusted as of June 30.

The commission also issued regulations to govern the recording and reporting of all extensions and improvements or other changes in physical property of common carriers.

JAPANESE ADMIRAL TRIES TO KILL SELF.

Tokio, July 2.—Baron Masuji vice admiral on the reserve and member of the house of peers, is in a serious condition from an attempt at suicide reto have been due to disclosures made by an investigation of the affairs of the naval steel foundry with which he was identified.

HAITI WILL SEND NEW MINISTER.

Washington, July 2.—Ulrich Duvivier, the minister from Haiti, informed Secretary Bryan yesterday that he has been recalled by his government, and that he will be succeeded by Solon Menos, whom he replaced at Washington in 1913. The retiring minister probably will be transferred to some post abroad. He expects to leave Washington within a few weeks.

JUNE WEATHER HAD VARIETY

Rare Old Month Had But Eight Fair Days; Heavy Rain.

Thunder Storms, Fogs and 72-Mile Gale Feature of Report.

There were but eight clear days during the entire month of June, while the total precipitation was the highest since 1906, and 1.75 inches above the normal rainfall for the month since 1871, according to the monthly meteorological report issued this morning by H. W. Richardson, local weather forecaster.

During the month of June there were fifteen partly cloudy days and seven days that were totally clouded, while dense fogs are reported to have existed on the 3rd, 4th, 7th, 18th and 22nd of June, according to the summary. There were heavy thunder storms on nine days, while the principal storm of the month occurred on the 27th, when an extreme northeaster reached a velocity of seventy-two miles an hour for one minute. It was on the afternoon of that day when the tow barge George E. Hartnell went ashore at First avenue east.

For June, the last month proved disappointing, as there were but two perfectly clear days through the month, when 100 per cent of sunshine was registered. There were six other clear days, the percentage of sunshine ranged from 84 to 98. There was no sunshine at all on three days.

At the conclusion of his summary for June M. Richardson makes the following remarks:

"The temperature was normal, but the precipitation was considerably in excess of the average and fairly distributed throughout the month. There were seventeen rainy days, three more than usual. The grasses did well, but farming operations were somewhat delayed by the wet weather. The principal storm of the month occurred on the 27th. This was a severe northeaster, with an extreme velocity at the rate of seventy-two miles per hour for one minute. During the afternoon of the 27th the tow barge George E. Hartnell, which had been left outside the harbor, in the gale, dragged her anchor and went ashore on the north end of Minnesota Point, near First avenue east. The boat was released at 8 o'clock in the evening on the 28th. No lives were lost, and the damage was comparatively small."

WATER POWER BILLS ARE MADE TO AGREE

Administration Conference Is Held at the White House.

Washington, July 2.—What threatened to be serious differences among conservationists over the form of legislation now pending in congress to regulate water power projects on navigable streams, practically were straightened out last night at a White House conference. The Adamson and Ferris dam bills, which contained conflicting provisions, were thoroughly threshed over and made to conform. As a result the administration leaders predicted that both bills will be passed quickly.

The conference was attended by President Wilson, Secretary of War Garrison, Secretary of Interior Lane and Representatives Adamson, Ferris, Lenroot and Stevens.

Under the agreement, it is said, the new legislation will permit the war department to retain jurisdiction over all obstructions in navigable waters, and the interior department to be free to control the construction of dams.

A clause probably will be included in the Adamson bill to provide that nothing contained therein shall interfere with the jurisdiction of the interior department over the public lands and waters, while the Ferris bill will be amended to provide that the question whether the construction of any of the artificial works and dams constitute an interference with the navigability of the streams shall be referred to the war department for decision.

EAT LESS AND LIVE LONGER, SAYS DOCTOR

Edward Hooker of Hartford Talks of "Problems of Maturity."

Atlantic City, N. J., July 2.—"Eat less food and live longer," was the axiom for those of mature years, announced by Dr. Edward Hooker of Hartford, Conn., president of the National Society of Physical Therapeutics, before a joint meeting of that body with the American Institute of Homeopathy here.

"Medical science has concerned itself greatly with problems of childhood," the speaker declared, "and has not given sufficient attention to the problems of maturity. After reaching maturity less food is needed than during the younger and more active years. Yet few people realize this, and continue to eat as heartily as when young."

Declaring that medical science must ascertain the causes of high blood pressure, "an energetic alley of Father Time," Dr. Hooker continued.

"The treatment of high blood pressure is not at present satisfactory. The main resources at our command are to decrease the total amount of food consumed, if it be excessive, and especially to take away all meats. Coffee and alcohol are forbidden."

REFORM ELEMENT IN RABBIS STRONGER

Conservatives Are Voted Down on Handbook Report.

Detroit, Mich., July 2.—The so-called "radical reform" element in the central conference of American rabbis overwhelmed the alleged conservative faction yesterday, when the conference meeting here voted down a committee report submitted by Rabbi William Rosenau of Baltimore, with reference to a new minister's handbook. Rabbi Kaufman Kopler, president of the Hebrew Union college of Cincinnati, and Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York were among those who led the opposition to the report.

A year ago a committee was formed under the chairmanship of Rabbi Rosenau to prepare a revised handbook which would contain new uniform prayers, hymns and ceremonies for the church, as well as retain some of the basic forms of worship which the orthodox Jews have followed. When the report had been read, Rabbi Wise and others denounced it as conforming too closely to the conservative opinions of the old church, and claimed it was a step backward instead of forward. The report was voted down almost unanimously and the subject turned over to an editorial board of five members. This board will confer with the executive committee of the conference and another report made in 1915.

SUES FOR $20,000; GETS BUT $400

Jury Awards G. Kapsotes Small Damages in Injury Action.

A verdict for $400 was returned by a jury in Judge Ensign's division of the district court yesterday afternoon in favor of Gust Kapsotes and against the Great Northern Railway company. Kapsotes sued the company for $20,000 damages.

The plaintiff and other laborers were removing rails from the tracks in the Kelly Lake yard Oct. 25, 1913, when one fell on Kapsotes' right leg and fractured the bones of his ankle. The company was charged with responsibility for the accident.

Victor L. Power, mayor of Hibbing, appeared in court as attorney for the plaintiff and Donald S. Holmes of Baldwin, Baldwin & Holmes represented the railway company.

SAMARITANS IN ANNUAL PICNIC

Duluth Council Makes Plans for Next Wednesday at Lester Park.

At a meeting of a general committee of Duluth Council, No. 3, Modern Samaritans held last night at the office of Dr. O. S. Olson, 2032 West Superior street, plans were completed for holding the annual picnic of the lodge at Lester park on Wednesday of next week. Subcommittees were also appointed to handle the various details.

The members of the general committee are as follows: Mrs. Spornitz, Mrs. Parsons, Mrs. McWatty, Mrs. J. A. McLaughlin, J. A. McLaughlin, Richard Jones, Lloyd Haybrey, W. F. Culligan and Dr. O. S. Olson.

A sports program, which will occupy the attention of the members all of the afternoon, was outlined. Prizes for each event are to be solicited from merchants of the city. A feature of the sports will be a baseball game between the married and single men of the order. Tug-of-war, races, novelty contests and other features will also be included.

The women of the lodge are expected to furnish lunch baskets. The luncheon hour will be planned for about 5 o'clock. All members of the lodge will lunch en famille.

The following subcommittees were named:

Sports—A. G. McKnight, chairman; Richard Jones, Mrs. Purdy, Mrs. McWatty and Mrs. Spornitz.

Music—Richard Jones and J. A. McLaughlin.

Tickets and door for the dancing—W. F. Culligan, Paul Dyhrman and L. U. Young.

Refreshments — Mrs. Wilson, Lloyd Maybrey, S. E. Keillor and Richard Jones.

Soliciting committee for prizes—Mrs. Spornitz, Mrs. Parsons, Mrs. McWatty, Miss Irine Abbott, Mrs. Merritt, W. F. Culligan and J. A. McLaughlin.

WILL RECEIVE $166 AND $8 A WEEK

Joe Troha's Settlement Is Approved; Logger Sues Lumber Company.

For a fracture of his left forearm, which he sustained while engaged in loading logs for the Virginia & Rainy Lake company at Cusson, Feb. 17, Joe Troha will receive $166.62 and further compensations payable at the rate of $8 a week during the period of his disability. The terms of settlement, made in accordance with the workmen's compensation schedule, were approved by Judge Cant of the district court yesterday. The company's first offer of settlement was refused by Troha and the claim came on for a hearing before Judge Cant a few days ago.

Walter Korposki started proceedings in district court yesterday afternoon to compel his employers, Koster Bros., and the Parker-Kellogg Lumber company to settle with him under the terms of the workmen's compensation act for injuries which he received while working in a lumber camp on Feb. 11 last. The claim is being contested and Korposki has asked the court to set a date at which his rights may be determined by the court. Koster Bros. are engaged in the timber business at Kelly River and the Parker-Kellogg Lumber company is a Minneapolis firm.

SAYS HE HAS FOUND THE PYORRHEA GERM.

Philadelphia, July 2.—The germ which causes pyorrhea and a cure for the disease have been discovered by Dr. Michael Barrett of this city, according to an announcement made here at the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania State Dental society. Dr. Barrett, who described his discovery in a paper read before the association, said the germ is an animal organism similar to that which causes dysentery. Emetine, a component part of ipecac, which Dr. Edward Vedders by experiments in the Pasig river laboratory in the Philippine islands discovered to be a cure for the latter disease, was used successfully by Dr. Barrett in the treatment of forty-six cases of pyorrhea in the Philadelphia hospital.

In his experiments leading to the discovery of the germ, Dr. Barrett was assisted by Dr. Allen J. Smith, discoverer of the hook worm, who is now professor of tropical diseases at the University of Pennsylvania.

WOULD FIX LIMIT TO CORPORATE CAPITAL

Senator Cummins Will Seek to Amend Trade Bill.

Washington, July 2.—An arbitrary legal limit on the amount of capital to be allowed in a single corporation engaged in any particular line of business was advocated in the senate by Senator Cummins in a speech supporting the administration trade commission bill. The senator announced he would propose an amendment empowering the commission to fix the limit and establish the rule that "no corporation should command an amount of capital which of itself tended to establish a monopoly."

Senator Cummins said his efforts were not aimed against "big business as such."

Asserting that the United States Steel corporation, though it controlled about one-half of the country's steel industry through its capitalization of $1,500,000,000, had power to eliminate competition, the senator said he would limit the capitalization of any single company in the steel business to $300,000,000.

Senator Cummins also announced he would propose amendments giving the proposed trade commission authority to eliminate interlocking directorates and holding companies. Both of these problems are dealt with in the Clayton bill, another measure on the administration program which has passed the house.

Senator Newlands sought an agreement to begin voting on the trade commission bill at 5 o'clock this afternoon. Senator Cummins objected, saying the discussion had scarcely begun.

STRIKES ON A SAND BAR

Assiniboia, With 118 Passengers, Stranded on Cove Island.

Manitoba Rushes Sixty Miles to Her Relief—In No Danger.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Canadian Pacific railroad passenger steamer Assiniboia, bound east from Fort Arthur to Fort McNicoll, struck a sandbar at Cove island, Georgian bay, at 1:20 o'clock this morning in the heavy mist which has been hanging over the Northern lakes since late yesterday afternoon. Wireless calls were sent out and picked up by her sister ship, the Manitoba, which was bound west, sixty miles away.

She rushed to her assistance and has been working on her since 7 o'clock this morning to release here. The Assiniboia is in no danger. She has a passenger list of 118, all of whom remain on board. The lake is quiet and there is no apprehension felt unless heavy winds should spring up.

The steamer Denmark, in heading for the Canadian locks this morning, struck shoal water near the ferry dock on the Canadian side. Tugs Sabin and Schenck released her.

ORE SHIPPING INCREASING

June's Good Increase Over May—Only Thirty Per Cent Behind 1913.

Much has been said of how the shipments of ore have fallen off, but facts and figures strike a cheering note, for conditions are not so bad as they have been painted. June showed a decided brace over May, and brought the percentage up amazingly; and it is expected that the current month will do better for the iron and steel trade is increasing in volume, and the demand for ore is enjoying an increase.

The ore shipments from all Head-of-the-Lakes docks amounted to a fraction more than 70 per cent of the shipments of the corresponding month a year ago, so that is not doing so badly in the face of what has been called a "wrecked" market. The shipments for the season up to yesterday, the end of June, were 64 per cent of the total shipments up to the corresponding date a year ago. The comparative figures by docks, follow:

A NOVEL COUGH REMEDY.

The Family Doctor: The following is from a doctor connected with an institution where there are many children:

"There is nothing more irritable to a cough than a cough. For some time I had been so fully assured of this that I determined for one minute at least to lessen the number of coughs heard in a certain ward in a hospital of the institution. By the promise of rewards and punishments, I succeeded in inducing them to simply hold their breath when tempted to cough, and in a little while I was myself surprised to see how some of the children entirely recovered from the disease.

"Constant coughing," continues the doctor, "is precisely like scratching a wound on the outside of the body. So long as it is done the wound will not heal. Let a person, when tempted to cough, draw a long breath and hold it until it warms and soothes every air cell, and some benefit will soon be received from this process. The nitrogen which is thus refined acts an as anodyne to the mucous membrane, allaying the desire to cough and giving the throat and lungs a chance to heal. At the same time a suitable medicine will aid Nature in her effort to recuperate."

Railroads

MUST RESTORE SERVICE.

Rail Commission Orders Resumption of Willmar-St. Cloud Service.

St. Paul, Minn., June 2.—The railroad and warehouse commission yesterday ordered the Great Northern railway to restore its former train service between Willmar and St. Cloud, providing for a train leaving Willmar daily at 2:35 p. m. and arriving at St. Cloud at 4:50 p. m. A year ago the road canceled this train and put on one leaving Willmar at 6 a. m. Senator J. J. Ahmann of Richmond and other persons living between the two towns protested and the ruling was the result of evidence presented by them showing that the early morning train did not serve patrons as well as the afternoon one.

BAGGAGE AGENT FOR N. P. ROAD.

St. Paul, Minn., July 2.—Dan C. Pettibone, general agent of mail service of the Northern Pacific, has been appointed general baggage agent of the road, effective at once. Mr. Pettibone will continue to have charge of the mail service.

Mr. Pettibone came to the Northern Pacific Jan. 1 from the postoffice department at Washington. He succeeds William H. Lowe, who died March 12 after having served as general baggage agent for forty-two years.

COUDERAY GRAVEL PIT FURNISHES WORK.

Couderay, Wis., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Omaha Railroad company has closed the gravel pit here after having operated it for the last two months. The steam shovel will now be moved to Ashland Junction for bridge filling. The company loaded up and hauled out 5,000 cars of gravel while here for ballasting the tracks near Superior. The company furnished employment for about 100 men here while the pit was in operation.

DUMB SUSPECT HAS RECOVERED SPEECH

Arrested in Connection With Brainerd Robbery, Kicks on "Mugging."

Brainerd, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the suspects arrested in connection with the beating and robbing of City Clerk Roderick was not so deaf and dumb as supposed when he was taken into a photographer's to be "mugged." He recovered his speech quickly and protested against the proceeding. From effects examined, he appears to have the name of Joseph Charles Wainwright Adams, alias J. T. J. Martin, 10 Lorne street east, Vancouver, B. C. He had been under surveillance for some time. He said he was an American citizen and objected to having his picture taken. It is believed Minneapolis and other towns are interested in the disposition of this man. Another suspect, arrested at the depot and carrying a loaded revolver and brass knuckles, is being held and Chief Troyer of Duluth is investigating. At Minneapolis one suspect has been arrested and Deputy Sheriff Claus Theorin will be sent there to see the man.

FARGO TO ANNEX MORE TERRITORY.

Fargo, N. D., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fargo will take in more territory. The commissioners have instructed the city attorney to take the necessary preliminary action to annex Fargo township and North Fargo. Three years ago one side of Fargo township seceded from the rest and established itself as North Fargo. Many residents built homes there because they escaped city taxes and through an arrangement with the city got water cheaply.

They will naturally protest against being included in Fargo's city limits but residents of Fargo appear to think if they are to furnish modern conveniences to outsiders the beneficiaries should assist in footing the bills.

Gopher Income Tax.

St. Paul, Minn., July 2.—The total amount of income tax collected in Minnesota by the United States collector of internal revenue during the past month was $1,647,370.82. The total collections during June in the office of the internal revenue collector were $1,938,614.94.

Lignite Near Fargo?

Pillsbury, N. D., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—A lignite mine may be established here, within less than fifty miles of Fargo. Well diggers on the John Smith farm found a vein of lignite forty feet below the surface. Samples of the coal were tried in a stove and burned well and showed the lignite was of good quality. The size of the vein has not been investigated thoroughly but an effort will be made to discover whether there is coal in commercial quantities. Should there be it would be extremely valuable this close to Fargo.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

GOING AFTER BANK YEGGS

North Dakota Bankers' Association to War on Bank Burglars.

A Protective Association Along Lines of Wisconsin Plan Proposed.

Williston, N. D., July 2.—(Special to The Hersld.)—One of the notable achievements of the meeting of the North Dakota State Bankers' association now being held here promises to be the organization of a Mutual Burglars Protective association along the lines of a similar organization in Wisconsin.

H. P. Beckwith of Fargo reported on the burglary insurance questions, and it is likely that the mutual concern will be launched. A reduction of 20 per cent in rates by the old line casualty company already has resulted from the committee's efforts.

Beckwith, in his report, charged that the northern states are paying rates out of proportion with the risks and that they are really carrying the burden of the southern states, where the burglary losses are greatly higher.

Over 200 members are attending the annual convention which is one of the most successful ever held in the state.

Lauds Regional Bank.

J. E. Phelin of Bowman, speaking for the legislative committee, dealt particularly with the regional reserve bank, expressing the opinion that the Minneapolis bank would be one of the strongest and one of the best managed institutions in the country.

The report of Secretary W. C. McFadden of Fargo showed the largest membership in the history of the state organization. The membership at present is 710, while a year ago there were but 688 enrolled. The report showed 146 national banks, 618 state banks and four trust companies in the state. The membership by institutions is as follows: 144 national banks, 559 state banks and four trust companies.

The Bond Feature.

Mr. McFadden, in speaking of the burglary insurance and bonds feature, said that 283 members of the association are writing burglary insurance through the association office and that $1,753,900 of insurance is now written with annual premiums aggregating $5,984.74. Bank depository and fidelity bonds written through the association for the past year amount to $886,164, with premiums of $2,201.86. The necessary funds, Mr. McFadden said, to carry on the work of the association successfully must be increased. These can only be obtained, he said, in two ways: by increasing dues or increasing the earnings of the insurance department.

The report of H. E. Sox, treasurer from June 16, 1913, to Sept. 1, 1913, was presented. He reported turning over $426.69 in the general fund, $507.77 in the protective fund and $750 in the time-lock fund to J. R. Carley of Grand Forks, the new treasurer.

Mr. Carley's report covered the period from Sept. 1, 1913, to June 15, 1914. It showed a balance of $280.52 in the general fund, $972.86 in the time-lock fund and $1,308.23 in the protective fund.

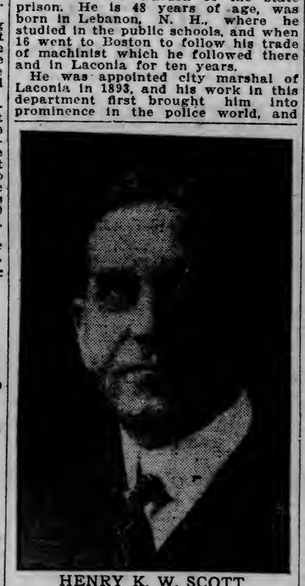

NEW REFORMATORY OFFICIAL ON JOB

Henry K. W. Scott Has Had Ample Experience in Penal Matters.

St. Cloud, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Henry K. W. Scott, the new general superintendent of the local state reformatory, succeeding C. S. Reed, who in turn succeeds Warden Wolfer at the Stillwater penitentiary, has been here a few days familiarizing himself with his new duties and is now in complete charge of the big reformatory. Mr. Scott's family will join him here in a few days.

Mr. Scott is a native of New Hampshire and came here from Concord where he was warden of the state prison. He is 48 years of age, was born in Lebanon, N. H., where he studied in the public schools, and when 16 went to Boston to follow his trade of machinist which he followed there and in Laconia for ten years.

He was appointed city marshal of Laconia in 1893, and his work in this department first brought him into prominence in the police world, and led to his appointment as warden of the New Hampshire state prison in 1905, a position which he held until the expiration of his term Dec. 1, 1913.

Enacted Many Reforms.

While warden of the New Hampshire prison Mr. Scott instituted many reforms. He did away with the striped suit, abolished the lock step, removed the restrictions on sight and silence, established the graded system and the night school, reformed the bill of fare and in many ways brought the administration to a point of excellence where the prison was regarded as one of the model institutions of the kind in the country.

The work of Mr. Scott on reformatory lines brought him into prominence with penologists all over the country who watched his experiments with great interest and his successful working out of the problems led to their adoption in many of the other progressive prisons of the country.

While a resident of Concord Mr. Scott also took a deep interest in municipal affairs and was prominent in the business and social life of that city. He is a thirty-third degree Mason, a noble of Bektash temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., past chancellor of the Knights of Pythias, a member of the Wonolancet and Snowshoe clubs, and a member of the parish of the South Congregational church. He is also a member of the National Association of Prison Officials, and served as president of that organization in 1912-13.

Mr. Scott has a wife and two sons, Wendall, major of the high school cadet battalion, who graduated recently, and Ray, a member of the class of 1916. C. H. S.

Stillwater, Minn., July 2.—Timothy Murphy, the Salvation Army man of St. Paul, was released upon parole Monday afternoon. He left for Fergus Falls last evening.

In January the state pardon board commuted his sentence. The parole board on June 23 granted him a parole. The parole ends Oct. 3 when he will be discharged as a free man.

POTATO CULTURE IN NORTHERN MICHIGAN

Two Experts Assigned to Territory to Give Industry Boom.

Marquette, Mich., July 2.—W. F. Raven, field agent of the Michigan Agricultural college, with headquarters here, has appointed, under the direction of the state board of agriculture two potato specialists to work in the Upper peninsula of Michigan during the growing season. They will make their headquarters here and work out of this city. Together with Mr. Raven they will endeavor to cover all the potato growing sections of Cloverland except Houghton, Gogebic and Iron counties, which have engaged agriculture specialists for county service. The experts expect to make a fairly accurate census of the acreage and varieties planted and during the growing and harvesting season they will be prepared to give instruction in spraying, sorting, grading and packing potatoes.

To Boom Potato Culture.

This announcement shows the interest the officials of the Michigan Agricultural college are showing in the movement to make this section the greatest potato growing country in the Northwest. The experts will instruct the growers in methods of cultivation and means of exterminating any diseases that may develop. One of them will be assigned to Menominee, Delta and Dickinson counties, another to Mackinac, Schoolcraft and Chippewa counties and Mr. Raven will personally look after Marquette, Alger and Baraga county fields. Mr. Raven is very active in the promotion of this part of the county as a potato growing district, and he is now preparing the census of the potato crop in each of the counties of the peninsula. He asks that every farmer in this and nearby counties who has planted an acre or more of potatoes address a card to him in Marquette, giving the name, the acreage planted to potatoes and the variety of seed planted.

MOTHER GIVES CUTICLE.

Aitkin Woman Surrenders Pieces of Skin for Sick Daughter.

Aitkin, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Knute Aklestad of this place has returned from a Brainerd hospital where seventeen pieces of skin were removed from her back and grafted onto the back of her 17-year-old daughter. Miss Esther Aklestad, who is lying seriously ill in the hospital from the effects of typhoid fever. A sore appeared upon the young woman's back before she was taken to the hospital and when it was impossible to heal it, the mother volunteered to submit to the ordeal.

FRAZEE TO CELEBRATE.

Planning to Have Great Time on Fourth of July.

Frazee, Minn., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—This city is planning for a big celebration of the Fourth next Saturday, largely along old-fashioned lines. There will be a parade, foot races, tugs of war, and addresses. The baseball teams of Perham and Frazee will play for a purse of $100. In the evening there will be a display of fireworks and a dance. All the merchants have joined to make this the biggest celebration of this locality. Preparations are being made to accommodate 2,000 persons.

CANDIDATE LEE GIVEN GREETING

Long Prairie Celebrates Nomination of Distinguished Son.

Long Prairie, Minn., July 2.—William E. Lee, Republican nominee for governor of Minnesota, got the greetings of his home folks over his nomination in a hearty manner yesterday, when fellow townsmen and many from other points in this section gathered here for a big celebration.

A special train arrived at 10 a. m., bringing hundreds of people from the northern part of Todd county. On this train was the Bertha band. Upon arrival the crowd marched to Lee park, where an address of welcome was delivered by Mayor A. D. Day.

An automobile parade of 100 strong, carrying visitors on a sight-seeing tour about town, ended at the fair grounds, where the afternoon program took place.

The Speakers.

A. B. Church was the presiding officer, and Marius Klukken of Osakis, A. W. McKellip of Round Prairie, E. V. Moore of Eagle Bend, Richard Gardner of Staples, Fred Mossman of Birchdale, Charles Koonze of Long Prairie and George W. Peterson, formerly of Long Prairie, but now of St. Paul, made addresses.

In response, Mr. Lee expressed his appreciation of the demonstration and also of the strong indorsement he received from his home county in the recent primaries. His talk was not a political one, but reminiscent of the early history of Todd county.

A program of sports, including a ball game took place in the afternoon. In the evening there was fireworks and a band concert.

BRINGS INFANT'S BODY IN SHOE BOX.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 2.—In a pasteboard shoe box, wrapped in newspapers, the body of a child only a few months old was brought to the county morgue yesterday by its father.

"How much will it cost me to bury it?" he asked. "I can pay you a few dollars, but I can't afford a funeral myself."

And so the little body was taken in charge by the coroner's assistants and was buried in the potter's field.

The father was reluctant to give his name. He is a laborer, just a young man. He told the deputies at the morgue that it was his first child.

ASHLAND DOCTOR DIES.

Dr. Rinehart, Long Prominent in Wisconsin City, Is Called.

Ashland, Wis., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of Dr. W. T. Rinehart, long prominent here and the founder of Rinehart hospital, who died in a Chicago hospital yesterday, is being brought here for the funeral. Several years ago the doctor, who had been ailing several years, was operated on, but the operation failed to bring relief and he was in the Chicago institution for further treatment when the end came. While watching target practice in the basement of the Elks' club a few years ago a glancing shot hit him in the eye, costing him the sight.

ROSALIE JONES SPEAKS.

Noted Eastern Suffragette Heard in North Dakota.

Valley City, N. D., July 2.—Miss Rosalie Jones, who led the suffragists on their "hike" from New York to Albany, spoke twice here on her trip through the state. As the direct result of her visit, a suffrage organization has been perfected. Mrs. Darrow of Fargo, state president of the suffrage association, is accompanying Miss Jones on her tour through North Dakota.

DEVILS LAKE ELKS CAPTURE PRIZES.

Minot, N. D., July 1.—Valley City was selected as the meeting place for 1905 by the North Dakota Elks' association which closed a two days' session here last evening.

Darby O'Malley of the Valley City lodge was selected as president of the association for the coming year.

Devils Lake carried off the greater number of prizes offered for the convention this year. These were awarded as follows:

Lodge making best appearance in parade, Devils Lake first; Williston second.

Lodge making most unique appearance in parade, Bismarck first, Devils Lake second.

Lodge having largest attendance in proportion to membership, Devils Lake first, Williston second.

Lodge accompanied by largest number of ladies, Grand Forks first.

BADGER DEMOCRATS TO MEET JULY 14.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—A Democratic state conference will be held in Milwaukee on July 14, according to a call issued yesterday signed by representatives from twenty counties.

The call states that the gathering is Released After Long Term.

Menominee, Mich., July 2.—After serving twenty-three years for the murder of a woman at Norway, Mich., in 1889, Patrick Wade, Menominee, is free. Governor Osborn paroled him three years ago. On Tuesday, Governor Ferris issued a pardon. Wade will return to Menominee.

STAR ISLAND MOVIES.

Forest Attractions of Cass Lake Place to Be Shown.

Cass Lake, Minn., July 2.—Star island, Cass Lake's biggest attraction for tourists, will be featured in the "movies" to illustrate the advantage of preserving forests around lakes as sites for summer tourist cottages and homes.

E. J. Buhler, secretary of the State Forestry association, was in Cass Lake and took several hundred feet of film showing the south shore of Star island, the summer cottages, the hotel and the colony of Iowa university students who are studying forestry at close range by living in tents on the island.

The idea of the association is to show what business can be done by preserving the woods and then, as a contrast, to show other points in Northern Minnesota where the lake shores have been denuded of timber and are no longer valuable either for agricultural or summer resort purposes.

Convict Barnesville Man.

Moorhead, Minn., July 2.—A jury in district court returned a verdict of guilty of grand larceny in the first degree against F. C. Carey, a former banker and potato shipper at Barnesville.

The defendant was charged by commission firms at St. Joseph, Mo., with nondelivery of potatoes amounting to several thousand bushels.

J. W. Berhardy, associated with Carey, will be tried next under a similar indictment.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Bemidji—Judge C. W. Stanton has returned from Brainerd, where he held court, relieving Judge McClenahan. While there Judge Stanton finished the May term of court and finished all cases on both the jury and court calendar.

Mankato—Eight of the local teachers of last year have resigned. They are Lillian D. Hughes, Marjory Sawyer, James H. Baker, Jessie B. Payne, Carl W. Smith, Gertrude Erickson and Lynn C. Jones. All these vacancies have been filled except that of Miss Erickson, who has been at the head of the domestic science department.

St. Cloud—District court was adjourned here Tuesday until July 7, when Judge C. A. Nye of Moorhead will come to the city to hear several court cases in which Judge Roeser is disqualified. Judge Roeser has heard practically every case which has been set to come up before him.

Stillwater — Though the Marine cheese factory's history is yet young, it shows a remarkable growth. Each of the ten days show a big increase, and the last few days especially have been marked by a very big increase, two cheese more per day.

Plummer—Late last Sunday evening or early Monday morning thieves entered the butcher shop of Hans Hugget and stole $20 in cash out of the register. The thieves entered through a back window by removing the screen.

Crookston—Arrangements are practically complete for the monster Fourth of July celebration here. J. M. Cathcart, secretary of the Commercial club, and others have been busily engaged on a program which promises to be one of the best ever, and everybody is expected to help make this a most patriotic observance of the nation's independence day.

Moorhead—The silo excursion scheduled for Friday, June 26, will take place Monday, July 6, at 1:30 p. m. The excursion will start from Front street, Moorhead and stops will be made at five different styles of silos.

Brainerd—Irene A. Holland, aged 5 years and 6 months, home at Pequot, died of diphtheria in Brainerd and the remains were shipped to Farmer City, Iowa.

Little Falls — Rev. Father James Reardon, editor of the Catholic Bulletin, St. Paul, has been secured to deliver the Fourth of July address here. The exercises will be held in the Victor theater at 9:30 o'clock in the forenoon and especial arrangements are being made for the occasion.

Mankato—Clarence Martin, accused of robbing a fellow wayfarer in the tramp jungles north of this city and who was arrested on a warrant charging robbery in the first degree, yesterday was permitted to plead guilty to robbery in the third degree. He was sentenced to serve an indefinite term at Stillwater.

Ada—The first chautauqua ever held here opened this week with a large attendance. The advance sale of tickets exceeded all expectations and more than the required guarantee was secured. The opening lecture, "A Modern Crusader," was delivered by Joseph R. Hanley.

Owatonna—The Owatonna Farmers' Elevator company at its annual meeting declared a divided of 10 per cent. The following officers were elected: C. P. Sahler, president; John Hartle, secretary; George Parrott, treasurer; B. J. Shafer, F. W. Adams, G. M. Flinn, E. T. Winship, G. W. Kinyon, A. P. Bartsch, directors.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Fargo, N. D.—The Automobile club has decided to complete the work of oiling North Broadway and will purchase another tank of oil for the purpose. The first tank was merely an experiment and the Standard Oil company furnished their special road wagon in order to spread the oil.

Devils Lake, N. D.—George Dixon, a Finn, was taken before Judge C. M. Cooley and sentenced to serve two years in the state penitentiary at Bismarck for breaking in a Great Northern refrigerator car. The man claimed he was hungry and broke into the car to get something to eat.

Bismarck, N. D.—Business men here whose stores were flooded during the cloudburst over the Heart river are threatening to bring suit against the city for not providing proper sewers to carry off the water.

Wahpeton, N. D.—The Chicago, Milwaukee railroad is spending out $2,000 improvements on the depot here. The building is being enlarged and separate waiting rooms for men and women will be provided. This is a much needed improvement.

Orr, N. D.—J. D. Nelson, a well well known stockman, who died here, was buried July 1 at Inkster. Mr. Nelson was 67 years of age, and had resided in Ramsay county about twenty years, coming from Illinois. He was well known among horse breeders as the owner of Maynot, a speedy animal, a favorite of races last year.

Devils Lake, N. D.—Albert Torbet of Duluth, Minn., who has been visiting at the home of his parents, Rev. and Mrs. Albert Torbet of this city, has returned to the Head of the Lakes to resume his work with expert accountants.

Dickinson, N. D.—Another rural telephone line is soon to be connected with the local exchange. It is to be constructed by the Western Union Telephone company, and will reach about thirteen farms to begin with. The line will be fifteen miles long and will reach into the fine farming territory northwest of the city.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Milwaukee—Otto Wendland, former postmaster at Manchester, Green Lake county, pleaded guilty before Judge Geiger in Federal court on Tuesday to the charge of taking postal money orders Aug. 21, 1913, amounting to $1,133.45. Under the law which provides that a fine not less than the amount taken must be imposed, Judge Geiger fined Wendlund the full sum alleged to have been taken. The fine was paid by friends of Wendlund.

Racine—L. A. Collins, a British subject, claiming to be an Oxford graduate, and soliciting for a university extension course, was arrested here charged with issuing worthless checks in Kenosha. He came from Winnipeg, Can.

Antigo—The first $5,000 in the Langlade county courthouse bonds have been redeemed according to County Treasurer Ings. It is expected that in eight years the entire debt will be wiped out.

New London—The townships and villages of Mukwa, Lebanon, Liberty, Sugar Bush, Deer Creek, Northport, Hortonia, Caledonia and Maple Creek will enter representative floats in the Fourth of July parade here to compete for prizes offered for the most unique or interesting floats.

Ashland—The city council in special session issued licenses to sixty-nine saloons. The entire amount of license money, $34,500, is already in the city treasury.

Madison—The state railway commission ordered the city of Watertown to discontinue giving discriminatory water rates and to readjust its water service rates. The commission also ordered the city of Sheboygan to readjust its water service rates and improve its water plant.

Milwaukee—Col. A. G. Weissert, who recently underwent a serious operation at St. Mary's hospital is rapidly improving and is expected to be removed to his home in a few days. A piece of lead which the colonel has carried since the Civil war when he was wounded was removed.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Calumet—Tuesday marked the close of the twenty-second year and the beginning of the twenty-third year of the pastorate of Rev. Daniel D. Stalker, D. D., of the First Presbyterian church of Calumet.

Houghton—The funeral of Louis Holtzman was held July 1. He was 26 years and is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nick Holtznan, three brothers, Nick, Jr., Charles and Albert, and three sisters, Mrs. James Richards and Mrs. Charles Andrews of Laurium and Mrs. Gust Johnsky of Milwaukee.

Calumet—July 29 has been selected as the date of the picnic under the auspices of the Calumet lodge of Elks to the White City. The trip will be made on the excursion steamer, R. B. Hayes, starting from Lake Linden.

Hancock—Members of Canton Superior lodge, No. 32, I. O. O. F., have decided to postpone their outing and picnic at Electric park, which was to have been held July 25, to Aug. 1.

Lake Linden—The funeral of J. H. Roberts who ended his life by suicide Sunday night was held Wednesday afternoon from the residence on Lake street. Rev. Miller officiated and burial was in Maple Hill. The coroner's jury, viewing the body, returned a verdict of suicide.

Hancock—The board of education favors the erection of a new high school building in the Condon addition and announced that it will submit to the taxpayers a proposition to authorize a bond issue of $150,000.

Menominee—Pierced with a hundred fine shot, which lacerated his breast and body from his shoulders to his waist line, Josef Kosinski is hovering between life and death at his home near Wilson as the result of a charge fired from a shotgun by a man who is being sought by authorities but who as yet is unknown here and at large.

Negaunee—James Harris of Coleraine, Minn., arrived in the city Monday to spend the Home Coming week with his parents.

Iron Mountain—James F. Allen, aged 66 years, one of the oldest and highly respected citizens of this city is dead. He is survived by a wife and two children, they being Mrs. Henry Reynolds of this city and James of Hoystington, Kansas. The funeral was held from the Central M. E. church.

Manistique—Miss Alice Hargreaves has been elected by the school board to serve as librarian, secretary of the board, purchasing agent and secretary to the superintendent, at a salary of $75 a month. The office will, it is held, tend to efficiency in the schools.

Ishpeming—Mrs. John Blight, 66 years old, died June 30 at her home. She had been ailing for the last four years. Mrs. Blight had been a resident of Ishpeming for many years and was well known in the city. She is survived by her husband, one son, and one daughter. The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon.

Marquette—Lloyd Desjardins of Duluth, a former resident of Marquette, is here for a visit with relatives and friends.

MOTHER OF SCHOOL GIRL

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Daughter's Health.

Plover, Iowa.—"From a small child my 13 year old daughter had female weakness. I spoke to three doctors about it and they did not help her any. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had been of great benefit to me, so I decided to have her give it a trial. She has taken five bottles of the Vegetable Compound according to directions on the bottle and she is cured of this trouble. She was all run down when she started taking the Compound and her periods did not come right. She was so poorly and weak that I often had to help her dress herself, but now she is regular and is growing strong and healthy."—Mrs. MARTIN HELVIG, Plover, Iowa.

Hundreds of such letters expressing gratitude for the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished are constantly being received, proving the reliability of this grand old remedy.

If you are ill do not drag along and continue to suffer day in and day out but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a woman's remedy for woman's ills.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

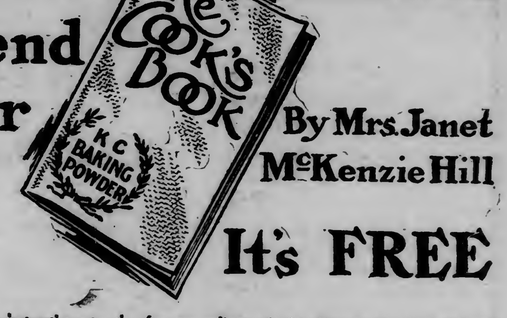

Baby of Future is Considered

Much thought has been given in late years to the subject of maternity. In the cities there are maternity hospitals equipped with modern methods. But most women prefer their own homes and in the towns and villages must prefer them. And since this is true we know from the great many splendid letters written on the subject that our "Mother's Friend" is a great help to expectant mothers. They write of the wonderful relief, how it seemed to allow the muscles to expand without undue strain and what a splendid influence it was on the nervous system. Such helps as "Mother's Friend" and the broader knowledge of them should have a helpful influence upon babies of the future.

In a little book for such women these points are more thoroughly brought out and a copy will be mailed to anyone who will send us their name and address.

"Mother's Friend" is sold in all drug stores and highly recommended for its timely usefulness, its safeness and the real help it affords. Ask for it at the store and write us for the book. Bradfield Regulator Co., 311 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

Send for The Cook's Book By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill It's FREE

Our instructions to the famous editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine were: "Get up a book of recipes of the things people like best. Find the best way to make and bake each one. Then write it out so plainly that even an inexperienced housewife can't have a failure."

"The Cook's Book" was the result. Some of the 90 recipes were originated, many of them were improved upon, and all were personally tested by this best known authority on cooking in America, and she tells so clearly how she made everything that one cannot go astray.

While some of the cakes and pastry are elaborate enough for any occasion, the recipes are all thoroughly practical and call for no expensive and unusual ingredients. In addition to telling how to make them, the book is beautifully illustrated in colors showing how to arrange and serve the dishes appetizingly.

More than half a million of "The Cook's Book" are now in use in American households. Yet the demand is constantly increasing. Many send for two or three at a time to give to friends or young housekeepers. Don't depend on borrowing one from a neighbor—have one of your own.

How to Get "The Cooks Book"

In every 25c can of K C Baking Powder is packed a colored certificate. Send us one of these certificates (paste it on a postal card if you like) with your name and address plainly written, and "The Cook's Book" will be mailed free of charge. Only one book for each certificate.

THE NEW AMERICAN MACARONI PRODUCT
COOKS IN ONE THIRD THE TIME

CUTS SHOULD BE CLEANED.

Rural New York: The danger from a cut isn't always in proportion to its size. Few of those received in work about the home and farm endanger life by bleeding, for unless a large artery is severed, nature has her own way of stopping the flow before serious consequences ensue. But all cuts, whether large or small, have within them grave possibilities, for they mean that the skin, that great protective covering of the body, has been broken, and that the soft tissues beneath have been exposed to contamination by dirt and infection by germs.

Most wounds contain more or less visible dirt, carried into them by the cutting instrument and this instrument, no matter what it is, or how clean it may appear to the eye, is practically always a carrier of germs; for germs are omnipresent. In healthy tissues nature is usually able to take care of these invaders, and the only evidence of the fight that is going on between them and the blood is the "matter," or pus, that forms while the wound is healing. Occasionally such germs as find entrance are immediately washed out by the flow of blood, and if no others are admitted the cut surfaces unite without any pus showing. This is the result to be hoped for, and the aim of proper treatment.

Knowing that the chief danger from all minor wounds lies in the possibility of their infection by malignant germs, we have the key to their proper treatment. This is exceedingly simple, calling for but two things: First, the attainment of cleanliness in and about the wound, and, second, the maintenance of that cleanliness. Soap and water are nearly always at hand. The early use of these will often render the use of surgical measures later unnecessary. A roll of soft white cloths that have been washed and ironed should have a place in every home where they may be ready for an emergency. Some pure white soap and water that has been boiled, and is still hot, complete a very satisfactory emergency equipment.

MARKET HAS GOOD UPTURN

Wheat Up on Heavy Short Covering on Rust Damage Fear.

Flaxseed Strong With Active Crushers' Inquiry and Light Offerings.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 2.—The market was strong up to the close which was at the top. July wheat closed 1⅞c up; September 1⅞c u, and December 1¼c up. July durum closed ⅝c up, and September ⅞c up.

Oats closed ¾c up at 33⅞c for on the track or to arrive. Rye closed unchanged at 57c for on the track, or 56c for to arrive. Barley closed unchanged at from 41 to 50c.

At Winnipeg July oats closed at 39¾c bid, and October at 35⅝c bid.

Puts on Minneapolis September wheat closed at 80⅜c asked, and calls at 81⅞c bid.

Marked strength developed in the wheat market from the opening today. This resulted from a sharp bulge at Liverpool where a large outstanding short interest in the July option was reported. Manitoba offerings over there were also firmer and the Russian crop news was unfavorable.

Cash wheat and the July option were especially strong on all the American markets. It is estimated that in spite of remarkably heavy receipts for the season, wheat stores at Duluth will be practically cleaned up when the grain now under charter to go down the lakes has been shipped out. Supplies at Minneapolis are reported to be controlled by the Armour interests and the millers, making the situation very strong in old wheat. Stores down there show a reduction of 1,000,000 bu in the last five days. A heavy movement of new wheat from Nebraska is expected on that market as soon as it is available.

On top of the shortage in supplies to help along the bulls, there came the reported appearance of black rust at Wilmot, S. D. Traders are nervous on the score of possible damage from rust just now in view of the critical condition of the plant owing to the excessive moisture in the Northwest. It is hoped, however, that with dry and cool weather for a few days that danger will be safely passed.

The weather map over almost the entire wheat-growing area was good today and cutting and threshing operations are being pushed rapidly in the Southwest. The movement of new winter grain to market is increasing, the bulk of today's receipts at Kansas City being new wheat.

July wheat opened unchanged at 87½c and advanced 1½c during the first few minutes. Thereafter there was a slight easing up on the absorption of realizing sales and quotations were fractionally off from their high up to the closing hour. September opened ⅝c up at 80¾c and gained ⅝c and the December option opened ⅞c up at 82c and advanced ⅞c more.

July durum opened ½c up at 85½c and gained ½c more. December opened unchanged at 82c and advanced ⅞c.

Flax Slightly Higher.

Flaxseed was again strong on light offerings and continued good inquiry from crushers. The market position of the seed is regarded by many operators as becoming increasingly bullish in view of the estimated large reduction in acreage under the crop in the northwest this season. Quotations showed an advancing tendency from the outset today, but closing prices were easier with gains of only ⅛@⅜c showing.

At Buenos Aires flax closed 2¼c up and London closed 2⅝c up.

July flax opened unchanged at $1.59, and closed ½c up at $1.59½. September opened unchanged at $1.61¾ and closed ¼ up at $1.61⅝ asked. October opened ½c up at $1.61¾ and closed ¼c up at $1.61⅞, and the November option opened ½c up at $1.61¾ and closed ¼c up at $1.61⅞ asked.

At Winnipeg, July flax closed at $1.39¼ and October at $1.43⅜ bid.

MARKET GOSSIP.

Duluth car inspection: Wheat—No. 1 hard, 12; No. 1 northern, 56; No. 2 northern, 11; No. 3, 1; durum, 16; mixed, 7; total wheat, 103; last year, 114; flax, 16, last year, 63; corn, 2, last year, none; oats, 12, last year, 44; rye, 14, last year 2; barley, 23, last year 38; total of all grains, 170, last year, 261; on track, 150.

Argeintine wheat shipments for the week are estimated at 600,000 bu., and corn at 3,825,000 bu.

George Kansas, grain dealer at Hannaford, N. D., was a visitor on the board of trade this morning. He averred that the promise is for a bumper crop in this section of the state. The stand and color of the plant is good and it is now coming into head in many fields.

Lewis wired from Minneapolis as follows: "The strength in the Minneapolis market today was due to the congestion in the July option and not to any change in crop conditions throughout the Northwest. The mills and the Armour Grain company are supposed to own all the wheat here and to have liberal quantities of the July option bought. With a very light outstanding in the rest, it is a comparatively easy matter to push the price higher."

• • •

Lecount wired Baker from Huron, S. D.: "On high lands wheat is in splendid condition, and will make a full crop if it fills well. On the low land the crop has been damaged by rain. The corn crop is below the average and very weedy. Wheat has been badly affected by red rust, and some has had too much rain. The weather is clear and favorable today, with a north wind. If hot weather comes now, black rust is liable to appear, but with clear and favorable weather this state will raise a crop above the average."

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool—"Steady American cables prompted support in wheat at the opening here and values were ½d lower to ⅜d higher with strength in July. Following the opening there was heavy covering by shorts and prices advanced sharply gaining ½@¾d with offers light. The market appears to have been heavily over-sold. At 1:30 p. m. the undertone was firm to strong ⅝ to ¾d higher.

Corn opened with covering on continued unfavorable weather in Argentina, expectation of lighter Argentine shipments this week and no pressure of cargoes. July is firmly held while September advanced ¾d with the undertone firm."

Buenos Aires wheat closed quiet unchanged; corn, ⅜ to ⅝ higher with shorts covering on the continued unsettled weather and urgent demand for shipment for nearby arrivals. Flax, 1⅝c higher.

• • •

Weather in Roumania is now favorable for wheat. In Hungary the recent rains have influenced the spread of rust and other fungus pests and the crop is deteriorating.

• • •

The cash market at Minneapolis was firm with a good demand. No. 1 northern blue stem sold at 2¼@¾c over July and velvet chaff at 1⅜@2½c over July. There were fair scattered flour sales but the demand moderated.

The Chicago Herald says: "Some of the largest cash handlers are friendly to the bull side of wheat on the belief that prices are low enough and that all the big movement in the first two months will be readily cared for. They say traders are too bearish and a continuance of the bad weather in the northwest will lead to better prices there."

The flour market was very active, the sales yesterday being greater than the capacity of the mills. Prices today were: Fancy patents, $4.40; first clears, $3.45; second clears, $2.65; shipments, 59,900 bbl. Barley, 41@50c; rye, 56@57c. Bran, $18.50.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Stories of Damage By Wet Weather Boost Wheat Price.

Chicago, July 2.—Reports of black rust in South Dakota and of other damage northwest by excessive moisture forced wheat speculators today to the buying side. Wet weather causing delay to threshing southwest counted also against the bears, and so, too, did strength at Liverpool based on fear of trouble between Austria and Servia. The opening, which was the same as last night to ⅝c higher, was followed by a decided additional upturn.

Crop damage advices from Hungary and Russia helped the advance, but some reaction ensued owing to denials of black rust reports and because of large acceptances on bids from here to the country. The close was firm at 1@1⅛c to 1¼c above last night.

Showers over the Ohio valley and in other districts where there has been complaint of drouth eased off the corn market. Prices rallied, however, in sympathy with wheat. After starting unchanged to ¼c lower and suffering a further decline, values recovered to nearly last night's level.

Renewed weakness came about in consequence of reports of the grading system here being relaxed. The close nevertheless was firm at exactly the same as last night.

Oats were governed by the action of corn. Commission houses did most of the selling.

Higher prices for hogs tended to lift provisions. It was said also that cash demand was good.

Wheat—No. 2 red 80½@31c; No. 2 hard, 80½@81c; No. 3 northern, 87@89c; No. 2 spring, 87@89c.

COPPERS FIRM, BUT TRADING QUIET

Quotations Through List Are Generally Up on Improved Metal Situation.

Mining stocks were steady today, but the volume of trading was the lightest in some time back. A favorable factor commented upon was an improvement showing in the copper metal situation.

Butte & Superior closed 25c off at $36.75; Alaska Gold a shade up at $27.25; Granby unchanged at $79; Greene Cananea unchanged at $30.25; Shattuck 25c up at $23.25, and Amalgamated Copper $1 up at $69.75.

In the Duluth curb list Alex Scott sold at $5.04; Calumet & Sonora at 70c; Calumet & Corbin at 14@15c, and Red Warrior at 25c.

Paine, Webber & Co. received the following market comment from Boston today: "No change from the present market conditions can be expected until the rate decision is announced. The market is in a position to advance more on favorable news than to decline on bad news, however."

DULUTH. MINNEAPOLIS.

DECLINE IS RECOVERED

Usual Ante-Holiday Conditions Prevail in the Stock Market.

Sentiment Uncertain at Outset But Moderately Optimistic Later.

New York, July 2.—Irregularity was the only feature of the early operations on the stock exchange today. Trading was exceedingly light, even compared with recent stagnant conditions. Changes in the leaders consisted of minor gains in United States Steel, the Harrimans and Amalgamated copper, with unimportant declines in Reading and St. Paul. Sale of 100 shares of United Drygoods at 63c, a fraction under its last quotation, was recorded. Over-night news was without market influence, although foreign advices were not especially encouraging.

The dullness of the early session was accentuated by the fact that no transactions in such important issues as Great Northern, Northern Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio and Pennsylvania were recorded during the first hour. Wall street discussed with much interest the visit of J. P. Morgan to the White House. Although it was asserted Mr. Morgan's meeting with the president had no connection with New Haven affairs, that stock has dropped to the lowest record in its history, namely, 63¾. Announcement of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton receivership was received with expressions of relief.

Bonds were irregular.

The list did little more than mark time in the early afternoon. Changes of note were few, Northern Pacific showing some heaviness while Southern Pacific was relatively firm. Indications that the banks are to lose heavily on the weekly cash movements had no effect on local monetary conditions.

The usual ante-holiday conditions in the stock market today. Trading was light and limited to professionals. Sentiment was uncertain at the outset, but inclined to moderate optimism later. The close was steady.

Prices manifested a downward trend in the early afternoon, but recovered later. Amalgamated was the feature of the more active stocks with a gain of a point on better prices for the metal. A 9-point rise in Sears-Roebuck was the feature of the special group.

MISSING--NOT LOST

A great many people give up things that are just missing for lost, without first trying the best known means of retrieving their belongings. Hundreds of people in this community have the Lost and Found Column of The Herald to thank for the return of their temporarily missing goods.

The wide field covered by the daily paper is responsible for the success of the Lost and Found Column, which success is a fact admitted by all who have had any experience at all with this great medium of Want Advertising.

If you are the one who has lost or found some article that you wish to recover or return, just give this Lost and Found Column a try this time. You have the word of the great newspaper-reading public that it will work wonders for you.

UNITED STATES GETS COVETED HENLEY CUP FOR THE FIRST TIME

Harvard and Boston Crews Will Compete in Final Race.

Both Row Course in Flat 7 Minutes, Nearly a Record.

Trophy Has Only Left England in Four Other Years.

Henley-on-Thames, July 3. — The coveted Grand Challenge cup goes to the United States.

Two American eight-oared crews, the Union Boat club of Boston and the Harvard university second crew, are left to fight tomorrow for its possession by victories today in the semi-final heats over Mayence and Winnipeg, respectively.

Both were most exciting races, rowed in almost record time and won only after a hard struggle near the finish line in each instance.

Miserably wet weather and a strong wind did not cause either of the American crews to vary the almost perfect watermanship they have shown since their arrival here, and which has called forth the admiration of English experts.

Harvard-Winnipeg Race.

The race between Harvard and Winnipeg, which came first, was a hard one and rowed in the best time recorded at this year's regatta—seven minutes flat. This has been beaten only on three occasions in the grand challenge cup since official time records have been kept. In 1891 Leander rowed the final in 6 minutes, 51 seconds, and this was equaled by New College, Oxford, in the final in 1897. Leander in 1906 did the course in 6 minutes, 58 seconds.

Winnipeg went away to twenty-one strokes to the first half minute and forty-two to the first minute, while Harvard struck twenty to the half minute and thirty-eight to the minute. The Canadians gained a slight lead at the start, and at the quarter mile were a quarter of a length in front. Har-

BODIES OF MAN AND TWO WOMEN FOUND

All Three Shot to Death Near Suburb of Atlanta.

Atlanta, Ga., July 3.—The bodies of S. F. Bennett and two unidentified women were found in a swamp at East Point, a suburb of Atlanta, early today. Wounds indicated that all three had been shot.

The bodies of the women were covered with brush, while that of Bennett lay in the open a few yards away. The coroner of Fulton county has been summoned to investigate.

According to the police, there were indications that Bennett killed the two women with a shotgun and, after covering their bodies with brush, fastened the gun to a stump, stood before it, and discharged it with a twig.

The women were believed to be Bennett's wife and mother-in-law. Bennett lived in East Point. He was last seen Thursday.

PRINCES WILL NOT VISIT CONTINENT

British Heir's Change of Plan May Be for Safety.

London, July 3.—According to the Daily Chronicle, the projected trip of the prince of Wales to the continent has been postponed, possibly as the result of the Sarayjevo outrage.

Prince Arthur of Connaught has canceled his proposed visit to Vienna to represent the king at the funeral of the late archduke. It is understood the sudden cancellation of the visit of the German emperor and all foreign guests is due to the express wish of the Austrian emperor that the ceremony should be as private as possible.

UNCLE SAM AFTER NEW ORLEANS RATS

Federal Experts Take Hand in War on Disease.

New Orleans, July 3.—Federal authorities today planned to take charge of the campaign here for the eradication of hubonic plague. Dr. Rupert Blue, surgeon general of the United States public health and marine hospital service, will be in charge. Dr. R. H. Creel, assistant surgeon general, Dr. G. M. Corput, in charge of the quarantine station and a corps of experts from Washington will assist.

BAY STATE SOLONS EAGER TO ADJOURN.

Boston, Mass., July 3.—Both houses and senate planned to sit until midnight if necessary in order to bring to an end tonight a session begun Jan. 7 and equalled in length only a few times in the history of the legislature. Much business remained to be transacted, however, and there was a possibility that it might be necessary to postpone prorogation until next week. Bills to relieve the financial situation in Salem caused by the recent fire was among those yet to be considered.

ABDICATION OF THRONE OF ALBANIA PREDICTED

PRINCE WILLIAM OF WIED.

Vienna, July 3.—Princess William of Wied, wife of the new ruler of Albania, today left Durazzo with her children, in consequence of the critical situation there. She has gone to Bucharest.

It is generally believed that the departure of the princess foreshadows the abdication of Prince William.

AGED COUPLE KILL ROBBER

Battle to Death in Dark, Club Against Ice Pick.

Intruder Dies While Illinois Woman Clutches His Throat.

Yorkville, Ill., July 3.—A dramatic story of a fight to the death in the dark with a masked robber who invaded their home early today was told here by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Grimwold, an old couple who live on a farm two miles east of here.

The robber died as she was throttling him, Mrs. Grimwood said, after he had been thrown to the floor by her husband. She is a large and powerful woman, although 65 years old.

The robber, apparently about 55 years old, smooth shaven and wearing a new suit of clothes, had a receipt in his pocket from Rothschild's, Chicago, for a new suit of clothes. The receipt bore the name William Davis. Slips showing apparent profit of between $5,000 and $6,000 on the Chicago board of trade were also found on the robber.

The theory of the police is that the clothing was stolen and that papers in the robber's clothing are those of another man.

Circled Round and Round.

Before Mrs. Grimwood got into the fight, her husband and the robber—the farmer armed with a club he kept in his room, the robber with an ice pick—circled round and round in the dark, feeling for one another, lunging and striking. Their heavy breathing was all that guided their blows as they groped for each other.

Now and then Grimwood got home a blow with his club, and the robber frequently reached the farmer with the ice pick. At length one of Grimwood's swings crashed upon the robber's head and he fell.

Mrs. Grimwood, who had been awakened by the rushing of feet, leaped upon the robber, seizing him by the throat. She choked him while her husband got up, struck a light and went after a rope to bind the man. The robber died as her husband came back, she said.

JEALOUSY LEADS TO MURDER AT YANKTON

Youth Kills Cousin and Is Found With Skull Broken.

Yankton, S. D., July 3.—Nellie Brewer, 17-year-old school girl, was shot and killed here last night. Charles Bowman, a cousin, was found lying across the body of the girl, unconscious. His skull is fractured. It is believed Bowman killed the girl, but mystery surrounds the manner in which he received his injuries. Jealousy prompted the deed.

VACCINATE EVERY IOWA MILITIAMAN.

Des Moines, Iowa, July 3.—Every man in the four regiments of the Iowa National Guard is to be vaccinated for typhoid fever before he reports for duty in Des Moines, Aug. 10, for the maneuvers camp, according to a statement by Adjt.-Gen. Guy Logan today.

There will be 6,000 men in camp at Camp Dodge from Aug. 10 to 19. One company of the United States army stationed at Texas City, Texas, has been ordered to come to Des Moines. In addition to the four Iowa regiments, Nebraska will send two regiments to the camp.

MRS. CARMAN NOT ON STAND

Doctor's Wife Will Tell Grand Jury Her Story.

Premises Are Searched for Weapon Used in Bailey Murder.

Freeport, N. Y., July 3.—The name of Dr. Edwin Carman's wife did not appear on the list of witnesses summoned for the inquest this afternoon into the death of Mrs. Louise Bailey, who was muredered in Dr. Carman's office last Tuesday night.

Since almost everyone else in and about the physician's house that night had been notified to appear at the inquest, the omission of Mrs. Carman's name caused much comment. It was understood the district attorney desired to reserve her testimony for the grand jury, unimpaired by any premature revelations at the inquest.

Stories Disagree.

Among the witnesses called were Archie Post, Joseph Golder and Miss Hazel Combs, patients, who were waiting in Dr. Carman's outer office when Mrs. Bailey was murdered. These three have told stories which did not agree with the tale told by Mrs. Carman, who has declared that she was in her bedroom when the fatal shot was fired, and for half an hour before.

A man named Burke, a resident of a neighboring village, has been summoned, it was said, to repeat a story he had told a detective about having seen a woman dressed in white running away from the window of the doctor's office immediately after the shot was fired.

Miss Combs has said that she saw Mrs. Carman on the front porch of her home only a few minutes before the murder was committed.

Talking over the telephone today, Mrs. Carman declared she wanted to testify at the inquest and stood ready to tell all she knew.

"I fully realize that in a measure I am restrained as to my movements.

VETERANS FIGHT AND ONE IS KILLED

Fatal Clash Occurs at Milwaukee Soldiers' Home.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 3.—Joseph J. Reilly, a veteran of the Spanish-American war and a resident of the Soldiers' home, died today from injuries inflicted during a quarrel with Otto Marquardt, another veteran. During a fistic encounter Reilly was felled to the pavement, his head striking with such force that his skull was fractured.

Marquardt was seized by soldiers' home guards, placed in the guard house and later arrested by a deputy sheriff and taken to the county jail.

According to deputies, Marquardt told them that Reilly insulted him. Marquardt s 36 years old and Reilly was 42.

PRESIDENT WILL MAKE EAGLE SCREAM.

Washington, July 3.—President Wilson will leave Washington tomorrow morning at 7 o'clock for Philadelphia, to be the principal speaker at the Fourth of July celebration in Independence square. He will arrive at Philadelphia at 10:30 a. m. and leave for Washington at noon.

CHAMBERLAIN PASSES AWAY

Famous British Statesman Succumbs After Long Illness.

Was Chief of Tariff Reformers and of Imperialists.

London, July 3.—Joseph Chamberlain died here last night. His death, which removes one of the most striking figures of British policies in the past generation, came as an entire surprise, as the condition of his health was not publicly known to be any worse than at any time in the last two or three years.

The cause of Mr. Chamberlain's death was officially announced today as heart failure. Although he had been gradually sinking since Tuesday, the members of the family had preferred that his condition should not become publicly known.

Wife and Son With Him.

Mrs. Chamberlain, who never left her husband's side since he was stricken with paralysis seven years ago, and his son, Austen Chamberlain, were with Mr. Chamberlain when death occurred at 10:30 o'clock last night at his London residence. The event cast gloom over the London season, which was at its height.

Mr. Chamberlain's last public appearance was at a garden party on the grounds of his Birmingham home May 6 last, when, with his wife and son, he received several hundred constituents. Mr. Chamberlain was wheeled out on the lawn in a chair and appeared very emaciated and feeble when he lifted his hat to friends and neighbors in acknowledgment of their salutes.

Thirty-eight Active Years.

The Right Honorable Joseph Chamberlain was the pioneer in Great Britain of tariff reform, and the great advocate of imperialism. For thirty-eight years, with a brief interregnum, he represented Birmingham in parlia-

NO RAIN ANYWHERE ON FOURTH OF JULY

Anyway, That Is What the Weather Bureau Promises.

Washington, July 3.—Celebrants of the nation's birthday anniversary may, without fear of having their holiday marred by rain, plan their excursions or make arrangements for participation in exercises or sports.

The weather map today gave indications of a clear day with sunshine over practically the entire East and South from the Mississippi river to the Atlantic coast. It will be somewhat warmer Saturday in the New England states, Eastern New York and the lower lake region, but elsewhere east of the Mississippi the temperature will remain moderate.

TWO EUROPEAN ARMY AVIATORS KILLED.

Rheims, France, July 3. — Corporal Gabriel Godefroy of the French army aviation corps was killed and Corporal Emile Mirat fatally injured today by a fall of 800 feet in a monoplane of which they had lost control.

Dutch Aviator Dead.

Amsterdam, Netherlands, July 3.—Lieut. G. D. Spandaw, a Dutch military aviator, died today from injuries sustained in an aeroplane accident at the Soesterberg aerodrome yesterday.

SUFFRAGETTES BURN FINE IRISH MANSION

Ballymenoch, With Priceless Art Treasures, All Destroyed.

Belfast, Ireland, July 3.—Suffragettes today burned Ballymenoch, a fine mansion near Holywood. The house contained many priceless art treasures, all of which were destroyed.

Ballymenoch was the residence of the late Sir Daniel Dixon, mayor and lord mayor of Belfast for many years and a member of parliament for some time.

The militants left the usual evidence of their presence, but they themselves escaped.

WILSON ASKS SALEM FUND

Sends Special Message to Congress—Would Give $200,000.

House Committee Will Act on It Next Week.

Washington, July 3.—President Wilson sent a special message to congress today, urging immediate appropriation of $200,000 for the relief of those made homeless and destitute in the Salem fire. He enclosed a telegram from Governor Walsh saying that 3,000 families were in need. The message was as follows:

"The governor of Massachusetts has sent me the following telegram:

"'The Salem fund is increasing slowly. The expense of rehabilitation will be enormous, as 3,000 families are homeless and without work. If the national government could appropriate $200,000 it would assist greatly. I am informed that the action of the national government at the time of the San Francisco disaster furnished a precedent. Can anything in the way of a substantial contribution from the national government be obtained?'

Urges Immediate Action.

"In view of the great number of homeless and destitute in Salem, I very earnestly urge the immediate appropriation by congress of $200,000, as requested by the governor, to be expended under the direction of the secretary of war."

The message was referred to the house appropriations committee, which will not take it up before early next week.

Has Finger Pulled Out.

Cass Lake, Minn., July 3. — Hugh Omes of Federal Dam had a finger pulled off his hand by its being caught in a grub chain while at work on the roads in that vicinity last week. Mr. Omes came to Cass Lake for medical treatment.

THE DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Investigation of alleged misuse of official stationery in a gold mine promotion was continued by a special committee.

The senate foreign relations committee was authorized to investigate all transactions connected with the negotiation of the proposed treaty with Nicaragua.

HOUSE.

President Wilson urged appropriation of $200,000 for the relief of the Salem fire sufferers.

The conference report on the Indian appropriation bill, bearing many amendments, was brought in.

Representatives Loft of New York and Morgan and McGuire of Oklahoma, all holding contested seats, were declared legally elected by an investigating committee.

Representative Levy's resolution to end the session on July 15 forced an adjournment until noon Monday.

DECISION IN MINNEAPOLIS CASE UPHELD

Act Contains No Provision Barred By State or Nation.

Had Been Attacked on Charge of Class Legislation.

Ruling Makes Valid Nearly 1,500 St. Louis County Settlements.

St. Paul, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Minnesota supreme court today upheld the constitutionality of the workmen's compensation act. The decision was handed down in a case brought by Ole Matheson against the Minneapolis Street Railway company.

Matheson, the plaintiff, a member of a city crew, was laying pavement when he was struck by a street car and his right leg so injured that amputation was necessary.

He sued the railway company for $25,000. The company demurred on the ground that both it and the city operated under the compensation act, and that Matheson was amenable to the provisions of the act and entitled to only the prescribed $10 maximum a week for not more than 175 weeks.

Matheson refused to accept the provisions of the act when negotiating for a settlement, and his attorneys attacked the constitutionality of the law on the ground that a man's employment may depend on his acceptance of the act, and that employers and employes are therefore on an unequal footing under the law.

The court's decision, in effect, holds that the exclusion of certain classes of employes from the provisions of the act does not make it invalid as class legislation, and that such a definition of the law is binding upon the courts

FRENCH INVESTORS LOST $111,200,000

Edmond Therey Calls the Affair a National Calamity.

Paris, July 3.—French investors lost $111,200,000 during the last six months, according to the calculations of the economist, Edmond Therey. The holders of French rentes have lost 4,000,000,000 francs by their depreciation, according to the same authority, who calls this a national calamity which is to be attributed to spendthrift budgets and the succession of ministries.

CHICAGO BOY DIES OF FIREWORKS BURNS

Cache in Rubbish Pile Is Unearthed By Youngsters.

Chicago, July 3.—John Sullivan, aged 13 years, became Chicago's first Fourth of July victim today when he expired of burns caused by exploding fireworks.

Young Sullivan and three boy companions, who were also severely injured, unearthed the explosives from a rubbish pile at the abandoned plant of a fireworks company which went out of business with the success of the sane Fourth movement.

SEVEN NOW IN THE RACE

Two More Candidates for School Board Expected Before Night.

Order of Names on Ballot Will Be Determined By Board.

Petitions for seven candidates for the Duluth board of education had been filed with C. A. Bronson, clerk of the board, at noon today, and it is expected that two more will be entered in the race before 7:45 this evening, which is the hour at which the time for filing ends.

Those for whom petitions have been filed are: Andrew Nelson, John H. Norton, Dr. L. Q. Greeley, E. R. Cobb, Capt. D. E. Stevens, Dr. D. E. Seashore and Dr. A. J. Braden.

It is expected that petitions for H. J. Grannis and O. J. Larson will also be filed before the lid goes on. The entrance of Capt. Stevens, a former member of the board, was not forecasted, and as Dr. Greeley has been indorsed by the West End Commercial club, Capt. Stevens' entry indicates something of opposition within the ranks of the West enders.

The school board will hold its regular monthly meeting this evening and among other things will fix upon the order in which the names of candidates will be placed on the ballot. Last year the names of present members of the board then serving and standing for re-election were given the preference, with the others arranged in alphabetical style. In some other years the alphabetical rule has applied without prejudice as to "previous condition of servitude." Should last year's rule apply this year the ballot will be arranged in the following order, considering the names of those filed and those rumored as being about to become candidates:

E. R. Cobb, Andrew Nelson, Dr. D. E. Seashore, Dr. A. J. Braden, H. J. Grannis, Dr. L. Q. Greeley, O. J. Larson, John H. Norton and D. E. Stevens.

Aside from this matter, the committee on schools will have a routine report to make this evening when the board meets, and it may be that the committee of the Matinee Musicale, having in charge the matter of hiring a teacher for musical instruction in the Central high school, will be present and urge its desires.

vard then came up and got the nose of their shell in front, but Winnipeg caught them again.

Level at Half Mile.

At the half mile the boats were level, but before the half-way mark was reached Harvard had pushed a little ahead again. The time was 3 minutes 24 seconds.

The Canadians then spurted and Harvard replied. Harvard then went in front, and at the mile were leading by three-quarters of a length. They were rowing thirty-six to the minute and retained their advantage to the end, although the Canadians made a last great effort to overcome them.

On crossing the line, Harvard seemed perfectly fresh. On the other hand Winnipeg showed signs of faltering after passing the half mile post, and were rowed out at the finish, when they were just able to raise a feeble reply to Harvard's cheer.

Dibble is Beaten.

Giuseppe Singaglia of Como, Italy, beat Robert Dibble of Toronto, Canada, American amateur sculling champion, in the second semi-final of the Diamond sculls. The Italian won by five lengths in 8 minutes 33 seconds. Dibble collapsed at the winning post and fell out of the boat, but was promptly rescued by the umpire's launch.

When the second semi-final started excitement was tense. The American spectators turned to enthusiasm by Harvard's victory, cheered the Bostonians as they left for the starting line.

The shells got off to a good start. The Germans began with 41 strokes to the first minute against Boston's 40. The Boston men took the lead at once, and were leading by a good quarter of a length at the quarter mile.

The Germans then started rowing faster, but Boston appeared to have taken their measure.

At Half Mile.

At the half mile Boston was leading by half a length, but lost a little of their advantage before the half way mark was reached. The time was 3 minutes, 24 seconds, and Boston was just leading.

Germans Spurted.

The Germans were rowing 40 strokes a minute at the three-quarter mile mark, where Boston was a mere quarter of a length ahead and rowing a long 36. Boston was still a quarter length in front at the mile, where the Germans spurted, but could not make any impression.

Another magnificent effort by the Germans in passing the grandstand brought them closer together, but the Bostonians passed the line with only part of the oiled silk covering the nose of their boat in front. Their time was 7 minutes flat, the same as made by their countrymen.

Fifth Time to Leave England.

The Grand Challenge cup has left England only on four other occasions. It was captured by the Royal Nautical club of Ghent, Belgium, in 1906, 1907 and 1909, and by the Synnee Rowing club, New South Wales, in 1912.

Many other American and foreign crews have tried for it in previous years. In 1895 Cornell was defeated in the fifth heat by Trinity; in 1896 Yale fell before Leander in the first heat; in 1897 Utrecht university succumbed to Leander in the third heat; in 1899 the Argonaut Rowing club of Toronto, Can., was beaten by London in the sixth heat; in 1900, the Royal Nautical club of Ghent, Belgium, lost to Leander in the third heat; in 1901 the University of Pennsylvania went down before Leander in the first heat, and the Royal Nautical club of Ghent to the same club in the third heat; in 1902 the Argonaut Rowing club of Toronto was beaten by Third Trinity in the fifth; in 1905, the Royal Nautical club of Ghent lost to Leander in the final, after the Vesper Boat club of Philadelphia had been defeated by the same club in the fourth heat; in 1906 the Argonaut Rowing club of Toronto was defeated by Trinity Hall in the seventh heat.

WILL OPEN BRANCH LIBRARY SUNDAYS

Because of the remarkably good patronage at the West end branch of the public library so far during the summer, Miss Francis Earhart, head librarian, has decided to break the usual custom and keep the branch open Sundays for the remainder of the summer, if conditions continue as favorable as they are.

Miss Earhart made the decision today after receiving an informal report on attendance. Details of the work there are being collected for a report but so far only a general statement has been made. Conditions in general are said to be excellent.

The attendance at the West Duluth branch, however, has not been sufficient to warrant Sunday opening during July and August.

MRS. CARMAN NOT ON STAND

No one need fear, however, that I am going to try to run away or to shirk any ordeal that I may be put to."

No Weapon Found.

Search of the grounds of the Carman home, which extended even to an examination of wells and cesspools, has failed to reveal the weapon with which Mrs. Louise Bailey of Hempstead was murdered on Tuesday night while preparing to leave the office of Dr. Edwin Carman.

Freeport policemen, with lanterns, last night went over every foot of ground about the Carman place, while others drained cesspools and wells. The scene attracted a large crowd of villagers.

Lewis J. Smith, district attorney, announced today that he had found two men, both negroes, who declared they had seen a man run away from the window of Dr. Carman's office through which the shot was fired that killed Mrs. Bailey.

At the same time Sheriff Pettit announced that as yet there did not appear to be sufficient evidence at hand to warrant him in making an arrest.

Saw Body at Morgue.

The body of the murdered woman was taken from her home in Hempstead to an undertaker's morgue for an autopsy yesterday. Mrs. Carman and her attorney were waiting at the morgue. Mrs. Carman asked to look at the dead woman's features.

"Poor woman!" the physician's wife exclaimed. "I am so sorry for her."

"Have you ever seen this woman before?" her attorney asked.

Mrs. Carman, perfectly calm, replied:

"No."

The physicians who performed the autopsy traced the course of the bullet but no other course having a bearing on the tragedy was revealed.

Detectives interviewed Miss Helen Combs, a lawyer's stenographer, who said she was in the physician's house at the time of the shooting, having gone there for treatment. She said she was admitted to the house by Mrs. Carman. Dr. Carman was eating dinner and Miss Combs said she was told to wait.

Miss Combs' Story.

"While I was there," Miss Combs is said to have told the detectives, "a woman, whom I now know was Mrs. Bailey, arrived. She did not knock or announce herself. While she was in the doctor's office Mrs. Carman passed through the room and went into the kitchen at the rear of the house. Later she went out on the porch. That was about ten minutes before I heard a shot."

In telling her story to the detectives and the district attorney, Mrs. Carman declared she returned from New York about 7 o'clock the night of the murder, and went immediately to her room on the second floor of the house, where she prepared to retire. She denied going to the ground floor, even when the shot was fired.

Miss Combs, the detectives also say, told them it was a woman, and not Dr. Carman, who folded Mrs. Bailey's hands across her breast after the body had been raised from the floor and placed upon the office couch. Joseph Golder, another patient who was waiting to consult Dr. Carman, also told the police it was a woman who did this, and he added that it was a woman who admitted him to the physician's residence.

Dr. Carman told the police it was he who folded Mrs. Bailey's hands.

CHAMBERLAIN PASSES AWAY

ment. In 1906 his career of stormy activities was ended by a stroke of paralysis. The blow fell when he was in the midst of a strenuous campaign for the establishment of a protective tariff, with preference for the British colonies, and just after his constituents had celebrated the thirtieth anniversary of his first election.

Since that day the strong fighter had been an invalid, a pathetic on-looker at the political game, pictured always with his loyal wife, a daughter of W. C. Endicott of Massachusetts, who was secretary of war, beside him.

Kept Parliamentary Honor.

His chief consolations were the growing political prominence of his son, Austen Chamberlain, and the loyalty of his constituents. Birmingham would not dispose her leader, although he was no longer able to represent her upon the floor of the house of commons. In each election he was returned to his old seat, and appeared afterward in the house but once, where, amid respectful silence, he made his way to the speaker's desk on the arm of his son and took the oath of office.

On Jan. 5, 1913, Mr. Chamberlain wrote to his constituents resigning his seat, and saying:

"I cannot hope again to do my work in parliament, and I feel that our city and the constituency need the services of a younger man."

Claims to Fame.

While his greatest claim to fame was his determined and brilliant advocacy for years of a protective policy for Great Britain, the citadel of free trade, he will also be remembered as the bitterest and most forceful opponent of Gladstone in that statesman's efforts for home rule for Ireland; as one of the founders of the Liberal-Unionist party; and as the minister whose policy in South Africa involved his country in the greatest war it had experienced since the Crimean conflict, but blotted out the two Boer republics and made South Africa "all red."

From the day he left University college, London, to enter his father's screw factory at Birmingham, Joseph Chamberlain devoted his best energies to "the principle of constructive reform."

Made City a Model.

It was in 1868, just thirty-two years after his birth in London, that he received his baptism in public life as town councillor of Birmingham, later serving as mayor for successive terms. He gave his whole time to the cause of municipal reform, and what had been previously one of the worst governed cities in England became a model for municipal reformers.

In 1876 he entered parliament, being elected without opposition as a Liberal from Birmingham. In his early years in the commons he sat among the Home Rule Liberals with whose aspirations he was supposed to sympathize, but a few years later he emphatically disabused his associates in the house of any notion they may have had of his belief in separate government for Ireland.

In less than four years he was a cabinet minister, entering Gladstone's government in 1880 as president of the board of trade, and in less than a decade his hold on popular opinion was almost as great as Gladstone's.

Broke With Gladstone.

After the general election of 1885 he became president of the local government board, but by the spring of 1886 his and Gladstone's relations on the latter's Irish policy had become so strained that he broke with the great premier, resigned his place in the cabinet and left the Liberal party never to return to it.

He, Lord Hartington (afterwards the duke of Devonshire), G. J. Goschen and others high in the Liberal party who saw in their former leader's home rule proposals and propaganda a menace to the integrity of the empire, formed a new party to resist them. They called themselves Liberal Unionists, and anti-home rule was, in the beginning, their main tenet. Lord Hartington was the first leader, but when he was elevated to the peerage through the death of his father, Mr. Chamberlain was chosen the party's chief.

Visited United States.

Meanwhile Mr. Chamberlain had visited the United States, November, 1887, to February, 1888, as the head of the British representatives upon the American-British joint high commission which was to negotiate a treaty for the settlement of the long standing fisheries dispute. A treaty was signed, but the United States senate refused to ratify it.

Late in 1888 Mr. Chamberlain returned to the United States, this time to be married. Having been twice a widower, he took as his third wife Miss Mary Endicott, daughter of William C. Endicott, President Cleveland's secretary of war.

During the campaign of 1892 Mr. Chamberlain worked with great effect, and subsequently in the commons he was to the forefront in all the assaults on the Irish government bill, and clashed frequently with Mr. Gladstone. The home rulers considered him a renegade, and this rankling he aggravated by his rasping tactics.

Started Riot in Parliament.

During debate on the bill, one night in July, 1893, Mr. Gladstone tartly compared him with "the devil's advocate." The next night, in debate, Mr. Chamberlain retorted so caustically that T. P. O'Connor yelled at him "Judas! Judas!" followed presently by a free fight on the floor between several members—a rare outbreak in probably the most staid legislative body in the world—accompanied by vigorous hissing by the galleries.

The Birmingham man with the monocle and long aquiline nose (both the delight of the English caricaturists), with keen head and the forceful tongue, the faultlessly fashionable attire, topped off invariably with a white orchid in the coat lapel, was now a commanding figure at Westminster. On the formation of the coalition (Conservative and Unionist) ministry in 1895 he took office under Lord Salisbury as colonial secretary.

The South African Affair.

In this position his remarkable powers were severely tested by South Africa—the chain of strenuous events beginning with Jameson's hare-brained raid and ending when Lord Kitchener had worn down the stubborn Boer resistance with the treaty of Vereeniging—but he stood the test. His enemies, too, savagely assailed him as being the adroit tool of the Rand gold mine owners of 1900 and during 1901. But he was the object of great popular demonstrations before his visit to South Africa late in 1902 on a mission of conciliation and observation and also on his return early in 1903.

The war and the elections over, he set himself the task of fostering the relations between the mother country and the colonies. The constitution for the Australian commonwealth was one of his productions.

Sought Fiscal Reform.

Just before his 67th birthday, Chamberlain launched his scheme of fiscal reform, which partly succeeded in splitting the Unionist party. It was in May and at Birmingham that he announced his new policy and finding in September that his party was not ready for so radical a change, he resigned to devote himself to popularizing his doctrines. He fought the cause with a genius, eloquence, energy and organization never equaled in any previous moment in his career, but his party wavered and went down to defeat in the election of 1906. The one bright spot for the Unionist party during those dark days was Birmingham and vicinity, where Chamberlain carried his candidates to victory.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION LAW IS DECLARED VALID

unless it can be shown to be purely fanciful and arbitrary.

Syllabus of Case.

Following is the syllabus of the case:

Ole Matheson, appellant, vs. Minneapolis Street Railway company, respondent—

1. Laws enacted by the legislature are presumed to be valid, and will not be declared invalid by the courts unless they clearly transgress some constitutional limitation.

2. The constitutional requirement that all persons shall receive the equal protection of the laws is not infringed by legislation which applies only to those persons falling within a specified class, if it applies alike to all persons within such class, and reasonable grounds exist for making a distinction between those who fall within such class and those who do not.

3. When the legislature has determined that a sufficient distinction exists between two classes of persons to justify applying rules to one class which do not apply to the other, such determination is binding upon the courts unless they can point out that the distinction is purely fanciful and arbitrary, and that no substantial or logical basis exists therefor.

4. Excluding domestic servants, farm laborers, casual employes, and such railroads and railroad employes as are engaged in interstate commerce from the provisions of the workmen's compensation act does not render it unconstitutional as class legislation.

5. The legislature may place employers who become subject to part 2 of the act in a different class from those who do not, and may also place employes who become subject thereto in a different class from those who do not; and abrogating the defenses of contributory negligence, assumption of risk, and negligence of a co-employe, in actions against employers who do not accept such part 2, and permitting such defenses in actions against employers who do accept such part 2, does not render the act invalid as class legislation.

6. Part 2 of the act substitutes the rights, remedies and liabilities therein provided for those previously existing, and employers and employes subject thereto are limited to such rights and remedies; but such provisions impair no constitutional rights as they apply only to those who have voluntarily chosen to become subject thereto, and such choice is no less optional because part 2 is presumed to have been accepted by all employers and employes who have not given notice to the contrary.

7. The act contains no provision prohibited by the state or Federal Constitution and is valid.

Order affirmed. TAYLOR, C.

Of Interest in Duluth.

The decision upholding the constitutionality of certain phases of the workmen's compensation act is of considerable local interest. Nearly 1,500 settlements have been made in St. Louis county between employers and employes since the law went into effect last October, and much depended upon the supreme court's disposition of the case.

WESTINGHOUSE MEN CAST STRIKE VOTES

Evident Attempt to Dynamite Manager's House Is Reported.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 3.—Westinghouse strikers today were voting whether they would accept the proposition of the companies and return to work. Balloting began at Turtle Creek at 7 o'clock and continued almost without interruption.

Details of what is believed to have been an attempt to destroy the residence of E. M. Herr, manager of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company, were made public today when it became known that Robert Miller, a steamheating contractor, was in a Wilkinsburg hospital with a bullet hole in his hand. According to the story, Miller saw a man creeping along a hedge at the Herr residence in Edgewood Tuesday night. He attempted to intercept the man and three shots were fired at him. Four pounds of dynamite with a twenty-foot fuse attached were found on the Herr lawn.

BRONZE LADY HAS OFFICIALDOM FUSSED

Wisconsin Disrupted Over Which Way "Forward" Shall Face.

Madison, Wis., July 3.—State officialdom is much concerned over what to do about "Forward"—the bronze lady twenty feet tall who is soon to begin her long vigil at the highest point of the new capitol dome. The builders are stumped to know in what direction she shall face.

Opinion as expressed in a newspaper symposium seems to favor the east—land of the rising sun. "Highbrows" in the Latin quarter of this classic city are very sure the symbolic figure ought to point westward toward the university. Some materialistic souls favor the north—a land full of vast undeveloped resources, needing only forward hands to open them to the world. The south is favored by others, as embracing the most expansive portion of the country bounded by Wisconsin.

"Toward the Asylum."

A noted Chicago landscape architect says "don't turn the young lady's back completely to the university, one of the city's greatest assets."

A Kaunakee man suggests northward "with a look of supreme dissatisfaction at the city's new market place."

Still another, more facetious, proposes that Miss Forward stand on a revolving pedestal so that her face may be seen from all sides. That she face the asylum is the suggestion of another.

WANT MICHIGAN MAN OUSTED FROM BUTTE

Finns Ask Mayor to Deport Frank Altonen of Negaunee

Butte, Mont., July 3. — Radicals among the Finnish miners, who seceded with others on June 13 from Miners' Union No. 1, petitioned Mayor Duncan today to deport from Butte, Frank Altonen of Negaunee, Mich., correspondent for a Finnish newspaper published at Hancock. Altonen's paper champions the cause of the American Federation of Labor, the Western Federation of Miners and affiliated bodies. The petitioning Finns said he would be better off in places other than Butte.

The mayor informed his petitioners that he had no power to force an American citizen to leave.

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as the prescription othine — double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength—from Boyce Drug Store and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for double strength othine as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

BIG B. Y. P. U. IS PROPOSED

Societies of North, South and Canada Would Be Included.

No Action Can Be Taken at Kansas City, It Is Said.

Kansas City, Mo., July 3.—"The Young People's union is a shop in which we train apprentice Christians," said L. P. Leavell of Oxford, Miss., today in an address before the twenty-first convention of the Baptist Young People's Union of America, meeting jointly with the Baptist Young People's Union of the South.

"From this shop we graduate young men and women after they have served this apprenticeship, as journeymen Christians, skilled in their work, having the initiative and the knowledge of church affairs that makes for a successful church," Mr. Leavell said.

"It is upon the Young People's unions that we must depend for our future church leaders, and the success or failure of the churches of the future lies, in a large measure, with them. If they fail in their mission, the church loses as much as the young people themselves."

Talk of Consolidation.

Following the address yesterday of Rev. George P. Beers of Baltimore, in which he expressed the hope that the B. Y. P. U. of the North, South and Canada might be combined, rumors have been current that a union of the Young People's organization would be effected at this meeting. However, according to Frank L. Anderson of Chicago, president of the B. Y. P. U. of America, and Dr. W. W. Hamilton of Lynchburg, Va., president of the B. Y. P. U. of the South, the convention is not a deliberative body and no formal action can be taken toward such union.

The church as a field for the study of life was portrayed by the Rev. George A. Briggs of Buffalo, N. Y.

Would Educate Leaders.

That the greatest need of every community is for capable leaders with Christian ideals who will apply them to the solution of municipal, social, economic and political questions, was asserted by S. Eberprice, president of Ottawa university, Ottawa, Kan., in an address before the convention. He pointed out that one of the first tasks before the church people of the country is to educate the producers of literature, newspaper men and the magazine men.

Rev. H. L. Winburn of Louisville, Ky., declared spirituality was entering into business more than ever before.

COLONIAL KNIFE ON WISCONSIN ISLAND

It Will Be Given to Crownhart in Superior July 4.

Madison, Wis., July 3.—Additional evidence that the island recently purchased by Industrial Commissioner Crownhart in the Little St. Croix lake is a romantic spot that "ghosts" might frequent, is contained in a letter received by Mr. Crownhart today from Frank Borquist of Gordon, the man who built the octagonal cottage on the island in 1891.

The island cottage, when recently sold by Tax Commissioner Lyons, received considerable publicity as the "haunted house." In Mr. Borquist's letter he says that in excavating for the foundation to erect the cottage, at a depth of about two and one-half feet a combination of buried material was exhumed, among which was an old knife, the handle rotted off and the blade indicating that it was of foreign make of a style used by pioneers of Colonial times, in about 1750. The knife bears the imprint of England and has given rise to the theory that it was buried there by Jonathan Carver, an English explorer, when he visited the island in 1766.

"I feel quite sure that there are two graves on this island, but I must say that ghosts or spooks are quiet," writes Mr. Borquist, who says he intends to present the famous knife to Mr. Crownhart when he sees him at Superior July 4.

BANKS SHOW NO DEPRESSION

Call Statements Show Large Increases in Deposits and Loans.

More Than Two Million Increase in Deposits Since Last Call.

Increased deposits, increased loans and discounts, and, in fact, progress all along the line, were shown by Duluth banks in their statements of conditions as on June 30, made today at the call of the comptroller of the currency.

Aggregate deposits of the national and state banks were reported at $25,847,727.24, an increase of $2,141,827.43 over the statement of March 4. Deposits of the four national banks were $24,748,387.96, or a gain of $2,104,376.42. The five state banks' deposits came to $1,099,339.28, a betterment of $37,431.01.

Cash reserves of the national banks were $8,022,273.07, an increase of $851,319.26 over the last statement, showing that the financial institutions are in a strong position.

That general business in the city and district is becoming more active, is attested by an increase of $1,349,578.44 in the loans and discounts of the national banks, and of $157,414.82 of the state banks. National banks' loans were reported at $21,201,625.41, and those of the state banks at $167,414.82.

SALOON WAS HER STAGE

Mother Alleges Husband Made Daughter Dance for Loungers.

That he took one of his daughters into a saloon and there compelled her to dance for the entertainment of a crowd of evil-minded men is the charge which Orin De Forest Hammond, 42, of Cusson, faces in a divorce suit filed against him today in district court by Eva V. Hammond, his wife and the mother of his six children.

The divorce is sought on the grounds of cruel and inhumane treatment which she claims has extended over a considerable period of their married life and which culminated a month ago when she left him and came to Duluth to live and sue out a divorce against him.

On many occasions, she claims, he assaulted her and applied vile epithets to her. On June 2 last, the day she left him, he floored her with a blow from his fist, she alleges.

The Hammonds were married at Mederville, Iowa, on May, 1897, and are parents of the following children: Walter, 17; Bessie, 15; Gertrude, 12; Pearl, 10; Lilliam, 8, and Orin, 7. The mother represents that the father is not a fit person to have the custody of the children and asks that their keeping be committed to her.

DISCUSSES RATES IN MAGAZINE ARTICLE

Duluthian Contributes Interesting Paper to the Review of Reviews.

Some lucid information and valuable conclusions regarding lake and rail rates are given by Julius H. Barnes of Duluth in an article in the July number of The Review of Reviews on "A Business Basis for Transportation Rates."

The editor of The Review of Reviews prefixed a note to the article in which he states that Mr. Barnes is the spokesman for the Duluth board of trade and the ablest advocate of the use of the Great Lakes for transportation purposes.

Mr. Barnes discusses the subject under various subheads, covering the complexity of railroad rate construction, water rates, saving effected by lake transportation, evils of indirect routing, and the New York-Chicago rate. The article covers many of the same phases of the question that he has discussed at various times in Duluth.

In opening his discussion he speaks of the great complexity of railroad rate construction, which he says is often made so difficult to understand that the business man is often inclined to give up trying to understand it and takes the railroad man's opinion as final.

He says that it often looks as if the problem were made complex through deliberate attempt so as to keep the question from being understood.

In speaking of lake rates he says that the rate on grain from Duluth to Buffalo is just about one-tenth as great by lake as by rail.

He advocates the shortest, cheapest route for transportation, and cites the New York-Chicago route by Norfolk, Va., as an extreme example of poor routing.

THEIR GOD NOT HIS GOD

William Abalan Has No Faith in His Relatives' Deity.

William Abalan may swear by the God of his fathers, but he draws the line when it comes to swearing by the God of his immediate family, more particularly the deity which is reverenced by his sister, Mrs. Sarah Atol, and her friends and immediate relatives.

At least this was Abalan's declaration when he was called as a witness for the plaintiff in the alienation of affection suit which James J. Ryia is pressing against his wife's parents, Charles and Sarah Atol, before Judge Ensign and a district court jury.

When the Christian oath was administered to Abalan in court this morning, C. O. Baldwin, attorney for the Atols, interposed an objection to the witness giving testimony on the ground that he had not been properly sworn.

"I understand that this witness does not believe in the existence of God," said Mr. Baldwin, and he asked the court to have another oath administered which would be more binding on the witness.

Abalan, when inquiry was directed to the subject, declared that while he believed in the existence of a God, he did not believe in the God of the Atols. He also asserted that the oath which he took before stepping on the witness-stand was the most binding of any he could take.

Abalan is appearing in the case as a star witness for Ryia in the suit which the young man has brought against his wife's parents for $6,000 damages. Abalan admitted on the witness-stand that he had not spoken to his sister, Mrs. Atol, or her husband, or certain members of the family for several years, but denied that there was any "family division." Abalan is a real estate dealer and resides at 425 East First street.

Nearly all of the witnesses in the case are members of the local Syrian colony and have lived here for a number of years. The plaintiff rested his case this morning. The case will probably go to the jury Monday.

GIBSON SEES NO HARM AT CARNIVAL

Joseph B. Gibson, who was appointed on a committee of the Oneota and Hazelwood Park Improvement club to investigate alleged gambling at the carnival now being conducted at Thirtieth avenue west and Third street, says that he was named without his consent and while he was not present.

"I do not believe that there is such terrible wrong going on at the carnival, I went out to see," said Mr. Gibson to The Herald today. "I saw only raffles, as you might call them, for sofa pillows, kewpies, and other things of that sort. Until church and other societies abandon such things I cannot see where we can raise much of a howl against the carnival doing it under the auspices of a reputable society. The only difference that I see is that more people get in on this one. As to the quality of the entertainment I am not called upon to judge.

"These games, it seems to be, need raise no such fuss as is being raised. Other cities that try to make themselves either summer or winter resorts, not only allow such entertainments as carnivals, etc., but foster them and make them a feature of their program. Commissioner Hicken has given us a tight town, which is all right; but I can't see where we should bar all forms of pleasure."

PRIMARY LAW UNPOPULAR.

Prediction Made North Dakota Will Repeal It.

Fargo, N. D., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The repeal of the present primary law, the establishment of the four-year term system of office holding for the state and counties, the short ballot and the return to the old convention system are some of the things predicted by North Dakota politicians.

There is no longer any effort being made to conceal the unpopularity of the primary election law. The double elections, the expense to candidates, the bitterness and the discussion created are the points to which the strongest objections are being made.

MARINE NEWS

CANADIAN LOCK LEADS

Fewer Vessels But More Tonnage Than Through American Soo.

Sault Ste Marie, Mich., July 3.—Another heavy decrease in great lakes traffic is shown by the statistical report of commerce through the American and Canadian canals at this point for the month of June.

The total freight movement of 8,588,081 tons is 3,525,532 tons below the total for June, 1913. In practically every article of freight except flour, east-bound, and hard coal, west-bound, shipments fall short of the totals for June of last year.

Vessel passages for the month were 2,805, with a registered net tonnage of 6,665,134 as compared with 3,413 vessels with 8,640,442 tonnage last year.

During the month nearly twice as many vessels passed through the American locks as were sent through the Canadian canal, but the volume of freight handled through the Canadian waterway was 720,029 tons greater than shipments by the American route.

NO FEAR FELT FOR THE ASSINIBOIA

Montreal, Ont., July 3.—The steamer Assiniboia of the Canadian Pacific railway, Upper Lakes fleet, which, with 100 passengers on board, ran ashore early yesterday on Bad Neighbor island, near Cove Island in Georgian Bay, was still aground at a late hour, according to advices received last night. Relief vessels were standing by and as the liner was resting easily no fear was felt for her safety or that of her passengers. Weather conditions favoring, it is hoped to clear her from the shoal today.

There was no panic among the passengers, who, with few exceptions were asleep and did not know for some time that the vessel was ashore.

The steamer Manitoba, which had just left Owen Sound for the Canadian Head of the Lakes, replied to wireless calls for assistance, as did the Midland station, which apprised the Canadian Pacific headquarters. The Manitoba reached the Assiniboia in the morning and stood by waiting for the arrival of the steamer Alberta, which had been hurriedly dispatched from Port McNicoll to take off the Assiniboia's passengers and bring them to their destination at Port McNicoll.

NEW TUG HERE; CROSBY GOES EAST

The tug Wisconsin, the latest product of the yards of the Great Lakes Towing company at Cleveland, arrived here early this morning to enter the business of towing in the Duluth-Superior harbor. She is exchanged into the fleet of the Union Towing & Wrecking company, the local subsidiary company of the Great Lakes company, for the veteran tug E. G. Crosby, which started today on her way to the Cleveland boneyard. Perhaps she may be saved from that by a smaller engine being installed in her hold, for her present motive power will be transferred to a new steel tug that is just building at the Cleveland yards.

The Wisconsin is of all-steel construction, is 75 feet long and has a 20-foot beam. She is a duplicate of the tug Minnesota. Her engine is 25 by 28 high pressure, and carries 156 pounds of steam. She was brought here in command of Capt. Stearn of the Cleveland yards, who delivers all tugs. The captain and his crew are taking the Crosby back to Cleveland.

The tug Crosby came to the Head of the Lakes in 1900 as part of the fleet of the Maytham line, then one of the independents. When the independents were absorbed by the Great Lakes Towing company, the Crosby went in as part of the absorption. She has been used in the towing business here and in Ashland ever since that time.

WRECKED STEAMER HANNA IS FLOATED.

Port Huron, Mich., July 3.—The steamer Howard M. Hanna, Jr., which went on the rocks at Point Aux Barques in the storm of Nov. 9, 1913, has been floated by a wrecking company which purchased the vessel from the underwriters.

The condition of the Hanna will not be known until after examination in drydock, but it is believed the steamer can be repaired without great expense.

Former Purser Dies.

Word has been received of the death at Buffalo, N. Y., of Frank Servoss, formerly purser on the steamer Juniata of the Anchor line. He was employed by that line for twenty-five years. He has not been in service this season because of ill health. Mr. Servoss was one of the best known men in the passenger trade on the Great Lakes.

Guides to Mariners.

The hydrographic department has issued, in its regular bulletin, the following notices of changes in Lake Superior and Lake Erie:

On June 12 the characteristic of Duluth range rear light, Duluth harbor entrance, was changed from flashing red every six seconds to flashing white every four seconds, thus, flash 0.8 seconds, eclipsed 3.2 seconds. The luminous power of the light was increased from 1,400 to 13,000 candles by changing the illuminant from oil to incandescent oil vapor.

Notice is given that a gas bell-buoy, similar in all respects to the one discontinued by the United States government, has been established by the Canadian government on Gros Cap reef, St. Marys river, Lake Superior. The new buoy is located in practically the same position as the former buoy.

On June 12, West Side lower light No. 28, West Neebish channel, St. Marys river, destroyed by collision, was re-established and the provisional fixed white oil light discontinued.

The Canadian government has given notice that about June 15, and without further notice, an unwatched dioptric intermittent white acetylene light would be established on the outer end of the west breakwater, Port Burwell, Lake Erie. The light is exhibited thirty feet above the water from a re-enforced concrete beacon, square in plan, with battered sides, surmounted by a pyramidal steel frame supporting the lantern, and is visible ten miles from all points of approach.

The beacon is twenty-five in height from the top of the breakwater to the top of the lantern. The concrete is of a gray color and the steel frame red.

Notice is further given that on June 13 channel gas-buoy 3, conical, with a pyramidal skeleton superstructure exhibiting ten feet above the water, an intermittent red light of about thirty-five candle-power every fifteen seconds, thus, light ten seconds, eclipsed five seconds, was established in lieu of Black Rock harbor entrance buoy 3, Buffalo harbor, Lake Erie.

DEPORT RISKS JAIL IF HE RETURNS

When James Morley Gullett returns to Canada after deportation it will be with the distinct understanding that to again set his foot on American soil will mean that he will stand an excellent chance of entering a penitentiary life.

Gullett, indicted by the May grand jury on a charge of grand larceny and convicted at this term of court of the crime, was today sentenced by District Judge Bert Fesler to serve a term of from one to five years at Stillwater.

The execution of the sentence, however, was suspended for the purpose of permitting Gullett to be deported from the country. The order of the court was that the sheriff should retain custody of the prisoner until he was requested by the immigration authorities, who expect to deport him to Canada on the grounds that he is an undesirable citizen.

Gullett stole $60 and a watch belonging to one Thomas Golis from the latter's room in a lodging house at 707 West Superior street on the night of March 15. When Golis awoke on the morning of March 16, he missed his valuables and notified the clerk. The latter had noticed Gullett about the place and furnished a description of the man to the police, who arrested him at the St. Paul restaurant shortly afterwards. Gullett stood trial on the charge and was convicted.

Judge Fesler told Gullett that if he was deported and returned to the United States or came within the jurisdiction of the court he would be compelled to serve his prison term.

TOYS WITH DYNAMITE; BARROWS MAN HURT.

Brainerd, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Felix Kavolik, aged 29, who has worked nearly alne years on the Mesaba and the Cuyuna ranges and handled lots of dynamite, blew off one hand at Barrows when he lighted the end of a stick of dynamite, "just for fun," as he said he had often done. An explosion resulted as he shifted the stick from one hand to the other and his shattered right arm bears testimony to his foolhardy act. His companions bound up his arm under his direction and he was hurried to a local hospital.

Broke His Parole.

Yesterday morning Oscar Olson, 58 years old, promised to refrain from drinking and Judge Cutting suspended a sixty-day work farm sentence, placing him on parole. Last evening Olson was drunk again and he was placed under arrest by Parole Officer Hicks.

Olson pleaded guilty when brought before the court again this morning, but this time he was given the sixty-day sentence, without any alternative.

Mills Temporarily Close.

Cloquet, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The mills of the Cloquet and Northern Lumber companies closed down last night and will not resume operations again until Monday. The shipping departments of both companies, however, are at work as usual today.

SPANKING SUGGESTED

Prosecutor Thought Good "Whaling" Would Be Fit Punishment.

But Judge Fesler Handed Out a Work Farm Sentence Instead.

Spanking was suggested by Mason M. Forbes, first assistant county attorney, as a proper punishment for 18-year-old Walter S. Spellman, a wayward boy who stood before District Judge Fesler this morning convicted on his own plea of stealing.

When asked as to what recommendations he had to make as to the disposition of the prisoner, Mr. Forbes declared that it was "too bad we haven't got a scheme whereby this boy could get a good spanking." Mr. Forbes said that he thought it might go a long way towards putting him on the right path.

Walter pleaded guilty to a charge of grand larceny in the second degree. He admitting stealing several articles of clothing from the residence of K. M. Riever on Minnesota Point on June 9 last.

The boy's only attempt to justify his act was his statement to the effect that he had been "broke" most of the time since his arrival in Duluth on April 7 last and that his own clothes were shabby and threadbare. He wanted to get some "decent-looking" clothes and not having the necessary coin of the realm handy helped himself when the first opportunity presented itself.

Judge Fesler, not being able to follow the suggestion of the assistant county attorney, carried out his alternative recommendation, that of imposing a work farm sentence. Spellman was sent up for ninety days at hard labor at the new correctional institution.

"You're getting off mighty easy, young man," declared Judge Fesler. "You may not be so fortunate next time. See to it when you leave the work farm, that you get a job and keep out of trouble in the future."

Spellman has been more or less of a wanderer for the last year or so. He told the court that he wasn't certain, but he believed his mother was living in Traverse City, Mich. He said that he was born in Ohio but that he had forgotten the exact place.

ECHO THEATER IS PICKETED BY UNION

The Echo theater has drawn the fire of union labor in this city and pickets were placed in front of the playhouse last night to warn the public against patronizing the place because of its alleged unfairness to union labor.

The specific charge was that the management refused to unionize the house.

The stage employes' union started the trouble, and their complaint was taken before the Federated Trades' assembly. Failing to secure satisfactory working conditions through these negotiations the stage employes picketed the house.

RETURN $10 VERDICT; SPEND $13 FOR MEALS

After remaining out all night the jury in the case of Joseph Johnson against Andrew Karjela and two other defendants returned a verdict under five-sixths jury law this morning which awarded Johnson $10 damages against the defendants Andrew Karjela and Charles Steuman. The jury released Gust Lundgren, another defendant, from any liability. The case was given to the jury late yesterday afternoon but no verdict was reached until 8:30 this morning, when eleven jurors concurred. While out, the jury cost the county $13 in meals alone.

Johnson, the plaintiff in the action sued for $500 damages alleged to have resulted to a logging road on his property which was used without permission by Karjela and his employes during the last logging season.

URGE BRIDGE FOR ST. LOUIS RIVER

Charles E. Adams, special county counsel, returned this morning from Washington, D C., and other eastern points.

While in the national capital, Mr. Adams was a member of the local delegation which last week appeared before the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce, which conducted a hearing on an application for a permit to build a bridge across the St. Louis river at Fond du Luc. Others from Duluth, who spoke in favor of the project were: Thomas McGilvray, civil engineer in charge of the construction of the proposed bridge, and H. J. Mullin, secretary of the Duluth Automobile club. Congressman Lenroot of Superior spoke in opposition. The hearing was held before the committee Thursday of last week.

SUNDAY SHOWS NOT UNLAWFUL

Conducting a picture and vaudeville show on Sunday, when it is so presented as not seriously to interrupt the repose and religious liberty of the community, is not violation of the law of the state of Minnesota, according to a decision which was handed down by the state supreme court in a case on appeal from the courts of Ramsey county.

The opinion was written by Commissioner H. B. Dibell, formerly a district judge of Duluth. In the opinion it is further held that a contract for advertising purposes on a curtain of a theater so conducted, the contract contemplating its use on Sunday, is not void.

"The execution of a contract on Sunday" says the court "for such advertising space is not void." The case was one in which the decision of the lower court was reversed.

TEDDY RAILS OVER TREATY

Says Payment to Colombia Is Only Belated Blackmail.

Oyster Bay, July 3.—"If the Wilson administration puts through the treaty with Colombia providing for the payment of $25,000,000," declared Theodore Roosevelt in a statement last night, "it will forfeit the right to the respect of the people of the United States."

Col. Roosevelt's statement was drawn out by that of James T. Dubois, former minister to Colombia, who assailed the acts of the Roosevelt administration in connection with the Panama revolution. The former president barely referred to the Dubois statement, however, and plunged into a denunciation of the treaty before the senate.

"I have nothing to say about Mr. Dubois," the Colonel said in his statement. "He was merely an instrument. Mr. Wilson is responsible for the payment of the blackmail to Colombia. Whether he did it of his own initiative or at the instigation of Mr. Bryan is wholly unimportant, and it is of infinitely less importance what particular subordinate was chosen to carry through the discreditable transaction or to apologize for it in the public press.

Belated Blackmail.

"Neither Mr. Wilson nor Mr. Bryan can answer my statement. The payment, is made, will be a naked payment of belated blackmail, and the mere proposal to make it is an outrage on the honor and a heavy blow to the interests of the American people.

"There is small wonder that many hundreds of Americans in Mexico have been endeavoring to become British, German or French subjects in order to get some protection from some government.

"An administration that will conclude such a treaty as this treaty for the payment of blackmail to Colombia, has forfeited the right to the respect of the people of the United States."

Mayor John Purroy Mitchel of New York spent several hours with Mr. Roosevelt at Sagamore Hill last night. Col. Roosevelt said Mayor Mitchel's visit was of a social nature.

Auto Runs Down Boy.

An automobile owned by W. E. Magner ran down Howard Parsons, 16, 311 Eleventh avenue east, yesterday afternoon at Tenth avenue east and Superior street. The young man's collar bone and ribs were broken and he also received minor scratches. Mr. Magner was not in the car at the time, the machine being in charge of his chauffeur when the accident occurred.

CAREER OF DICK FERRIS

Former "Provisional President" of Lower California Back in Minneapolis.

His Army Looked Like "Supers" in "Julius Caesar" Production.

Dick Ferris, who for one summer entertained Duluthians as head of a dramatic company, but who later went to the Golden West and entered upon a romantic career that would have made Don Quixote green with envy, is back in Minnesota.

Has Romantic Career.

Dick, while an actor in Duluth and Minneapolis, was well known as a matinee idol, got into the divorce courts, and became quite famous generally. Tiring of the humdrum of even such a stirring career, he went after big game in the West. While there he amused himself by running for lieutenant governor of California, conducted the first aviation meet in America, broke ground for the San Diego exposition, and became provisional president of Lower California. The Minneapolis Journal in an interview with Ferris who just came back to the Mill City, publishes some of his most stirring adventures.

"Elected provisional president by acclamation after the battle of Tecarte, in which he participated, he was planning to move on Ensenada, the capital. The United States government interfered, he was ordered out of the country three times, three times went back, was put under $10,000 bond, tried at Los Angeles on a charge of breaking the neutrality laws and acquitted.

"Thereupon, just as he used to do in Minneapolis, he turned his adventure to account, and while his Mexican escapade was filling the Los Angeles press, put on 'The Man From Mexico,' at his theater, with great success. In custody again for contempt of court, he was again acquitted. In Minneapolis today he said he was glad to be back.

"'The revolutionists were recruiting men secretly in Los Angeles while Porfirio Diaz still was president and Francesco Madero's forces were in the field,' Mr. Ferris said. 'I became interested. I enlisted my influence and went down near Tecarte, in Lower California.

Became Rebels' Diplomat.

"'Gen. C. Rhys Pryce, who is now employed in a moving picture show in Los Angeles, and who is a British subject, was in command of 600 men. He had three field pieces and the men had Mausers. I became diplomatic adviser and we planned a move on Tecarte.

"'It was a perfectly fierce army. It looked like the "supers" in the play of "Julius Caesar" had gotten lost and wandered down there, only they didn't have spears; but it was no joke.

"'I was elected provisional president of Lower California and I took charge of the military operations as adviser to Gen. Pryce.

"'Either I would have cleaned up $10,000,000 or I would have stood against an adobe wall and faced a firing squad before I got through, but the United States interfered and all I got out of it was the press advertising, which boosted my show at Los Angeles amazingly. I was a real Mexican hero, a real Lower Californian "El Presidente," but I quit the job and formally resigned when the United States government got after me.

"Might Have Made" Millions.

"'One pending deal that I knew about concerned 4,000,000 acres of land back of Magdalena bay, owned by a man who had bought it from an old Mexican for 25 cents an acre. He had it fixed to sell it to a Japanese syndicate for $1 an acre, a nice little cleanup and cash at that. But the United States interfered.

"'If I had been able to get into and hold Ensenada, the capital, as president of Lower California, I would have had something to say about the finances of the country, you may be sure.'"

SERIOUS STRIKE IN THE CANANEA MINES.

Naco, Ariz., July 3.—C. L. Montague, American consular agent at Cananea, Mex., in a telephone message reported a serious situation resulting from the strike of 2,500 miners employed by the Cananea Consolidated Copper company. Montague said he was in a house surrounded by several hundred strikers who gathered to prevent the departure from Cananea of George Kingdon, superintendent of the mines.

Goes After Blooded Stock.

St. Paul, Minn., July 3.—Professor Thomas Shaw, livestock expert, sailed today from New York for England to spend two months in searching the British cattle market for new blooded stock for the famous herd of J. J. Hill at his North Oaks farm, near St. Paul. Most of the purchases will be Shorthorns.

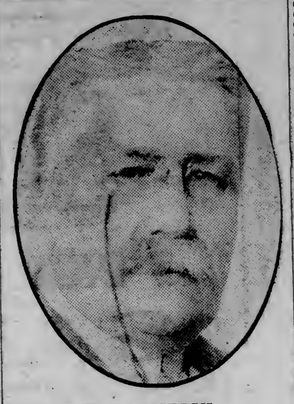

F. A. PATRICK TAKES A FLIGHT; IS ENTHUSIAST ON AVIATION

F. A. Patrick, who is one of Duluth's aviation enthusiasts, accompanied Roger Jannus in his hydroaeroplane on a long flight over the Duluth harbor last evening. Mr. Patrick made the flight just previous to dining with a party of friends at the Boat club.

Starting from the main house the air craft traveled rapidly southwest, passing over the freighters at anchor and circled about Allouez bay. Returning along the west side of the harbor the elevation was considerably increased and the aeroplane made a long turn at a considerable height and an easy descent in front of the Boat club float.

"This is my first trip in an air craft," said Mr. Patrick at the conclusion of the flight, "and I am delighted with the experience. I certainly hope to take a number of flights with Mr. Jannus. A trip up the St. Louis river would be very pleasant and interesting and I plan to take one very soon.

"One is as comfortable in Mr. Jannus' machine as in an automobile and has no feeling of insecurity or risk. Of course the speed of the flight, combined with the air suction of the powerful fan propellor, makes a very swift air current that only adds to the feeling of exhiliration."

OPPOSE LICENSE FOR GRAND HOTEL SALOON.

Temperance advocates as well as many residents of the lower Ramsey street district will oppose the issuance of a saloon license in the Grand hotel. Last night the Swedish-Finnish Temperance society went on record as opposing it, and adopted resolutions asking the city commission to refuse to grant the license.

The following is the resolution adopted by the temperance society:

"Whereas, J. J. Frey has made application for a liquor license at 5217 Ramsey street, West Duluth, and

"Whereas, Said saloon, if license is granted, will be in the midst of a large residential community and be a menace and a nuisance to the residents thereof; will have a degrading influence on the school children who must pass the place many times daily; and will be within about 200 feet of one church and within about 250 feet of another; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the Swedish-Finnish Temperance society, whose membership is made up mostly of residents of this community in question, join with other petitioners in their request that a license shall not be granted J. J. Frey or anyone else, in the location, 5217 Ramsey street, thereby bringing forcibly to the attention of everyone the fact that the decency which has hitherto prevailed in this, one of the best resident districts of West Duluth, shall be preserved. Respectfully submitted,

"CHAS. P. ENGEL,

LIVELY MEETING OF CLUB FORECASTED.

A lively meeting is expected this evening at the West Duluth Commercial club. The charge made in last evening's Herald by one of the directors of the club that certain West Duluth business men who were erecting buildings were not giving West Duluth contractors a chance at the job, has aroused intense feeling, and several of those men who at present have houses under constuction will be there to refute the charge.

One local contractor said that there was nothing to it as far as he knew, but that the subject might well be worth while discussing by the club. The discussion is expected to attract one of the largest crowds that has attended the club meetings for some time past.

Ball Game on Fourth.

West Duluth fans are waiting with interest for the game between the Zeniths and Big Duluths which will take place tomorrow afternoon at the Fifty-second avenue west grounds. A number of side bets are said to have been placed on the teams. A special purse of $50 has been put up by friends of the teams which will be given to the winners.

The teams will lineup as follows:

Zeniths—	Position.	Big Duluths—
Brown	c.	Linderberg
McDougall	p.	Clark
Anderson	1b.	Miller
J. Donald	2b.	Ludwig
Wade	ss.	L. Baker
Scanlon	3b.	McLaughlin

Dies at Hospital.

Pareo Perovich, 29 years old, died yesterday at St. Mary's hospital following a short illness. The funeral will probably be held tomorrow or Monday from Filiatrault's undertaking rooms. Interment will be made in Oneota cemetery.

SPECIAL TRAIN SCHEDULED FOR SPORTSMEN SUNDAY.

Owing to the insistent demand of the Duluth sportsmen, the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific railway, commencing Sunday, July 5, will inaugurate a Sunday outing special, leaving Duluth (Omaha station) at 7:30 a. m. and West Duluth Grand avenue station 7:48 a. m., returning arrive West Duluth 9:37 p. m., Duluth, 9:55 p. m.

This schedule applies Sunday only. Local trains will run week days as heretofore, leaving Duluth at 10 a. m.

Infant Is Buried.

Dorothy, the 1-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Rolfman of Fond du Lac, died Wednesday. The funeral was held yesterday afternoon from the family residence, with burial in Oneota cemetery.

Child Succumbs.

Anton, the 1-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lemich, 699 Ninety-eighth avenue west, died this morning. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock from Filiatrault's undertaking rooms, with burial in Oneota cemetery.

Rukovina Funeral.

Tony, the 2-month-old son of Mike Rukovina of New Duluth, died last evening after a short illness. The funeral was held this morning from Filiatrault's undertaking rooms, with burial in Calvary cemetery.

West Duluth Briefs.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard K. Smith and children are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elliott J. Aman, 626 North Fifty-sixth avenue west. The two families left this morning for Finlayson, where they will spend the week-end visiting Mr. Aman's relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Rowe and family of Hibbing are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Remfrey, 5818 Elinor street. Mr. Rowe and his family arrived in their automobile from the range city last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dahl, 513 North Fifty-third avenue west, are the parents of a son born last evening.

The congregation and Sunday school of the Third Swedish Baptist church will hold a picnic tomorrow at Forty-seventh avenue west and Eighth street. A program has been arranged for the day.

The Citizen's State bank is open for all banking business from 6 to 8 p. m. Saturday evening. Adv.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the West Duluth Swedish Mission church will be entertained next Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Anna Highmark of Midway. The ladies will make the trip to the country in livery rigs. In the evening the young people's society will take the trip.

SUBMIT "LICENSE" AND "LEASE" CASE

Counsel in the suit in equity of the Niles Land company against the Chemung Iron company and the Oliver Iron Mining company, submitted their case to Federal Judge Booth shortly before noon adjournment of court today.

It was announced by the attorneys that several briefs are yet to be presented to Judge Booth and for this reason a decision is not expected until the first of August. The morning session today was spent in the presentation of the rebuttal arguments by Attorneys Severance and Olds of the firm of Kellogg, Severance & Olds of St. Paul for the Oliver company, and W. W. Billson for the Chemung company yesterday afternoon. Judge Sharp concluded the argument for the plaintiff land company.

The case was begun last Monday morning and because of the importance of the pending decision and the array of legal talent interested, it created much interest throughout the week.

The Niles Land company leased its mine on the Mesaba range in 1902 and the agreement contained the word "license" throughout. For this reason and because the mining companies have failed to work the mine and have only paid the minimum royalty or ground rent of $18,500 a year since 1903, the plaintiff company is seeking to have the agreement annulled. The contention was raised as to the difference between "license" and "lease."

Sues for Price of Horses.

A jury was drawn in Judge Bert Fesler's division of the district court this morning to try a cause of action which Louis Sandstrom, 43, has against the Western Sales Stables company to recover $723 which he claims is due him on the sale of horses to the defendant concern. In their answer the company admits the purchase of the horses in question, but alleges in defense that its obligations to Sandstrom were discharged in a settlement which was made on June 17, 1912.

PAVING FOR THIS YEAR

City Would Improve Part of Main Western Highway.

West Michigan and Superior Streets and Piedmont Avenue Included.

West Michigan street, Piedmont avenue and West Superior street between Twelfth and Fifteenth avenues, being that part of the main western highway which circles the Point of Rocks, may be paved this season, although a remonstrance against the improvement was filed with the city recently.

Since the remonstrance was presented three property owners, owning 2½ lots, have sent a communication to Commissioner Roderick Murchison, head of the works division, withdrawing their names.

As with all signers the amount of property represented on the remonstrating petition was just 25 per cent, this invalidates the remonstrance, according to City Attorney Harvey Clapp. As the sixty days period has expired the city attorney said this morning that any further objections would be unavailing. The work was ordered without petition. Under the charter the resolution had to lay over sixty days to give the property owners an opportunity to object to it. A remonstrance which was at that time effective was filed but it contained just the 25 per cent required by the charter. The withdrawal of three signers, owning 2½ lots, makes it insufficient.

The purpose of the city in ordering the work was to improve the gap between Twelfth and Fifteenth avenues. Superior and Michigan streets are paved to Twelfth avenue and West Superior street is now being paved from Fifteenth to Thirtieth avenue west.

The Rotary club recently passed a resolution favoring concrete for the three blocks but Commissioner Murchison believes that either brick or sandstone, on a concrete base, should be laid, in conformity with the balance of the pavement.

WANTS MIXER SITE.

City Would Make Asphalt for Necessary Improvements.

Commissioner Roderick Murchison, head of the works division, is looking for a site for the city's asphalt mixer which has been shut down since last fall. The mixer is on the Iron Range right of way near Sixteenth avenue east and the residents in the vicinity raised a strong objection to its continued operation. The commissioner says that it will be necessary to run it again in order to make repairs to asphalt pavements and later another asphalt pavement may be laid. He is trying to find a place for it which will be unobjectionable.

UNCLE SAM SEEKS ELEVATOR CONDUCTORS

Elevator conductors are needed by the government for the Federal buildings at Cedar Rapids, Iowa., Bismarck, N. D., North Platte, Neb., and in many other places throughout the Northwestern states and to fill these positions a special civil service examination will be held here on July 25.

An examination was held here on Feb. 14, but there were not enough eligibles at the time and the special test is therefore being announced. The position of elevator conductor pays an annual salary of $660 a year.

Information regarding the examination and particulars may be obtained from the civil service department at Washington, or from E. M. Barker, superintendent of the registry department at the postoffice, who is secretary of the local examining board.

FOUND GUILTY OF THEFT OF $5 BILL

August Peterson dropped a $5 bill in a West Superior street saloon last evening and Martin Johnson, who picked it up, attempted to pass the money to a third man. He was seen by Peterson, who caused the arrest of Johnson on a charge of petit larceny.

In police court this morning Johnson pleaded guilty when arraigned before Judge Cutting and he was given a straight sentence of sixty days on the work farm.

Patrolman Danielson, who arrested Johnson, also brought Peterson to headquarters, the latter being locked up on a charge of drunkenness. He was released this morning.

STATE SUPREME COURT DECISIONS

St. Paul, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Minnesota supreme court today rendered the following decisions:

Dodge County.

In the matter of the will of Lewis Buck, deceased, Dennis Buck, appellant vs. Mary Whipple Buck, et al, respondents.

1. The evidence in this case, one involving the mental capacity of testator to make his will, is held not so clearly and palpably against the verdict of the jury as to justify this court in reversing the order of the trial court in denying a new trial.

2. The record presents no reversible error either in the admission or exclusion of evidence or in the instructions of the court to the jury.

Order affirmed. BROWN, C. J.

Washington County.

J. C. Van Cappellen, respondent vs. Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha Ry. company, appellant.

1. To effect and bring about the settlement of litigation pending against it, defendant promised and agreed to pay to plaintiff in that litigation a definite sum of money as compensation for injuries suffered by him by reason of the negligence of defendant, and in addition thereto promised and agreed to pay to the physician who had treated the injuries a specified amount; the settlement was completed by the payment to plaintiff in the action the amount agreed upon, and he released and satisfied the cause of action. It is held that the promise to pay the physician was based upon a consideration moving to defendant, namely, the release and satisfaction of the pending litigation, was an original undertaking, and not invalid under the statute of frauds because not in writing.

2. The written release signed by the plaintiff in the litigation, to which the physician was not a party, held not to affect his rights under the promise to pay his claim, and that parol evidence of such promise did not contradict or vary the effect of the release.

3. Evidence held to support the verdict and that the record presents no reversible error.

Order affirmed. BROWN, C. J.

Hennepin County.

Iver T. Lund, respondent, vs. Great Northern Railway company, appellant—

The evidence sustains the verdict for plaintiff, and the damages awarded are not excessive.

Order affirmed. BUNN, J.

Hennepin County.

Patrick R. Howley, appellant, vs. Mary C. Scott, as administratrix, et al., defendants. Henry C. Hanke, appellant—

A county treasurer, in failing to write or stamp the words "sold for taxes" on a tax receipt, is not guilty of a breach of a statutory duty unless the tax list furnished him by the county auditor shows that the land has been "sold for taxes."

Order affirmed. BUNN, J.

Hennepin County.

W. C. Curtis, respondent vs. J. T. Hutchinson, defendant. Al P. Erickson, as auditor of Hennepin county, et al, appellants—

Compensations ordered under G. S. 1913, Section 8513, in favor of an attorney at law for defending an indigent accused of crime, are not exempt from garnishment as being fees of a state or public officer.

Such an order is neither a judgment nor the amount thereof in custodia legis, but merely creates a county debt which is garnishable as such.

Where prior to the institution of mandamus proceedings in the district court to compel the county auditor to issue his warrant upon an order for compensation under G. S. 1913, Section 8513, the municipal court had acquired jurisdiction of an action against the beneficiary of the order and garnishee summons had been served on the county auditor and treasurer before presentation of the order to them, it had the right to proceed to final determination of the rights of the parties, notwithstanding and without regard to a writ of mandamus subsequently issued against the auditor out of the district court.

Plaintiff in the action in the municipal court not being party or privy to the judgment in the mandamus proceedings, was not bound thereby.

Judgment affirmed. P. E. BROWN, J.

Hennepin County.

Advance Realty company, appellant, vs. John F. Nichols, et al, respondents.

Evidence in an action to recover moneys claimed to have been received by defendants as secret profits in the purchase of land while engaged in a joint adventure with their fellow incorporators and in promotion of plaintiff, held to sustain the trial court's finding that defendants' associates knew, before entering into the transaction, that the former were to receive a commission from the owners for the sale of land.

Defendants' associates being the only other persons interested, and, with defendants, the sole incorporators and subsequent stockholders of plaintiff, and, furthermore having prior knowledge that defendants were to receive a commission, though not of the amount thereof, no cause of action accrued to plaintiff, the corporation subsequently organized by the parties to carry out their adventure, by reason of defendants' receipt of such commission, nor, under the circumstances disclosed, because of their having been attorneys for their associates and for plaintiff.

The court did not abuse its discretion in excluding certain matters sought to be brought out on cross-examination of one of defendants' witnesses for the purpose of discrediting him. PHILIP E. BROWN, J.

Order affirmed.

Nobles County.

John H. Hanson et al, respondents, vs. Village of Adrian et al, Contestees; Village of Adrian, Appellant—

1. In an election contest jurisdiction is conferred on the court by the filing of a proper notice under Sec. 529, General Statutes, 1913. The irregularity, if any, in the court signing the order directing the manner and time of service of the notice upon the contestees prior to the filing thereof is not fatal. Service of the notice by one of the contestants was valid service.

2. While it is necessary for the notice of contest to show the contestant to be a voter having the right to vote on the question submitted at the election, his qualifications may be tacitly admitted or proof thereof waived by the contestee proceeding, without objection on that ground, to try the contest on the merits.

3. Where an election is contested on the ground that the contestee voted illegally such contestees may be called as adverse parties for cross-examination.

4. Having proven that the contestees voted without right it is proper by competent evidence to ascertain how they voted so as to purge the election of the illegal vote.

5. None but the illegal voter could raise the objection that an answer to the question how he voted might tend to incriminate him. The court was not required to inform him that he might claim his privilege.

6. The findings that the four contestees were not resident electors of the village, that each voted unlawfully, and that each cast a vote in favor of license, are sustained by the evidence.

The evidence sustains the findings that two deeds purported to be executed by plaintiff to defendant were executed without authority and were a fraud upon plaintiff and its members. Judgment affirmed. HOLT, J.

Didrick J. Olson, appellant, vs. Northern Pacific Railway company, respondent—

A vendee in an executory contract for the sale of land cannot maintain an action for damages for false representations when it appears that he has failed to make the stipulated payments, and by reason thereof the vendor has lawfully terminated the contract.

The forfeitutre of installments paid before the cancellation is the result of the terms of the contract and the loss to the vendee therefrom is no part of the proximate damages resulting from the false representations.

The pleadings herein cannot be construed to state a cause of action as for money had and received.

The judgment is affirmed. HOLT, J.

Phillip E. Brown, J., and Hallam, J., dissent.

Martin Uhlman, et al, partners doing business under the firm name of Martin Uhlman & Co., respondent vs. Farm, Stock & Home company, appellant.

1. Written publications calculated to injure a man's character and to lower him in the confidence and respect of his fellow men are, if false, libelous per se. The publication here in question is within this rule.

2. Under laws 1913, Sec. 7901, it is not indispensable that the notice of retraction specify each particular part of a published article which contains false and defamatory matter. It is sufficient if from the article and the notice together the publisher can without difficulty determine the words that contain the sting and which he is expected to retract.

3. Where the article was called forth by a particular sale transaction, and in effect charges generally that plaintiffs were crooks and dishonest, and defendant pleads the truth of the charge, any evidence tending to prove that plaintiffs perpetrated a fraud in the sale is pertinent to the issue. It is proper to show that the thing sold was worth much less than the selling price, that plaintiffs knew it, and that they made false representations in the sale.

Evidence of what the article sold for in the market is material evidence of its value.

4. Where proof is sought to be elicited on cross-examination, and is excluded, it is not necessary to make an offer of proof to present the question for review.

5. Where an adverse party is called for cross-examination under the statute, the party calling him may impeach or contradict him. The attention of a witness may be called to testimony given by an adverse witness, and he may be asked if such testimony is true.

Mary C. Johrden, Anna Lord and Jane McGrath, formerly Jane Powers, appellants, vs. Edward N. Pond, respondent—

The testator devised a life estate in all his property, real and personal, to his wife. The will provided that after his death the property should be converted into money and specific sums should go to three daughters named, and the balance to a fourth daughter named. The fourth daughter out-lived her father, was married after his death, and pre-deceased her mother, leaving no issue. Her husband survived her. It is held:

1. That the provision in the will for a sale and division of the property amounted to an equitable conversion as of the date of the testator's death.

2. That the daughter now deceased took a vested estate in remainder upon the death of the testator.

3. That upon her death her estate passed to her husband.

Henry J. Amann, minor, by Ben A. Amann, his father and natural guardian, respondent, vs. the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad company, appellant—

Under the evidence it was a question for the jury whether the defendant was negligent in starting its train, which had been blocking a street crossing, with knowledge on the part of the brakeman, when he gave the signal to start, that the plaintiff had just started to cross between two cars.

2. The question whether the plaintiff, a boy 8 years and 10 months old, was guilty of contributory negligence in attempting to cross between two cars of a freight train blocking a street crossing was for the jury.

George H. Winters, by Capitol Trust company, his guardian, ad litem, respondent, vs. The Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad company, appellant—

1. In this, a personal injury suit, it is held that the evidence fails to show that the use of a wrench instead of a lever in a hydraulic jack, charged as an act of negligence on the part of the defendant, was the cause of the injury to the plaintiff.

2. The plaintiff was engaged in repairing an engine in defendant's roundhouse, which engine for some time before and immediately prior to the plaintiff's injury had been used in hauling both intrastate and interstate commerce and which was likewise used immediately afterwards. It is held that the plaintiff was employed in interstate commerce, and that the Federal employers' liability act, 35 St. 65, applied.

3. In an action in a state court based upon the Federal employers' liability act, 35 St. 65, the five-sixths jury law, laws 1913, chapter 63, applies.

NEW TREATY WITH RUSSIA PLANNED.

Washington, July 3.—An official intimation of the purpose of th eUnited States to begin negotiations with Russia for a new treaty to replace the one abrogated about a year and a half ago, was conveyed in a statement at the White House that George T. Marye, the newly appointed ambassador to St. Petersburg, might take up that subject.

Mr. Marye will receive special instructions before he leaves Washington as to the intentions of the state department, which has had the benefit of suggestions from Curtis Guild, the American ambassador who has just returned, regarding certain points upon which negotiations for a new convention might probably be based with some hope of success.

SORTOR IS CHAIRMAN

Minneapolis Man Selected as Head of Democratic State Committee.

Dan Lawler Pledges His Support to Hammond in Campaign.

St. Paul, Minn., July 3.—The Democratic party of Minnesota will be united in the election this fall, according to Dan W. Lawler, who made a speech before the state central committee at its meeting at the capitol yesterday. Mr. Lawler declared that Mr. Hammond was the "finest gentleman and greatest Democrat in the state of Minnesota" and that he could promise to Mr. Hammond the support of the "seventeen rock-ribbed Democratic counties" of the state which voted for him at the primaries.

A. L. Sortor of Minneapolis was elected chairman of the state central committee. Martin O'Brien, former chairman, who declined to serve again, was elected vice chairman. The session was marked by no disorder, and an executive committee of ten members was appointed on which were placed persons beside O'Brien who were on Daniel Lawler's "blacklist" issued last week.

Martin O'Brien Presides.

Party candidates and members of the new Democratic state central committee filled the senate chamber when Martin O'Brien of Crookston, chairman of the old committee, called the meeting to order at noon. Carlos Avery of Hutchinson, former secretary, called the roll of the new committee.

Mr. O'Brien made a speech thanking the committee members who served with him two years ago for their work He said he declined to serve again as chairman because he could not leave his business. He said it was with sincere regret he declined, because it would be a pleasure to head the committee in a year when victory seems assured.

S. D. Works moved a committee of five be named to confer with Mr. Hammond and the other candidates and make recommendations for officers of the state committee. On the committee were named J. B. Galernaut of Aitkin, J. H. Driscoll of Madison, Julius Thorson of Benson, C. L. Thorpe of Ada and H. L. Shirley of Breckinridge.

Executive Committee.

The committee made its report recommending Sortor for chairman and O'Brien, vice chairman, and the following as members of the executive committee: D. D. Daly and Fred E. Wheaton, Minneapolis; S. D. Works, R. W. Hargadine, St. Paul; Senator T. F. Cashman, Owatonna; Charles Helweg, Fulda; Peter W. Nelson, Red Wing; Bert Farrell, Duluth; B. B. Gislason, Minneota; Fred Schilplin, St. Cloud.

Of these, O'Brien, Daly, Hargadine and Cashman were among those to whom D. W. Lawler objected in his letter last week.

FROM AMERICA TO EUROPE IN DAY

Possibility Is Pointed Out By Dr. Alexander Graham Bell.

Washington, July 3.—The possibility of a trans-Atlantic ocean flight in a heavier-than-air machine in thirteen hours is pointed out in a communication to the National Geographic society, from Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone and former president of the society.

"The distance from Newfoundland to Ireland is less than 2,000 miles," says Dr. Bell. "This means that if you go at 100 miles an hour you will cross the Atlantic in twenty hours—less than a day. We have flying machines that go at a greater speed than that. We already have machines that could cross the ocean if their engines can keep going for twenty hours. Of course, these are exceptional machines; but even the ordinary machines of today make fifty miles an hour with ease.

"Now, a flying machine flies faster as you go higher up, because the rarer air offers less resistance to the motion, while the propeller gives the same push with the same power, whatever the elevation. As you get into the rarer air the propeller spins around faster. A 50-mile-an-hour machine flying two miles high in the air—and we have machines that have gone twice as high as that—will fly much faster than 50 miles an hour. Then at an elevation of two miles high in the air there is a constant wind blowing in the general direction of Europe having a velocity anywhere from 25 to 50 miles an hour.

"As a net result of all these things, there can be little doubt that any ordinary machine that is able to support itself in the air at an elevation of two miles high will attain a speed of at least 100 miles an hour in the direction of Europe, and that means going from America to Europe in a single day. Calculation shows that, taking all these circumstances into consideration, our best machines should be able to cross the Atlantic in thirteen hours. I hardly dare say it aloud for publication. It is sufficiently startling to know that it is not only possible, but probable, that the passage may be made in a single day. But if, as I imagine, it can be done in thirteen hours, you may take an early breakfast in Newfoundland and a late dinner in Ireland the same night."

GEN. EVANS DENIES CRITICIZING NATION.

Washington, July 3.—Brig.-Gen. Robert K. Evans, temporarily commander of the Eastern department of the army, in a report to Secretary Garrison denies that he criticized the administration in a speech delivered in New York last week. Gen. Evans declared his remarks were misquoted in reports which represented him as having said:

"We need a large army because, with our great parties with interests, we are naturally the most meddlesome nation in the world."

When reports of the speech were laid before President Wilson he immediately called on Secretary Garrison to demand an explanation from General Evans. In his letter to Mr. Garrison, General Evans said he was speaking extemporaneously, and forwarded as nearly as he could remember the remarks which he says he actually made, and explained the meaning he intended to convey.

Secretary Garrison declined to make public General Evans' letter. He will forward it to the president, upon whom further action depends.

M'KERCHER IS NAMED DELEGATE

Humane Agent Will Attend National Convention at Atlantic City.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Duluth Humane society yesterday afternoon, R. D. McKercher, humane agent, was appointed a delegate to the convention of the American Humane association, which will open at Atlantic City, N. J., early in October.

Mr. McKercher has also been honored in being asked to read a paper before the convention on any subject that he may choose.

The committee adopted a resolution expressing thanks to the Retail Grocers' association for its co-operation in the movement for the early closing of stores on Saturdays.

WILL ANTICIPATE GRAIN BLOCKADE

Canadian Northern Will Run Trains East From Edmonton.

It is officially announced by D. B. Hanna, second vice president of the company, that the Canadian Northern railroad will be in position to operate freight trains through from Edmonton to the East within two months. Under that condition, it is thought that all fears of a grain blockade at its Port Arthur elevators next winter will be removed.

Bumper crops over the Canadian Northwest this season, Mr. Hanna regards as assured, provided weather conditions are normal from now on.

Sir William Mackenzie, president of the road, expects to dispose of the greater portion of the Canadian Northern's new $45,600,000 bond issue in New York in place of in London where the company's previous financing had been carried through.

Atlantic City, N. J. July 3.—The Catholic Educational association at its closing session adopted a resolution condemning the teaching of sex hygiene in schools. The resolution declared such teaching degraded morals rather than promoted them.

A resolution was also adopted opposing the appointment of Ernesto Nathan as commissioner from Italy to the Panama-Pacific exposition. It was held that he opposed Catholic teaching.

Other resolutions adopted deplored "the persecution of Catholic teaching orders by Constitutionalist forces in Mexico" and requested President Wilson to use his good offices in bringing the alleged outrages to a close.

It was recommended that both in religious and non-sectarian institutions those pupils who intend to enter the high schools should be enabled to do so after the completion of six years of elementary work.

These general officers were elected: Honorary president, Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore; president, Monsignor T. J. Shahan of Washington, D. C.; secretary general, Rev. Francis Howard, Columbus, Ohio; treasurer general, Rev. Francis T. Moran, Cleveland.

GERMAN TEACHERS TO VISIT AMERICA.

Chicago, July 3.—Five hundred teachers from Germany are coming to the United States next year as a return compliment to an equal number of German-American teachers who visited Germany two years ago, it was announced at the National German-American Teachers' association, in session here.

Steps were taken toward the erection of a building, and for the larger development of the association's seminary maintained at Milwaukee. It is likely that Milwaukee will be awarded the next convention.

SAYS HUSBAND URGED HER TO ENTER LIFE OF SHAME.

George Malinski, who was made defendant in a divorce action, filed in district court yesterday afternoon by Katie Makinski, is charged with having repeatedly requested his wife to enter a life of shame and support him from her earnings. The decree is asked for on the grounds of cruelty.

Since their marriage at Czisnikl, Austria, May 1, 1904, she has been subjected to a series of assults, she says. On March 2 last, she states in her complaint, he deserted her. They were then living at New Duluth. She has not heard from him since. There are no children.

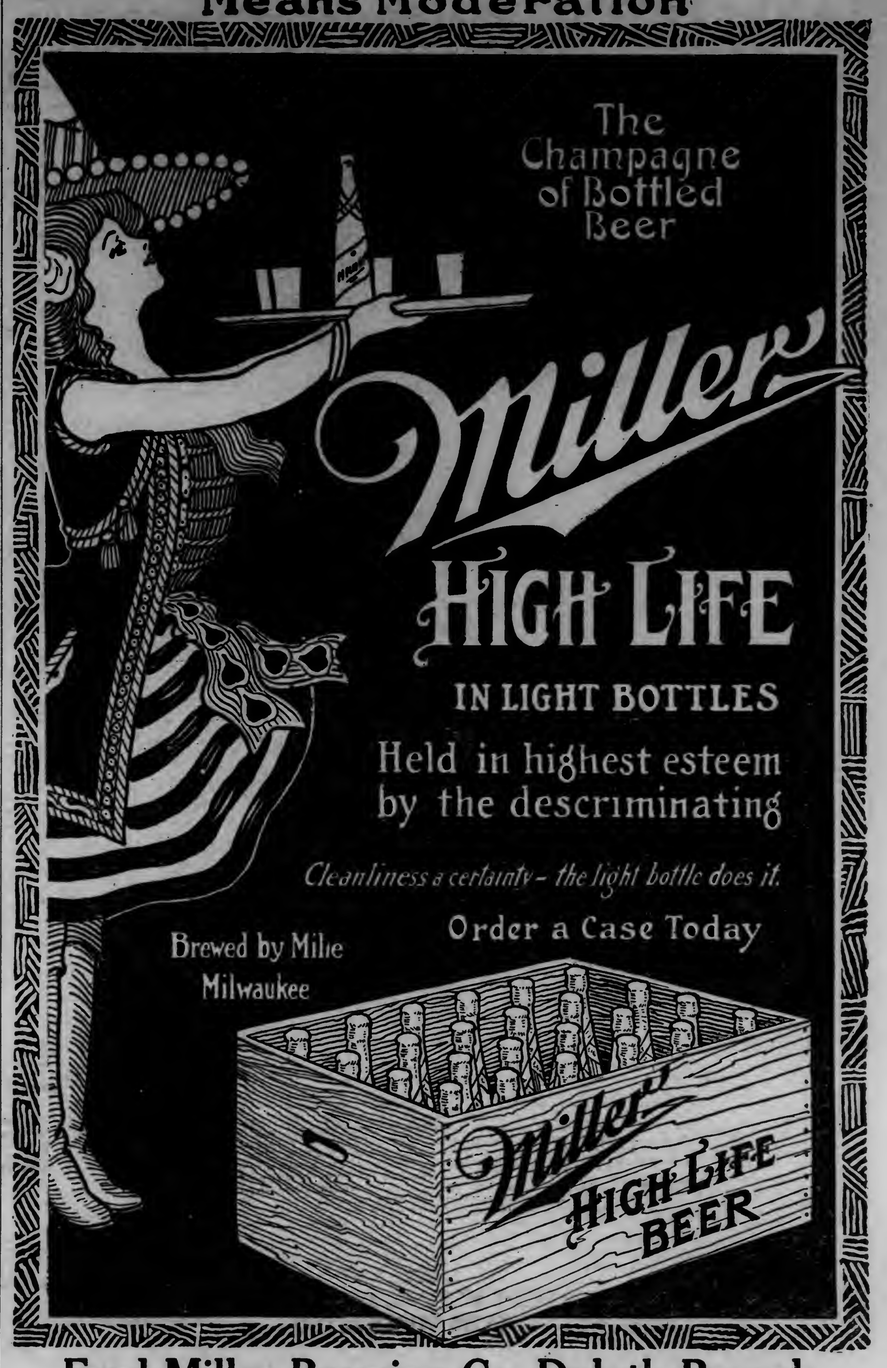

HEAR T. R. STORY OF SETTLING STRIKE.

Binghamton, N. Y., July 3.—For two hours yesterday a jury listened to the deposition of Col. Theodore Roosevelt as to methods employed by him while president to settle the 1902 coal strike. This is an action brought by A. D. Wales to recover $200,000 for services in settling the strike, which is on trial here. Lewis N. Hammerling of New York, editor of the Miners' Journal, testified to methods finally adopted.

McADOO ORDERS PROBE OF LEAK.

Washington, July 3.—Secretary McAdoo has ordered an investigation of reports that advance information was given to bankers about the recent movement of gold to the New York sub-treasury, which is said to have made it possible for some to sell foreign exchange short and take advantage of the lower rates brought about by the arrival of gold in New York.

STRICTLY BUSINESS.

New Orleans States: Walker had accompanied his wife on an excursion to the realms of bargains and in the enormous building, with its many departments had become separated from his better half.

For an hour he remained lounging impatiently at the junction of many ways, where lifts, stairs and passengers met, and then, tired and angry, he approached an irreproachable shopwalker.

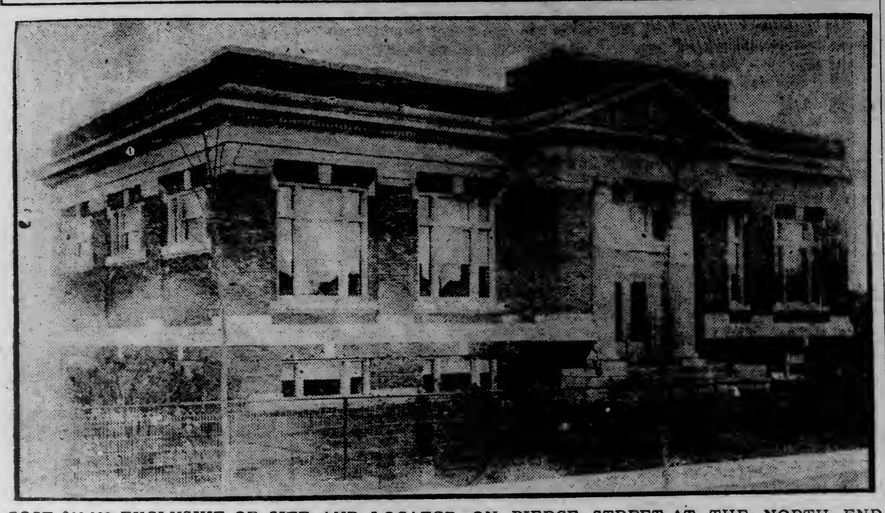

"Sir," he said to the frock-coated and suave attendant, in tones of righteous indignation, "I've lost my wife."

Back came the reply, with stunning force:

"Third floor over the bridge for the mourning department!"

RANGE MUNICIPAL LEAGUE STARTS TAX LEVY FIGHT

Proposes to Place All Property on Ranges on Taxable List.

Senator Boyle Scores Brewery Control of Saloons in Ringing Speech.

Virginia, Minn., July 3.— (Special to The Herald.)—The meeting of the Range Municipal league composed of officers of all cities and villages of the Mesaba and Vermilion ranges which ended here last night with a banquet at the Fay hotel made history for this section if not for all the state. The league went on record against the attempts of the mining interests of St. Louis county to interfere with the tax levies made on both ranges and appointed a committee to organize an association devoted to tax reforms which will include the placing upon the assessment rolls of all taxable property. Senator Boyle of Eveleth at the banquet last night delivered a scathing arraignment of the evils of brewery control of saloons. The next meeting will be held at Hibbing Sept. 1.

Tax Reform Committee.

The committee appointed to have charge of the organization of the tax reform association is: Mayor Power, Hibbing; Dr. Barrow, Aurora; E. Eckstrom, Keewatin; M. Boylan, Virginia; Dr. Barrett, Gilbert. It is expected to submit its report at a special meeting to be held Aug. 1.

The idea of the organization of the Tax Reform association was suggested by Mayor Gleason of Eveleth. The league by a resolution extended sympathy to the village of Gilbert in its fight to secure the annexation of mining territory adjoining, ratified at a special election recently held, but help up by proceedings instituted by the attorney general at the request, it is alleged, of the mining interests.

The tentative plans for the association devoted to tax reforms is to have salaried men at the head of it empowered to employ engineers and clerical help and to investigate the claims of various villages, where it is claimed, there is property that is being undervalued.

At the afternoon session yesterday, Prof. G. A. Gesell of the state university outlined the work that is being taken up by the state league of municipalities at Herman.

Boyle Arraigns Brewers.

Senator Boyle's speech at the banquet last evening on the brewery control of saloons was the sensation of the meeting. He declared that the brewers must be driven from the control of politics, and called on the village and city officers of the range to carefully scrutinize every license to determine whether or not the applicant was a real or brewery-controlled man. He declared the brewery interests controlled the senate of the state of Minnesota and to a large extent dictated all legislation. He scathingly arraigned the overdone condition of the retail saloon business on the Mesaba range, and declared it was the result of brewery control, which also fixed the rentals paid by every business man on the iron range.

He declared that in his home city of Eveleth men received enough rent for shacks devoted to the retail saloon business to pay for them in a single year, and that the brewing companies induced men to invest their small savings in saloons where there was no hope of business success, merely to get them to "sell the product."

He said the removal of brewery control from the retail liquor business would mean that the dealers would not be compelled to league themselves with every vice to make a living.

"We have been getting down on our knees and prostituting our souls to the brewing interests long enough," the senator said in conclusion. "We must drive them from the control of the politics of this state and compel them to engage in business on a legitimate basis. I have just begun the fight in this cause."

Mayor Joseph Austin spoke at the banquet on county division. He said the people of the ranges must present a united front if they ever hoped to get it.

O. H. Griggs, unopposed candidate for the state senate from the Sixty-first district, pledged himself to work for the passage of a county division bill in the next state legislature.

Other speakers at the banquet were: Mayor Boylan of Virginia, Judge Moylan of Eveleth and M. H. McMahon of Virginia.

ACCEPTS POSITION AT STATE UNIVERSITY

A. J. McGUIRE.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 3.—Grand Rapids people are extremely sorry to learn that Mr. and Mrs. A. J. McGuire are, after all, to leave in the near future for Minneapolis, Mr. McGuire's services having been required and requested by the university agricultural extension division, and the matter was put up to him in such a manner that he could not refuse to leave the North Central Experiment farm here.

Mr. McGuire expects to leave Grand Rapids about Aug. 1 to take up his residence at St. Anthony park, near the university farm.

Grand Rapids and Northern Minnesota will sorely miss Mr. and Mrs. McGuire. Mr. McGuire was always prominently identified with every movement for the public good, was active, energetic, a man with an unusual capacity for work of any kind, who does things, and his counsel and advice and work will be missed here and in Northern Minnesota. Mrs. McGuire always took a prominent part in public affairs.

LETS ORE TRAIN TAKE OFF HEAD

Despondent Finn Kills Self in Novel Way at Chisholm.

Chisholm, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Mickla, a Finn aged 38, having a family living in Finland, committed suicide in an unusual manner here early this morning by placing his head upon the track of the Great Northern railroad and allowing an ore train to behead him. Mickla came from Virginia yesterday and was at the home of Andrew Ylinen. The Ylinen family noted he acted queerly all day yesterday. About 1:30 this morning he left his room and went to the kitchen, remaining there for some time. Mrs. Ylinen heard him moving around and about 2 o'clock woke her husband, who investigated. Mr. Ylinen found a note on the kitchen table saying he was going to end his life. Eight dollars and 10 cents in money and a watch lay on top of the note. Mickla requested the money be sent to his family. About 4 o'clock this morning a report came to the police headquarters that a man had been found dead at the Clark stockpile. Ylinen reported the disappearance of Mickla and later identified the body. Mickla evidently had placed his neck across the rail of the Great Northern track, an ore train completely severing his head from the body.

CHILDREN'S PROGRAM.

Will Be Rendered at Eveleth Presbyterian Church on Sunday.

Eveleth, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Children's day will be observed Sunday at the Presbyterian church here by rendering this program.

Opening song and chorus, "Love's Banner," school; responsive reading; invocation and Lord's Prayer, the pastor and school; address of welcome, Ernest Williams; recitation, "Children's Day," Helen Anderson; recitation, "Beauty and Gladness," Aubrey Mitchell; class song, "Roses Are Bringing," Miss Lyda Smith's class; recitation, "God Is Everywhere," Ruth Olson; "Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star," Gordena Bargh; exercise, "Little Things," by seven boys; recitation, "The Secret," Eva Lehigh; "What Jake Said," LeRoy Cornwell; duet, "We Come With Joy," Bella Brown and Hilda Skramstad; recitation, "Sing a Song of Happiness," Mary Delaul; "Robin Redbreast," Evelina McGilvery; recitation, "Hearts Are Singing," Raymond Mahaffy; recitation, "His Little Girl," Grace Rutty; dialogue, "The Bluebird," beginners' department; class song, "The Roses," Miss Noel's class; recitation, "Frowns and Smiles," Gladys Emery; recitation, "This Pretty World," Flora DePaul; exercise, "The Sunshine Parcel Post Girls," six girls of Miss Lyda Smith's class; "Summer's Happy Days," Barbara Austen; cornet solo, Master Peter Moroni; recitation, "If We Are Kind," Orpah Bargh; dialogue, "Red, White and Blue," boys of Mr. Rutty's class; "An Interrupted Song," Marjorie Smith; exercise, "We Bring the Branches," four girls of Miss Noel's class; instrumental trio, "Meditation," Elsie, Violet and Irene Williams; recitation, "Days of Summer Glory," Inez Stanaway; "Sunshine Day," Hattie McDonald; exercise "I'll Try," six girls of Miss Lyda Smith's class; "Your Share," Georgiana Davey; children's day offering; rainbow drill by twelve girls; song and chorus, "The Children's Army," by the school; benediction, the pastor.

SPREADING GOSPEL AMONG FOREIGNERS

Eveleth, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a meeting held yesterday at Virginia a temporary organization of the Presbyterian ministers of the Mesaba and Vermilion ranges was formed with Rev. P. A. Schwarz of this city as chairman and Rev. Mr. Bell of Virginia, secretary. A committee was appointed to prepare a constitution and by-laws for a permanent organization.

The purpose of the association will be to advance the church, especially with regard to extension work and missionary work among the foreign population. It is planned to spend $10,000 in this work on the ranges. A missionary and a woman settlement worker are already working in this city.

Forty children are taught three days each week and each Wednesday evening a series of stereoptican views showing scenes in Italy and the United States and illustrating Biblo stories are shown at the Presbyterian church. These meetings are always well attended.

It is planned to use an auto in the church work on the ranges. Practical instruction in the English language will be given and lantern slides will be used and missionaries who can address the foreigners in their own language will be assigned to the field. It is also planned to publish a periodical giving church news of the two ranges.

EVELETHIANS TO VOTE ON MATTER

Eveleth, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Burns & McDonald, employed by the city to value the property of the Home Electric and Heating company, values the concern at $134,665.

The report was accepted by the council and at an informal meeting with officials of the corporation it was practically agreed to take over the plant at the appraiser's figures.

Before the plant can be purchased by the city it will be necessary for the citizens to vote bonds for the purpose and it is probable that at the next meeting of the council a date will be fixed for a special election.

FOR HEATING BUHL.

Installing of Municipal Heating Plant Is Progressing.

Buhl, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The work of installing steam heating mains and making house connections for heat, the contract for which was let to the Virginia Plumbing & Heating company on May 27 is well under way.

The company has eighteen men working and has installed heat in houses on eight blocks. The job is a big one and will keep the company busy steadily for the next two months.

Municipal heating has proved one of the most popular and beneficial things attempted by the Doyle administration, although it is only one of the many progressive improvements inaugurated last year and carried forward this year by the Doyle administration.

COLERAINE WILL CELEBRATE, TOO

Coleraine, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Coleraine will celebrate the Fourth in first-class style as usual. There will be one continuous scream of the American eagle from early dawn until midnight.

At 8 o'clock a. m. there will be the parade, marshaled by Mayor Downing as officer of the day. Prizes will be given for the best special features of the march through the streets. At 9:30 a. m. the Coleraine cornet band of thirty-six pieces will open a patriotic program at the grandstand in Athletic park. The Declaration of Independence will be read by Rev. Robert Von Thurn, and the oration of the day will be delivered by Rev. Dr. M. P. Burns of Duluth. Then will follow various contests until noon, including a baseball game between Coleraine and Taconite.

Races in Afternoon.

In the afternoon Roosevelt avenue will be the scene of various races with liberal prizes. At 2 o'clock the Marble baseball team will play the winning team of the morning. This will be followed by contests between the "first aid" teams of the Oliver Mining company from Coleraine, Marble and Taconite.

The evening program will begin at 7 o'clock with races by the fire department, followed by water sports of the most interesting kind on the lake shore. The fireworks and a grand ball at the village auditorium will complete the celebration.

IF SKIN BREAKS OUT AND ITCHES APPLY SULPHUR

Use It Like a Cold Cream and Dry Eczema Eruptions Right Up.

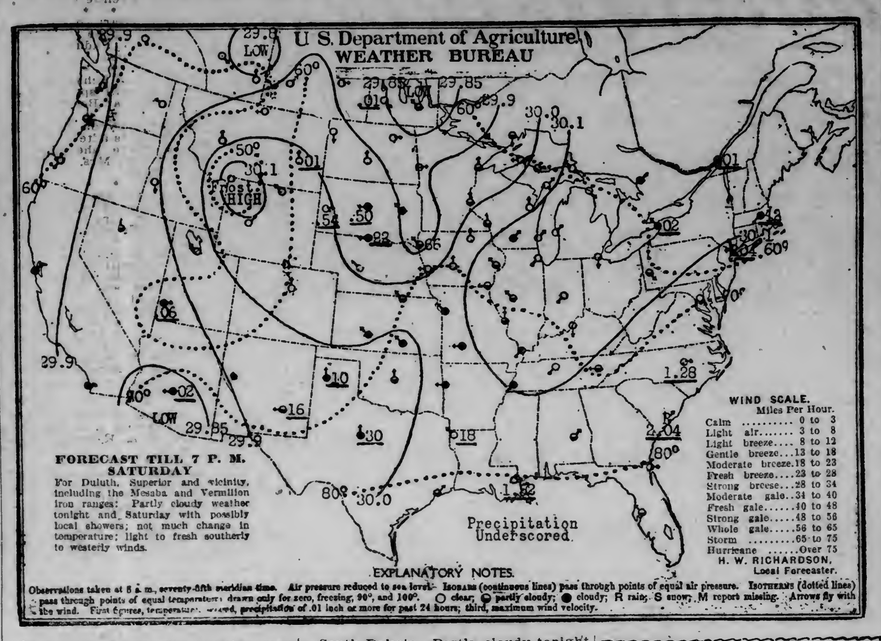

The moment you apply bold-sulphur to an itching or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a renowned dermatologist.

This remarkable sulphur made into a thick cream effects such prompt relief, even in aggravated Eczema, that it is a never-ending source of amazement to physicians.

For many years bold-sulphur has occupied a secure position in the treatment of cutaneous eruptions by reason of its cooling, parasite-destroying properties and nothing has ever been found to take its place in relieving irritable and inflammatory affections of the skin. While not always establishing a permanent cure, yet, in every instance, it immediately subdues the itching irritation and heals the Eczema right up and it is often years later before any eruption again manifests itself.

Any good pharmacist will supply an ounce of bold-sulphur cream, which should be applied to the affected parts like the ordinary cold creams. It isn't unpleasant and the prompt relief afforded is very welcome, particularly when the Eczema is accompanied with tortuous itching.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

CLOUDY

The weather man is doing very well, thank you, for he is keeping up the stunt of furnishing good weather for the carnival and for the week in general; and best of all, he says that the weather will be only partly cloudy tomorrow with possibly local showers; but not to be frightened out of having a good time for he has his fingers crossed.

A year ago today the weather was cloudy and damp, and the Fourth was rainy. The sun rose this morning at 4:18 and will set this evening at 8:06, giving fifteen hours and forty-eight minutes of sunshine.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Showers fell during Thursday or last night over Manitoba, Southeastern Montana, South Dakota, Utah, Arizona, New Mexico, Western Texas, the Carolinas, and North Atlantic districts. Cool weather prevails in the Rocky Mountain region. Frost occurred last night at Yellowstone, Wyoming. Rather warm weather continues in the extreme South."

TWO HARBORS ALL READY FOR FOURTH

Two Harbors, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—All arrangements have been completed for the biggest Fourth of July celebration ever held in this city, and if weather permits Two Harbors will be a live place tomorrow. The committees in charge of the affair have made every effort possible to make the affair a success, and residents of the city are especially requested to celebrate at home.

The only oversight of the arrangements is the fact that there will be no ball game. The local Gopher baseball team will go to Winton tomorrow for games, Saturday and Sunday. The committee on sports is confident of showing the baseball fans such a good time that they will forget that there was ever such a thing as baseball.

The parade will start at 10 o'clock headed by the band and the officials of the day. Every one is urged to join the parade. After parading a few of the main streets they will proceed to the park where the balloon will go up. There will be dancing both in the afternoon and evening. A long list of sports will take place in the afternoon.

BUHL PLAY IS WELL LIKED.

Buhl, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The "Tom Thumb Wedding" given at the high schools Tuesday night by local talent under the direction of Mrs. Jones of Cleveland, Ohio, brought out a large crowd, excited much interest and convulsed the audience with laughter. The parts were exceptionally well taken and the work of the children was frequently applauded.

The play was given for the benefit of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church and proved very successful financially as well as otherwise.

Those who took the leading parts were: Bride, Mildred O'Hara; groom, George Johnson; bridesmaid, Blanche Le Beau; best man, Leslie Demel; minister, Milton Forder; minister's wife, Francis Demel.

Miss Harriet entertained a number of her little friends at her home Tuesday afternoon, the occasion being her sixth birthday anniversary.

PLANNING FIGHT AGAINST TREATY

Hibbing, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Many of the committees of the Western Mesaba range are here today for the meeting called to prevent the enforcement of the "dry" provision of the Indian treaty in this section. The meeting was called to order in the village hall about 2 p. m. by Mayor Victor Power of Hibbing. Nearly 100 people from various parts of the Western Mesaba were present. It is expected an organization will be further perfected to fight against the attempts to close all saloons in this section.

ELY MAN EXPIRES FROM HIS WOUND

Ely, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Smuk, a local saloonman, who accidentally shot himself last Sunday, died at 9:30 last night at Shipman hospital. The funeral will be held Sunday night at 2 p. m. from the Catholic church, Rev. Father Buh officiating. The deceased was born May 8, 1891 in this city. His parents and one brother and one sister live at Greaney, Minn., and three brothers reside at Winton.

HIBBING BEATS VIRGINIA TEAM

Hibbing, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is much chuckling among local fans over the manner in which the local ball team went over to Virginia yesterday and substituted for the Winona team in the Northern league and walloped the Virginia professionals, 7 to 4. There was only one error on each side and the locals sure played professional ball to the great delight of locals fans and the deep chagrin of the Virginians at their team being beaten by non-professionals. The game was declared equal to any played this year in the Northern league.

LOSES HIS LIFE IN Y. M. C. A. POOL

Two Harbors, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Godfred Peterson, aged 23 years, was drowned last night in the swimming pool at the Y. M. C. A. Peterson went in swimming alone about 7:30 p. m. and the body was discovered lying in the bottom of the pool by Edward Fex and Roy F. Woollen about an hour and a quarter later. Fex, Woollen, Dan McCurdy and E. A. Larson had been swimming in the pool nearly an hour before they discovered the body. It was not known exactly at that time how long the body had been under water and an effort was made to restore life but without results. According to Secretary Mixwell, of the Y. M. C. A., Peterson had never been known to use the pool before, although he has been a member of the institution for some time. There was no one else near the pool and if he shouted for help, no one heard him. The pool where he was drowned is about 20 by 70 feet long. At one end the water is about four feet deep and gets gradually deeper until it reaches a depth of eight feet.

Wades Into Deep Water.

It is the general supposition that Peterson waded out from the shallow end too far and could not get back. Comrades of the drowned man say that he could not swim a stroke. Mr. Mixwell, secretary, claims that he must have been in the water nearly an hour and a quarter.

Peterson has been a resident of this city about four years, coming to this city from Sweden, where his parents still reside. He was employed in the car department of the Iron Range railroad here. He has one brother living in this country, Carl O. Peterson, a farmer living near Waldo, Minn. He was very popular among his Scandinavian friends.

The funeral arrangements have not been made but undoubtedly burial will take place in this city.

HIBBING RACES.

Hibbing, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—There will be eight motorcycle races pulled off here Sunday and $500 in prizes distributed.

In addition to the motorcycle numbers two horse races will take place as follows:

Special 2:20 pace, best three in five, one mile—Boy Price, b. g., John Riley; Jim Henderson, br. h., William Randall; Kingsley, b. g., William Fitzgerald; Queen Alice, b. m., Orin Haley.

Speical trot, 2 in 5, one mile—Zoo L. Blk. h., William Randall; Sammy Slops, b. g., William Fitzgerald; Low Ball, b. g., John Riley.

Conviction Bars License.

Eveleth, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Louis Baude was refused a liquor license renewal by the city council because he had been convicted of a violation of the liquor laws during the last year and could not legally be given a renewal.

RELIEF FROM DYSPEPSIA

All conditions of depressed vitality tend to disturb the processes of digestion. There is not a disturbed condition of life that may not affect digestion.

Few causes of indigestion are so common as thin, weak blood. It affects directly and at once the great processes of nutrition. Not only is the action of the gastric and intestinal glands diminished but the muscular action of the stomach is weakened. Nothing will more promptly restore the digestive efficiency than good red blood. Without it the normal activity of the stomach is impossible.

Thin, pale people who complain of indigestion must improve the condition of their blood to find relief. The most active blood-builder in such cases is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They make rich, red blood which quickly restores the digestive organs to their proper activity and the first result is hunger. The dyspeptic who has hated the sight and smell of food now looks forward to meal time with pleasurable anticipation. Care now in the selection and quantity of food will put the patient well on the road to health. A diet book, "What to Eat and How to Eat," will be sent free on request by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. All druggists sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

GILBERT'S FOURTH WILL BE NOTABLE

Gilbert, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Gilbert's Fourth of July celebration will begin with a parade at 9 a. m., starting from the village hall. Ole Saline is marshal of the day, T. S. Morrison, president; John Seman, secretary, and Mike Viola, treasurer. The parade will be headed by the Commercial club band, and will include the police department, floats, callithumpians and fraternal orders.

The exercises start at 11 a. m. and include music by the band, reading of the Declaration of Independence and an oration by Andrew Nelson of Duluth. The races start immediately after the exercises and the first two, the boys' potato race and girls' hobble skirt races will be pulled off before dinner.

The Presbyterian ladies aid society will serve meals all day in the Bailey block on the safeteria plan.

Afternoon Races.

After dinner the races include fifty and 100-yard, and three-legged boys' races, free-for-all races, the usual greased pig and a ball game between the single and married men. Bicycle races, mile run and shoe contest will take place after the ball game. The judges are: M. B. Elson, J. J. Hurley, George W. Everitt and Bruce Shank. Other members of the committee are W. J. Luke, H. T. Lindahl, W. H. MacMahon, L. Rubenstein, A. R. Anderson, S. B. Dunn, E. J. Anderson and William Matt.

RAY HUGHES TO SPEAK.

Chisholm, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—With streaming flags from whitewash posts and other points of vantage Chisholm is well decorated for the big celebration tomorrow. All the committees have been working to insure the success of the celebration and everything is ready for the opening number on tomorrow's program. Ray Hughes of Duluth will deliver the address from a stand erected at the corner of Lake and Second avenue. The day will wind up with a torchlight procession and fireworks.

CHISHOLM MAN IS BOUND OVER.

Chisholm, Minn., July 3.—Special to The Herald.)—Sam Leppi, after a preliminary hearing yesterday, was bound over to the grand jury in $500 bonds on the charge of causing the fire which burned his home early in the week. Sam Fullerton, deputy fire marshal, came here at the request of Fire Chief McAlpine for the hearing. Leppi has been arrested before for bling-pigging.

Bury Buhl Woman.

Buhl, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Mrs. Nels Peterson was held yesterday afternoon from the Methodist church, Rev. J. B. A. Idstrom of Hibbing officiating and the remains were interred in the Buhl cemetery. Mrs. Peterson, who was 30 years of age, died Sunday of typhoid leaving her husband and a 16-year-old daughter who is also sick with the fever and who was taken to St. Luke's hospital Monday by Mr. Peterson.

Buhl Team Wins.

Buhl Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—A battle royal at baseball was fought Wednesday evening between the Buhl team and the street car employes, Buhl winning by a score of 8 to 4.

Horle and Spolar were the battery points for Buhl and Norstad and Waght did duty for the street car men.

Buhl Tennis Game.

Mme. Labadie Pleases.

Mme. Harriet Labadie, who is one of the foremost dramatic readers of the day presented "A Doll's House" at the Orpheum last evening. She briefly introduced the drama and then outlined the picture. Special attention was given to the portrayal of Nora, the doll wife, who was introduced to the audience as a care-free mother romping with her children, but who before the close of the drama was shown as a suffering woman who had passed through the terrible emotions attendant upon the discoxery by her husband of her forging a note to save him, the suffering and humiliation that followed the discovery, and finally her realization of her own impotence and ignorance of the world. In the end she leaves her husband and as she closes the door she leaves the audience to picture for themselves what she did when she found herself free to do as her will directs.

Mme. Labadie appears to aim rather at psychological truth than at romanticism or strained emotional appeal in her interpretation. With an inferior play this might prove disastrous, but Ibsen unadorned is Ibsen at his best, and she was thoroughly enjoyable last evening.

She is not only the possessor of a beautiful face and figure and of a magnetic personality, but of the most consummate skill in her chosen art.

Throughout the entire performance she held the very closest attention of her large audience. So dramatic were some of the situations that 'spellbound' is the only expression that describes the attitude of her hearers.

The performance last evening was given for the benefit of St. Luke's hospital.

Amusements

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS

LYCEUM—The Baldwin Players in "The Rosary."
EMPRESS—"The Speculators."

Amusement Notes.

The Baldwin Players are continuing to delight crowded houses with their production of "The Rosary" at the Lyceum. There will be no increase in prices at the matinee tomorrow notwithstanding it will be a holiday.

After a record engagement in New York "A Butterfly on the Wheel," which has been described as the most powerful play of the year, will be seen at the Lyceum next week by the Baldwin Players starting with Sunday matinee.

The three principal characters in the play are the Hon. Admaston, M. P., his wife "Pegge" and a mutual friend, Roderick Collingwood. Admaston is preoccupied with politics and his practice and the butterfly wife seeks amusement elsewhere. Collingwood, who previous to her marriage had been a suitor for her hand, still adores Mrs. Admaston. He plans that they shall be separated from a party and be compelled to spend the night together in a Paris hotel. The scheme works out all right except for the fact that a third party becomes acquainted with Collingwood's intentions and anonymously notifies the husband. Late in the evening Admaston calls up his wife at the Paris hotel and the telephone in her room is answered by Collingwood. Next morning Admaston arrives and turns his wife adrift.

Three months later comes the now famous trial scene which shows an entire court room in all its completeness and perfection as to detail. The frail little woman is occupying the witness box. She is subjected to the most humiliating examination in which detectives and the like try to swear away her character. In vain she appeals to the court. The examination must go on. But "Pegge's" strength is not equal to the ordeal and in the end she swoons, her body falling across the railing of the witness box. The scene is one of vividness and great dramatic strength.

The production is the same as that seen at the Thirty-ninth Street theater, New York, during the six months' run.

That William Abrahamson of the Empress theater has "struck ten" in the makeup of his musical stock company was shown yesterday by the increased popularity of his company in "The Speculators," which began an engagement at that popular playhouse. This diverting play is a merry-go-round of mirth and melody, a fine vehicle for the players taking part and admirably suited to the popular taste.

Probably the most interesting feature of this company's appearance is that "familiarity does not breed contempt," and it is evident that the whole company will gain in popularity as long as it continues to entertain the Duluth public. Empress-goers yesterday were more than pleased both with the play and the company.

Arthur Clamage, the rotund Dutch comedian, brought forth rounds of laughter when he and Al. Zimmerman in another role of the same character entered the stock exchange on Wall street and recklessly "blew in" their "roll." Despite their losses these two imperturable Teutons laughed at the ticker and fickle fortune and their blissful ignorance of frenzied finance was amusing. Don Clark, a rising young comedian of Duluth, in the role of Will Cheatem, did well in his task of fleecing the "Dutch."

Miss Grace Fields, the handsome leading woman, gathered new laurels, especially in her song numbers. Her biggest song hit was a wonderfully clear, high soprano voice and her enunciation and expression are excellent. These qualities added to a very attractive personality put Miss Fields in the front rank of all entertainers who have appeared at the Empress.

Miss Trixie Ayrers, the charming little soubrette, and her pretty chorisers, introduced several songs and dances that were unusually pleasing. The chorus appeared in many new and attractive costumes and their refined and graceful dances pleased the big audiences.

"The Speculators" will continue at the Empress the remainder of the week and Sunday.

REARRESTED ON BURGLARY CHARGE.

Charles V. Iotte, 20 years old, who was out on parole following his recent conviction on a charge of burglary, was arrested in Superior yesterday on a similar charge, preferred against him by F. H. Green of 129½ West Fourth street.

Iotte was brought to Duluth this morning and, waiving examination when arraigned before Judge Cutting, was bound over to await the action of the September grand jury.

Green claims that Iotte entered his home on June 21 for the purpose of committing larceny. Iotte is well known to the police.

MISS DOIG AGAIN LEADS IN CONTEST

Miss Nellie Doig, Mrs. Frank Hamm and Miss Florence Lusk are leading in the order named in the "Shrine lady" contest and unless unexpected happens, one of them will be the winner at the close of the contest tomorrow evening.

The one at the head of the list when the contest comes to a close at the carnival grounds, Thirtieth avenue west and Third street, at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow evening, will receive a $200 diamond ring, while a gold watch and a mesh bag will go to her nearest rivals.

The polling place at the St. Louis hotel will close at 6 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and at 7 o'clock will be reopened at the country store on the carnival grounds. The contestants can then turn their votes in at every half hour until 9:30 o'clock and then for the last time at 10:30 o'clock. After that time no votes will be accepted by the Shriners' committee in charge of this contest. The three winners will be announced shortly before 11 o'clock.

The six highest contestants today and their respective ballots follow:

Miss Nellie Doig	11,694
Mrs. Frank Hamm	11,440
Miss Florence Lusk	10,835
Miss Esther Gomberg	5,110
Mis Esther Reed	3,289
Mis Catherine Sherwood	2,631

Tomorrow promises to be a gala day at the Shriners' carnival and it is expected the grounds will be crowded throughout the afternoon and evening. At 9 o'clock the $1,050 automobile will be given away at the country store.

FISHERMEN HAVE SALVAGED RAFT

Pick Up Part of Lost Pulpwood and Will Get Prize.

Ashland, Wis., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two thirds of the Canadian pulpwood raft lost in the storm last week, was found by fishermen ten miles north of Devils Island, Lake Superior, and towed to Ashland today. The raft was valued at $35,000 and the recovered is worth $25,000. The fishermen are entitled to one-third of the value of the raft as salvage. It was shipped by Russell Timber company of Port Arthur to the Taylors Pulpwood company of Appleton.

PREPARE ARMORY FOR PUBLIC MARKET

City Plans to Begin the Necessary Repairs Next Week.

Commissioner Roderick Murchison, head of the works division, expects to begin preparations next week to get the armory in shape for the downtown public market.

The commissioner said this morning that considerable repair work will have to be done at the barn which will be used by the works division for housing the equipment now in the armory. Among other things he thinks that much new flooring will have to be laid.

As soon as the repairs are finished the machinery will be removed from the armory and the entire floor put in shape for market purposes. The walls and ceiling will be cleaned or whitewashed, tables will be provided and a rest room installed for the farmers' wives.

PURE MILK IN "DOG DAYS"

City and Masons Will Open Clinics and Stations Monday.

Inspected Product Costing City 10 Cents to Be Sold for 7.

The milk stations and clinics conducted by the city and the Masons during the hot weather will be opened Monday.

Milk will be sold at the three stations every morning between 9 and 10 o'clock, and the rest of the day will be spent by the nurses in charge of them in visiting work. Inspected milk, which costs the city 10 cents per quart, will be cold for 7 cents a quart, as it was found in past years that some families did not avail themselves of the opportunity when the milk was sold at cost. Some of them could not afford the extra 3 cents.

The clinics will be conducted twice a week at each station between 12:30 and 2 o'clock. They will be held at the Masonic temple, Lake avenue and Second street, on Tuesdays and Fridays; at the Patrick nursery, Twenty-ninth avenue west and Superior street, on Mondays and Thursdays; and at the Irving school, Fifty-sixth avenue west and Nicollet street, on Wednesdays and Saturdays. The clinical medical service will be furnished by the Masons and will be under the direction of Dr. Rood Taylor. The West end and West Duluth stations will be in charge of city nurses and the downtown district will be supervised by the Masonic nurse.

SWIMMING POOL OPEN ON THE FOURTH

Swimming is the big feature at the boys' department these days and large crowds of boys attend all the different periods.

Tomorrow, July 4, the boys' department will feature a special swimming period at 10 o'clock, this will be open to all intermediate and senior members of the club and their friends. The last few Saturdays have been so wet the Saturday outings have not been held. A special program is being planned for next Saturday, July 11. Mr. Batchelor reports everything progressing favorably at Camp Miller, Sturgeon lake. Workmen are about through with the construction work. Applications are coming in daily for the big summer trip and July 27 can not come quickly enough to suit some boys. The second camp will open Monday, Aug. 10, and last for two weeks. A number of the former cabinet members will attend and act as leaders and assistant leaders.

CITY EMPLOYES GET "FOURTH" MONEY

Council Approves Payroll and Receives Various Petitions.

The city treasurer's office was the busiest place in the city hall today. At a special meeting yesterday afternoon the city council approved the payrolls for the past month and the stream of city employes coming for their stipends started early and continued until closing time.

The council received a petition from a number of property owners asking that the improvement of South First avenue east be postponed three years. The personal injury claim of Mrs. Sigrid Johnson for $1,060; the claim of $500 of Mrs. Rose Gosselin for storm damage to five lots owned by her at West Duluth and the $75 bill of D. L. Bishop for damage to his property at Fond du Lac because of the overflowing of Mission creek, were formally presented.

Petitions for sanitary sewers in Main and Polk streets and in Sixth avenue east near First street were read. A sanitary sewer was ordered in Eighth alley from Eighteenth to Sixteenth avenues east and another in Lewis street at Melrose avenue.

Ordinances appropriating $12,000 for the year's coal supply and $9,500 for the purchase of an aerial truck for the fire department were advanced to their second readings.

BECOMES MEMBER OF BIG CLOTHING FIRM

The firm of Kenney & Anker has a new member, and the name has been changed to that of the Kenney-Anker company—still doing business in the same old place, of course—and the addition is believed to be an exceedingly valuable one.

The new member is George H. Young, one of the best known young men in Duluth. It is likely that a great many people will be receiving a piece of information when they find that his final appellation is "Young," for to almost everybody he has been George so long that the latter end of his monica has become obsolete.

Mr. Young was with the firm for years, and to him fell a large part of its management, he having the final word in many departments. Some time ago he determined to break away, and took a position on the road, believing that there is such a thing as being with one concern long enough. He made the fatal mistake of going with a Minneapolis firm, which did not put him in Duluth territory. That made him think things. He got lonesome for the lake—so he said—and anyway the Kenney & Anker store was lonesome without him; so a mutual agreement was hit upon and he came back. Now he is a part of the firm, and his friends will be glad to hear it.

SPREADS LEVY FOR SANITARY SEWER

City Assessor Divides Assessments Into Three Classes.

City Assessor J. Allyn Scott is spreading the assessment for the new sanitary sewer which was recently completed on Park Point from the canal to Thirty-eighth street.

The total cost of the work was $25,603.87, including the purchase and installation of five booster pumps. The assessments are divided into three classes. Each 40-foot lot which has full benefits is assessed $28.21. Others are assessed $11.70 for pumps and outlet service. The lots which have only prospective outlet benefits are being assessed $1.61 each. Ropperty owners desiring definite information as to their assessments for this work can get it at the assessor's office.

MINE WORKERS ARE NEAR END OF TASK.

Kansas City, Mo., July 3.—The international executive board of the United Mine Workers of America, which convened here yesterday, planned to conclude its meeting tonight. The meeting is executive and the members of the board said they could not discuss the proceedings until after their report had been submitted to the Mne Workers. It is understood that the meeting was called to consider conditions among the miners in various parts of the country and Canada

Exquisite Hair Tinting

There is a new preparation on the market that is so entirely harmless and so easy to use that there is really no excuse for any woman (or man) to longer tolerate gray or streaked hair.

"Brownatone" meets and overcomes every objection heretofore found to hair stains and is so pleasing in its uniformly splendid results that it has within a few months made thousands of friends who could not now be induced to use anything else.

"Brownatone" is the result of most exhaustive experiments and is absolutely guaranteed satisfactory or money will be returned.

It positively can not be detected, will not rub off or wash off, and is harmless, and permanent in every way.

Prepared in two shades—one for golden or medium brown—the other for dark brown or black. Also in two sizes, 25c and $1.00.

A trial size and an interesting booklet will be sent upon receipt of ten cents, or we will fill your orders direct if your druggist insists upon substituting.

Insist on "Brownatone" at your hairdresser's.

Made only by the Kenton Pharmacal Co., 527 E. Pike St., Covington, Ky.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Stick to Your Pet Ambitions.

"Where can I obtain a little helpful criticism about a story I have written?" asked a woman. "It has just been returned to me with a bold note of rejection. I want to be shown how to improve my story. Is there anyone who does this sort of thing for a compensation?"

I couldn't recall anyone who made a business of editing manuscripts for ambitious authors, either for love or money. Doubtless there are many people learned in the arts who would be glad to assist the struggling aspirant for liberty or kindred honors. Where to find them is the question.

A certain professor, already overburdened with work of this kind in the line of his duty, generously consented to read the story at my request and make what suggestions and corrections he could. He afterward warned me not to repeat the request, not because he is unwilling and disinterested, but because there is a limit to his endurance. He reads thousands of stories every year and I suppose it is a stupendous task as well as wearisome.

However there is a demand for something of this kind. Not long ago a young composer asked me for similar advice. He had written a song but his knowledge of "professional composition" was limited. He feared that if he presented his song to a publisher as he had written it, it would not receive full consideration. He wished to be put in touch with someone who would run over it and "finish" it—for a compensation.

I was fortunate in his case, for I found a musician glad to do that which the young man desired—for a money consideration.

I know a man who consents now and then to criticize the singing voice. People consider his opinion an authoritative one. How willing they are to pay him for his judgment is another matter. I presume, though, that if he had nothing more agreeable to do, he could earn a pretty penny commenting on the quality and the possibilities of the voices of prima donna aspirants, of which there are many.

However for the benefit of those who are trying to do something and are limited to ways and means, I would add the following: Keep writing stories or music, or whatever may interest you. Keep everlastingly at it, and some day the publishers will recognize you or the art world claim you for its own.

A PROGRAM OF REACTION.

The public affairs committee of the Duluth Commercial club will vote Monday evening on a referendum on the trust question submitted by the chamber of commerce of the United States, an organization of business organizations. A committee of the national body has taken a stand on the pending proposals, and asks its constituent bodies, one of which is the Duluth Commercial club, to ratify this stand.

On some of the questions at least, the stand taken by the committee is quite hopeless. It is as hopeless, say, as asking water to cease running down hill or beseeching smoke to cease rising.

For instance, here is recommendation No. 10:

> The committee recommends that there should not be an attempt to regulate the shares of stock issued by corporations engaged in interstate commerce.

This is a little vague, it is true. The only pending proposal to regulate stock issues applies to railroads only. Does the committee wish to be understood as opposing the public regulation of railroad securities? Apparently it does; and apparently, too, it asks the Duluth Commercial club to oppose it.

The public affairs committee undoubtedly will vote on this and the other nine questions according to its best judgment of the best interests of the country. But it is hard to imagine it or any other thinking body of men in these days voting against the public regulation of railroad securities.

For lack of such regulation, all the evils of stock-watering, of railroad exploitation by Wall Street promoters, of injury to stockholders and public, have come.

The chief reason why railroads today find difficulty in getting the capital they need for ordinary expansion is that the evils of unregulated railroad financiering have made railroad securities an object of suspicion.

Proper regulation of railroad securities would have these main effects: It would give American railroad securities a standing at home and abroad that they cannot otherwise get; it would take railroad management out of Wall Street control, and put it into the hands of railroad men; it would reassure railroad stockholders; it would do away in very large measure with public feeling against the railroads.

The committee of the chamber of commerce of the United States proposes a program of reaction and negation on a subject regarding which there is a more complete agreement than on almost any other kindred subject.

We don't know how the public affairs committee of the Commercial club will vote on that question Monday night; but we'd bet a cooky against the hole in a doughnut that it would be hard to pick out anywhere a hundred thinking men who would agree that there should be no public regulation of railroad securities.

Apparently the soreness isn't all in the throat. Some of it seems to have worked its way into his disposition.

"THE CITY OF SINGLE TAX."

About four years ago the city of Vancouver, British Columbia, leaped into fame as "the City of Single Tax." The city had ceased to tax improvements on land, and as a result, it was said, a great building boom was on.

Now the building boom is over, and Charles J. Bullock, professor of economics at Harvard, writes in the New York Evening Post about the collapse.

Frankly, Mr. Bullock is opposed to the single tax; though for that matter it is not applying the single tax theory to cease taxing improvements on land, even if single taxers do applaud it as a step in their direction. Indeed, it is a good deal more like a bounty plan to induce building, whereby those who build are given a premium amounting to what they would pay in taxes on their improvements if improvements were taxed.

And if it is viewed from that angle it is a bad thing, for any bounty or subsidy is a bad thing. Buildings put up or industries located to get bounties or subsidies are likely not to rest on a stable financial foundation; for the chances are on the whole that a building for which there will be a real use will be erected anyway as a straight business proposition and without artificial encouragement. Legitimate enterprise thrives without hothouse forcing.

In Vancouver the building permits were $7,258,000 in 1909. They jumped to $13,150,000 in 1910, to $17,652,000 in 1911, and to $19,388,000 in 1912. "Never had such prosperity visited a city," says Professor Bullock. "Lofty buildings were rising as if by the stroke of a wizard's wand. Population was increasing at the rate of fifteen or twenty per cent a year. Prosperity was universal, and it really seemed that Vancouver had found the philosopher's stone."

But toward the end of 1913 this changed. Vancouver ceased to grow, halted, and began to react. Vancouver does not now appear in the headlines as the city where the single tax is making a building boom. There is no boom any more.

We don't know just what all this proves or disproves, if anything. Freedom from taxation may have stimulated building, but the great Canadian boom and Vancouver's commanding position undoubtedly did their share also. And if freedom from taxation stimulated the Vancouver boom, it doubtless also helped to do the over-booming for which Vancouver is paying now.

This so-called "single tax city"—which is not a single tax city at all—boomed like other Canadian cities, and as many American cities had boomed before it.

Like the others, it over-boomed.

And like the rest, the inevitable penalty of over-booming—collapse and depression—came along in due time.

Every real boom takes about the same course; and if the half-breed single tax plan Vancouver adopted did anything at all, probably it accentuated both the boom and the collapse that always follows the boom.

One wonders what kind of luck George Perkins would have if he tried to read anybody out of the Bull Moose stall.

THE BULLY.

> An administration that will conclude such a treaty as this treaty for the payment of blackmail to Colombia has forfeited the right to the respect of the people of the United States.—Theodore Roosevelt.

Every theory with which I disagree is utterly atrocious and damnable.

Everybody who fails to agree with ME is an unmitigated and despicable scoundrel.

Every plan that does not originate with ME or have my sanction is a nefarious and rascally conspiracy.

Every man or woman who states facts differently from ME is a wanton and unqualified liar.

What right to public respect, Col. Theodore Roosevelt, has a man retained whose type of thought and discussion is fairly illustrated in the four preceding paragraphs?

New York state has officially decided that playing baseball is hazardous. And here it has been the umpire who has been getting all the sympathy.

THE HABIT OF TAX-DODGING.

"A man is a fool who attempts to avoid the income tax," says the commissioner of internal revenue, who has charge of its collection. "He is sure to be detected sooner or later. There is no chance that tax dodgers can escape."

With a revenue of thirty millions from the income tax when more than twice as much was expected, it is pretty evident that there has been some tax-dodging.

It is not surprising that there should be. It is a habit in this country. It is safe, too, ordinarily. The workingman with a cookstove and a parlor organ in plain sight can't get away from his taxes; but the man with a fat bunch of securities in a safety deposit box has found it easy to get away from his, and usually he has.

So tax-dodging has been rather the usual thing in this country. It has not been counted a crime—among tax-dodgers—but rather as a smart thing to do if you can get away with it.

Maybe a good many dodged the income tax from force of habit.

That wouldn't be surprising, either.

But this time they are not dealing with a village or city or state taxing officer.

They are dealing with the United States of America—with Uncle Sam—and that's a very different thing.

Uncle Sam has a grim face that he turns toward violators of his laws, and a long arm to reach them with. Moreover, HE REACHES. He doesn't take evasion and violation of his laws as a commonplace thing. He doesn't let those who evade and violate get off because they are neighbors or because they are influential politically. He thinks nothing of spending a thousand dollars to inflict punishment for an embezzled nickel. He can't afford to have his laws ignored, and he doesn't propose that they shall be.

The commissioner is right. "A man is a fool who attempts to avoid the income tax."

That woman who was found with seven bombs waiting for the crown prince of Austria must have belonged in the class referred to in the old proverb, "A woman, a dog and a walnut tree, the more you beat 'em the better they be."

THE PARTIES AND THE TRADE COMMISSION BILL.

Potentially the most important of the three trust-regulation measures before the senate is the trade commission bill.

It creates an interstate trade commission, and give it mild powers of inquiry and supervision.

A generation ago this country created an interstate commerce commission and gave it mild powers of inquiry and supervision. Gradually these powers have grown until they are about to encompass complete control of the railroads.

A similar growth of the powers of the interstate trade commission may confidently be expected.

The growth in the powers of the railroad commission was in response to real need. The growth in the powers of the trade commission will be in response to real need also.

The trade commission bill passed the house with only a few dissenting votes. Democrats, Republicans and Bull Moosers voted for it.

And they should. All three parties declared for it in 1912.

Here is what the Democrats said:

> We favor the declaration by law of the conditions upon which corporations shall be permitted to engage in interstate trade, including, among others, the prevention of holding companies, of interlocking directors, of stock watering, of discrimination in price and the control by any one corporation of so large a proportion of any industry as to make it a menace to competitive conditions.

The trade commission bill and the bills that accompany it are full answers to that declaration. Here is what the Republicans said:

> In the enforcement and administration of Federal laws governing interstate commerce and enterprises imposed with the public use engaged therein, there is much that may be committed to a Federal trade commission, thus placing in the hands of an administrative board many of the functions now necessarily exercised by the courts. This will promote promptness in the administration of the law and avoid delays and technicalities incident to court procedure.

And here is what the Bull Moosers said:

> We favor the establishment of a strong Federal administration commission of high standing, which shall maintain permanent, active supervision over industrial corporations engaged in interstate commerce, or of such of them as are of public importance, doing for them what the government now does for the national banks and what is now done for the railroads by the interstate commerce commission.

The last plank is the strongest of the three on this point; but the administration's trust program is a substantial and practical compliance with the demands of all three.

It should be adopted, and there can be no business stability or certainty until it is adopted and applied.

This defeat of the English at Henley may safely be regarded as a forerunner of some drastic revisions of the regatta rules.

Loot

Life: Loot is the tribute paid by the weak to the strong. It is usually what is left over after all the investigations have ended.

Loot comes in various forms; in dividends, in watered stock, in jewelry and furniture, in charters and franchises and in people. It may be represented by the long vacations of little children spent in factories or mines, or it may be revealed by the extent of women's tears.

Loot is generally thought to be personal, and yet men may come and men may go, but loot flows on forever. There is nobody so humble that he may not be looted. There is nobody so high in the scale that some time or other somebody else may not become higher than he, and thus loot him.

Looting is practiced by neighbors, tradespeople, city officials, legislators, statesmen and nations. By any other name it would cost as much.

Diogenes went out with a lantern one night to find an honest man, a fact that must convince us that lanterns in those days were of no value. Otherwise he would have had to barricade himself to prevent his lantern from being looted.

To loot or not to loot—that is the question. Whether it is nobler in the mind to take arms against a horde of plunderers and by depos'ng them live in obscurity, or by looting them and getting away with it to fly to new honors—at present we wot not of, for there is a certain honor in looting that only the successful ones can understand.

President Wilson's Triumph

Editorial in the New York World.

The result of the Niagara Falls conference, so far as it has gone, is such a triumph for President Wilson's much misunderstood policy as to astonish even the stanchest supporters of the president. The protocol, signed by the South American mediators and the delegates of both Mexico and the United States, opens the way for the establishment of peace in the troubled republic, and the institution, after suitable preliminaries, of a government chosen to conduct its affairs for the benefit of its people, chosen by them without hindrance. The disinterestedness of the United States is made clear to the world, and, what is more to the point, to the Mexicans themselves, who, reasoning by their past experiences and the trouble caused by the American interventionists, have been justified in doubting our sincerity.

We promise to recognize the provisional government to be set up through the offices of the conference and to restore diplomatic relations with Mexico, and we exact no indemnity whatever, Mexico binding herself, for her part, to take measures for the payment of all just claims for the destruction of the property of foreign residents. We avoid war, a war which while it threatened was obviously to the taste of but few Americans, and they not of the most patriotic type; but we do more and even better than that, for, as one party to a tripartite agrement, of which the three South American republics, acting jointly, and the Mexican delegates are the other parties, we pledge lasting friendship with Mexico and establish on a new and promising footing our relations with all Latin America.

In fact, the result of this mediation conference, which the easily disheartened were calling a failure only yesterday, may fairly be called prodigious and unprecedented in the history of international relations. It will be hard for many persons to realize all that has been accomplished by Mr. Wilson's acceptance of the good offices, but the result will loom large in history, and it ought to be taken as a wholesome antidote to many of our ills, real and imaginary, including business depression. In it all there is nothing more satisfactory than the assured fact of our establishment of relations with the principal countries in South America, which should be of great mutual benefit hereafter.

The only possible source of new trouble will be the council of representatives of the two Mexican factions. The facts that the Constitutionalists have sent agents to take part in this council, and that they were obviously anxious to be represented as well in the mediation conference, show that the leaders of that party know that the aid of the United States and the South American republics is essential to the success of any Mexican government hereafter, and that, whatever individuals among the agents may say, or be accused of saying, this council will take up its deliberations in the right spirit. We have no doubt whatever of the outcome.

A Parable.

Said Christ our Lord, "I will go and see
How the men my brethren believe in Me."
He passed not again through the gates of birth,
But made himself known to the children of earth.
Then said the chief priests and rulers and kings,
"Behold now the Giver of all good things!
Go to, let us welcome with pomp and state
Him who alone is mighty and great."
With carpets of gold the ground they spread
Whenever the Son of Man should tread,
And in palace chambers lofty and rare
They lodged him, and served him with kingly fare.
Great organs surged through arches dim,
Their jubilant floods in praise of him;
And in church and palace and judgment hall
He saw his own image high over all.
But still wherever his steps they led,
The Lord in sorrow bent down his head,
And from under the heavy foundation stones
The son of Mary heard bitter groans.
And in church and palace and judgment hall
He marked great fissures that rent the wall,
And opened wider, and yet more wide,
As the living foundation heaved and sighed.
"Have ye founded your throne and altars then,
On the bodies and souls of living men?
And think ye that building shall endure
Which shelters the noble and crushes the poor?
With gates of silver and bars of gold
Ye have fenced my sheep from their Father's fold:
I have heard the dropping of their tears
In heaven these eighteen hundred years."
"O Lord and Master! not ours the guilt,—
We built but as our fathers built;
Behold thine images, how they stand,
Sovereign and sole, throughout all our land,
"Our task is hard—with sword and flame
To hold thine earth forever the same,
And with sharp crooks of steel to keep Still, as thou liftest them, thy sheep."
Then Christ sought out an artisan,
A low-browed, stunted, haggard man,
And a motherless girl, whose fingers thin
Pushed from her faintly want and sin.
These set he in the midst of them:
And as they drew back the garment-hem
For fear of defilement, "Lo! here," said he
"The images ye have made of me!"

—James Russell Lowell.

The Mannerisms of Genius.

Michael Monahan in "At the Sign of the Van": Many are the idiosyncrasies of writing folk. Balsac could write only at night and in the dress of a monk. Tom Moore penned his melodies in kid gloves. Sheridan wrote in a room brilliantly lighted with candles and rewarded every happy thought with a glass of wine. There are fastidious authors to whom the scent of flowers is necessary. A famous Frenchwoman of the eighteenth century preferred as a literary excitant the pungent odor of the stable. Richard Harding Davis honors himself and his inspiration by writing in full evening dress. Col. Roosevelt, needless to say, composes in khaki and a pith helmet. For myself, I can't break with the habit of years, not to speak of the literary tradition; and so I go on writing the Good Stuff in an attic.

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—To the practical mind of Attorney General James C. McReynolds, a meal is nothing more than a bothersome chore, and the sooner it is consumed the better. McReynolds has a habit of performing whatever task he has to do without needless fuss or delay, and this is especially true in the little routine matter of eating meals. He is the quickest eater in official Washington. And the strange part of it is that he does his eating mostly at a fashionable hotel where everything is served in slow-moving courses and the waiters hover about with their air of painstaking leisure.

One or more of two things must be true of McReynolds' eating habits.

Either the man swallows his food whole without proper fletcherizing process like a dog, or else he eats sparingly like the average canary bird.

Along about 1:15 every day, McReynolds puts on his hat and sets out for lunch. Immediately the others about his office suite prepare to do likewise. They aim to eat as quickly as possible and get back on the job, hoping to do so before he does, because it is not considered the best etiquette to take any more time off at noon than the boss does. Now these other men dash to the nearest quick lunch establishments. You know the kind of places—where you take a tray in your hand and march past various foods, helping yourself from time to time and end up eventually in front of a cash register.

But all this haste avails the men not at all. When they get back to their desks at the department of justice in twenty minutes or so, the attorney general is already there and he isn't even using a toothpick. He has forgotten that he ever ate.

As McReynolds is a person of solid physique and is not losing weight—though some of the others in the quick lunch competition are—he must eat something. But this much is certain: He never waits for the finger bowls. That would completely upset his schedule.

McReynolds goes in on a large scale for neatness and accuracy and especially so in regard to letters. He would rather not send a letter at all than let it go out with a slightly blotted signature, or an omitted punctuation mark. He has a passion for commas. Every little phrase that could possibly be staked off with commas has to have the commas right in place or else it doesn't go. The attorney general insists on just the right phraseology, too. There used to be an old story about Noah Webster's wife finding him with his arm about the waist of their beautiful maid servant, and exclaiming "Noah, I'm surprised!" Whereupon Noah said: "No, I'm surprised; you're astonished."

McReynolds is just that way. He wouldn't think of putting in a letter that he's surprised when he means he's astonished.

Besides having his mail neat and accurate, McReynolds goes further and has it prompt. Some time ago he issued an order that every letter to the department of justice requiring an answer at all must be answered within twenty-four hours. If a man writes in for information that it requires several days to get, they must at least write to him within twenty-four hours and acknowledge receipt of his letter.

McReynolds has a theory, too, that a letter should be not only prompt, neat and accurate, but polite. Even when he writes to a stranger he throws in several nice little polite phrases. For example he never starts off: "Your letter of the 10th at hand," but is more likely to say: "Permit me to acknowledge your letter," etc., "I beg to acknowledge," "It gives me great pleasure to reply," or something like that, calculated to make a person feel that he has done McReynolds a great personal favor and brightened things up a lot by writing to him.

For a man who looks serious, does little but work, and seems to have little or no fun as he goes through life, McReynolds has a surprising knack at cracking jokes. Every noon he meets a group of newspaper correspondents who come to find out what he has done toward earning his pay, and he almost invariably picks out two or three men to make sport of. One man showed particular interest in news of the smelter case that was up some time ago and McReynolds fell into the habit of addressing that correspondent simply as "Smelter."

Another correspondent asked the attorney general at one of these noonday meetings about the working out of a proposed provision in the tariff measure.

"It wil be a head-on collision," said McReynolds, meaning that it would clash with the provisions of certain foreign treaties.

Nobody knew what he meant and a chorus of voices asked him to elucidate.

But he wouldn't do it. He thought it was a great joke to let them all wonder a while. Every day for a week he inquired with a chuckle how many had figured out what he meant by his conundrum of the head-on collision. And not until he had them all fairly frantic with curiosity did he loosen up and explain.

Gardening Days—and Nights.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: "Now comes the season when the wife goes to the country and the husband, in the words of the song, shouts 'Hooray! Hooray!'"

Thus Jerome S. McWade, in an after-dinner speech at Duluth, began his response to a toast on "The Ladies."

"When the ladies are with us we are safe," he resumed; "but when they go off to country or shore, leaving us in town alone, then our troubles begin.

"A man one summer day called on a doctor.

"'Doc,' he said, 'I'm all run down.'

"'You look it, too,' said the doctor sympathetically. 'I'm not going to prescribe drugs for a man in your condition. No, sir, what I'm going to prescribe for you is gardening.'

"The patient started and his unhealthy pallor turned to a dull brick red.

"'But, doc,' he said, 'gardening is the cause of all my trouble.'

"'Humph, what kind of gardening?' said the doctor incredulously.

"'Roof,' the man replied."

A Modern Invention.

Youth's Companion: A New Yorker was spending a night at a "hotel" in a Southern town, and, when going to his room for the night, he told the colored porter that he wanted to be called early in the morning. The porter replied:

"Say, boss, I reckon yo' ain't familiar with these heah modern inventions. When yo' wants to be called in de mawnin,' all yo' has to do is jest to press de button at de head of yo' bed. Den we comes up and calls yo.'"

Keeping Up With Minnesota Editors

Press Comments on Current Events.

Enough of the June Primary.

Bemidji Pioneer: The light vote of the primary election over the state has already started the cry for the return of the primary to September. From June to November is a long haul and no mistake would be made in shortening the difference between the two elections. It would be as great a benefit to the candidates as to the voters.

Then Elect Him.

Waseca Herald: Stranger things may happen than the election of another Democratic congressman in the Second district. Jean Flittie of Mankato would make a worthy successor to Congressman Hammond.

Don't Fret About the People.

Perham Enterprise-Bulletin: Opponents of the direct primary who have taken comfort from the prevailing belief that the primary vote would be light and have regarded it as proving their contention that the people are not fitted for that form of nominating candidates, will be jolted by the figures. The total Republican vote is 15,000 greater than in 1912 and the Democratic vote double that of two years ago. These figures indicate that issues will draw votes and that the people will increasingly avail themselves of the privilege of nominating their own candidates.

No Chance.

Virginia Enterprise: Postmaster Edward Hatch of Eveleth will assail the throne of County Auditor Odin Halden. Mr. Hatch is a fine young man, but the Halden throne is one of the kind that never totters. And yet a fellow by the name of David once cleaned a big lout by the name of Goliath. However, that was a long time ago and more or less of a miracle.

Better Than Over a Bar, Isn't It?

St. Cloud Times: The throngs of young folks around the soda fountain show that the boys are commendably generous with father's money.

That'll Be a Long Life.

Tower News: The vote on national prohibition will soon come up and we believe it will never carry. It is true that the world be one glad, sweet song if the "kick" was taken out of the critter, but that will never be, son. National prohibition will work out exactly as local option—nothing to it but blind pigs and the old-time bootlegging. It must be broader than the United States to be effective and we trust that we may live in Tower and in good health until the world goes dry.

The Chaflin Failure

Wall Street Journal: It is easy and cheap to ascribe the largest failure of its kind in the country's commercial history to the administration. This is not altogether fair, although it must be admitted that the disturbance of public confidence, of individual consuming power and credit, and of established methods of commerce tested by the expert practice of years, has an undeniable responsibility in the matter.

But the Claflin firm failed because it was based on a combination of wholesale and retail business which imposed upon it a financial burden heavier than it could carry. The H. B. Claflin firm, before embarking in the retail business, was perhaps the largest wholesale house in the world. Its customers were independent and well distributed. But when it embarked in the retail trade it stood to reason that its independent customers would resent that enterprise, and would take their business elsewhere.

There followed a result which was unfortunately only obvious after the event. The company had to make its own customers and finance them. It ceased to be a wholesale house in a broad and safe sense and became merely the financial backer of a large number of retail stores all over the country, whose only credit was that of the H. B. Claflin house. The notes of these concerns, probably held by three thousand or more great and small banks throughout the United States, were practically Claflin paper. The indorsement made these notes merchantable and the failure leaves the banks as creditors of the indorsers.

This is an instance of expansion in the wrong direction. Given sufficient financial strength the idea was all right, but with what the New York Herald correctly describes as "slow assets and quick liabilities," there was only one end when the parent concern had exhausted its credit.

It is revealing no secrets to say now that the late J. P. Morgan saw this clearly. He had been freely abused, especially by people who did not know or understand him. But his analysis of this situation at its inception was crystal clear, and it is not too much to say that had he been alive the result would have been foreseen and therefore rendered largely harmless.

The Monroe Doctrine an Obstacle to Progress.

Hiram Bingham in the Yale Review: At its best the Monroe Doctrine represents an attitude of constant suspicion on our part. Such an attitude is not consistent with international good will. We have arrived at the day when the two hemispheres no longer stand at variance. The hostile attitude of many of our South American friends towards the doctrine of the dual political organization of the nations of the earth deserves to make us pause and consider whether it is the part of wisdom for us to continue to maintain as an integral part of our foreign policy this outworn and obsolete doctrine, even though it has for so long been a national shibboleth. Unless we are prepared to take the consequences of declaring that the Monroe Doctrine is a wholly selfish policy, maintained entirely for our own immediate interests, and without regard to its effect on our standing among the nations, it seems to me that the time has come when our policy towards the Latin-American nations, commonly called the Monroe Doctrine, should be materially altered and brought into line with modern progress; should be, in fact, so materially altered that the words "Monroe Doctrine" can no longer apply to it; and that this occasion of stumbling in our international relations should be removed.

Twenty Years Ago

From The Herald of this date, 1894.

When the Republican county convention resumed its session last night, the nomination of county officers was begun. John Owens of Virginia was named for clerk of the district court on the third ballot, the other candidates being D. J. Sinclair, Capt. John R. Randall and W. N. Shephard of Tower. L. H. Whipple was nominated on the first ballot for county treasurer over J. P. Johnson, E. J. Crossett and W. B. Welles. For county attorney George A. Arbury won on the first ballot, the other candidates being John E. Daires, R. P. Edson and W. C. McAdam. Then came the struggle for sheriff. Paul Sharvy, the present sheriff, refused to allow his name to be presented. On the second ballot, W. W. Butchart was nominated over H. C. Kendall, H. M. Myers, E. M. Patterson and Matt Noble. For auditor, J. H. Nordby, O. B. Stenson, George N. La Vaque and Odin Halden were presented. Three ballots were necessary, in each of which Halden was ahead, and he won easily in the third. For register of deeds Peter J. Bergstrom was nominated, defeating C. H. Dahl. Phineas Ayer, the present incumbent, was nominated for judge of probate. There were four aspirants for superintendent of schools, and W. H. Stultz was nominated. Dr. J. J. Eklund was nominated for coroner and Fred Davis for county surveyor. A. C. Dinham was nominated for county commissioner from the Second district and Elisha Morcom from the Fourth district. Mr. Towne presented his list of delegates to the congressional convention at Brainerd, headed by O. D. Kinney as chairman.

President Cleveland has ordered the whole garrison at Fort Sheridan, under Col. Crafton, to go to Chicago to restore order in connection with the great railroad strike.

Albert Mallory, deputy postmaster, was sandbagged last night and the West Duluth office robbed of about $300. Mallory was unconscious for two hours and was unable to give a description of the robbers.

Marriage licenses have been issued to Frank W. Cross and Florence A. Bennison, Alfred E. Watts and Anna E. Hauft, and D. T. Olson and Augusta Brink.

The people at large are beginning to experience the effects of the railway strike. The stocks of meat in the packing houses in Duluth are rapidly decreasing and prices will probably soar soon. Potatoes have risen from 80 cents to $2.25 a bushel. Milk is scarce.

Merely a Matter of Opportunity.

The Popular Magazine: Hamp Moore of Pennsylvania is one of the most prolific speakers of the house of representatives. So is Tom Sisson of Mississippi. Whenever a public question comes flitting by, these two fellows catch it on the wing, pick it to pieces, devour it, digest it and then say what they think about it. Whenever a matter of international policy looms on the horizon no bigger than a man's hand, Tom and Hamp send forth their mental outposts, surround it, besiege it, capture it, study it and discover all its eccentricities, habits and profound secrets—and then make speeches about it.

It is a short day in congress when the pages of the Congressional Record are not enriched by the remarks of one or both of these gentlemen. They are hard workers on the floor as well as in their studies, and, as a result of this, both of them stand high in their party councils.

One Tuesday morning they met at their club for breakfast.

"Tom," said Hamp, "I've always contended that you are the best debater in the house. If there is one fault in you, it is that at times you become so excited as to make your utterance somewhat indistinct. As a rule, however, your voice rings high and clear. I had to leave here Friday afternoon and go to Philadelphia. As I went out of the house your thunderous tones were shaking the glass in the roof of the house. When I returned Monday afternoon and entered the house you were still talking. That is a record of which you should be proud."

"Entirely so," agreed Tom; "but you must admit this, Hamp, in order to do that, I had to take advantage of your absence from the city."

A New Mentality Test.

Columbus Dispatch: Are you "quick on the trigger?" In other words, does your brain work rapidly and without effort? The average street car conductor these days usually is able to answer this question for you if he sees you work under the bell test. The bell test is the test unconsciously given you when you push the button for a stop signal at a time when somebody else is pushing it, too. For example, you want to get off at a certain street and you have your finger on the push button ready to signal the motorman to stop. Further up the car another person wants the same stop. The other person is ready to push the button, too. Now, just as your brain is about to cause your finger to press the button, the other person presses it and you distinctly hear the signal buzz.

Is your brain quick enough to grasp the situation and to make you realize that it is superfluous for you also to ring? Or is your brain too slow to recover from the impulse soon enough and do you also ring the bell? Conductors say that the average passenger's brain moves too slowly to repel an impulse within so short a period as one-fourth of a second. That is why one hears two or three stop signals when cars are crowded, they say.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. DOES NOT LIKE WADING.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I have noticed how quickly the division of public works will make a small improvement when a person tells them about it. There is a little job at 700 Garfield avenue that two men with a few planks could do in a day. On the east side of the avenue at 700 the ground on the cross street is higher than the avenue, and when it rains the water lies there six to ten inches deep for three or four days, until the division of public works sends a man down to dig a ditch to drain it off. In the meantime, if a person wants to get on a street car without wading, they will have to go out in the street a hundred feet from the corner, and this is dangerous, as autos use this street for a speedway.

I called up the division of public works two months ago and asked them if they could not do something. Someone up there told me they would send Mr. Kennedy down to look at it, but he could not see how they could do anything, as they could not nail the plank to the curb or pavement.

About a month ago I called them up again and someone else answered the telephone. He said he had never heard about it, but would send Mr. Kennedy down to look at it, so that is two looks Mr. Kennedy has had, and we are still wading or dodging autos.

FOSTERING VULGARITY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I believe it my duty to call the attention of The Herald and the women of Duluth to the class of performances being given at the Echo theater. The theater claims to cater to women and children, but I certainly would not want my children to see such a performance as that they called "Oh, You September Morn." It is certainly not designed to be uplifting to the morals of the young. Vulgarity seemed to be the chief aim.

MAKES A DISCOVERY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I've made a discovery, and like some other discoverers I'm in quite a sweat to get into print with it. It's nothing much, maybe, in the way of a discovery, but it's a whale of a lot in the way of a realization. If you doubt it, try it.

It's this: That the United States government is just waiting to be asked to give a fellow and his wife help and information on any conceivable subject. And give it free of charge, too. For instance, we have a neighbor who is much given to canning fruit. Her husband, out of curiosity, wrote to the department of agriculture at Washington for some literature about canning fruit, and got not only that, but a lot about vegetables, too. Another neighbor wrote for some material on raising chickens, and got such a good line of stuff that I was encouraged to ask how I could have better luck with my turkeys. And I found out, too.

Still another neighbor, inspired by all this experience, wrote and got a pamphlet on preparing cheese for the table, and his wife has been turning out cheese dishes that are the envy of the whole community. And the list of subjects is endless.

All you have to do is write to the department of agriculture, bureau of publications. There's "dope" there on every conceivable subject, I guess, and the very best authority in the world, too. What beats me is that people don't make better use of the opportunity. SUBURBANITE.

REFUSE TO FIX DATE OF TRUST BILL VOTE

Senators Will Carry the Debate Into Next Week.

Washington, July 3.—Another unsuccessful effort was made by Senator Newlands to have the senate fix a time to vote on the trade commission bill and clear the way for other legislation on the trust program that must be disposed of before adjournment. A chorus of objections greeted the Nevada senator's proposal that a vote be taken today, and discussion later made it plain that the debate would continue into next week.

Senator Cummins continued his speech and introduced five amendments to generally broaden the proposed trade commission's authority and empower it to regulate interlocking directorates and holding companies in connection with industrial corporations, and to give the interstate commerce commission the same authority over railroad corporations.

Cummins Answers Borah.

Senator Cummins took up the objection raised by Senator Borah, who opposed the bill on the ground that, while the anti-trust laws at present were directed toward fostering competition, the trade commission measure, by making "unfair competition" unlawful, was directed to limiting competition. This objection, he said, was in no way justified, and he declared the measure was designed to aid and supplement the anti-trust laws.

In order to make this point clear, he proposed an amendment providing that no order of the trade commission respecting "unfair competition" should have any force to be admissible as evidence in a suit brought under the Sherman law. The amendment would also provide:

"Nor shall anything herein contained be construed to alter, amend or repeal the Sherman anti-trust law or any part thereof."

DOCTORS UNABLE TO CURE CHILD

Sanitarium Surgeons Report on Case of Little Eno Stark.

Surgeons at the Phalen Park sanitarium, a branch of the state hospital for crippled and deformed children, have examined 12-year-old Eno Stark of this city and have reported that they are unable to do anything for the girl. Unless some other method of treatment is found for her, she will probably be obliged to go through life with a deformed leg.

Charles Shogran, assistant clerk of the poor commission, returned today from St. Paul with the little girl who had been taken to the state institution at the county's expense. The girl is also suffering from a diseased eye. Duluth surgeons will be asked to make an examination of her condition to see if an operation will remedy it.

COMPROMISE ON ITALIAN TAXES.

Rome, July 3.—The parliamentary deadlock caused by the obstruction of the Socialists against new taxes which are urgently needed to make up the budget deficit, was removed last night by the acceptance by a vote of 209 to 40 of a compromise proposed by the president of the chamber of deputies, Signor Carcarano, and approved by the government.

The compromise provides that the new taxation, the burden of which the Socialists claimed would rest mostly on the poor, shall be applied by royal decree until June 30, 1915, the entire financial question meanwhile being threshed out in November, when the government will undertake to introduce in parliament an elaborate plan for fiscal reform based from the income tax.

BANKER KILLED BY HIS OLD ENEMY.

Portland, Tenn., July 3.—Allen Hester, president of the Portland bank, and Virgil Butt, a Portland business man, engaged in a pistol duel on a street yesterday, in which Hester was killed. Butt was taken to Nashville last night for safekeeping. In a fight between the two men last December, Butt shot Hester in the leg.

It is said the shooting yesterday occurred soon after Butt passed Hester's home and waved at Hester's wife.

GOOD WEATHER PROMISED DULUTHIANS FOR FOURTH

Richardson Makes Comforting Announcement for Independence Day.

No Civic Celebration, But Many Forms of Amusement Offered.

Duluth will have fair weather for the Fourth.

"Go ahead with your picnic plans for tomorrow," said Weather Forecaster Richardson today. "I look for partly cloudy weather with, perhaps—just perhaps—a few scattered local showers, and may be none at all. But I have reason to believe that if we do have local showers tomorrow, they will amount to nothing, and in fact will be merely refreshing."

The weather forecaster said that so slight the partly cloudy condition appears that the weather may be classed as "generally fair"; and that it will be first class for picnics and outings of all kinds. It will be slightly warmer, and unless the approaching conditions are shouldered off, picnics will be just the thing without danger of a drenching.

"No nor'easters in sight," he comfortingly observed today.

A year ago tomorrow was rainy and disagreeable.

Amusement Offered.

As to means of spending the day, those who enjoy the water will have ample opportunity to satisfy themselves in that respect. Leaving at 11 o'clock tonight and returning at 11 o'clock tomorrow night the steamer America of the Booth line will make a round trip of South Shore points. The twenty-four-hour ride is to be had for $1, with other accommodations at regular rates. The steamers Columbia and Favorite of the Clow & Nicholson line will ply between Duluth, Superior and Fond du Lac, the premier up-river summer resort. The round trip can be made for 50 cents. Hundreds will make the river trip in launches, motor boats, sail boats, row boats and canoes.

The sailing fleet of the Duluth Boat club will make a two days' cruise of it, leaving tomorrow morning for the branch at Spirit lake and returning Sunday night. A number of impromptu canoe and motor boat races will be pulled off at the branch house for the enjoyment of the crowd which will spend the double holiday there.

Ball Games and Golf.

At Desmond park a big program has been provided. At 2 o'clock the Elks and the Samaritans will clash in a real ball game, which will be one of the fraternal league series. Later there will be a race between the flying boat and a motor boat. After the matinee tomorrow afternoon, Miss Lou May, leading lady of the Baldwin Players, will take a trip in the flying boat, leaving from Desmond park for a flight over the harbor.

At Athletic park a double-header is scheduled between the ball teams of the Eagles and the M. B. A. and the Eagles and the Moose lodge.

A short stop golf tournament is scheduled at the Northland Country club.

There will be a flag contest for the women players early in the morning.

Ford Owners' Picnic.

Owners of Ford automobiles will rendezvous at Jungle lodge, thirty-seven miles from Duluth on the Whiteface river. A real Fourth of July picnic is slated for the day. Ninety-four Fordites have already signified their intention of going and many others are expected. There will be refreshments, a band, a dance and athletic contests. A "time contest" will be a feature. A city official will fix a certain hour and the three arriving closest to it will each receive a prize.

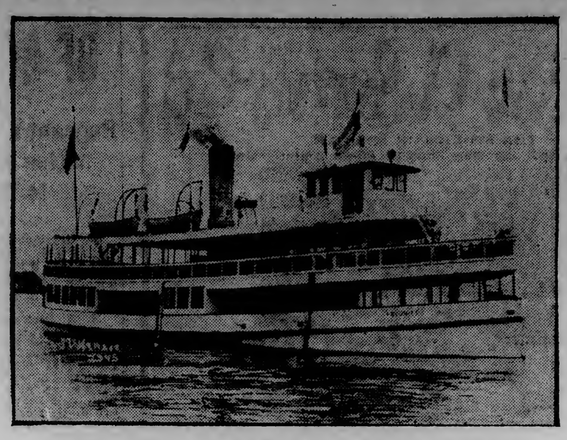

Many will spend the day quietly at the city parks or at one of the numerous summer resorts tributary to Duluth. At Lester park, Harmony hall will be opened, with dancing afternoon and evening. The outgoing trains will carry large numbers of fishermen who will pursue their favorite pastime on nearby lakes and streams. To these the advice of the old fisherman is to make ample preparations for mosquitoes and flies. The pests are especially pestiferous, with stings like hornets, and the careless are likely to suffer if they do not take the right precautions, among which are included "dope," netting and canvas gloves.

Quiet in City.

The city will have no civic celebration to commemorate the anniversary of the nation's birth. A Sunday quiet will prevail in the business and residence sections. The retail stores will remain open until a late hour tonight but will remain closed until Monday morning. Banks and public offices will be closed all day. The postoffice employes will make one delivery of mail and the usual holiday collections.

Superior will have a celebration of the old-fashioned kind, with fire crackers, toy pistols, dynamite caps, a big parade and various contests during the day and fireworks at night. There will be a fight card in the evening.

In Duluth the sale of fireworks or explosives is forbidden by ordinance. The only display of fireworks which has been announced is at the Northland club, but there may be one or two others. Fireworks can be displayed only by established organizations under the direction of the fire warden.

COMMERCIAL CLUB TO BE IN CHARGE

Mayor Sends Communication Regarding Care of Public Market.

The West End Commercial club will be given full charge of the public market at Twenty-first avenue west and Superior street, according to a communication from Mayor Prince read at the meeting last night. The communication also stated that an additional stall would be built by the city and that another shed for horses would be put up.

The market committee of the club will be given direct charge of the place. The stalls will be reserved for the farmers, each of whom will pay a rental of $10 for the season for this privilege. Each stall will be reserved for its owner's use until 8 a. m., and if the farmer has not appeared at that time, any other producer may occupy it.

This request for the disposition of the market was made at the desire of the members of the Farmers' & Producers' club of Hermantown, who complained that they found it necessary to get up at an exceptionally early hour of the morning in order to get a place on the market. It was also claimed that on some days people appeared there with produce who were not residents of the district, and crowded the regular producers out. Under the new system it will be impossible to do this, and will create a better market for those who depend on farming for their living.

A report of the garden committee was also given by James Maghan, chairman of the committee. He said that a large amount of work was in store for the members of the club when it comes to inspecting the gardens and their products. He stated that more than 90 per cent of the children who had entered in the contest were working hard to get the prizes offered, and that instead of their being 143 gardens to inspect, the number inspected last year, there would be more than 400 to look over this year. The committee has also prepared an outline of how the prizes will be distributed.

TWO HURT WHEN AUTO HITS BUGGY

Mrs. L. Karon and Son Harry Receive Slight Injuries.

Mrs. Louis Karon and her son Harry, 13 years old, residing at 1520 West Superior street, were injured by being thrown from a buggy when the rig was struck by an automobile driven by Norman A. Luce, 902 Hammond block, Tower avenue, Superior. The accident took place at Garfield avenue and Superior street last night.

Mrs. Karon had her left side injured and the young man was badly shaken up in the accident. Mr. Luce was driving the car and explained that the lights from an approaching automobile had blinded him so that he was unable to see the rig until his machine had crashed into it. Mrs. Karon was taken home where her injuries were attended by Dr. Salter.

PICNIC ON THE FOURTH.

M. E. Church Congregation Will Pass Day at Grassy Point.

The congregation of the First Norwegian Danish M. E. church will hold its annual picnic tomorrow at Grassy Point. The outing has been planned under the auspices of the official board and the Epworth League society. Invitations have been extended to the congregation of the Bethany Norwegian Lutheran church of West Duluth and the Superior church to join in the celebration.

The program will begin at 10:30 o'clock. Patriotic songs and addresses will feature the morning program, and sports of various kinds have been planned for the afternoon.

The picnicers will take the Grand avenue cars to the end of the line. Flags will be placed along the route to be taken by the visitors in order to mark the route to the picnic grounds.

NOTICE!

Don't forget the DANCE given by the I. O. S. club at Woodman hall, Twenty-first avenue west,

Saturday Evening, July 4th.

GOOD MUSIC.

Church Picnic.

The annual picnic of the congregation and the Sunday school of the First Swedish Methodist church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street, will be held tomorrow at Fairmont park. The members of the church will meet at the church at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning and go to the place in a body. A program for the day has been arranged under the direction of Rev. C. W. R. Wermine.

Picnic at Lakeside.

The congregation and Sunday school of the Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street, will hold a picnic tomorrow at Lakeside. The affair has been arranged under the auspices of the Baptist Young People's union. The picnic will be held along the lake shore. A program of sports and other features has been arranged.

The members of the congregation and Sunday school will meet at the church at 10 o'clock and will go to the picnic ground in a body.

No Services Sunday.

No services will be held Sunday at the St. Peter's Episcopal church, Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street. Rev. W. E. Harmann and family will leave tomorrow morning for Aitkin where they will spend the Fourth and Sunday visiting relatives.

The monthly meeting of the vestry of St. Peter's church will be held next Thursday evening at Lincoln park instead of on Monday evening as usual. The meeting will follow a supper served in the park by the guild societies. On that day the ladies' guild will hold a picnic in the park during the afternoon and serve supper to members of the congregation in the evening.

Mrs. Olson Summoned.

Mrs. Ole Olson, aged 52, 2324 West Tenth street, died at 8 p. m. last evening at her home. She is survived by her husband and three sons.

The funeral will be held from the Olson & Crawford undertaking rooms at 2 p. m. Sunday and from the Norwegian Lutheran church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street, at 3 p. m.

West End Briefs.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Hatt of Litchfield, Minn., are in the city to spend the Fourth visiting at the home of Mrs. Hatt's brother, Rev. W. E. Harmann, 113 Twenty-eighth avenue west, and her sister, Mrs. F. S. Curry.

Miss Olive Hood, 2728 West Michigan street, has left for Detroit, Mich., where she will spend a month visiting relatives.

Mrs. John Turge, 3901 West Third street, is spending two weeks visiting relatives at St. Paul.

Walter B. Carlson of Minneapolis is a guest of West end relatives this week.

STEEL PLANT SUBURBS

SLOW PROGRESS ON MORGAN PARK JOBS

Work May Not Be Finished Until Fall Because of Rains.

Paving of streets in Morgan park has been progressing very slowly since the work was begun this spring. Heavy rains during May and June has set the work back considerably according to foremen on the job and it will probably be late in the fall before the work planned for the summer is completed.

Crews are now paving Third street, and it is expected that within another month a start will be made on Fourth street. The latter will be the principal thoroughfare and it is on this street that double track rails for the street railway company will be laid.

Fourth street will be paved from the park to a junction with the county highway at Zimmerly and Commonwealth avenues. The street will be made wide enough to accommodate both team traffic and street cars.

Considerable difficulty is said to be met with by the contractors in building the highway from the suburb to the man highway. Two large ravines have been filled up, but owing to the nature of the soil, much of which is quicksand, the gravel and sand dumped into the places have sunk. It is not expected that the paving can be laid on that part of the road until next summer.

All of the streets of the suburb will be paved with concrete. Concrete curbing and sidewalks will also be laid. It is expected to have most of the street improvements completed before any more families will be allowed to move into the park.

URGE HIS PROMOTION.

Suburbanites Would Make Sergt. McDermott a Lieutenant.

At the meeting of the New Duluth Commercial club to be held next Tuesday evening members of the club propose to indorse a resolution asking that the department of public safety grant a promotion to Sergeant Robert McDermott of the New Duluth police station. Members of the club aver that the sergeant is doing the work of a lieutenant and that as he recently passed the examination for the higher position creditably that he should be given the higher title.

Sergeant McDermott is said to be the most efficient officer that the suburb has had, and to have better control over the rough element than ever before has been obtained. Among many of them he is known as "Mister Bob," and the majority of them doff their hats when they meet him.

ROAD TO SUBURBS IN BETTER SHAPE.

The highway between West Duluth and the suburbs has dried up again in fairly good shape, according to automobile owners who went over the road yesterday. With a minimum amount of rain from now on, it is expected that little difficulty will be experienced in traffic between the suburb and the city. The bus service has again been started to New Duluth.

Ball Team Confident.

Frank Wacha's aggregation of ball tossers and sluggers, otherwise known as the New Duluth baseball team, will journey tomorrow morning to Cloquet where they will play a morning and an afternoon game with the Cloquet team. Mr. Wacha said last evening that his team was in excellent shape and that he had no doubt that the two games were now as good as stowed away in their pockets.

Jacksonville, Ill., July 3.—Miss Mary Farrell of Springfield was killed fifteen miles west of Jacksonville when the automobile in which she was a passenger collided with a calf and turned turtle.

TRIES SUICIDE IN DESPAIR

L. Spallas Jumps Off Pier After Thirteen Years of Adversity.

Harvey Whitney Rescues Drowning Man in a Motorboat.

Despondency over continued misfortune drove Louis Spallas, a Greek, 24 years old, to attempt to take his own life yesterday afternoon by jumping off the north end of the canal pier. Luckily Harvey Whitney of Whitney brothers, Superior, who was in a motorboat, saw the young man take the plunge and immediately went to his rescue.

Mr. Whitney took Spallas over to the United States engineering office launch, which was docked nearby, and the young man was later brought to police headquarters by Maj. E. D. Peek and one of his assistants. The police last evening turned Spallas over to several of his friends, who have agreed to care for him and see that he does not make another attempt on his own life.

According to his story, Spallas has met many reverses during the last thirteen years. He left his home in Greece, he told the police, when but 11 years old and since then he has traveled to all parts of the globe.

The young Greek was second cook in a camp near Virginia all spring and until recently was employed in a local lunchroom. He has been without funds for some time and when he jumped into the canal yesterday afternoon, he had but 35 cents in his possession.

LOOKS AFTER ESTATE OF MURDERED MEN.

Floodwood, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sam P. Rogers of Aitkin was here Tuesday looking after his brother's estate. Mr. Rogers has been appointed administrator for his brother and David Craig, who were murdered at Poupore last January. Most of the personal property has been disposed of, while the homestead of the deceased men, along with other real estate, is being offered for sale. Mr. Rogers has been connected with the timber business on the Mississippi for the past thirty years.

HE IS HERE

Gaskin, the Quaker Health Teacher, Arrived Last Night, and Is Now at the Orpheum Pharmacy

Commencing at 9 o'clock this morning, Gaskin, the famous Quaker Health Teacher will be at the Orpheum Pharmacy, 201 East Superior Street, Duluth, Minn.

This will be his headquarters during the time he is in our city. All who suffer from any form of stomach, liver, kidney or blood troubles, also those with catarrh or rheumatism, should see Gaskin at once, as he is here to prove that the Quaker Remedy will cure those troubles. Gaskin said last night: "Duluth people are evidently curious to know my reason for paying this city a visit. Let me say I came here only to prove one thing and that is that the Quaker Remedies are doing a remarkably curative work in this country and will do the same here in this city. Just think of Richmond, where we sold over 6,000 bottles, and in Detroit over 9,000! And look at the hundred testimonials that have been published in the papers of these cities. The work that is being done for sufferers is really marvelous. Here is another case that will create enthusiam, I am sure:

"Mr. James Bostwick, living at 372 Abbott street, is a business man of Detroit, and a Mason, respected and well known. About two and a half years ago he began suffering from an attack of supposed indigestion. He would have a tight uncomfortable feeling after eating, he had dizzy spells and severe headaches; he was sore and stiff when he got up; he belched gas frequently; he had an annoying hacking cough; he was losing interest in everyday affairs, and had no energy; his sleep was broken, and he was nervous at times.

"Mr. Bostwick got many medicines, and left no stone unturned in his endeavor to find relief in some way, but all he got was a little occasional relief for a short while. Then he saw the great work I was doing, and he came and had a talk about his case. I urged him to begin taking Quaker Extract, and he finally purchased a treatment of three bottles, and started home with it. In a few days he came back and said: 'I have gotten rid of the whole cause of all my troubles, Mr. Gaskin; it is a tapeworm, and it is complete, with the head.' And oh, what a grateful and happy man he was. I have this tapeworm, together with many others, all expelled by people who had taken the Quaker Remedies. They are on exhibition at my headquarters at the Orpheum Pharmacy, where I am welcoming the public from 9 a. m. till 5 p. m. daily. I don't charge anything for a personal word or two with those who are suffering from stomach, liver, kidney and blood troubles."

BEER ENDS FIGHT BETWEEN BEAR CUBS.

A quart bottle of beer for each of two cub bears was sufficient to quell a fight between them last evening. The two cubs are the property of A. C. Taylor, 1320 John avenue. They became enraged at each other and while the scrap lasted neighbors stood around in fear that they would break from their cage. When the bottled beer was showed to them through the grating each grabbed a bottle and they drank themselves to sleep.

Duluthian Robbed.

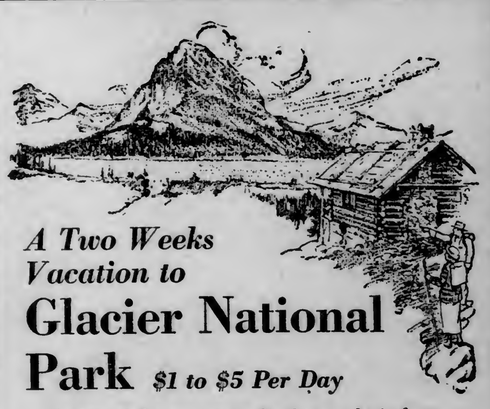

Dan Gray, giving his residence as the Sixth Avenue hotel, Duluth, reported to the Superior police that he had been held up and robbed of a $100 watch, a chain valued at $25 and a charm costing $7, as well as considerable cash. Four men are said to have been implicated in the hold-up. Gray could give no description of the men.

May Lose Free Bureau.

Unless the city of Superior provides more sanitary quarters for the office of the state free employment bureau the office will be closed, according to announcement made this morning by persons connected with the bureau. An attempt will be made to have the city provide other quarters, and if it does not, persons interested in labor welfare will put the matter up to the business men. The local office was established in 1900.

Bootlegger Sentenced.

Grafton, N. D., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Industriously engaged in peddling liquor Michael Brennan, a bootlegger, was arrested. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced by Judge Kneeshaw to six months in the state prison. He had been in the county only a short time before his arrest.

FILL OUT LIST OF GOVERNORS

Pageant and Festival Committee Meets; Officers to Be Chosen.

At the meeting of the 1915 pageant and festival committee at the Commercial club last evening, the personnel of the board of governors was finally decided on, and it is expected that the officers will be named within a short time.

H. W. Richardson, J. B. Crane and E. J. Filiatrault were selected at the meeting last evening to fill vacancies on the board and these men will serve two years with T. W. Hugo and A. K. Squier, who were chosen at a meeting several weeks ago. Those on the board who will serve until the fall of 1915, are J. H. Hearding, Jesse Norton, Mrs. John Jenswold, Jr., Mrs. S. R. Holden and Mrs. John F. Killorin.

The board of governors will meet sometime next week and select a president, three vice presidents and a secretary. Daniel Mahoney was elected treasurer at the last meeting, to hold office until a year from this fall.

During the meeting the members discussed the advisability of incorporating the festival committee and the matter was laid aside for the governors to dispose of. They will hold several meetings between now and fall, when a regular gathering of the general committee will be called, and at that time, it is expected, the governors will make reports on the selection of permanent officers, a name for the festival and the features of the celebration to be held here during the last week in July of next year.

A. K. Squier, temporary chairman, presided at the meeting last evening. A. C. Pearson is temporary secretary. They will both hold these positions until permanent officers are named by the board of governors.

Twenty Brainerd Licenses.

Brainerd, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the special council meeting twenty saloon men of Brainerd had made application to do business under the new $1,000 annual license fee taking effect the first of the month. One was refused by the council and the other had no money up. Today eighteen saloons are doing business where previously twenty-six held sway.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

EAGLE WILL SCREAM IN SUPERIOR SATURDAY.

The eagle will scream in all its glory in Superior tomorrow. The citizens' committee has planned a program for young and old that will put in the background anything that ever before has been attempted.

The program will be entirely along safe and sane lines. There will be patriotic addresses, songs and music, and limit kind for everybody and in the evening a grand display of fireworks.

The break of day will be celebrated with the booming of cannons firing the national salute. This will be the initial step to awake the citizen to the realization that the nation's greatest holiday has arrived.

The festivities will include a parade during the early forenoon in which every civic body in the city will take part. The evening's program will take place on Banker's island and a large natural amphitheater which 25,000 people will be able to enter located between L. and R. avenue will enable the people to watch the local version of the "Capture of Vera Cruz." Many members of Company I will take part in this demonstration.

LANDRY MAY GO TO FEDS AS UMPIRE.

Superior, Wis., July 3.—Jack Landry, deposed manager of the Superior Northern league team, has an offer to go to the Federal league as an umpire. The offer was made before "Spike" Shannon, former big leaguer, left the Northern league staff to join the outlaw organization. Landry umpired in the Northern league last year and has a chance to get his old job back.

Kid Taylor, the new Superior manager, assumed charge today, Shortstop Sundheim succeeding him as manager of the Virginia club, which yesterday sold Taylor to Superior. Taylor released Catcher McGovern and signed Outfielder Champaign and Pitcher Benton as his first act as manager of the Superior club.

Likes Rule Changes.

New York, July 3.—Col. Robert M. Thompson, president of the Olympic Association of America, who returned from Europe today, expressed general satisfaction with the results of the International Congress of Olympic delegates which he attended in Paris. The change in the rules giving to all countries that participate a voice in the management of the Olympic contests instead of confining control to the country where the games are held, received Col. Thompson's approval. The next Olympic games will take place at Berlin in 1916.

HERALD TRIPS WILL BEGIN NEXT WEEK

The many who have been telephoning for weeks to find out when The Herald's annual summer excursions will begin, and many others who take them in every year, will be pleased to learn that Monday and Tuesday of next week will start these popular outings.

The plan for next week gives three most charming excursion routes to pick from. On Monday two excursions will be run, one up the St. Louis river to Fond du Lac, and the other to Port Wing along the south shore of the lake. The steamer Favorite will take the one up the river, leaving the dock at the foot of Fifth avenue west at 9 a. m. and returning to the city at 6 in the evening. The steamer Columbia will take the south shore excursion, leaving Duluth at 9:30 a. m. and returning at 7:30 p. m.

On Tuesday afternoon the steamer America will leave at 4 o'clock in the afternoon for Two Harbors, and will return to Duluth at 9 o'clock in the evening. The wild beauty of the north shore can thus be seen by daylight.

BRAINERD WILL HAVE CELEBRATION.

Brainerd, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Brainerd will celebrate the Fourth in good, old-fashioned style. There will be day and night fireworks, a parade of automobiles, motorcycles, bicycles, mounted police, etc. At the exercises in Gregory park prayer will be offered by Rev. Caleb Benham, the Declaration of Independence will be read by Judge W. A. Fleming, the oration of the day will be delivered by Rev. G. Phil Sheridan. There will be a program of sports at Koering field followed by the first of series of two games of baseball with Staples, one game Saturday and one Sunday, night fireworks and a grand ball at Gardner auditorium.

Verdict Against Railroad.

International Falls, Minn., July 3.—The jury in the Brennan case against the M., D. & W. railroad returned a verdict awarding the plaintiff damages in the sum of $6,225. It is stated that on first ballot all but one juror voted to allow the full sum asked for, which was $15,000.

CUT FINES IN LUMBER CASE

Missouri Supreme Court Refuses to Modify the Judgment.

Jefferson City, Mo., July 3. — The state supreme court has denied an application for the modifications of judgment in the anti-trust proceedings against lumber companies held to be guilty last December. The court entered an order reducing the fines imposed upon four of the companies, withholding the ousters issued against the companies convicted as long as they obey the laws of the state and the orders of the court and withdraw from the Yellow Pine Lumber association.

The companies granted reductions in fines are:

Carson-McLeod company of St. Louis, fine reduced from $50,000 to $20,000; Calcasieu Lumber company of Kansas City, fine reduced from $50,000 to $25,000.

Central Coal & Coke company, Kansas City, fine reduced from $50,000 to $30,000.

Missouri Land & Lumber Exchange company, Kansas City, fine reduced from $6,000 to $3,000.

Must Pay $358,000.

The twenty-four convicted companies, under this new order, must pay the state aggregate fines of $358,000. The court ordered that the fines be paid within sixty days.

Suits against an alleged lumber monopoly were filed simultaneously in Missouri, Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas July 3, 1913, by the attorneys general of those states. The suits sought to deprive the companies named of their right to do business in those states.

In a public statement filed at the time the suits were brought, Herbert F. Hadley, then attorney general of Missouri, said that a combination of yellow pine lumber dealers had for years violated the laws. Evidence in the Missouri cases were taken in all parts of the state, and the matter finally was submitted to the supreme court of Missouri for decision.

Ousted Eleven Companies.

On Dec. 24, 1913, the supreme court rendered a decision ousting eleven companies unconditionally and fining them, and ousting twelve companies, but with the ouster suspended during good behavior provided the companies paid the fines. One company was fined $1,000.

The examiner who took testimony in the case reported that the lumber companies had entered into an illegal combination to control the price of lumber and limit the production; that they had issued a price list; that they curtailed the production of yellow pine lumber in 1904 and 1905 in order to enhance the price, and entered into a joint trade agreement whereby the manufacturers agreed to sell lumber only to those retailers who were regarded as "legitimate" and who agreed to buy their lumber from members of the Yellow Pine Manufacturers' association.

Sought Modification.

After the decision of the supreme court ousting twelve companies unconditionally from the state, efforts made by the commercial organizations of St. Louis and Kansas City to secure a modification of the order permitting the companies to remain in the state. On Feb. 10, 1914, the supreme court overruled motions for a rehearing and a modification of judgment, but retained jurisdiction of the case.

On March 30, 1914, it was announced in Jefferson City that attorneys for twenty-four companies had filed with the supreme court assurances that they would not appeal from the final ruling of the state's supreme court, and filed an agreement that they would withdraw from the Yellow Pine Manufacturers' association unless it discontinued the issuance of a price list. They asked for a reduction of the fines and for a suspension of the ouster decree.

A few days later the Yellow Pine Manufacturers' association voted to discontinue publication of a price list.

LIGHTNING STRIKES NORTH DAKOTA HOME

Cayuga, N. D., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—A bolt of lightning struck the Andrew Johnson home in this county and killed a small son. Mr. Jonhnson was seated in the kitchen with the children on his knees when the bolt came. He was rendered unconscious for a short time but recovered sufficiently to extinguish the fire started by the electricity. Mrs. Johnson, who was passing through the room, was rendered unconscious for a long period and but for the presence of her husband would have been burned to death. The child was instantly killed.

NEWSIE BLIND-PIGGER.

Runs Little Saloon in North Dakota to His Sorrow.

Edingburg, N. D., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles Fox of Minneapolis, a news agent on the Great Northern trains on this line, was adding to his receipts by selling bottles of liquor to local people. He changed trains here and had an hour and a half time at this point, which he improved. When arrested he had a grip filled with bottles of liquor brought up on the morning trip. He pleaded guilty. His wife came up from Minneapolis and pleaded for clemency. Judge Kneeshaw changed the sentence from eight months in the state prison to an indeterminate sentence.

SWEDISH WOMEN ASK FOR BALLOT.

Stockholm, July 3.—The Swedish parliament has received a petition signed by 350,000 women urging woman's enfranchisement. A bill along these lines is now in the diet and has much support, but it is supposed the first chamber will reject it.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

CROPS LOOK FIRST CLASS

Farmers Around Grand Forks Are Very Optimistic.

All Northeastern North Dakota Now Reporting Good Crop.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Optimistic feelings prevail generally among the farmers in the vicinity of Grand Forks over the present crop situation and over the prospects for the balance of the year.

Reports from this part of the state show that the corn has in most places reached a height of from one to two feet, and is in first-class condition.

The recent rains which have fallen generally throughout North Dakota far from injuring the crops have been of great benefit, eliminating all possibility of drought at the present time. The country is now in a position to stand dry weather for some time to come.

More Heat Preferable.

The general opinion is that it would be beneficial to have the present hot sunny weather continue during the next ten days or more. This is especially true with reference to the corn crop.

The wheat is also in first-class condition, being of course, much further advanced than is the corn. If the weather conditions continue to be favorable it is probable that threshing will begin throughout the valley at the usual time.

MISSISSIPPI IS UNUSUALLY HIGH.

Little Falls, Minn., July 3.—The Mississippi river is higher here than it has been for ten years. Tuesday morning the guage at the power station registered 24.8 feet, one inch higher than it was when it rose after the heavy rains a couple of weeks ago. The water stands some distance back in the yards where the Morrison County Lumber company has its wood piled, a short distance above the bridge on the west side of the river, and the water reaches to within a few inches of the concrete wall north of the bridge on the east side.

WOMEN WHO ARE ALWAYS TIRED

May Find Help in This Letter.

Swan Creek, Mich.—"I cannot speak too highly of your medicine. When through neglect or overwork I get run down and my appetite is poor and I have that weak, languid, always tired feeling, I get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it builds me up, gives me strength, and restores me to perfect health again. It is truly a great blessing to women, and I cannot speak too highly of it. I take pleasure in recommending it to others."—Mrs. ANNIE CAMERON, R.F.D., No. 1, Swan Creek, Michigan.

Another Sufferer Relieved.

Hebron, Me.—"Before taking your remedies I was all run down, discouraged and had female weakness. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used the Sanative Wash, and find today that I am an entirely new woman, ready and willing to do my housework now, where before taking your medicine it was a dread. I try to impress upon the minds of all ailing women I meet the benefits they can derive from your medicines."—Mrs. CHARLES ROWE, R. F. D., No. 1, Hebron, Maine.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter wil be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

LIGHTNING STRIKES NEAR MOOSE LAKE

Family at Supper When Bolt Crashes Through Home, All Escaping.

Moose Lake, Minn., July 3.—During a severe electrical storm a few nights ago, lightning struck the residence of Lambert Pierson, one and one-half miles south of Moose Lake.

The family, consisting of Lambert, his brother, Dan, and their mother, an aged lady, were eating supper in the little kitchen when the bolt entered the roof on the west side, tearing a large hole, thence tearing its way through the rooms of the upstairs, following a corner to the down stairs, blowing out the pipe of the kitchen stove and throwing a mirror off the wall, just missing Mrs. Pierson, as she sat in her usual place near the table. The lightning then made its way to the parlor, doing but slight damage, and then out the door on the north side, tearing the casing nearly off. No one was hurt.

The bolt, after striking the house, seemed to separate into three distinct factors and each took its own course.

CLOQUET PLANNING BIG CELEBRATION

Old-Fashioned Affair With John Jenswold of Duluth as Orator.

Cloquet, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Arrangements were completed for a rousing Fourth of July celebration here. The program includes a long list of sports of all kinds with amusements for everyone all day.

The day will open with a national salute at sun rise. At 9 o'clock an automobile parade will take place. This will start at Third street and Carlton avenue, going east to Fourteenth street and from there on Cloquet avenue to Pinehurst park, where patriotic exercises will take place. John Jenswold, Jr., of Duluth, will deliver the oration. After the speeches there will be a ball game between Cloquet and the New Duluth team.

In the afternoon there will be another ball game between Cloquet and the New Duluth team and a full program of races will be carried out. The races will consist of children's contests of all kinds, and men's and children's races. One of the features of the afternoon will be the log rolling and the water sports in Pinehurst park. Cash prizes will be given all the winner in the games and contests.

The program will close in the evening with a grand display of fire works which has been specially selected for the occasion. One of the features of the celebration will be a free dance which will be given in the park pavilion during the afternoon and evening.

BELTRAMI COUNTY FAIR.

Various Stunts to Be Given to Please Visitors.

Bemidji, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—A ball-balancing feat, an act by a troup of acrobats, with probably a few horse races, have been arranged for attractions and several special prizes have been arranged for the annual Beltrami county fair, Sept. 14, 15 and 16. Charles F. Schroeder, secretary of the Fair association, has been active in the planning for the fair, although he has been assisted by A. P. White, president; A. P. Ritchie, vice president, and R. H. Schumacher, treasurer.

Among the special prizes this year is a $50 loving cup given by the Great Northern for the best exhibit of grains, grasses and vegetables. The winner of the cup will become its owner. The Northern Pacific cup will again be entered for competition this year. A. P. Ritchie won it last year. The person getting it three times becomes its owner. It is offered for the best three heifers, either Holstein, Jersey or Gurnsey.

U. L. BURDICK WILL SUPPORT GOV. HANNA

Defeated North Dakota Candidate in Line for Nominee.

Williston, N. D., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—U. L. Burdick, defeated for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, will support Governor L. B. Hanna, he says in a statement issued here today.

"Last March when I made my announcement that I was a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor I stated that, so far as I was concerned, there would be no appeal from the verdict to be rendered June 24." Mr. Burdic says, "I did my best to put the Progressive Republican case before the people of the state. The primaries have come and gone, and the verdict has been rendered and, according to the returns, Mr. Hanna has been nominated.

Still a Republican.

"I am still a Republican, and will take defeat with a smile, just as I have heretofore taken victory. A poor loser would not make a good winner. I am going to continue the fight for Progressive principles within the party, but I believe that the primaries afford the proper time for so doing. I shall give my support to the Republican ticket placed in nomination at the recent primaries.

"Upon my return from the campaign a jury term of court was on here at Williston, and I have been engaged every minute in trying criminal cases. As soon as this work is out of the way, I shall avail myself of the opportunity of writing to the hundreds of personal friends, and thanking the thousands of voters who made it possible for me to receive such splendid indorsement at the primaries. I feel especially proud of the vote I received in the counties where I have lived, and where I was well known."

LITTLEFORK MILL IS TOTAL LOSS.

Littlefork, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The sawmill of Holden & Folkinchorne was burned to the ground Wednesday night. The cause of the fire is unknown. The fire was discovered when a box containing forty pounds of dynamite was exploded, severely shaking all the town. Nearly all the lumber was saved, but the mill was a total loss, there being no insurance on the mill. The damage is estimated at $8,000.

PAROCHIAL SCHOOL AT LAKE BEMIDJI.

Bemidji, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Under the tall pines of the library park, overlooking beautiful Lake Bemidji, fifty members of the Swedish Lutheran church held a picnic to celebrate the closing of the parochial school, which has been taught by Rev. W. E. Erickson from a seminary at Rock Island, Ill. After riding on the lake on the City of Bemidji, the children gave a program. Rev. Mr. Erickson says that Bemidji is one of the most beautiful places he has ever visited.

Members of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Swedish Lutheran church of Nymore gave a picnic in the woods near Main street in Nymore last Sunday. About 100 attended. Rev. W. E. Erickson spoke.

Obstinate Acne Yields Quickly

Cheeks, Temples, Nose and Chin Nicely Cleared

As with a Fairy's Wand

"Aha!" You say—"they are disappearing fast" after a short use of S. S. S., the wonderful blood purifier.

Yes, those pesky little red spots do fade away quickly nor do they come back.

Looking through a powerful microscope you find the skin a marvelous network of tiny blood vessels, glands, ducts, and cells in all of which the active principle of S. S. S. is at work; it is driving out impurities, through the skin pores and new materials rush in to create and sustain new healthy tissue. This influence is carried to the outer skin where the broken down cells and their deadened nerve bulbs are rebuilt, the red spots dry up, fleck away and are replaced by brand new skin.

You will thus waste no more time with external ointments for any form of skin trouble.

Be sure to get a bottle of S. S. S. today of any druggist. Shun all substitutes. Don't be imposed upon. Insist upon S. S. S. Write for book "What the Mirror Tells" to The Swift Specific Co., 101 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

INDIANS GATHERING FOR BIG WAR DANCE

Annual Affair Is Being Pulled Off at Whitefish Lake, Wis.

Couderay, Wis., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Most of the 1,100 Chippewa Indians on the Couderay Indian reservation are assembling at Whitefish lake, near the Indian village on the reservation for their annual war dance, which will last for the next ten days.

Last year the dances were held at the Lac Du Flambeau reservation.

Nearly every Indian tribe in the Northwest is sending a number of its best dancers and oldest men.

The Indians paint up in old-style war paint during the dances and many feel hostile towards the white men.

The Christian Indians attend but do not partake in the dances. Dog soup is a delicacy during the dances. Old Indians from the different tribes tell war stories through an interpreter and prizes are awarded to the best-dressed tribe represented, the Winnebagos as a general rule being awarded the honors.

CHIPPEWA CONGRESS

Will Be Held at Cass Lake Next Week, Bishop McGolrick Attending.

Cass Lake, Minn., July 3.—Plans are about perfected for the Catholic Chippewa congress to be held here July 8-12 with a thousand or more Indians and whites participating.

Rt. Rev. James McGolrick, bishop of Duluth, Bishop Corbet, of Crookston and about twenty priests throughout the state will be present to take part in the program. On Friday, July 10, Bishop McGolrick will confirm a class numbering nearly 250 Indians and whites, the services to commence at 9 a. m. and continue till noon.

Rev. Father Frederick, in charge of St. Charles' church here, is busy this week completing final arrangements to handle the large crowds expected for the congress. The interior of St. Charles' church is being redecorated throughout.

SECOND INDIAN MEET.

Conference at Bemidji July 14 to Discuss Tribal Matters.

Bemidji, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Twelve thousand Chippewa Indians of Minnesota will be represented by 100 Indians from ten tribes at a conference to be held here July 14. It will be the second annual general conference of the Chippewas, the first conference having been held at Cass Lake, when Edward L. Rogers, one of the most prominent attorneys of Cass county and a resident of Walker, was named chief.

That the ten tribes may have greater representation and more prestige at Washington is the stated object of the organization. Tribes to be represented at the meeting in the city hall this month are Cass Lake, Red Lake, White Earth, Cloquet, Boys Ford, Grand Portage, Mille Lacs Lake, Whote Oak Point and Winnibigoshish.

Cato Sells, Indian commissioner, has been invited to attend the meeting. An appropriation of $1,500 was this year made for the first time toward supporting the conference.

MORE MONEY WANTED.

Fargo to Raise Money for Its Armory-Auditorium.

Fargo, N. D., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fargo is to have another money raising campaign. It will be for the armory-auditorium and will be conducted along the same general lines as that recently made for Fargo college in which $115,000 was raised for the endowment fund of that institution. Practically every captain of the original campaign squads has consented to participate in the new campaign and they feel that with the experiences gained in the other effort it will be an easy matter to raise the funds for the auditorium.

RACING AUTO KILLS.

Son of Carver Editor Run Down By St. Paul Negro.

Carver, Minn., July 3.—Clyde Myers, the 8-year-old son of H. D. Myers, editor of the Carver Journal-Review, was instantly killed, and Leona, the 7-year-old daughter of R. J. Neunsing, a local hotel proprietor, was so seriously injured that it is expected she will die, when they were struck by an automobile, which, it is claimed, was racing with another machine on the main street of this village Tuesday night. R. N. Trawa, colored, of St. Paul, was arrested at Chaska, two miles from here, and is held pending the result of a coroner's jury.

Each Take Child.

Bemidji, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Robert W. Messereau this week secured a divorce from his wife, Rose. He gets the custody of their 8-year-old daughter, Lorene, and she gets the custody of their 5-year-old son, Robert.

PAYS BACK MONEY.

Former Postmistress Earns Enough to Pay Up.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 3.—From her earnings as clerk in a department store in Chicago Stella Malczedewski has paid back to the United States government $210 which she appropriated when she was assistant postmistress at Pulaski, Wis.

United States District Attorney Guy D. Goff received a money order from her for the amount in full yesterday.

She was indicted on two counts, the first charging the taking of the money and the second charging the unlawful opening of a letter. On the second count she was fined $25 and costs.

TAKES BIG WHITEFISH.

Denizen of Lake Superior Weighing Twenty-Three Pounds Caught.

Marquette, Mich., July 3.—A bow-backed whitefish weighing twenty-three pounds, one of the largest whitefish caught by local fishermen in several years, was brought in Tuesday by Capt. Parker's tug Theora. The fish is 36 inches long and measures 25 inches in circumference. It was shipped to Chicago where it will bring a retail price of about 30 cents a pound.

STAMPING OUT DOURINE.

Government and State Working Together at Schafer, N. D.

Schafer, N. D., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Both the government and the state officials are doing everything in their power to suppress the epidemic of dourine with which many horses in this section have been afflicted. An examination of the herds on two ranches near here this week showed thirty-two on one ranch and sixten on another. These were immediately killed. The latter were registered horses. The government pays a small proportion of the value of the animals. While this is nothing like what healthy animals would bring it keeps the killing of the horses from being a total loss to the owners.

STUDIES BULLDOG FLY.

University Bug Expert Seeking Way to Eradicate Pest.

Warroad, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. W. Howard of the entomology department of the university spent the past week in the town of Clear river studying the bulldog fly with the purpose of discovering some way of eradicating them. While there he discovered a mosquito species with three mites on them.

About twenty-three pupils and teachers from the Minnesota university, who are making the trip "See Minnesota First Tour," visited Warroad Wednesday. They were entertained while here by the mayor and C. Moody.

LUMBERMEN VISIT.

Men Prominent in Such Affairs Spend Two Days at Cloquet.

Cloquet, Minn., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—A number of men interested in the local lumber companies were here Tuesday and Wednesday for the annual meetings of the Northern Lumber company and the Eastern Lumber company and some of the subsidiary companies which were held on Tuesday. Those who were here were John P. Weyerhaeuser and son, Phillip of Spokane, Wash.; Fred E. Weyerhaeuser of St. Paul, Charles A. Weyerhaeuser of Little Falls, Fred Denkmann of Rock Island, Ill.; George F. Lindsay of Duluth, Dr. Bancroft Hill of Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; William Irvine of Chippewa Falls, Wis.; Horace Irvine of St. Paul, A. A. McDonnell of Chippewa Falls, Mr. Richardson of Davenport, Iowa, and George F. Hawley of Tonawanda, N. Y.

Valley City, N. D.—Miss Gladys Bohn has been appointed superintendent of Platou hospital, to take charge July 1. Miss Bohn is a graduate of the Post Graduate hospital, Chicago, having completed her training there four years ago.

Bismarck, N. D.—The secretary of state has issued certificates to the following parties to act as notary public: Harmon W. Allen, Braddock; P. H. Gilbertson, Sharon; Halvor N. Kiev, Clifford; Martin G. Myhre, Walcott; Nels P. Nelson, Cooperstown; Brynjolf Prom, Milton.

Beach, N. D.—Welcomed by Mayor Brinton and a delegation of school children, "Gen." Rosalie Jones was given a royal reception on her arrival in this city. A large parade was held in her honor in which the officials of the city participated.

Cleveland, N. D.—A petition was circulated here getting signers among voters in this school district to call a special meeting to take a vote on the question of consolidating the three schools in Weld township and erect an adequate school building on section 16, which is about the center of the township. The petition was generally signed.

Valley City, N. D.—Mrs. J. J. Brawders left July 1 for Staples, Minn., to be with a sister, Mrs. Guinn, who is ill. Mrs. Guinn visited here this spring.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Carlton—Julia Oswell died Monday at her home here, aged 61. Mrs. Oswell is survived by a husband, two daughters, Emma and Pearl, and five sons, Oscar, Walter, Rudy, George and Andrew Oswald.

Cambridge—Summer school opened Monday, June 29th, and a large number of teachers and graduates from the different towns came to attend it.

Mankato—Mrs. Bell Rhodes, 320 Glenwood avenue, who was seriously injured by an automobile on Broad street last week, is now resting easily, and seems to be making progress in the direction of recovery. The attending physician says it will probably be about two months before she will be up.

Cambridge—John Peter Olson, a pioneer of Wyanett township, Isantt county, passed away at the Northwestern hospital last Saturday, aged 62, of lead poison.

Ada—A meeting of the rural carriers of Norman county, twenty in number, has been called to be held in Ada on Saturday, July 4.

Hinckley—Forest Bruce, the 16-year-old son of Henry Bruce, who lives about eight miles east of Rock creek, was killed while attempting to swing aboard a moving St. Paul road transfer train in that city last Monday afternoon. He lost his grip and fell under the wheels.

North Branch—Oscar Peterson, aged 62 years, formerly a resident of this village, died at the City Hospital in St. Paul last Tuesday, after a short illness. The remains were shipped here and interred in the local Lutheran cemetery.

Warren—Arne Garborg, a former Warren boy, displayed true heroic valor some two weeks ago at the occasion of an automobile accident in Seattle, Wash., when he rescued two children from the bay.

St. Cloud—Following the example set by the Northern Pacific, officials of the Great Northern road have informed the city that the Great Northern will bear its share of the burden of expense for constructing the concrete paving now being laid on East St. Germain street.

Stillwater—The cabin cruiser Onaway, which arrived here Monday from down river points, left Tuesday for St. Croix Falls. The boat is owned by A. M. Richey, who has for twenty-three years been an engineer in Chicago and is now retired on half pay.

Little Falls—The Little Falls Gun club will hold its first shoot of the year at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, July 4.

Mora—Dr. J. Carl Painter and wife of Eveleth, Minn., arrived in Mora last week to reside permanently.

Mankato—Regular service on the Great Western road from Mankato to Minneapolis and Randolph was started Tuesday by the Dan Patch line, whose lease of the road became effective yesterday. Five trains each way will run daily.

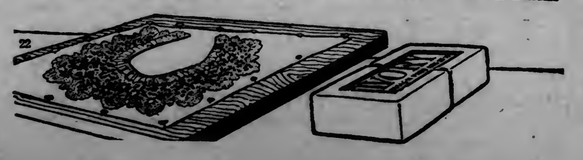

EXAMINE a fine lace collar that has been washed with Ivory Soap. Notice how clear it is in color. How much it feels like a brand new piece. How fresh and unworn it looks in every thread. That shows the quality of Ivory Soap—its mildness, purity and freedom from uncombined alkali.

To Wash Real Lace Collars and Other Fine Laces

Baste the lace to a piece of clean white muslin so that each point and picot is held firmly in place. Make a good lather of Ivory Soap and warm water and let the lace soak for thirty minutes. Then alternately press between hands and dip in the water until clean. Do not rub. If necessary, use a second clean suds of Ivory Soap. Then rinse in clear waters, next in blue water and lastly in a thin starch. Tack on a board stretching the muslin evenly. When nearly dry, remove from the board and press thoroughly through the muslin. Do not put iron on the lace. When dry, cut the basting threads and you will find the lace like new.

Just Between You and Me

By BRUCE

THERE was a rumor spread yesterday that Pal Brown would box five or six minutes in his dressing room just before the time to enter the ring with Frankie Whitney on Saturday evening. The range lad doesn't get started before the latter end of the fight. It is figured that if he gets warmed up before he enters the ring he will start after the tough and hard-hitting Whitney just that much sooner.

This stunt is novel but not precisely new. Old Bob Fitzsimmons was the kind of a fighter that usually went along some way before throwing in the high speed. When Fitzsimmons fought Tom Sharkey at Coney Island, the red-topped one wrestled and sparred for something like ten minutes and then jumped into his bath robe and beat it for the ring. Fitz dropped the sailor in the second round for the count.

When Willie Ritchie fought Leach Cross in the garden the past year he boxed what was equal to four or five rounds in his dressing room and then went out and started off at high speed in the ten round gallop with Leaches Cross, dropping the Hebrew early in the fight and having the edge all the way through.

At Hudson Pal seemed to be taking everything easy until the last round. He tore into Tillman in the final session and fought the Minneapolis boy off his feet. The idea is that if Brown gets warmed up before he starts the battle with Whitney, that he may rush the fight in the earlier rounds and carry the Southern boxer off his feet.

Brown has never been knocked down. Chuck Larson had him in the first stages of grogginess on the feet, and some reports of the Brown-Temple fight in Milwaukee state that Ray caught Pal near the close of the third round and had him feeling queer for a minute.

Whitney has a remarkable left hand, according to the reports of his various fights. Pal Brown is easy for a boxer with a good left hand. If the Southern boy carries a kayo producer in his portside wing, there may be some sad surprise sprung on the glorious evening of the glorious Fourth.

The Scouts Are Busy.

PRESIDENT Harry A. Blume of our gay baseball team, returned to our municipal midst yesterday. Whether it was the sad and disastrous result of the games of Dominion day that was responsible for the return of the native, or whether it was that the Peerless leader simply tired of the rigors of the road, we wot not of—the plebian fact remains that he is here.

"Ted Sullivan will be at the Forks and will look Brackett over," was the news salutation of the P. L. "Another little thing," he continued, "is that Eddie Kerr of the St. Louis Cardinals has asked for a price list mark on Harry Wolfe. Edward has given the work of Wolfe some serious attention and he likes the work of the boy. Wolfe is bound to improve. His fielding has been the sensation of the Northern league. If he improves in batting he is sure to go up—as it is the Cardinals are curious enough to ask our price on the boy."

In regard to Boardman, the P. L. had little to say. According to the few laconic remarks dropped, Boardman has all kinds of smoke and at the present time is shy of control.

Maybe it is work that the southpaw wants—maybe he will get it all here. Someone has to take up the burden of the pitching labor, and it may as well be Boardman.

A Slight Obstacle.

THE Minneapolis Journal sporting writer states that a pony polo team may be organized in the Mill city. One of the obstacles in the path of the success of the plans, says the article, is the fact that a good outfit of ponies will cost in the immediate financial neighborhood of $25,000.

Why would a small obstruction like that alter the plans of the enthusiasts?

The Move of Mons. Taylor.

LATE dispatches of yesterday brought with sudden and shocking information details of the move of Kid Taylor from Virginia to Superior. As manager of the Virginia team the Kid proved an immense success; as manager of the under dog baseball proposition across the way the fans will watch with interest the success or failure of the experiment.

It is generally admitted that the kid knows a lot of baseball. He quit Superior because of some misunderstanding with the old management and now returns to the new directors of the team with a handsome increase of salary over the figure that his Virginia contract called for. If he pulls the team out of the ruck he will have earned the extra added attraction of the increase in the semi-monthly pay envelope.

Hughey Fullerton's Boner.

THAT string wire sheet, the Minneapolis Daily News, runs a story from the pen of Hughey Fullerton of the fight between James J. Jeffries and James J. Corbett, in which it is said that Billy Brady was pleading and cajoling in the corner of the exchampion.

Aside from the fact that Brady was the manager of Jeffries and sat directly behind the corner of the big boiler maker that night, the story may be nearly correct. This little break suggests the belief that Fullerton is attempting to cover too much ground.

HOLIDAY PROGRAM AT DESMOND PARK

Baseball, Race Between Aeroplane and Motor Boat and Other Features.

With a baseball game, an aviation exhibition, a race between a motor boat and an aeroplane, high dives, peanut scrambles for the youngsters with Miss Lola May, the leading woman of the Baldwin Players dropping the peanuts from the aeroplane, a chase for a greased pig, and other stunts, the Fourth promises to be a lively day at Desmond park on Park point.

The baseball game will be between the Elks and the Modern Samaritans, and will begin at 2 o'clock. The race will follow, and the other stunts will follow the race. J. J. Desmond, the owner of the park, calls the program "seven hours of fun for two bits" and says there will be something going on at the park from 2 o'clock until dark. The aeroplane will make continuous flights, and there will be swimming for all who care to take advantage of it in the pool beside the park.

FLYING BOAT HAS VERY HARD TESTS

Curtiss Raises 5,000 Pounds in Craft for Ocean Flight.

Hammondsport, N. Y., July 3.—The America, the flying boat built for Rodman Wanamaker, made several flights yesterday, piloted by Glenn H. Curtiss, carrying the heaviest loads which she has so far been burdened with. The gross weight of the machine on one flight was more than 5,000 pounds.

The weight of the so-called "useful load" was estimated at more than 2,100 pounds. On this flight Curtiss carried seven passengers. Dr. A. F. Zahm of the Smithsonian institution was among the passengers.

Although the load exceeded somewhat that which will be required in the proposed trans-Atlantic flight, Mr. Curtiss expressed his intention of doing further experimental work with the hull before preparing to ship the flying boat to Newfoundland. He seems to think a still larger margin of safety in fuel carrying can be produced.

In place of the auxiliary hydroplanes with which the machine was temporarily equipped, two pontoons have been attached to the wings midway to the ends of the planes These appeared to raise the machine somewhat in the water.

NO CHANGE IN CIRCUIT.

International League Has Financial Loss Facing Organization.

New York, July 3.—There will be no change in the International league circuit this season and the clubs will play out their regular schedule. This was the announcement made at adjournment of a special meeting of the organization.

The proposition to transfer the franchise of the Baltimore club to Richmond, Va., caused the meeting. President Dunn of the Baltimore club had been offered $62,500 by a syndicate formed in Richmond for the transfer.

When Dunn put this subject before the meeting, it was said that the owners of the Jersey City club also were anxious to place their franchise at the disposal of the Richmond people, and there was a lengthy discussion as to how these two clubs, both of which are said to be losing money, could be placated.

President Barrow would not say whether any arrangements had been made to give financial aid to either or both clubs.

Player Arrested.

Chicago, July 3.—A warrant charging Michael Prendergast, pitcher for the Chicago Federal league team, with a serious offense, was issued yesterday by the municipal court. Miss Helen Amba, 19 years old, of Peoria, Ill., is the complainant. The warrant states the meeting of the girl and the pitcher occurred at Peoria ball park June 13, 1913.

SPECIAL SHOOT FOR THE FOURTH

Bird Contest at Central Club—Crack Shots Visit in Duluth.

J. R. Graham, United States holder of the clay pigeon championship and also the holder of the European title at one time; George Banks, former holder of the United States championship, and H. C. Hersey, several times holder of the United States clay pigeon trophy, were in Duluth yesterday and spent part of the day at the targets of the Central Gun club.

With the members of the club these crack shots held an informal shoot and some remarkable target work was the treat of those who went down to the Minnesota Point grounds to watch the work of the experts.

Beginning tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock there will be a special Fourth of July shoot at the grounds of the Central Gun club.

The shoot will be held in the forenoon only. It will be a 100-bird special shoot and the club has donated some handsome prizes for the various winners.

CUP GOES TO FOREIGNERS

Struggle for Famous British Trophy Confined to Americans and Germans.

Englishman, Canadian and Italian Survivors in Diamond Sculls.

Henley-on-Thames, July 3. — The third day of the Royal regatta opened with all the interest centered on the semi-finals of the grand challenge cup, the "blue ribbon" of English amateur rowing. All the English crews had been eliminated and only American, Canadian and German oarsmen were left to continue the contest.

Harvard was drawn against Winnipeg in the first of the semi-finals and Boston met Mayence.

In the individual sculling competition for the diamond sculls all were eliminated yesterday except Williams and Stuart, two Englishmen, and Dibble of Toronto and Sinigaglia of Como, Italy. The two Englishmen were drawn together in the semi-final heat today.

The day opened with a drizzling rain which later developed into a downpour, accompanied by a strong cold north wind, which kicked up whitecaps on the course.

It was a bad day to row in low rigged boats. The usual morning spins were abandoned, the oarsmen contenting themselves with a sharp row to warm up.

Even the grandstands offered little protection from the weather. The wind drove the rain into the royal inclosure and at times threatened to tear the canvas to shreds.

C. M. Stuart of Trinity Hall, Cambridge, beat E. G. Williams of the Vikings Rowing club by a length and a half in the first semi-final of the diamond sculls. His time was 8 minutes, 45 seconds.

LOOKS LIKE JONES.

Central State Champion Tennis Player Is Best Bet.

St. Louis, Mo., July 3.—The semi-finals of the central states tennis tournament were begun on the triple A courts here today. Drummond Jones of this city, present holder of the Central states championship, was acceded the "best bet" by most followers of the tournament.

William A. Horrell of Pasadena, Cal., fell a victim to Jones yesterday. The westerner lost strength steadily as the games progressed. Jones played a smashing game throughout.

WHITE SOX MUST CLIMB IN APPROACHING SERIES

O'Brien's Warriors Have Twenty-two Games Scheduled in Home Stand.

Blancke's Poor Condition Has Rent Hole in the Pitching Staff.

BY BRUCE.

The Dooks will open the at home afternoon receptions at Athletic park on Sunday afternoon with Fort William in the role of the guest.

Following the soiree with the Conrad contrabands, Grand Forks, led by the immaculate and impeccable Mr. Edward Osmund Wheeler, will descend upon us for three games. Schedule makers in this red and roughened neck of the woods must have been up against it in schedule making. This is merely stated to explain away some of the vagaries of this year's arrangement of the dates of the Northern league teams.

Fort William opens the at home season, as you read one paragraph in the rear. After the visit of Grand Forks the Fort William Twins return for another series of three games. The Dooks should climb at the expense of the tribe of dejected and somewhat forlorn Conrad. Before the splendid pomp of the reign of Napoleon was the poverty and depression of the days of the revolution. After Fort William comes Winnipeg. The analogy is somewhat akin.

We get the league leaders for three games and the series should prove one of the most exciting of the present season. Thoughts be a rankling in the domes of the members of the local team—aye, and of the fans as well. We must have revenge for the shameful doings of Dominion day.

The Taylorless Virginia crew comes aft of the Winnipeg baseball ship, then Winona, and then Superior, which series writes finis to the approaching at home games.

Dooks Should Climb.

If there is ascending ability in the Dooks this ability should be plentifully exhibited at the coming home stand. The Chinese are not much on the fight, ssy the European correspondents of The Herald—but they are devilish hard to beat on their own grounds. When we get home we have to fight—all the ladies will be watching the boys.

Not counting postponed games there are twenty-two games in the home schedule. It is probably that doubleheaders will bring the number of games to be played on the home ballwick up to twenty-five, the weather always to be considered.

Fort William should prove easy for the Dooks. Grand Forks has been in the past one of our pegs for climbing purposes, when opposing our side on the home grounds. Winona has perked up considerably since the acquisition of Ralph Bell and assistant Myers. Winnipeg is playing the best baseball in the league, notwithstanding the fact that the leaders of the other teams persistently refuse to credit the Curtiss flying machine with any great degree of strength.

Our Pennant Hopes.

If our pennant hopes are going to emerge from airy and diaphanous beings into concrete creatures with hardy constitutions, the matamorphosis must be accomplished during the approaching stand at the home park.

If the White Sox catch the leaders in the long domestic series that looms immediately ahead, they will hit the road in August with some leeway to play on in the land of the enemy.

The Sox come home in August for a long home stand and then finish the season with stands at Fort William and Virginia. The approaching games mean much to the pennant prospects of the team, and the oriflamme aspirations must be given a thorough airing in the games that bring to our door every team in the league save Col. Robert Unglaub, that genial German, and his Fargo crew.

Our twirlers have possibly been affected by the tariff. Not that the tariff has anything to do with them, but the tariff is the common garden goat for all unfortunate mishaps, and we must blame something for the Luciferlike fall from grace of Henry Clay Blancke and handsome Clarence Grina, the wheat pitcher from Saxton.

Right now the pitching staff is not in the best of condition. George Austin Cunningham is the most consistent of the lot. Little is known of Boardman. Sharrin has shown little to date. The burden of delivering has fallen on the shoulders of Cunningham and Grina and Blancke, and the off-form streak acquired by the poet pitcher has rent large apertures in the effectiveness of the mound attacking party.

That will be about all for today. The series opens Sunday. The Peerless leader will greet his old friends at the door.

SOME WATER SPEED.

Peoria Power Boat Races Show Class as to Time.

Peoria, Ill., July 3.—Baby Speed Demon, owned by Chris. Smith, Algonac, Mich., yesterday easily won the first heat of the free-for-all race which featured the opening of the seventh annual regatta of the Mississippi Power Boat association. The boat shot through the water at a speed of 46.2 miles an hour.

Kitty Hawk VI., owned by H. H. Timkin of Canton, Ohio, and thought to be the most dangerous of the entrants, tore loose her bearings at the start of the second lap and shot helplessly off the course. In the second lap, Spot, owned by Thomas F. Tracey of New York, had blown out a cylinder head, removing her from the competition.

The concluding heats of this and the other events will be raced today and Saturday.

RAIN HALTS THE DOOKS AT FORKS

Contest Called at End of Sixth With No Scores in.

Grand Forks, July 3.—The game here yesterday between Grand Forks and Duluth was called at the end of the sixth inning with the score knotted at the count of 0 to 0. Cunningham and Larson twirled great ball, but four hits being gathered by each team. Rain came in torrents at the close of the sixth round and ended what promised to be one of the best games of the present season.

WINNIPEG TAKES FIRST GAME FROM UNGLAUBS

Fargo, N. D., July 3.—Winnipeg took the opening game from Fargo here yesterday by the score of 12 to 3. Bob Unglaub trotted four pitchers to the mound in the effort to stop the hitting of the invaders. The errors of the locals figured in the score.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
Winnipeg	4	12	1
Forga-Moorh'd	3	8	6

Batteries—Shirley and Ellis; Klontz and Maupin. Umpires—Dumont and Murphy.

WINONA DOESN'T PLAY; HIBBING TRIMS RIVAL.

Virginia, Minn., July 3.—Winona was prevented from appearing here yesterday and the Ore Diggers took on Hibbing in place, the representatives of the neighboring city defeating the leaguers by the score of 7 to 4.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
Hibbing	7	10	1
Virginia	4	10	1

Batteries—Tedisco, Booth and Carroll; Prudensky, Wilson and Hargrove.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Superbas 7; Giants 2.

New York, July 3.—Brooklyn evened the series with New York by winning the last game, 7 to 2. Pfeffer pitched his second victory of the season over the champions, holding them to seven scattered hits.

In addition to pitching a great game, Pfeffer batted in both of Brooklyn's early runs, when the game was close. Smith doubled in both the second and seventh innings, and each time Pfeffer drove him home with two out. Smith also hit for the circuit in the eighth, sending in a man ahead of him. A sensational one-handed catch by Robertson was the fielding feature.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
Brooklyn	7	12	1
New York	2	7	4

Batteries—Pfeffer and McCarthy; Marquard, Wiltse and Meyers, McLean. Umpires—Byron and Johnson.

White Sox 4; Reds 3.

Chicago, July 3.—Chicago strengthened its hold on second place yesterday, defeating Cincinnati, 5 to 3, and making a clean sweep of the series. Saier's home run in the third, with two men on the bases gave the locals a three-run lead, but the visitors landed on Pierce's delivery in the fifth and tied the count on three singles and a triple.

Bresnahan walked, stole second, and scored the winning run on Leach's double in the locals' half of the same inning. Saier added another run in the eighth by making his second homer.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
Cincinnati	3	5	1
Chicago	4	6	1

Batteries — Dougless and Clark; Pierce and Bresnahan. Umpires—Quigley and Eason.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Braves Take Two.

Philadelphia, July 3.—Both games of yesterday's double-header were won by Boston from Philadelphia, 7 to 6 and 7 to 1. A ninth inning rally netting four runs gave the visitors the first game. In the second contest Coumbe had a battle with Pennock until the eighth inning, when Boston knocked the home twirler off the rubber and piled up four runs. Bressler took Pennock's place and stopped the rally. Scores:

First game—	R.	H.	E.
Boston	7	10	1
Philadelphia	6	13	3

Batteries—Bedient, Collins, Leonard and Carrigan; Shawkey and Schang. Umpires—Hildebrand and O'Loughlin.

Second game—	R.	H.	E.
Boston	7	11	1
Philadelphia	1	3	1

Batteries—Coumbe and Carrigan; Pennock, Bressler and Schang. Umpires—O'Loughlin and Hildebrand.

Yankees 6; Senators 1.

Washington, July 3.—New York won the final game of the series with Washington yesterday, 6 to 1, by hitting Bentley hard, while Caldwell held the Nationals safe throughout. Manager Chance shook up his batting order, sending recruit Mullin to first and Boone to second.

An unusual double play occurred in the sixth inning. With men on first and second, Morgan muffed Daley's fly, but recovered the ball in time to force Peckinpaugh at second. McBride then threw to Foster, doubling Hartzell at third.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
New York	6	12	0
Washington	1	6	1

Batteries—Caldwell and Nunamaker; Bentley, Harper and Henry, Williams. Umpires—Chill and Sheridan.

Dauss Recovers His Goat.

Detroit, Mich., July 3.—Hitting the ball when hits meant runs yesterday, Detroit shut out Cleveland in the opening game of the series 4 to 0. The batting of Crawford, who got a triple, a double and a single in four times up, was a feature. Dauss held the Naps safe at all times. It was his first victory over Cleveland since 1912. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Cleveland	0	6	2
Detroit	4	10	0

Batteries — Bowman, Morton and O'Neil; Dauss and McKee. Umpires—Egan and Evans.

AMERICAN ASSN.

Millers 5; Brewers 3.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 3.—Minneapolis made every hit count yesterday and though they hit Braun safely only six times, every one of their five runs was an earned tally. The score was 5 to 3. Lake was hit hard, but was effective with men on bases. Lewis was chased for kicking over a third strike called by Umpire Connolly, and Harbeau was injured and had to give way to Berg. The score:

	R.	H.	E.
Milwaukee	3	11	2
Minneapolis	5	6	3

Batteries—Braun and McGraw; Lake and Rondeau. Umpires—Connolly and Owens.

Hoosiers 9; Schecks 3.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 3.—Indianapolis took the first game of the series from Cleveland 9 to 3 yesterday.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
Cleveland	3	9	4
Indianapolis	9	11	3

Batteries—Kaler and Schardt; Willis and Livingstone. Umpires—Murray and Johnstone.

Colonels 7; Senators 0.

Louisville, Ky., July 3.—Louisville shut out Columbus in the fourth game of the series yesterday 7 to 0 and again took the leadership. Loudermilk was accorded brilliant support and allowed one safety. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Columbus	0	1	1
Louisville	7	13	1

Batteries—Ingersoll and Smith; Loudermilk and Severoid. Umpires—O'Brien and Westervelt.

FEDERAL LEAGUE

Tinkers in First Place.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 3.—The Chicago club went into first place in the Federal league race yesterday by winning from Indianapolis, 7 to 2. Tinker's team is leading by one-half a game. The visitors got to Falkenberg in the third inning for three runs and added three more off Henderson, who pitched the ninth. Hendrix kept the hits scattered. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Chicago	7	8	0
Indianapolis	2	7	2

Batteries—Hendrix and Wilson; Falkenberg, Henderson and Rariden.

Brooklyn 1; Buffeds 0.

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 3.—A lone run in the fourth inning was enough to give Brooklyn the victory over Buffalo yesterday, 1 to 0. A rain storm broke while Buffalo was at bat in the sixth, and at the end of the inning the game was called. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Buffalo	0	5	4
Brooklyn	1	3	0

Batteries—Krapp and Blair; Seaton and Land.

Pittsburg 4; Terrapins 3.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 3.—The Pittsburg Federals celebrated their return home yesterday by defeating Baltimore, 4 to 3, in ten innings. Cannitz, who pitched for the locals, scored the winning run on Manager Oake's single.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
Baltimore	3	7	2
Pittsburg	4	10	1

Batteries—Quinn and Russell; Camnitz and Berry.

Kansas City 9; St. Louis 1.

Kansas City, Mo., July 3.—Packard held St. Louis to seven hits while the locals collected sixteen, and Kansas City won yesterday's game, 9 to 1.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
St. Louis	1	7	1
Kansas City	9	16	2

Batteries—Davenport, Herbert and Chapman; Packard and Easterly.

MOOSE TEAM TO PLAY THE EAGLES

Fast Baseball Game Is Expected at Athletic Park.

The Eagles and the Moose—not the Owls—will meet tomorrow afternoon at Athletic park in what should prove one of the best amateur baseball games of the present season.

Both teams represent the very pick of the lodge team material of the city. Both aggregations are also strong rivals and have been practicing for the game for several weeks. Some of the best players in Duluth are on the two teams, and the game should be as fast as any of the amateur contests of the year.

Max Klein, manager of the Moose team, is confident of victory. The same can be said of Frank Schaeffer of the Eagles. In the showings thus far this season there is little to choose between the aggregations of the two lodges. The Moose have made a very fine record and are credited with having the best team in the history of the lodge. The same is also true of the Eagles. Followers of the two teams are very confident of the result.

ARBITRATION BOARD RULES.

Decisions as to Claims in Organized Baseball Handed Down.

Auburn, N. Y., July 3.—The national board of baseball arbitration today handed down the following decisions:

Claims allowed — Johns against Scranton; Bloomington, Ill., against Pekin in re Player Hickstein; O'Brien against Charleston, S. C.; Dedon against Charleston; Harmuth against Burlington, Iowa; Troutman against Norfolk, Neb.; Wicks against Joplin.

Claims disallowed — Love against Baltimore; Parker against Springfield, Ill.; Pauwer against Terre Haute; Hynes against Dayton; Carney against Victoria, B. C.; McKay against Battle Creek; Kearney, Neb., against Oshkosh, in re Player Schuren; Lilllea against Grand Rapids; Selver against Americus.

Services of players awarded—Stevenson to South Bend; Hodge to Albany, Ga.

Application of Mason against Hastings, Neb., granted and of Arthur McCabe disallowed.

Advertising as Usual.

San Francisco, Cal., July 3.—"San Francisco 1915" will be one of the balloons in the national race starting from St. Louis, July 11, according to announcement made here by Guy T. Slaughter, president of the Pacific Aero club. The balloon will be piloted by E. S. Cole of St Louis. It is hoped to bring the 1915 international to San Francisco.

Illini Trainer Resigns.

Champaign, Ill., July 3.—William McGill, trainer of the University of Illinois athletic teams for two years, resigned yesterday.

JABS CHILD'S SLAYER WITH HIS UMBRELLA.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 3.—John Dove, father of little Florence Dove, who was assaulted and murdered on a hillside near North Braddock last May, late yesterday attacked Jacob Taylor, confessed slayer of the child, as he sat in the coroner's inquest. Dove jabbed Taylor with a steelshod umbrella in the neck and face.

The attack came just after Elizabeth Klimek, who was with Florence Dove when she met death, had identified Taylor. So threatening was the crowd that the inquest was adjourned. Taylor was held for the grand jury.

IRISH NATIONALISTS LAND MORE ARMS.

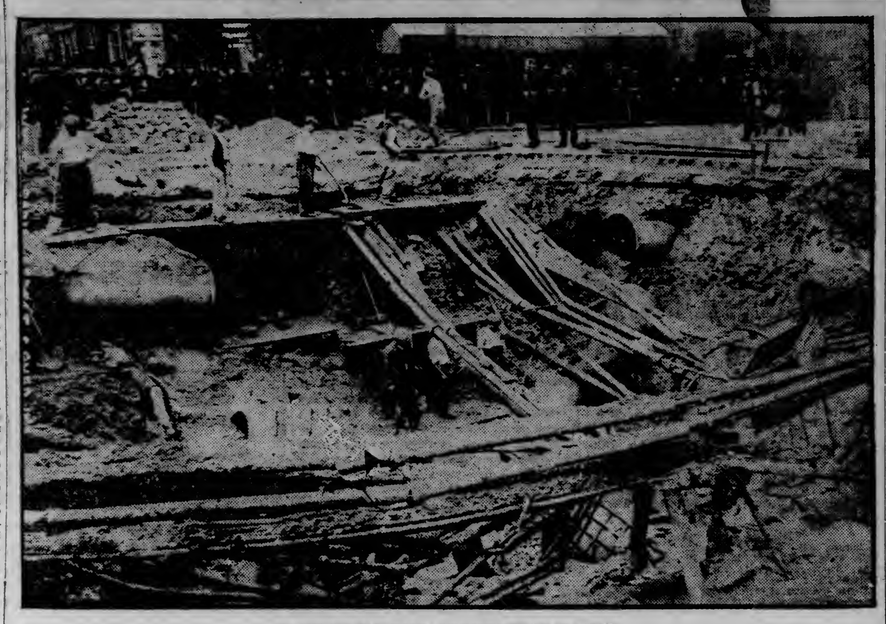

Dublin, July 3.—In the absence of the police, the Irish National Volunteers last night succeeded in landing here 400 cases of ammunition and 800 cases of rifles. The arms and ammunition were taken from on board a boat which had been hovering about the coast off Dublin for two days.

Excellent accommodations; boats in twenty choice bass lakes within easy portage.

TWO SAY PARIS INQURY IS TO BE WHITEWASH

CAVE-IN IN THE STREETS OF PARIS.

Paris, July 3.—M. Pichon and M. Hubert, the labor members of the government commission appointed to investigate the recent fatal subsidences in the streets of Paris, resigned yesterday, declaring that the inquiry was merely intended to be a "whitewash."

During a heavy rain storm recently the street caved in at several points and vehicles and men and women were engulfed. Several were killed. The catastrophe is said to have been due to faulty engineering in constructing the subways, with which Paris is now honeycombed. Paris has a network of huge sewers, and the tunneling of the subways beside these so weakened the streets that they gave way.

FRUITS ARE PLENTIFUL

Supplies of Berries Are Abundant and Lower Prices Prevail.

Butter and Egg Market Firm—Heavy Shipments Going East.

The trade and consumers will appreciate the further price reductions that have come about in today's market in fruits and vegetables as a result of the better supplies available in most lines.

Advices being received by the Michigan commission houses from the various producing points in the west and through this district, are to the effect that yields are heavy in most lines of fruits and green stuffs and that exceptionally low quotations are likely to rule during the height of the season.

Strawberries and cantaloupes are features in the way of fruits, according to the Fitzsimmons-Palmer company and the Culbertson Bros. company. Raspberries are now coming to hand fairly freely from the west, and they are of a uniformly good quality. The Wisconsin fruit will be offering on the local market in about ten days. The season is now nearing its end in Wisconsin strawberries. They are selling on the same basis as last week.

California cantaloupes are cheaper, and the movement in them is said to be heavy. Apricots, cherries, peaches and plums are now available. Oranges are substantially easier, due to the heavy shipments now coming to hand. Lemon prices are also lower.

Vegetables Variety Better.

Home-grown vegetables are offering in better variety and their costs are down slightly. The long continued rains have interfered with market gardening quite materially making their movement late. Marked reductions in quotations through the list of greenstuffs are expected within the next couple of weeks.

Old Minnesota potatoes are up 20 cents a bushel, and are now quoted at $1.20. For that the rapid cleaning up of stocks in growers' hands is responsible. New Virginia cobblers are now on the market, but their price is high to start in with. Old onions and cabbage are also quoted higher.

Butter Market Firm.

The butter market is firm at the same figure as last week—27@28c a pound for the best creamery, but the dairy product is up a cent at 20@21c. Good demand from the East is reported by the Bridgeman & Russell company and the Victor Produce company. Both houses are forwarding large shipments to dealers at Buffalo, Boston, New York and other centers in the East by the lake package freight steamers.

It is now just a month since refrigerator service was inaugurated on these boats, and the volume of business offering is said to have exceeded all expectations. The make of butter in this district is being well maintained, creamery outputs showing a large increase over last year.

Egg figures are also unchanged at 20@21c a dozen. Receipts are reported to be heavy for the season, but the outside shipments are keeping supplies well cleaned up. The general market situation in eggs is strong, but no advance in quotations is expected in the near future.

Poultry Receipts Light.

Receipts of poultry are slightly better at this point, but they are confined mainly to hens. An improvement in marketings of all lines of poultry is expected shortly. Prices are unchanged.

Figures through the meats list are also the same as a week ago. Receipts of live stock continue light at packing points.

APPROVE ALL BUT JONES AND WARBURG

Senators on Committee Order Report on Three for Bank Board.

Washington, July 3.—Favorable reports on three of the five Federal reserve board nominations sent to the senate by President Wilson have been agreed upon by the banking and currency committee. Action on the nominations of Thomas Jones of Chicago and Paul M. Warburg of New York was delayed pending further inquiry. It was decided to invite Mr. Jones to appear before the committee Monday. The names of Adolph C. Miller of California, Charles H. Hamlin of Massachusetts and W. P. G. Harding of Alabama will be presented to the senate for confirmation immediately.

Mr. Jones was named as a defendant in an anti-trust suit against the International Harvester company, of which he was a director, and the committee desires to have his own statement as to his connection with the company. Acting Chairman Hitchcock of the committee said Mr. Warburg probably would be invited to appear later.

LESS WHISKY; MORE BEER AND CIGARS

Revenue Statistics Show Changes for the Last Year.

Washington, July 3.—Americans drank less whisky during the last twelve months than they did the year before, but they consumed more beer and smoked a great many more cigars.

Reports to the internal revenue collector showed that receipts for the fiscal year just closed totaled $864,069 less than for the previous year, and most of this decline was due to the marked falling off in tax collected on distilled spirits.

Details statements for the month of June are not available, but in the first eleven months of the fiscal year there was a decrease of $3,734,857 in the income from the manufacture and sale of distilled liquor. Estimates of the June receipts indicated that the total decline in distilled liquor tax for twelve months will probably be $4,250,000. The gain in receipts from fermented liquor, beer, ale and the like was $260,000.

YOUNG URGES A FULL ATTENDANCE

County Superintendent of Schools Says Annual Meeting Is Vital.

In an article appearing in the current issue of the Rural School Bulletin, published from the office of N. A. Young, county superintendent of schools, an appeal is made to those residing in the rural districts of the county to make it a point to attend the annual school meeting which falls on July 18, the third Saturday of the month.

"This is probably the most important civic meeting held during the year," says the Bulletin. "Both men and women who are citizens are entitled to vote.

"It is to be hoped that all will be so interested in this meeting as to attend it this year. Too often it happens that a number of people save three or four hours' time by not attending this meeting, but they usually spend a great deal more time later in the year finding fault with what was done at the annual meeting than was saved by staying home.

"It is the duty of every citizen to be present at the annual meeting and to take part in whatever deliberations may be found necessary. At the annual meeting taxes are levied, the clerk's report is accepted, one or more members of the school board elected and a number of other things of importance are considered. Try to be there. You may lose a little time from your farm work but remember the most important crop which the people of this country are rearing is the children. The time which is spent in looking out for their welfare at school is certainly not lost."

WORK IS PRAISED.

President Writes to National Conference of Civic Secretaryships.

Madison, Wis., July 3.—The settlement of economic disputes by discussion instead of fighting, was advocated last night by Frank P. Walsh, chairman of the Federal commission on industrial relations, in a paper read before the national conference of civic secretaryships. School houses, he said, should be used for such purposes.

A message was read from President Wilson in which he expressed his growing interest in the program of the conference, and "genuine sympathy with the work."

Other speakers were P. P. Claxton, commissioner of education and C. E. Patzer of Milwaukee, president of the Wisconsin Teachers' association.

PAPER COMPANY AND EMPLOYES AGREE.

New York, July 3.—After a five months' dispute, representatives of the International Paper company, which employs between 8,000 and 9,000 men in thirty or more plants located in a score of cities in the United States and Canada, and the committee representing the employes' union have arrived at an amicable adjustment of their differences. The conferees signed a new agreement for one year only, which will supersede the two-year agreement that expired on May 1 last.

Hugo Frayn, general superintendent of the American Federation of Labor, asserted the new agreement is highly satisfactory both to the employers and the workers, and that the workers had obtained several important concessions, the most notable of which are a number of increased pay clauses and a method of adjusting grievances.

A clause in the agreement makes it mandatory on the employers and the workers to settle by arbitration any dispute that may arise while the agreement is in force.

COURT ORDER WILL DELAY HYDE CASE.

Jefferson City, Mo., July 3.—The action of the trial court in Jackson county in denying the injunction against the Jackson county court to prevent it from appropriating money to aid in the prosecution of Dr. B. Clark Hyde, charged with the murder of Col. Thomas H. Swope, was reversed and remanded by the supreme court yesterday. The Jackson county court had appropriated $15,000 for this purpose.

The supreme court ruled that if the trial court could establish collusion between Dr. Hyde and two citizens who brought the injunction, then the finding should be in favor of the order of the county court, but otherwise the injunction should be granted. It was stated this decision would cause a further delay in the trial of Dr. Hyde.

WHEAT EASY AT THE CLOSE

Market Weakens Near Finish and Early Gains About Lost.

Flaxseed Sells Slightly Up With Trading in Only Limited Volume.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 3.—The market became easy at the close. July wheat closed ⅝c up, September unchanged and December ⅛c up. July durum closed ⅜c up and September ¼c up.

Oats closed ¼c up at 34¼c for to arrive on the track. Rye closed 1c up at 58c for on the track or 57c for to arrive. Barley closed 1c off at from 40c to 50c.

At Winnipeg, July oats closed at 38⅜c bid and October at 35¾c bid.

Puts on Minneapolis September wheat closed at 80⅛@80¼c and calls at 81⅞c bid.

The market was fairly strong again throughout today's sessions. That result was attributable largely to covering, especially in the July issue, in which there is reported to be a considerable outstanding short covering. Liverpool was also substantially higher on disappointing crop news from Russia and firmer offers from America. Eastern demand was reported quiet, and a general tendency to stand back to await northwest crop developments, was noted in all quarters. With the possibility of reports of damage coming out during the next couple of days, operators hesitated to increase their commitments over the holiday and for the same reason they aimed to get under cover as far as possible.

Taken all in all, the general news of the day from over the Northwest was the only factor that was satisfactory. No information of the appearance of black rust came to hand. The only shadow was the knowledge that conditions favored its development in the event of the weather turning unduly hot. "In two weeks more," said an operator, "we shall be out of the woods. So far as my information goes, everything looks bright now, and I cannot see that anything is likely to prevent the three northwestern states from harvesting a good average crop anyway."

July wheat opened ¼c up at 89⅝c and gained ⅜c more up to the final hour. September opened ¼c up at 82½c, but later eased off fractionally, and the December option opened ¾c up at 83¾c and eased off ⅜c. July durum opened ¼c up at 86¼c and gained ⅛c more, and the September option opened unchanged at 82⅞c and gained ⅜c.

Flax Trading Quiet.

Trading in flaxseed was quiet, but prices gained fractionally on light offerings and steady crushers' inquiry.

The foreign markets were firm. Buenos Aires closed unchanged. Antwerp closed 1¾c up, and London closed unchanged.

July flax opened unchanged at $1.59½ and closed ⅜c up at $1.59⅞ asked. September opened unchanged at $1.61⅝ and closed ¼c up at $1.61⅞ bid. October opened unchanged at $1.61⅞ and closed ⅛c up at $1.62 bid, and the November option closed unchanged at $1.62, with no trading recorded in it.

At Winnipeg, July flax closed at $1.39 bid and October at $1.43¼ bid.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Strength in America and also Winnipeg prompted covering at the opening and wheat values were ⅜@½d higher. Following the opening there was further covering in July which further advanced ¾d with the distant months acting in sympathy. Fears of unfavorable developments in American spring wheat, firmness of Manitoba offers, firmer American winter offers, and expectations of lighter world's shipments this week other than American with Russian crop advices less favorable and Russia offering sparingly, further suggests that the foreign markets have been oversold. At 1:30 p. m. it was strong ½ to 1¼d higher with July leading the advance.

Corn opened with September ½d higher. Few and firmer nearby Plata offers and a good demand, prompted shorts to cover but later there was some pressure on larger Argentine shipments than expected and forecast here by private firms of clearing weather in Argentine. At 1:30 p. m. it was ⅝d higher."

Lecount wires Baker from Watertown, S. D.: "From Huron here the crops are fine. There is some damage on the low land, but in general the crops are above the average. Red rust is very bad in wheat and oats. This county needs cool weather and sunshine or black rust is almost sure to appear. Wheat and oats show rank growth, and are just coming into head. It is hot and clear today."

Broomhall estimates world's shipments this week, exclusive of North America, at 6,400,000 bu, against 8,344,000 bu last week. Of this Europe will take about 5,200,000 bu. Shipments last week were 13,424,000 bu and last year 11,152,000 bu. Arrivals into the United Kingdom were about 4,800,000 bu. He predicts there will be a good increase on passage. Australian wheat shipments were 944,000 bu and Indian 1,725,000 bu. Estimate for next week, 2,328,000 bu.

John Inglis wired from Aberdeen, S. D.: "Brookings, Kingsbury, Beadle and Southern Spink counties are very uneven. There are some good fields. The general condition is lower Northern Spink and Brown counties is more promising. Small grain has an unhealthy appearance. Early wheat is in bloom, but much is only heading. It is too early for black rust to show up."

Broomhall's special Russian news says: "Spring wheat—In parts of the great Volga region damage is resulting from the continued great heat. Reports from the southeast are varied, but most reports are of a poor condition. The outlook in the Crimea is bad.

"The outlook for the whole country is apprehensive and although there are still some authorities who expect a medium crop, our advices all point to a yield well below that of last year. Holders are very firm and all offers are quickly absorbed."

The crop bulletin issued by the Illinois state board of agriculture, based on reports received from correspondents on June 20, says: The June 20 condition of corn is 92 per cent of normal, which is 15 points better than the condition of a year ago. Very little injury to corn by insects is reported from Northern Illinois, but cutworms, root lice, army worms and chinch bugs are reported from the central and southern divisions of the state. The condition of winter wheat is 93 per cent. The unseasonable hot weather of May and June, together with the deficiency of moisture during these months, have caused the oat crop to deteriorate from 90 per cent of normal on May 1 to 61 per cent on June 20.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Is Quiet on Account of Approaching Holiday.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 3.—Wheat was quiet today on account of the approaching holiday. Receipts were 19 cars, with no comparison as last year was a holiday.

Wheat: July opened 87½c; high, 88c; low, 87¼c; closed 87¼c. September opened 81½c; high, 81⅝c; low, 80⅞c; closed 81c.

Cash: No. 1 hard, 92⅛c; No. 1 northern, 89⅛@91¼c; to arrive, 89⅛@90½c; choice to arrive, 87⅛@89¼c; No. 2 northern, 90⅝@91⅛c; to arrive, 90⅜@91½c; No. 3 wheat, 85⅛@87½c; corn, No. 3 yellow, 63½@64c; oats, No. 3 white, 35@35½c; flax, $1.57⅜@1.60⅝.

Flour was in good demand today, prices being about same as yesterday. Shipments, 54,200 bbl. Barley dull and unchanged. Rye, 56@57c. Bran, $18.50.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Prices Continue to Advance on Black Rust Fear.

Chicago, July 3.—Fear of black rust damage to the spring crop brought about a fresh advance today in the price of wheat. Whereas cool weather and sunshine were needed to avert the pest, dispatches from the Northwest told of comparatively high temperature, and of predicted unsettled conditions. Bullish cables and a forecast of big shipments down the lakes from Duluth tended also to strengthen the market. After opening ⅛@⅝c above last night, prices held considerable of the grain.

After noon a decided reaction took place influenced to some extent by the fact that export bids were out of line. The market closed steady at a range varying from ⅜c net lower to ¼c advance.

Somewhat larger offerings from the country made corn easy. There were prospects, too, of increased shipments from Argentina. The opening, which was ½c off to ¼c up, was followed by a material decline all around.

A further setback resulted from the Illinois state report putting the crop conditions 15 per cent higher than a year ago. The close was nervous, ⅞@1c under last night.

Oats weakened with corn. Selling by commission houses was especially noticeable on the May spots in the market.

Higher prices for hogs lifted provisions. Demand was chiefly for ribs.

Wheat—No. 2 red, 81¼@82c; No. 2 hard, 81¼@82¼c; No. 2 northern, 89@91c; No. 2 spring, 88@90½c; corn—No. 2 yellow, 68¾@69½c; No. 3 yellow, 68½@69c. Oats—No. 3 white, 36½@37¼c; standard, 37¾@38¼c. Rye—No. 2, 59c; barley, 48@58c; timothy, $4.25@5.50; clover, $10.00@13.00; pork, $21.65; lard, $10.12; ribs, $11.62@12.00.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., July 3.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: The first fire that has ever occurred at the big Midway stables, made a clean sweep of the main barn which was 100 feet wide by 310 long extending from University avenue to Charles street. The horses were all saved but the building and other contents were a total loss. Room for the 500 horses were found in the big feed yards, and business was practically uninterrupted. Receipts light. On account of lack of stabling accommodations, a large number of horses must be sold at once at low values.

AMERICAN ADVISER OF JAPAN IS DEAD

Tokio, July 3.—Henry Willard Denison, legal adviser of the Japanese department of foreign affairs since 1880, died here today of paralysis.

The announcement of Mr. Denison's death was withheld for several hours, in accordance with Japanese custom, in order to permit the emperor to confer the decoration of the Grand Cordon of the Order of Paulownia on the dead man. A eulogistic statement in regard to the services of Mr. Denison was later issued by the Japanese foreign office. In it he was hailed as one of the greatest benefactors of Japan.

Henry Willard Denison was born at Guildhall, Vt., May 11, 1846, and studied law at the Columbian (now the George Washington) university. His first connection with Japan was as American vice consul at Yokohama. Later he was appointed by the Japanese government as legal adviser to the ministry of foreign affairs, and his advice was asked by the Japanese government in connection with every phase of its diplomatic relations with foreign countries.

Fargo's School Levy.

Fargo, N. D., July 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual levy for the expense of operating the city schools has been fixed at $103,000 by the Fargo board of education. In addition a duplicate of the new Fourth ward school building is to be constructed in the Sixth ward at a cost of $90,000.

WALL STREET CLOSES FIRM

Speculation Is Stimulated By Story From Washington.

Obscure Specialties Gain in the Later Deals.

New York, July 3.—Overnight news, particularly latest developments at Washington, was received with favor in the financial district today, judging from the course of early dealings of the exchange. Opening changes were trivial, but these were soon followed by one point advances in Canadian Pacific and Lehigh Valley, while Reading also rose materially. American Smelting soon rose 1⅝, presumably on announcement that operations at the company's Mexican plants are to be immediately resumed. Amalgamated and Steel were in demand. Among the industrials, Sears Roebuck added two points to yesterday's sensational rise, and United States Express, now in process of liquidation, gained as much.

Wall street professed to see in recent and coming events signs of a better understanding between the administration and the big business interests and took heart accordingly. Other substantial gains were recorded in the first hour, Union Pacific, Great Northern, Baltimore & Ohio, St. Paul and Chesapeake & Ohio being added to the list of stocks which rose a point or more. The movement otherwise was rather mixed, People's Gas, Central Electric and Westinghouse rising 1 to 2 points with more than 3 points gain in American Tobacco. Toward midday there was another interval of dullness. Bonds were steady.

Minor stocks came into greater prominence in the late dealings, when speculation in the leaders lagged. Kansas City Southern advanced 1¼.

Speculation in today's dull market was stimulated to a moderate degree of optimism because of the belief that closer relations are to obtain between Washington and the important business interests of the country. The closing was firm.

Trading in the later dealings centered around obscure specialties, such as Baldwin Locomotive and Continental Can, in which gains extended from 2 to over 3 points.

BULLISH TONE IN MINING STOCKS

List Closes Higher, With Good Investment Buying Reported in East.

Mining stocks closed strong at Boston today on expectations that the decision of the interstate commerce commission in the rate case will be handed down early next week. Good buying materialized and gains were the rule through the list.

Butte & Superior closed 75 cents up at $37.50; Butte & Ballaklava unchanged at $3.75; Alaska Gold 25 cents up at $27.50; Granby $1.12 up at $80; Greene-Cananea 63 cents up at $30.63; North Butte 63 cents up at $25.25 exdividend 50 cents; Shattuck 25 cents up at $23.50 and Amalgamated Copper 75 cents up at $70.50.

In the Duluth curb list, Calumet & Corbin sold at 16 cents and Calumet & Sonora at 70 cents.

Paine, Webber & Co., had the following wire from New York: "The market continues to present a good tone. The street seems to be deeply impressed with the reported disposition of the administration to co-operate with business interests and as a consequence short covering has been on a good scale, and the bull crowd is inclined to operate more extensively on the long side."

It is estimated for the Boston News Bureau that up to Thursday night, the week's transactions had totalled at least 40,000,000 pounds of electrolytic copper divided between export and domestic purchases with foreigners taking the larger amounts."

* * *

At St. Louis: Lead closed dull at $3.77½ and spelter dull at $4.85.

Copper exports for week ending July 2 totaled 9,697 tons. Since July 1, there were 3,900 tons and a year ago 6,570 tons.

MISSOURI PACIFIC OFFICER IS SUICIDE

New York, July 3.—Guy Phillips, associate secretary of the Missouri Pacific Railway company, shot and killed himself in the office of the company on the eighth floor of a Broadway office building late last night. His physician said he had been a sufferer recently from despondency.

Mr. Phillips, who was an officer and director of numerous corporations besides the Missouri Pacific, was seen early in the evening alive and apparently at work at his desk in the reception room of the Missouri Pacific offices. An hour later the watchman saw Mr. Phillips lying across the desk. Investigation showed the railroad man dead from a bullet wound in the temple.

Revolver and Note.

A revolver was lying under a chair. On a table lay a note which asked that his wife in Darien, Conn., be notified. It also requested that notification be given A. H. Calef, secretary and treasurer of the Missouri Pacific, and Dr. Henry Moffatt, Mr. Phillip's physician.

Dr. Moffatt hastened down from Yonkers when notified of the suicide, but Schuyler Phillips, a nephew, reached the company's offices before a physician arrived. Schuyler Phillips telephoned his own mother, Mrs. S. A. Phillips, in Darien, and through her Mrs. Guy Phillips was informed of her husband's death.

Dr. Moffatt said that Mr. Phillips had been a patient of his for years and that during recent months had suffered from depressive tendencies. The physician had feared that his patient would have a nervous breakdown.

Over Twenty-Five Years With Road.

Mr. Phillips was slightly over 60 years old and had been for more than a quarter of century associated with the Missouri Pacific. He was assistant secretary of the St. Louis

WELL MUFFLED SCREAM EMANATES FROM EAGLE ON FOURTH IN DULUTH

"Goin' Fishin'" Is Most Popular Form of Amusement.

Ideal Weather for Picnics and All Outdoor Entertainments.

Varied Program of Amusement for Those Remaining in City.

Not a firecracker broke the stillness of the early morning in Duluth.

If the eagle did any screaming today, it was a well muffled, orderly, gentle scream.

Duluth has "gone fishin'" or has at least taken its collective lunch basket to the woods.

There will be a fisherman for every trout in the woods today, thanks to the fact that the Fourth comes on Saturday, permitting two days in the woods.

The number of lettuce sandwiches, and cold hard boiled eggs consumed today will set a new record.

Tons of potato salad will be washed down by gallons of lemonade.

The number of ants that will get into the butter today cannot be estimated.

Countless Willies with countless turned up trousers, will wade in countless streams.

Fat men will perspire through hundred yard dashes at many parks.

Spindly legged girls and chubby legged boys will race for prizes.

Young couples will whisper sweet nothings under countless trees.

It is a safe and sane Fourth, and as far as the weather is concerned, an ideal one.

Duluth awoke this morning not to the usual drizzly rainy day that the weather dopester hands out for Independence Day celebrations but to a bright, breezy, balmy summer day. In fact, it was one of those postponed "rare" days of June which are a pleasure and delight to the picnicker and he who spends his time in out-of-door recreation.

Start Early for Picnics.

Early in the day, plans for family picnics were well under way and the

U. S. AGENTS BLOW CHINAMAN'S SAFE

Chicago Opium Ring Hunters Find Draft for $23,500.

Chicago, July 4.—Special agents of the government in search of evidence against an alleged Chinese organization for the distribution of opium, blew open the safe of Lee Fun, a merchant, and found a draft for $23,500 on a Hongkong bank. The find is regarded as important in connection with what the agents term an "opium trust" in Chicago. Fun's store is typical of several in the new Chinatown near the old segregated vice district. The front windows are dust-covered, and heavy curtains keep out what natural light might filter through. A few curious, several bolts of silk and a small stock of general merchandise are displayed in the front of the store, to allay suspicion it is said.

The raid on Fun's was one of several made this week in the government's campaign to eradicate the manufacture and sale of opium in the city. Four arrests were made and several hundred pounds of opium confiscated.

COAL MINE WAGE IS AGREED ON IN OHIO

Miners Are Expected to Ratify Action of Officers.

Columbus, Ohio, July 4. — Representatives of coal miners and operators of the Hocking, Pomeroy and Jackson district and a part of the Crooksville district, in session here last night, signed a new wage agreement on the mine run basis, prescribed by the Ohio anti-screen law. The basic rate finally agreed upon by the two factions of the joint conference was 47 and 67.6 cents respectively for machine and pick mined coal. More than 20,000 miners are affected by the action.

All that remains to be done before the mines in the four districts may reopen is the formal ratification of the agreement by the miners of the state. A state convention was called for next Thursday. Miners' officials declared the scale would undoubtedly be ratified.

FOREMAN AND FOUR MEN ARE KILLED

Cave-in Occurs in Sewer Work at Bayonne, N. J.

Jersey City, N. D., July 4.—Five men were instantly killed and three others were buried and badly injured in a cave-in last night in Bayonne, where work for the construction of a trunk sewer is going on. One of the men killed was the foreman of the gang, and the others were laborers employed on the work. The men injured were also workmen.

Superintendents' Problems Are First Subject Discussed.

Rural School Conditions Are Also Taken Up at St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Discussion of problems confronting the school superintendent and of conditions prevalent in rural schools marked the opening session today of the fifty-second annual convention of the National Education association.

Speaking before the National Council of Education, Lloyd E. Wolfe of San Antonio, Texas, advocated uniform selection and promotion of teachers on merit, and urged nation-wide co-operation "for the solution of problems that go to the very foundation of popular educatio and national prosperity."

He also urged the rigid requirements by boards of education that superintendents, supervisors, and principals spend most of their time in the schoolrooms critically and helpfully observing complete recitations and reporting the efficiency rank of the teachers on each recitation observed.

CIVIL WAR VETERANS AT PICNIC IN LONDON

One of the Most Active Is George Monroe, Aged 105.

London, July 4.—American residents of London today entertained the Civil war veterans who live in this country with an outing. Not all the 150 old sailors and soldiers who draw their pension through the American consulate in London were able to attend, for many of them are feeble; but over a score accepted the invitation—some with the appeal that "there will have to be tickets for two, as I must take somebody to look after me."

One of the first to accept was George Monroe, naval veteran, 105 years old, but still as active as many of the youngsters of 70 or more, who takes part in all of their monthly gatherings.

IS SENT TO JAIL FOR HIS SINGING

Village Blacksmith Is Convicted of Disturbing the Peace.

London, July 4.—For singing hymns in a loud, raucous voice, regardless of the pitch and beat observed by the other members of the congregation, Charles Tunstall, the village blacksmith of the village of Tunstall, has been sent to jail on the charge of disturbing the peace. The complaining witness was one of the church wardens, who testified that Tunstall's singing was so loud and so bad that the nerves of the church-goers gave way and the blacksmith became almost the only regular attendant at service. Jail sentence was imposed in lieu of a one-pound fine with costs, which the defendant refused to pay.

Moheno Resigns From Cabinet—Denies It Was Requested.

Military Leaders Seek to Settle Carranza and Villa Row.

Philadelphia, July 4.—Newspaper reports that President Wilson and J. P. Morgan discussed Mexico and the payment of debts due American bankers out of customs receipts at Vera Cruz during their conference Thursday were denied emphatically today by members of the president's party.

Mexico City, July 4.—President Huerta has accepted the resignation of Querido Moheno, minister of commerce and industry, who at first categorically denied that it had been demanded by the president because he awarded oil concessions to persons connected with a big American oil company. He said he was retiring because of his health.

The senate did not discuss the Niagara Falls protocol, as had been expected. The bill passed by the lower chamber of parliament authorizing the executive to float a 60,000,000 peso international loan, will be discussed by the senate today. Some opposition is expected.

Remnant of Troops Arrives.

Gen. Benjamin Argumendo arrived in the capital yesterday afternoon bringing the remnants of his troops who evacuated Zacatecas.

Gen. Joaquin Maas, former governor of the state of Puebla, Mario Maas and their brother, Maj. Daniel Maas, all nephews of President Huerta, left the capital last night for Puerto Mexico, whence they will depart for Europe. Mario Maas has resigned as undersecretary of commerce and industry and received permission from the secretary of war to leave for Spain.

Senor Moheno said he resigned because he had expressed in an interview in the Imparcial a few days ago sentiments which would not permit him to continue in office. The interview in Imparcial was regarding the manner in which the ministry of commerce and industry must be conducted in defense of national interests, and opposed the views of other members of the cabinet. Senor Moheno said he

PRIVATE REBUKE FOR GEN. R. K. EVANS

President Is Not Wholly Satisfied With Explanation.

Philadelphia, July 4.—Brig.-Gen. R. K. Evans, former commander of the Department of the East, will be privately reprimanded by the president in consequence of a speech at a recent banquet in New York in which Gen. Evans is said to have made indiscreet reference to the foreign policy of the United States.

Gen. Evans sent Secretary Garrison a statement of his speech in which he said he had been misquoted and gave his own version of his remarks. While this version is said to have partly satisfied the president, it is understood he decided a reprimand should be given Gen. Evans.

KILLED IN TERRIFIC NEW YORK EXPLOSION

ARTHUR CARON,
Leader of the Industrial Workers of the World.

BOMB WRECKS THIRD OF HARLEM TENEMENT

Arthur Caron, I. W. W. Leader, One of Three Known Dead.

New York, July 4.—A bomb of terrific power exploded either on the roof or on one of the upper floors of a six-story flat house in Harlem today, wrecking a third of the building, killed at least three persons and injured others. One of the dead is Arthur Caron, a machinist and a leader of the Industrial Workers of the World. The two other known dead were women.

The explosion was at first attributed to dynamiting in a nearby subway excavation, and in the excitement attendant upon the collapse of the building, estimates of the dead ran as high as fifty. Inspector Egan of the police bureau of combustibles said that the bomb was powerful enough to have wrecked the entire neighborhood if properly placed.

Blown From Beds.

Persons across the street were blown from their beds and window glass was shattered for blocks.

Caron was found dead on a fire escape. Whether any of the occupants of the building were buried in the ruins, it was at first impossible to determine. The police were inclined to believe, however, that three would cover the total dead. The building, a brick structure, was inhabited almost exclusively by Jewish families.

Caron's body was identified by means of cards in his pocket and by Leonard Abbot, president of the Free Speech league. He lived in the building where the explosion occurred.

Caron has been prominently identified with the I. W. W. and was arrested luring one of the Union square demonstrations. The police began looking up his record today on the theory that it might aid in clearing up the explosion.

Boston Shivers.

Boston, Mass., July 4.—Today brought as nearly perfect holiday weather as the most ardent Independence day celebrator could desire. The "night before the Fourth," however, was the coldest on record at the weather bureau for that date, the official mercury dropping to 51.

An elaborate program for the day was arranged by the city.

PRESIDENT THE ORATOR

Philadelphia Celebrates the Fourth on an Unusual Scale.

Historic Scenes Re-enacted in City of Nation's Birth.

Philadelphia, July 4.—The celebration of Independence day in Philadelphia this year, while planned to be safer and saner than usual, was on a wider scale than any that has taken place here since 1876, when the 100th anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence was observed. Today President Wilson was on the program to deliver the Fourth of July oration and elaborate plans were made for his welcome.

The patriotic exercises were held in Independence Square, close to the room where the Declaration of Independence was signed, and were begun before the president arrived. Exercises have been held there every year on the Fourth of July, but this year it was planned to make the celebration national in scope.

Wilson Sets Precedent.

So far as the records go, President Wilson is said to be the first president of the United States who has come to the Cradle of Liberty on the nation's natal day.

The thirteen original states were represented at the exercises either by their governors or other representatives of the state governments.

Old Christ church, located in the section of Philadelphia that was first settled, which edifice is closely associated in the history of American freedom, with Independence hall, sounded today the historic eight bells that rang with the Liberty bell on July 4, 1776. Eight men, who are kept in practice for special celebrations like

RABBIS CONDEMN CIVIC CHRISTMAS

Denounce It As Sectarian and Against American Spirit.

Detroit, Mich., July 4.—Delegates attending the Central Conference of American Rabbis today devoted themselves to the services of the Jewish Sabbath. After the devotional meeting in the forenoon, the visiting rabbis planned to spend the remainder of the day in sight-seeing.

Municipal Christmas celebrations were denounced by the delegates yesterday as sectarian and contrary to the spirit of America. A resolution protesting against the celebration was adopted.

An animated discussion developed over the question whether a separate prayer book should be published for those Jewish congregations which worship on Sunday. The movement for the separate prayer book was led by Rabbi Joseph Rauch of Louisville. He contended that present environments rendered Sunday worship a necessity to many Jewish congregations. Others opposed the plan on the ground that it would be giving the sanction of the church to the observance of the Gentile Sunday by Jews. So much time was taken up with discussion of Sunday services that the delegates were unable to complete the business session when an adjournment was taken.

Baptist Young People Mix Religion and Patriotism.

F. L. Anderson of Chicago Is Elected President of Society.

Kansas City, Mo., July 4.—Religion and patriotism ran hand in hand here today at the twenty-first convention of the Baptist Young People's Union of America, meeting jointly with the B. Y. P. U. of the South. Convention hall was thronged with cheering, flag waving delegates. Numbers of American flags and Union Jacks were hung about. The young men and young women divided their time between cheering the speakers and singing patriotic songs.

Rev. F. E. Taylor of Indianapolis asserted, in an address on "The Present Baptist Responsibility," that Bible study—intelligent Bible study—is more necessary today than at any period in the world's history.

Say "I Know."

"The people of today are demanding an intelligent type of Christianity," he said. "This comes only with a

GIFFORD'S FATE IS STILL WITH JURORS

Murder Verdict Is Not Reached in First Sixteen Hours.

Albany, N. Y., July 4.—The jury which is trying Malcolm Gifford, Jr., son of a wealthy Hudson manufacturer, for the murder of Frank J. Clute was called into court by County Judge Addington at 10 o'clock this morning and reported that no verdict had been reached. The jurors said they did not wish further instructions, and were sent back to their room to continue their deliberations. The jury had been out sixteen hours. Despite the fact that today is a holiday and tomorrow is Sunday, the court will receive a verdict if one is reached on either day.

Gifford, surrounded by his family and several old schoolmates, spent most of last evening in the ante-room outside the courtroom. When the jury asked for further instructions, he flushed slightly and drummed his fingers on the back of his chair.

"Everything will come out all right," remarked the father after the jury had filed out.

Called Witnesses Liars.

The summing up by District Attorney Alexander and Judge Addington's charge to the jury occupied all of the afternoon session of court. William T. Jerome spoke three hours and a half for the defense. The district attorney, at the close of his address asked for a verdict of murder in the first degree.

"Liars" was the term Attorney Alexander applied to Mr. and Mrs. Samuel D. Gibson of Troy and Miss Mildred Thorne, three witnesses for the defense who had testified that Clute's passenger on the night of the slaying was not Gifford.

Mr. Alexander placed special emphasis on the fact that no witnesses had explained Gifford's whereabouts between 7:30 and 11 o'clock on the night Clute was slain.

Seville, Ohio, July 4.—Four Italians were killed and eight others were seriously injured near here late yesterday when a work train on the Cleveland, Lorain & Wheeling railroad ran down a handcar.

President Wilson Takes Step as Result of Minister's Words.

Diplomat's Career Abroad Has Been Brief, But Busy.

Philadelphia, July 4.—President Wilson has requested the resignation of George Fred Williams, American minister to Greece and Montenegro, as a result of Mr. Williams' public statements regarding the situation in Albania. This became known following the president's arrival here today.

Mr. Williams' own reports on his statements were taken up at the cabinet meeting yesterday, and afterward Mr. Wilson decided their effect was such it would be improper for Mr. Williams longer to represent the United States in the Balkans.

It has been understood that Mr. Williams, of his own accord, has forwarded his resignation, but so far as could be learned here it has not been received by the president.

Brief, But Interesting.

Washington, July 4.—The term of George Fred Williams as minister to Greece and Montenegro has been brief, but has attracted much attention.

A few weeks ago President Wilson, Secretary Bryan and other officials were amazed by a published report that Mr. Williams had circularized the powers, offering his services as a mediator in the Albanian crisis. State department officials then said the minister had no authority to do so, but had been given permission to visit Epirus and make a report on conditions. Secretary Bryan called for a report on the incident and Mr. Will-

SCHOOL CHILDREN ENTERTAIN CITIZENS

Present Series of Fourth of July Stunts at St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., July 4.—A peace pageant, a "living flag" tableau and a masque called "patriotism," all presented by school children under the guidance of teachers and mothers' clubs in the public parks, were the characteristic methods of celebrating Independence day in St. Louis.

Athletic events, flag raising exercises by the Army and Navy clubs and the reading of the Declaration of Independence also figured in the day's events.

WARM PRAISE GIVEN TO CHAMBERLAIN

"Greatest Englishman Since Pitt," Says London Post.

London, July 4.—Not since the death of the Earl of Beaconsfield in 1881 has the loss of an English statesman called forth such universal expressions of regret and the sinking of party differences as the passage of Joseph Chamberlain.

The Liberal and Radical newspapers today vie with the Unionist journals in warm-hearted tributes to the man they ungrudgingly confess was one of the greatest Englishmen of his generation, who rendered invaluable services to the country and the empire and was as true-hearted a patriot as ever breathed.

The Morning Post characterizes Mr. Chamberlain as the greatest Englishman since William Pitt.

CANADA MAY DEPORT UNEMPLOYED ALIENS

Three Years' Residence Would Not Save Public Charges.

Montreal, July 4. — Deportation of immigrants of less than three years' residence in Canada who are out of work and are or have been charges on the community, may be resorted to as a drastic solution of the unemployment problem facing Montreal and other large cities, according to announcement by the immigration authorities here.

WESTINGHOUSE VOTE AGAINST SETTLEMENT.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 4.—The strike in the Westinghouse factories is to continue if the strikers abide by the result of yesterday's balloting. About 4,000 men and women of the 10,000 who are out cast their ballots, and leaders said today that 85 per cent voted to reject the settlement proposed by the management.

G. A. R. WREATH LAID ON LA FAYETTE TOMB.

Paris, July 4.—Hanson Cleveland Coxe, deputy consul general in Paris of the United States, representing the La Fayette post, G. A. R., New York, today placed a wreath on the tomb of La Fayette in Picpus cemetery. A large company of Americans and French men and women were present, including Ambassador Myron T. Herrick, the Marquis of La Fayette, Brig. Gen. Charles Ebener, representing the French minister of war, Chauncey M. Depew and others.

WELL MUFFLED SCREAM EMANATES FROM EAGLE ON FOURTH IN DULUTH

"Goin' Fishin'" Is Most Popular Form of Amusement.

Ideal Weather for Picnics and All Outdoor Entertainments.

Varied Program of Amusement for Those Remaining in City.

Not a firecracker broke the stillness of the early morning in Duluth.

If the eagle did any screaming today, it was a well muffled, orderly, gentle scream.

Duluth has "gone fishin'" or has at least taken its collective lunch basket to the woods.

There will be a fisherman for every trout in the woods today, thanks to the fact that the Fourth comes on Saturday, permitting two days in the woods.

The number of lettuce sandwiches, and cold hard boiled eggs consumed today will set a new record.

Tons of potato salad will be washed down by gallons of lemonade.

The number of ants that will get into the butter today cannot be estimated.

Countless Willies with countless turned up trousers, will wade in countless streams.

Fat men will perspire through hundred yard dashes at many parks.

Spindly legged girls and chubby legged boys will race for prizes.

Young couples will whisper sweet nothings under countless trees.

It is a safe and sane Fourth, and as far as the weather is concerned, an ideal one.

Duluth awoke this morning not to the usual drizzly rainy day that the weather dopester hands out for Independence Day celebrations but to a bright, breezy, balmy summer day. In fact, it was one of those postponed "rare" days of June which are a pleasure and delight to the picnicker and he who spends his time in out-of-door recreation.

Start Early for Picnics.

Early in the day, plans for family picnics were well under way and the

U. S. AGENTS BLOW CHINAMAN'S SAFE

Chicago Opium Ring Hunters Find Draft for $23,500.

Chicago, July 4.—Special agents of the government in search of evidence against an alleged Chinese organization for the distribution of opium, blew open the safe of Lee Fun, a merchant, and found a draft for $23,500 on a Hongkong bank. The find is regarded as important in connection with what the agents term an "opium trust" in Chicago. Fun's store is typical of several in the new Chinatown near the old segregated vice district. The front windows are dust-covered, and heavy curtains keep out what natural light might filter through. A few curious, several bolts of silk and a small stock of general merchandise are displayed in the front of the store, to allay suspicion it is said.

The raid on Fun's was one of several made this week in the government's campaign to eradicate the manufacture and sale of opium in the city. Four arrests were made and several hundred pounds of opium confiscated.

COAL MINE WAGE IS AGREED ON IN OHIO

Miners Are Expected to Ratify Action of Officers.

Columbus, Ohio, July 4. — Representatives of coal miners and operators of the Hocking, Pomeroy and Jackson district and a part of the Crooksville district, in session here last night, signed a new wage agreement on the mine run basis, prescribed by the Ohio anti-screen law. The basic rate finally agreed upon by the two factions of the joint conference was 47 and 67.6 cents respectively for machine and pick mined coal. More than 20,000 miners are affected by the action.

All that remains to be done before the mines in the four districts may reopen is the formal ratification of the agreement by the miners of the state. A state convention was called for next Thursday. Miners' officials declared the scale would undoubtedly be ratified.

FOREMAN AND FOUR MEN ARE KILLED

Cave-in Occurs in Sewer Work at Bayonne, N. J.

Jersey City, N. D., July 4.—Five men were instantly killed and three others were buried and badly injured in a cave-in last night in Bayonne, where work for the construction of a trunk sewer is going on. One of the men killed was the foreman of the gang, and the others were laborers employed on the work. The men injured were also workmen.

Superintendents' Problems Are First Subject Discussed.

Rural School Conditions Are Also Taken Up at St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Discussion of problems confronting the school superintendent and of conditions prevalent in rural schools marked the opening session today of the fifty-second annual convention of the National Education association.

Speaking before the National Council of Education, Lloyd E. Wolfe of San Antonio, Texas, advocated uniform selection and promotion of teachers on merit, and urged nation-wide co-operation "for the solution of problems that go to the very foundation of popular education and national prosperity."

He also urged the rigid requirements by boards of education that superintendents, supervisors, and principals spend most of their time in the schoolrooms critically and helpfully observing complete recitations and reporting the efficiency rank of the teachers on each recitation observed.

CIVIL WAR VETERANS AT PICNIC IN LONDON

One of the Most Active Is George Monroe, Aged 105.

London, July 4.—American residents of London today entertained the Civil war veterans who live in this country with an outing. Not all the 150 old sailors and soldiers who draw their pension through the American consulate in London were able to attend, for many of them are feeble; but over a score accepted the invitation—some with the appeal that "there will have to be tickets for two, as I must take somebody to look after me."

One of the first to accept was George Monroe, naval veteran, 105 years old, but still as active as many of the youngsters of 70 or more, who takes part in all of their monthly gatherings.

IS SENT TO JAIL FOR HIS SINGING

Village Blacksmith Is Convicted of Disturbing the Peace.

London, July 4.—For singing hymns in a loud, raucous voice, regardless of the pitch and beat observed by the other members of the congregation, Charles Tunstall, the village blacksmith of the village of Tunstall, has been sent to jail on the charge of disturbing the peace. The complaining witness was one of the church wardens, who testified that Tunstall's singing was so loud and so bad that the nerves of the church-goers gave way and the blacksmith became almost the only regular attendant at service. Jail sentence was imposed in lieu of a one-pound fine with costs, which the defendant refused to pay.

Military Leaders Seek to Settle Carranza and Villa Row.

Philadelphia, July 4.—Newspaper reports that President Wilson and J. P. Morgan discussed Mexico and the payment of debts due American bankers out of customs receipts at Vera Cruz during their conference Thursday were denied emphatically today by members of the president's party.

Mexico City, July 4.—President Huerta has accepted the resignation of Querido Moheno, minister of commerce and industry, who at first categorically denied that it had been demanded by the president because he awarded oil concessions to persons connected with a big American oil company. He said he was retiring because of his health.

The senate did not discuss the Niagara Falls protocol, as had been expected. The bill passed by the lower chamber of parliament authorizing the executive to float a 60,000,000 peso international loan, will be discussed by the senate today. Some opposition is expected.

Remnant of Troops Arrives.

Gen. Benjamin Argumendo arrived in the capital yesterday afternoon bringing the remnants of his troops who evacuated Zacatecas.

Gen. Joaquin Maas, former governor of the state of Puebla, Mario Maas and their brother, Maj. Daniel Maas, all nephews of President Huerta, left the capital last night for Puerto Mexico, whence they will depart for Europe. Mario Maas has resigned as undersecretary of commerce and industry and received permission from the secretary of war to leave for Spain.

Senor Moheno said he resigned because he had expressed in an interview in the Imparcial a few days ago sentiments which would not permit him to continue in office. The interview in Imparcial was regarding the manner in which the ministry of commerce and industry must be conducted in defense of national interests, and opposed the views of other members of the cabinet. Senor Moheno said he

PRIVATE REBUKE FOR GEN. R. K. EVANS

President Is Not Wholly Satisfied With Explanation.

Philadelphia, July 4.—Brig.-Gen. R. K. Evans, former commander of the Department of the East, will be privately reprimanded by the president in consequence of a speech at a recent banquet in New York in which Gen. Evans is said to have made indiscreet references to the foreign policy of the United States.

Gen. Evans sent Secretary Garrison a statement of his speech in which he said he had been misquoted and gave his own version of his remarks. While this version is said to have partly satisfied the president, it is understood he decided a reprimand should be given Gen. Evans.

KILLED IN TERRIFIC NEW YORK EXPLOSION

ARTHUR CARON,
Leader of the Industrial Workers of the World.

BOMB WRECKS THIRD OF HARLEM TENEMENT

Arthur Caron, I. W. W. Leader, One of Three Known Dead.

New York, July 4.—A bomb of terrific power exploded either on the roof or on one of the upper floors of a six-story flat house in Harlem today, wrecking a third of the building, killed at least three persons and injured others. One of the dead is Arthur Caron, a machinist and a leader of the Industrial Workers of the World. The two other known dead were women.

The explosion was at first attributed to dynamiting in a nearby subway excavation, and in the excitement attendant upon the collapse of the building, estimates of the dead ran as high as fifty. Inspector Egan of the police bureau of combustibles said that the bomb was powerful enough to have wrecked the entire neighborhood if properly placed.

Blown From Beds.

Persons across the street were blown from their beds and window glass was shattered for blocks.

Caron was found dead on a fire escape. Whether any of the occupants of the building were buried in the ruins, it was at first impossible to determine. The police were inclined to believe, however, that there would cover the total dead. The building, a brick structure, was inhabited almost exclusively by Jewish families.

Caron's body was identified by means of cards in his pocket and by Leonard Abbot, president of the Free Speech league. He lived in the building where the explosion occurred.

Caron has been prominently identified with the I. W. W. and was arrested during one of the Union square demonstrations. The police began looking up his record today on the theory that it might aid in clearing up the explosion.

Boston Shivers.

Boston, Mass., July 4.—Today brought as nearly perfect holiday weather as the most ardent Independence day celebrator could desire. The "night before the Fourth," however, was the coldest on record at the weather bureau for that date, the official mercury dropping to 51.

An elaborate program for the day was arranged by the city.

PRESIDENT THE ORATOR

Philadelphia Celebrates the Fourth on an Unusual Scale.

Historic Scenes Re-enacted in City of Nation's Birth.

Philadelphia, July 4.—The celebration of Independence day in Philadelphia this year, while planned to be safer and saner than usual, was on a wider scale than any that has taken place here since 1876, when the 100th anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence was observed. Today President Wilson was on the program to deliver the Fourth of July oration and elaborate plans were made for his welcome.

The patriotic exercises were held in Independence Square, close to the room where the Declaration of Independence was signed, and were begun before the president arrived. Exercises have been held there every year on the Fourth of July, but this year it was planned to make the celebration national in scope.

Wilson Sets Precedent.

So far as the records go, President Wilson is said to be the first president of the United States who has come to the Cradle of Liberty on the nation's natal day.

The thirteen original states were represented at the exercises either by their governors or other representatives of the state governments.

Old Christ church, located in the section of Philadelphia that was first settled, which edifice is closely associated in the history of American freedom, with Independence hall, sounded today the historic eight bells that rang with the Liberty bell on July 4, 1776. Eight men, who are kept in practice for special celebrations like

RABBIS CONDEMN CIVIC CHRISTMAS

Denounce It As Sectarian and Against American Spirit.

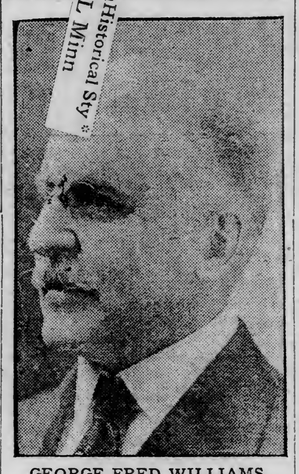

Detroit, Mich., July 4.—Delegates attending the Central Conference of American Rabbis today devoted themselves to the services of the Jewish Sabbath. After the devotional meeting in the forenoon, the visiting rabbis planned to spend the remainder of the day in sight-seeing.

Municipal Christmas celebrations were denounced by the delegates yesterday as sectarian and contrary to the spirit of America. A resolution protesting against the celebration was adopted.

An animated discussion developed over the question whether a separate prayer book should be published for those Jewish congregations which worship on Sunday. The movement for the separate prayer book was led by Rabbi Joseph Rauch of Louisville. He contended that present environments rendered Sunday worship a necessity to many Jewish congregations. Others opposed the plan on the ground that it would be giving the sanction of the church to the observance of the Gentile Sunday by Jews. So much time was taken up with discussion of Sunday services that the delegates were unable to complete the business session when an adjournment was taken.

Kansas City, Mo., July 4.—Religion and patriotism ran hand in hand here today at the twenty-first convention of the Baptist Young People's Union of America, meeting jointly with the B. Y. P. The young men and young women divided their time between cheering the speakers and singing patriotic songs.

GIFFORD'S FATE IS STILL WITH JURORS

Murder Verdict Is Not Reached in First Sixteen Hours.

Albany, N. Y., July 4.—The jury which is trying Malcolm Gifford, Jr., son of a wealthy Hudson manufacturer, for the murder of Frank J. Clute was called into court by County Judge Addington at 10 o'clock this morning and reported that no verdict had been reached. The jurors said they did not wish further instructions, and were sent back to their room to continue their deliberations. The jury had been out sixteen hours. Despite the fact that today is a holiday and tomorrow is Sunday, the court will receive a verdict if one is reached on either day.

Gifford, surrounded by his family and several old schoolmates, spent most of last evening in the ante-room outside the courtroom. When the jury asked for further instructions, he flushed slightly and drummed his fingers on the back of his chair.

"Everything will come out all right," remarked the father after the jury had filed out.

The summing up by District Attorney Alexander and Judge Addington's charge to the jury occupied all of the afternoon session of court. William T. Jerome spoke three hours and a half for the defense. Forty-Nine Residents of St. Louis County Are Made Citizens.

Swear Allegiance to United States on Eve of the Fourth.

Forty-nine residents of Duluth and St. Louis county are celebrating the Fourth of July today for the first time as citizens of the United States. They were admitted as new citizens at a naturalization hearing held before District Judge W. A. Cant last evening.

One of the forty-nine who renounced allegiance to all foreign kings, princes and potentates and swore by the stars and stripes was Bertha Hobberstad, a nurse in a local hospital. Sixty-seven applications were on the list, but all of the others were continued for one reason or another.

The list of new citizens follows:

Bertha Hobberstad, Thomas Hughes, William Simpson Bowie, Christian Thompson, Patrick George Burns, George Sparling Trelford, Charles James Gwgan, Frank Victor Westerlund, Matti Santala, Erick Wilsand, Viktori Larve, Arthur Lindsay Stevenson, Morris Jake Widdess, Dominico Cherici, August Gustafson, Axel Hagstrom, Andrus Pire, Frank Yenko, John Tuominen, Nils Olof Berglund, Percy Fuller, Patrick Steven Cobb, John Nils Lindstrom, Frank Ludwig Rutell, Joseph Sterne, Joseph Kelsall, Carl Arvid Johnson, Alfred Westlund, Henrik Bjorklund, Carl Adolph Hoglund, Hartvig Olsen Meldahl, David Gunner Ottoson, Jalmar Aldo, Erick August Mauritz Edstrom, John Ilmar Immonen, William Henry Williams, August Hill, Ole Andrew Peterson Skarr, Nels Peter Westerlund, Hans Christian Anderson, Peter Peterson, Axel Evald Johonson, Michael August Hannell, Charles Elof Sigfried Pearson, Frank Emil Johnson, Carl John Larson, Gust Wilhelm Haglin, Samuel London and Rider Pederson.

Tonight an immense patriotic camp meeting will be held. Oakland, Cal., was chosen late yesterday as the next meeting place. The convention probably will be held early in July, 1915, the exact date not yet having been set. Invitations were extended to the B. Y. P. U. of the South and the B. Y. P. U. of the Pacific coast to join in the convention.

That the activities of the church and state must never conflict was the assertion of Dr. C. S. Wallace of Montreal, in an address on "Our Baptist Heritage."

Anderson President.

Officers were elected by the B. Y. P. U. of America as follows:

President, Rev. Frank L. Anderson, Chicago; vice presidents, J. R. Webb, Peterboro, Ont.; Rev. John E. White, Atlanta, Ga.; Rev. C. D. Case, Buffalo, N. Y.; recording scretary, Rev. F. L. Hardy, Lebanon, Ind.; treasurer, A. D. Henderson, Chicago.

Mr. Hardy succeeded Rev. H. W. Reed of Rock Island, Ill., who was recording secretary eighteen years. Mr. Reed announced he would not again be a candidate. In appreciation of his services he was given an ovation by the convention.

"Appoint County Superintendents."

Abolition of the district system and the introduction of the county unit of administration; elective to give place to the appointive superintendent, and special normal school courses to prepare teachers adequately for rural positions were advoted by Arthur H. Chamberlain of San Francisco and were declared to be essential to the improvement of rural schools.

The National council, which consists of 120 members who serve six-year terms, held two meetings today. The first general session of the association proper will be held Monday.

Hardly had the first delegates arrived when talk of a successor to President Joseph Swain began. The South Carolina delegation immediately began a lively campaign in behalf of Dr. D. B. Johnson, president of Winthrop normal and industrial college, Rock Hill, S. C.

Suggested for President.

Others who have been prominently mentioned in connection with the presidency are David Starr Jordan, president of Leland Stanford university, Palo Alto, Cal., and L. R. Alderman, city superintendent of schools, Portland, Or.

The possibility of women delegates making a demand for the election of a woman also was freely discussed about the meeting place.

It is generally conceded that Oakland, Cal., will be the next meeting place, an arrangement which will afford the delegates an opportunity to attend the San Francisco exposition.

The death of his wife will prevent Martin G. Brumbaugh, superintendent of the Philadelphia schools, from attending the convention, according to a telegram received early today by President Swain.

those of today, manned the ropes attached to the bells in the church tower.

Back in 1776.

On July 4, 1776, there was a meeting in Old Christ church at almost the same hour of the meeting in Independence hall, a few blocks away, where the country's fathers were drafting the Declaration of Independence. The meeting in Christ church was called to discuss an amendment to the prayer book.

Word of the signing of the Declaration, sounded forth by the Liberty bell, was echoed by the chimes in the church tower, and then the assembly in the church passed a resolution amending the prayers for the king of England, so that the people might pray for the officials of the new republic.

The old prayer book, with the alterations in the handwriting of Bishop White, was used at the commemoration service today.

Three-fourths of the signers of the Declaration of Independence were churchmen, and many of them attended Christ church during the days they were meeting.

Oldest Military Order.

The First city troop of Philadelphia, which today acted as escort for President Wilson, was intimately connected with Revolutionary history. It was organized in 1774 and is the oldest organization in the United States that has maintained a continuous active military existence and taken part in every war in which volunteer cavalry have served.

The original troop standard, presented by Capt. Markoe in 1775 and now preserved in the armory, is said to be the earliest example of the thirteen stripes being used as an American banner, and is acknowledged by flag historians to possess the best claims to having been the inspiration for our national flag.

At Summit Hill, Pa., near which town Anthracite coal was first discovered, a soldier's monument erected in honor of coal region volunteers killed in the Civil war, was today unveiled with elaborate ceremonies.

At Williamsport, a flag was raised on top of Bald Eagle mountain to mark the centenary of the writing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

Fourth at Vera Cruz.

Washington, July 4.—Fire crackers were to sputter and big guns of the American fleet were to boom out in salute today as part of the celebration of Independence day by men of the army and navy in distant Vera Cruz. On ship and ashore the jackies, marines and soldiers had arranged a holiday in the midst of their duties of conducting the affairs of a foreign city.

At noon each ship in the big fleet was to fire a salute of twenty-one guns, and as the Stars and Stripes broke out from the poles ashore, the land batteries were to join in the noisy demonstration. Foreign ships in the harbor, following international custom, were expected to unlimber their guns in salute.

Ashore there were to be patriotic exercises and speeches and bands of the fleet were to play in the city's plazas.

morning saw many excursions to the favorite spots for such affairs. Minnesota Point and the various city parks attracted many while others are taking advantage of a beautiful summer day by mooring to a nearby lake or stream or other recreation spot. The balmy weather of today furnishes a remarkable contrast with that of a year ago, when the city was soaked in a drenching rain.

Those who have made no special plans for spending the day will have a wide choice of opportunities of amusing themselves although the city will have no civic celebration.

Sports on Water.

Those who enjoy the water will find much to interest them. The Boat club has arranged entertainment for its members at the main house and at its Spirit Lake and Oatka branches. The principal events, however, will be held at Spirit Lake, where it is expected large crowds will spend the day. The steamers Columbia and Favorite will make excursion trips during the day up the St. Louis river to Fond du Lac. The steamer America of the Booth line left last evening with a large passenger list aboard for an excursion to the Apostle islands, Ashland and other South Shore points. The America will return tomorrow evening.

The sailing fleet of the Boat club has planned special events at Spirit Lake. The sailors left the main house for the Spirit Lake branch this morning. A number of races will be held up the river this afternoon. A number of other boat races will also be pulled off at the up-river branch of the club.

At Golf Club.

At the Northland Country club a special flag contest will be held for the women players in the early morning, followed by a short stop tournament for the men. In the evening there will be a dinner and dance followed by fireworks. The Country club is the only organization that secured permission to give a private display.

Other Events.

Desmond park promises good wholesome sports and recreation for its Fourth of July visitors. The Elks and the Samaritans will clash at baseball at 2 o'clock. The game will be one of the fraternal lodge series. Following this there will be a race between the flying boat and a motor boat. After the matinee this afternoon Miss Lola May, leading lady of the Baldwin Players, will soar with Roger Jannus in his flying boat, leaving Desmond park for a trip over the harbor.

A picnic for the owners of Ford automobiles has been arranged for at Jungle grove, which is thirty-seven miles out of the city on the Whiteface river. Special prizes have been offered for events in connection with the picnic.

At Lester Park, Harmony hall will be opened and there will be dancing during the afternoon and evening.

Fishing will also be a popular pastime for many. The outgoing trains today carried many anglers to their favorite haunts.

The retail stores remained open until a late hour last evening but are closed today. The banks, courthouse and city hall and other public offices are also closed in commemoration of the day. The morning delivery of mail will be only one from the postoffice today.

Many Duluthians will journey to Superior which has arranged for an old-fashioned celebration with the usual fireworks, firecrackers, dynamite caps and ambulances. In addition there will be a big parade and athletic contests. The celebration at Virginia also attracted many.

The sale of fireworks or explosives is absolutely forbidden in Duluth by ordinance. The local celebration will be quiet and will be in accordance with the strictest of safe and sane plans.

would remain in Mexico City for the present, but would leave for the United States in four months.

It was announced last night that the Brazilian minister would entertain Americans quietly today in honor of the Fourth of July. The American club also held a reception in honor of the day.

Discuss Rebel Quarrel.

Washington, July 4.—With next moves in the attempts to restore peace in Mexico by mediation still awaiting Carranza's decision on the invitation to enter into negotiations with Huerta, administration officials today keenly watched developments at Torreon, where a military commission was trying to patch up differences among the Constitutionalist leaders.

The arrest and possible execution of a British subject in Constitutionalist territory has complicated the situation somewhat. James Caldwell, the British consular agent at Zacatecas, reported that George St. Clair Douglass, a Scotchman, was under arrest and about to be subjected to a court-martial at Zacatecas on a charge of having assisted the Federals during the recent fighting incident to the capture of the city by Villa's troops. H. C. Miles, the British vice consul at El Paso, after consulting both Carranza and Villa agents at El Paso, finally secured assurances that no disposition of the Douglass case would be made until Theodore Hamm, American consul at Durango, reached Zacatecas and investigated the affair on behalf of the Washington state department and the British foreign office.

May Hold Back Money.

Justice Anderson of the district supreme court signed an order here yesterday directing three express companies to show cause Monday why they should not be enjoined from delivering several million pesos in new currency engraved in Washington for the Mexican Constitutionalists. The shipment is en route to El Paso and the Constitutionalist agents say they fear it will fall into unfriendly hands.

The application for the order was made by attorneys for Felicitas F. Villareal, secretary of the treasury in Gen. Carranza's cabinet, who charges that his forwarding agent, Santiago S. Winfield, did not ship the notes in "the proper manner," but consigned them to himself or a confederate.

Part of Quarrel.

The court proceedings were interpreted here as another development in the differences between Carranza and his fighting general, Villa.

The application does not act as a restraining order. If they see fit, the express companies, Adams, Wells Fargo and Southern, may deliver the consignment before Monday, when the court order is returnable here.

The petition states that last April Villareal entered into an agreement with a Washington engraving company to print 17,400,000 notes for the Constitutionalists to be delivered to Villareal, or in accordance with his direction. Winfield was left in Washington as the forwarding agent. Some of the notes reached Villareal, the petition states. The final installment was not shipped as he had instructed. There is danger, the petition declares, that the money will be "diverted from the Constitutionalist cause."

Winfield is said to be an adherent of Gen. Villa.

GEORGE F. WILLIAMS IS ASKED TO RESIGN HIS POST AT ATHENS

iams replied he was sending one by mail. While there is no confirmation here, it is believed in official circles that the minister's resignation is accompanying that report.

The Second Affair.

The concern of administration officials was increased recently by publication of a further criticism on the Albanian situation, the part of the European power, and the rule of Prince William, attributed to the minister. So far as is known the powers have made no representations to Washington over the minister's activities, but officials would not have been surprised if they had.

Yesterday President Wilson personally called the attention of the state department to the gravity of the situation, and pointed out that no time should be lost in letting the powers know Mr. Williams was acting without instructions or approval of the United States. The call for his resignation followed, and meanwhile Secretary Bryan issued a statement on the affair.

Bryan's Statement.

Secretary Bryan's statement follows:

"In reply to inquiries addressed to the department of state as to what authority the American minister at Athens had to make the remarks attributed to him relative to the condition of affairs in Albania, the secretary of state has replied that Mr. Williams was authorized by the department of state to visit Epirus, only to observe conditions and report the result of his observances to the department; and that the published remarks which he is alleged to have made were given solely on his own responsibility, and with no authority whatsoever from the department. Mr. Williams' report of his visit has not been received."

In official circles the action of the government in issuing this statement without awaiting the arrival of Mr. Williams' report was regarded as highly significant.

STILL SEEK DEATH GUN

Detectives on Bailey Murder Case Keep Up the Search.

Dr. Carman Tells of Wife's Jealousy—Slapped Nurse's Face.

Freeport, N. Y., July 4.—Search for the revolver that caused the death of Mrs. Louise Bailey, murdered while consulting Dr. Edwin Carman in his office here Tuesday night, was the work upon which detectives investigating the case concentrated their efforts today.

An investigation of the telephone company's records to see what calls were made from the physician's home for several days prior to the murder waa also planned. The inquest will be resumed Monday.

A police guard was maintained at the Carman home during the night and today. The guards were instructed to prevent any person from entering the grounds.

District Attorney Smith has been assured by Mrs. Carman's counsel, George Levy, that no member of the household will attempt to cross the boundary of Nassau county until the investigation of the murder is completed.

Two Hours on Grill.

Mrs. Carman sat on the witness stand at the inquest more than two hours yesterday and submitted to a rigid cross-examination concerning her actions just prior to the killing, just after it, and at the moment it occurred.

Mrs. Carman emphatically denied that she was on the porch of her home just before the murder; that she had walked around on the ground floor while Mrs. Bailey was in her husband's office, or that she entered the office while the victim's body still was lying on the floor.

George Golder, a patient who had been waiting to see Dr. Carman on the night of the murder, swore on the witness stand that he had seen the physician's wife do all these things. When it was suggested that perhaps Golder had mistaken Mrs. Carman for her sister, the witness was confronted with both women and he immediately identified Mrs. Carman as the one he had seen.

Stuck to Her Story.

Mrs. Carman, although extremely nervous, told substantially the same story she related the morning after the murder. This was that she had gone to her room immediately after dinner the night of the murder, and except for a space of a minute, had remained there even after she heard the tinkle of breaking glass and the report of the revolver as it sent a bullet through Mrs. Bailey's heart.

She told how she had contracted for the installation of the telephonic instrument in her husband's office so she could hear what he had to say to his women patients, and how she had ripped it out the morning after the murder, before she had clothed herself or had her breakfast.

Mrs. Carman's sister, visibly nervous, also testified.

Doctor First Witness.

Dr. Carman was the first witness at the inquest. He denied that his wife had been in the office after the shooting. He might have seen her in the waiting room, he said. He saw her next upstairs, he said, "after everything had quieted down."

Dr. Carman said he did not know where Mrs. Carman was when the shot was fired. He said he remembered on one occasion that Mrs. Carman rapped on the office window while Miss Bering, a nurse, was in the office. His wife rapped on the office door and demanded to be admitted. He let her in and she said:

"This is a fine piece of business, for a married man and a woman to be exchanging money."

The witness explained that he had given the nurse $15 as a loan, and added that he had loaned her money before. Dr. Carman said his wife demanded the money from the nurse and received it.

Slapped Nurse's Face.

Closely questioned, he admitted that his wife had slapped the nurse's face. The affair occurred, he said, about 8 o'clock in the evening. Mrs. Carman, he said, had then looked through the same window through which Mrs. Bailey was shot.

After the nurse left, he said, he told his wife that the next time she spied on him "all would be over between them."

Dr. Carman said the telephone device to his wife's room was installed, according to her, a few days after the quarrel with the nurse.

District Attorney Smith asked how his wife was dressed when he saw her down stairs before the murder.

"All in white," answered the physician. He said he thought his wife was dressed in a kimona when he saw her upstairs some time after the police arrived.

Archie Post, a patient who was in the waiting room when the shot was fired, testified that the only person he heard go up or down the stairs was the daughter of Dr. Carman. Later, he continued, the girl started to practice on the piano. A voice, he did not know whose, called to her from the porch, saying, "don't play that piano now." About eight minutes later, said the witness, he heard the tinkle of breaking glass and then the report of a revolver. He dashed out of the house and looked toward the broken window. He saw nobody.

MRS. ANGLE ARRESTED AT CORONER'S ORDER

Trail of Blood Leading to Her Apartment Is Found.

Stamford, Conn., July 4.—Because expert testimony showed that a trail of human blood ran from the lower half of the building up two flights of stairs and into her apartments, and because she would make no statement, Mrs. Helen M. Angle was held without bail late yesterday by order of Coroner John J. Phelan, who is investigating the death of Waldo R. Ballou on the night of June 23. Mrs. Angle had been at liberty under a $5,000 bond given by her father, Leonard R. Blondel.

Ballou was found dying on the sidewalk in front of the building where Mrs. Angle lived. She told the police that he fell down a flight of stairs while under the influence of liquor.

Mrs. Angle was taken into custody yesterday after she had been given a hearing in the office of the chief of police, at which, by advice of her counsel, she refused to make a statement. She collapsed when she realized she had to go to a cell.

Hearing Continued.

The hearing is continued for several days, as many stains in Mrs. Angle's rooms which are being tested by Dr. Bruce Weaver have not been reported upon.

Chief of Police Brennan, the first witness at the inquiry, amplified testimony previously given, in which he quoted what Mrs. Angle had said regarding a white skirt found in a bureau drawer. The chief said he had shown the skirt to Mrs. Angle, saying: "Nellie, what does this mean?"

She replied: "Bill, for God's sake, don't show that up."

Brennan replied, he testified: "I

Miss Catherine Sherwood	2,816

LESS FREIGHT CARS SENT ACROSS STRAITS.

St. Ignace, Mich., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.—Indicative of the depression of business the falling off in the freight traffic handled by the car ferries operating in the Straits of Mackinac is cited as evidence. Since the first of the year there have been transported between the shores of the two peninsulas of Michigan approximately 2,000 fewer loaded cars than were transported during the same period a year ago. The actual figures for the five months extending from July 1 to May 31 show a decrease of 1,776 cars. The passenger business makes a better showing, but is somewhat under the record for a year ago.

ESCAPES LARCENY CHARGE ON PLEA OF DRUNKENNESS.

Because Alex Sankki, 32 years old, was drunk last evening, the court this morning dropped the charge of petit larceny that was marked against him and he was given a thirty-day sentence on the work farm, after he pleaded guilty to the drunkenness charge.

Sankki was caught coming out of a cigar store on Lake avenue south last evening with a box of cigars under his arm. The proprietor notified Patrolman Johnson and the latter took Sankki to police headquarters.

When arraigned before Judge Cutting this morning, Sankki declared that he was drunk yesterday and had no knowledge of committing larceny. The court then dropped the larceny charge and Sankki was convicted of drunkenness.

DENY CHARGE OF STEALING SHOE LACES.

John C. Wright, 24; Walter Stahle, 24, and Robert English, 23, who were arrested yesterday afternoon by Detectives Toewe and Bradley on a charge of having stolen six dozen pairs of shoe laces from John Petropoulos, 214 West Superior street, on June 26, pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Judge Cutting this morning and their trial was set for 2 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Stahl was this noon released on payment of $25 bail, while Wright and English are being held in default.

Ordered to Leave City.

Nellie and Margaret Mushall were arrested yesterday for a third time this year on a charge of vagrancy.

On former occasions the two young women would put up bail and not make their appearance in police court the following day. Yesterday afternoon they were arrested again by Patrolman Le Beau and immediately brought before Judge Cutting. They pleaded guilty and the court gave them until Tuesday morning to get out of the city. They promised to leave and were given their liberty.

Last winter the two girls were arrested on a charge made against them by two traveling salesmen, but the girls escaped sentence at the time, and about three weeks ago were again taken into custody for wandering about the streets. Margaret is 21 years old and Nellie, 23.

JUST IN TIME TO CELEBRATE

Forty-Nine Residents of St. Louis County Are Made Citizens.

Swear Allegiance to United States on Eve of the Fourth.

Forty-nine residents of Duluth and St. Louis county are celebrating the Fourth of July today for the first time as citizens of the United States. They were admitted as new citizens at a naturalization hearing held before District Judge W. A. Cant last evening.

One of the forty-nine who renounced allegiance to all foreign kings, princes and potentates and swore by the stars and stripes was Bertha Hobberstad, a nurse in a local hospital. Sixty-seven applications were on the list, but all of the others were continued for one reason or another.

The list of new citizens follows:

Bertha Hobberstad, Thomas Hughes, William Simpson Bowie, Christian Thompson, Patrick George Burns, George Sparling Trelford, Charles James Gwgan, Frank Victor Westerlund, Mattl Santala, Erick Wilsand, Viktori Larve, Arthur Lindsay Stevenson, Morris Jake Widdess, Dominico Cherici, August Gustafson, Axel Hagstrom, Andrus Pire, Frank Yenko, John Tuominen, Nils Olof Berglund, Percy Fuller, Patrick Steven Cobb, John Nils Lindstrom, Frank Ludwig Rutell, Joseph Sterne, Joseph Kelsall, Carl Arvid Johnson, Alfred Westlund, Henrik Bjorklund, Carl Adolph Hoglund, Hartvig Olsen Meldahl, David Gunner Ottoson, Jalmar Aldo, Erick August Mauritz Edstrom, John Ilmar Immonen, William Henry Williams, August Hill, Ole Andrew Peterson Starr, Nels Peter Westerlund, Hans Christian Anderson, Peter Peterson, Axel Evald Johonson, Michael August Hannell, Charles Elof Sigfried Pearson, Frank Emil Johnson, Carl John Larson, Gust Wilhelm Haglin, Samuel London and Rider Pederson.

Tonight an immense patriotic camp meeting will be held. Oakland, Cal., was chosen late yesterday as the next meeting place. The convention probably will be held early in July, 1915, the exact date not yet having been set. Invitations were extended to the B. Y. P. U. of the South and the B. Y. P. U. of the Pacific coast to join in the convention.

That the activities of the church and state must never conflict was the assertion of Dr. C. S. Wallace of Montreal, in an address on "Our Baptist Heritage."

Anderson President.

Officers were elected by the B. Y. P. U. of America as follows:

President, Rev. Frank L. Anderson, Chicago; vice presidents, J. R. Webb, Peterboro, Ont.; Rev. John E. White, Atlanta, Ga.; Rev. C. D. Case, Buffalo, N. Y.; recording scretary, Rev. F. L. Hardy, Lebanon, Ind.; treasurer, A. D. Henderson, Chicago.

Mr. Hardy succeeded Rev. H. W. Reed of Rock Island, Ill., who was recording secretary eighteen years. Mr. Reed announced he would not again be a candidate. In appreciation of his services he was given an ovation by the convention.

"Appoint County Superintendents."

Abolition of the district system and the introduction of the county unit of administration; elective to give place to the appointive superintendent, and special normal school courses to prepare teachers adequately for rural positions were advoted by Arthur H. Chamberlain of San Francisco and were declared to be essential to the improvement of rural schools.

The National council, which consists of 120 members who serve six-year terms, held two meetings today. The first general session of the association proper will be held Monday.

Hardly had the first delegates arrived when talk of a successor to President Joseph Swain began. The South Carolina delegation immediately began a lively campaign in behalf of Dr. D. B. Johnson, president of Winthrop normal and industrial college, Rock Hill, S. C.

Suggested for President.

Others who have been prominently mentioned in connection with the presidency are David Starr Jordan, president of Leland Stanford university, Palo Alto, Cal., and L. R. Alderman, city superintendent of schools, Portland, Or.

The possibility of women delegates making a demand for the election of a woman also was freely discussed about the meeting place.

It is generally conceded that Oakland, Cal., will be the next meeting place, an arrangement which will afford the delegates an opportunity to attend the San Francisco exposition.

The death of his wife will prevent Martin G. Brumbaugh, superintendent of the Philadelphia schools, from attending the convention, according to a telegram received early today by President Swain.

those of today, manned the ropes attached to the bells in the church tower.

Back in 1776.

On July 4, 1776, there was a meeting in Old Christ church at almost the same hour of the meeting in Independence hall, a few blocks away, where the country's fathers were drafting the Declaration of Independence. The meeting in Christ church was called to discuss an amendment to the prayer book.

Word of the signing of the Declaration, sounded forth by the Liberty bell, was echoed by the chimes in the church tower, and then the assembly in the church passed a resolution amending the prayers for the king of England, so that the people might pray for the officials of the new republic.

The old prayer book, with the alterations in the handwriting of Bishop White, was used at the commemoration service today.

Three-fourths of the signers of the Declaration of Independence were churchmen, and many of them attended Christ church during the days they were meeting.

Oldest Military Order.

The First city troop of Philadelphia, which today acted as escort for President Wilson, was intimately connected with Revolutionary history. It was organized in 1774 and is the oldest organization in the United States that has maintained a continuous active military existence and taken part in every war in which volunteer cavalry have served.

The original troop standard, presented by Capt. Markoe in 1775 and now preserved in the armory, is said to be the earliest example of the thirteen stripes being used as an American banner, and is acknowlegded by flag historians to possess the best claims to having been the inspiration for our national flag.

At Summit Hill, Pa., near which town Anthracite coal was first discovered, a soldier's monument erected in honor of coal region volunteers killed in the Civil war, was today unveiled with elaborate ceremonies.

At Williamsport, a flag was raised on top of Bald Eagle mountain to mark the centenary of the writing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

Fourth at Vera Cruz.

Washington, July 4.—Fire crackers were to sputter and big guns of the American fleet were to boom out in salute today as part of the celebration of Independence day by men of the army and navy in distant Vera Cruz. On ship and ashore the jackies, marines and soldiers had arranged a holiday in the midst of their duties of conducting the affairs of a foreign city.

At noon each ship in the big fleet was to fire a salute of twenty-one guns, and as the Stars and Stripes broke out from the poles ashore, the land batteries were to join in the noisy demonstration. Foreign ships in the harbor, following international custom, were expected to unlimber their guns in salute.

Ashore there were to be patriotic exercises and speeches and bands of the fleet were to play in the city's plazas.

morning saw many excursions to the favorite spots for such affairs. Minnesota Point and the various city parks attracted many while others are taking advantage of a beautiful summer day by motoring to a nearby lake or stream or other recreation spot. The balmy weather of today furnishes a remarkable contrast with that of a year ago, when the city was soaked in a drenching rain.

Those who have made no special plans for spending the day will have a wide choice of opportunities of amusing themselves although the city will have no civic celebration.

Sports on Water.

Those who enjoy the water will find much to interest them. The Boat club has arranged entertainment for its members at the main house and at its Spirit Lake and Oatka branches. The principal events, however, will be held at Spirit Lake, where it is expected large crowds will spend the day. The steamers Columbia and Favorite will make excursion trips during the day up the St. Louis river to Pond du Lac. The steamer America of the Booth line left last evening with a large passenger list aboard for an excursion to the Apostle islands. Ashland and other South Shore points. The America will return tomorrow evening.

The sailing fleet of the Boat club has planned special events at Spirit Lake. The sailors left the main house for the Spirit Lake branch this morning. A number of races will be held up the river this afternoon. A number of other boat races will also be pulled off at the up-river branch of the club.

At Golf Club.

At the Northland Country club a special flag contest will be held for the women players in the early morning, followed by a short stop tournament for the men. In the evening there will be a dinner and dance followed by fireworks. The Country club is the only organization that secured permission to give a private display.

Other Events.

Desmond park promises good wholesome sports and recreation for its Fourth of July visitors. The Elks and the Samaritans will clash at baseball at 2 o'clock. The game will be one of the fraternal lodge series. Following this there will be a race between the flying boat and a motor boat. After the matinee this afternoon Miss Lola May, leading lady of the Baldwin Players, will soar with Roger Jannus in his flying boat, leaving Desmond park for a trip over the harbor.

A picnic for the owners of Ford automobiles has been arranged for at Jungle grove, which is thirty-seven miles out of the city on the Whiteface river. Special prizes have been offered for events in connection with the picnic.

At Lester Park, Harmony hall will be opened and there will be dancing during the afternoon and evening.

Fishing will also be a popular pastime for many. The outgoing trains today carried many anglers to their favorite haunts.

The retail stores remained open until a late hour last evening but are closed today. The banks, courthouse and city hall and other public offices are also closed in commemoration of the day. The morning delivery of mail will be only one from the postoffice today.

Many Duluthians will journey to Superior which has arranged for an old-fashioned celebration with the usual fireworks, firecrackers, dynamite caps and ambulances. In addition there will be a big parade and athletic contests. The celebration at Virginia also attracted many.

The sale of fireworks or explosives is absolutely forbidden in Duluth by ordinance. The local celebration will be quiet and will be in accordance with the strictest of safe and sane plans.

would remain in Mexico City for the present, but would leave for the United States in four months.

It was announced last night that the Brazilian minister would entertain Americans quietly today in honor of the Fourth of July. The American club also held a reception in honor of the day.

Discuss Rebel Quarrel.

Washington, July 4.—With next moves in the attempts to restore peace in Mexico by mediation still awaiting Carranza's decision on the invitation to enter into negotiations with Huerta, administration officials today keenly watched developments at Torreon, where a military commission was trying to patch up differences among the Constitutionalist leaders.

The arrest and possible execution of a British subject in Constitutionalist territory has complicated the situation somewhat. James Caldwell, the British consular agent at Zacatecas, reported that George St. Clair Douglass, a Scotchman, was under arrest and about to be subjected to a court-martial at Zacatecas on a charge of having assisted the Federals during the recent fighting incident to the capture of the city by Villa's troops. H. C. Miles, the British vice consul at El Paso, after consulting both Carranza and Villa agents at El Paso, finally secured assurances that no disposition of the Douglass case would be made until Theodore Hamm, American consul at Durango, reached Zacatecas and investigated the affair on behalf of the Washington state department and the British foreign office.

May Hold Back Money.

Justice Anderson of the district supreme court signed an order here yesterday directing three express companies to show cause Monday why they should not be enjoined from delivering several million pesos in new currency engraved in Washington for the Mexican Constitutionalists. The shipment is en route to El Paso and the Constitutionalist agents say they fear it will fall into unfriendly hands.

The application for the order was made by attorneys for Felicitas F. Villareal, secretary of the treasury in Gen. Carranza's cabinet, who charges that his forwarding agent, Santiago S. Winfield, did not ship the notes in "the proper manner," but consigned them to himself or a confederate.

Part of Quarrel.

The court proceedings were interpreted here as another development in the differences between Carranza and his fighting general, Villa.

The application does not act as a restraining order. If they see fit, the express companies, Adams, Wells Fargo and Southern, may deliver the consignment before Monday, when the court's order is returnable here.

The petition states that last April Villareal entered into an agreement with a Washington engraving company to print 17,400,000 notes for the Constitutionalists to be delivered to Villareal, or in accordance with his direction. Winfield was left in Washington as the forwarding agent. Some of the notes reached Villareal, the petition states. The final installment was not shipped as he had instructed. There is danger, the petition declares, that the money will be "diverted from the Constitutionalist cause."

Winfield is said to be an adherent of Gen. Villa.

iams replied he was sending one by mail. While there is no confirmation here, it is believed in official circles that the minister's resignation is accompanying that report.

The Second Affair.

The concern of administration officials was increased recently by publication of a further criticism on the Albanian situation, the part of the European power, and the rule of Prince William, attributed to the minister. So far as is known the powers have made no representations to Washington over the minister's activities, but officials would not have been surprised if they had.

Yesterday President Wilson personally called the attention of the state department to the gravity of the situation, and pointed out that no time should be lost in letting the powers know Mr. Williams was acting without instructions or approval of the United States. The call for his resignation followed, and meanwhile Secretary Bryan issued a statement on the affair.

Bryan's Statement.

Secretary Bryan's statement follows:

"In reply to inquiries addressed to the department of state as to what authority the American minister at Athens had to make the remarks attributed to him relative to the condition of affairs in Albania, the secretary of state has replied that Mr. Williams was authorized by the department of state to visit Epirus, only to observe conditions and report the result of his observances to the department; and that the published remarks which he is alleged to have made were given solely on his own responsibility, and with no authority whatsoever from the department. Mr. Williams' report of his visit has not been received."

In official circles the action of the government in issuing this statement without awaiting the arrival of Mr. Williams' report was regarded as highly significant.

STILL SEEK DEATH GUN

Detectives on Bailey Murder Case Keep Up the Search.

Dr. Carman Tells of Wife's Jealousy—Slapped Nurse's Face.

Freeport, N. Y., July 4.—Search for the revolver that caused the death of Mrs. Louise Bailey, murdered while consulting Dr. Edwin Carman in his office here Tuesday night, was the work upon which detectives investigating the case concentrated their efforts today.

An investigation of the telephone company's records to see what calls were made from the physician's home for several days prior to the murder was also planned. The inquest will be resumed Monday.

A police guard was maintained at the Carman home during the night and today. The guards were instructed to prevent any person from entering the grounds.

District Attorney Smith has been assured by Mrs. Carman's counsel, George Levy, that no member of the household will attempt to cross the boundary of Nassau county until the investigation of the murder is completed.

Two Hours on Grill.

Mrs. Carman sat on the witness stand at the inquest more than two hours yesterday and submitted to a rigid cross-examination concerning her actions just prior to the killing, just after it, and at the moment it occurred.

Mrs. Carman emphatically denied that she was on the porch of her home just before the murder; that she had walked around on the ground floor while Mrs. Bailey was in her husband's office, or that she entered the office while the victim's body still was lying on the floor.

George Golder, a patient who had been waiting to see Dr. Carman on the night of the murder, swore on the witness stand that he had seen the physician's wife do all these things. When it was suggested that perhaps Golder had mistaken Mrs. Carman for her sister, the witness was confronted with both women and he immediately identified Mrs. Carman as the one he had seen.

Stuck to Her Story.

Mrs. Carman, although extremely nervous, told substantially the same story she related the morning after the murder. This was that she had gone to her room immediately after dinner the night of the murder, and except for a space of a minute, had remained there even after she heard the tinkle of breaking glass and the report of the revolver as it sent a bullet through Mrs. Bailey's heart.

She told how she had contracted for the installation of the telephonic instrument in her husband's office so she could hear what he had to say to his women patients, and how she had ripped it out the morning after the murder, before she had clothed herself or had her breakfast.

Mrs. Carman's sister, visibly nervous, also testified.

Doctor First Witness.

Dr. Carman was the first witness at the inquest. He denied that his wife had been in the office after the shooting. He might have seen her in the waiting room, he said. He saw her next upstairs, he said, "after everything had quieted down."

Dr. Carman said he did not know where Mrs. Carman was when the shot was fired. He said he remembered on one occasion that Mrs. Carman rapped on the office window while Miss Berins, a nurse, was in the office. His wife rapped on the office door and demanded to be admitted. He let her in and she said:

"This is a fine piece of business, for a married man and a woman to be exchanging money."

The witness explained that he had given the nurse $15 as a loan, and added that he had loaned her money before. Dr. Carman said his wife demanded the money from the nurse and received it.

Slapped Nurse's Face.

Closely questioned, he admitted that his wife had slapped the nurse's face. The affair occurred, he said, about 8 o'clock in the evening. Mrs. Carman, he said, had then looked through the same window through which Mrs. Bailey was shot.

After the nurse left, he said, he told his wife that the next time she spied on him "all would be over between them."

Dr. Carman said the telephone device to his wife's room was installed, according to her, a few days after the quarrel with the nurse.

District Attorney Smith asked how his wife was dressed when he saw her down stairs before the murder.

"All in white," answered the physician. He said he thought his wife was dressed in a kimona when he saw her upstairs some time after the police arrived.

Archie Post, a patient who was in the waiting room when the shot was fired, testified that the only person he heard go up or down the stairs was the daughter of Dr. Carman. Later, he continued, the girl started to practice on the piano. A voice, he did not know whose, called to her from the porch, saying, "don't play that piano now." About eight minutes later, said the witness, he heard the tinkle of breaking glass and then the report of a revolver. He dashed out of the house and looked toward the broken window. He saw nobody.

MRS. ANGLE ARRESTED AT CORONER'S ORDER

Trail of Blood Leading to Her Apartment Is Found.

Stamford, Conn., July 4.—Because expert testimony showed that a trail of human blood ran from the lower half of the building up two flights of stairs and into her apartments, and because she would make no statement, bail late yesterday by order of Coroner John J. Phelan, who is investigating the death of Waldo R. Ballou on the night of June 23. Mrs. Angle had been at liberty under a $5,000 bond given by her father, Leonard R. Blondel.

Ballou was found dying on the sidewalk in front of the building where Mrs. Angle lived. She told the police that he fell down a flight of stairs while under the influence of liquor.

Mrs. Angle was taken into custody yesterday after she had been given a hearing in the office of the chief of police, at which, by advice of her counsel, she refused to make a statement. She collapsed when she realized she had to go to a cell.

Hearing Continued.

The hearing is continued for several days, as many stains in Mrs. Angle's rooms which are being tested by Dr. Bruce Weaver have not been reported upon.

Chief of Police Brennan, the first witness at the inquiry, amplified testimony previously given, in which he quoted what Mrs. Angle had said regarding a white skirt found in a bureau drawer. The chief said he had shown the skirt to Mrs. Angle, saying: "Now what does this mean?"

She replied: "Bill, for God's sake, don't show that up!"

Brennan replied, he testified: "I

LESS FREIGHT CARS SENT ACROSS STRAITS.

St. Ignace, Mich., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.—Indicative of the depression of business the falling off in the freight traffic handled by the car ferries operating in the Straits of Mackinac is cited as evidence. Since the first of the year there have been transported between the shores of the two peninsulas of Michigan approximately 2,000 fewer loaded cars than were transported during the same period a year ago. The actual figures for the five months extending from July 1 to May 31 show a decrease of 1,776 cars. The passenger business makes a better showing, but is somewhat under the record for a year ago.

ESCAPES LARCENY CHARGE ON PLEA OF DRUNKENNESS.

Because Alex Sankki, 32 years old, was drunk last evening, the court this morning dropped the charge of petit larceny that was marked against him and he was given a thirty-day sentence on the work farm, after he pleaded guilty to the drunkenness charge.

Sankki was caught coming out of a cigar store on Lake avenue south last evening with a box of cigars under his arm. The proprietor notified Patrolman Johnson and the latter took Sankki to police headquarters.

When arraigned before Judge Cutting this morning, Sankki declared that he was drunk yesterday and had no knowledge of committing larceny. The court then dropped the larceny charge and Sankki was convicted of drunkenness.

DENY CHARGE OF STEALING SHOE LACES.

John C. Wright, 24; Walter Stahle, 24, and Robert English, 23, who were arrested yesterday afternoon by Detectives Toewe and Bradley on a charge of having stolen six dozen pairs of shoe laces from John Petropoulos, 214 West Superior street, on June 26, pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Judge Cutting this morning and their trial was set for 2 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Stahl was this noon released on payment of $25 bail, while Wright and English are being held in default.

Ordered to Leave City.

Nellie and Margaret Mushall were arrested yesterday for a third time this year on a charge of vagrancy.

On former occasions the two young women would put up bail and not make their appearance in police court the following day. Yesterday afternoon they were arrested again by Patrolman Le Beau and immediately brought before Judge Cutting. They pleaded guilty and the court gave them until Tuesday morning to get out of the city. They promised to leave and were given their liberty.

Last winter the two girls were arrested on a charge made against them by two traveling salesmen, but the girls escaped sentence at the time, and about three weeks ago were again taken into custody for wandering about the streets. Margaret is 21 years old and Nellie, 23.

INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

HERALD PHOTOGRAPHER SECURES FIRST VIEWS OF DULUTH AND THE HARBOR EVER TAKEN FROM AN AEROPLANE

—Photos Copyright by McKenzie.

The first photograph of Duluth ever made from an aeroplane were taken this week by Hugh McKenzie, the Herald photographer.

On Thursday afternoon Mr. McKenzie made a 20-minute flight with Roger Jannus, the aviator who is flying the hydro-aeroplane at the Duluth Boat club. He took a dozen photographs of the harbor from the machine at elevations varying from 50 to 300 to 400 feet. The best of the photographs are reproduced above.

"It is difficult to get good pictures from an aeroplane,' said Mr. Jannus. "Owing to the great speed no ordinary lens will catch anything but a picture taken straight ahead. Then the space for a photographer to move about in is very small in this machine."

The pictures reproduced above give some idea of the altitude of the machine.

Going to Chicago.

Mr. Jannus announced yesterday that he would remain in Duluth about three weeks longer, and shortly after the first of next month he plans to leave for Chicago to take part in races to be held there. He plans to make the trip in the flying boat, stopping at all of the small towns along the shores of Lake Superior and Lake Michigan.

"I have the boat in good shape for cruising now," said Mr. Jannus. "During the next three or four weeks I expect to be busy carrying passengers here, and then I want to enter the boat as a Duluth machine in the Chicago races, which will be held during August. The trip from here to Chicago can be made in two or three days if necessary, but I want to take much longer to it, and stop at all the towns between here and the Windy City. It ought to be a good advertisement for the city."

PRINCIPALS IN FIRST WEDDING TO BE HELD IN WESTMINSTER CHURCH

MISS MABEL McDOWELL.

CLARENCE E. SABIN.

The wedding of Miss Mabel McDowell, daughter of Mrs. Dora McDowell, 6201 Ramsey street, to Clarence E. Sabin of Superior will take place Tuesday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the Westminster Presbyterian church, Fifty-eighth avenue west and Ramsey street. Rev. W. L. Staub, pastor of the church, will read the service.

Miss Hulda Peterson will be bridesmaid and Oscar Wiberg of Superior will be groomsman. The wedding march will be played by Miss Florence Mellin.

Following the public wedding a reception for intimate friends will be held in the church parlors. Invitations for the reception are out. Mr. and Mrs. Sabin will spend two weeks visiting friends and relatives in the Twin Cities and Chicago and after July 20 will be at home at 1824 John avenue, Superior.

This wedding will be the first ever held in the Westminster Presbyterian church since it was built twenty-five years ago. Women of the church are planning on decorating the edifice in a fitting manner.

During the last two weeks Miss McDowell has been guest of honor at a number of showers given by young people of the city. On Thursday evening the Adult Bible class of the Westminster Presbyterian church entertained at a shower in her honor at the home of Miss Myrtle Clark, 611 North Fifty-sixth avenue west. Miss McDowell was presented with a number of handsome presents.

SUNDBERG MUST CARE FOR WIFE

Court Regulates Husband's Actions While Divorce Case Pends.

Richard B. Sundberg will have to keep away from his home at 4114 West Fifth street, pay $10 a week for the support of his wife and $25 attorney's fees, during the pendency of an action for divorce brought by his wife, Josephine Sundberg, according to an order issued by Judge Fesler yesterday afternoon. Mrs Sundberg has brought the divorce proceedings on the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment.

They were married at Nevada, Mo., four years ago. She alleges in her complaint that the trouble began after five months of married life. Then, she says, her husband began beating and otherwise abusing her, and that these beatings occurred so many times that she does not remember the number. A month after the birth of their first child she says he slapped her and threatened her life, and that six days after the birth of their second child, she says, he struck her while she still was sick in bed. On June 16 she alleges that as they were retiring, he opened a large clasp knife and threatened to end her life. She then fled to the home of a sister-in-law.

She asks the court to award her a divorce, grant her the right to resume her maiden name, Josephine B. Anderson, and give her the custody of her two children.

SPORTSMEN GET SUNDAY TRAIN

West Duluth sportsmen and others seeking an all-day outing on Sundays have secured a special train on the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific railroad. The first train will be run tomorrow, leaving the Duluth Union station at 7:30 a. m. and the West Duluth station, Central and Grand avenues, at 7:48 a. m. The train will return, arriving in West Duluth at 9:37 and Duluth at 9:55 p. m.

This train will be in addition to the regular trains now operated on the line. Many of the sportsmen in this end of the city have asked the company to install this service during the summer months.

"KICK" AND GET CARNIVAL TICKETS

West Duluth Youngsters Protest Against Loss of Playground.

Being crowded out of their playground at Thirtieth avenue west and Third street by the Shriners' carnival was not to the liking of many boys in the Western end of the city. As a result "kicks" were registered by the "kids" with Miss Margaret Culkin and Alex McKinzie, directors of play at the playgrounds.

The "kicks" have resulted in getting free tickets to the carnival for nearly 100 boys of the West end and West Duluth. These "kids" will spend the Fourth taking in the "pike" and other amusements at the carnival grounds. The tickets were secured through Fotentate W. H. Richardson yesterday.

Miss Culkin has planned a Fourth of July picnic for the entertainment of the younger children who patronize the playgrounds. The children began gathering at the Fifty-second avenue grounds at 10 o'clock this morning. A picnic lunch has been provided and games of various kinds will be played during the afternoon. This evening a display of fireworks will be held. Provisions has been made to supply the children with "sparklers" and souvenir flags.

PROCTOR ENJOYS A LIVELY FOURTH.

Fourth of July is being fittingly observed at Proctor today. This morning the break of day was announced by the shooting of several large cannon crackers. The din awoke the entire populace.

This forenoon a program of sports is being held on the main street. This includes races of all kinds, athletic feats and exhibition work by members of the Proctor volunteer fire department. This afternoon a baseball game has been planned between the firemen and trainmen of the D. M. & N., and also between the Proctor baseball club and the Hibbing Hooligans.

STRUCK IN EYE BY RED HOT RIVET

William Wheat, a structural iron worker employed by the Illinois Steel company on construction work at the Universal Portland Cement company, was struck in the right eye with a red-hot rivet while working forty feet above ground, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The face about the eye was badly cut and burned.

Wheat was catching the rivets thrown by another man several feet below him. He was in a position where he was unable to dodge the missles as they were tossed to him. The rivet that struck him in the eye was misjudged by him when he attempted to catch it.

He was immediately rescued from his perilous position and taken to the steel plant infirmary, where Dr. O. S. Olson dressed the wounds. Dr. Olson said this morning that the man would not lose his eye.

WEST DULUTHIANS IN MOTOR BOAT RACES.

Many members of the Western Boat club will take part this afternoon in the races to be held on the St. Louis river under the auspices of the Duluth Boat club. Several fast boats have been entered by the West Duluthians.

Among those who will take part will be Carl. John Curo, Frank H. Wade, the Swanstrom brothers with their "Gee Whiz," and Ernie Larson.

The Western Boat club is planning a series of races later in the summer.

Allan Boyd Dies.

Allan Boyd, the 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Boyd of Eighty-fourth avenue west and Grand avenue, died at 4 o'clock this morning after a short illness of scarlet fever. The funeral will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence with burial in Oneota cemetery.

West Duluth Briefs.

Miss Florence Kern, 4809 West Sixth street, left yesterday for Eveleth to spend the Fourth visiting relatives.

Francis Ehr, 617 North Fifty-sixth avenue west, is spending a few days visiting relatives at Akeley, Minn.

George Davies left yesterday afternoon for a few days' visit with friends at Eveleth.

Miss Ludella Lund of Minneapolis is spending the week-end visiting at the home of her mother at 528 North Fifty-ninth avenue west.

Watch repairing, Hurst, West Duluth.

Because of business places being open last night the West Duluth Commercial club failed to get out a quorum to its meeting last evening. No business was transacted by those present.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Hazelwood Presbyterian church, Thirty-ninth avenue west and Fourth street, will entertain at a social at the church. Invitations are extended to their friends.

BEMIDJI NOTES.

Bemidji, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Several speakers have been asked to be present at the meeting of the Bemidji Townhsip Farmerss' club, at the home of E. C. Bergh, two miles south of Bemidji on July 11.

Complications have followed Judge H. A. Simonr illness from typhoid fever and the judge is in a serious condition at his home here.

Bemidji people weekly eat a ton of creamery butter, prepared by the Bemidji creamery. E. C. Stiles is the manager of the creamery. He says that $500 weekly is spent to buy cream, the fact that the farmer clients have increased 50 per cent in a year evidencing their satisfaction.

WILL FORGERY LAID TO MRS. KINSINGER.

Kansas City, Mo., July 4.—Mrs. Lillain Kinsinger was bound over to the criminal court after a preliminary hearing in Justice Clark's court on a charge of forging the will of her husband, H. F. Kinsinger, who died here several months ago. Justice Clark fixed the defendant's bail at $10,000.

FAMINE NEAR IN GUAYMAS

Conditions There Are Terrible, According to Refugees.

Brothers Reach Douglas, Ariz., With Story of War.

Douglas, Ariz., July 4.—Conditions in Guaymas are terrible, with famine threatening both civilians and soldiers, according to statements made by Frederico and Arturo Valuenzula, brothers, and the first residents of that port to reach the border since the Federals there last week permitted 800 families to depart.

When the Valuenzulas left, they said, the Federal garrison numbered 2,700, the decrease having been caused by almost daily drafts to reinforce the garrisons at Mazatlan and La Paz, across the Gulf of California in Lower California. The soldiers remaining were said to be demoralized because of receiving pay only in scrip good nowhere but in Guaymas, and because of the reductions of rations to a minimum.

Ready to Evacuate.

The Federals, according to the refugees, have made apparent preparations to evacuate Guaymas whenever the Constitutionalists attack the city. Seven merchantmen anchored in the harbor have been partly loaded with the impedimenta of the garrison. Several cannons have been placed aboard and both artillery and ammunition have been stacked on the pier, ready to be placed on the ships.

Yaqui Indians, deported to Yucatan several years ago by order of Porfirio Diaz when he was president of Mexico, and brought back to the vicinity of Guaymas a few months ago, have been forcibly drafted into the Federal garrison.

Women Insulted.

Most of the merchants have been compelled to close their stores because of a levy of 2,000,000 pesos made by the Federals, and later seizure of food supplies. The Valuenzulas declared the soldiers had wantonly insulted many women.

The approach to a general famine seemed so near last week, the refugees said, that the Federals consented to allow all non-combatants to leave. The permission was received eagerly by some, although hundreds of poor people remained because they had no friends to receive them elsewhere.

SPEED OF FIREMEN AVERTS BAD FIRE

Flames at Oil Shops Are Checked and Explosion Prevented.

A dangerous fire in the shops of the Zenith Oil and Specialty company, Lake avenue south, was averted early last evening by the quick work of the fire department in extinguishing a blaze, which is believed to have started in a pile of waste. The total loss is estimated at $2,000.

The Zenith Oil company has six open tanks of oil, two barrels of paint and a large amount of inflammable material, all of which are in two small two-story frame buildings. It was feared that the oil would catch fire, in which event there would have been considerable damage to the building, and it might have resulted in igniting the factory building of the De Witt-Seitz Furniture company next door.

The fire was discovered by a watchman, and he immediately turned in an alarm. Engine companies No. 1 and 3, Truck companies 1 and 3, and the salvage corps responded to the alarm. The firemen confined their efforts to getting the blaze under control as quickly as possible, and this they succeeded in doing with very little effort.

W. M. Powers, president of the company, said last evening that two boilers and a steam engine were ruined by the fire and water. He estimates his loss at $2,000, which is partly covered by insurance.

HONORED BY THE LODGE MEMBERS

Emil Hollander was presented with a gold watch and charm decorated with the emblems of the order by the members of the Duluth lodge No. 25, I. O. O. F., at their meeting last evening, as a token of recognition of his many years of service in the lodge. The presentation speech was made by George E. Lindberg, noble grand.

Mr. Hollander will leave in a few days for Portland, Or., where he will reside permanently.

TAKES OVER MILEAGE OF DEFUNCT EXPRESS CO.

Practically all the railroad mileage formerly operated by the United States Express company was taken over on July 1 by the American Express company, Wells, Fargo & Co. and the Adams Express company.

The American Express company took over close to 13,960 miles, Wells-Fargo & Co. 12,000 miles, and the Adams Express company 6,900 miles.

The contracts assumed by the Adams Express company include the following: Detroit United Railway, Michigan United Traction company, Michigan Railway company, Fort Wayne & Northern Indiana railway, Ohio electric lines, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad, Pere Marquette railroad, Illinois Traction company, Chicago & Milwaukee Electric railroad; Lehigh & New England railroad, Bloomsburg & Sullivan railroad, Unadilla Valley railway, Lake Shore & Michigan Southern railroad (through service.) This gives the Adams Express company three through lines between Chicago and New York.

BOY SUCCUMBS TO BULLET WOUND

William Peck Passes Away at Hospital After Brave Struggle.

As the result of the explosion of a revolver cartridge more than two weeks ago, when he was attempting to whittle it with a knife, William Peck, 14 years old, succumbed at St. Luke's hospital yesterday afternoon. Blood poisoning, which set in the last week, is given as the cause of his death.

Young Peck, who is the son of Mrs. Cecelia Peck, 515 First avenue east, was playing on the front porch of his home when the accident happened. He had found a cartridge and was attempting to whittle it. The cartridge exploded and the bullet shot off his right index finger and penetrated his right knee.

The explosion attracted neighbors to the scene and the boy was carried into Abbett's drug store, 101 West Fourth street, where he was given temporary treatment. He was later taken to St. Luke's hospital, where it was thought at first that he would recover. Blood poison set in the last week and efforts to save the boy's life were hopeless. He died early yesterday afternoon.

The body has been removed to the Crawford undertaking rooms, where the funeral arrangements will be made some time today.

HUMAN HAND WORST DISEASE CARRIER.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 4. — House pets, flies and dust breed disease faster than the health authorities can stamp it out, but the human hand is the most dangerous enemy to family and community health that we have, declared Dr. C. F. Langworthy, government food expert, at the closing session of the home economy convention. "Women should not prepare food while their hands are dirty," he continued, "and the family cat should be banished from the kitchen."

"Eighty-five per cent of the people of Porto Rico are suffering from malnutrition," said Miss Grace J. Ferguson of Kansas City, in charge of the government domestic science work in the island. "The people have no stoves but tiny charcoal affairs, and do not cook food except to fry it. We are teaching them to make and use ovens."

SAFE AND SANE DAY IN U. S. CAPITOL

Washington, July 4.—Both houses of congress adjourned yesterday until Monday in order to celebrate the Fourth of July and to take a brief holiday in preparation for a long legislative grind. Last night there was a general congressional exodus for summer resorts and home districts, and neither house had a quorum left in Washington.

HERALD'S CHEAP TRIPS RESUMED

First of the Summer Excursions Will Be Held Next Week.

As in the past seasons, considerable interest is being aroused in The Herald's annual summer excursions which are scheduled to begin next Monday and Tuesday.

The choice of three delightful outings will be offered next week. Two excursions will be run next Monday, one up the St. Louis river to Fond du Lac, and the other along the south shore of the lake to Port Wing, Wis. The Fond du Lac trip will be made on the steamer Favorite, leaving the dock at the foot of Fifth avenue west at 9 o'clock in the morning and returning to the city at 6 p. m. The fare for the round trip will be only 25 cents. The steamer Columbia will take the south shore excursion, leaving Duluth at 9:30 a. m. and returning at 7:30 p. m. The fare for the round trip will be $1.

The Tuesday trip will be on the steamer America to Two Harbors. She will leave the Booth Line dock at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and on the return trip she will arrive back at 9 o'clock in the evening. The opportunity to view the beautiful scenery along the north shore by daylight will thus be afforded. The round trip will cost only 30 cents.

Owing to the extraordinary low prices for Herald excursions, tickets must be secured at The Herald office.

POLO CARNIVAL PLANNED FOR BIG PANAMA SHOW

Leading Teams of the World Will Be Asked to Compete for Titular Prize at San Francisco Exposition.

San Francisco, Cal., July 4.—If the tentative polo program for the Panama-Pacific exposition goes through there should be some of the finest exhibitions of "the galloping game" ever seen in any country. According to present plans, about twenty-five teams will compete, including quartets from all parts of the United States England, France, Spain, India and Argentina.

With India and Argentina teams competing there will be plenty of novelty in store for American lovers of the game, for it is only recently that much has been heard in this country of the prowess of the Traill brothers of Argentina, and so little has been known of the style of the play indulged in by the Maharajahs that even in the internationals for the Westchester cup few of the spectators realized how much had been borrowed from India by England.

Curving Shot a Surprise.

The long, curving shot for goal—one of the most innocent strokes in appearance and one of the deadliest upon occasion—was a distinct surprise to many American polo men, and once or twice nearly caught the American team napping.

This very pretty Indian shot is well calculated to work against the very type of defense that has come to be a distinguished feature of the American style of play. The Meadow Brook theory, and subsequently the theory of most polo men, has been that the best offense is the best defense. For this reason the wide shots into what is known as "dead" territory have received little or no attention from the back, who did not race after them because he felt sure they would cross the line far from the goal posts. But the Indian stroke is never dead until it is over, for these wily players have been able to impart a curve to the ball. There is no great speed to the stroke, but it swerves sharply when past the ultimate defense and swings in between the goal posts with alarming frequency.

Appreciate Indian Stroke.

Any Englishman or other player who has faced the native teams in India can bear testimony to the menace in the stroke, and should an Indian team appear on the Western coast special preparation will have to be made to meet it.

Furthermore, the Indians are accustomed to dry, fast fields and hot weather, and while California is very far from being like India in the polo season, the visitors should find the going to their liking. In many ways the Indian and the Argentinian systems of play are closer to the American than to what, until very recently, was distinctly English, and American teams that face the invaders will find far less tendency toward the long formation that used to be standard on the other side than toward the "flying forward," made familiar by Meadow Brook.

For a long time India has been threatening a polo invasion of the United States, but the only cup hitherto available has been a monopoly between the United States and Great Britain, and there has been no trophy the conditions surrounding which have been adapted as free for all international competition.

Type of Play Secret to Americans.

Argentine teams have appeared on the other side and the Argentine pony has been used from time to time both in this country and in England, but the type of play has been a closed book to most Americans.

If all goes well it is possible that in time the Panama-Pacific cup will rank with the present polo trophy, the Davis cup. The donor of the Davis cup, indeed, had no idea that in the long run the trophy would attract the teams of so many nations. Most international competition is of fairly slow growth, but England and the United States no longer have a corner on athletics, and in the case of polo the Persians, the Indians and even the Chinese were playing the game before Hurlingham was heard of. So it will be a case of fighting against English and American methods. India at least has nothing to learn about the sometimes dusty game and Argentina has very little.

CLABBY IS THE WINNER

Defeats Eddie McGoorty on a Foul in Middleweight Contest.

Sydney, N. S. W., July 4.—Jimmy Clabby of Hammond, Ind., won tonight on a foul from Eddie McGoorty of Oshkosh, Wis., the title of world's middleweight champion. The foul occurred in the eighth round. The battle was hard fought from the beginning.

Clabby's work was regarded by the crowd as a remarkable exhibition. Both men fought furiously and mixed it up continuously. McGoorty could accomplish little, however, against his adversary's superior skill. He tried repeatedly to land left hooks but each time was blocked. He was desperate when he committed the foul.

Much interest was shown in the fight and a great crowd attended. The contest was scheduled to go twenty rounds.

TITLE LOST TO PACKEY

McFarland Long Sought Championship—Retired Without It.

Chicago, July 4.—A master boxer, a hard puncher, a clever ring general, in fact, the very epitome of ring class and cleverness, Packey McFarland, the stockyards idol, is leaving the fight game without ever having held a ring championship.

Packey is to be married soon, and has promised his bride-to-be that he will never, never fight again, so any hopes he might have had in connection with championship belts are gone forever.

Another reason why he will never be able to tell his grandchildren how he won a title is that he has never been able to make the stipulated weight. McFarland never was a lightweight, and he rapidly outgrew the welterweights. There was a chance that he would develop into a middleweight when Daniel Cupid intervened. Once Packey made the lightweight limit. But it wasn't for a fight. A New York scribe was the genius behind the turn. Whether Packey starved two or three weeks in order to come down to "thirty-three" was never made public.

The stockyards stalwart established his class as a welterweight when he took Ray Bronson on in an Indianapolis encounter. Bronson was stout and strong in those days. He was the logical candidate for welterweight honors. But in that bout Packey outboxed the Hoosier and outfought him as well. The mere fact that the Indiana scribes admitted that Bronson "was forced to extend himself to win" was a sufficient proof that the Chicago crack won quite decisively.

McFarland could hit, and hit hard, when the occasion warranted such brutal effort, but cleverness was his Prince Albert. Having made blocking a science, the boxer from the burg of breezes was harder to hit than Walter Johnson's fast ball.

To have landed Packey a discolored optic was a badge of distinction of which any boxer, great or otherwise, might well be proud.

Accordingly Kid Burns went down in history as an exceptional ring notable when he creped McFarland's eye in a New York debate on Feb. 6, 1912.

It was the first black eye McFarland had met since his debut as a professional pugilist in 1904. You can judge for yourself just how dexterous the phantom was.

FAST WORK EXPECTED.

Final Events on in Mississippi Valley Regatta.

Peoria, Ill., July 4.—Interest in the last day's events of the seventh annual regatta of the Mississippi Valley Power Boat association centered today in the time trials and in the Webb championship free-for-all events. The sensational work of the Kitty Hawk VI, which yesterday smashed all records for motor boat time by making the mile at the rate of 54.54 miles an hour, is expected to be eclipsed today. With the America of Chicago, and the Baby Speed Demon of Algonac, Mich., in the same event with the Kitty Hawk VI, the most thrilling event of the week's program is predicted. The owners of the Baby Speed Demon expect to lower the record set yesterday by the Timken boat at Canton, Ohio.

Sixteen boats are entered in the Webb championship free-for-all race, five Illinois cities being represented among the entries. Second heats in Classes B, C and E are also to be run. This morning the annual meeting of the regatta association was scheduled.

HARVARD THE CUP WINNER

Wins Grand Challenge Trophy By Beating Boston.

Englishmen Get Stewards' Cup, But Italian Wins Sculls.

Henley-on-Thames, July 4.—Harvard second eight captured the Grand Challenge cup by beating the Union Boat club of Boston in the final heat today.

Harvard crossed the finishing line a length and a quarter ahead in 7 minutes, 20 seconds. It was a magnificent race throughout.

Giuseppi Singigaglia of the Lario Rowing club, Como, Italy, carried off the Diamond sculls today by beating C. M. Stuart of Trinity Hall, Cambridge, in the final heat.

The Italian sculler finished alone in nine minutes, as Stuart had stopped just after passing the mile pose. The Cambridge man had to be lifted out of the boat and taken on board the umpires' launch.

Leander saved the Stewards' challenge cup for England by defeating the Mayence Rowing club in today's finals. The German oarsmen cracked and stopped, leaving Leander to finish alone in 7 minutes 52 seconds. The weather was fine.

WILDING LOSES TENNIS TITLE

Champion Is Defeated By Australian in Straight Sets.

Wimbledon, Eng., July 4.—Norman E. Brookes of Australia won the all-comers lawn tennis singles championship today, wresting the title from Anthony F. Wilding of New Zealand, the holder, in three straight sets, 6-4; 6-4; 7-5.

Mrs. R. Lambert Chambers once more won the ladies' singles lawn tennis championship today by beating Mrs. Larcombe, the challenger, 7-5; 6-4.

SEASON BEGINS LIKE THAT OF 1911

Ore Shipping, If June Basis Continues, Will Surpass the Other.

In 1911 the season's ore movement amounted to 32,137,056 tons and the season opened more like the present season than any other of recent years. The amount carried in 1911 is approximately the same as the estimates that are current for the season of 1914.

In April of this year, the shipments from upper lake ports totaled 269,686 tons; in April, 1911, 332,292 tons. In May, 1914, the shipments totaled 3,852,063 tons, as compared with 3,687,721 tons in May, 1911. The June (1914) movement aggregated 5,502,367 tons and in June, 1911, 4,019,366 tons.

The total shipments to July 1, 1914, were 9,624,116 tons against 8,839,274 tons in the corresponding period of 1911. From June 30 to the end of the season of 1911, 24,298,314 tons of ore were shipped from upper lake ports. Should the season of 1914 see shipments of the same volume from the last of June to the close the total movement would be approximately 34,000,000 tons.

July shipments in 1911 amounted to 5,223,198 tons, August shipments, 5,550,229 tons, September shipments, 5,231,669 tons, October shipments, 5,769,965 tons, and November shipments, 3,523,253 tons.

Those who are familiar with the iron ore business are of the opinion that the June movement this year was too large for the volume of ore sold and unless the sales of ore were larger before the close, the season would be over, so far as ore is concerned, late in October. They said that if the ore sales do pick up the shipments probably would not more than equal the 1911 movement the rest of the season.

Were the coal mines of Ohio shipping, the traffic on the lakes would be very much improved. While coal shipments for the season are not expected to be more than 75 per cent of 1913, the fact Ohio is shipping no coal largely accounts for the lightness of the movement.

Without grain the traffic on the lakes for bulk freighters is in the neighborhood of 55 per cent of the capacity of the lake fleet. Grain shipments will tend to relieve the situation beginning with the movement out of Chicago the latter part of this month, but grain shipments will not keep the idle fleet even moderately busy.

DANGER IN PATH OF LAKE SUPERIOR CRAFT.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Capt. Jones of the steamer Shenango has sent the following wireless telegram to canal officials:

"About twenty-five boom poles chained together are floating on the outside course at Devils island to Eagle Harbor, twenty-two miles east of Outer island. There is danger, especially to small craft."

The message has been forwarded to President Livingstone of the Lake Carriers' association and arrangements are being made to remove the floating timber.

Draft at the Soo.

The recommended draft for cargoes going through the Canadian lock is, today, nineteen feet, five inches.

GRIMSHAW MAY LOSE SCALP.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 4.—A Washington special to the Journal says: There appears to be a movement to close the official career of United States Marshal William H. Grimshaw of the Minnesota district before his time expires. Grimshaw's term will not expire until Dec. 15, 1915. Nevertheless there is a rumor that the department of justice is looking for a successor.

Inquiry at the department of justice today brought out the information that Grimshaw's resignation has not been asked for, nor are there any visible indications of candidates to succeed him at present, but it is certain that men high up in the department have the matter of the marshalship in mind.

The recent change in the district attorney's office has suggested, it is said, a complete reorganization of the court service. Grimshaw has an active political record which may be used against him in an effort to get him out.

BREAKFAST BECOMES MARITAL FACTOR.

New York Herald: Is the American breakfast an institution destructive of marital happiness?

The issue has been raised by a resident of this city who has haled his wife to the divorce court because, forsooth, she has persisted in appearing at the breakfast table en deshabille. He has other grievances, or thinks he has, but this breakfast hour tendency toward the comfort of negligee on the part of his better half seems to head the list.

It is to be hoped his suit to sever the marital bond will reach the court presided over by the learned judge whose contented wife quite recently confided to friends the secret of her and his happiness.

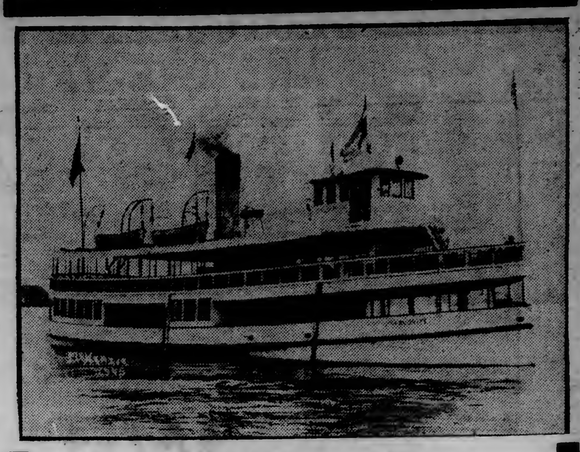

"We have," she explained, "been married for twenty-five years, but in all that time we have never had breakfast together."

The husband of so wise a wife should be able to give our friend some advice of great value.

TAKING AN ANTELOPE ALIVE.

Youth's Companion: An old timer in the San Luis valley of Southern Colorado tells the following story of the day, now long past, when antelope grazed in great numbers in the beautiful natural meadows along the Alamosa, Conejos and Rio Grande:

A young school teacher, named Paul Brown, came out from Ohio to spend the summer at my ranch. He was a lover of hunting, but had never had a chance at any kind of big game. No sooner did he learn that there were antelope in our neighborhood than he made up his mind to get one.

I gave him an old buckskin broncho cow pony, not much for looks, but with an amazing amount of wind. He could gallop twelve hours with almost no rest, and be none the worse for it the next day.

As Brown rode along the Conejos river one morning, he jumped a buck out of the tall grass almost under his horse's nose. The antelope ran, and Brown was so startled that he entirely forgot his rifle. But the pony laid back his ears and started in pursuit of the fleeing antelope. At the first jump, his hind leg struck the end of the rifle barrel, and knocked it out of the saddle scabbard. Brown was too busy keeping the antelope in sight to notice its loss.

The antelope soon got out of the tall grass, and settled down to a steady run on the open prairie, with the plucky little cow pony about a hundred yards behind. Brown then remembered that he had a rifle, and reached down for it. The gun was gone, and he had no time to go back and hunt for it, so he made up his mind to run the antelope down and capture it alive.

The buck ran in a great circle, and at the end of an hour or a little more had finished the first lap. The gap between himself and the pony was about the same as at the start. Whenever the antelope sprinted, the buckskin was equal to the occasion, and held his own. Both animals showed signs of weakening at the end of the second hour.

Then Brown had a happy thought. His saddle weighed about forty pounds. The pony would last longer if he could get rid of the saddle. So leaning down, Brown loosened the cinches. When everything was loose, he slipped over the horn to the pony's shoulders and pushed the saddle off behind him.

Relieved of that weight, the pony began to gain slowly, and at the end of another half hour was less than fifty yards behind. The antelope was pretty thoroughly exhausted, and the pony was breathing hard, but he had laid back his ears for a fresh spurt, and at the end of five minutes was running neck and neck with the antelope.

Brown then realized that he should have kept his rope when he threw the saddle away. He did not even have a pocket knife. He did not know what to do.

Then he had an inspiration. Pulling off his coat and holding it under his arm, he climbed on the pony's shoulders and made a flying leap on top of the antelope. By chance, he landed squarely astride the buck's back. The antelope was pretty well worn out, and with the additional weight of a rider, he tired rapidly. Brown then threw his coat over the buck's head and tied the sleeves together under his throat. The blindfolded antelope stepped into a hole and fell. Brown went on over the antelope's head and landed uninjured just in front of his horse, who had come to a standstill. Jumping up, Brown unsnapped one of the bridle reins, and before the exhausted buck could regain his feet the man had him securely hogtied.

Leaving the antelope tied and blindfolded Brown started home, and reached the ranchhouse just about dark. He told me his experience, but he had plenty of trouble making me believe his story. Tme next morning, however, I hitched a team to the wagon and started out with him to the place where he said he had left his game. I had to believe his story when we reached the place, and found the antelope tied and blindfolded. We loaded the buck into the wagon and, after using up the rest of the day finding Brown's gun and saddle, drove back to the ranchhouse.

INDEPENDENCE DAY

Finds Man Independent, But the Wife With Her Work to Do!

A WOMAN'S work never ends, yet she is becoming more and more independent of her housework labors as she becomes more and more acquainted with electrical labor-saving devices. Hundreds of homes in Duluth now study every new electrical invention that has to do with housework—others, for lack of time, do not get in touch with electrical achievements and as a result are still years behind the times.

Electrical Cooking Devices are more cleanly and economical than all others. They are more handy to use and take up less room in the kitchen. They are the last word in the science of cooking and therefore make a woman more interested in the work.

Electrical Lighting Devices make the home more cheerful and more livable. In a second's time your rooms are flooded with rich light and in a second's time you turn the switch and lights are off. There is no handling of oil or matches as in the case of old-fashioned oil lamps. There is no nasty odor or the handling of matches as in the case of gas lighting.

Electrical Heating Devices are indispensable in the most modern homes. The waste that comes of lighting a fire for a few hours of heat, the labor attendant upon it, the constant watching and worry over a "slow" fire are eliminated in those homes that turn the switch that heats the room or rooms they want a bit warmer.

Man's good judgment will dictate the recommendation of electrical cooking, lighting and heating devices to his wife. Woman's good sense will show her their superiority over other methods.

Next Independence Day will be Independence Day indeed if more homes adopt the further use of electricity.

"INSANE" MAN WAS ONLY FROG CATCHER

West Duluthian Tells of Expedition That Made Farmers Butt of Community.

L. A. Skafte, 7 Vernon street, has returned from Oshkosh, Wis., where he has been spending two weeks visiting relatives. Mr. Skafte also returned with one of the best stories of a "capture" of an "insane" patient that has been told in Duluth for some time.

Shortly after his arrival on his sister's farm the farmers were informed of the escape of three insane persons from the insane hospital in Oshkosh. The entire country-side was notified and every family was on the lookout for the demented ones.

Late in the afternoon of the day that the alarm was given, one of the neighboring women called up Mr. Skafte's sister and told of a man beating about the slough in their meadow, about a quarter of a mile from the home. Mr. Skafte was in the house at the time and he volunteered to investigate.

"I went down to the meadow and there I saw this fellow dressed in bib overalls carrying a large canvas sack," said he this morning. "I got up quite close to him and there he was watching the grass and every once in a while he would kick aside the heavy hay and make a grab at a frog with his hands. He certainly acted queerly. He never looked up, and in fact I do not think he saw me.

"I went back to the farm and there was a crowd of farmers. I told them of the queer actions of the man. The farmers loaded themselves with revolvers, butcher knives and several had ropes. The ropes were taken on the suggestion of a medicine vender who was with the crowd. He suggested that we lassoo him. The crowd spread out and advanced carefully through the meadow. The farmers watched every move made by the man and nudged each other and commented on the man's apparent insanity.

"When they got within about twenty feet of him, the man who had up to this time had his back turned to the crowd, turned around and looked at the crowd.

"'What are you fellows going to do with the rope?' he asked, and smiling he added, 'I suppose you fellows think I am crazy,' and then he laughed one of the heartiest laughs I have ever heard. You could have purchased that entire crowd of farmers for 2 cents. They reddened up and I'll bet they each wished that the earth would open up and swallow them.

"'I am catching frogs for the Oshkosh frog farm,' he said. 'I can make $5 per day doing that and it's more than I can make digging sewers. The company is paying 16 cents a pound for these,' and he exhibited a sack that was full of the writhing mass of frogs.

"Since then all of the farmers in the party have been the subject of the query, 'Are you one of the frog catcher's catchers,' and the papers of the community have 'kidded' them continually."

MANY CHURCH PICNICS ON HOLIDAY

Large Crowds Take Possession of Various City Parks.

Many West end church organizations are spending the Fourth picnicing at the various city parks. Hundreds of people left their homes in the West end this morning to attend these outings.

The congregation and Sunday school of the First Norwegian Danish M. E. church are holding a joint picnic at Grassy Point. This morning a program of national songs and patriotic speeches featured the program. This afternoon sports of various kinds will take place.

The Sunday school and congregation of the Central Baptist church are holding their outing under the auspices of the Baptist Young People's union on the lake shore at Lakeside. A program for the young people has been planned for all day.

At Fairmont park the Swedish Methodist church congregation and Sunday school are holding their annual outing. Here also is being held an all day program for the young people.

Several other organizations are enjoying the day, some at Lincoln park and others at Chester park, and at Fond du Lac.

BIG CROWD SEES NEW YEOMEN BUILDING DEDICATED.

Thousands attended the dedication of the new home office building for the Brotherhood of American Yeomen in Des Moines, according to J. A. Bellmeur, 1 Exeter street, who returned from there yesterday. Mr. Bellmeur represented Duluth homestead, No. 3131, at the dedication.

Mr. Bellmeur said that there were between 6,000 and 7,000 visitors in the city. The parade, he said, had over 200 automobiles and fourteen degree teams took part in the drill contest. Minnesota was represented by nearly 100 delegates at the affair.

On Monday evening Mr. Bellmeur will make a report of the dedication at the meeting of the Duluth homestead held at the Woodmen hall. A large class of candidates will also be initiated. The initiatory work will be done by the local degree team.

PLAN ORGANIZATION TO GET CREAMERY

Farmers of Hermantown, Midway and Adolph Will Hold Meeting.

The question of organizing a creamery association among the farmers of Hermantown, Adolph and Midway will he brought up at the meeting of the Farmers and Producers' club of Hermantown Monday evening. A movement for the establishment of such a creamery association is under way, and the first step toward that end, that of getting an idea of the amount of milk that local farmers will supply it, is to be taken.

The intention is to establish the creamery at Proctor, where the Proctor Potato company will, it is said, turn over its building for that purpose. The potato company is organized among the farmers of these three districts.

The suggestion is said to have met much favor among the farmers, who not only believe that they can get better prices for their milk, but who also will likely have a personal interest in the creamery by the purchase of stock. Merchants of Proctor have, it is said, promised to assist in financing the industry.

DEPLORES SUFFRAGIST DEMAND ON PRESIDENT

DR. ANNA HOWARD SHAW.

Washington, July 4.—Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the National Woman Suffrage association, in a letter to President Wilson indicates her disapproval of the action of the suffragists who went to the White House Wednesday and drew from the president a final refusal to support a suffrage amendment to the Federal Constitution. The visit Wednesday was arranged by the congressional union for woman suffrage, whose leaders do not agree with officers of the association on methods to be employed in working for the cause. Mrs. Shaw's letter follows:

"Woodrow Wilson, president of the United States: Dear Mr. President—The officers of the National Woman Suffrage association desire, on its behalf, to state that when you granted an audience to its representatives who sought your aid in securing favorable congressional action last November, to whom you stated your position as president of the United States and as the highest representative of the political party which elected you, we accepted your statement, looking forward to the time when the political situation would presage a more favorable response, and your great influence might be given to aid in extending the principles of 'the new freedom' to women.

"To this end, through the national congressional committee, of which Mrs. Medill McCormick is chairman, we have sought to secure favorable congressional action; but at no time has any delegation from the National Woman Suffrage association endeavored to obtain an audience with you upon this subject since November, 1913.

"We greatly deplore any act in the name of woman suffrage which mars the record of dignity, lawfulness and patriotism which has marked the conduct of the campaigns to obtain political justice for women in the United States.

"In the expectation that the time will come when we may secure great influence in behalf of true democracy.

"I am, sincerely yours,
"ANNA HOWARD SHAW."

"On behalf of the officers of the National Woman Suffrage association."

LOCKJAW

Lockjaw, or tetanus, is due to a germ which grows chiefly in the intestine of the horse. Since about 50 per cent of street sweepings are horse manure, it is not hard to see why lockjaw is common as a result of Fourth of July wounds, especially of the deep ragged wounds, blown full of street dirt, which so often result from premature explosions, etc.

Loss of life from tetanus is almost wholly preventable, but chiefly by treatment before symptoms develop.

Therefore, all deep ragged wounds should be treated as follows:

1—Carefully and thoroughly remove every particle of foreign matter from the wound, laying it open, if necessary, under anesthesia.

2—Dry the wound thoroughly, and paint it and the surrounding parts as carefully as possible with iodine, or else cauterize it thoroughly with a 25 per cent solution of phenol (carbolic acid) in glycerin or alcohol.

3—Apply a loose wet pack, using a solution of some such antiseptic substance as boric acid or alcohol.

4—As soon as possible inject intravenously or subcutaneously 1,500 units of antitetanic serum and continue the injections if indications of possible tetanus arise.

5—In no case close the wound. Allow it to heal by granulation. Remove the dressings and packing each day and apply fresh ones.

FOUR ARE ACCUSED OF LOOTING BANK.

Watertown, N. Y., July 4.—William T. Brice, formerly teller of the First National bank of Amsterdam; Richard Murphy, former assemblyman; Baron Eugene Oppenheim of New York, and Howard J. Rogers, former deputy superintendent of public instruction of New York, were indicted yesterday charged with looting the First National bank of Amsterdam, between May, 1911, and May, 1914. All pleaded not guilty. Their trials were set for two weeks from Monday.

SAYS LORIMER BANK KEPT CASH AND NOTES.

Chicago, July 4.—That C. B. Munday, vice president of the La Salle Street Trust & Savings bank, was making desperate efforts to stave off the crash which overtook the bank three weeks ago, is shown in an intervening petition filed in court in behalf of John Cudahy.

Three days before the bank was closed, Cudahy alleges that Munday wrote him, stating that owing to newspaper criticism he desired to build up the bank's reserve, to which end he asked Mr. Cudahy to take up two notes, aggregating $25,000, before they were due. In his petition Cudahy alleges that he sent checks as requested, and states that the bank kept the money without returning the notes.

PRISONER SINCE 1881 IS PAROLED.

St. Louis, Mo., July 4.—John David Shea, 55 years old, who has been serving a life sentence in the Missouri penitentiary for the murder of Policeman Patrick Doran of St. Louis in 1881, was paroled by Governor Major yesterday on the recommendation of Speaker Champ Clarke, John T. Thomas, who was presiding judge at Shea's trial, and Rev. H. A. Geisert, a former chaplain of the Missouri penitentiary. The head of the local bertillon bureau reported two years ago that Shea was enfeebled in mind and body.

LILLIAN CONWAY'S SENTENCE CUT OFF.

Springfield, Ill., July 4.—Governor Dunne, acting on the recommendation of the state board of pardons, has commuted the sentence of Lillian B. Conway, an actress, who with her husband, Charles Newton Conway, was convicted of the murder of Miss Singer in Chicago and sentenced to life in the penitentiary. Her sentence will expire July 10.

TWO MEN IN CELLS FOR SAME CRIME.

Washington, July 4.—A case of two men serving sentences for the same crime was revealed when President Wilson signed a commutation which will open the doors of Leavenworth penitentiary to Samuel Soltrane, doing a life sentence there for a murder to which a prisoner in the Oklahoma state penitentiary recently confessed.

UNCLE SAM SUES FOR COAL FRAUD LOSSES

Demands $861,576 From the Western Fuel Company.

San Francisco, Cal., July 4.—The United States, through its attorney, John W. Preston, filed suit here yesterday against the Western Fuel company for the recovery of $861,576. This sum represents forty cargoes of coal fraudulently weighed since July 12, 1911.

John L. Howard, president of the Western Fuel company and seven other directors, officers and employes of the company, were indicted for conspiracy to defraud the government of customs due and drawbacks on imported coal, and for grossly overweighing coal delivered to the army transports. President Howard died within an hour after the government had completed its case, Jan. 22. The indictments against Robert Bruce and Sydney V. Smith, directors, and Joseph L. Schmidt, treasurer and director, were dismissed on the ground that their connection with the conspiracy had not been proved, and President Howard's name was similarly cleared after his death. But Samuel B. Smith, general manager, C. Milts, superintendent, and Edward J. Smith and Edward H. Mayers, weighers, were sentenced to prison terms of between a year and eighteen months. Their cases still are on appeal.

In the new suits Mr. Preston is suing for recovery of the full value of each cargo on which it was proved that the government had been defrauded. The original intent was to sue only for the amount of the actual loss, but in searching the books a statute was discovered making possible what amounts to punitive damages.

DUNSMUIR LOSES $1,500,000 IN SUIT

Mackenzie and Mann Win Before British Privy Council.

Vancouver, B. C., July 4.—James Dunsmuir, former lieutenant governor of British Columbia and the richest citizen of this province, loses a million and a half by an adverse judgment delivered by the privy council in London, the highest court in the British empire.

Two years ago Mr. Dunsmuir sold his coal mines on Vancouver island to Sir William Mackenzie and Sir Donald Mann for $11,000,000. The new owners allege that they bought the current account in the bank, as well as two steamers used in the coal carrying trade. Dunsmuir, a few days before the transfer, declared a dividend to himself which wiped out the bank balance of several hundred thousand dollars. He also contended that the coal mines alone were sold, and not the steamers.

The privy council has decided in favor of the new owners, with costs.

WILL DEDICATE NEW FLAG POLE

Patriotic Music and Reading of Declaration of Independence at Lester.

A patriotic program by the Third Regiment band, selections by the G. A. R. drum corps, the dedication of the new flag pole and the reading of the Declaration of Independence, constitute the program for the free open-air concert to be given at Lester Park tomorrow afternoon.

The band program prepared especially for the occasion was presented to Mayor Prince yesterday by Charles Helmer. It follows:

March—"Victorious America," Tobani; overture—"Zampa," Herold; selection — American National Airs, Lampe; Grand Fantasia—"Lohengrin," Wagner; march—"The Boy Scouts," Henneberg; Humoreske—"Coming Through the Rye," Bellstedt; (a) "Aloha," (b) "Lion Du Ball," Gillett; melodies—"Erminie," Jakobowski.

During an intermission the flag will be hoisted on the new pole prepared from a tree by Henry Cleveland, head of the city park department. Miss Agatha Norton will hoist the colors, after which the Declaration of Independence will be read by George H. Bush. The G. A. R. drum corps will then render a program in honor of Mr. Cleveland, who is a Civil war veteran.

CANANEA MINE STRIKE SETTLED.

Washington, July 4.—News that the miners' strike at Cananea, Mex., had been settled, the men returning to work today, satisfied with their agreement with the operators, has come to the state department through Vice Consul Bowman, at Nogales, from Consular Agent Montague. The dispatch said that with the exception of disturbances Wednesday when the miners prevented the departure of Supt. Kingdom from Cananea and caused him to seek safety in Consular Agent Montague's home, there had been no demonstrations.

New Trial Denied.

Federal Judge Morris yesterday denied the Cloquet Lumber company a new trial in the cast brought against it last winter by Granville A. Burns. The plaintiff was given a $28,000 judgment in his claim for damages, sought because the lumber company sold a considerable quantity of his timber. The court further ordered yesterday that all procedure in the case should be stayed until Aug. 1, in order that the defendant company may apply and perfect a writ of error, if it wishes to do so.

HICKEN MUST SHOW CAUSE

Cigar Dealer Alleges Discrimination in Enforcing Liquor Code.

Seeks Injunction Closing Former Partner's Place of Business.

Discrimination in the enforcement of the liquor laws is charged to W. A. Hicken, commissioner of public safety, in a writ of injunction which was sued out in district court yesterday afternoon by Harry A. Moore, a cigar store proprietor. Moore alleges that he was obliged to live up to the letter of the Hicken code but that Commissioner Hicken and the city council have not been so particular in enforcing the law against others, more particularly Frank M. Crouch, Moore's former business associate, and one E. J. Whalen, a saloonkeeper.

Through his attorney, Henry F. Greene, Moore yesterday afternoon secured an order from Judge Dancer directing the public safety commissioner, as well as other members of the city council to appear before the court on the morning of July 11 and show cause, if any there be, why they should not be enjoined from issuing a liquor license to Ed J. Whalen at 212 West Superior street on the grounds that the latter's premises do not meet the requirements of the Hicken liquor code. Frank M. Crouch, formerly in the cigar business with Moore, is also affected by the order. He is required to show cause why he should not be restrained from conducting a cigar business in the same place, unless alterations are made, provided liquor is sold there.

Moore not only charges that Commissioner Hicken has had full knowledge of the violation of the law in the case of Whalen and Crouch, but also asserts that both Crouch and Whalen are receiving financial aid from a brewery, the name of which is not disclosed in the pleadings filed yesterday.

Violating Code.

The claim is made by Moore that Whalen and Crouch have been violating the terms of the Hicken liquor code since shortly after May 1 and that Commissioner Hicken and other members of the city council are guilty in permitting the alleged violation.

In his complaint, Moore sets up that up to March 10 last, he and Crouch were engaged in business conducting a cigar store in front of a saloon at 212 West Superior street. On the date mentioned, the partnership was dissolved with the understanding, Moore claims, that Crouch would not conduct a cigar store at 212 West Superior street, which is adjoining. On the strength of this agreement, Moore contends, he fitted up a room at 210, spending $2,200 to do it.

Moore claims that it was solely because of his acquaintance with the provisions of the Hicken code and as a result of an alleged statement by the commissioner of public safety that a cigar store could not be conducted in front of the saloon at 212 West Superior street unless alterations were made that he went to the expense of fitting up the room at 210 West Superior street.

Despite the alleged agreement, Moore says, he has suffered a heavy loss because of the fact that patrons may enter the saloon by way of the store, a direct violation of the Hicken code, he alleges.

With reference to the saloon itself, Moore alleges that the room in which the sales are now made is more than six feet greater in width at the rear than in front and that the room in which cigars are sold is a different room from the saloon. This is cited as another violation of the liquor code. Even if the floor space were considered as one room, he says, the violation is just as clear, inasmuch as a partition dividing the store from the saloon "interferes with and prevents" an unobstructed view of the bar.

Moore also alleges that Whalen has mortgaged the fixtures of his saloon to a brewery, the true name of which he does not state, or to a representative of a brewing company. Moore expects to prove this at the hearing.

A Dainty Toilet Article.

Every lady who desires to keep up her attractive appearance while at the theater, attending receptions, when shopping, while traveling and on all occasions, should carry in her purse a booklet of Gouraud's Oriental Beauty Leaves. This is a dainty little booklet of exquisitely perfumed powdered leaves, which are easily removed and applied to the skin. It is invaluable when the face becomes moist and flushed, and is far superior to a powder puff, as it does not spill and soil the clothes.

It removes dirt, soot and grease from the face, imparts a cool delicate bloom to the complexion. Sent anywhere on receipt of 5 cents in stamps or coin.

MISUSE OF FUNDS SHUTS ILLINOIS BANK.

Macomb, Ill., July 4.—The Bank of Adair, a private concern at Adair, near here, closed yesterday and will liquidate. The failure, it is said, was caused by misappropriation of funds amounting to $50,000 or more. It is said the disclosure came through discovery of forged paper held by the Livestock Exchange National bank of Chicago.

The bank was owned by a co-partnership, including a number of wealthy farmers, and it is declared depositors will be paid in full.

10,000 DROWN AND MANY OTHERS STARVE.

Canton, July 4.—Reports received here say that 10,000 persons have been drowned in the West River floods, which this year are worse than usual, and that deaths from starvation in the same district have been numerous.

Gaskin's Work Creates Enthusiasm at Orpheum Pharmacy —Store Crowded the First Day

Gaskin's work the very first day at the Orpheum Pharmacy, 201 East Superior street, shows that the Quaker Herb Remedies are soon going to be found in almost every home in Duluth. As early as nine o'clock yesterday morning, people began calling on him, and for the remainder of the day he was kept busy answering questions regarding the remedies he is introducing here.

"It is most gratifying to me," said Gaskin, the Quaker Health Teacher, "to see the way the people are responding to my requests to try Quaker Herb Remedies. I am certain now that within a few more days reports will commence pouring in from many of those who are using the remedies, and which will startle the residents of the community. I know the action of Quaker Herb Extract and the Oil of Balm on the system, and also know from long years of experience that these remedies cure where all others have failed. I know that there is no better, surer or safer remedies in the country for the cure of catarrh, rheumatism, stomach, liver, kidney, and blood troubles than the Quaker, and I also know it is only a matter of a few days when people will be glad to proclaim, publicly, that they have received remarkable results from these remedies. My most particular desire is for those who suffer in the foregoing manner to call on me at the Orpheum Pharmacy, and obtain the remedies. I simply want people to use them for a few days and watch results. I will be at the drug store from 9 o'clock in the morning until 5 p. m. in the evening."

Mr. K. F. Herder, No. 70, Fowler street, Atlanta, Ga., who is employed as meat cutter at the Singleton market on Cone street, had stomach, liver troubles, badly constipated, had tried many treatments without the least benefit, but after taking Quaker Herb Extract a few days, said: "I feel like a new man."

Call on Gaskin today. He charges absolutely nothing to talk to you. Remember, he always proves all he says—and will give a bottle free to any one suffering with a tapeworm.

Just Between You and Me

By BRUCE

SEVERAL fights are on the pugilistic card for today. The one of the most interest to the followers of the sport in these immediate parts, is the Pal Brown-Frankie Whitney battle at Superior this evening. George Chip, the Pennsylvania coal miner, will meet Nilly Murray at San Francisco, and at the Vernon arena at Los Angeles Jose Rivers, the mercurial Mexican will swap punches with Matty McCue, the youngest protege of the Tom Jones stable.

Speaking from the local dias of sporting opinion rather momentous results are attendant upon the outcome of the meeting between Brown and Whitney. If Brown wins once more he will be the idol of the fistic followers of these parts; if Whitney wins the Southern lad has been promised a meeting with Charley White or Wolgast before the club across the bay.

Whitney came across the bay yesterday and visited some of the fans of this man's town.

"If Brown is easy to hit with a left," said Whitney, "I ought to win. He won't be able to hurt me, I don't believe. I have never been knocked down. I had Mandot down twice for the count and had the best of Charley White. I feel great and am confident of beating the local man."

Considerable interest is being expressed in the outcome of the battle between Chip and Murray. The usual interest attendant upon a fight has been augmented by the fact that Mike Gibbons is wanted to meet the winner. Another angle of the affair is that Chip is generally looked upon as the logical contender for the title, and this despite the fact that he was knocked out at the hands of Al McCoy.

The fight world would have waited with impatience for the returns from the Wolgast-Rivers fight. The Dutchman broke his arm and the battle is off. Just how good Matty McCue is, few of the fans are aware of. About the only real and genuine item of interest in connection with the Los Angeles battle, is the question of the ability of McCue.

A Break in the Rampart.

ONE of the chief points of pride of the Federal league folks has been the contention that the upstart circuit was on the general plane of efficiency of the American and National leagues. This past week, the Wards, coarse and unfeeling breadmakers, possessed of millions and in the unfeeling habit of making money and not losing it, put down the prices of the Brooklyn Federal league park to the plebian level of two bits.

Johnny rising in the rear: "Did the Wards put down the price of baseball, teacher, because of their love for the poor fan, and because they thought the price to the games was too high?"

Teacher truthfully replying, as teachers always do: "No Johnny, teacher cannot tell a lie, although the cherry tree and other historical settings are absent. The Wards reduced the price of admission to their park because of the fact that most of the people had apparently forgotten of the existence of the Federal league park in Brooklyn."

Here is about the first and incidentally the most potent admission that the Feds are not on the level with the two majors. In this age and generation money is the criterion from which the game is judged. Here we behold the more or less illuminating spectacle of business men reducing the price of baseball admission because they need the money—or, more appropriate, like the money.

Listen—just because the Wards are in the bread business, don't get the idea that they are philanthropists. Nay, nay, it would be erroneous, little one.

The fact is that in many cases the teams of the new league are not drawing.

On the Other Side.

TAKE in England, for instance—a minister of the gospel acted as master of ceremonies at one of the boxing contests the other evening.

Let's cross the English channel to France. Women—the dispatches claim society in connection—attend the scraps and the celebrities of the continent, such as Maeterlinck, the Belgian poet; Auguste Rodin, one of the most famous sculptors in the world; Jean Richepin, the French poet, and others famous on the continent and in the halls of the world, are at the ringside.

England is mad over the fight game. The love of struggle runs in the veins of the Anglo-Saxon. Of old, England was the home of the boxer. Of late the fighters of the British soil have been the butt of the punsters of the press. And despite the reverses of years England is more enthusiastic than ever over the boxing game.

A young Englishman stopped in the midst of a constitutional the other day and put it to us thusly:

"We are good sportsmen. We have lost and expect to lose again, but we love the game and are going to develop a champion."

Boxing or prizefighting, whatever you are of a mind to call it, must be viewed more calmly upon the British side of the brine. In this great and exceedingly free thinking land of ours, there is a rabid reform element that is trying tenaciously and with energy that is entitled to commendation in any cause, to eliminate the sport for all time. In England a pastor acts as the master of ceremonies—in France the most famous personages of the day lend at least implied approval of the sport by attending.

The viewpoint of the races upon either side of the broad Atlantic is such as to call forth comment.

The American Victory.

IN the wake of the disastrous results at Sandwich, England, where the golfing pride of the United States was lowered by the British, and at Meadowbrook, where our polo-ists took the count from the dominating skill of the English cousins, comes with refreshing news reception the information that the Grand Challenge rowing cup of the Henley association is to leave the British possession and come to the friendly shores of the U. S. A.

In Duluth in particular the interest in the races on the Thames was out of the ordinary, because of the fact that Cornellius Riley was piloting his gallant eight through the trials. Here the followers of rowing are more or less familiar with Con and the members of his eight.

That Harvard has some eight we know; any crew that drives the nose of its shell over the line ahead of the gallant Canadians, is some aggregation, now take it directly from us.

This feat was one of the hoped for accomplishments of our 1914 senior eight, but the Henley bug upon the part of Con and his associates pushed the dream out of the circle of golden contemplation.

If Con lives and rows another season, then let us hope that the feat of Duluth defeating the Winnipeg senior eight will be listed on the victory-covered walls of the local club.

GRINA WINS FROM SNOW

White Sox Hurler Defeats Grand Forks By 1-to-0 Score.

Saxon's Pride Holds Slugging Flickertails to Four Small Hits.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 4.—In a pitching duel between Grina and Snow the Duluth hurler won out, the White Sox taking the second game of the series from the Flickertails by the count of 1 to 0.

While Snow twirled great baseball, the youngster from the wheat fields of Dakota had much the better of the argument. A great running one-handed spear of a line hit from the bat of Bond, with two men on the bags, saved Snow from a bad place early in the game.

In the eighth round Jerry Edmunds was walked and Grina sent his battery mate on to second with a sacrifice. Brackett's out at first advanced the runner to third, and a sharp single by Croake counted the only score of the game.

RED SOX LOSE ANOTHER GAME

Fort William Wins From Woe-Begones By 6-to-3 Count.

Fort William defeated Superior yesterday by the score of 6 to 3. Furchner was on the mound for the invaders and pitched steady baseball, though the Red Sox accumulated ten hits off the delivery of the visiting twirler. Cummings had one bad round, the first, when five runs came across. After this the California product tightened and hurled nice baseball:

Champions Win Twice.

Philadelphia, July 4.—Errors were responsible for all of the runs scored in yesterday's double-header here, Philadelphia defeating New York twice, 2 to 0, and 1 to 0. In the first contest, which was a duel between Bender and Warhop, Philadelphia had runners on third and second with two out in the fourth inning, when Boone fumbled a grounder by McInnis, Murphy scoring. Boone threw to Maisel to catch Collins, who turned third at full speed, and when Maisel muffed the throw Collins scored. In the second game, the lone tally was obtained in the seventh on a pass to Lapp, Shawkey's sacrifice, Murphy's out and Maisel's wild throw on Oldring's grounder. Shawkey held New York to three scattered hits. Scores:

DEEP SEA FISH IS CAUGHT IN THE RIVER.

Clement Netzel, who lives in West Duluth, caught a rock sturgeon in the channel of the St. Louis river Thursday. What is so remarkable about the fact is that rock sturgeon is a deep sea fish and has seldom been seen in local waters. Rock sturgeons sometimes weigh as much as 200 pounds. The fish caught by young Netzel was a small one, about two feet in length. According to the statement of several fishermen the catch of Netzel is the first made in Duluth, so far as the local records go. The fish was caught with an ordinary hook.

WILL NOT PAY PLAYERS' EXPENSES

National Commission Dismisses Appeal of Oakland Players.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 4.—The national baseball commission yesterday sustained the ruling of the national board, and dismissed the appeal of the players of the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast league for living expenses during the three weeks for which they are engaged in schedule games as the visiting team at San Francisco.

The commission held that all Pacific Coast league players signed contracts for 1914 with full knowledge that San Francisco and Oakland and Los Angeles and Venice take turns as the home club at San Francisco and Los Angeles, respectively, and that the Oakland players and the men on the other teams are entitled to their living expenses only while actually on the road in the service of their clubs.

TWENTY IN AUTO RACE.

Speed Kings Compete for Prize of $25,000 at Sioux City.

Sioux City, Iowa, July 4.—The $25,000 cash prize which has been hung up for the 300-mile automobile race here today, will be fought for by twenty drivers, many of whom were well known stars in the racing game. The two-mile dirt track is in excellent condition for the long grind which started at 11 a. m., and predictions are made that dirt track records will fall before the contest ends.

WILL PLAY FINAL ROUND.

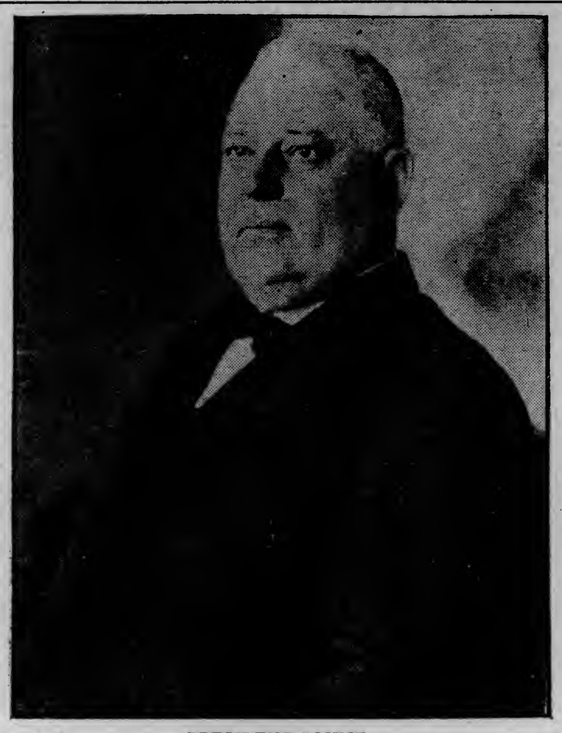

Armstrong and Murray in Delaware Tennis Contest.

Wilmington, Del., July 4.—Robert L. Murray of California, metropolitan champion, and Joseph J. Armstrong of Minnesota, the Middle West champion will meet today in the final round of the Delaware state championship lawn tennis tournament. In the semi-final round yesterday Armstrong defeated Wallace W. Johnson in a brilliantly played and closely contested match, 6-4, 9-7, while the Californian easily defeated Alexander D. Thayer, 6-2, 6-1.

President Harry Blume of the Duluth Baseball association declared that the White Sox will make a strong bid for the Northern league pennant. If the present team is not capable of making a grand bid, Mr. Blume declares that negotiations will be started for additional players. However, the local baseball association president believes that the team will be up with the league leaders before the coming at home series is ended.

BROKEN THUMB BOON TO COBB

Slump of Rivals and Forced Idleness Give Him Batting Lead.

Chicago, July 4.—Ty Cobb's idleness forced on him by a broken thumb, while his rivals slumped, put him in first place among the batters of the American league, according to averages published here yesterday. His percentage is 349. The next nine batters in the American league are: C. E. Walker, St. Louis, .342; Baker, Philadelphia, .328; Crawford, Detroit, .324; Jackson, Cleveland, .323; E. Collins, Philadelphia, .314; Speaker, Boston, .301; Lelivelt, Cleveland, .297; R. L. Wood, Cleveland, .291, and Milan, Washington, .288.

Maisel of New York leads in stolen bases with 27; ranked according to games won and lost; Plank, Philadelphia, with 8 and 2; Leonard, Boston, with 10 and 3, and Pennock, Philadelphia and Wood, Boston, with one each, lead the pitchers.

E. Burns of Philadelphia is leading batter on the National league. His average for twenty-four games is .395. Next come Rumimel, Brooklyn, .352; Dalton, Brooklyn, .339; Grant, New York, .337; Byrne, Philadelphia, .327; Becker, Philadelphia, .320; G. Burns, New York, .312; Devore, Philadelphia, .308; Connolly, Boston, .306; Daubert, Brooklyn, .306. Philadelphia leads in team hitting with .267 and New York is next with .266. Herzog of Cincinnati is ahead in stolen bases with 27. Mathewson is setting the pace for pitchers with 13 won and 3 lost, and Pfeffer, Brooklyn, and Doak, St. Louis, are credited with 7 victories and 2 defeats each.

In the Federals, Charlie Carr, Indianapolis, continues the leader with .419. Next are Kauff, Indianapolis, .402; Evans, Brooklyn, .373; Campbell, Indianapolis, .363; Easterly, Kansas City, .353; Lennox, Pittsburg, .343; Bradley, Pittsburg, .343; Crandall, St. Louis, .343; Walsh, Baltimore, .337; Quinn, Baltimore, .327.

Indianapolis with .296 and Baltimore with .278 lead in club batting; Kauff holds stolen base honors with 32. Top-notchers among the pitchers are: Kaiserling, Indianapolis, with 6 wins and 1 defeat; Ford, Buffalo, with 10 and 2, and Quinn, Baltimore, 11 and 4.

John Titus, Kansas City, is the American association leader with .458 for 25 games. Then come Kirke, Cleveland, .351; V. Clemons, Louisville, .350; Severeid, Louisville, .348; W. Hinchman, Columbus, .346; Compton, Kansas City, .346; Killifer, Minneapolis, .344; Lake, Minneapolis, .342; Karger, St. Kansas City is leading in club batting Paul, .333; Paddock, St. Paul, .332, with .282 and Cleveland and Minneapolis with .272 each next. Wortman of Kansas City continues to set the pace in base stealing with 26. Dougherty, Milwaukee, with 8 victories and 1 defeat, is leading the pitchers, and next to him are Gallia, Kansas City, 9 and 2, and Laroy, Indianapolis, 7 and 2.

WANAMAKER FLYER GIVEN NEW TEST

Hammondsport, N. Y., July 4.—The America, the Rodman Wanamaker trans-Atlantic flyer, was taken out for a short run last evening with George Hallett at the wheel. Some wide hydroboards were attached to the hull yesterday, but as they were not completed, it could not be determined what effect their addition would have.

Glenn Curtiss says the machine can rise easily with fuel supply enough to last twenty-four hours but he wishes to increase its carying capacity if possible in the short time remaining for experiments.

BREAK SPEED BOAT RECORD

Kittyhawk VI Makes Fast Time in Mississippi Valley Races.

Peoria, Ill., July 4.—All American speed boat records fell yesterday afternoon at the second day's racing of the Mississippi Valley association when Kittyhawk VI, owned by H. H. Timken of Canton, Ohio, covered a down-stream mile in 1:06, or at a speed of 54.4 miles an hour. The best record for a down-stream performance was held by Baby Reliance III, driven by James J. Ryan of Cincinnati at Davenport, Iowa, two years ago, when he covered the distance at a 53.7 gait.

The first heat of the Class E event brought out nine starters. In scoring down just as the gun was fired for a start, A. K., No. 2, owned and driven by N. J. Kenney of Peoria, was caught in the swirl behind Spot and Warren Groat, and capsized. The drivers were rescued and the boat raised shortly afterwards. Spot, owned by Thomas J. Stracey of New York city, took a long lead in this race and crossed the finish line of the twenty-mile grind in 33.35½, or at an average of 35.7 miles an hour. Warren Groat came in an easy second, having negotiated the twenty miles in 36:24, or at a 32.3 gait.

Warren Groat took the fifteen-mile first heat, Class C, from Little Leading Lady in easy fashion.

Cleaning up on the Class B event Warren Groat of Chicago, winner of the first heat Thursday, took the second heat, and the event yesterday afternoon by winning over P. D. Q. IV of Burlington, Tormentor of St. Louis and Ugly Duckling of Davenport. The ten miles were covered in 20:14 1-5.

British Field Events.

London, July 4.—Stamford Bridge athletic field was the scene today of the contests for the British championship in track and field events. About a dozen American athletes were entered.

The championships comprised nineteen events. The entries totaled about 240.

GREAT CROWD AT AUTO RACE

Thousands Go to Sioux City Course to See $25,000 Prize Contest.

Twenty Drivers Are Entered; Speedway in Fine Condition.

Sioux City, Iowa, July 4.—Sioux City today was the magnet for thousands who came to see the 300-mile automobile race for a $25,000 purse.

Twenty drivers, many of them of international fame, were ready to start with the explosion of a bomb dropped from a circling biplane at 11 o'clock this morning.

Since yesterday noon a huge ten-ton steam roller has been ironing out the track with the result that when the cars start on the long race they will be traveling on a perfect speedway—a track said to be faster by far than any dirt track ever traveled over by a racing machine.

French Club Race.

Lyons, France, July 4.—Thirty-seven racing automobiles, representing Italy, England, Belgium, France and Germany, started today in the race for the grand prize of the Automobile Club of France over a course of 467.6 miles.

There were no American entries. Their absence is attributed here to their recent defeat at Indianapolis by the French competitors.

AMERICAN CREWS MEET IN FINALS

Henley on Thames, July 4.—All doubt as to the destination of the grand challenge cup this year was dispelled yesterday when the Union Boat club of Boston defeated the Mayence Rowing club and the Harvard second eight beat Winnipeg in the semi-final round.

The prediction of Robert F. Herrick, the American coach, has thus come true and the two American crews will row up the course here today in the final.

Both American combinations did the distance of one mile, 550 yards in the fast time of 7 minutes flat, which had been beaten only on three previous occasions. Their performances, therefore, give promise of a great race today, although the Englishmen prefer Harvard's style and condition to that of Boston.

After yesterday's race Abeles, the coxswain of the Boston crew, said:

"We got all the lead we ever attained in the first fifty strokes. We could not get away from them."

Catter, the stroke, said:

"Those Germans can row."

Harvard and Boston row off at 4:15 o'clock this afternoon and then Lady Hambledon will present the prizes.

To make matters worse for the English oarsmen, the diamond sculls, the next most important prize of the regatta, seems almost certain to go to Italy, as Giuseppe Sinigaglia has easily disposed of every oarsmen he has met, including Robert Dible of Toronto, American champion, and is expected to have no difficulty in defeating C. M. Stuart, Trinity, in the final today.

Englishmen make no attempt to hide their chagrin at this successful invasion of a sport, which until recent years, they considered exclusively their own. However, they are still getting a lot of enjoyment out of the regatta by cheering the college crews in the minor events and looking on with admiration at the super oarsmanship of the Americans and the sculling of the Italian.

The only thing now left to the Englishmen is the Henley record of 6 minutes, 51 seconds, in which time the race has een rowed three times. The Americans will go after this record today.

WINS SWIMMING HONORS

Ludy Langer Takes Lead Over Honolulu Champion.

San Francisco, July 4.—Duke Kahanamoku of Honolulu, holder of many world's swimming records, finished second last night in the first half-mile race of his career.

Ludy Langer, Los Angeles Athletic club, won, bettering his own Pacific coast record with a new one of 11:46 1-5. H. Hebner, Illinois A. C., finished third.

In the third heat of the 100-yard dash, A. C. Rapel of the Illinois Athletic club, swam the distance in 55 15 seconds, three-fifths of a second slower than the world's record held by Kahanamoku.

P. McGillvray, entered in the half-mile, did not swim.

Bouts Are Legalized.

New Orleans, La., July 4.—After a lapse of more than twenty years, twenty-round boxing contests under the auspices of chartered clubs were legalized in Louisiana yesterday when Governor Hall, at Baton Rouge, signed a bill limiting glove contests to twenty rounds instead of ten.

HOERR WINS AT TENNIS.

Jones Is Eliminated From Central States' Tourney.

St. Louis, Mo., July 4.—Chadles Van Reppert and Roland Hoerr, both of St. Louis, met on the Triple A courts here today to battle for the central states tennis championship. Later in the day Hoerr with Drummond Jones, who hold the doubles championship, were scheduled to defend the title against Van Reppert and G. C. Holthaus.

St. Louis, July 4.—Drummond Jones of St. Louis, defender of the Central States' tennis championship was eliminated from the finals of the Central States' tournament in his defeat yesterday at the hands of his playing partner, Roland Hoerr.

Hoerr will figure in the finals today, both for the singles and doubles championship.

JIMMY GETS HITCHED.

Former Duluth Boxer Takes Unto Himself a Wife.

St. Ignace, Mich., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Walter T. Bell, known in the boxing world as "Jimmy Brady," and who, it is claimed, has yet to meet his master in the fistic arena, has been vanquished by Dan Cupid. He has joined the ranks of the benedicts. His bride was Miss Lillian McLaughlin, daughter of Richard McLaughlin of St. Ignace. The marriage, announcements of which are now being received by friends, took place at Detroit last Saturday. A honeymoon is being spent in the East, after which the couple will make their home in Chicago. "Brady" is regarded by boxing authorities as a comer. He has been victor in many a bout. He is a prime favorite in Northern Michigan, both within the ring and out of it.

Crowds at Regatta.

Henley on Thames, July 4.—The fourth and last day of the Royal regatta attracted a large attendance. In the final heat of the Grand Challenge cup, two American eights, the Union Boat club of Boston and the Harvard university second crew met for the possession of the valued trophy.

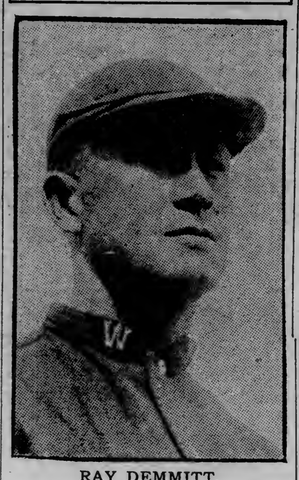

Canoe Race Scheduled.

St. Louis, Mo., July 4.—A twenty-mile canoe race in the Meramec river considered one of the most treacherous streams in Missouri, was scheduled for this afternoon by the Highland Canoe club of St. Louis county.

Masonics Are Winners.

The Y. M. H. baseball team was beaten yesterday by the Masonics by the score of 8 to 6. The contest was a pitchers battle between Walt and Cohen. Walt and Karon were the battery for the Masonics and Cohen and Bennett for the losers.

NEW OUTFIELDER OF CHICAGO WHITE SOX

RAY DEMMITT.

Charley Comiskey of the Chicago White Sox secured Demmitt from the Detroit Tigers at the waiver price. The work of the young player in the outfield of the White Sox has been so good that some of the critics of the game have declared that he is one of the best young outfielders in the game. Demmitt may in time prove another of the great regrets of Hughey Jennings. Every time anyone mentions the name of Archer, Jennings sighs deeply and with infinite regret.

BRACKETT RANKS HIGH IN RACE FOR SWAT HONORS

Duluth Player Is Hitting at .339, With Bond Close Behind.

Sundheim Is Real League-Leader—Dougan of Winnipeg Leading Pitcher.

Agnew of Virginia is leading the hitters of the Northern league. The real leader of the league is Johnny Sundheim of the same team, the recently appointed manager of the Ore Diggers. Agnew is cracking the ball at the high percentage of .467, but his performance is figured only upon five games. Sundheim has taken part in forty-six and is belting the spheroid at a .365 clip.

Brackett leads the Duluth hitters at the clip of .339 and Bond is hitting at .331, Jimmy Collins is flailing away at .315 and Dad Ford is among the high ones with a percentage of .286.

Dougan of Winnepeg leads the pitchers of the Burmeister circuit. Clarence Grina is the leading Duluth pitcher, with Cunningham next in order among the local moundsmen.

The fielding averages of the league show Weidel of Fort William and Flaherty of Grand Forks with errorless records.

THE UNION BOAT CLUB EIGHT

The Union Boat Club of Boston Sent to England a Crew Composed of Former Captains and Varsity Men From Harvard, to Row at the Famous Henley Regatta.

FORD MILEAGE

Detroit, Mich., July 4.—Salesmanager N. A. Hawkins of the Ford Motor company has some interesting figures in regard to Ford mileage. He says:

"There are now 500,000 Fords in use. Each one certainly averages no less than twenty miles daily for twelve months in the year. These 500,000 Fords, therefore are traveling and showing themselves over a stretch of 10,000,000 miles each day, or 300,000,000 miles each month, or 3,600,000,000 miles each year.

"This is a distance equal to 144,000 times around the world.

"If these 500,000 Model T's started on a tour around the world and kept within half a mile of each other they would encircle the globe ten times."

DILLON GETS DECISION.

Wins Over Petroskey in Ten-Round Bout.

Kansas City, Mo., July 4.—Jack Dillon of Indianapolis was awarded the decision over Ed (Sailor) Petroskey of California at the end of a ten-round bout here last night.

The middleweights battled with even honors until the seventh round, when Dillon scored a knockdown. Petroskey was up quickly but the Indianapolis boy had the better of the fight from then on.

AUTO MEN WANT ROAD LEGISLATION

Congress Has Chance to Win Popular Favor, Says A. A. A. Man.

"That congress will adjourn and go into the fall elections without grasping the opportunity to win overwhelming popular approval by the enactment of Federal road legislation seems unbelievable," is the comment of Dr. H. M. Rowe of Baltimore, first vice president and acting president of the American Automobile association during the European absence of John A. Wilson of Franklin, Pa.

"Rumors are afloat, however," he said, "that good roads legislation will be laid on the table at this session of congress, through a declination on the part of the senate committee on postoffices and post roads to report the measure which overwhelmingly came to it from the house. If this is the case, the Democratic party is disregarding a chance to achieve a brilliant strategic advantage in the coming election.

"The voters in the rural districts are almost unanimous in favor of Federal aid to roads. They are expecting and demanding such aid. Such opposition as exists is feeble and half-hearted.

"Tariff legislation, currency reform, canal tolls, anti-trust bills, are all storm centers of discussion, but however important may be the policies advocated by the party in power, they are far removed from the direct interests of the people, and in effect create only targets for the fire of the opposition. To neutralize the attack which is sure to come, the party in power should not overlook this golden chance to win the affection and support of the country voters.

"If the Democratic party passes this opportunity up there will be many an anxious moment for the stump speaker when he tries to explain why, in all the multitude of legislative enactments, good roads were overlooked."

CAR PRICES BY POUND.

Olds Motor Manager Puts Auto on Basis of Food.

J. V. Hall, sales manager of Olds Motor works, Lansing, Mich., asks "How much per pound is a fair price for a motor car?" He says:

"When I tell a prospective purchaser or dealer that the new Oldsmobile model 42 weighs under 2,600 pounds and sells for $1,350, I make quite a dent in his sub-consciousness—but when I tell him that the price is 50 cents per pound I get him figuring. The eggs he eats cost that much per dozen in certain localities, the clothes he wears cost more than that per yard, his steaks and certain other meats cost as much per pound—most people have figured that an automobile is an expensive article, but when you resolve it into pound units it is about the cheapest commodity for the amount of utility and pleasure which it gives of any.

"The man who buys good substantial shoes and clothing will readily see the value of the pound price in an Oldsmobile light car, because at 50 cents per pound he is buying the best material the market affords in every particular.

"Consider that a man has a daily trip of forty miles going from his house to his office and back, conservatively his fares would average about 30 cents daily—if he understood driving he could make the same trip in a light car for the same amount of money expended in gasoline, in less time and have the added pleasure and benefit of riding in the open. There are so many ways in which a motor car can be made to do the same work as the trolley or train at less cost and more enjoyment, that the very nature of its economy should recommend itself to every thoughtful man. I grant you that a heavy, high priced car is more of a luxury, but I am just giving a few comparative figures on the economy of the low priced, high grade car."

BOSTON TO HAVE ONLY THE FORD

Mayor Curley Will Make Small Car the Official Machine.

Detroit, Mich., July 4. — Ford runabouts will be purchased for all employes of the city of Boston who are provided with cars in the future, according to a pronunciamiento issued recently by Mayor Curley of that city.

"I have decided to make the Ford runabout the official car under my administration," the mayor declared. "It doesn't cost so much to buy, and can be operated twenty miles on a gallon of gasoline. By discarding the heavy cars now in use and putting in an equipment of Fords, the city will save several thousands of dollars without impairing in any way its automobile service.

"The old method of paying a fancy price for a city automobile, then having an outlay of $3,600 for repairs, and finally selling the machine for $450 at public auction doesn't make for economy." The mayor referred to an experience the city had with one big machine. At present the city of Boston owns about seventy-five automobiles, ranging in price from $3,500 down to $1,800. These will be replaced with Fords as soon as the change can be made.

Mayor Curley is bound to stamp out joy-riding by the city employes. A short time ago he opened up a municipal garage where all the city's automobiles must be placed at night and from which they cannot be taken after darkness falls without a written permit. Boston is following the example of Kansas City which a short time ago sold eleven heavy cars at public auction and replaced them with an equipment of Fords.

WHY THEY MAKE GOOD.

Overland Representative Adopts Unique Substitute for Rules.

Instead of making a set of rules for his employes and hanging them up, a Western representative of the Overland has compiled a list of reasons "Why I Am Making Good." These are printed on the pay envelopes, and in signing at the end of each week every man puts down his name under this list of reasons:

I keep constantly on my toes and give the best there is in me.

I believe in the house I work for and in the merits of the goods it handles.

I am an asset because I constantly earn more than they pay me.

I come to business on time in the morning and take the proper amount of time for lunch.

I do not stall; when I am out, the house knows I am doing business.

When going out I always leave word where I can be found and at what time I will return, and I always see to it that I am back at that time.

I keep myself constantly in a pleasant mood and boost everyone connected with our organization.

I keep my eyes and ears open at all times in an endeavor to avail myself of every opportunity to save the house time or money.

I do not wear my hat in the salesroom.

I do not smoke in the building except in the room set apart for that purpose.

I practice neatness and economy at every opportunity.

Some day I will have a business of my own, and I shall expect the same efficiency from my men that I am now giving.

MOTORCYCLE NOTES

"A two-months open-air picnic," is the term used by Mrs. Rachel Foster Avery of Philadelphia, in describing the motorcycle tour of the continent which she and her daughter, Miss Julie Avery, are planning for this summer.

Miss Avery will graduate from the College of Agriculture of Wisconsin in 1915. Mrs. Avery is also a special student at the same school, and when they have finished their studies there they expect to take up farming near Philadelphia. While on the contenent, the Averys will study agricultural conditions, will visit the home of the Aldernew and Guernsey cattle on the Channel Islands, and the Holsteins and Dutch Belted in Brittany and Holland. In many of these places garage accommodations will probably be very limited, and the motorcycle will be of advantage as it can be housed in a very small space. It was partly on this account that Mrs. Avery chose the motorcycle to carry them on their tour; also because the cost of upkeep of the two-wheeler is less than that of even a small automobile.

The motorcycle on which Mrs. Avery and Miss Avery will ride is equipped with a sidecar, also a luggage carrier on which they will carry necessary clothing and a well fitted lunch box. And they expect to spend most of the time out of doors when the weather permits.

Mrs. Avery and her daughter are very enthusiastic about their trip, and are as enthusiastic about the motorcycle as they are about the opportunities offered by farming. And they believe that the two-wheeler will be of great value when they have completed their course at the university and take up farming as a business.

The route which the veteran motorcyclists will take in their two-day endurance run to the St. Louis convention of the Federation of American Motorcyclists has just been announced. These old-time riders—50 strong—will chug out of Chicago at 5 o'clock on the morning of July 14. The first control will be Crown Point, Indiana. From there the tourists will journey south through Rensselaer, LaFayette, Crawfordsville and to Terre Haute, where they will spend the night. On the morning of July 15 this unique cavalcade will continue its journey south to Vincennes, Ind., and from there will head directly west across Illinois to St. Louis. They expect to reach the convention city on the evening of the fifteenth. Silver cups and trophies will be awarded the old-time riders making the most consistent performances on the entire run.

Twenty-six of the fastest and most fearless riders of the country will compete for the $1,000 award ofered to the winner of the 300-mile motorcycle race at Dodge City on July 4. The two-mile oval at Dodge City has been put in perfect condition, the course oiled and the turns slightly banked; new grandstands are being erected to accommodate the large crowd that is expected to attend the meet, and everything is being put in readiness for one of the greatest speed carnivals of the year. Among the well-known dirt track riders who have entered are: Bob Perry, E. G. Baker, Maldwyn Jones; Carl Goudy, Ray Creviston, Don Johns and Ray Seymour. A number of other entries are expected.

One of the principal features of the first annual convention of the Michigan Federation of American Motorcyclists, held at Bay City last week, was the 183-mile endurance run, which was won by I. F. Jacobs on a two-speed Yale.

Jacobs has been in some of the biggest endurance runs in the country and has won several of them; but predictions were freely made that neither he nor any of the other eighteen starters would finish with a perfect score.

Those predictions were almost fulfilled, as Jacobs had the only perfect score and but four other contestants managed to finish at all.

Indiana motorcyclists are tuning up their machines for the third annual 100-mile race of the Indianapolis Motorcycle club, which will be held July 4 at the Indiana state fair grounds track. An effort will be made to break the previous 100-mile record of 95:07, made by E. G. Baker.

A 24-hour endurance run will be held July 3 and 4, by the Worcester (Mass.) Motorcycle Club.

TRACKS TRANSFERRED TO PANAMA RAILROAD.

Panama, July 4.—The canal government has gone out of the railroad business through the transfer to the Panama railroad of practically all of the tracks and transportation facilities which were operated in connection with the canal building. The only facilities not given up are the tracks on the locks, required for towing locomotives, and a few isolated stretches about Balboa. The transportation division of the Panama railroad has been placed in charge of F. R. Blount, former trainmaster, as superintendent.

ARE PREPARING FOR PANAMA EXPOSITION.

Panama, July 4.—All of the thirty-five acres of ground which have been set aside for the Panama National exposition to commemorate next fall the 400th anniversary of Balboa's discovery of the Pacific, have been cleared and graded, and the cornerstones of numerous buildings have been laid. The Cuban building is the first of the foreign structures to be started. The exposition is to open in November.

MRS. R. F. AVERY AND DAUGHTER.

DULUTH'S OLDEST PIONEER IS 79 YEARS OLD AND CAME TO CITY FIFTY-NINE YEARS AGO

MR. AND MRS. E. H. HALL.

To E. H. Hall of 5411 Regent street, Lakeside, belongs the distinction of being the dean of Duluth's pioneers.

Mr. Hall is now 79 years old and has lived continuously in Duluth since he was a boy of 20. He is, without doubt, the oldest living old settler of the city.

In spite of his advanced years, Mr. Hall is enjoying the best of health. The same is true of Mrs. Hall who has been his life's companion for the last fifty-two years. They celebrated their golden wedding anniversary two years ago last month.

Mr. Hall and John G. Rakowsky, Duluth's oldest old soldier, whose death occurred on April 28, 1914, shared equally in the distinction of being the oldest pioneers. Both came here in 1855 and at about the same time.

Mr. Hall is the son of George Hall, first mayor of Brooklyn, N. Y. He was born in Brooklyn in 1835. He came West when a boy of 20 and landed in Superior, Jan. 1, 1855, walking from St. Paul to the Head of the Lakes with a party consisting of Edmund F. Ely, Freeman Keene, Hiram Hayes, Frank Collins and Dr. William Mayo. Dr. Mayo was the father of the well known physicians of Rochester, Minn.

When 21 years of age, Mr. Hall made his pre-emption claim. It included what is now know as Hall's addition in Hazelwood park, Duluth. Mr. Ely and Mr. Hall named the town of Oneota, which afterwards became incorporated into the city of Duluth.

Has Seen Public Service.

In the pioneer history of Duluth and West Duluth Mr. Hall played a more or less prominent part. He was five times alderman in West Duluth, where he has lived most of the time. Within the last two years he has moved to Lakeside. Mr. Hall was on the school board when the Duluth Central high school was built and his name is engraved among the others on the vestibule slab. While on the school board, Mr. Hall was instrumental in having the following schools built: Oneota, Irving, Fairmont, Smithville and Midway.

When the Merritts were in control of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway and the mines of the Mesaba range, Mr. Hall was secretary of all of the iron mine companies, which were later absorbed by the steel corporation.

Mr. Hall also claims the distinction of having lived to see seven generations, which is rather extraordinary. The last is his great grandchild, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Firman, Mrs. Firman being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Swanstrom of 2031 East Sixth street, who in turn is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hall. The Halls are parents of two sons and two daughters.

One of Mr. Hall's most treasured possessions is a hornbeam wood cane, which belonged to his grandfather. It was brought from Ireland to this country in 1795. Mr. Hall says that it helps to keep him up.

CITY A BIG CAR OWNER

Municipality Has Twenty-Three Pieces of Motor-Driven Apparatus.

Fire Department Has Nine Machines and the Police Five.

No small garage could house the motor apparatus now owned by the city of Duluth.

The municipality is operating twenty-three pieces of motor equipment including three motorcycles and these will likely be increased with two more in a short time.

The fire department leads with nine machines. The police department has five; the water and light department, five; the works department, three, and the health department, one.

The fire department is being motorized as rapidly as the funds will permit. Expenditure has shown that the gasoline apparatus can cover more ground in less time and is more economical than horse-drawn equipment. The last secured were two triple-combination chemical, hose and gasoline engines. One was stationed at No. 4 house, Fourteenth avenue east and Second street, and the other at No. 8, Central avenue and Cody street, West Duluth. They cost $9,000 each but the city was allowed $3,500 for two old steamers which were traded in.

Lakeside has a combination chemical and hose motor and another is installed at headquarters. The salvage corps has a high-powered machine. Each of the three chiefs uses an automobile. That of the chief is a touring car and those of the first and second assistants each carry a large chemical tank with plenty of hose. The department recently bought an old motor patrol from the police department and is remodeling it into a motor supply wagon.

Aerial Truck.

Commissioner Hicken is now planning to purchase a motor-driven and motor-operated aerial truck from the American La France company. The cost is $10,500 but $1,000 will be allowed for the old truck now in use. Finance Commissioner Voss objects to the immediate purchase of this machine. He admits that it would increase the department's efficiency and save money but he maintains that a greater saving could be made by devoting money now available for other purposes.

The police department will be completely motorized in a short time, and has no horses at the present time. A big Franklin touring car and a Kissel patrol are stationed at headquarters. New Duluth has a new four-passenger Ford an dtwo motorcycles, but one of the latter may be sold shortly. West Duluth will soon be equipped with a Ford similar to that at New Duluth.

The water and light department has five machines. An Overland runabout is used by the manager and a five-passenger E. M. F. by the engineering crew. The maintenance branch of the department has two large trucks which are in constant service. The department has one motorcycle.

The works division has two touring cars, an Overland and a Studebaker and the sewer gang has a large truck. The Overland is used by Maintenance Supt. James G. Lawson and the Studebaker by the city engineering department.

The health department has a Ford runabout. Neither the division of public affairs nor the finance division has any motor equipment.

Most of the repair work on the city machines is done at the central repair shop in the rear of No. 3 fire hall, First avenue east and Third street. Bills for the actual cost of the work are rendered to the various departments for the work which they have done.

PALESTINE LODGE PICNIC JULY 11

Master Masons Plan a Lively Day at Fond du Lac.

The members of Palestine lodge, No. 79, have planned a lively and merry day for July 11, the date of their picnic at Fond du Lac.

So many prizes have been donated that the committee on sports and amusements has been forced to call a special meeting to rearrange the list of events, and many novel and entertaining features have been added.

The baseball game between the married and the single men is proving a great matrimonial booster. Every married man in the lodge is a committee unto himself, instructed to get young blood on the team. They are going so far as to offer to furnish one room, if the prospective benedicts will rush matters a little so as to be eligible by the eleventh.

As to the tug-of-war, the married men say it is already settled.

The lunch basket is an important item.

The steamer "Favorite" has been chartered for the occasion and will leave the city dock, Lake avenue south at 1:15 Saturday, July 11. A rate of 25 cents has been secured which covers all the cost. Children under 12 will be free. The lodge will furnish coffee, cream, sugar and fruit, but the members are requested to bring their own cups.

A novel feature of this excursion will be the kodak contest. A beautiful camera has been donated by one of the leading photo supply houses. The subject of the picture and the conditions under which it is to be taken, will appear later. The committee in charge of this is deadlocked and may need help before the final announcement is made.

All resident and sojourning master Masons and their families are cordially invited to take part in this outing.

OLD DOCKS ARE BEING ENLARGED

Great Transformation Along Lower Stretches of the Thames.

London, July 4.—A great transformation is taking place along the lower stretches of the Thames. Old docks are being enlarged, and new ones built under the scheme of the port of London authority, to increase the trade of London. New model towns are springing up, where once great slums existed and within a few years "Thameside" will have entirely changed its appearance.

The most important item in the authority's program is a magnificent deep water dock, which is being cut south of the Royal Albert docks. When complete it will cover sixty-five acres and the mean depth will be thirty-five feet. So far 2,000,000 cubic yards of earth have been excavated and as much again remains to be removed.

To re-house people displaced by the new dock, the authority will erect 164 houses in West Ham on garden city lines, on the basis of twenty-two to the acre. In Woolwich forty houses are to be erected.

DULUTH'S OLDEST PIONEER IS 79 YEARS OLD AND CAME TO CITY FIFTY-NINE YEARS AGO

MR. AND MRS. E. H. HALL.

To E. H. Hall of 5411 Regent street, Lakeside, belongs the distinction of being the dean of Duluth's pioneers.

Mr. Hall is now 79 years old and has lived continuously in Duluth since he was a boy of 20. He is, without doubt, the oldest living old settler of the city.

In spite of his advanced years, Mr. Hall is enjoying the best of health. The same is true of Mrs. Hall who has been his life's companion for the last fifty-two years. They celebrated their golden wedding anniversary two years ago last month.

Mr. Hall and John G. Rakowsky, Duluth's oldest old soldier, whose death occurred on April 28, 1914, shared equally in the distinction of being the oldest pioneers. Both came here in 1855 and at about the same time.

Mr. Hall is the son of George Hall, first mayor of Brooklyn, N. Y. He was born in Brooklyn in 1835. He came West when a boy of 20 and landed in Superior, Jan. 1, 1855, walking from St. Paul to the Head of the Lakes with a party consisting of Edmund F. Ely, Freeman Keene, Hiram Hayes, Frank Collins and Dr. William Mayo. Dr. Mayo was the father of the well known physicians of Rochester, Minn.

When 21 years of age, Mr. Hall made his pre-emption claim. It included what is now know as Hall's addition in Hazelwood park, Duluth. Mr. Ely and Mr. Hall named the town of Oneota, which afterwards became incorporated into the city of Duluth.

Has Seen Public Service.

In the pioneer history of Duluth and West Duluth Mr. Hall played a more or less prominent part. He was five times alderman in West Duluth, where he has lived most of the time. Within the last two years he has moved to Lakeside. Mr. Hall was on the school board when the Duluth Central high school was built and his name is engraved among the others on the vestibule slab. While on the school board, Mr. Hall was instrumental in having the following schools built: Oneota, Irving, Fairmont, Smithville and Midway.

When the Merritts were in control of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway and the mines of the Mesaba range, Mr. Hall was secretary of all of the iron mine companies, which were later absorbed by the steel corporation.

Mr. Hall also claims the distinction of having lived to see seven generations, which is rather extraordinary. The last is his great grandchild, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Firman, Mrs. Firman being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Swanstrom of 2031 East Sixth street, who in turn is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hall. The Halls are parents of two sons and two daughters.

One of Mr. Hall's most treasured possessions is a hornbeam wood cane, which belonged to his grandfather. It was brought from Ireland to this country in 1795. Mr. Hall says that it helps to keep him up.

CITY A BIG CAR OWNER

Municipality Has Twenty-Three Pieces of Motor-Driven Apparatus.

Fire Department Has Nine Machines and the Police Five.

No small garage could house the motor apparatus now owned by the city of Duluth.

The municipality is operating twenty-three pieces of motor equipment including three motorcycles and these will likely be increased with two more in a short time.

The fire department leads with nine machines. The police department has five; the water and light department, five; the works department, three, and the health department, one.

The fire department is being motorized as rapidly as the funds will permit. Expenditure has shown that the gasoline apparatus can cover more ground in less time and is more economical than horse-drawn equipment. The last secured were two triple-combination chemical, hose and gasoline engines. One was stationed at No. 4 house, Fourteenth avenue east and Second street, and the other at No. 8, Central avenue and Cody street, West Duluth. They cost $9,000 each but the city was allowed $3,500 for two old steamers which were traded in.

Lakeside has a combination chemical and hose motor and another is installed at headquarters. The salvage corps has a high-powered machine. Each of the three chiefs uses an automobile. That of the chief is a touring car and those of the first and second assistants each carry a large chemical tank with plenty of hose. The department recently bought an old motor patrol from the police department and is remodeling it into a motor supply wagon.

Aerial Truck.

Commissioner Hicken is now planning to purchase a motor-driven and motor-operated aerial truck from the American La France company. The cost is $10,500 but $1,000 will be allowed for the old truck now in use. Finance Commissioner Voss objects to the immediate purchase of this machine. He admits that it would increase the department's efficiency and save money but he maintains that a greater saving could be made by devoting money now available for other purposes.

The police department will be completely motorized in a short time, and has no horses at the present time. A big Franklin touring car and a Kissel patrol are stationed at headquarters. New Duluth has a new four-passenger Ford an dtwo motorcycles, but one of the latter may be sold shortly. West Duluth will soon be equipped with a Ford similar to that at New Duluth.

The water and light department has five machines. An Overland runabout is used by the manager and a five-passenger E. M. F. by the engineering crew. The maintenance branch of the department has two large trucks which are in constant service. The department has one motorcycle.

The works division has two touring cars, an Overland and a Studebaker and the sewer gang has a large truck. The Overland is used by Maintenance Supt. James G. Lawson and the Studebaker by the city engineering department.

The health department has a Ford runabout. Neither the division of public affairs nor the finance division has any motor equipment.

Most of the repair work on the city machines is done at the central repair shop in the rear of No. 3 fire hall, First avenue east and Third street. Bills for the actual cost of the work are rendered to the various departments for the work which they have done.

PALESTINE LODGE PICNIC JULY 11

Master Masons Plan a Lively Day at Fond du Lac.

The members of Palestine lodge, No. 79, have planned a lively and merry day for July 11, the date of their picnic at Fond du Lac.

So many prizes have been donated that the committee on sports and amusements has been forced to call a special meeting to rearrange the list of events, and many novel and entertaining features have been added.

The baseball game between the married and the single men is proving a great matrimonial booster. Every married man in the lodge is a committee unto himself, instructed to get young blood on the team. They are going so far as to offer to furnish one room, if the prospective benedicts will rush matters a little so as to be eligible by the eleventh.

As to the tug-of-war, the married men say it is already settled.

The lunch basket is an important item.

The steamer "Favorite" has been chartered for the occasion and will leave the city dock, Lake avenue south at 1:15 Saturday, July 11. A rate of 25 cents has been secured which covers all the cost. Children under 12 will be free. The lodge will furnish coffee, cream, sugar and fruit, but the members are requested to bring their own cups.

A novel feature of this excursion will be the kodak contest. A beautiful camera has been donated by one of the leading photo supply houses. The subject of the picture and the conditions under which it is to be taken, will appear later. The committee in charge of this is deadlocked and may need help before the final announcement is made.

All resident and sojourning master Masons and their families are cordially invited to take part in this outing.

OLD DOCKS ARE BEING ENLARGED

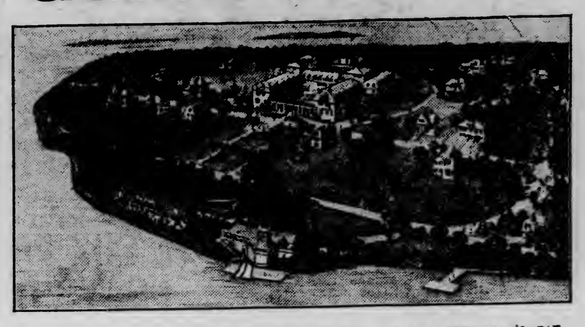

Great Transformation Along Lower Stretches of the Thames.

London, July 4.—A great transformation is taking place along the lower stretches of the Thames. Old docks are being enlarged, and new ones built under the scheme of the port of London authority, to increase the trade of London. New model towns are springing up, where once great slums existed and within a few years "Thameside" will have entirely changed its appearance.

The most important item in the authority's program is a magnificent deep water dock, which is being cut south of the Royal Albert docks. When complete it will cover sixty-five acres and the mean depth will be thirty-five feet. So far 2,000,000 cubic yards of earth have been excavated and as much again remains to be removed.

To re-house people displaced by the new dock, the authority will erect 164 houses in West Ham on garden city lines, on the basis of twenty-two to the acre. In Woolwich forty houses are to be erected.

STAGELAND

Lyceum

The two centers of the English speaking world, London and New York have been the scenes of the triumphs of one of the most remarkable pieces of dramatic construction of modern times. The play is "A Butterfly on the Wheel," which will have its first presentation in this city. When the title is mentioned, one is apt to observe, "Oh! that is the divorce play." So it is, but one might come to the conclusion that the play was written to teach a moral—a sort of theatrical preachment. That is exactly what "A Butterfly on the Wheel" is not, for it is a substantial, vivid drama which moves with a swift emotional force.

In commending plays of today it is only fair to give the pedigree of each piece and reference, therefore, was made to the fact that "A Butterfly on the Wheel" proved an immense success in both London and New York.

It was first produced in London by Lewis Waller who played in the drama over there for a season then he came to New York to play, later branching out as a producer. "A Butterfly on the Wheel" was his maiden effort. In conjunction with Messrs. Shubert the piece was brought out at the Thirty-ninth Street theater where it remained all season, being the only dramatic show to remain on Broadway this length of time, excepting, "Bunty Pulls the Strings" and "Bought and Paid For" which are classed as comedies.

The central figures in "A Butterfly on the Wheel" are man and wife and a mutual friend. Without her knowledge, the wife while traveling towards Paris with a small party of friends, which includes the "mutual friend," finds herself starting from Boulogne on a wrong train. She has become separated from the party save for her escort—the mutual friend. They were compelled to put up for the night in a Paris hotel and from this incident grows the scandal which leads her husband to institute proceedings for divorce.

Be it said to the wife's credit, she is entirely innocent of wrong doing which fact of course the audience knows. Therefore, in the famous and much discussed trial scene, showing the frail little "Butterfly" in the dock, the sympathy of the audience is often outraged by the severe grilling to which the timid wife is subjected.

For perfect and technical dramatic construction, this scene, it is said, takes first rank among the big scenes of the stage. The wife's cross examination which is often inspired by a refined brutality, ends in the complete collapse of the witness, who, no longer able to stand the insinuations, falls in a swoon across the railing of the witness box.

This is the climax which literally "pulls the spectators out of their seats." As the first two acts are cumulative, (they take place in the wife's rooms at the Paris hotel), the fourth and final one furnishes the interesting denouement. The husband realizing the severity of the trial and the innocence of his wife, halts the trial, and in the last act comes a perfectly natural, and from the audience's standpoint, the desired reconcilation.

ZEB ZARROW,
At the Empress Monday.

AT EMPRESS

"The Speculators" will be the attraction at the Empress theater again tonight, Sunday matinee and night. This show is one of the brightest seen at the Empress for a long time. The musical numbers are more than plentiful, while the comedy is abundant. "The Speculators" are two wealthy Germans looking for a place to invest their money. They finally reach the office of a Wall street broker, who sells them an interest in the business. Then the complications begin and are extremely funny. The two Germans are beset by beautiful women some wishing to invest their money and others of the more daring nature wishing to fleece the two unsuspecting men. The comedy scenes are many.

The music from start to finish is alluring. Among the song numbers are, "At the Country Fair," a dashing rag, sung by Trixie Ayers; "The End of the World" by Miss Grace Fields; "Can't Get Away From It" in which Jess Weiss does considerable expert dancing; "Somebody's Eyes," in which Trixie Ayers again stars, as well as "In the Candle Light" by Grace Fields and "Back to Indiana," by Frank Carey.

The chorus is better costumed in "The Speculators" than any attraction in which it has so far appeared.

For Monday and the three following days a splendid vaudeville program has been booked for the Empress theater. The bill is headlined and featured by "The Zeb Zarrow Troupe," original comedy cyclists. This troupe is well known in vaudeville and has played in every town of any importance in the United States and Canada not only once but more likely twice. They have appeared with circuses, on all the vaudeville circuits and now come to the Empress after an absence of a number of years. The Zeb Zarrow Troupe offers a big pantomime entitled "The Isle of Joy." The comedy element in the act predominates. The various shapes and styles of cycles introduced are without number. The troupe is composed of three men and one young woman. One member appears as a tramp and in fact this member is claimed to be the originator of all tramp bicycle acts. His antics and mannerisms have been copied everywhere.

Another big act is Lorraine and Cameron, two Scotch boys and their specialty is Scotch songs. They look Scotch, dress as Scotch and sing Scotch songs as only true Scotchmen can. They are leaders in their line. It has been with considerable trouble that Manager Abrahamson has been able to secure them.

A comedy skit "Going to the Ball" is offered by Allman and McFarland, a mixed duo. They have a neat act of comedy talk and put it over in a correct style.

Bob Sandberry is a song and story teller comedian and he is said to be an entertainer of worth. His stories are funny while his songs on the parody order are more than pleasing.

As an extra in the film line the Empress management offers Chapter 24 of "Our Mutual Girl" series. In this reel the story of Margaret's misadventures is continued and America's foremost humorist, Irvin S. Cobb, introduced.

For the two reel feature "Tennessee" a beautiful story of the hills of Tennessee and its feuds and love stories has been booked.

A good all around program is promised in this bill.

For the next musical comedy Arthur Clamage and players will offer one of Webber and Field's greatest successes, "Hurdy Gurdy." The music and book will be complete and a surprise is in store for Empress patrons when this attraction appears there. The date for presentation is set for four days starting with the matinee Thursday July 9.

AT THE REX

Wild Bill, a Two-Gun man, is the part taken by the picture idol, Lon Chaney in "The Old Cobbler," a two-reel 101 Bison drama at the Rex next week. Murdock McQuarrie, as "Nathan," the old cobbler, wins sympathy and furnishes a bit of character study. It is a decided Western story, showing rugged scenery and rugged men and women.

An abundance of comedy will be one of the Sunday show features.

"Cherry Blossom Time in Japan," would be an appropriate name for the opening scenes of "The Wrath of the Gods," the big feature to be played Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Lava flowing, ashes falling, houses burning, villages crumbling and thousands fleeing for their lives, are some of the spectacular acts. The whole cast is composed of Japanese actors, with the exception of one American actress. The all-star cast of the Tokio theater, Japan, was engaged to produce this picture which has just finished showing at the Strand, New York's million dollar picture house.

"Lucille Love" will appear in the afternoons only of Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, owing to the length of the big feature film, "The Wrath of the Gods." The "Animated Weekly" will complete the program.

Mary Pickford in the "Eagle's Mate," will be the delightful play to be shown at the Rex Thursday, Friday and Saturday. This is a gripping drama of the mountain country, and abounds in exquisite touches such as only little Mary Pickford can protray. There is no need of telling Duluth people, or in fact, any one about "Little Mary" for she is known and beloved the world over.

AT THE SUNBEAM

For the Sunday show at the Sunbeam, Manager Parker has secured several high class pictures that are bound to please his audience. The feature picture for tomorrow will be a two-part drama entitled "Etta of the Footlights," telling of the adventures of a chorus girl and how she makes good when called upon. "The Klondike Bubble" is a two-reel Western picture, telling of a mining proposition exploited in the East, in good faith, though on slender hopes for the future. The mining stock, when in the zenith of its prosperity, suddenly breaks and drops so quickly that its destruction is imminent. The promoter, a man imbued with primitive force and honest intentions, redeems himself through brawn and determination and "makes good." The synopsis of the story of "Etta of the Footlights" follows:

"Etta Lang, a chorus girl, is the principal support of an invalid mother and her sister and brother—not only working at the theater, but looking after their small boarding house. Among their lodgers is Brutus Bellamy, an old actor. He becomes interested in the girl, and offers to teach her acting. She learns rapidly. She arrives at the theater late and is abused by the stage manager, Joseph Burton. Cecil Wentworth, one of the backers of the theater, takes her part and becomes interested in her. Irene St. Maur, the leading lady, throws up her part and leaves the company in the lurch. Etta offers to take her place.

"The management takes a desperate chance and puts her in. She makes good.

"Cecil now becomes very attentive to her, but she refuses all his advances. One night, in a pouring rain, he persuades her to let him drive her home in his car. She consents, and he secretly bids the chauffeur drive out to his villa, outside the city limits. Brutus, who is on his way to the theater, sees her in the machine, and, suspecting treachery, follows them in a taxi. Under pretense, the auto breaks down, and Cecil gets Etta to enter the villa. There he tells her where she is and tries to caress her. She repulses him. Brutus appears at the veranda window. Etta admits him, and stepping forward, Brutus points to Cecil's mother's picture, hanging in the room, asking him how he dare insult another woman in the presence of that picture. Brutus leads Etta away. A year later she has made great strides in her profession, and is able to keep her mother in comfort. Cecil, who is really in love with her, writes Etta, begging forgiveness, and she, who has always loved him since the first day he protected her, gladly forgives him and consents to become his wife."

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

In H. H. Frazee's Longacre theater, New York, tomorrow evening Edward Peple's very successful farce, "A Pair of Sixes," will enter upon the fifth month of its New York run, coincident with which Mr. Frazee will begin active preparations for the launching of five additional companies to present the play in as many different parts of the world. The organization now at the Longacre theater, which includes Ann Murdock, Hale Hamilton, George Parsons, Fritz Williams, Ivy Troutman and Maude Eburne is scheduled to run through the summer and well into next season before visiting other cities. A company of equally important players, including Frank McIntyre, Joseph Kilgour, Sam Hardy and Oza Waldrop, will open its season at the Cort theater, Chicago, on Aug. 9. Another company will begin its season on Sept. 1 en route to the Pacific coast and Southwest while two more companies will open a week later to fill dates booked in the smaller cities of the East and Middle West.

Mr. Frazee has decided to present "A Pair of Sixes" in London under his own management and will soon go abroad to engage a company of English players. Their season is scheduled to begin on Aug. 31, with Joseph Coyne in the role now played by Hale Hamilton.

Contracts have also been signed by Mr. Frazee with Hugh Ward, representing J. C. Williamson, Ltd., for the presentation of "A Pair of Sixes" in Sidney and Melbourne, Australia, on Sept. 7.

John C. Fisher early in August will produce a new play by Paul Wilstach called "What Happened at 22," in which the leading roles will be taken by Reginald Barlow and Carroll McComas. "What Happened at 22" is described as an original modern American play; one of the principal characters being that of a forger who has been so very clever that he has gone on in his criminal way for years apparently safe from detection. His very knowledge of his own cleverness, however, proves his undoing and he becomes careless and thus his wrongdoing is uncovered. It is believed that in Mr. Wilstach's play the "crook" is exhibited from a new angle. There is an absorbing love story in "What Happened at 22," and a promise of many thrills in the development of the plot.

Lee Ditrichstein, entirely recovered from the recent illness which necessitated the termination of his tour in "The Temperamental Journey" in the midst of last season, returned from abroad two weeks ago.

Mr. Ditrichstein's exquisite work as the erratic musician in "The Concert," in which comedy he toured the country for three seasons under Mr. Belasco's management, and his more recent portrayal of Jacques Dupont in "The Temperamental Journey," were such as to entitle him to stellar distinction, a position which he will assume for the first time, under Mr. Belasco's banner, this coming season.

Mr. Ditrichstein is now at his home, The Pines, Stamford, Conn., where he is hard at work on the new play which Mr. Belasco will produce in the fall.

Valerie Serice, late star of Jesse Lasky's "The Little Parisienne," will probably appear in the stellar role of a new musical comedy which is to be produced in New York early in the coming fall. Miss Serice came from France two years ago.

* * *

Hazel Dawn, who is to be one of the new stars next season under John C. Fisher's management, will begin her season in "The Debutante" at the New National theater in Washington, D. C., on Sept. 28. "The Debutante" is by Harry B. Smith, who has written the book; Robert B. Smith, who has provided the lyrics, and Victor Herbert, who has composed the music. The scenes of the new operetta are laid in London and Paris, with Miss Dawn in the role of a young American girl who is being much sought after by an impecunious nobleman on account of her fortune. After a short road tour Miss Dawn will be seen on Broadway in her new play. Some of those who are engaged to support the new star are Alan Mudie, Will West, William Danforth, Stewart Baird, Robert G. Pitkin, Zoe Barnett, Maude Odell and Sylvia Jason.

It is stated that Oscar Hammerstein intends opening his new opera house on Lexington avenue, New York, in August. The policy has not been given out.

* * *

Philip Bartholomae is evidently determined to be unique in all of his producing ventures next season. His first production will be a musical show without a chorus, and his next effort will be a play in which all the characters are women. Besides, he plans on presenting Joseph Santley in a new comedy, in which the only music will be four dances, which Mr. Santley will do.

* * *

Lew Fields and A. H. Woods are interested in a new comedy from the German, called "Once in May." It is planned by them to put it on the coming season.

* * *

A. H. Woods has engaged Edwin Arden to replace John Mason in "The Yellow Ticket," which is playing at the Eltinge theater, New York. Mason retired for the purpose of joining the "Drugged" company, which is also under the management of Woods.

"GIRLS, LEARN TO RIDE" SAYS FAIR HORSEWOMAN

JOSEPHINE CLARKE
And Her Favorite Horse "Silver King."

Josephine Clarke, whose costumes are the joy of her feminine admirers wherever she goes, is coming here with Ringling Brothers' circus and all her fourteen trunks of beautiful dresses are coming with her.

Miss Clarke has the reputation of being the best dressed, the prettiest and most graceful rider in all the land of spangles. Her snow-white mount, Silver King, is the most knowing of all circus horses. This beautiful English girl is of the new school of equestrianism. While she is an adept at the forward and backward somersault and all like feats of horsemanship, her most remarkable achievements lie in her daring toe and ballet dancing performed upon the back of her swiftly moving steed.

Dangerous? Perhaps so, but Miss Clarke laughs at such a suggestion.

"Everybody should know how to ride," says she, "and, girls, here is an occupation for you! Why not become a bareback rider? I began when I was just the littlest girl and then my family sent me away to school in Paris and I didn't even see a horse except in books. After I left the convent I went to dancing school to acquire the grace that is necessary to lend finish to my work as a professional rider. Then I took up the circus as a life work. I think it is the happiest, most healthful life a woman can lead. Riding is splendid exercise. It develops the body, self-confidence and teaches one how to walk properly on the street."

Miss Clarke is but one of some fifty riders to be seen here when Ringling Brothers' circus comes to Duluth, Thursday, July 23. She appears almost immediately following the new 1,250-character spectacle of Solomon and the Queen of Sheba which is this season's big feature of the circus program.

THE HERALD AND VACATION

Those going away for the summer or even for a short vacation should not leave without sending in an order for The Herald to follow. Keep up with what's going on in Duluth. Get all the latest news. It's like a daily letter from home. Have your address changed if you are already a subscriber. Do not miss a single copy. Both phones, 324.

FOR EVERY WOMAN AND EVERY MAN.

During the recent convention of women's clubs in Chicago a collect was read that deserves immortality. We don't know who wrote it, but we'd like to know. And anyway we'd like to recommend it for profound study and reflection to every human being to whom it may come. It follows:

Keep us, O Lord, from PETTINESS.
Let us be LARGE in thought, in word, in deed.
Let us be done with FAULT-FINDING and SELF-SEEKING.
May we put away PRETENSE and meet each other face to face without self-pity and without PREJUDICE.
MAY WE NEVER BE HASTY IN JUDGING, and always GENEROUS.
Let us take time for all things.
Make us grow calm, serene, GENTLE.
Teach us to put into action our better impulses, straightforward and unafraid.
Grant that we may realize that IT IS THE LITTLE THINGS THAT CREATE DIFFERENCE; that in the LARGE things of life we are one.
And may we be active to touch and to know the great common (woman's) heart of us all.
And O Lord, let us not forget to be KIND!

Still, if it's only the noise you want, a piece of lath brought flatside down on a pine box will help.

ABOUT THE PRIMARY SYSTEM.

We hear and read criticism of the direct primary system, which was to be a panacea for all our political ills.

The New York Times says: "It is becoming evident that if the direct primary is to be other than a nuisance and a danger in politics, it will have to be radically altered."

Says the Philadelphia Public Ledger: "It must be conceded that it as easy for the politicians to control open primaries as it is for them to manipulate ward caucuses, if a majority of the voters remain indifferent, and they appear to be as indifferent to direct primaries as they have generally been to ward, district or town caucus."

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch points to the list of 369 candidates on the primary ballot there, and declares it to be impossible for the ordinary voter to make a judicious selection from such a number.

The San Francisco Chronicle says that elected conventions are far better than private conferences at which the primary winners are generally hand picked.

And the Indianapolis News adds that "the trouble is that the ordinary voters will not bestir themselves to protect their rights, and that the machine politicians use every effort, however unscrupulous, to gain their graft."

Most of these newspapers are opposed to the spirit of the primary system, and that must be reckoned in considering their criticisms.

But it must be admitted by everybody that the primary system has not proved to be an automatic device for insuring pure elections and ideal nominations.

AND NO SANE PERSON EVER DREAMED THAT IT WOULD!

There is no conceivable concoction of statutes that will make up for the lack of a proper public spirit.

There can be no election law that will cure civic indifference.

The primary system is better than the convention system because—and only because—it provides an OPPORTUNITY for the voters to make wise selections. If they do not use that opportunity it is no fault of the primary system.

A poor public spirit is a blight on popular government. No law can cure it, no possible system of elections can avert its disastrous effects. It is far more dangerous than tyranny—for tyranny is impotent without it. It is far more dangerous than bossism—because bossism thrives on it and cannot live without it. It is far more dangerous than special privilege, because it is the food on which special privilege has grown so great.

No primary election system will ever be perfected that will offset the peril of a poor public spirit. The sooner everybody realizes that the better; for one of the worst evils in this country is the growing habit of relying on legislative concoctions to make us all good and happy and free.

If public spirit is sound and vigilant and aggressive, there is no election machinery so crude that it can balk it.

If public spirit is poor and indifferent and careless, there is no election machinery so perfect that it can avert the inevitable penalty of indifference and carelessness.

The primary system is better than the convention system because it makes the voter more free and gives him a better opportunity to work his will. But it is not a substitute for public spirit. There is no substitute for public spirit, and there never will be.

Oyster Bay will naturally look for the Outlook to suspend publication immediately if not sooner.

THE HERALD EXCURSIONS.

Monday the season for The Herald's popular water excursions begins again.

That will be good news to a good many, judging from the experience of previous years.

These excursions, which include a variety of pleasure trips down the north and south shores and up the river, have given pleasure to many in the past, and that makes it well worth The Herald's while.

We should like to hire all the boats and invite everybody to take free rides every week, but obviously that wouldn't do, so the popular-priced week-day trips were inaugurated.

They begin again Monday.

Will the Outlook seem any less nutty without its Kernel?

LIVING LONG.

Extraordinary efforts are being made these days to prolong life. Infant mortality has been greatly reduced and will be reduced still more; but science is busier still on the harder problem of prolonging the years of maturity.

And that's very important, not alone to individuals but to society. It's dreadful for an individual to die untimely, and sad for his family; but a broader aspect is that society has lost the services of one whom it has trained to be of use to it. What should have been a good investment has turned out a loss.

More will be done in the future in the way of taking physical stock frequently—that is, giving people physical examinations oftener. Some life insurance companies are now providing this service, and others are going to. And it is wise investment for them, and will pay well.

The average man never has a physical examination until he takes out a life insurance policy or gets sick. And very often things develop then which show that it is too late.

Dr. W. A. Evans conducts a health department in the Chicago Tribune. The other day, in advising vacations, he went into this subject: "More than half of those who write to this column are complaining of some ailment which should have been guarded against years before. * * * Maybe most of these people were handicapped because there was no way of finding out where they were drifting. It is different now. It is now feasible for any man at periodic intervals to have a physical examination which will disclose where he is going and his rate of going. Some of the life insurance companies are providing this service, others will be within a year. Many diseases warn a long time in advance of their serious stages."

And a man who, through a formal physical examination, finds himself heading toward some such disease, can by taking advice and following it postpone the end many years.

The pity of it, from the viewpoint of those to whom the most serious cases come, is that they come too late—that they should have been attended to months or years before and were not.

Dr. Evans's talk was about vacations, which he advocated earnestly. He urged one full day's rest in seven, and a vacation besides, and declared that these things "mean better work, a saner view, more accurate judgment, more initiative, as well as a longer life."

It takes something pretty serious to check a busy man. The first warnings of serious ills are not, as a rule, serious. They handicap the victim, and spoil his life to some extent; but he can spur his waning energies and go on with his program, and usually he does—paying for it all later.

"Some time" he is going to take a good rest and build up—when he gets this job done, when he makes another hundred thousand or million, or when he is on Easy Street. It's usually the tomorrow that never comes.

There is talk of putting a string on large life insurance policies. Those who take them out are to be required to take frequent physical examinations, and when the doctor says stop and rest, they must stop and rest or forfeit their policies. That would save many lives and promote human well-being.

But this plan wouldn't do for the small policy holder, for often he CAN'T stop. He is tied to the treadmill, and must keep on or lose his little business or his job. He could be helped with advice, but the advice to lay off six months and go to Carlsbad would be a bitter joke.

Life and happiness and efficiency can be prolonged in every case where it is not too late. Proper rest, proper vacations, proper working and living conditions: these will save many. If overwork is the trouble, rest is the cure. If over-eating is the trouble, moderation is the cure. If dissipation is the trouble, temperance is the cure.

Indeed, temperance is the best panacea after all—temperance in eating for the greedy, temperance in drinking for the dissipated, temperance in worry for the fretful, temperance in work for those who overdo.

But the average man could help himself a lot by giving half the attention to himself that he does to the care of a machine in his shop or a horse in his stable.

Some Italian stone masons have just settled a strike on terms by which they will get from forty-three to seventy-two cents a day of ten hours. One can only hope they'll not spend it all foolishly.

THE FOURTH OF JULY.

This nation was born a hundred and thirty-eight years ago today, when with the signing of the Declaration of Independence on that first Fourth of July thirteen scattered and disintegrated colonies sprang into being as a new nation, soon to be the mightiest in the world.

The country is but an infant, as countries go. It seems a long time to a family, and it is altogether too long for any individual to compass; but to a nation it is only a watch in the night.

Yet much has happened. The country's history has been full, is still full. The Revolution was yet to be fought and won. The Critical Period that followed was yet to be passed. The Constitution was yet to be framed and accepted. The issue of chattel slavery was to be shouldered aside in the making of the Constitution, was to be shouldered aside again in the Missouri Compromise of 1820 and again in the Kansas-Nebraska bill of 1854, only to rear its head in 1861 full-panoplied with the grim accoutrements of war.

This infant nation thinly strewn along the fringe of a great continent was yet to conquer that continent and take its fabulous riches. In the taking, it was yet to rear a brood of class privileges and problems of plutocracy and poverty that are still unsolved.

War-time wears the tinsel and the glow of romance, but the need of patriotism and high public spirit is as great in time of peace as in time of war.

Every child remembers the perilous period of the Revolution, but how many grown people, even, remember the still more perilous period between Yorktown and the adoption of the Constitution? Here were a handful of distinct states, sundered by jealousies but driven together by fear. United they stood, divided they fell; nothing else drove them together, and even then these mutual jealousies and fears were so great that Union was compromised by restrictions that still plague us. For awhile, it was a question whether there were to be any United States or not; and yet it was no question at all that if there were no Union, the loose confederation would fall by the weight of its own weakness.

Here was a time that called for patriotism and public spirit and unselfish devotion to the common good as much as any war-time ever did; and the nation responded nobly.

But whether it was the call to arms or the call to the polls; whether the country demanded the blood sacrifice or the sacrifice of time and money and study; whether the nation needed its sons to fight for it or to think for it, to die for it or to live for it, it is a glorious thought that the nation's sons never have denied the call, never have stinted themselves in their country's service.

And that is as true today as it was at Lexington or Bladensburg or Vera Cruz or Bull Run or Manila or Vera Cruz again in 1914; as true as it was in the making of the Constitution, in the half century of debate over slavery, in the rebuilding of a sundered nation after the Civil war, or in the attack upon the entrenchments of Special Privilege in this young century.

Though we often seem to be indifferent, and though we spend our Fourths in idleness, in merrymaking or even in dissipation of a sort; still the Flag and the Union, the nation and its natal day, have a sacred and tender meaning to us all. What our fathers have done we shall do if need be. And we are not so unmindful as the slender election returns sometimes indicate of the fact that every day is a Critical Period, and every election a potential Appomattox, in the life of a nation.

There still remains some room for speculation as to the geographical proximity of Armageddon and Albany.

THE PLAGUE OF LEGISLATION.

The Louisville Post greets the publication of the latest volume of the new laws of Kentucky with a just rebuke to the evil of over-legislation.

It seems that the volume contains 536 pages "of legislation regulating everything in heaven and earth and the waters under the earth. Nine-tenths of it will at once fall into innocuous desuetude. Five per cent will be used in the course of time for exacting money from men who have been violating the law without knowing it, and without anybody caring. Five per cent of it may be said to be needed legislation."

That's Kentucky.

The chief difference between Kentucky and any other state will be that the pages of the annual or biennial tome of new laws will be more or less than 536.

In Minnesota, for instance, the latest volume of new statutes has more than a thousand pages instead of a few more than five hundred. The rest of the Post's disgusted comments apply literally.

And it gets worse all the time. A row of session laws in almost any state, side by side upon a shelf, has the same appearance and the same development—from thin to not so thin, from thick to fat. The volumes grow yearly.

"Ignorance of the law is no excuse." And ignorance of the law is no shame, because it would be a physical impossibility for any man to know the law and have any other business except to study it and to keep track of its changes.

Yet this turgid flood of legislation is the logical result of the prevailing legislative system.

The Minnesota legislature has two hundred members in both houses. It is idle all but three months every other year, and during that time these two hundred aspiring statesmen pour into the hopper two or three thousand bills. Each of the two hundred seeks the limelight, and thinks that the way to get it is to introduce some startling measure to make men good and happy and rich. The first half of the session is dawdled away; eighty-five per cent of the laws are passed in the last ten days of the session.

That bills should be many, that laws should be many, that the chances of legislative folly should be great, are only what should be expected from this system.

When the legislature meets at St. Paul in January, nobody could fill the fingers of two hands in counting the measures needed by the state; yet it will be as sure as the day comes that the number of the bills introduced cannot be counted on the fingers of a regiment, and that the number of laws enacted will fill the fingers of a troop.

Even Illinois is beginning to realize that whitewash isn't the most durable finishing for a financial institution.

PERSONAL APPEARANCES.

"Pray without ceasing, and shave every morning."

Thus piety and propriety were combined in the excellently wise advice given one time to an incoming class of divinity students by former President Patterson of Princeton.

An odd genius here and there affects to be careless of personal appearance, and gets away with it; but the average man can't do it.

The average man feels like a hobo and an outcast in frayed cuffs and shapeless trousers and a shiny coat; but dress him up in good clothes from head to foot and he holds his head up with the best of them.

Part of the value of presenting a good appearance lies in the impression it makes on others; but greater still is the value of the self-confidence it breeds.

Costly thy habit as thy purse can buy,
But not expressed in fancy; rich, not gaudy;
For the apparel oft proclaims the man.

So runs in part the famous homily which Polonius gives to Laertes in "Hamlet." And it's wisdom and good sense.

Beware foppishness. There is no better way of arousing the antagonism of the solid and substantial men you are seeking to impress. One of the clever cartoonists has a picture of a man, just tipped out of a canoe, sinking rapidly while a sturdy swimmer is heading for him from the shore. In the next picture only one wildly waving hand is above the surface as the swimmer draws near, and on it is a wrist watch. In the third the swimmer, his face a picture of disgust, has turned about and is heading for the shore, leaving the fop to drown. That's exaggerated, of course; but it exaggerates a feeling many share.

Beware slovenliness. The man you wish to employ you is likely to figure that a man who is slovenly about his appearance will be slovenly in his work.

Quoting Dr. Patterson's advice given above, a seminary professor engaged in training young men for the ministry says:

> Pray without ceasing takes care of the springs of power, but a daily shave helps to maintain outward evidence of inward grace. Because there is no spiritual grace in a clean collar some men go upon the supposition that there is such grace in a soiled one. Fearing that carefully combed hair may mean foppishness, some of our young men affect tousled hair.

That's the same good advice, a little diluted.

It's good advice for divinity students; it's good advice for everybody.

Costly thy habit as thy purse can buy,
But not expressed in fancy; rich, not gaudy;
For the apparel oft proclaims the man.

By your personal appearance you often fix the public's valuation of yourself, and your own valuation of yourself as well. Slovenliness means a very light appraisal; foppishness means an appraisal manifestly padded beyond actual worth.

This is the day when the mocking bird has nothing on the eagle for attracting attention.

What "Only a Living" Means on the Farm

Breeder's Gazette: "We are only making a living on the farm," complained a friend not long ago. We happen to know that it is a good living, that the home is a roomy, comfortable sort of place, that there is a sleeping porch, a bathroom, a fireplace, a sunny dining room. He has cows, fowls, horses, carriages and a garden. Besides, certain improvements and soil ameliorations that he has undertaken will some day yield him far more of the fruits of the earth than he is today receiving.

Leaving this friend and his farm we took a journey and awoke to look out at a manufacturing city. Closely set were the tall houses, dusty, smoked, between them hot and dirty streets. In such environment lies a great proportion of America's people; fewer than the half of us dwell on farms, the rest in cities.

A living? Seeing men emerging from these smoke begrimed homes dinner pails in hand to go to their places of toil we remembered our friends on farms. They arise and go forth in the freshness of the dewy morning, the air is clean, the birds are all about them, the sun shines, the fresh breezes blow. Theirs is no such toil as that of shop or office. A living? Commend us to the living that goes with the peaceful fields.

Johnny's History Lesson.

I think of all the things at school
A boy has got to do,
That studying history, as a rule,
Is worst of all, don't you?
Of dates there are an awful sight.
And though I study day and night,
There's only one I've got just right.
That's 1492.

Columbus crossed the Delaware
In 1492;
We whipped the British fair and square
In 1492.
At Concord and at Lexington
We kept the redcoats on the run
While the band played "Johnny Get Your Gun!"
In 1492.

Pat Henry with his dying breath,
In 1492,
Said: "Give me liberty or give me death!"
In 1492.
And Barbara Frietchie, so 'tis said,
Cried, "Shoot, if you must, this old gray head,
But I'd rather 'twould be your own instead!"
In 1492.

The Pilgrims came to Plymouth Rock
In 1492.
And the Indians standing on the dock
Asked, "What are you going to do?"
And they said, "We seek your harbor drear
That our children's children's children dear
May boast that their forefathers landed here
In 1492.

Miss Pocahontas saved the life
In 1492,
Of John Smith and became his wife
In 1492,
And the Smith tribe started then and there
And now there are John Smiths everywhere;
But they didn't have any Smiths to spare
In 1492.

Kentucky was settled by Daniel Boone
In 1492,
And I think the cow jumped over the moon
In 1492.
Ben Franklin flew his kite so high
He drew the lightning from the sky,
And Washington couldn't tell a lie
In 1492.

The Green Apple Season; a Moral Tale.

San Francisco Bulletin: Once there was a boy. One day he went out and saw a tree with a green apple hanging on it. The apple seemed to say: "Eat me! Dare you to!" though it manifestly had no right to say that at that stage of the game. If the boy had been a wise boy he would have gone away and come back when he was sure the apple was ripe, but he was only about as wise as the general run of boys, and after a little consideration he climbed into the tree and got the apple and ate it. At first he liked it, though it puckered his mouth up some. After a while something began to happen inside of him. He didn't know what it was, but he was sure that he was going to die. He thought that nothing in the world was quite as loathsome as an apple of any description, and he wished he had been born without any stomach, or at least without any opening into it. He resolved that the next green apple he ate would have to fired into him with a shotgun.

After a while he felt better and climbed up into the tree and ate three more green apples that he had overlooked before.

The New Independence

Edward S. Martin in the Youth's Companion.

One hundred and thirty-eight years from the day we celebrate, behold us stretching out fumbling hands for a different independence.

Precisely what that independence is very few of us could define, but the desire for it or the conception of it seems to be owing to a sentiment that our old independence has become impaired—not as regards foreign governments, for we fear nothing from them; but in particulars that concern our "certain inalienable rights," to "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness."

There is a very widespread sentiment that some of those rights have been, and are being filched away from some of us. In a country where the means of living abound as they have never before in history abounded for like numbers, we have seen a rising tide of murmuring discontent. The span of average life was never so long as now, but there is complaint that the conditions of living and of labor cheat too many out of the fullness of their years. It is a grievance that liberty is unduly abridged by the exactions of tasks that the workers cannot escape. The pursuit of happiness is identified with the pursuit of money, and from the East and from the West there everywhere rises the complaint that in that race the field has been distanced, and that the stronger and luckier competitors get far too great a share of the prizes.

The desire for a different independence is born of a wish to allay all that are reasonable of these complaints, and of a hope to do so by enacting laws to restrict the powers and privileges of great combinations of capital, and to regulate the railways and to diminish the protective tariff and to transfer to government some powers, thought to be dangerous, that had inured to the bankers, and to protect work people in their dealings with employers and by income and inheritance taxes to put a larger share of the costs of government on those to whom the protection of government has been, pecuniarily, most profitable.

These are high hopes, and with the effort to realize them there is wide sympathy. The legislative measures they inspire will be good or bad according as they comply or fail to comply with the great economic laws that regulate commercial and industrial life. They will not necessarily be good because they are well intended, or because they deprive the unduly acquisitive of their gains or curb the ardor of the avaricious. Neither will they necessarily be had because they disarrange in some particulars for a time our industrial and social machinery, conflict with notions of property and privilege that had become embedded in certain minds and constrain a part of our great community to rearrange its habits of living.

Since our father's day life has grown complex. The old declaration was the word of men who took it for granted that they spoke for people who expected to shape their own course in life and to take care of themselves. It was the word of men who got their own living, knew how to get it, and asked for no more than access to the soil or fair protection in whatever calling they followed. Such men made the prosperity of our country, and such men still abound in it, and must still make it prosper, if it is to prosper. But along with them have come to be millions of others, some of them the less able or less fortunate scions of the old stock, many of them newcomers from Europe, whose hope for subsistence and that reasonable happiness which all men pursue depends in a distressing degree on the justice and good will of their more fortunate fellows. They must find employment, must seek it where it offers, and accept the terms of it. They are far less independent than the men our fathers spoke for. To procure fair terms and a chance to live as men should live, they must not only cultivate and exert their own powers, but combine to exact the terms they want, or look to government to help them.

There is wealth enough to go around. The great question is, is there character enough?

We have need, each of us, to make a new declaration of independence; to declare ourselves free from the domination to the haste to be rich; to separate in our minds the pursuit of happiness and the pursuit of money, and to declare that they shall not be unduly confounded in our habits and aims. That is the declaration that is proceeding from American minds and American hearts today. The great thing that has happened in the last decade in our country has been the decline in the homage paid to money, a great relative appreciation of other forms of power, and the prodigious awakening of wealth to its responsibilities. The conception of accumulated money as a means of escape from troublesome obligations of life is passing away. Everywhere there is evidence of the growth of a better and sounder sentiment; namely, that without troublesome obligations life is tasteless, that wealth without service is immoral, that riches are only of secondary and incidental importance, and that the great use of them is to preserve the bodies and to raise up and ennoble the spirits of men.

Getting Ready for the Fall Campaign

New York World: Our pious Progressive contemporary, the Outlook, finds that the country has gone to the dogs because "this Democratic administration does not believe in a strong government. It is afraid of a strong government."

Our wicked standpat contemporary, the Sun, finds that the country has gone to the dogs because the president has usurped all the powers of government and is ruling with a despotic hand.

The pious Outlook is spouting Alexander Hamilton's maxim: "An energetic government is necessary to the safety of the Union." The wicked Sun is screaming for somebody to regulate and restrain the president of the United States. On off days it recites Washington's warning against changes in government by usurpation.

It is obvious that an administration which, as the pious Outlook complains, "fears that the strong government will be the despotic government" cannot at the same time be an iron-handed tyrant, as the wicked Sun so excitedly asseverates.

We should not think of trying to reconcile these conflicting criticisms of President Wilson. We are putting them on record merely as evidence that both factions of the Republican party are making their usually harmonious preparations for the fall campaign.

And Elsa Was Only Seven.

Fliegende Blaetter: "Don't you think little Elsa gets more and more like me?"

"Certainly; soon we shan't be able to distinguish the difference between you. She grows older and you grow younger."

Twenty Years Ago

From The Herald of this date, 1894.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

The Providence Over America.

In a stirring chapter setting forth the difficult planting of the first English colony on Virginian soil, John Fiske pauses to remark: "In the unfolding of these events there is poetic beauty and grandeur as the purpose of Infinite Wisdom reveals itself in the cosmic process, slowly but inexorably, hasting not, but resting not, heedless of the clashing aims and discordant cries of short-sighted mortals, sweeping their tiny efforts into magical current, and making all contribute to the fulfillment of God's will."

The impression left upon this master mind is shared by any who follow the course of our country's history. The hours of uncertainty and of crisis have not been few. Many a time it must have seemed to the actors that the drama they were playing was to end in confusion. So it often seemed to us of a later day save as we postulate the entrance into our human affairs of a Power who makes the forces of nature and the wrath of man to praise Him.

Forest and famine and hostile Indians seemed destined ever and again to snuff out the first feeble settlement both in Virginia and in Massachusetts. Ruin was imminent later when the sparse population along the Atlantic seaboard took up arms against a rich and populous mother country. The end of war found our forefathers plunged into new problems. The five years succeeding the close of the Revolution have been called the "critical period of American history." When the constitutional convention convened in Philadelphia on May 26, 1787, eleven days after the appointed time, any prospect of unity among the delegates seemed distant, indeed. Benjamin Franklin, though a man not easily shocked, was so troubled by the altercations around him that he moved that prayers be said every morning in the interest of harmony. After a day filled with dissension and strifes Franklin pointed to a sun painted behind the speaker's chair, saying: "I have often and often in the course of the session and in the vicissitudes of my own hopes and fears as to the issue looked at that sun behind the president without being able to tell whether it was rising or setting."

Although under eclipse once and again, although not yet come to its zenith, the sun of the republic is a rising and not a setting one. A high destiny awaits America. God has established the nation for a great purpose of which not one jot or tittle shall pass away till all be fulfilled.

To the founder of the Hebrew race the Almighty said: "I will make of thee a great nation and in thee shall all the families of the earth be blessed." Is not that the conviction that every lover of his country must cherish for America? And who has put it better than that child of Abraham, Israel Zangwill, in his drama, "The Melting Pot," "Now understand that America is God's crucible, the great melting pot, where the races of Europe are melting and reforming. Here you stand, good folk, think I, when I see them at Ellis Island, here you stand in your fifty groups, with your fifty languages and histories, and your fifty blood hatreds and rivalries. But you won't be long like that, brothers, for these are the fires of God you've come to—these are the fires of God! A fig for your feuds and vendettas! Germans, Frenchmen, Irishmen and Englishmen, Jews and Russians—into the crucible with you all! God is making the American."

THE PARSON.

An Anatomical Mistake.

The Popular Magazine: Just before the baseball season opened, Joe Engel, one of the young pitchers for the Nationals in the American league, wrote to J. Ed. Grillo, the sporting editor:

"Dear Mr. Grillo: I am on my way to see Bonesetter Reese, and I think, when he gets through with my arm, I'll be a better pitcher than ever."

Grillo replied:

"Dear Joe: You're mistaking a mistake in going to see Bonesetter Reese about your arm. Get him to treat that head."

THE HERALD AND VACATION

Those going away for the summer or even for a short vacation should not leave without sending in an order for The Herald to follow. Keep up with what's going on in Duluth. Get all the latest news. It's like a daily letter from home. Have your address changed if you are already a subscriber. Do not miss a single copy. Both phones, 324.

FOR EVERY WOMAN AND EVERY MAN.

During the recent convention of women's clubs in Chicago a collect was read that deserves immortality. We don't know who wrote it, but we'd like to know. And anyway we'd like to recommend it for profound study and reflection to every human being to whom it may come. It follows:

Keep us, O Lord, from PETTINESS.
Let us be LARGE in thought, in word, in deed.
Let us be done with FAULT-FINDING and SELF-SEEKING.
May we put away PRETENSE and meet each other face to face without self-pity and without PREJUDICE.
MAY WE NEVER BE HASTY IN JUDGING, and always GENEROUS.
Let us take time for all things.
Make us grow calm, serene, GENTLE.
Teach us to put into action our better impulses, straightforward and unafraid.
Grant that we may realize that IT IS THE LITTLE THINGS THAT CREATE DIFFERENCE; that in the LARGE things of life we are one.
And may we be active to touch and to know the great common (woman's) heart of us all.
And O Lord, let us not forget to be KIND!

Still, if it's only the noise you want, a piece of lath brought flatside down on a pine box will help.

ABOUT THE PRIMARY SYSTEM.

We hear and read criticism of the direct primary system, which was to be a panacea for all our political ills.

The New York Times says: "It is becoming evident that if the direct primary is to be other than a nuisance and a danger in politics, it will have to be radically altered."

Says the Philadelphia Public Ledger: "It must be conceded that it as easy for the politicians to control open primaries as it is for them to manipulate ward caucuses, if a majority of the voters remain indifferent, and they appear to be as indifferent to direct primaries as they have generally been to ward, district or town caucus."

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch points to the list of 369 candidates on the primary ballot there, and declares it to be impossible for the ordinary voter to make a judicious selection from such a number.

The San Francisco Chronicle says that elected conventions are far better than private conferences at which the primary winners are generally hand picked.

And the Indianapolis News adds that "the trouble is that the ordinary voters will not bestir themselves to protect their rights, and that the machine politicians use every effort, however unscrupulous, to gain their graft."

Most of these newspapers are opposed to the spirit of the primary system, and that must be reckoned in considering their criticisms.

But it must be admitted by everybody that the primary system has not proved to be an automatic device for insuring pure elections and ideal nominations.

AND NO SANE PERSON EVER DREAMED THAT IT WOULD!

There is no conceivable concoction of statutes that will make up for the lack of a proper public spirit.

There can be no election law that will cure civic indifference.

The primary system is better than the convention system because—and only because—it provides an OPPORTUNITY for the voters to make wise selections. If they do not use that opportunity it is no fault of the primary system.

A poor public spirit is a blight on popular government. No law can cure it, no possible system of elections can avert its disastrous effects. It is far more dangerous than tyranny—for tyranny is impotent without it. It is far more dangerous than bossism—because bossism thrives on it and cannot live without it. It is far more dangerous than special privilege, because it is the food on which special privilege has grown so great.

No primary election system will ever be perfected that will offset the peril of a poor public spirit. The sooner everybody realizes that the better; for one of the worst evils in this country is the growing habit of relying on legislative concoctions to make us all good and happy and free.

If public spirit is sound and vigilant and aggressive, there is no election machinery so crude that it can balk it.

If public spirit is poor and indifferent and careless, there is no election machinery so perfect that it can avert the inevitable penalty of indifference and carelessness.

The primary system is better than the convention system because it makes the voter more free and gives him a better opportunity to work his will. But it is not a substitute for public spirit. There is no substitute for public spirit, and there never will be.

Oyster Bay will naturally look for the Outlook to suspend publication immediately if not sooner.

THE HERALD EXCURSIONS.

Monday the season for The Herald's popular water excursions begins again.

That will be good news to a good many, judging from the experience of previous years.

These excursions, which include a variety of pleasure trips down the north and south shores and up the river, have given pleasure to many in the past, and that makes it well worth The Herald's while.

We should like to hire all the boats and invite everybody to take free rides every week, but obviously that wouldn't do, so the popular-priced week-day trips were inaugurated.

They begin again Monday.

Will the Outlook seem any less nutty without its Kernel?

LIVING LONG.

Extraordinary efforts are being made these days to prolong life. Infant mortality has been greatly reduced and will be reduced still more; but science is busier still on the harder problem of prolonging the years of maturity.

And that's very important, not alone to individuals but to society. It's dreadful for an individual to die untimely, and sad for his family; but a broader aspect is that society has lost the services of one whom it has trained to be of use to it. What should have been a good investment has turned out a loss.

More will be done in the future in the way of taking physical stock frequently—that is, giving people physical examinations oftener. Some life insurance companies are now providing this service, and others are going to. And it is wise investment for them, and will pay well.

The average man never has a physical examination until he takes out a life insurance policy or gets sick. And very often things develop then which show that it is too late.

Dr. W. A. Evans conducts a health department in the Chicago Tribune. The other day, in advising vacations, he went into this subject: "More than half of those who write to this column are complaining of some ailment which should have been guarded against years before. * * * Maybe most of these people were handicapped because there was no way of finding out where they were drifting. It is different now. It is now feasible for any man at periodic intervals to have a physical examination which will disclose where he is going and his rate of going. Some of the life insurance companies are providing this service, others will be within a year. Many diseases warn a long time in advance of their serious stages."

And a man who, through a formal physical examination, finds himself heading toward some such disease, can by taking advice and following it postpone the end many years.

The pity of it, from the viewpoint of those to whom the most serious cases come, is that they come too late—that they should have been attended to months or years before and were not.

Dr. Evans's talk was about vacations, which he advocated earnestly. He urged one full day's rest in seven, and a vacation besides, and declared that these things "mean better work, a saner view, more accurate judgment, more initiative, as well as a longer life."

It takes something pretty serious to check a busy man. The first warnings of serious ills are not, as a rule, serious. They handicap the victim, and spoil his life to some extent; but he can spur his waning energies and go on with his program, and usually he does—paying for it all later.

"Some time" he is going to take a good rest and build up—when he gets this job done, when he makes another hundred thousand or million, or when he is on Easy Street. It's usually the tomorrow that never comes.

There is talk of putting a string on large life insurance policies. Those who take them out are to be required to take frequent physical examinations, and when the doctor says stop and rest, they must stop and rest or forfeit their policies. That would save many lives and promote human well-being.

But this plan wouldn't do for the small policy holder, for often he CAN'T stop. He is tied to the treadmill, and must keep on or lose his little business or his job. He could be helped with advice, but the advice to lay off six months and go to Carlsbad would be a bitter joke.

Life and happiness and efficiency can be prolonged in every case where it is not too late. Proper rest, proper vacations, proper working and living conditions: these will save many. If overwork is the trouble, rest is the cure. If over-eating is the trouble, moderation is the cure. If dissipation is the trouble, temperance is the cure.

Indeed, temperance is the best panacea after all—temperance in eating for the greedy, temperance in drinking for the dissipated, temperance in worry for the fretful, temperance in work for those who overdo.

But the average man could help himself a lot by giving half the attention to himself that he does to the care of a machine in his shop or a horse in his stable.

Some Italian stone masons have just settled a strike on terms by which they will get from forty-three to seventy-two cents a day of ten hours. One can only hope they'll not spend it all foolishly.

THE FOURTH OF JULY.

This nation was born a hundred and thirty-eight years ago today, when with the signing of the Declaration of Independence on that first Fourth of July thirteen scattered and disintegrated colonies sprang into being as a new nation, soon to be the mightiest in the world.

The country is but an infant, as countries go. It seems a long time to a family, and it is altogether too long for any individual to compass; but to a nation it is only a watch in the night.

Yet much has happened. The country's history has been full, is still full. The Revolution was yet to be fought and won. The Critical Period that followed was yet to be passed. The Constitution was yet to be framed and accepted. The issue of chattel slavery was to be shouldered aside in the making of the Constitution, was to be shouldered aside again in the Missouri Compromise of 1820 and again in the Kansas-Nebraska bill of 1854, only to rear its head in 1861 full-panoplied with the grim accoutrements of war.

This infant nation thinly strewn along the fringe of a great continent was yet to conquer that continent and take its fabulous riches. In the taking, it was yet to rear a brood of class privileges and problems of plutocracy and poverty that are still unsolved.

War-time wears the tinsel and the glow of romance, but the need of patriotism and high public spirit is as great in time of peace as in time of war.

Every child remembers the perilous period of the Revolution, but how many grown people, even, remember the still more perilous period between Yorktown and the adoption of the Constitution? Here were a handful of distinct states, sundered by jealousies but driven together by fear. United they stood, divided they fell; nothing else drove them together, and even then these mutual jealousies and fears were so great that Union was compromised by restrictions that still plague us. For awhile, it was a question whether there were to be any United States or not; and yet it was no question at all that if there were no Union, the loose confederation would fall by the weight of its own weakness.

Here was a time that called for patriotism and public spirit and unselfish devotion to the common good as much as any war-time ever did; and the nation responded nobly.

But whether it was the call to arms or the call to the polls; whether the country demanded the blood sacrifice or the sacrifice of time and money and study; whether the nation needed its sons to fight for it or to think for it, to die for it or to live for it, it is a glorious thought that the nation's sons never have denied the call, never have stinted themselves in their country's service.

And that is as true today as it was at Lexington or Bladensburg or Vera Cruz or Bull Run or Manila or Vera Cruz again in 1914; as true as it was in the making of the Constitution, in the half century of debate over slavery, in the rebuilding of a sundered nation after the Civil war, or in the attack upon the entrenchments of Special Privilege in this young century.

Though we often seem to be indifferent, and though we spend our Fourths in idleness, in merrymaking or even in dissipation of a sort; still the Flag and the Union, the nation and its natal day, have a sacred and tender meaning to us all. What our fathers have done we shall do if need be. And we are not so unmindful as the slender election returns sometimes indicate of the fact that every day is a Critical Period, and every election a potential Appomattox, in the life of a nation.

There still remains some room for speculation as to the geographical proximity of Armageddon and Albany.

THE PLAGUE OF LEGISLATION.

The Louisville Post greets the publication of the latest volume of the new laws of Kentucky with a just rebuke to the evil of over-legislation.

It seems that the volume contains 536 pages "of legislation regulating everything in heaven and earth and the waters under the earth. Nine-tenths of it will at once fall into innocuous desuetude. Five per cent will be used in the course of time for exacting money from men who have been violating the law without knowing it, and without anybody caring. Five per cent of it may be said to be needed legislation."

That's Kentucky.

The chief difference between Kentucky and any other state will be that the pages of the annual or biennial tome of new laws will be more or less than 536.

In Minnesota, for instance, the latest volume of new statutes has more than a thousand pages instead of a few more than five hundred. The rest of the Post's disgusted comments apply literally.

And it gets worse all the time. A row of session laws in almost any state, side by side upon a shelf, has the same appearance and the same development—from thin to not so thin, from thick to fat. The volumes grow yearly.

"Ignorance of the law is no excuse." And ignorance of the law is no shame, because it would be a physical impossibility for any man to know the law and have any other business except to study it and to keep track of its changes.

Yet this turgid flood of legislation is the logical result of the prevailing legislative system.

The Minnesota legislature has two hundred members in both houses. It is idle all but three months every other year, and during that time these two hundred aspiring statesmen pour into the hopper two or three thousand bills. Each of the two hundred seeks the limelight, and thinks that the way to get it is to introduce some startling measure to make men good and happy and rich. The first half of the session is dawdled away; eighty-five per cent of the laws are passed in the last ten days of the session.

That bills should be many, that laws should be many, that the chances of legislative folly should be great, are only what should be expected from this system.

When the legislature meets at St. Paul in January, nobody could fill the fingers of two hands in counting the measures needed by the state; yet it will be as sure as the day comes that the number of the bills introduced cannot be counted on the fingers of a regiment, and that the number of laws enacted will fill the fingers of a troop.

Even Illinois is beginning to realize that whitewash isn't the most durable finishing for a financial institution.

PERSONAL APPEARANCES.

"Pray without ceasing, and shave every morning."

Thus piety and propriety were combined in the excellently wise advice given one time to an incoming class of divinity students by former President Patterson of Princeton.

An odd genius here and there affects to be careless of personal appearance, and gets away with it; but the average man can't do it.

The average man feels like a hobo and an outcast in frayed cuffs and shapeless trousers and a shiny coat; but dress him up in good clothes from head to foot and he holds his head up with the best of them.

Part of the value of presenting a good appearance lies in the impression it makes on others; but greater still is the value of the self-confidence it breeds.

Costly thy habit as thy purse can buy,
But not expressed in fancy; rich, not gaudy;
For the apparel oft proclaims the man.

So runs in part the famous homily which Polonius gives to Laertes in "Hamlet." And it's wisdom and good sense.

Beware foppishness. There is no better way of arousing the antagonism of the solid and substantial men you are seeking to impress. One of the clever cartoonists has a picture of a man, just tipped out of a canoe, sinking rapidly while a sturdy swimmer is heading for him from the shore. In the next picture only one wildly waving hand is above the surface as the swimmer draws near, and on it is a wrist watch. In the third the swimmer, his face a picture of disgust, has turned about and is heading for the shore, leaving the fop to drown. That's exaggerated, of course; but it exaggerates a feeling many share.

Beware slovenliness. The man you wish to employ you is likely to figure that a man who is slovenly about his appearance will be slovenly in his work.

Quoting Dr. Patterson's advice given above, a seminary professor engaged in training young men for the ministry says:

> Pray without ceasing takes care of the springs of power, but a daily shave helps to maintain outward evidence of inward grace. Because there is no spiritual grace in a clean collar some men go upon the supposition that there is such grace in a soiled one. Fearing that carefully combed hair may mean foppishness, some of our young men affect tousled hair.

That's the same good advice, a little diluted.

It's good advice for divinity students; it's good advice for everybody.

Costly thy habit as thy purse can buy,
But not expressed in fancy; rich, not gaudy;
For the apparel oft proclaims the man.

By your personal appearance you often fix the public's valuation of yourself, and your own valuation of yourself as well. Slovenliness means a very light appraisal; foppishness means an appraisal manifestly padded beyond actual worth.

This is the day when the mocking bird has nothing on the eagle for attracting attention.

What "Only a Living" Means on the Farm

Breeder's Gazette: "We are only making a living on the farm," complained a friend not long ago. We happen to know that it is a good living, that the home is a roomy, comfortable sort of place, that there is a sleeping porch, a bathroom, a fireplace, a sunny dining room. He has cows, fowls, horses, carriages and a garden. Besides, certain improvements and soil ameliorations that he has undertaken will some day yield him far more of the fruits of the earth than he is today receiving.

Leaving this friend and his farm we took a journey and awoke to look out at a manufacturing city. Closely set were the tall houses, dusty, smoked, between them hot and dirty streets. In such environment lies a great proportion of America's people; fewer than the half of us dwell on farms, the rest in cities.

A living? Seeing men emerging from these smoke begrimed homes dinner pails in hand to go to their places of toil we remembered our friends on farms. They arise and go forth in the freshness of the dewy morning, the air is clean, the birds are all about them, the sun shines, the fresh breezes blow. Theirs is no such toil as that of shop or office. A living? Commend us to the living that goes with the peaceful fields.

Johnny's History Lesson.

I think of all the things at school
A boy has got to do,
That studying history, as a rule,
Is worst of all, don't you?
Of dates there are an awful sight.
And though I study day and night,
There's only one I've got just right.
That's 1492.

Columbus crossed the Delaware
In 1492;
We whipped the British fair and square
In 1492.
At Concord and at Lexington
We kept the redcoats on the run
While the band played "Johnny Get Your Gun!"
In 1492.

Pat Henry with his dying breath,
In 1492,
Said: "Give me liberty or give me death!"
In 1492.
And Barbara Frietchie, so 'tis said,
Cried, "Shoot, if you must, this old gray head,
But I'd rather 'twould be your own instead!"
In 1492.

The Pilgrims came to Plymouth Rock
In 1492.
And the Indians standing on the dock
Asked, "What are you going to do?"
And they said, "We seek your harbor dear
That our children's children's children dear
May boast that their forefathers landed here
In 1492.

Miss Pocahontas saved the life
In 1492,
Of John Smith and became his wife
In 1492,
And the Smith tribe started then and there
And now there are John Smiths everywhere;
But they didn't have any Smiths to spare
In 1492.

Kentucky was settled by Daniel Boone
In 1492,
And I think the cow jumped over the moon
In 1492.
Ben Franklin flew his kite so high
He drew the lightning from the sky,
And Washington couldn't tell a lie
In 1492.

The Green Apple Season; a Moral Tale.

San Francisco Bulletin: Once there was a boy. One day he went out and saw a tree with a green apple hanging on it. The apple seemed to say: "Eat me! Dare you to!" though it manifestly had no right to say that at that stage of the game. If the boy had been a wise boy he would have gone away and come back when he was sure the apple was ripe, but he was only about as wise as the general run of boys, and after a little consideration he climbed into the tree and got the apple and ate it. At first he liked it, though it puckered his mouth up some. After a while something began to happen inside of him. He didn't know what it was, but he was sure that he was going to die. He thought that nothing in the world was quite as loathsome as an apple of any description, and he wished he had been born without any stomach, or at least without any opening into it. He resolved that the next green apple he ate would have to fired into him with a shotgun.

After a while he felt better and climbed up into the tree and ate three more green apples that he had overlooked before.

The New Independence

Edward S. Martin in the Youth's Companion.

One hundred and thirty-eight years from the day we celebrate, behold us stretching out fumbling hands for a different independence.

Precisely what that independence is very few of us could define, but the desire for it or the conception of it seems to be owing to a sentiment that our old independence has become impaired—not as regards foreign governments, for we fear nothing from them; but in particulars that concern our "certain inalienable rights," to "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness."

There is a very widespread sentiment that some of those rights have been, and are being filched away from some of us. In a country where the means of living abound as they have never before in history abounded for like numbers, we have seen a rising tide of murmuring discontent. The span of average life was never so long as now, but there is complaint that the conditions of living and of labor cheat too many out of the fullness of their years. It is a grievance that liberty is unduly abridged by the exactions of tasks that the workers cannot escape. The pursuit of happiness is identified with the pursuit of money, and from the East and from the West there everywhere rises the complaint that in that race the field has been distanced, and that the stronger and luckier competitors get far too great a share of the prizes.

The desire for a different independence is born of a wish to allay all that are reasonable of these complaints, and of a hope to do so by enacting laws to restrict the powers and privileges of great combinations of capital, and to regulate the railways and to diminish the protective tariff and to transfer to government some powers, thought to be dangerous, that had inured to the bankers, and to protect work people in their dealings with employers and by income and inheritance taxes to put a larger share of the costs of government on those to whom the protection of government has been, pecuniarily, most profitable.

These are high hopes, and with the effort to realize them there is wide sympathy. The legislative measures they inspire will be good or bad according as they comply or fail to comply with the great economic laws that regulate commercial and industrial life. They will not necessarily be good because they are well intended, or because they deprive the unduly acquisitive of their gains or curb the ardor of the avaricious. Neither will they necessarily be had because they disarrange in some particulars for a time our industrial and social machinery, conflict with notions of property and privilege that had become embedded in certain minds and constrain a part of our great community to rearrange its habits of living.

Since our father's day life has grown complex. The old declaration was the word of men who took it for granted that they spoke for people who expected to shape their own course in life and to take care of themselves. It was the word of men who got their own living, knew how to get it, and asked for no more than access to the soil or fair protection in whatever calling they followed. Such men made the prosperity of our country, and such men still abound in it, and must still make it prosper, if it is to prosper. But along with them have come to be millions of others, some of them the less able or less fortunate scions of the old stock, many of them newcomers from Europe, whose hope for subsistence and that reasonable happiness which all men pursue depends in a distressing degree on the justice and good will of their more fortunate fellows. They must find employment, must seek it where it offers, and accept the terms of it. They are far less independent than the men our fathers spoke for. To procure fair terms and a chance to live as men should live, they must not only cultivate and exert their own powers, but combine to exact the terms they want, or look to government to help them.

There is wealth enough to go around. The great question is, is there character enough?

We have need, each of us, to make a new declaration of independence; to declare ourselves free from the domination to the haste to be rich; to separate in our minds the pursuit of happiness and the pursuit of money, and to declare that they shall not be unduly confounded in our habits and aims. That is the declaration that is proceeding from American minds and American hearts today. The great thing that has happened in the last decade in our country has been the decline in the homage paid to money, a great relative appreciation of other forms of power, and the prodigious awakening of wealth to its responsibilities. The conception of accumulated money as a means of escape from troublesome obligations of life is passing away. Everywhere there is evidence of the growth of a better and sounder sentiment; namely, that without troublesome obligations life is tasteless, that wealth without service is immoral, that riches are only of secondary and incidental importance, and that the great use of them is to preserve the bodies and to raise up and ennoble the spirits of men.

Getting Ready for the Fall Campaign

New York World: Our pious Progressive contemporary, the Outlook, finds that the country has gone to the dogs because "this Democratic administration does not believe in a strong government. It is afraid of a strong government."

Our wicked standpat contemporary, the Sun, finds that the country has gone to the dogs because the president has usurped all the powers of government and is ruling with a despotic hand.

The pious Outlook is spouting Alexander Hamilton's maxim: "An energetic government is necessary to the safety of the Union." The wicked Sun is screaming for somebody to regulate and restrain the president of the United States. On off days it recites Washington's warning against changes in government by usurpation.

It is obvious that an administration which, as the pious Outlook complains, "fears that the strong government will be the despotic government" cannot at the same time be an iron-handed tyrant, as the wicked Sun so excitedly asseverates.

We should not think of trying to reconcile these conflicting criticisms of President Wilson. We are putting them on record merely as evidence that both factions of the Republican party are making their usually harmonious preparations for the fall campaign.

And Elsa Was Only Seven.

Fliegende Blaetter: "Don't you think little Elsa gets more and more like me?"

"Certainly; soon we shan't be able to distinguish the difference between you. She grows older and you grow younger."

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

The Providence Over America.

In a stirring chapter setting forth the difficult planting of the first English colony on Virginian soil, John Fiske pauses to remark: "In the unfolding of these events there is poetic beauty and grandeur as the purpose of Infinite Wisdom reveals itself in the cosmic process, slowly but inexorably, hasting not, but resting not, heedless of the clashing aims and discordant cries of short-sighted mortals, sweeping their tiny efforts into magical current, and making all contribute to the fulfillment of God's will."

The impression left upon this master mind is shared by any who follow the course of our country's history. The hours of uncertainty and of crisis have not been few. Many a time it must have seemed to the actors that the drama they were playing was to end in confusion. So it often seemed to us of a later day save as we postulate the entrance into our human affairs of a Power who makes the forces of nature and the wrath of man to praise Him.

Forest and famine and hostile Indians seemed destined ever and again to snuff out the first feeble settlement both in Virginia and in Massachusetts. Ruin was imminent later when the sparse population along the Atlantic seaboard took up arms against a rich and populous mother country. The end of war found our forefathers plunged into new problems. The five years succeeding the close of the Revolution have been called the "critical period of American history." When the constitutional convention convened in Philadelphia on May 25, 1787, eleven days after the appointed time, any prospect of unity among the delegates seemed distant, indeed. Benjamin Franklin, though a man not easily shocked, was so troubled by the altercations around him that he moved that prayers be said every morning in the interest of harmony. After a day filled with dissension and strifes Franklin pointed to a sun painted behind the speaker's chair, saying: "I have often and often in the course of the session and in the vicissitudes of my own hopes and fears as to the issue looked at that sun behind the president without being able to tell whether it was rising or setting."

Although under eclipse once and again, although not yet come to its zenith, the sun of the republic is a rising and not a setting one. A high destiny awaits America. God has established the nation for a great purpose of which not one jot or tittle shall pass away till all be fulfilled.

To the founder of the Hebrew race the Almighty said: "I will make of thee a great nation and in thee shall all the families of the earth be blessed." Is not that the conviction that every lover of his country must cherish for America? And who has put it better than that child of Abraham, Israel Zangwill, in his drama, "The Melting Pot," "Now understand that America is God's crucible, the great melting pot, where the races of Europe are melting and reforming. Here you stand, good folk, think I, when I see them at Ellis Island, here you stand in your fifty groups, with your fifty languages and histories, and your fifty blood hatreds and rivalries. But you won't be long like that, brothers, for these are the fires of God you've come to—these are the fires of God! A fig for your feuds and vendettas! Germans, Frenchmen, Irishmen and Englishmen, Jews and Russians—into the crucible with you all! God is making the American."

THE PARSON.

An Anatomical Mistake.

The Popular Magazine: Just before the baseball season opened, Joe Engel, one of the young pitchers for the Nationals in the American league, wrote to J. Ed. Grillo, the sporting editor:

"Dear Mr. Grillo: I am on my way to see Bonesetter Reese, and I think, when he gets through with my arm, I'll be a better pitcher than ever."

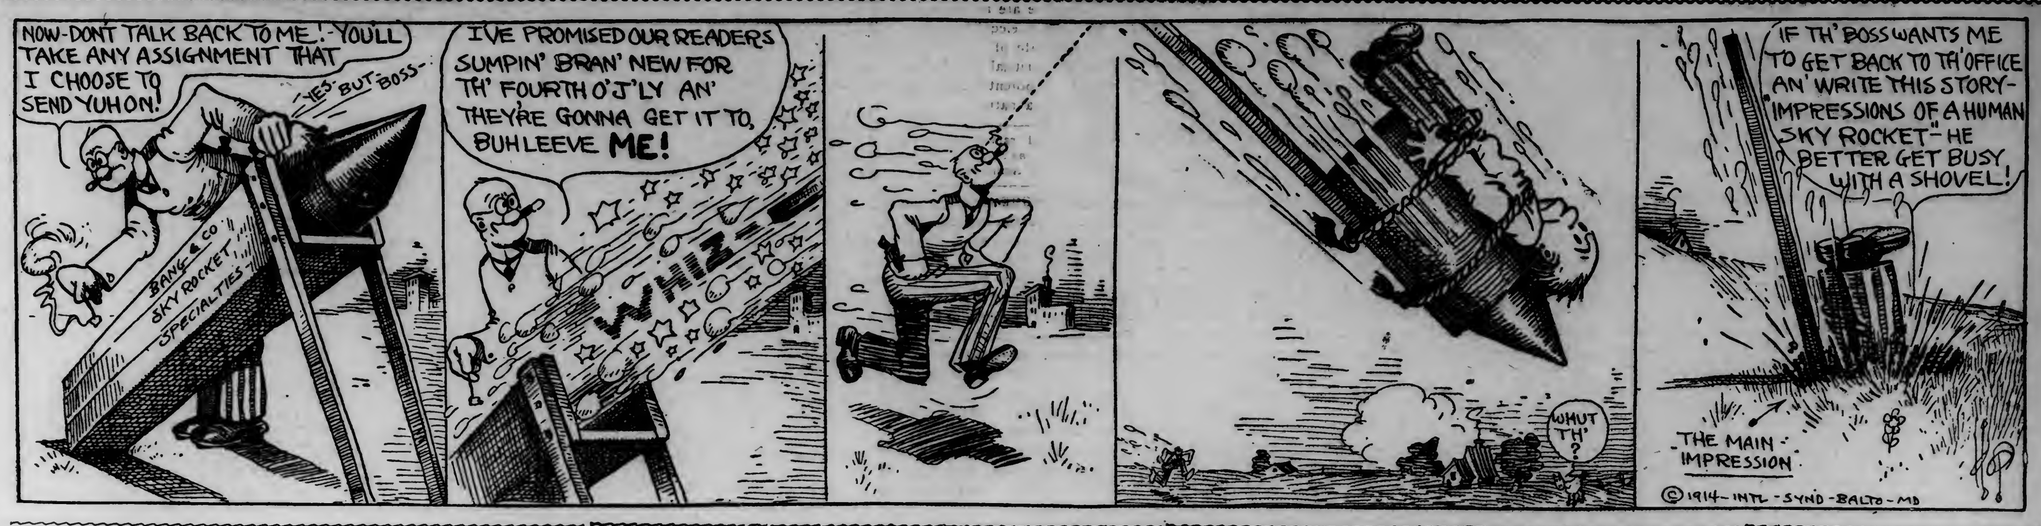

Grillo replied:

"Dear Joe: You're mistaking a mistake in going to see Bonesetter Reese about your arm. Get him to treat that head."

EXTRAVAGANCE IN CONGRESS

By SAVOYARD.

Washington, July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—All parties promise reduction of public expenditures, but no party practices it, for the simple reason that it is impossible under our method of appropriating moneys to carry on the government. No country of Europe would tolerate our system a moment and it would bankrupt any other country in the world.

Until we adopt the "budget" appropriations will continue to climb. Woodrow Wilson is warmly in favor of it and has written very powerfully in support of it; but since he has been president he has had other irons in the fire. No doubt he will take it up with congress as soon as the bills relating to trusts are out of the way. Swagar Sherley, a representative in congress from Kentucky, made an exhaustive speech on the subject during the Sixty-second congress, and as soon as congress and the country come to understand the thing we will have the budget which will tend to the most wholesome economy in appropriations.

But without the budget all efforts looking to economy are necessarily spasmodic. Soon after Gen. Grant became president there was a big row in congress over a slight increase of some appropriation or other, and Henry L. Dawes, a representative from Massachusetts, was chairman of the committee on appropriations. He made a speech calling a halt on extravagance that made a sensation from ocean to ocean. Only a few beggarly dollars were involved, a miserable sum that congress would not bat its eyes at now days. Dawes did not hesitate to hurl adverse criticism at the administration, which he named as "the other end of the avenue." Such excitement attended the speech that numerous Republican newspaper organs proceeded to nominate Dawes for Grant's job, but six weeks later the whole thing was forgot.

The next essay in the economy line was during Grant's second term. The Democrats swept the country in the election of 1874, and had a large majority in the Forty-fourth congress. Sam Randall became chairman of appropriations, and Holman of Indiana and Atkins of Tennessee were his lieutenants. Garfield succeeded Blaine as leader of the minority when Blaine went to the senate, and it was he who declared that "the Confederate Brigadiers, having failed to shoot the government to death, now tried to starve it to death." Randall and Holman were merciless in the curtailment of salaries and their conclusive answer to Republican criticism was, "If the Republican office-holders cannot live on the salaries we provide, let 'em resign and we will undertake to find Democrats who will cheerfully take their places and prove just as capable as those now in office." There were no resignations. Nobody in those days ever dreamed of a "billion congress" in time of peace, and despite the Republican senate the expenditures were reduced by several millions. A million was a heap of money in 1875.

It is a great pity that Sam Randall mixed old Whiggery with his Democracy. That fact cost this country tens of millions, perhaps hundreds of millions. When he killed the Morrison tariff bill of the Forty-eighth congress great pressure was brought upon Mr. Speaker Carlisle to depose him from the appropriations committee. Instead of doing that, Mr. Carlisle had a rule adopted distributing the annual appropriations, leaving only about one-half of them to the committee on appropriations. Thus there was divided authority and divided responsibility. It was a great mistake, and from that time appropriations began to climb and climb until extravagance had full swing despite the efforts of able and honest men to check it.

Charles A. Dana was as good a hater as Gen. Jackson. He was the leading journalist of the country and that his paper was Democratic was due to his intense and remorseless personal hatred of Gen. Grant. The first Tom Reed congress, the Fifty-first, spent a billion, something unheard of except one year of the great war of 1861-65. Here was a campaign cry, and in the Fifty-second congress the Democrats had the biggest majority any party ever had in any congress. Dana's cry of the "billion congress" had much to do with the Democratic victory.

And now we have the two-billion congress—have had it for years, and unless we resort to the budget soon we will have the three-billion congress. It might be checked—extravagance—if it were paramount. But we have had tariffs, coinage, imperialism, trusts, and what not for paramounts and economy in public expenditures, promised by all parties, has been practiced by none. Whatever shortcomings may be charged to old Joe Cannon, his voice and vote were ever for economy in appropriations. This man was speaker four terms and for eight years he was czar. He did his utmost to stem the tide, and yet the appropriations constantly expanded while he was speaker, as they had done while he was chairman of appropriations.

It is not the fault of parties or of men. It is not dishonest. It is the inevitable prodigality that attends the division of power and responsibility. Now when you hear a candidate for congress spouting on the stump that when he gets here he is going to put an end to extravagance, set him down as ignorant, or a demagogue, or both. He will do no such thing. The biggest men in the land have tried it and failed.

There is much opposition to the budget in congress, but, men and brethren, it will come after the people come to understand it. It would be another great feather in Wilson's cap if he should reason or persuade congress into adopting it.

THE VOICE OF TRUTH

By Elizabeth Jordan, Author of the May Iverson Stories.

Copyright, 1913, by Harper & Brothers.

EDITOR'S NOTE—May Iverson, Elizabeth Jordan's famous school girl of St. Catharine's convent, is known wherever American books and magazines are known. During the past six years three May Iverson novels have appeared—the last two in Harper's Magazine, the third, during the current year, in Good Housekeeping. The story reprinted here, by courtesy of Harper & Brothers, has a special interest, not only because it depicts in May Iverson's inimitable fashion the launching of a "great paper" but even more from the fact that it is illustrated with a photograph of the actual scene of the tale—the College of St. Elizabeth, in Convent, New Jersey.

During the serial publication of her stories Miss Jordan received hundreds of inquiries from girls and "grown-ups" asking her what particular convent is described as St. Catharine's. In the preface to her second book, "May Iverson Tackles Life," she explains that several convents are described—the one where she herself was educated, as well as others she has visited.

She is, however, especially fond of St. Elizabeth's, where she is a frequent guest, and during one of her visits there the inspiration for this story came to her. It will interest her readers to see for the first time in connection with this tale the real school background of May Iverson, Maudie Joyce, Kittie James and the rest of the happy band who figure prominently in the Iverson books.

One day during rhetoric class Sister Irmingarde wrote a sentence on the board and said she wished us girls to think about it. It was this: "The lives of great failures are not written."

She asked us what we thought it meant, so we discussed it earnestly, and, I trust I need not add, intelligently; for, as I have often explained to the gentle readers, we girls at St. Catharine's are students of singularly mature minds and rare intuition. But all the time the others were talking I was thinking how interesting it would be to write the story of a great failure; and then suddenly I remembered that I could, because I knew one. Well indeed, alas! can I write of a great failure, for I was it; and as most of the other chapters are cheerful and end well, perhaps the gentle reader will not mind a sad one for a change. It is not going to be easy to tell this, for great failures are terrible things, and the people who make them usually feel dreadful and are embittered for life; and sometimes they die of broken hearts, like Horace Greeley. No wonder they don't write about them. But I will do it because I am a literary artist, and because truth is mighty and must prevail, and because, after all, I am only 14, and no one but Juliet ever knew everything at that tender age. So I will pluck my quill out of my breast, as it were, the way the mother pelican does, and I will write this dark chronicle of a brilliant young life and how it clouded up all of a sudden.

Collegiate Hall of Studies—Erected 1912.

The great failure was my paper. I had set my heart on it and my young ambitions—and one has a great many young ambitions when one is 14. All my friends knew I was the editor, so they subscribed, and I planned to send a copy to papa every week, with my name at the top of the editorial page. The name of the paper was The Voice of Truth, and its motto was "Uncompromising Fearlessness." The girls made it "the official organ of the students of St. Catharine's academy," and Mabel Muriel Murphy's father told Mabel Muriel he would be our financial adviser. He did that because Mabel Muriel was the business manager. It was very convenient for her, too, because when we were getting it ready, and spending lots more money than we took in, Mabel Muriel always telegraphed to her father and he sent money right away; and then Mabel Muriel's books showed a large profit. You can see what a good business manager she was and how clever we were to think of a financial adviser and have one.

Mabel Blossom was the circulation manager, and she was fine, too. She made all the girls subscribe, because she told them if they didn't, nothing about them would come out in The Voice of Truth; and then she started a roll of honor, and a roll of ignominy, and had proofs of them printed and sent them around. In the roll of honor she printed every week the names of all our friends who subscribed—the fathers and mothers and sisters and brothers outside of St. Catharine's, you know; and in the roll of ignominy she printed the names of our friends who ought to subscribe and didn't. It was, indeed, interesting to see how they hurried to get out of the roll of ignominy, and into the roll of honor. Mabel hardly ever had to print their names in the roll of ignominy more than once. Mabel Muriel Murphy's father laughed about that. He said it was "forcing" circulation; but it wasn't. It was just an effort to uplift our dear friends and do them good. We know The Voice of Truth would uplift them, and inspire them to better, nobler lives, as soon as they began to read it.

Maudie Joyce was the managing editor, and I was the editor-in-chief, so, of course, I took charge of the editorial page, which papa has always said is the backbone of the paper and by it the journal stands or falls. Papa says, too, that no journal can live unless it instructs the masses. So I made up my mind The Voice of Truth should have a backbone and instruct the masses, and be a kind of beacon light in the stormy sea of life, the yaw a lighthouse is, you know.

The first thing I did was to study all the great New York newspapers, so I could copy the best thing in each one in my paper. I gave most of one Saturday to it, and Maudie Joyce helped. After he had read them all for hours and hours I decided I liked the Sun's editorial page best, because it was so bright and funny, and, besides, I knew I could write editorials just like it. And we agreed we'd have "all the news that was fit to print," like the Times; and we would be dignified and scholarly and quarrel with all the other newspapers, like the Evening Post; and we would have beats, like the Herald, and the weather in Paris, because that would be so exciting. And I thought how surprised and proud papa would be when he turned in disappointment from his morning Tribune and found the news he wanted every Saturday in his Voice of Truth. Then we decided we would attack the rich, like the World and Journal do. Mabel Muriel Murphy's father was the only ver. very rich man we knew, so of course we had to attack him, and we did, too, fearlessly and openly, and he didn't seem to like it when we told him. But Mabel Muriel explained to him how it was part of the policy of the paper, and that he had to be our financial advisor and the soulless corporation with its heel on the neck of the poor besides. So he was, and we gave it to him good and hard in the editorials I wrote.

Then we wrote to all the great papers, asking them to exchange with us, and we wrote to the president and members of the cabinet, telling them to give us all the news beats before they gave them to the other papers. That was Maudie Joyce's idea, and it was fine, too, though they didn't do it, for some reason. I suppose they thought perhaps we didn't "wield enough political influence." Little do they wot that my father is a general in the army. I was glad to remember that, for I thought perhaps he would come up for promotion some day, and then there would be trouble about it, and The Voice of Truth would have lots of beats and lay bare the innermost recesses of everybody's heart.

After we finished our letters to the president and his advisers (we asked them to advise us before they did him, but they didn't do that, either)—well, after that we wrote to all the girls we knew in different cities who used to be at St. Catherine's and we asked them to be special correspondents and send us everything that happened. We said they must be truthful and fearless and not mind whether people liked what they wrote. The news came first and their duty to us was paramount. Maudie said that. I don't know what it means and I haven't time to find out but it sounds well. I hope it doesn't mean anything wrong. We told the girls we would pay them what all the New York papers pay their correspondents and we would give them "double rates for beats." "Beats," you know, are stories no other paper gets. Mr. Murphy suggested that, and he told all the editors in his city about our paper and how his daughter was running it. I had to correct this sad error publicly in the first issue of The Voice of Truth, for of course Mabel Muriel wasn't running it. I was. Mr. Murphy did not like it when I said I must write a correction, and he was quite slow in sending checks for a week or two, so that Mable Muriel had to talk to him very earnestly, and even hint that perhaps we wouldn't let him be financial adviser any more. That brought him round in a hurry. We knew it would.

Of course all this time the paper was just "in the air," as real writers say. We hadn't begun to write for it or print it, but we thought about it and talked about it a great deal, and every letter we opened seemed to be full of money for subscriptions. We charged four dollars a year, because that is what most weekly magazines cost, and we knew The Voice of Truth would be better than magazines. I would have all the news and "high-class literary features" besides. I was sure of those, because I intended to write them myself.

After we got this far we asked permission to go to the nearest town for the day, and the Sisters let us go, with one of the graduates to look after us. So, of course, we had to tell her our secret, and she was very nice about it and quite interested, especially after she saw the big roll of money Mabel Muriel Murphy had to spend. Some of it was her own, and some her father had given her, and the rest was "annual subscriptions payable in advance," the way they all are, you know. We went right to the best printer in town—the four of us, Mabel Blossom, Mabel Muriel Murphy, Maudie Joyce and I, with the graduate hovering modestly in the background (she didn't put on any airs over us or call us children that day, I can tell you!)) and we told the printer what we wanted. He didn't seem much impressed at first, and he began to tell us how cheaply we could get up a little "four-page folder." He seemed to think we had only a few pennies to spend. But by-and-by Mabel Muriel Murphy took her big roll of money out of her pocket, and carelessly let two or three twenty dollar bills fall on the floor, and picked them up again absently, as if it didn't matter; and I wish you could have seen that printer sit up and take notice, the way babies do when you dangle watches in front of them. His eyes were just as big and round as theirs, too.

He began to bring out nice sheets of creamy, thick paper for samples and he showed us different kinds of type. We told him we would use very, very large type when we had "beats" and very small type the rest of the time, because we wanted to crowd a great deal of news into our paper. We asked him to get an artist to make a nice picture for the top of the first page, with an angel blowing a trumpet on one side and a pole for wireless telegraphy at the other side, and Truth flying through the air and hitting the pole. We didn't know just exactly how to show Truth, but finally Mabel Blossom said we'd better make it a balloon thing coming out of the trumpet and on its way to the wireless pole, so we did. By that time the printer was very kind, and willing and eager and anxious to please, and he called two other men in to help, and they all seemed as interested as we were. One of them said he knew Mabel Murphy's father, and he told the printer he could sell Mabel Muriel the shop on credit if she wanted it, but Mabel Muriel didn't. She engaged him, though, to do all the work, and he said all we had to do was to bring in the "copy" and he would attend to the rest. Then we decided on the size and the paper and the number of pages. The printer thought we ought not to have more than eight to begin with, and he pointed out that it would be a serious mistake to give people more than their money's worth. We saw that, too, right away. Then he showed us the big machine, like an enormous typewriter, that would "set" all our "copy," and first I thought I'd better come down and learn to set it myself to avoid errors, but the printer did not agree with me. He said that editors rarely did that now "in the big centers," and finally I saw that it would probably take a good deal of time, so I gave it up. Thus do we live and learn.

We were with the printer hours before everything was settled, and the graduate was quite nervous about getting back to St. Catharine's so late, but our consciences were at peace, for we knew we had done well. All we had to do after that was to write the paper and telegraph to our correspondents to rush their news, the way real editors do. While we were in town we sent telegrams to all of them to send their beats for next week's paper, and in a day or two they began to come in.

Then things got exciting. Maudie almost lost her head, for she was the managing editor and had to see to lots of things, and Mabel Muriel couldn't help her much because she was persuading people to advertise. She was clever about it, too. She got lots of the girls to advertise for things the other girls had borrowed from them and had not returned. The advertisements were like this:

"If Kitty James will kindly return the chafing dish she borrowed from Adeline Thurston two weeks ago, she will be more lady-like."

Adeline only had to pay twenty-five cents for that, and she got her chafing dish back the first morning The Voice of Truth came out, so we saw that it did pay to advertise, though Kittie didn't speak to Adeline for days and days afterward. Mabel Muriel got the merchants to advertise, too, and she had a new idea about them that worked beautifully. Right below their advertisement of anything she printed the name of some girl who had tried the thing and knew it was good. This way you know:

JAMES J. WEBSTER
Haberdasher, 266 Front Street.
EASTER HATS A SPECIALTY.
Maudie Joyce Got Hers There!

Mr. Webster liked that very much when Muriel showed him the proofs, and he wanted us to print a picture of Maudie in the hat, but she wouldn't let us. We were fearless with the advertisers, too, though, and told the truth about them. One man's advertisement was printed like this, and he was so angry when he saw the proof that he took it right out and wanted his money back. I said:

WILLIAM SMITHERS, Florist,
Cut Flowers and Potted Plants.
Watch Him. They Are Not Always Fresh. Mabel Blossom Got Stale Ones There Last Week.

So you see they were often unreasonable and hard to please; but we expected these light annoyances in the beginning, so we were not surprised. However, I am ahead again. It is so hard to remember that when the time comes to tell anything you must wait till another time, the way Henry James does. The paper wasn't really out yet, I just absently told you some of the things we did before it came out. And in the meantime our work on it was a great secret from the sisters, for we knew if we told them they would want to help us and see all the articles, and we wanted the credit ourselves.

As I said before, the copy from our correspondents in the "large centers" began to come in, and it was fine. Jennie Farrelly lives in New York, so she wrote a beautiful piece about what "Parsifal" meant, and how long the kiss was. She timed it with her watch; and it was a beat, for no other paper had that. We sent Jennie "double rates." Mamie Chester lives in Chicago, and she knew a girl who was in the Iroquois theater fire last winter, so Mamie interviewed her (she wasn't dead) and wrote a thrilling description. That was a beat, too, because that particular girl had never talked to reporters before. Our Philadelphia correspondent wrote a lovely piece about Ethel Barrymore at home, and we were all so interested; for we saw her in "Cousin Kate," and she was just sweet, besides illustrating the tragic truth that girls who don't marry are terribly lonesome when they get to be old. But the very best news of all came from Nettie Upson, in Springfield, Mass. Nettie's mother has a Japanese butler, and he told Nettie all about the war with Russia, and how much braver the Japanese are, and how some time Japan and America will clasp hands across the sea like brothers and go down the ages together and fight all the other nations of the earth and civilize them. It was beautiful, and Nettie wrote it all so thrillingly that Maudie Joyce cried when she read it. I guess there are not many correspondents who can make their managing editor shed scalding tears over their papers.

But the gentle reader must not suppose that I was idle while my dear friends and colleagues were thus active. No, I was at work—on the editorial pages—and I wrote every word of it myself, after a careful study of the Sun's style. First, of course, I said things about President Roosevelt, pretending to pat him on the back, but really showing how he had failed this nation in its darkest hours of need. (I like him myself, and so does papa, but of course I had to be fearless.) Next I wrote a funny little poem and said a man in Schenectady did it, and after that I made up some queer names people might have, and I printed them. Then I wrote the Paris weather, like the Herald does, and I told about the soulless corporation with its heel on the neck of the poor, the way the Journal does, and I explained that it was Maudie Joyce who was editor-in-chief. How he ground down his employees on starving wages, while his daughter lived in luxury and had more pocket money than any other girl at St. Catharine's.

That inspired me—you know how it is when you get started—so I wrote another editorial, and said that The Voice of Truth would constantly and fearlessly expose wrong wherever it was, and that it would hold up the faults of the girls at St. Catharine's for their good. I said how rare are the friends who will tell one the truth about one's self, and they don't last long, anyhow; and I said The Voice of Truth would be such a friend to the students and would turn its X-rays on the evil in all their hearts. Then I went on to tell the girls what was the matter with them. Even my dear friends should not be spared, I said, so I began with Maudie Joyce, and advised her not to be queenly so much or have so many airs, and I said Mabel Muriel Murphy was improving but still had much to learn, and that Mabel Blossom was lazy.

Mabel came in while I was writing this, so I read it to her, and she was not pleased the least little bit. But after I reasoned with her she saw it had to be, so she said I could print it if I would let her write an editorial about me. At first I didn't want her to. There were enough, I thought, and it didn't seem modest for the editor-in-chief to be on the page that way. But Mabel talked and talked, so finally I gave in and she went off to write it. I wish you could have seen it when she brought it back. What I had said was kind and friendly and loving, but what Mabel Blossom said about me—her dear friend — was dreadful. She said that I had "started out to be a pretty good sort" (Mabel has not a polished literary style), but that literature had been "too much" for me. And she said I was conceited and had no sense of humor, and that I took myself too seriously, and that Maudie Joyce and Mabel Muriel thought so, too. She said other things, too, that I will not repeat. I had to put them in the paper, because I promised to; but I don't have to put them here, and I won't.

My young heart sank as I read my friend's editorial, but what could I do? So I put it in the paper, under the heading Mabel wrote, "Is There Hope for May Iverson?" and right above it was my name as editor-in-chief. Was that right or fair? I pause for a reply, as real writers say.

Then I wrote the editorial about Mabel Blossom's faults. I had forgotten some of them, but now I remember more; so I wrote them right in for the child's good, and when I showed it to her she couldn't say a word, for they were all true, and right well did Mabel Blossom know it. That filled up most of what was left of the editorial page, so I just dropped in a few more thoughts, and then I sent the copy to the printer, which I had to do, of course, before it could be published in the paper. After that I rested—and I needed to.

The Voice of Truth came out the next Saturday. Across the top of the front page was our picture of the angel and the trumpet and the wireless pole, but the artist had forgotten the balloon thing, which was Truth. However, I guess it looked better his way. It was very pretty. In the first column was the article on "Parsifal," and next to that was "Ethel Barrymore at Home" and beside that was the "Iroquois Fire." Then you had to turn the page, and you came right to my editorials. They looked beautiful. The printer had used big type with lots of white between to fill the page, and the eager eye of the reader could fall on the alluring titles. "Greeting—and Our Aims" was one. "His Workmen Cry for Bread"—that was about Mr. Murphy. "Ignoble Faults in Lovely Natures," was about the girls, you know. "Showing His Teeth" was the one about the president, and then there were the poems and the weather and the rest. And of course the one about me, which I trust I need not mention again.

The next page had Mabel's roll of honor and roll of ignominy, because she said they were very important and must come near the front of the paper. After that we had advertisements and "Academy Notes"—a whole page of those—and "Advice to the Faculty," by Mabel Blossom. She wrote the headlines herself, and the second one was "An Eloquent Plea for Less Studies and More Fun, by a Brilliant but Overworked Student." And he says I am conceited!

Well, I have to tell about all the rest. There was a love story by Maudie Joyce, a beautiful one, where they don't see each other for sixty years and then are reunited, and die smiling in each other's arms. I cried quarts over it! Adeline Thurston had a poem, of course; and we printed one of Kittie James' compositions to encourage her in her studies. Besides, we needed something to fill the page. And that was about all, I think, but we explained that we have more next week when the president and cabinet officers began to send us beats.

One of the girls put a copy on Sister Imingrade's desk, to surprise her—and I think it did. For while we were all reading the paper together and talking it over, and before we had time to mail any copies to subscribers, I saw something black coming along the hall, and first I thought it was a cloud, and then I saw it was Sister Irmingarde. So did the others. We all looked at each other, and somehow in that very moment I began to feel queer, and to wonder whether the paper was so good, after all, and to think perhaps we had made some mistakes. The girls did, too. They told me so afterwards. When Sister Irmingarde reached us we all stood up, of course, and we saw that she had The Voice of Truth in her hand and that her face was very white. She tapped the cover of the paper with her finger, and when she spoke her voice sounded queer.

"Have any copies of this gone out of the building?" she asked.

We said, "No, not yet," and her face changed right away, and she wiped her forehead as if she felt warm, though it was a cold day. Then she looked at us again in an odd way, and when she spoke she seemed to be speaking to herself, not to us.

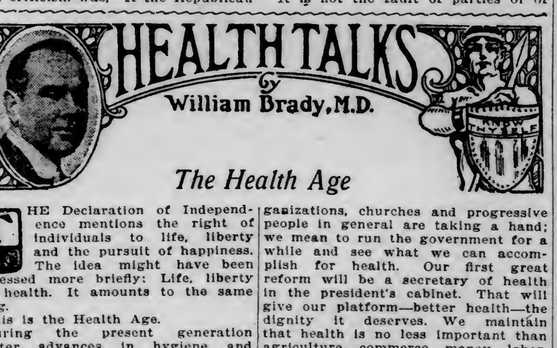

"You haven't the remotest conception, evidently, of what you've done," she said, very slowly. "So I suppose we must try to remember that, after all, you are mere babies!"

We did not know what she meant by those enigmatic words, and she never told us. But it was, indeed, easy to see she didn't like The Voice of Truth. She made us promise to destroy every copy and never to do anything of the kind again without consulting her. And she seemed to think we were so terribly young! That worried us most of all. Perhaps we are babies and don't know it.

But one thing is sure. No baby could pay the bills that printer sent Mabel Muriel. Mabel Muriel couldn't either. They made her hair stand right straight up. But she telegraphed to our financial adviser, and he came to St. Catharine's and advised us to pay the bills; and then he did pay them. So you see he was quite useful, and maybe it uplifted him, too. For I am most sure that during one morning, at least, while he was examing all our bills and writing out checks to pay them, he was too busy to be a soulless corporation with its heel on the neck of the poor!

The Health Age

THE Declaration of Independence mentions the right of individuals to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

The idea might have been expressed more briefly: Life, liberty and health. It amounts to the same thing.

This is the Health Age.

During the present generation greater advances in hygiene and health have been made than ever before in the world's history.

Some of the more important features in the worldwide campaign for better health are:

(1) We have learned to sleep with our windows open.

(2) We have declared relentless war on the common fly, the malaria and yellow fever carrying mosquitoes, the rat flea that carries plague, and several other predatory insects.

(3) We have found a safe and sure method of preventing typhoid fever. Last year, 1913, there was not a single death from typhoid in the United States army, thanks to the new prophylactic.

(4) We have demonstrated that the great majority of patients with tuberculosis can be restored to health.

(5) We have persuaded legislatures that human life is as well worth saving as is the life of animals or trees.

(6) We have come within an acre of having a secretary of health in the president's cabinet—despite the opposition of those interests which live and have their being on popular ignorance and credulity.

A Secretary of Health.

Lawyers ran our government very well for many years. Businessmen have more recently usurped some of the governmental power and brought about excellent reforms; their administration has proved just a wee bit better than that of the lawyers. Now the medical profession, social workers, educational experts, charitable organizations, churches and progressive people in general are taking a hand; we mean to run the government for a while and see what we can accomplish for health. Our first great reform will be a secretary of health in the president's cabinet. That will give our platform—better health—the dignity it deserves. We maintain that health is no less important than agriculture, commerce, money, labor, state or war. Are you with us, or do you stand with the quacks, the nostrum makers, the "antis" and those who would remedy disease, crime and pauperism by absent treatment?

Questions and Answers.

R. E. asks: I am a house painter by trade. Do you think the inhalation of turpentine, oil, lead, varnish, etc., is harmful to the general health?

REPLY.

Yes, if you are inhaling such things. But the mere fact that you are a painter doesn't prove you are. Lead is the only poison you need consider, and that enters principally through the skin of your hands. Gloves, gasoline, care, cleanliness and frequent scrubbing with soap and water will prevent injury to your health.

• • •

F. L. A. asks: Can a child of 4 years have typhoid fever?

REPLY.

Yes. Typhoid is impartial to its victims.

• • •

Bookkeeper writes: Why is rheumatism so apt to affect the heart? Is there any way for one subject to rheumatism to prevent heart disease?

REPLY.

"Rheumatism" is an infection of the blood. The germs lodge on the heart valves or the lining of the heart and set up acute or chronic inflammation. Outside of proper medical treatment for the infection which you call "rheumatism," the only suggestion I can give you as a prevention of heart trouble is, live right.

Mother's Friend Before Baby Arrives

During several weeks of expectancy there is a splendid external embrocation in our "Mother's Friend" in which thousands of women have the most unbounded confidence. They have used it and know. They tell of its wonderful influence to ease the abdominal muscles and how they avoided those dreaded stretching pains that are so much talked about. This safe external application is gently used over the skin to render it amenable to the natural stretching which it undergoes. The myriad of nerve threads just beneath the skin is thus relieved of unnecessary pain-producing causes and great physical relief is the result as expressed by a host of happy mothers who write from experience.

It is a subject that all women should be familiar with as "Mother's Friend" has been in use many years, and is recommended by grandmothers who in their earlier days learned to rely upon this splendid aid to women.

You can obtain "Mother's Friend" at almost any drug store. Get a bottle to-day and then write for our little book so useful to expectant mothers.

DUPLICATE OF THE BETSY ROSS FLAG IS MADE BY DULUTH YOUNG WOMEN AND FLOWN ON FOURTH

(From an Old Painting.)

BETSY ROSS AND THE FIRST FLAG.

This morning a duplicate of the Betsy Ross flag was run up on the pole at the side of the First Methodist church and the regulation stars and stripes were placed just above it.

Young women of the First Methodist church made the copy of the first American flag that was the work of Betsy Ross of Philadelphia who followed the rough sketch submitted to her by Gen. Washington. Three days after the first visit of the committee, composed of Washington, Robert Morris and Col. George Ross (Betsy's uncle), they called again at the Ross home and were shown the first American flag. It was composed of thirteen alternate red and white stripes and a blue field set with thirteen five-pointed white stars arranged in a circular form. This was in the early summer of 1776.

At the next congress, about a year later, the design carried out by Betsy Ross was adopted officially. June 14, the date of the adoption, is the established flag day of the United States.

Weddings

Miss Beulah Brassard and Edward Trombley were married Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Jean Baptiste Catholic church by Rev. Didace Guillet. The bride wore a gown of shadow lace and net. Her veil was caught in cap effect with lilies of the valley and she carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Eva Brassard, wore a pink satin gown and carried pink Killarney roses. Edward Blechl was the best man.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Julia Brassard, 410 North Fifty-third avenue west. Mr. and Mrs. Trombley left for a short wedding trip.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Give the Neglected Child a Chance.

One of the things, if not the main thing, that keeps childless couples from adopting an orphan or a foundling is being given the widest publicity just now. It has to do with the unknown qualities in every human being.

Several years ago, so the newspapers state, a woman hungry for a child and denied one of her own, did the next best thing. She took one from an infant asylum on trial and within a year adopted it. All went well for some years. Later, however, the girl developed serious traits of dishonesty so the foster-mother claims. These could not be ignored.

The story hinges on the foster-mother's determination to get rid of her charge. She has applied to the court to have the adoption set aside and is willing and ready to set this defective girl adrift, all this in the face of her care of her and professed love for her covering a number of years, seven or eight I believe.

Her reason for doing so is not far to seek. She, in common with the rank and file of humanity, grows panicky at the thought of having disgrace fall upon her name. It's hard enough to bear when one's own flesh and blood are the cause, but it's intolerable when one you have befriended and aided, who has absolutely no claim on you, except that which you have assumed of your own free will, makes your honored name a by-word in the streets.

At least, this is what I have heard people say who were attempting to explain why it is that they had never adopted a child while wishing to enjoy the companionship and love of one. And, of course, it is not an unreasonable premise. Nevertheless, it always makes me feel that people are more interested in preserving their good names than in doing noble things for which they are unlikely to receive a reward in this world.

That the child does or does not reflect honor upon his foster parents is not the main point. It is that men and women shall recognize their duty to the younger generation and do what they can to further its welfare, whether they are parents in very truth or just make-believe ones.

PROTECT YOUR COMPLEXION

Every woman who spends the Summer at the seashore, in the mountains or at some fashionable watering place should take with her a few bottles of

to improve and beautify her complexion and protect her skin from the burning sun, bleaching winds, and damp night air.

The surest guarantee of its perfection is the fact of it having been in actual use for nearly three-quarters of a century.

It cannot be surpassed for the relief of tan, pimples, freckles and other blemishes of the complexion.

ALUMNAE PERFORM UNIQUE WORK

Collegiate Association Is the Only National Body of Its Kind Whose Aim Is Solely Educational.

THE Association of Collegiate Alumnae is the only national non-professional organization of American college women having for its aim purely educational work. It has been consulted frequently by national bodies and government bureaus for information with regard to the higher education of women. The special act of the Massachusetts legislature, approved in 1899, under which the association was incorporated and which was accepted as its constitution, states that its purpose is to unite the alumnae of different institutions for "practical educational work, for the collection and publication of statistical and other information concerning education, and in general for the maintenance of high standards of education."

Organized in 1882.

The nucleus of the association was formed in Boston in 1882 by seventeen women, graduates of eight American colleges, and by three alumnae each from Michigan, Oberlin and Vassar, two each from Boston university, Wellesley and Wisconsin, and one each from Cornell and Smith. In two years branch organizations were formed. The Association of Collegiate Alumnae now numbers 5,980 women in sixty-two branches, three of which are in Minnesota, at Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth. The branches are scattered from California to New York and from Minnesota to Missouri, the Southern states having an independent organization of their own.

For many years the policy of the A. C. A. restricted, within perhaps too narrow limits, the number of colleges admitted to its list. Certain qualifications were strictly adhered to. Among these were a minimum endowment, the absence of a preparatory department, adequate salaries for its teaching force, the recognition of women in its faculty and adequate provisions for the welfare of women students. Some institutions of high rank were not admitted to membership because of the absence of one or more of these qualifications. Thus the A. C. A. has always resolutely set its face towards high standards for woman's education, and has undoubtedly been one of the agencies which have united in maintaining the highest grade in our institutions for the education of women and in opening the doors of some of the non-coeducational colleges.

Broader Basis Is Sought.

In the last few years, however, it has been seen that a broader basis would better serve the purposes of the organization. The higher education of women is no longer a thing to be fought for; it is an accomplished fact. In the words of Mrs. Alexander F. Morrison, recently president of the national organization, the latest policy of the association is expressed: "As graduates of colleges we are beneficiaries of the highest education our country affords. We must accept the duty imposed thereby, and having prepared ourselves for intellectual leadership we must join the work for human welfare and human betterment."

Classes of Members.

There are now two classes of members, the regular member, who has the bachelor's degree or an advanced non-professional degree from one of the forty-one colleges now on the approved list and associate members. Associate members are properly members of the branches rather than of the association proper. They have all the privileges of regular members except votes on national policies and the right to hold offices that entitle them to be on national committees, and to represent branches in national meetings. But in all that directly concerns our state and city work the associate members have the same rank and importance as the regular members, serving as chairmen and members of committees and initiating and aiding in all policies for the local work. Any woman may become an associate member who has taken one year's full academic work, such as would be credited for one full year's work leading to the bachelor's degree, although not necessarily taken in candidacy for the bachelor's degree, in any college or university having a four year's course and granting the degree of A. B.

A branch of the A. C. A. was organized in Duluth in 1894, but after three years, its membership falling below the required number it ceased to exist. In 1908 the present Duluth branch came into an independent existence, the women who organized it not being aware that a previous attempt had been made.

MRS. L. W. KLINE, President.

Duluth Branch Membership.

The Duluth branch lists in the year book for 1913-14, seventy-three regular and thirty-eight associate members. A very varied and interesting program has been prepared for the coming year, and activities will be carried on along several lines. Among these the scholarship open to graduates of the high schools and the normal school is of general interest. A nucleus for this scholarship has been accumulating for several years, and it is purposed to add to this nucleus and have ready for use in 1915-16 a sum of money sufficient for a year's expenses at one of the colleges on the A. C. A. list. Suitable announcements will be made to the senior classes that in the fall they may know the conditions under which the scholarship may be obtained.

All Should Be Listed.

The local association is very desirous that every woman in Duluth who is eligible for either regular or associate membership should have her name upon the list by the first meeting in October. It will be greatly appreciated if all such women who are interested in the work will send their names to the chairman of the membership committee, Miss Helen Congdon of London road and Thirty-second avenue east, who will furnish the necessary blanks for filling.

The colleges now on the A. C. A. list, a degre from which entitles a woman to regular membership, are as follows: Barnard college, Beloit college, Boston university, Women's college in Brown university, Bryn Mawr college, University of California, University of Chicago, University of Cincinnati, Colorado college, University of Colorado, Cornell university, Drake university, Grinnell college, Goucher college, university of Illinois, Indiana university, University of Iowa, University of Kansas, Knox college, Lake Forest college, Leland Standford, Jr., university, Lawrence college, Lawrence college, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Mount Holyoke college, University of Michigan, University of Minnesota, University of Nebraska, University of Missouri, Northwestern university, Oberlin college, Ohio State university, Radcliffe college, Smith college, Swarthmore college, Syracuse university, Vassar college, Washington university (St. Louis), University of Washington (Seattle), Wellesley college, Western Reserve university, university of Wisconsin.

WHAT IS THE NATIONAL SONG?

American Audiences Arise for "The Star Spangled Banner" and Several Others.

ALTHOUGH "The Star Spangled Banner" is recognized officially as the national air more than other patriotic songs, confusion often results from not having one distinct song that is associated unmistakably with the United States. When foreign bands wish to pay tribute to America and Americans they play any of several different airs and in many instances the Americans stand up to anyone or to several parts of the medley. The mixture of American patriotic airs is due to no discourtesy on the part of the foreign bands but to the lack of custom of standing at one air and one only.

The United States army and navy regulations require that enlisted men stand at attention at "The Star Spangled Banner," but citizens in general are doubtful about the patriotic air at which they should stand. Magazines and the National Institute of Arts and Letters have offered money prizes for the best production to supersede "America" or "The Star Spangled Banner."

"National airs are not made to order like tombstone poetry, but are inspired by great crises," says an exchange. "The Star Spangled Banner,' that is semi-officially the American song, was not written with prize money in view, but came from the heart of Frances Scott Key. It isn't a national song we lack, but the general recognition of one of our existing songs."

SOLOIST RETURNS TO DULUTH AFTER YEAR SPENT IN SEATTLE

THE musical people of Duluth and Superior are much interested in the return of Miss Glenn Bartholomew after a year's absence on the Pacific coast. Miss Bartholomew began her professional work as contralto at the First Presbyterian church of this city, under the direction of Miss Ruth Alta Rogers. She held that position for two years and a half, and won many friends through her sympathetic rendering of church music. When she left Duluth a year ago, she had become one of the best known of the local soloists. In Seattle she had an experience rather remarkable for so young a singer, being chosen as leading contralto in the famous church of Dr. Mark A. Matthews.

This church, the First Presbyterian, has an enrolled membership of 5,000 and the pastor preaches every Sunday morning to more than 2,000 people. The evening congregations, made up principally of men, are equally large. The music is under the direction of Dr. Bruce Gordon Kingsley, of England, who received degrees at Oxford and Cambridge before he specialized in music, and had the benefit of the best musical training in England and on the continent. He had worked for two years in building up the choir at Dr. Matthews' church, which consisted of a quartet and a chorus of sixty voices.

Miss Bartholomew sang in the quartet and was leading contralto in the chorus, attending four rehearsals every week in preparation for two regular Sunday services and an elaborate week day concert each month. In addition to her vocal instruction from Dr. Kingsley, she took a special course in music and allied subjects at the university.

Dr. Matthews has one of the most completely socialized churches in the country, with three assistant pastors and a large staff of workers. It has been the aim of the church to give the best music to the people. Miss Bartholomew's return to Duluth, and to her place in the First Presbyterian choir, has been awaited with eagerness by her friends. She will sing tomorrow at both morning and evening services.

MISS GLENN BARTHOLOMEW.

SISTER OF DULUTH WOMAN BEGAN WORLD FIGHT ON TUBERCULOSIS

THE Linnaea society was the first organization to follow the example set by the Anti-Tuberculosis society of Gothenburg, Sweden, in selling emblems each year for the benefit of sufferers of the disease.

It was through the initiative of Fru Beda Hallberg, a sister of Mrs. Josef Lonegren of this city, that the Anti-Tuberculosis society was formed in Gothenburg, developing in branches in every city and village of Sweden. It was her idea that on May 1, every year, under the auspices of each local branch, little celluloid flowers should be sold for the relief of sufferers of the white plague. The first year, 1907, 1,000,000 buttonhole flowers were sold. The sales increased each year, so that last May 2,500,000 flowers were sold, this time a daisy of natural size. In former years the anemone was used, at first the white and later the blue variety.

When the second World's Anti-Tuberculosis congress met in Stockholm in 1908 several members of it were influenced by Fru Hallberg's idea and on returning to their home countries took the initiative to spread the plan.

By this time it has taken root in more than a dozen countries. Through the efforts of Mrs. Josef Lonegren the Linnaea society and later the Linnaea branch were formed in this city. Linnaea emblems on post cards were sold and this last spring $1,000 was realized from the sale of tags.

Denmark Adops It.

Denmark was the next country to adopt the flower. Prof. Carl Lorentzen of Copenhagen taking the initiative. Fru V. Quam of Christiania introduced the heath as the emblem in Norway. Froken Greta Klarich of Helsingfors was the first person in Finland to work up enthusiasm and organization in that country. In Holland Dr. W. J. Van Gorkom introduced the sale of an artificial flower on April 30, calling it "Juliana," in honor of the little princess, whose birthday is on that date. In Russia, where Madame Alexandra Brunner took the initiative, little flowers were sold this year to the amount of 2,000,000 roubles. Queen Alexandra has adopted the white rose as an emblem in the anti-tuberculosis fight in England. The idea was carried to Prussia through the efforts of Frau Agate Metters of Wiesbaden, Belgium and several other countries have since joined the procession. Herr Lennart Brusewitz, a Swedish business man in Yokohoma, Japan, introduced a sale there, but it is not known if it carried further than among his own countrymen.

Fru Beda Hallberg is an honorary member of the Norwegian Society of Sanitation in Christiania and wears the insignia of its mark of distinction. Recently she was decorated by the king of Sweden for meritorious service with a gold medal, the "Illis quorum meruere labores."

FRU BEDA HALLBERG.

REVIVAL OF THE HEBREW LANGUAGE

Turkish Authorities Concerned Over Its Spread in Palestine.

Jerusalem, July 4.—The Turkish government has issued orders against posting notices in Hebrew upon the walls of cities of Palestine. The action is believed to indicate concern on the part of the authorities over the remarkable revival of the Hebrew language.

Although up to thirty years ago classic Hebrew was not ordinarily used by the Jews of Palestine, it is now the common language of tens of thousands of people in Palestine. It is the medium of instruction in many schools and newspapers, street car tickets and shopkeepers' signs are in Hebrew. It is therefore apparent that the authorities will have a hard time if they propose to check the spread of the language.

The revival of the pure Biblical tongue has been, in a measure, forced on the Palestine Jew for reasons apart from the sentimental. Immigration from other parts of the world, particularly of the 13,000 Yiddish speaking Jews from Russia some years ago, made a common means of a communication necessary. Yiddish is not understood by the natives here, while all Jews know something of Hebrew.

The Zionist movement, aimed at restoring Palestine to the Jewish race, has done much to finance the Hebrew schools, and is now raising a fund to endow a Hebrew university at Jerusalem.

WOMAN WILL BE IN YACHT RACE

Wife of Challenger's Skipper Performs an Important Service.

London, July 4.—In all the enthusiasm of preparation for the great yacht race for the America's cup next fall it has escaped general notice that a woman will figure largely in the contest. On board Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger, Shamrock IV, will be Mrs. W. P. Burton, the skipper's wife. She will not be there simply in an ornamental capacity, but for service at the wheel, holding the stop watch for her husband while the yacht is jockeying for position just before the start of the race. This is something which Capt. Burton says he would entrust to no one but his wife. With her aid he is sure the Shamrock will be close to the starting line when the gun is fired.

Mrs. Burton has sailed in hundreds of yachting contests, probably holding a world's record for a woman along that line.

FOLLOWING HIS TRADE.

Cleveland Leader: Speechless with wrath, a little man was ushered into the court. An ornament of the police force had found him loitering about and had arrested him as a suspicious character.

"What were you doing at the time of your arrest?" asked the weary magistrate.

"Simply waiting!" spluttered the prisoner.

"What were you waiting for?"

"My money."

"Who owed you money?"

"The man I had been waiting for."

"What did he owe it to you for?"

"For waiting."

The magistrate took his glasses off and glared at the prisoner.

"Do not jest with me," he said. "Now, tell me, have you a trade?"

"Of course I have."

"Then what is it?"

"I earn my liing waiting. You see, I'm a waiter."

PROSECUTION OF TVEITMOE DROPPED

Last Six Dynamite Conspiracy Cases Are Nolle Prossed.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 4.—Judge A. B. Anderson of the United States court, before whom was held the trial of the famous dynamite conspiracy cases in 1912, which involved many prominent labor leaders, disposed of the remaining cases yesterday. On motion of Frank O. Dailey, United States district attorney, the cases against Olaf A. Tveitmoe, William J. McCain, James E. Ray, Richard H. Houlihan, Fred Shireman and Harry S. Jones were nolle prossed.

George E. Davis, who has been held a prisoner in the Federal building since last October, when he was arrested in New York after confessing to being a "second Ortie McManigal," was taken before Judge Anderson and sentence was suspended on his plea of guilty, which he entered after being indicted by the grand jury last November. He was released immediately.

Tveitmoe, McCain, Ray, Houlihan and Shireman were among those convicted in the trial in 1912. They were granted new trials and the dismissal of their cases was made on the ground that all evidence against them had been produced at the original trial, and that inasmuch as the circuit court of appeals had held this insufficient for conviction, there would be no use in again placing them on trial.

Each board was indicted jointly in one indictment, there being three indictments of four counts each returned against the fifteen officials.

TRADE REVIEW

New York, July 4.—Dun's Review says today: This is ordinarily a dull period of the year, the holiday and inventory-taking combining to restrict activity in commercial and industrial channels. The prevailing quietness of trade is somewhat accentuated by special causes, such as the recent dry goods suspensions and the general situation is characterized by a waiting attitude on the part of leading interests.

The government cotton report this week was unexpectedly favorable, showing, as it did, some improvement in the condition of the crop over a month ago, although the acreage is smaller than last year.

With the opening of the second half of the year a gradual expansion in the demand for iron and steel is anticipated, but any early improvement in values is considered doubtful.

Failures this week are 379 against 230 last year; in Canada 37 against 26.

PUBLIC UTILITIES CONTROLLED BY FEW

Report Covers Conditions in Chicago and Surrounding States.

Chicago, July 4.—By means of interlocking directorates, control of public utilities in Chicago and the surrounding states had become centralized in the hands of half a dozen men, according to a report made public by Montague Ferry, city commissioner of public service. In his report Mr. Ferry indicated that the close relationship shown among public service corporations may constitute a grave menace to the public, and urged a further investigation by the state public service commission to determine whether the city suffers by reason of the centralized control.

ONE DEMOCRAT AND TWO REPUBLICANS IN.

Washington, July 4.—The house election committee declared Representatives George W. Loft, Democrat, of New York; Dick T. Morgan and Bird S. McGuire, Republicans, of Oklahoma, legally elected.

Loft succeeded the late Timothy D. Sullivan and M. J. Wilkins had contested his election on the ground that the election proclamation by Governor Glynn was illegal. John Carney had contest Morgan's seat, and John S. Davis had unsuccessfully sought to unseat McGuire.

MEAT SUPPLY TO BE INQUIRED INTO Alleged English Supply Is Controlled By American Companies.

London, July 4.—The corporation of the city of London is holding a private inquiry into the alleged control of the English meat supply by the big American beef companies. It was proposed at a recent meeting of the corporation that the development of these companies be clipped by placing limit upon the number of stalls they may hold in the Smithfield market, but upon adverse report by a special committee, it was decided not to interfere.

The committee reported that the conditions of the business and the nature of the trade have very materially changed during the last ten years, and that the tendency to eliminate the middleman, or commission agent, and to concentrate the trade into fewer hands had affected the meat trade as well as other industries.

The corporation decided, however, by 90 votes to 70, to have a private inquiry to ascertain which sections of the market, if any, are under American control. It is asserted that many of the Smithfield salesmen are financed by what is called "trust funds," but the extent of the American influence in Smithfield is not known.

NORTH AND SOUTH OF ENGLAND DIFFER.

London, July 4.—The possibility of the North and the South of England becoming two distinct nations was almost seriously discussed by Bishop Wellson, dean of Manchester, at a recent meeting in London. The bishop said that only one who had gone from said that only one who had gone from would be struck by the widening gulf between the two sections. For one thing there was the growing difference of ecclesiastical feeling, the South showing more than the North less sympathy with ritualistic practices.

The differences had also been augmented by the tenacity with which the North, and Lancashire particularly, had clung to the doctrines of free trade, whereas the South of England was largely, though not entirely, given to protection or tariff reform.

ALARMING GROWTH OF CHINESE LABOR

British Unionists Aim at Amalgamation of General Labor.

London, July 4.—The amalgamation of the trades unions goes steadily forward. Following closely upon the working agreement between the miners, transport workers and railway men, with a total membership of 1,350,000, which has now been finally settled, the General Laborers' union, which has an immense organization spreading all over the county, has been admitted to the amalgamation. Thus practically all the unions, whose members mine coal or handle the freight of the country are in one organization.

This is the reply of the workers to the combination of the employers of the country, but it is only part of what the trades unionists aim at.

They are working for a general amalgamation of the lesser skilled or general labor. At present the workmen are faced with an alarming growth in the employment of cheap Chinese and other Eastern labor, chiefly at the great ports, where Chinamen and Indians are arriving in increasing numbers and they project some drastic action, either political or direct, to put a stop to this competition.

HAS BEEN PREMIER FOR SIX YEARS

Asquith Exceeds in Length the Administration of Disraeli.

London, July 4.—Premier Asquith has now held office for just six years, thus exceeding in length the administration of Disraeli, who occupied the office from 1874 to 1880. Since the days of Lord Liverpool, who was prime minister for fifteen years, there have been only three statesmen who is held the office for a longer period, without a break, than Mr. Asquith. Two of these, Lord Melbourne and Lord Palmerston, both were prime minister for about two months longer than Mr. Asquith has been so far. The third case is that of Lord Salisbury, who was prime minister for exactly seven years, from 1895 to 1902. Lord Palmerston, during his long term of power, was, like Mr. Asquith, leader of the house of commons as well as prime minister. The others, however, sat in the quieter atmosphere of the house of lords. The present prime minister, too, has taken an extra burden of the office of secretary of war and his administration has been at least as full of hard work as any in modern times.

Through it all Mr. Asquith, although the strain must be great, seems to thrive. He has certainly aged somewhat, but so have all those who have gone through the last few strenuous years with him. He is still the master of the house of commons, having no equal, except perhaps Mr. Balfour, in debate, while as a political tactician none come within miles of him. Even should the Ulster question prove to be beyond his powers of getting over difficult situations, he will be able to look back upon a long series of successes.

CHRONICLES OF THE EGYPTIANS

Happenings of Daily Life Exposed in Papyrean Writings.

London, July 4.—While the ancient Egyptians possessed no newspapers, an interesting chronicle of the small happenings of their daily life is exposed in the papyrean writings soon to be exhibited here by the London Society of Antiquaries.

That human nature has not changed very much with passing ages is shown by an order for an inquest into the death of a slave, killed by a fall from a roof on which he had crawled out to obtain a close view of some dancing girls. Announcements of horse racing and other athletic sports and a complaint by a wife against a surly husband who refused to give her the house keys are other items in the papyri. One notice tells of a certain platonic philosopher who was privileged to receive meals free at the Alexandria library.

The purpose of the exhibition is to raise funds for further explorations in the upper reaches of the Nile.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

HIGH JINKS FOR SCRIBES

Kangaroo Court Planned for Northern Minnesota Editors' Meet.

Judge Stanton Will Preside Over "Court" With Some Worthy Aides.

Spooner, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—When the Northern Minnesota Editorial association members come to this section July 17, 18 and 19 for their annual outing, including a trip on the Lake of the Woods, the closed season for political game of all kinds in Northern Minnesota will be on, according to a "ukase" just issued by President Charles Scheers and Secretary Rutledge of the association.

According to word received by George Ericson, local member of the reception committee, from Secretary Rutledge.

The Kangaroo Court.

Judge C. W. Stanton of Bemidji will act as judge advocate of the kangaroo court, and sitting en banc with him as associate justices will be Granville S. Pease of the Anoka Union, Charles Avery of the Hutchinson Leader, Alvah Eastman of the St. Cloud Journal-Press, Frank A. Day of the Fairmont Sentinel, A. J. Halstad of the Brainerd Tribune, E. C. Kiley of the Grand Rapids Herald-Review, Asa N. Wallace of the Sauk Center Herald, F. A. Wilson of the Bemidji Sentinel, G. E. Carson of the Bemidji Pioneer, and Albert Anderson of the Clearbrook Journal. The "strong-arm squad," which will rigidly enforce the mandates of the court and hale political offenders before the bar, will be headed by M. C. Cutter of the Thief River Falls News-Press, with his 200 pounds of determination, assisted by Sam Y. Gordon of the Browns Valley Interlake Tribune, George Ericson of the Spooner News, Stillman H. Bingham of The Duluth Herald, A. L. La Froniere of the Grand Rapids Independent, Herman Roe of the Northfield News, E. H. Denu of the Bemidji Pioneer, A. L. Sheets of the Long Prairie Argus, Frank Meyst of the Western Newspaper Union, Rudolph Lee of the Long Prairie Leader, W. E. Hutchinson of the Eagle Bend News and Fred C. Schilplin of the St. Cloud Times.

Gunnar Bjornson of the Minnesota Mascot and George Authier, late of the Minneapolis Tribune, will be attorneys for the prosecution of political disturbers and A. M. Welles of the Worthington Globe and F. A. Dare of the Walker Pilot will act as attorneys for the defendants.

It is expected that Charles S. Reed, formerly warden of the St. Cloud reformatory, a member of the editorial association, who will assume his new duties as warden of the state penitentiary Nov. 1, will be a member of the party, and "prisoners" who are convicted of pernicious political activity during the outing will be remanded to his custody.

H. C. Hotaling of the Mapleton Enterprise and J. C. Morrison of the Morris Tribune have consented to act as court reporters and will keep accurate records of the proceedings; that they may be used prior to the general election in November.

Secretary Rutledge reports everything moving along nicely for the outing, many editors from every section of the state having made application for accommodations during the trip to International Falls, Spooner and Baudette and on Lake of the Woods.

DAN LAWLER LAUDS COUNTRY'S PATRIOTS

Tells Crookston People What Fourth of July Stands For.

Crookston, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Crookston today enjoyed a regular old-fashioned Fourth of July celebration, which was attended by many people from this locality.

The feature of the day was the address of Dan Lawler of St. Paul, who said in part:

"We have assembled to observe in fitting manner the holiest day of the national secular year, the nation's and the people's holiday. In this hour of gratitude to God for the blessings which He has bestowed on this land during all its history, and of reverence for the fathers of the republic, we forget difference of opinion that separate us at other times, and remember only that we are American citizens, loyal to our institutions, and devoted to our flag. And wherever that banner floats today, whether it be on land or sea, in Minnesota or in Maine, in Alaska or in Alabama, in the harbor of Havana or over the ramparts of Manila and Vera Cruz, one hundred millions of American citizens salute its splendid folds and tender it again their fealty and love.

Foreign-Born Soldier.

"On this day of our glory and our power, it is proper to acknowledge the debt of gratitude which America owes and never can repay to the men and the people who in the early days of trial and struggle gave their treasures and their blood to the cause of independence."

The speaker referred to the bill restricting the right of emigration and imposing an educational test, taking strong ground against the measure, which, he said, had already been passed by the house of representatives, and said: "It is with a feeling of regret and personal shame that I am compelled to admit that the great political organization to which I have given the service of my life was in control of the house of representatives when this bill was passed. Its entire spirit is opposed to the meaning of independence day and to the genius of America. No man who voted for it can worthily celebrate this day. Its passage is a revival of know-nothingism. The people of the entire world have a natural right to come to the United States regardless of race or color and no true American will forbid their entry."

Foreign-Born Citizens Loyal.

The speaker called attention to the fact that the Union army was composed not only of native, but also of foreign-born citizens. He said that the foreign-born and the newly naturalized citizen fully realized the significance of his oath of allegiance and was prepared to demonstrate his absolute loyalty to the country and the flag which had given him and his children a place of refuge. The speaker described in detail the heroism of the soldiers and officers of Polish, French and Irish extraction.

The speaker commented sarcastically on the efforts made for a celebration of the 100th anniversary of the signing of the treaty of Ghent and found pleasure in the fact that the house of representatives this week voted down an appropriation of $25,000 for that purpose.

In conclusion Mr. Lawler referred to the tremendous duties of the president as a result of the Mexican trouble as follows:

Lauds President.

"I know that I express the sentiment of this great audience when I say that there is no heart here which does not go out in sympathy and in loyal and loving support to the president of the United States, your president and mine as he sits in Washington burdened with a greater weight than has pressed upon the shoulders of any president since Abraham Lincoln. I speak not now of the tremendous questions of economic reform which he is handling patriotically, patiently and successfully. I refer to another subject, the most tremendous problem which today confronts the people of this land. The blood of American citizens has again been shed on Mexican soil. The lives of American boys, radiant with health and hope, wearing the spotless uniform of this republic, have been sniped out by Mexican bullets as they did a man's duty in defense of your flag and mine. A single drop of that blood is more precious in the sight of God and man than all the oil and all the railroads of the world. Let us in this awful crisis of our history renew our pledge of absolute loyalty and trust to the president of the United States and to his great secretary of state, who are standing patiently, strongly and silently for the preservation of American honor and the protection of the American home."

HANNA CARRIED MANY COUNTIES

Led in Twenty-Four Counties and Second in Twenty-Four.

Mandan, N. D., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Morton county was carried by Hanna for governor and Wishek was not high man, as reported in many papers. The Republican vote was divided 1,430 for Hanna, 1,392 for Wishek and 351 for Burdick, giving Hanna a plurality of 38 and 1,089 over Burdick.

The complete unofficial returns from the state show that Hanna carried twenty-four counties and was second in twenty-four of the twenty-six counties carried by his opponents. Burdick carried eighteen and Wishek eight counties.

Where Hanna Led.

Those counties giving Hanna a lead over his other two opponents for the Republican nomination for governor were Barnes, Burke, Billings, Cass, Dunn, Eddy, Emmons, Foster, Golden Valley, Grand Forks, Griggs, Kidder, LaMoure, Morton, McHenry, Nelson, Pembina, Ransom, Richland, Rolette, Sargent, Stutsman, Walsh and Wells.

Burdick's eighteen counties were Adams, Benson, Bottineau, Bowman, Cavalier, Dickey, Divide, Mountrail, McKenzie, McLean, Pierce, Ramsey, Renville, Steele, Traill, Towner, Ward and Williams.

The eight in which more voters expressed a preference for Wishek were Burleigh, Brettinger, Logan, Mercer, McIntosh, Oliver, Sheridan and Stark.

LAPSE OF MEMORY IS NOW EXPLAINED.

Sheldon, N. D., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The identity of the man taken into custody here recently has been established as Aaron Hooker of Frederick, S. D. Six weeks ago he left home to go to New York Mills, Minn., and a few days later disappeared. He has no recollection of how he made the trip to Sheldon or how he lived. When found near here he was almost naked and famished. He claimed to be training for a foot race and was running along the road at a high rate of speed.

It developed that he was a man of education and was at one time a bookkeeper at Lakota for United States Senator Gronna. For three years he has been subject to epileptic attacks and has been insane a part of the time.

ASHLAND PASTOR HAS SUED CRITICS.

Ashland, Wis., July 4.—Loss of his pastorate, damage to his name and reputation, and public shame as alleged to have resulted from false accusations are told of in a suit for $6,000 damages filed by Rev. August Lutz, a minister for twenty-nine years and affiliated with the Wisconsin conference of the Evangelical association, against J. C. Bendel and F. W. Huebner.

On April 26, 1916, he alleges, they presented falsified receipts and books in an effort to injure him, and demanded the return of $206.87 alleged to be missing, under pain of being denied an appointment to a pastorate. The accounts, he says, were correct to a penny.

MILL CITY COLLISION.

Milwaukee Passenger Hits Engine, Seven Being Hurt.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 4.—Seven persons were slightly injured when a Milwaukee passenger train that left Chicago Friday morning crashed into a switch engine in the railroad yards here last night. The train was traveling about fifteen miles an hour when it hit the switch engine, which was not in motion.

Mrs. Anne E. Frink of Chicago and Joseph Bonton, Tulsa, Okla., were among the injured.

LIKES NORWEGIAN MUSIC

President's Daughters Show Interest While Visiting Madison.

Madison, Wis., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Norwegian music is the latest addition to the repertoire of Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of President Wilson. While on a recent visit to Madison, Miss Wilson became interested in Norse music and purchased some from Prof. R. B. Anderson. Miss Wilson expressed genuine delight in Scandinavian music.

On both visits to Madison, Miss Wilson appeared in vocal numbers.

COMPENSATION PUZZLE.

Widow of Suicide Asks Wisconsin to Pay Her.

Madison, Wis., July 4.—Whether the widow of an employe, who was entitled to compensation for partial disability may be awarded a death benefit because her husband has committed suicide, is a question before the industrial commission. The claim is by Mrs. Anton Lee of Blackweld, whose husband, while in the employ of the J. S. Stearns Lumber company at Odanah, lost a large portion of one foot. On June 4, 1914, he committed suicide.

Want Better Teachers.

Sheldon, N. D., July 4.—C. O. Veilleb of Butzville and O. M. Williams of McLeod head a permanent organization that has been formed by the school directors of Ransom county. The organization will meet semi-annually and among the plans are to secure better equipped teachers, to have more sanitary school buildings, to take action regarding country life betterment and to compel a larger attendance of the school children at the regular term of school.

LIGHTNING ROD AGENT'S CLOSE CALL.

Hazen, N. D., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The swollen Knife river almost claimed two more victims, Fitzpatrick and Grossa, two young men from Underwood, who have been putting up lightning rods in this county, attempted to drive across the stream. Their team was drowned and the wagon with their supplies and tools lost. They had great difficulty in reaching the shore.

KILLS POPLAR TREES.

Gasoline Inadvertently Gets Three in Upper Peninsula.

Lake Linden, Mich., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Inadvertently there has been discovered in Lake Linden a method of ridding a community of poplar trees. It has been found that gasoline will kill them. A barrel of this fluid stored in proximity to three big poplars on the public school grounds was discovered to have sprung a leak. All of its contents had dripped into the earth. About the same time the trees showed signs of dying and within six months they were completely lifeless. The poplars have now been removal. Roots and all were dead.

SUCCEEDS McGUIRE.

Otto Bergh of Crookston Is Coming to Grand Rapids.

Crookston, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—On his return from Europe where he is combining a study of agricultural conditions with a honeymoon trip, Otto Bergh, agronomist of the Crookston experimental form, formerly agriculturist in the Bemidji schools, will assume his new duties as superintendent of the experimental farm at Grand Rapids, another of the state institutions.

The Grand Rapids position is now held by A. J. McGuire, who recently resigned that he might give his entire time to the extension work. Mr. Bergh will take hold of the experimental farm the middle of next September.

SUFFRAGE CAMPAIGN.

North Dakota Women Sanguine of Carrying Amendment.

Fargo, N. D., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—North Dakota is a battle ground for women suffrage this year as a result of the bill passed by the legislative session to submit the matter to the voters at the election this fall. Should it pass and then be ratified by the coming legislature the women can vote in the 1916 election.

The women of the state have been very active and have imported a number of prominent speakers. The opposition is following the Eastern speakers with women who are opposed to suffrage. Miss Marjorie Dorman is one of the latest arrivals and is going over some of the same territory recently visited by Rose Winslow Jones. The advocates of woman suffrage express great confidence in winning at the fall election, while the opposition claims gains in several localities.

DROWNS IN MILL POND.

Duluth Man's Brother Loses Life at Park Rapids.

Park Rapids, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fred Groven, a lumberman who last winter worked for Conner & Wilson in the woods and later for a farmer named Land, was drowned a few days ago in the mill pond here, his body being discovered Thursday by Manly Cunningham while fishing. The deceased was 35, single, and has a brother living in Duluth. The body had apparently been in the water several days.

BANKERS END MEET.

North Dakota Association to Meet Next in Bismarck.

Williston, N. D., July 4.—Bismarck was selected by the North Dakota Bankers' association as its next annual meeting place, the choice of the convention which ended here Wednesday afternoon being unanimous. J. J. Nelling of Jamestown was elected president, W. C. McClintock of Rugby was elected vice president, J. J. Early of Jamestown was elected treasurer, W. C. McFadden was elected secretary. The election of secretary and treasurer was made by the executive council, of which F. L. Crawford of Sentinel Butte, the retiring general president, was elected chairman. In the resolutions adopted and which were presented by J. E. Phelan, chairman of the resolution committee, the association placed itself on record in favor of conservatism in business ventures and the discouragement of credit for proposed business enterprises under certain conditions.

ALREADY HAD WIFE.

Memphis Woman Wedded to Park Rapids Man Makes Discovery.

Park Rapids, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Murphy of this place is said to have left for parts unknown after figuring in a marriage that was brought about through a matrimonial agency. It is said he arranged by mail to marry a Memphis, Tenn., woman who came here after due correspondence June 15 and they were married. Later the woman discovered John already had a wife and when she protested he is said to have left for Moorhead and Fargo where he was arrested and brought back. Confronted with the charge it is said he turned over his bank account and all other funds to the woman and then decamped.

HARGADINE SECRETARY.

S. D. Works Is Treasurer of General Democratic State Committee.

St. Paul, Minn., July 4.—Before the Democratic state central committee ended its meeting here Thursday the executive committee named Robert W. Hargadine of St. Paul as secretary of the general committee and S. D. Works of St. Paul as treasurer. H. F. Wessel of St. Paul was substituted for Hargadine as a member of the executive committee.

Farmers Organize.

Langdon, N. D., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—For the purpose of gaining new ideas, discussing better farm methods, improving social conditions in rural sections, planning better farming methods and gaining more information that will be valuable to the farmers of Cavalier county the local farmers' clubs have organized themselves into a county association with C. L. Smith of Mona as president and Arthur Foster of Clyde as secretary. Each local club will furnish a representative as vice president and director.

Willful Boy Drowns.

Winona, Minn., July 4.—Disobedience cost 13-year-old Remagis Paradise his life when, ignoring the command of his parents not to go on Cottonwood lake, he made today a raft on which he intended to spear fish with a pitchfork, but which went to pieces.

New Fargo Country Club.

Fargo, N. D., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Beginning Monday, Fargo will have the Rea Country club, two miles south of the city. It is the result of the enthusiasm of Miss Kate Rea and her sister, formerly the wife of Judge Finehout of St. Paul. They have had golf links and tennis courts constructed on their farm, and remodeled the home into a clubhouse.

Carlton County Fair Date.

Carlton, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—John D. Connor, president of the Carlton County Fair association, was in Carlton Wednesday in the interests of the fair. The date for the big exhibition this year has been set at Sept. 16, 17 and 18.

Bad Boys in Trouble.

Langdon, S. D., Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is a great deal of sorrow in several Langdon homes as a result of the discovery that a number of the boys of the town have been stealing a lot of jewelry, pipes, tobacco and drug sundries from a stock stored in a building here. Many of the offenders were located and taken before the officials. To avoid their being sent to the state reform school, the parents will make good the losses.

Badger Bond Issue.

Madison, Wis., July 4.—The railroad commission authorized $536,996,419 in bonds during the fiscal year. The Milwaukee road alone issued $470,000,000. The fee to the state from this was $3,250.

Pennington Guernsey Concern.

Thief River Falls, Minn., July 4.—The Pennington County Guernsey association has been organized by breeders of that kind of stock, with these officers: President, Albert Johnson; vice president, John Phillip; treasurer, F. B. Conklin, and secretary, Harry Woolson.

Duluth Band Plays.

Iron River, Wis., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Third Regiment band of Duluth furnished the music for the Fourth of July celebration here today, and in the evening Flaaten's orchestra, also from Duluth, will play for dancing. Prof. J. H. Ames of Eau Claire was the orator of the day.

Contribute to Fund.

Fargo, N. D., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Elks of North Dakota have contributed $500 to the silver service fund for the battleship North Dakota. Some time ago the Knights of Columbus made a similar contribution, and it is expected the Masons will give a similar sum. Other fraternal organizations are likely to contribute smaller sums.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Fertile — The Polk county fair opened here under favorable auspices, the weather being ideal for carrying out the elaborate program arranged. The attendance was large even larger than was expected for the first day.

Crookston—Whether taken with suicidal intent or accidentally has not yet been fully determined, but Mrs. Albert Hansen swallowed a quantity of chloroform at her home, 513 Hunter street, Thursday morning and is now at St. Vincent's hospital for medical treatment.

Wadena—The Redpath-Vawter chautauqua system will return to Wadena again next year the necessary guarantee having been signed up by a number of the business men. This announcement was made at the closing of the chautauqua program last Saturday.

St. Cloud—Reports received by H. C. Ahlers, the local general agent for the International Harvester company, indicate that crop conditions in Minnesota have been affected by too much rain. Weather conditions have been such that many fields have not received the cultivation necessary to keep them in proper shape.

Pine River—This week workmen began excavating for the new bank building which is to be built across the street from the present location of the First State bank. The building is to be of solid brick with full basement, and is to be 25 by 50 feet, one story high. It will be modern in every respect, and is to cost in the neighborhood of $4,000.

Sandstone—The Kettle River company has secured the contract for the stone work for the big Hill office building at St. Paul and the prospects for Sandstone never looked better. It is estimated that this job alone will give employment to about 250 men during the next ten months to a year.

Blackduck—P. J. Sheldon of Long Beach, Cal., F. P. Sheldon of Minneapolis, and A. J. Wedge, jr., of Bemidji, all stockholders and officials of the First National bank of Blackduck were in the village this week in conference with Cashier E. P. Rice concerning their business interests in this vicinity.

Stillwater—Charles S. Reed, the new warden of the state prison has arrived with his family from St. Cloud. They are living in the residence for the warden at the old prison. Mr. Reed was at the new prison office early Thursday morning and shared with Warden Wolfer the duties of the two institutions.

Princeton — Julius Brichwald, a promising youth of 15 years, lost his life by drowning in an overflow channel of the Rum river in the eastern end of this village on Monday morning.

Mankato—W. R. Spornitz, agent at the Northwestern passenger depot, returned Thursday from a trip to Yellowstone Park. Mr. Spornitz was gone ten days. He was one of a party of twenty-three Minnesota railroad station agents who took that trip as guests of the Union Pacific Railway company.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Iron Mountain—No portion of Dickinson county is more prosperous than Felch township. Evidence of this fact is very pronounced among the farmers in the way of building improvements and in additional acreage cultivated. Seven new homes and many barns are now in course of erection and many residences are being enlarged and improved.

Marquette — Attempting to cross Pickerel lake recently in a row boat which leaked, Darb Gilbert, Leslie Patterson and Ed Dolf, of this city had a narrow escape from drowning when their craft sank in the middle of the lake. Fortunately their cries for help were heard by two men on shore, who rushed to their aid in another boat.

Ishpeming—Several cases of chicken thieving have been reported by owners of prize chickens, and the police are on the watch for any more attempts to raid chicken houses. One man recently had twenty-four prize chickens stolen but the thief was caught, and the case was settled out of court.

Escanaba—Herman Desilets, president of the Escanaba Cigar company and one of the most prominent young business men of this city, died Tuesday night, following a long and painful illness from tuberculosis of the bone.

Calumet—The Epworth League of the Mohawk M. E. church, has elected the following officers: President, John Matthews, Ruth Falvey, Sigurd Endau and Estelle Polkinghorne; secretary, Emory Hosking; treasurer, Sidney Reseigh.

Houghton — Secretary George L. Price of the Copper Commercial club, is in receipt of a letter from a large automobile concern to the effect that it is ready to come to the copper district. The directors of the concern have been holding off their offers pending development in this district as they feel that this will be an ideal location for their factories.

Laurium—The dates of the automobile and aeroplane races at the Laurium driving park, have been changed from July 11 and 12 to Aug. 1 and 2.

Pequaming—As has been customary for many years past, the annual camp meeting of the Chippewa Indians of the Lake Superior region will be held this month on grounds on the shore of Lake Superior a mile distant from the village of Pequaming.

Munising—William G. Mather of Cleveland, president of the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company, has offered to erect a public building at Munising and his offer has been accepted. The structure will be stone or stucco tile, two stories high, 50 by 90 feet.

Marquette—False alarms of fire have been turned in so frequently of late that Mayor Begole has authorized the chief of the fire department to offer a standing reward of $25 for the arrest and conviction of culprits guilty of the acts. The alarms usually are sent in during the night and result in considerable inconvenience and expense.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Grafton, N. D.—All Red river valley counties except Walsh have comparatively new courthouses that are modern in every respect. Walsh still has the official building that was constructed in territorial times. It lacks proper protection for records and is inadequate in other respects.

Hannah, N. D.—State Senator McLean of this place won the contest for renomination over Magnus Snowfield by a handsome majority. Senator McLean was chairman of the senate committee on game and fish at the last legislative session.

Steele, N. D.—The Tri-Township Telephone company is the name of a new enterprise recently organized. The officers are: Guy S. Mead, president; C. E. Hurd, vice president; George M. Woolsey, secretary; Oral Church and Fred Shipley are directors.

McLaughlin S. D.—The Indian branch of the Y. M. C. A. has completed a four days' meeting at Fort Yates, N. D., which was largely attended by Indian members of the organization. Meetings were held three times a day, and numerous addresses on various phases of Y. M. C. A. work were made.

Bismarck, N. D.—J. L. Kelley, who represents the Marshall Oil company, while going to Francis postoffice with a four-horse load of oil had one of his horses drop dead while in the harness.

Fargo N. D.—After a chase that began June 22 and led through several towns in the vicinity of the Fort Trotten Indian reservation, Deputy United States Marshal C. R. Wattles arrested Edward Conners on the charge of selling liquor to the Indians. Conners is a white man and said to have a bad reputation.

Edgeley, N. D.—The stockholders of the Farmers' elevators of Edgeley, Medbury and Verona held their annual picnic in a fine grove near here Tuesday which was largely attended by farmers, their wives and children, and all had a fine time.

Devils Lake—The monthly meteorological summary issued by Martin Hovde of the local station, shows a total rainfall for the month of June of 5.94 inches, against a normal of 3.53 inches. There were seven clear days recorded, the remainder being cloudy or partly cloudy.

Langdon, N. D.—An immense crowd enjoyed the address of Bishop Luccock of Helena, Mont. Tuesday evening at the Methodist church.

Grand Forks N. D.—Judgment has been entered in local court in favor of the Canada and North Dakota Land company against the Kent Realty company and is for the foreclosure of a trust deed. The amount of the judgment is $53,000. The property of the Kent Realty company lying along Unique avenue and known as Kent's First addition, as well as the sixty acres of unplatted land lying directly to the west of it will be sold to satisfy the judgment.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Madison—In an opinion to State Superintendent Cary, the attorney general holds that the common council of the city of Antigo, which recently adopted a commission form of government, must name one of its members to the school board.

Oconto—Mrs. Olive Bartelferson, aged 80, retired to pray when a thunderstorm broke. While at her prayers a bolt struck the house and she was killed.

Madison—All funds in the state treasury totaled $4,300,854 July 1, compared with $5,305,191 June 1. The balance in the general fund is $3,167,103, as against $4,011,843 June 1.

Lancaster—Mrs. Lena Bryhan committed suicide Thursday by hanging herself with a trunk strap. She had been residing with her brother, John Roth, and his family. She leaves a young daughter. Mrs. Bryhan had been ill and spent a few months in California for her health.

New Richmond—Mrs. W. N. Jurney died at her home in this city of cancer of the stomach. She was born in Monroe fifty-nine years ago. Surviving are the husband, four children and eight grandchildren, also her father, Henry Bradley French, 91 years of age, now a resident of Nellisville.

Oconto—Adam Marks, aged 14, broke his arm while throwing a baseball.

Beloit—H. B. Robinson, for fourteen years rural mail carrier, celebrated his eighty-second birthday anniversary on Thursday. He is one of the oldest carriers in the county.

Oconomowoc—Mabel Schuster, 13 years old, is dead at her home in Concord as a result of stepping upon a rusty nail, lockjaw resulting from the wound. She was the eldest daughter of Herman Schuster, Concord.

ONE NEGRO KILLS EIGHT WITH AX.

Branchville, Texas, July 4.—Sholl Mannings, a negro, killed eight other negroes here yesterday with a short handled ax because he suspected they had charged him with horse theft. Twice this week, when arrested at small towns near here on the charge, Mannings broke jail. He arrived here yesterday before daylight. After the killing he was arrested, but escaped from a train en route to jail. Posses are searching for him.

ROOSEVELT QUITS HIS OUTLOOK JOB.

New York, July 4.—Theodore Roosevelt has resigned from the editorial staff of the Outlook. He has been a contributing editor of the publication since March 1909, when he left the White House. Lawrence Abbott, one of the proprietors of the publication, said there had been no break in the pleasantness of the relations of the colonel and the magazine management.

U. S. SETTLES BIG SUIT FOR $11,000.

Chicago, July 4.—A government suit for the recovery of $1,200,000 was compromised here yesterday for $11,000. The suit was filed in 1898, against the American Surety company and Ernest Held Mair for alleged breach of contract in connection with the construction of a breakwater at San Pedro, Cal. Attorney General McReynolds ordered the suit dismissed.

WILL ASK BOND ISSUE OF $200,000 FOR NEW SCHOOLS

Board Will Submit Question to Voters at Coming Election.

New Schools Needed in Suburbs — Additions to Others Necessary.

In addition to voting on the matter of school directors at the school election to be held two weeks from today, July 18, the voters of Duluth will be asked to vote on the matter of issuing bonds to the extent of $200,000, running thirty years and drawing 4½ per cent interest, for the purpose of building new and needed schools, and in other ways extending the system of the independent district.

This action, taken by the board of education at its meeting last night, was the result of a recommendation made in the report of the committee on maintenance of buildings and grounds. The committee indorsed the previous report of Supt. Denfeld to the effect that school conditions in the western part of the city, in particular, are in a congested state and that they threaten to become more congested in the very near future, and that more room is needed. The result was that the board decided to adopt the recommendation of the comittee that the matter of a bond issue be submitted at the coming annual election. The matter was hurried last night for the reason that if it was to be submitted at the coming election, action last night was imperative, and a special election would cost about $700; besides which, at a general school election, it is believed, a better expression of opinion of the voters on the bond matter can be obtained.

The fact that the board has decided to ask for permission to issue bonds to the extent of $200,000 does not mean that that much will arbitrarily issue should permission be given by the voters. The board is so situated at this time, that anything like the precise amount needed cannot even be estimated. It is believed that about $100,000 or $150,000 will be the required amount, but that is merely guess work. With the voters' permission granted to issue to the amount of $200,000. It was said last night that probably very much less than $200,000 will be used. The money will be needed sometime next spring; it is not believed that it will be needed before that; but the submission at the present time is merely a matter of expedtency and economy. The committee on maintenance of buildings and grounds, reported on the matter of room as follows:

Coming Year's Requirements.

"It is thought best to call the board's attention to recommendation made by the superintendent of schools at previous meetings as to the requirements in the way of additional school buildings for the coming year, so that an expression from the board may be had at this time as to what is to be done with the superintendent's recommendation. At different times the board has admitted that a new school building of at least ten to twelve rooms is needed for the Gary division and New Duluth. Also six additional rooms at the Merritt school, and twelve to sixteen rooms at the Lincoln, Junior, high school, and a building will have to be provided for at Morgan Park.

"This committee has tried to get in touch with the Minnesota Steel company people in the last week as to the size of this building, and was only able to get a little information over the phone from Mr. Reiss, the manager. He states that at Morgan Park they are providing for 350 to 370 families, and he believes that the board should provide school room for from 1,000 to 1,200 students. If a building is built to accommodate this number, we can raedily see that the new buildings required for the coming year will amount to somethhing over $300,000.

"As we are about to have a school election we believe this is a good time to consider the appropriation for building for the coming year, and at the coming election vote on a bond issue of sufficient amount, and a reasonable tax levy to be provided in the next tax levy to take care of the coming year."

The committe also reported that progress on the completion of the R. E. Denfeld high school at West Duluth is slow; that the contract should have been completed in July, but that it looks now as though the work cannot be finished before Aug. 1. The committee believes that the Denfeld school will be ready for school work Sept. 1. The committee also reported that good progress is being made on the R. S. Munger school, and that the building will be ready for seats Aug. 20; and that if the seats are on hand at that time, there will be no reason why it should not be completed before Sept. 1.

O. J. Larson	19
D. E. Seashore	359
Mrs. Salma Henrickson	42

Instead of the forecasted petitions for nine candidates for school director to be voted on July 18, being filed before 7:45 o'clock last evening with C. A. Bronson, clerk of the board of education, Mr. Bronson was deluged. When the smoke and dust cleared away it was found that there were sixteen candidates for the three-year term and four for the one-year term. Candidates not mentioned heretofore were plunged into the lime-light and the number of signatures for candidates range from 359 down to four.

Dr. D. E. Seashore seems to be a very popular candidate. He has the highest number of signatures. Three hundred and fifty-nine people signed his petitions for the one-year term, and 309 signed his petitions for the three-year term. He will decide which he will run for. E. G. Church, not heretofore mentioned, had four signatures for him. Frank Crassweller had eight, and it was said on the board last night that it is not believed that he would consider the matter of being a candidate. W. E. Magner, president of the board, despite his repeated assertions that he would, under no circumstances be a candidate, was nominated by a petition containing twenty-two names.

Andrew Nelson, retiring member, and who was nominated by petitions aggregating in signatures 283 names, one of the largest, announced that he could not become a candidate to succeed himself.

One Fight Enough at a Time.

"I wish it understood," said Mr. Nelson, "that I very much appreciate the honor, and that I have enjoyed the work and associations on the school board. But aside from the fact that this work is taking up too much time which I should be devoting to my business, I am a candidate for congress on the Democratic ticket, and one campaign at a time is about all I care to handle."

Because of the filing of nominating petitions for several who are known to be opposed to being made candidates the matter of making up the ballot was left open until Tuesday, on motion of Director McGiffert and Clerk Bronson was instructed to communicate either by letter or by phone with those whose attitude toward their own candidacy is not certain. Their desires learned, the ballot will be made up in the form that prevailed last year, namely, that present directors who are running for re-election will be placed on the ballot first, arranged alphabetically, and the others will then follow, also arranged alphabetically. The names and the number of signers to each for each candidate are given in the lead of this article.

RINES HAS BEGUN ACTION IN COURT

Starts Proceedings to Test Preus' Nomination as State Auditor.

St. Paul, Minn., July 4.—Papers in the contest instituted by Henry Rines of Mora to determine whether he or Insurance Commissioner J. A. O. Preus is entitled to the Republican nomination for state auditor were served on Mr. Preus and Secretary of State Schmahl yesterday. Mr. Schmahl was also served with an order issued by Judge Stolberg of the Nineteenth district court, restraining him from placing the name of Preus on the general election ballot until the contest has been determined.

The judge also orders Preus to answer the Rines complaint at a term of court to be held at Stillwater, July 13, at 10 o'clock a. m.

What Rines Claims.

"A careful study of the primary election returns has convinced me that several thousand ballots which were marked in the second choice column only have been rejected as defective ballots by election judges in many of the precincts of the state," declared Mr. Rines. "The law specifically provides that such ballots shall be counted as first choice votes. This mistake upon the part of election judges was so general that at least 5,000 ballots were rejected which should have been counted. In St. Louis county alone the number will exceed 500 and may reach 1,000; that these mistakes occurred have been admitted by a number of judges who have been interviewed and is confirmed by others who witnessed the canvass in many precincts.

"In at least twenty-five per cent of the precincts of the state improper returns were made upon second choice votes and the county canvassing board were unable to canvass such returns. Were it not for the fact that the irregularities in the count and returns upon the vote for auditor are so apparent and the number of ballots rejected by the election judges so large as to leave the outcome still in doubt, I would cheerfully accept the result, but under the circumstances I feel that I am only asking simple justice in demanding a recount. If a recount of the votes, or a partial one, shows that Mr. Preus is the nominee I shall cheerfully accept the verdict of the voters and give him my loyal support at the general election."

LIGHTNING KILLS TWO AT PICNIC.

Sallisaw, Okla., July 4.—Two persons were killed and fifteen seriously injured at a picnic ground near here late yesterday when a building in which many persons had taken refuge from a storm was struck by lightning and wrecked.

Several thousand people were on the grounds attending a Fourth of July celebration and political rally. United States Senator T. P. Gore, who had just finished speaking when the crowd was driven to shelter, was not injured. The dead are:

HOOPER McKEEL, a youth of Sallisaw.

JOHN STEWART, a farmer, of Atkins, Okla.

Of the injured, George Martin, superintendent of Sallisaw Light & Power company; James Reeding, a lineman; Albert Peters and Mrs. Martha Foster of this city, are not expected to recover.

Besides those seriously hurt, a score or more persons were knocked to the ground and bruised.

SAYS BATTLESHIPS ARE NOW OBSOLETE.

The Hague, July 4.—The contention of Admiral Sir Percy Scott that battleships have been made obsolete by submarines and aeroplanes has been seized here by the strong anti-dreadnaught party and given wide publicity, with the result that the government's battleship program is now likely to fail.

The enormous cost of the modern battleship has already aroused the opposition of the heavy taxpayers. But now that Sir Percy has produced strong arguments against the utility of the floating fort, which, he says, stands no chance against overhead and submarine attacks, the opposition has gained the support of many of the extreme patriots.

FACTS AND ADVICE FOR THE FARMERS

DRAGGING ROADS.

Simplest and Cheapest Way to Maintain Certain Highroads in Good Condition.

The road drag is the simplest and least expensive contrivance yet devised for maintaining earth roads, according to the experts in the United States department of agriculture, who are co-operating with state and county authorities in work of better roads.

Properly used, the drag gives the needed crown to the road, smoothes out ruts and other irregularities, spreads out puddles of water, thereby accelerating the drying of the road, and makes the surface more or less impervious to water by smearing over the so-called pores in the earthy material. The cost of operation depends, of course, upon local conditions and the thoroughness with which the work is done. It is safe to say, however, that it is less expensive than any other efficient system of upkeep.

Farmers' Bulletin No. 597 of the department of agriculture discusses under the title of "The Road Drag and How It Is Used," the best methods of maintaining earth roads in good condition by this simple device. In this bulletin, which has just been published, the department points out that of more than 2,000,000 miles of public roads in the United States, only about 200,000 miles have been given a hard surface. It is true, of course, that a large part of the remaining mileage consists of roads that are entirely unimproved, and that on roads of this class the drag is practically useless. There is a much larger mileage, however, that has been partially improved, and it is on roads of this character—roads that have been crowned or drained, but have not a hard surface—that the use of the drag is advocated.

In its simplest form, the road drag consists of an ordinary log split in half and the two halves connected like the uprights of a ladder by means of cross sticks or rungs set in. The log should be about 6 or 8 inches in diameter, and from 6 to 8 feet in length. It is better to have it of well-seasoned, hard, tough wood. The two semi-cylindrical halves of the log form the runners of the drag, and are usually spaced from 20 to 36 inches apart. The front runner is always plied with the split surface of the wood facing forward, but the rear runner sometimes has its rounded face in front. This is done in order to increase the smearing of the drag as it passes over the surface of the road.

The two runners are not placed directly behind each other, but are "offset" as it is called, from 12 to 16 inches. This is done because the drag is drawn over the road at an angle sufficient to make the runners free themselves of the material which they scrape. The amount of this angle or skew depends, of course, upon the condition of the road. By offsetting the runners, it is possible to make their ends follow approximately the same line on the road, which they would not do if they were set directly behind each other and the drag drawn at an angle with the road.

In order to provide standing room for the man, it is usual to nail two boards down upon the rungs parallel to the runners. Standing upon these, a skillful driver will bear his weight in such a way as to aid materially in the successful operation of the drag.

The drag is drawn by a chain which should be about eight feet long. This can be fastened by eye bolts to each end of the front runner, or one end of the chain can pass through a hole at the discharge end of the front runner and the other end be looped over the rung at the cutting end of the runner. It is important that the hitching link should be so designed that its position can be changed readily. It is also desirable to provide a metal cutting edge for the front runner. This can be made from a strip of iron or steel, and old wagon tires have frequently proved satisfactory.

The cost of such a drag varies from $2 to perhaps $10 or $12. This practically insignificant outlay will secure an implement that will be of great service to the community for at least three or four years. The fact cannot be overlooked, however, that skill in the use of the drag is indispensable.

The angle that the runners make with the center line of the road, the skew angle as it might be called, is an important factor. For example, if the dragging is done to increase the crown of the road, the drag should be sufficiently skewed to discharge all material as rapidly as it is collected on the runners. On the other hand, the conditions may be such that it is desirable to carry along this material in order to deposit it where there are depressions in the road's surface. An intelligent operator will soon learn many ways of controlling the action of the drag. The length of the hitching chain, the disposition of the operator's weight, the time when the dragging is done, all these exert a marked influence upon the results.

As to the time for dragging, a safe rule to follow is to drag the road when the material composing the surface contains sufficient moisture to compact readily, but is not sufficiently wet for traffic to produce mud.

Since the weather plays so important a part in the matter, it is not usually possible to arrange continuous employment for teams on a road. It is therefore desirable, whenever possible, to have the dragging done by persons interested in the road, who will do it in the intervals of other occupations.

NO CHOLERA CURE.

BY M. H. REYNOLDS,
Veterinarian, University Farm, St. Paul.

There is no known cure or preventive treatment by ordinary medicines that can be recommended for hog cholera. Disinfectants properly used in sufficient strength may have some value in preventing cholera simply by destroying virus on feeding floors, troughs, etc.

The only treatment recommended by the Minnesota College of Agriculture for cholera is the use of the Dorset-Niles hog cholera serum. This serum is the watery portion of the blood of a specially treated, immune hog. It undoubtedly has curative value in some cases but should be recommended as a preventive treatment and not as a cure.

Good serum properly used is very reliable and has saved hogs worth millions of dollars, but large quantities of impotent or contaminated serum and even imitations of serum were used in this state during the past year with bad results.

CUTTING CLOVER.

Clover for hay should be cut as soon as the first blossoms begin to turn brown. If a large amount is to be cut with a small crew, one should begin even earlier, to prevent the last of the crop from getting too ripe before it is cut. The general tendency, among those not familiar with the method of making clover hay, seems to be to let it become too ripe before cutting. The longer any hay crop is left uncut after its bloom has reached the proper stage, the more indigestible it becomes. The only condition that should be permitted to delay the cutting beyond this point is prevailing bad weather.

The mower should be started in the evening before the dew has fallen or in the forenoon as soon as the dew is off; and it is not wise to cut down too much at one time. From Extension Bulletin 47, entitled Clover, which may be obtained without charge by addressing the Agricultural Extension Division, University Farm, St. Paul.

BIG FAMILY ON TEN ACRES

Missouri Man Sold His 160-Acre Farm and Abandoned General Farming for Berries, Fruit and Gardening.

Weekly Kansas City Star: How many acres of land would be required to support a family of eleven, educate nine children and give them a fairly good start when each is married? Some would answer about a section, others would say one-half section and one-quarter section would be a low estimate for some.

Can that be done on ten acres? Impossible, some will say. The question was asked of a Jackson county farmer who owns more than 200 acres of land and farms it.

"You couldn't support eleven calves much less eleven people, on ten acres of ground," was his answer.

G. W. Pollard, who owns ten acres of land on Sewell avenue, southwest of Independence, supported a family of eleven, fed a team of horses, three milch cows and a dozen hogs for twelve years, gave the nine children a good country school education and gave them a little money to start their matrimonial ventures, all on ten acres. They lived well and didn't mortgage their home, either.

More on Ten Acres Than 160?

Mr. Pollard was reared on a farm and has farmed all his life. He owned 160 acres of land thirteen years ago, worked and tramped all over it several times a year, followed the old methods of general farming and made a bare living.

There isn't anything complicated and unusual in Mr. Pollard's methods. The work is lighter than general farming. He has four acres of blackberries, four acres of strawberries, one acre of raspberries, and cherries, apples and plums scattered about over the place. Close attention to details and the little things brought success to him.

"I make every acre average me $250 a year," Mr. Pollard said. "Some acres produce as much as $500 a year and others fall below the $250 mark. But on an average I make about $250 an acre a year.

"Being near a good market and knowing when to market to best advantage are two things necessary to successful farming on small tracts. In addition to the berries I have vegetables which I market in season. As soon as the berries are off other crops go in. The land is never idle and neither am I. I keep a team of good horses, enough cows to supply my family and hogs for my own meat.

No General Farming For Him.

"I began farming on the ten acres when all my children were of school age. I kept them in school every month of the school year. I didn't send them to college, but we had a good country school and they got the full benefit of it. Several of them are married and I now have to hire a man most of the year to help me with the place. I gave each of them a few hundred dollars when they were married to start life in their own way.

"I would not return to general farming. Intensive farming, if you want to call it that, is the most profitable and the least worry and the easiest, so far as work with hands and feet are concerned. In my farming experience I have found that a man must use his head as well as his arms and legs. It's the little things that pay, too.

"The general farmer looks only to planting and cultivating and gathering the crops. He is so busy at that he thinks he hasn't time to do anything else. He neglects the small things and wastes a lot of his crop. He pays no attention to feeding, except to dump ily use, have our own hogs for meat, corn and hay into the trough, and the hogs, cows, chickens, garden and the leaks take care of themselves.

"Of course we produce our fruit, berries and vegetables here on the place for family use and for market. We can our own vegetables and fruit for famour own butter and eggs, and have to do very little running to the grocery store. The habit of visiting the grocery store and the butcher shop every few days will keep any farmer broke. Everything he buys in the grocery store was produced on the farm. He can even produce his own fish if he will prepare for it. If the farmer would get in the habit of supplying the grocery store instead of the grocery store providing him, he would make a fortune.

The Garden Is Big Factor.

"Right there has been the means of supporting and educating our nine children on ten acres of land. We took advantage of every part of the season. There was no waste and no leaks we could stop. The garden is the biggest producer on the farm and the least attention is paid to it.

"I have had the advantage of twenty years' general farming and twelve years on ten acres. I know the game of both. I would not want to go back to the big farm, but if I ever do, I shall pay attention to the small things which I neglected and which the balance of the general farmers neglect. I would have a garden and berries, and if anything was neglected it would be the corn and the other crops—not the garden and berries and the orchard. I would can my own vegetables of all kinds, my own fruit, have my fresh milk and butter in abundance and my own hams and bacon.

"It is a whole lot better than any grocery store turns out, too, when even the simplest methods are followed. There is the living right there, and the other things are the profit. This isn't advice. I am not trying to advise anybody. I am simply telling what I am doing, what I have done for years, and what I know any man with common sense and a desire to get along in the world can do.

Yes, There Is Plenty of Work.

"The trouble with a lot of people is they are afraid of work. Some of them will ask me how I do so well on ten acres. I explain.

"'Well, you have to work pretty hard to do that,' they will say to me. Work frightens them right away. I have traveled a good many years through life and have observed those who work and those who do not. Work alone will not make a success for a man if he doesn't use his head and apply his work where it will produce the best returns. No man will make a success on a farm if he is afraid of work. He has to use his brains, too."

Mr. Pollard owns his own land, has a comfortable two-story house, a shady lawn and native shrubbery and flowers to make it attractive.

INVESTMENT IN FARM MACHINERY.

By A. H. BENTON,
Assistant Agriculturist, University Farm, St. Paul.

A difficult problem on the American farm is to decide how much and what kind of machinery should be purchased. Some farms are so overstocked with machinery that the depreciation, interest, and repairs eat up much of the profits.

Assuming the average depreciation on machinery at 10 per cent, and the interest on the money invested at 6 per cent, we have an average yearly expense of approximately $13 on each $100 in vested in machinery. A man who has $1,500 worth of machinery would have $195 expense on this alone in interest and depreciation. If this work could be done with half this amount, he could save $97.50. This would be equivalent to the interest on $1,625 at 6 per cent.

A farm of 80 acres cannot profitably use four-horse machinery because three horses should do the work on a farm of this size. In buying machinery too large in proportion to the size of the farm, unnecessary expense is added. This comes not only in the increased cost of the machinery, but also in the maintenance of any extra horses required.

Before purchasing new machinery, it is well to consider the following questions:

Will the use of the new machine give me a larger net return from the crops on which it is used?

Where a machine is required only a few days each year, can it not be rented more cheaply than purchased?

Will the money to be invested return more in some other way?

Has the machine been thoroughly tried by others and found satisfactory?

KEEP HENS CONTENTED.

In the "Poultry-Raising" department of the current issue of Farm and Fireside a contributor says that laying hens are contented hens. He says there are many ways to make your hens discontented, and in the following extract from his article appears considerable sound advice to poultry raisers on this point:

"A hungry hen is not a contented hen. I have seen flocks that one would think at first sight were a healthy, energetic bunch, but close observation soon showed they were rather a hungry bunch. Not just a little hungry, but very hungry.

"A flock that is fed at any old time is not a contented flock. If the hens are fed at a certain time every day they soon learn when it is, and they will never expect to be fed between times. During the time between feeds they will go about their business with contentment, scratching, dusting, laying, sunning themselves, but never standing around as near the direction the feed comes from as they can get, and clamoring for something to eat, probably eating but little when they get it. They will get the 'piecing habit' just the same as the children if you teach it to them, and the habit does not make for contentment.

"An injudicious method of turning the flock out to graze is another very common cause of discontent. If you let them out all day one day and keep them shut up the next, you will have a pretty serious case of restlessness the second day. In fact, it will take them a week to get over their unrest and become satisfied with their lot. If you select a certain hour in the evening and let them out regularly at that hour you will have no trouble. In a few days you might go into the lot almost any time in the day and they would never make any attempt to get out, but when that hour arrives you will find them all eagerness, and if you open the door they are coming out or know the reason why."

SOIL TESTED FREE.

By F. J. ALWAY,
Soils Chemist, University Farm, St. Paul.

The experiment station at University Farm, St. Paul, will, without charge, test for acidity all samples of Minnesota soils the senders of which comply with the following directions:

1. Send the sample by parcel post (not express), addressed to the Division of Soils, University Farm, St. Paul. It should be allowed to become dry before being mailed unless it is sent in a metal container. If dry it may be sent in a small cloth sack.

2. Give the location of the field, stating the part of section and the numbers of section, township and range.

3. State as nearly as is known how long the field has been under cultivation.

4. A half-pound sample is sufficient for the test. This should be part of a composite sample, made by mixing in a pail samples from 10 or 15 different places in the field.

5. If tests of soil from different fields are desired prepare a sample from each as directed in 4.

STORING CLOVER HAY.

Where clover hay is put into the cock, it is advisable to open up the cocks and permit them to air a short time before taking them to the stack or mow.

If the hay is put into a stack, the stack should be started upon a bottom of poles, brush, straw, or old hay. Where it is placed directly on the ground there is bound to be more or less spoiled hay in the bottom. Clover hay does not shed water and it is advisable to top out clover stacks with rather green timothy, prairie, or slough hay, putting on enough hangers to hold the top in place.

There are a few variations in the methods of making good clover hay, but the real secret, no matter what the method, is to cut it at the proper time and cure it "in the shade" as much as possible, being careful to avoid a hasty drying up of the leaves and overcuring. Properly cured clover hay will sweat in either the stack or the mow, but unless it is unevenly packed and loose, no harm need be felt if it gets warm.

We clip these suggestions from Extension Bulletin 47, Clover, by Andrew Boss and A. C. Arny, which may be obtained, without charge, by addressing the Agricultural Extension Division, University Farm, St. Paul.

MINNESOTA WEEDS.

Weeds and dairy cows, undesirable and very desirable farm inhabitants, are the subjects on which Minnesota farmers ask for station bulletins most frequently. Accordingly the agricultural experiment station at University farm has just issued bulletin 139, entitled Minnesota Weeds, Series II. It describes twenty-four of the common weeds of the section and gives directions for their eradication. It also includes drawings to aid in the recognition of the plants and the detection of the seeds in small grains and elsewhere.

A similar bulletin dealing with 24 other common weeds, published more than a year ago has been in great demand not only among farmers but also among schools that teach agriculture and botany. Professors Boss and Oswald who write these bulletins, combine theory with practice by discussing the habits of growth of the different weeds in order that the directions for their eradication may be more readily understood and applied.

Crab grass, witch grass, barnyard grass, Darnel, Pennsylvania smartweed, wild buckwheat, night-flowering catchfly, cow cockle, purslane, false flax, black mustard, five-finger, wild rose, mallow, evening primrose, dodder, stickticht, blue vervain, catnip, buckthorn plantain, marsh elder, Mayweed, prickly lettuce, and perennial sow thistle are the weeds discussed in the new bulletin 139, while those included in 129 were quack grass, slender wheat grass, yellow foxtail, green foxtail, wild oats, curled dock, sheep sorrel, smartweed, lamb's quarters, pigweed, Russian thistle, corn cockle, French weed, peppergrass, shepherd's purse, wild mustard, yellow trefoil, sweet clover, kinghead, ragweed, burdock, Canada thistle, and bull thistle. Both bulletins are available for distribution to those who do not already have copies.

SAVE WHITE SWEET CLOVER SEED.

By A. C. ARNY,
Assistant Agriculturist, University Farm, St. Paul.

The appearance of white sweet clover along roadsides throughout Minnesota is a very encouraging feature. It is the forerunner of alfalfa and should not be unwelcome in its own right since it is practically as valuable a soil-improver as common red clover or alfalfa. Cut at the right time, it makes a fair hay, although not nearly as good as clover or alfalfa in this respect. But is not white sweet clover a weed to be feared? White sweet clover is a biennial—that is, it is planted the first year and the next year produces a crop of seed or a crop of hay and a crop of seed, and then the plants die. From this it will be readily seen that if it is cut so that it does not ripen seed, all of it will be gone the second year. Therefore it may be used on farms for inoculating fields for alfalfa and as a soil-improver without any danger whatever of getting to be a weed pest in the alfalfa field.

Inoculating the soil for white sweet clover is just as necessary to success as it is for alfalfa, but where seed can be gathered along the roadside at no expense except the labor, it will pay in many instances to sow three or four pounds of the unhulled seed per acre with the grain, over clover, and timothy seed. Some of the sweet clover plants will be inoculated the first year and more the second year. Alfalfa following will get the benefit of this increase in numbers of of the right kind of bacteria.

The thing to do as the sweet clover along the roadsides ripens its seed is to gather it for use on farms, or for sale if more is gathered than is wanted

WHEN TO CUT ALFALFA.

By A. C. ARNY,
Assistant Agriculturist, University Farm, St. Paul.

For all classes of animals except horses, alfalfa should be cut for hay when the new shoots or stems begin to appear at the crown. These are easily seen just as they come up among the old stems at about the beginning of blossoming-time. Cutting earlier than this is not desirable or profitable, since the yield will be smaller and the hay will be more difficult to cure. It should not be allowed to get much beyond this stage for two reasons: (1) Although a somewhat heavier first cutting of hay can be secured by allowing it to stand longer than the time recommended, the hay is neither as palatable, nor as nutritious. (2) Leaving the first crop after it is at the proper stage to cut delays and reduces the second crop since the new shoots coming from the crown are cut off with the first crop. When alfalfa is to be fed to horses, it may be allowed to grow slightly longer than when it is to be fed to cattle, but it should never be left until the second crop is injured in cutting the first crop.

LUNG WORMS ARE SECOND TO CHOLERA.

From an economic standpoint parasitic diseases are of grave importance to those who are interested in the welfare of the great livestock industry. Serious losses occur yearly among sheep, hogs and horses. Parasitic diseases have frequently gone unrecognized or have been diagnosed as some other malady producing tissue changes of a similar nature. This is partly due to lack of observation and intelligent search for the real cause. Many of the most troublesome parasites that infest our domestic animals are so small that it requires very careful search to detect them. Parasites of swine, from an economic standpoint, are second in importance only to hog cholera. In certain localities the parasites have gained such a strong foothold that the hog-raising industry has become seriously impaired.

Preventives and treatments for some of the worst Minnesota parasites are suggested in bulletin 51, recently prepared for free distribution, by Dr. W. L. Boyd, University Farm, St. Paul. It is entitled "Some Internal Parasites of Domestic Animals" and includes discussions of bots and pinworms of horses: lung worms of calves, sheep and hogs; the nodule disease of sheep; thorn-headed worms of hogs, and common round worms of hogs.

FARMERS TO SUCCEED MUST KEEP BOOKS.

In the current issue of Farm and Fireside, E. C. Whitmyre writes an article entitled "How a Friend of Mine Figured the Profit," in which he tells the story of a farmer who failed and later succeeded because of the radical change in his methods. This farmer invested $3,600 in the dairy business on a small farm near a town of 3,000 population. He worked hard, but in three years found that he was practically a failure. His failure was due largely to the fact that he had neglected to figure his costs and expenses and to adjust his business, and particularly his purchases, collections and prices, to the exact conditions of his undertaking. He took the advice given to him, and Mr. Whitmyre continues:

"In three years he has revolutionized his business. He knows at the end of every day just where he stands. If he has made a profit of $100, he knows it. He knows himself and he knows his business. It's just a case of building on a scientific basis.

"Today we are hammering away at the farmer for the lack of conducting his farming in a way to get the most out of it. Yet the development of the farmer has been wonderful. The farmer who conducts his place on a scientific basis is the man who rides to town in his automobile. He has learned what to plant, when to plant it, and how to plant it. He has machinery that saves him time and money. But has he learned the value of a strict watch on the financial end of his business? If he has he need not worry."

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

By LEROY CADY,
Associate Horticulturist, University Farm, St. Paul.

Sow perennial flower seed early in July for next season's flowers.

Stake gladiolus plants unless they have been planted very deep.

Remove all suckers from fruit and ornamental trees. They are unsightly and use plant food.

It is often a good plan to pinch back musk melon and cucumber vines to make the fruit grow more rapidly.

Keep sweet peas, pot marigolds and other annuals picked if you would have good flowers all summer.

Dust of sulphur dusted over rose bushes or other plants that are beginning to mildew will often stop the trouble.

Are the onions growing nicely? Hen manure or nitrate of soda may be sown broadcast over the field or cultivated in if they appear to be standing still.

Plums and apples may be budded the latter part of July or early in August. Try a few. It is an easy way to increase good varieties.

Seeds of the maple and other trees ripening at this time may be planted at once or kept until spring and planted. This is perhaps the best time to sow them.

The Russian olive has been an especially showy tree this spring. Its white foliage among the green, and the sweet odor of its blossoms make it a good plant to have on the lawn.

Take time to visit the nearest park or a neighbor who has been successful in growing trees, fruits, or flowers and study the plants and methods of growing. It is not a difficult matter to have an attractive home yard and it adds much to the pleasure of living.

SWAT THE ROOSTERS.

BY N. E. CHAPMAN,
Poultry Specialist, University Farm, St. Paul.

Minnesota has annually 500,000 roosters on her farms. By June 15 their usefulness as breeders is ended. For about four months their presence with the laying flock will result in great loss through chic-development during the warm weather. They should be eaten, sold, or shut up at once.

Eat Them.

The farmer's wife knows how to make a delicious pot-pie of an old rooster. Use all you can of them. Many lost their hogs and hence the family larder is low. Eat the old roosters.

Sell Them.

The value of the half million roosters exceeds a quarter of a million at current quotations. Some produce-dealers are offering 10 cents per pound at country points. $250,000 in cash either in the pocketbooks or in current quotations. Some produce five times a half million roosters in the barnyards of Minnesota farmers.

Shut Them Up.

If one has a young cockerel of special value as a breeder, he should be shut up in a small pen during the summer months, and broody hens put in with him during his captivity. He should be given good care to maintain his breeding qualities.

Eat, sell, or shut up. Which shall it be? It is up to you. Get busy.

WHEN SHIPS GO DOWN

Liability of Owners for Losses at Sea.

By THOMAS I. PARKINSON,
Columbia University.

When Senator Smith was preparing his report on the Titanic disaster he obtained the services of the legislative drafting bureau of Columbia university to assist in formulating bills. Subsequently, at the request of individuals whose interest grew out of personal bereavement due to the Titanic disaster, the bureau undertook a study of ship-owners' liability to damages for such losses.

(Exclusive Service The Survey Press Bureau.)

If a New York-Chicago "flyer" leaves the track and plunges to destruction carrying to death or personal injury its passengers and crew, our laws, both state and Federal, provide that the victims—the injured and the dependents of the killed—may recover their full damages out of the general assets of the railroad company. The railroad carrier is an insurer of the traveler's safety and this act is largely responsible for the economic argument in favor of railroad "safety first" campaigns.

What would now be said of an act of congress providing that the liability of the company, if any, should be limited in amount to the value of the wrecked train as it lay at the bottom of the embankment, plus the amount of the ticket money paid by its passengers?

Impossible as such a rule seems when applied to carriage by land, it states precisely the effect of the ship-owners' limited liability laws enacted by congress and constantly applied by our admiralty courts. For the frightful loss of life and property involved in the wreck of the Titanic the liability of the owner under our laws is limited to $90,000. This sum represents the amount of the pending freight money for the fatal voyage. Under the English law, the owners of the Titanic are liable for nearly $3,000,000.

Limited Damages.

Victims of this disaster sought to have our courts apply the English rule in determining the amount of the owner's liability and secured a ruling to that effect by Judge Holt in the district court; but the supreme court of the United States, in an opinion handed down May 25, declares that whenever our courts are resorted to for a remedy in such cases, the limited liability rules established by congress will be applied. Therefore, until congress acts by repealing or amending these rules, claimants in our courts can recover damages for ship accidents only to the extent of the value of the wreck and the pending freight. This is true even though as in the Titanic case the owner is liable under the laws of the country whose flag the ship flies for a much greater amount.

Briefly stated, our law provides that if the owner surrenders the wrecked vessel and pays into court the pending freight, he is relieved from all further liability. If the vessel is lost, he is obliged to pay only the pending freight. Insurance money payable to the owner for the loss of the ship is not available to the damage claimant. Therefore, where the vessel is lost or seriously damaged there can be no substantial recovery.

These rules are applied as well to inland river and bay navigation as to the Great Lakes, coastwise and foreign trade. There is no need for further illustration of their operation. They are simple and subject to almost no exception. Their effect is to leave passengers, crew and shippers without redress for losses by accident unless they have the foresight to insure themselves.

Though the principle of limited liability is now universally accepted, there are important differences in the nature of the limitation and its amount. Our laws are substantially in accord with those of France and Germany in permitting the owner to abandon the vessel and thereby escape all further financial responsibility. Great Britain, though limiting the owner's liability, early developed the rule that the limit should be the value of the vessel before the accident.

England's Larger Liability.

The importance of this rule may be appreciated when it is applied to a case like the Titanic. The value after the accident was nil; the value before the accident in the neighborhood of $10,000,000. In 1862, England adopted a rule more definite, more easily applied and at the same time, more favorable to the owner, viz. that the liability should be limited to a fixed sum per registered ton of the vessel.

If a great ship-owning country like England finds it wise policy to impose such substantial liability for losses at sea, it is difficult to understand why the United States, furnishing passengers and cargo rather than ships, should provide such comparatively inadequate financial responsibility to secure redress to shippers and the traveling public. Does this limited liability principle operate to secure substantial justice? Are modern conditions the same as those under which it was first developed? Much of our modern shipping is carried on by extensive corporations.

The loss of a ship like the Titanic is, of course, a matter of serious concern, but it does not involve the extreme hardships to which the loss of his single vessel subjected the owner in earlier times.

Moreover, the hazards of navigation have been greatly reduced through governmental activity in improving harbors, removing obstructions, marking channels, placing signals, making accurate charts, patrolling ice-fields and destroying derelicts. Wooden sailing vessels have been replaced by modern steamships. Voyages which took months have been reduced to days. General use of wireless telegraph, submarine signals, prescribed lanes, and the increase of speed, bring steamships into closer communication.

These circumstances suggest for serious consideration the desirability of repealing the special privilege enjoyed by water carriers as compared with carriers on land. If repeal be unwise or impossible, it is at least possible and seems desirable, to modify these laws as now applied in the United States so that irrespective of the value of the vessel after an accident, there may be some substantial fund to which claimants may have recourse.

Seamen's Plight.

Bad as is the position of injured passengers and their dependents under our liability laws, it is nevertheless better than that of the injured seamen and their dependents.

We have no federal legislation fixing the liability of the ship-owner for injury to or the death of a member of his crew. The injured seaman is entitled to "maintenance and care, at least during the continuance of the voyage." After the termination of the voyage the disabled seaman or his dependent family can recover nothing for loss of earning power or support except in cases of actual negligence on the part of the owner, for the owner is not liable for the negligence of the master or crew.

Even in cases of the owner's actual negligence, the claim of the seaman or his dependents is subject to the limitation of liability laws which permit the owner to abandon the ship to the claimants and thereby escape personal liability.

Compare this with the laws of England, France and Germany. In these countries seamen and their dependents are provided for in the workmen's compensation laws. The injured seaman or his dependent receives compensation, irrespective of the circumstances under which the injury occurred and also without regard to the limitation of liability enjoyed by the ship-owner as to other claims.

There is immediate need for federal legislation extending the existing Federal employer's liability acts (or if they be passed, the interstate railroad workmen's compensation acts), to employers engaged in interstate and foreign commerce by water.

The readjustment of our laws respecting the owner's liability for cargo losses may safely be left to the shippers. This reform will be fought out by the shippers, the owners, and the marine insurance companies. But the readjustment of laws fixing the owner's responsibility for injuries to passengers and members of the crew calls for intelligent public discussion and organized public opinion.

Safety and Liability.

Considerable attention has been devoted to the problem of increasing safety by governmental regulations respecting the construction, equipment and operation of vessels. Senator La Follette's bill, directed particularly to improving the condition and efficiency of seamen, has been passed by the senate and is pending in the house. The London conference has prepared a code of rules which are recommended to maritime countries for adoption. The house committee on merchant marine has introduced a bill based on this code.

No consideration seems to have been given, however, to the possibility of contributing to this safety movement by increasing the owner's responsibility for accidents when they occur.

It has become axiomatic in the field of industrial safety that increased liability on the part of the employer has a very material bearing on his efforts to prevent accidents.

No one accuses the owners of deliberate carelessness in exposing the traveling public to unnecessary danger, but there is good reason to believe that the owner's active and positive attention to the safety of his passengers will increase in proportion to increases of his financial liability for the damages suffered by them in case of accident.

WOULD LESSEN PERILS OF SEA

London, July 4.—The merchant shipping bill, which is the British part of an international movement to standardize ship construction and management with a view to lessening the perils of the sea, has passed its second reading in parliament. Fourteen maritime nations agreed on the needed reforms in conference here last winter, those to be carried out during the present year. There is no opposition in either house to the bill, although some question was raised as to the wireless conditions by shipowners, who said they should receive assurance of fair treatment from the wireless companies before equipping the smaller vessels.

John Burns, in moving the second reading, said that within the past twenty years 4,700 vessels, totaling 3,000,00 tons, have been lost at sea with the drowning of 18,474 passengers and crew.

ONLY ONE OAK TREE REPORTED IN PARIS.

Paris, July 4.—The city authorities have just completed a census of trees in Paris. Only those along the boulevards and avenues amont to 87,647, while those in the public squares and 26,253 to this number. The public gardens, such as the Luxembourg and private gardens which are numerous even in the central part of the city, have not been counted.

The trees of the streets include 27,545 plane trees, 13,994 elms, 16,098 chestnuts, 4,867 sycamores, 3,402 limes and 62 poplars. There is only one oak accounted for.

ON THE IRON RANGES

RANGE TOWNS WILL FIGHT "DRY" RULE

Banded Together to Prevent Getting Into Prohibition Class.

Hibbing, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—With delegates present from every town on the Mesaba range affected by the supreme court ruling in the famous Indian "dry" treaty present yesterday afternoon, an organization was perfected and program mapped out to combat the enforcement of the order when the present stay granted by the Federal high court expires.

Mayor Victor Power of Hibbing called the meeting to order and presided with Mayor Joseph Austin of Chisholm as secretary. It was decided that each town represented will have its own financial committee, but in all other ways will co-operate with towns represented at today's meeting. The following committees were named:

Resolutions—Robert Stratton, Hibbing; Frank Harris, Chisholm; J. Perrier, Marble; Dr. Triplett, Floodwood; W. Shellman, Nashwauk, and J. L. Lewis, Hibbing.

Petitions—R. W. Hitchcock, Hibbing; W. Shellman, Nashwauk; J. Perrier, Marble; C. L. Mosher, Minneapolis, and William Drew, Chisholm.

To Draft Resolutions.

The resolutions, to be drawn within a few days by the committee, will be forwarded direct to Secretary of Interior Lane and the commissioner of Indian affairs, together with petitions that are to be circulated at once in the towns represented at the meeting.

H. P. Reed of Hibbing read the following telegram he received from Senator Moses E. Clapp:

"Yours of the 18th received. Under the treaty it is not a question of the number of Indians. When the treaties were made, provisions were put in them that no liquor should ever be sold in the ceded territory, that is, the lands that were thrown open to settlement, until modified by congress or the president. It would, of course, be perfectly useless to ask congress to make any modifications of these treaties in the face of the recent supreme court decision. No committee would even report such a bill out, much less could one be passed."

GRAND RAPIDS IS HAVING BIG TIME

Parade Furnishes Many Surprises to Village's Visitors.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The best celebration of the Fourth of July ever held in Grand Rapids is on today. Crowds are here from Bovey, Cohasset, Deer River, Blackberry and all the surrounding country.

Among the attractions were a gun club shoot at 8:30 a. m., the parade at 10 o'clock, boy scout drill at 11, address of the day by Attorney Ralph A. Stone at 11:15, band concert following.

At 1:30 p. m. there will be races, including 100-yard dash for men, 50-yard fat men's race, boys' 100-yard dash, sack race, potato race, three-legged race, wheelbarrow race, chicken race, water battle, hay fight, etc. At 3:30 sharp, the baseball game between Bovey and Grand Rapids will take place. There will be a log-rolling contest, three dances all afternoon and evening, street carnival all day, balloon ascension and all kinds of good times. The village is prettily decorated with the national colors, and an air of festivity prevails. Much enthusiasm was displayed in the street parade and there were some pleasant surprises furnished.

DIES IN MEMPHIS.

W. H. Ward, Formerly Well Known Virginian, Is Called.

Virginia, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. H. Ward, a former well known resident of Virginia, died last week at Memphis, Tenn., of heart trouble, word to that effect having just been received in this city. Mrs. Ward, wife of the dead man, is a sister to Miss Tillie Brown of the city clerk's office of Virginia, J. H. Brown, Clarence and William Brown, all of whom are well known on the West Mesaba.

Under the supervision of P. H. Foote of the Jewel Nursery of St. Paul men are planting lilac and other shrubbery on the grounds which surround the St. Louis county courthouse on Central avenue.

Mrs. S. Milavetz of Cedar street entertained twelve at her home Wednesday evening. Refreshments were served and games played. The out-of-town guests were Mrs. S. Kept of Elgin, N. D., Mrs. B. Shroeder and Miss Esther Weelpy of Minneapolis and Miss Shapiro of Duluth.

Walter, the 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Anderson, 220 Ash street, is seriously ill at his home. He is suffering from heart trouble and attending physicians have given up hope for his recovery.

Deputy Sheriff Andrew Mollan has returned from a business visit at Ely and other Vermilion range points.

Thomas Flannigan of Gilbert connected with the Republic Iron & Steel company, was a Virginia visitor Thursday.

Charles Mattson, superintendent of the Virginia & Rainy Lake company's mill at West Duluth, has been here on business.

Dr. Leslie Reed and wife have arrived to spend a few weeks with his parents at 508 Birch street.

Willard Mattson of Deer River is in the city on business.

Emanuel Woolfan of Hibbing, who is a student at the University of Michigan, is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Nathanson of Maple street.

Steve Gheen of Gheen, charged with having venison in his possession had his case continued. He denies having purchased or having venison in his possession.

G. E. Hamilton of Minneapolis has taken a lease on the European hotel.

HIBBING HAVING BIG CELEBRATION

Fine Weather and Large Crowds Make Day Huge Success.

Hibbing, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The celebration of the Fourth here today is being held under most favorable auspices. The weather is ideal, there are many visitors in town and everything points to the most successful day in the history of the village.

Big Parade.

The parade this morning was an eye-opener for visitors and those participating won many plaudits. Following the parade the sports set for the morning were pulled off.

At 1 p. m. there was an address by Rev. Mr. Coolbaugh. At 2:15 there will be a baseball game here between Hibbing and Chisholm. At 4:15 the same clubs will again play at Chisholm where an equally successful celebration of the Fourth is being held.

Reports from other range towns are that the celebrations are being held according to programs.

VISITS MESABA RANGE.

Bisbee, Ariz., Mining Man Is Looking Over Big Properties.

Gilbert, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sandy Sutton, who is in this village visiting old friends and acquaintances is an experienced miner being superintendent of different mines on the Gogebic range previous to going to Bisbee, Ariz., which is his present home.

Mr. Sutton is also looking over the different mines on this range especially the steam shovel mines. He will remain on the range for a short time going from here to Hibbing to see the Hull-Rust, the largest steam shovel mine in the world.

He will then go to Ironwood, Mich., for a short visit and will then return to Bisbee, Ariz., where he is in direct charge of a group of mines that he is heavily interested in. He has made a fortune in mining in the west.

GRAND RAPIDS WEDDING.

Other Personal and Social Notes Gleaned in That Village.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The marriage of Miss Santina Ponti of this city to James Miller of Chisholm was solemnized Tuesday morning at St. Joseph's Catholic church, Rev. Father Edwin officiating. Miss Ernestine Bielli of Duluth was the maid of honor and Charles Ponti, a brother of the bride, best man. The couple left via Coleraine for a wedding trip to Duluth and other points, after which they will make their home on the farm of the groom near Chisholm.

Louis Pearson of Chicago was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Erickson this week.

Edward Wilson made a trip to St. Paul the first of the week to consult an eye specialist.

Mrs. W. M. West and children, who have been visiting with relatives and friends at Faribault, returned home Thursday.

C. A. Myers of the Interstate Iron company force and Misses Ruby Lemere and Katherine Gilbert are spending the Fourth at a house party at Pelican lake as guests of friends from Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. King of Cass Lake and Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Vermilyea and children of Marble spent several days here visiting friends and relatives, leaving Wednesday for Cass Lake, where Mr. and Mrs. Vermilyea will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. King.

C. M. Erskine was a visitor at Duluth the first of the week, returning Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Albert Brannan and children of Argyle are guests of Mrs. Brannan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Lofberg.

Word received by friends from Howard Doran, who is now located at Douglas, Ariz., where he is employed by one of the big mining companies, report him as doing well and advancing steadily in his work.

A. Ranger, who went to Rochester for treatment for an ailment which has been bothering him for some time was brought home the first of the week, after having been operated upon for an abcess on one of his lungs. He is repotred to be in pretty bad shape.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Wall had as their guests Monday, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Hauck of Wirt. On Monday evening they entertained Mr. and Mrs. Hauck and Mr. and Mrs. William De Shaw at 6 o'clock dinner.

Miss Maude Amberg returned the first of the week from a visit with relatives and friends in Minneapolis and Le Sueur Center.

J. A. Amberg returned this week from a visit to Selkirk, Man.

Mrs. A. J. McGuire returned Monday from Minneapolis where she had been "house hunting," preparatory to leaving for Minneapolis to reside.

MUNICIPAL QUARRY

Is Latest Wrinkle Proposed in City of Virginia.

Virginia, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—A municipally owned and operated quarry to prepare rock for street work is the latest wrinkle proposed here, if the council succeeds in securing an option on land on the Gilbert road, which is said to contain valuable sand and gravel.

The acquisition of the land has been recommended by the street and alley committee and City Clerk A. E. Bickford has been authorized to negotiate for the lots. The city has purchased a rock crusher and many streets, walks and alleys will be improved this summer.

EVELETH YOUTHS REAP LARGE RAT BOUNTY.

Eveleth, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bounties of 5 cents each were paid yesterday for over 1,300 rats in the office of City Clerk A. P. Renner. The "pay day" yesterday represented a month's work by the city's army of juvenile rat hunters. Bounty tickets were handed out as the rats were brought in and all tickets were cashed so that the boys could have their money for the celebration of the Fourth.

VIRGINIA GARDENS.

More Than 600 Planted and Managed By School Pupils.

Virginia, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Prof. Johnsrud, instructor in agriculture in the public schools is making his second inspection of local home gardens, planted and cultivated by pupils in the public schools, beginning the work of agriculture which is this year for the first time undertaken in connection with the schools of Virginia.

More than 600 gardens have been planted by Virginia school children and Mr. Johnsrud says they are all taking a commendable interest in the work. The gardens range from neatly arranged backyard plots to roof gardens in the business section of the city and window box gardens at homes where plots of ground sufficient for gardening are not readily available.

VIRGINIA PARADE RECORD BREAKER

Star Feature of Range City's Observance of the Fourth.

Virginia, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Typical Fourth of July weather is making this city's celebration of the nation's natal day a great success. There are many people here from other range towns and the celebration is being placed in the record-breaking class. This applies especially to the parade held this morning.

The parade formed at the city hall at 8:30 a. m. and marched west to Virginia avenue to Maple street, to Railroad avenue, to Chestnut street and to break up at Virginia avenue.

The formation of the line of march was as follows: Standard bearer, police, firemen, mayor, city council and speaker of the day, Virginia and Winona baseball teams, fraternal organizations, autos and carriages, floats, calithumpians, etc.

Patriotic Exercises.

At the patriotic exercises held later there was a large attendance. The speaking was at the corner of Chestnut street and Central avenue. Joseph Austin, mayor of Chisholm, delivered a stirring and patriotic address, summing up the significance of the day. The Declaration of Independence was read and there was music. During the day five bands played at different times. The sports events began at 1:30 p. m.

Bucktail Band.

The famous Bucktail band was one of the features here today. A. W. Woolson of Duluth, during the Civil war a member of the Pennsylvania Bucktails; W. W. Seaman of the Thirty-second Wisconsin regiment residing at Marion Mills, Minn., and C. H. Parker of Bemidji, son of a Civil war veteran and a nephew of Col. J. W. Parker, commander of the Sixty-second New York, made up, with William Weitzel of Grand Rapids, the famous Bucktail band, the drum corps which entertained the people of Virginia today. The former two are snare drummers and the latter is a bass drummer, while Mr. Weitzel is the fifer of the band.

DULUTHIAN SPEAKS.

O. J. Larson Delivers Patriotic Address at Eveleth.

Eveleth, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Following the parade here this morning exercises were held during which Attorney O. J. Larson delivered an address that breathed patriotism in every line and elicited great applause. Carl Neimi read the Declaration of Independence. There was vocal and instrumental music. The parade starting at 9 a. m. moved in three sections and eclipsed anything ever seen before in Eveleth. The Fayal, City and Finnish bands were in line and there was a profusion of decorations along the line of march. The city never looked prettier than during today's big celebration. The decorations along the main thoroughfare being very fine.

The sport program was taken up at 1:30 p. m., and will continue a good share of the balance of the day. Among the interesting events on the program are a first aid work contest with $25 for the wining team, a five-mile race with $35 in prizes and a flag relay race with $27 in prizes.

BIWABIK WOMAN SEEKING DIVORCE.

Virginia, Minn., July 4.—That she was forced to sell four of her cows for $500 to pay debts contracted by her husband, is one of the allegations made in the divorce suit filed here in district court by Mary Sophia Fleed of Biwabik, who names Warner W. Fleed as defendant. The Fleeds were married in 1902 and have two children, the custody of which is sought by the plaintiff.

Handcar Jumps Track.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 4.—As the section crew stationed at Waldo was returning from work the handcar on which the men were riding was derailed a short distance south of Stewart station, and the men were thrown off the car, and three of them were injured. The injured men were brought to the Budd hospital.

Inspect La Rue Mine.

Nashwauk, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mark Hanna, a member of the firm of M. A. Hanna & Co., of Cleveland, Ohio, J. D. Ireland, general manager and C. E. Hendrick, general superintendent for M. A. Hanna company, were here this week in the interest of the La Rue mine.

To Play Gilberts.

Virginia, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Virginia & Rainy Lake team will make its first local appearance of the season Sunday afternoon at Oliver park in a game with the Gilbert nine.

GRAND DUKE AND CONSORT BURIED

Bodies Are Laid in Family Vaults at Artstettin.

Artstettin, Austria, July 4. — The bodies of the assassinated Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his consort, the duchess of Hohenberg, arrived here today and were interred beneath the castle chapel with a simple ceremony.

The funeral procession crossed the ferry over the Danube at Poechlarn at dawn, and the cortage reached the end of its journey at 5 o'clock. The coffins were immediately placed in the chapel of Arstettin castle, where priests and nuns said prayers at the side of the catafalques for several hours.

Later in the morning two trains arrived from Vienna with members of the imperial family.

After the final rites the coffins were carried through lines of army veterans and firemen to the family vaults and were placed in their final resting place

Services at Vienna.

Vienna, July 4.—In the presence of Emperor Francis Joseph, the Archduke Charles Joseph, the new heir to the throne, many archdukes and archduchesses, cabinet ministers, diplomats and high military and civil officers, funeral services for Archduke Francis Fedinand and his wife, the duchess of Hohenberg, who were assassinated last week, were held in the Hofburg yesterday afternoon.

Later in the evening the children of the archduke and the duchess, accompanied by the Countess Chotek, went to the chapel and prayed by the side of the coffins of their parents. The scene was heart rending.

ALL MARKETS CLOSED FOR DAY

Duluth Grain Traders Close Excellent Half Year's Business.

Grain and mining stock brokers are celebrating today, there being no sessions on any of the American exchanges.

Houses connected with the Duluth board of trade have wound up an exceptionally favorable half-year's trading, and with the present bright crop prospects a record fall's business is looked forward to. As a result of the promised heavy export trade in new wheat, it is expected that a larger proportion of the crop will be routed this way from over the Northwest.

A sharp revival in the volume of trading in mining stocks is expected by brokers to develop in the near future, more especially so in the event of the decision being rendered by the interstate commerce commission in the railroad rate question next week, as expected.

ROWE MINE FIRST ON CUYUNA TO SHIP ORE THIS SEASON

Operations Are More Active Throughout New Mining District.

Merrimac Mining Company Will Have Main Shaft Near Crosby.

Brainerd, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—As predicted, the Rowe pit mine of the Pittsburg Steel Ore company at Riverton has been the first pit mine on the Cuyuna range to ship this season. Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock the big steam shovel crowded its nose into the ore and loaded fifteen cars and on Wednesday it struck a fast gait, loading eighty cars that day, and this gait, it is expected, will be maintained the balance of the shipping season. Overburden at the Rowe mine was moved more cheaply than at any other pit mine location in Minnesota. Huge electrical pumps discharged their streams against the caving banks and exposed the ore body, while two big sandsuckers sucked up and carried away the debris. Variable speed, type of motors are in use. The Soo line is shipping the tonnage.

Pennington Also at Work.

The Pennington pit mine has a shovel at work, but no shipping has been done to date this season. Last year the Pennington shipped 100,000 tons. The Thompson pit mine of the Inland Steel company has a steam shovel at work preparing the pit. Shipping is expected to begin in August when about 250,000 tons, it is said, will be handled.

Another pit mine is now assured the range, the Inter-State Iron company, a large eastern concern, being about ready to mine the holdings of the Cuyuna Iron and Manganese Ore company in section 10, township 46, range 29, adjoining the property of the Tod-Stambaugh company's Pennington pit mine. A few drill holes will be put down, serving in a measure to check drill the property. The Cuyuna Iron & Manganese Ore company has revealed a large body of high grade ore and the entry of this mining company now assures the development of the property.

Merrimac Company Breaks Dullness.

The apparent lethargy on the range has been further broken by the operations of the Merrimac Mining company which has surveyed the location of its main shaft immediately north of Crosby and commenced the building of a warehouse and office building, the foundations for the same having been completed. The Alexandria Security company owning two-fifths, John G. Williams owning two-fifths and B. Magoffin, Jr., of Deerwood, owning one-fifth, have leased from the Cuyuna Realty company part of the southwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section 1, township 46, range 29. The lessee will pay for all iron ore containing less than .060 of 1 per cent phosphorous mined and removed from said land during three months preceding the first day of the month in which payment is made 62 cents per ton, but for all ore containing .060 of 1 per cent or more phosphorous it will pay but 42 cents a ton. The Cuyuna Realty company will pay the lessors $16,250 each year for the first thirty years of the term.

Mille Lacs Shipping.

The Cuyuna-Mille Lacs mine is shipping. The Cuyuna-Duluth mine at Ironton has made no shipments to date this season. The Adams mine at Crosland has a crew at work and is stockpiling. The Armour No. 2 and the Kennedy mine of the Rogers, Brown Ore company are shipping from shaft to cars and in addition the Armour No. 2 is shipping from its stockpiles. The welcome report is heard on the range that Rogers, Brown Ore company has added to its force of miners in Crosby and Ironton.

Interest is being sustained in the south range where it is expected that a Brainerd or foreign mining company will mine the Rowes mine. The fee owners are the Brainerd Mining company. The property is a most desirable one. The Northern Pacific railway taps the property. At Woodrow the Wilcox mine has reached ledge with its shaft and is pumping about fifty gallons, just a trickle of water. Supt. Allen MacKay is well pleased with the progress made. Rails have been laid half the distance from Loerch on the main line of the Northern Pacific railway to Woodrow and the mine. Fifty men are at work at the mine. At the townsite houses are being built, streets graded and cement sidewalks will soon be laid.

Second Shaft Near Brainerd.

In the city of Brainerd a mile from the postoffice on South Sixth street, the Brainerd-Cuyuna Mining company is sinking its second shaft. The No. 2 shaft is now down 65 feet, digging having progressed that far. The steel pilling was driven down 57 feet by Capt. John O. Martin and is now about 12 feet from ledge. The No. 1 shaft, which was first flooded, is now clear to 65 feet. Nineteen men are employed. About 450 gallons a minute are being pumped.

The county poor farm of Crow Wing county, also situated on the south range, is being explored by the Longyear Exploration company, which has completed its third hole and has just spotted the fourth hole at a point 600 feet southwest of the third hole. The first hole revealed nothing. The second had 50 per cent ore, 25 feet or more of it, at 175 to 200 feet depth. The third hole was bare of iron content. The Longyear people are under contract to drill nine holes and if the property is found desirable, they have the option to call for a mining lease of fifty years duration.

A release of option has been filed by the grantee in the option given by the Superior-Cuyuna Iron company to J. T. Leirmo. The option was canceled by Leirmo becase he had not commenced exploration operations by June 1, 1914, and he surrendered to the mining company all rights to the contract dated April 15, 1914 the land being situated in the east half of the northeast quarter of section 10, township 46, range 28.

Drill East of Bay Lake.

A new drill has been placed in section 34, township 46, range 28 east of Bay lake. There has just been placed two miles south of Brained and across the Mississippi river to the west a new drill believed by many to be one of the Frederickson drills. The Crow Wing Iron company has two drills in section 9, township 45, range 29, Mr. Osterberg of International Falls, being superintendent. The Seafield Exploration company, headquarters Ironton has a drill in section 3, township 46, range 29, operating for the Cuyuna-Sultana company. The company also has a drill in section 20, township 47, range 28, across Rabbit lake where good ore has been found on the Dehning property. Three holes have been put down so far, with over 165 feet of ore and some assaying as high as 60 per cent.

Louis Rouchleau and W. A. Rouchleau of Minneapolis were on the range this week. C. J. O'Connell, who has his main laboratory at Crosby, is now also operatig a branch laboratory in Riverton. Riverton, by the way, enjoys the distinction of being a "white man's" town. No foreign miners or those unable to speak English are desired or employed by the company.

To Maintain Water Dam.

There has been filed an agreement entered into between the Cuyuna Iron Ore company, the Northern Water Power company, the Northwest Paper company, P. H. Nelson, the Williams-Carlson Ore company, and the Pittsburg Steel Ore company, covering lots 8 and 9 of section 18, township 46, range 29 owned by the Cuyuna Iron Ore company, concerning the rights of the power company to maintain the water at the Brainerd dam at a certain level and those affected by the flow to reclaim land flooded and to build dikes, dams, bulkheads, etc., if necessary. There has been recorded the mining lease made by the Cuyuna Iron Ore company, Feb. 7, 1913, to the Williams-Carlson Ore company, being for a term of fifty years, royalty at 35 cents a ton. For the first year commencing Aug. 1, 1913 not less than 25,000 tons was to have been mined; the second year, 35,000 tons, third year 45,000 tons, for the year commencing Aug. 1, 1916 and each and every succeeding year thereafter not less than 50,000 tons. H. J. O'Brien is president of the Cuyuna Iron Ore company, and Archibald McKay, secretary. The land lies in lots 8 and 9 of section 18, township 46, range 29. Of the Williams-Carlson Ore company, David Williams is president, and William C. Brown, secretary.

Three Leaseholds Recorded.

There has also been placed on record the three leaseholds conveyed by the Williams-Carlson Ore company to Wallace H. Rowe of Pittsburg. These cover first a mining lease dated Sept. 4, 1912, wherein Gust Carlson and Anna L. Carlson, his wife, are lessors, the term of years being fifty, and covering the southwest quarter of the northwest quarter and the northwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section 17, township 46, range 29. The second is a mining lease dated Sept. 4, 1912, wherein David Williams, Will C. Drown and Alice T. Waite are lessors, term of years fifty, and covering the northeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section 18, township 46, range 29. The third is a mining lease dated Feb. 7, 1913, wherein the Cuyuna Iron Ore company is lessor covering lots 8 and 9 in section 18, township 46, range 29. The royalty is specified as 60 cents a ton. The royalties agreed to be paid and any advance royalties shall be paid by Rowe direct to the lessors in the leases mentioned and the remainder of the sum of 60 cents to the Williams-Carlson Ore company. There shall be mined on and after July 1, 1913, 150,000 tons a year, and according to this the Rowe pit mine is due to get out 300,000 tons of ore this season. Wallace H. Rowe then assigned to the Pittsburg Steel Ore company all mining leases as above specified.

Improve Duluth Brainerd Mine.

It is reported that the Iron Mountain Mining company will soon commence operations. Its mine is tapped by the Soo line. At the Duluth-Brainerd mine near Manganese they have put in a new boiler and drifting from the shaft to the ore body is now in progress The Cuyuna Northern railway extension from the Cuyuna-Mille Lacs mine to the Duluth-Brainerd mine has been built and the steel has now been laid to the end of the extension. The Cuyuna Iron company has three drills working about a half mile east of Manganese and a big deposit of high grade ore has been discovered. Osterberg & Johnson has a drill working in section 22, township 47, range 29.

Property Exchanges Hands.

Joseph Chapman, Jr., has given a mineral quit claim deed to Grace C. Wheeler covering an undivided quarter in the minerals in lot 3 or the northeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section 12, township 137, range 27. Chapman also conveyed to Grace C. Wheeler an undivided five-sixteenths interest in and to lots 3 and 4 of section 2, township 137, range 27 and lot 1 of section 11, township 137, range 27. The Scribner-Kelly Land company has conveyed to Evelyn Williams the east half of the southeast quarter, the southwest quarter of the southeast quarter of section 2, township 137, range 29; the northwest quarter of the southeast quarter, lots 2 and 6 of section 11, township 137, range 29 for $1,180.50.

Emma Burgwald and husband have given to the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie Railway company, a tract 100 feet wide across the northwest quarter of the southeast quarter of section 28, township 47, range 28 for $550. The Orelands Mining company has quit-claimed to Cuyler Adams the northwest quarter and the north west quarter of the southwest quarter of section 30, township 46, range 28. Andrew O. Johnson has sold to K. A. Erickson for $2,800 the southwest quarter of section 2, township 136, range 29, Peter J. Keeley has sold to Stewart McCutchion an undivided tenth interest in the southwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section 4, township 138, range 25.

AERIAL TRAMWAY FOR THE CALLAHAN

Will Take Care of Crude Shipping Ore From the Mine.

Wallace, Idaho, July 4.—A survey has been made on a direct line from the Interstate-Callahan mine to the railroad at the head of the west fork of Nine Mile, and from information received it is believed this is the preliminary step toward the construction of an aerial tramway. The distance is probably two miles, and there are no physical difficulties whatever in the way of its construction and successful operation. This would at once take care of the crude shipping ore from the mine, which is at present the big end of the company's shipments, and with this out of the way the concentrates from the mill could be handled with comparative ease under the present method of hauling the ore to the railroad at the Tamarack mill.

With the immense ore bodies that have been opened in the Interstate-Callahan, it is not regarded as probable that the company will long be satisfied with the limited capacity of the present mill, nor is it believed additions will be made to this mill. Hauling concentrates two miles is not only a slow and cumbersome method, but the additional cost of transportation which it involves is a matter to be considered, particularly at the prevailing prices of zinc and lead. It is therefore believed that the tramway is the forerunner of a mill of larger capacity at some point on Nine Mile or the main stream where there is an adequate water supply for milling.

ANACONDA IS BUSY ON EAST SIDE OF BUTTE DISTRICT

Shaft of Tropic Being Sunk and Drifting in Progress.

North Butte Is After More Property on the East Side.

Butte, Mont., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Anaconda Copper Mining company is making satisfactory progress in its new development on the east side of the Butte district, just north of the East Butte company's property. The shaft of the Tropic is being sunk and at the same time drifting is being done on the 900, the deepest level, and a raise is being made from the 700 to the 500 level in the course of which work a lot of ore is taken out. There are about 2,000 tons on the dump that will run 3 to 4 per cent copper. The Ella mine, adjoining the Tropic on the south and east, is also being developed and mined by the Anaconda company, some very high grade silver ore being shipped with more or less regularity, while development work is going on. The Ella, formerly a property of the Reins Copper company, had been considerably developed under the former ownership, but is in bad repair. The shaft has been retimbered to the 400 level and the drifts on the 300 and 400 are being opened and repaired.

Butte & London.

There is unusual activity on the East side. Rainbow Development company is still engaged in pumping water from the Butte & London shaft, and it will be some time before that work is completed and shaft sinking resumed.

Butte Main Range.

The Butte Main Range company is pushing shaft sinking on the Sinbad, one of its claims and Supt. Sheehan predicts that he will be mining ore by the first of September or October. The Sinbad shaft is within sixteen feet of the lines of the Colusa-Leonard company's property. An effort will soon be made to resume work on the latter, which has been closed since the panic of 1907. Some of the large stockholders are seeking to get hold of additional stock from the minority at bargain prices and have succeeded in buying a large quantity of it from weary holders. The property of the Colusa-Leonard is well situated, adjoining on the east the northern portion of the East Butte and being but about 500 feet north of the Tropic.

Bullwhacker.

The Bullwhacker Copper company, after long experiments with a leaching process and considerable expenditure, has begun operations that are claimed to result successfully, although mining observers say it is far from being in a profitable state of operation. The Bullwhacker, an open cut mining proposition, is situated just a few thousand feet east of the main shaft of the East Butte company. The Bullwhacker ore is a silicate running 3½ to 4 per cent copper. It is estimated by the management that the operating cost can be brought to 9 cents a pound on an output of 4,000 pounds a day, with the present equipment. By doubling the capacity, and counting on cheap acid from the Anaconda company, when it gets into the market with its prospective acid product, the Bullwhacker management figures that it may reduce costs to 6 cents a pound. But for the present the cost of producing Bullwhacker copper leaves no margin for profit. The only leaching proposition that is commercially successful is that of the Butte-Duluth company, which is operating a large plant several thousand feet east of the Bullwhacker, and is engaged in more than doubling its capacity.

North Butte.

The North Butte Mining company, which some months ago announced the purchase of a large acreage of mineral ground on the East side, has made no move to develop the property or explore it. The company seems to prefer waiting until other concerns have more fully satisfied themselves as to the value and possibilities of the district. The North Butte has made it possible for many owners of claims in that section to realize good prices for ground which they had held for many years, and being themselves unable to develop it. The North Butte is still negotiating for several pieces of property in order to complete its solid block of ground, but, as usual, it has encountered a few owners who think they see an opportunity for securing fabulous figures for their undeveloped property. The Pacific claim, owned by a practically defunct corporation known as the Butte Mine Exploration company, is one of the properties held out. The latter company is controlled by a Newark capitalist who has a lien on it for money advanced for development work many years ago. The development work was without result except the loss of funds put into it. The Pacific is east of any property that has yet developed ore. Some of the stockholders of the Butte Mine Exploration company are anxious to get their money out of the property and have sold to the North Butte interests, and in order to get complete title the latter have purchased an option on the property which was given to some Butte men by the Newark party. It is possible, however, that litigation will result, which the North Butte is anxious to avoid.

The Alice Suit.

A bit of litigation that contains important and far-reaching possibilities is that instituted by a minority of the shareholders of the Alice Gold and Silver Mining company against the Anaconda company, in which it is sought to annul the action of the Alice directors and a majority of the shareholders in selling the property of the Alice to the Anaconda company. The case has just been tried in the federal court, before Judge George M. Bourquin at Helena, who has taken the case under advisement. The case of Alice is no different from that of other companies absorbed by the Anaconda company insofar as one phase of the contention is concerned, it being argued by counsel for the Alice that the deal was contrary to the Sherman anti-trust law. Another, and the most important question raised, however, is that under the laws of the state of Utah, under which the Alice company was incorporated, the property of a corporation cannot be sold without the consent of every stockholder. The minority, represented by Senator T. J. Walsh, have contended that the sale of the Alice was made in pursuit of the purpose which the Amalgamated Copper company had when organized, that was to monopolize the production of copper in the Butte district, and the sale of it in the markets of the world in violation of the Sherman law. Neither the board of directors nor a majority of the stockholders of the Alice company are authorized to dispose of all of its property against the protest of any stockholder. Senator Walsh also maintains that the sale is void because there is a substantial identity between the parties selling and the parties purchasing, the business of both companies controlled by John D. Ryan, a director in both companies and president of the Alice company.

The Anaconda company's position is that the Sherman law is not touched anywhere in the deal, for so far as the production of copper is concerned there can be no contention that the Amalgamated exercises or enjoys a monopoly of the business. The Butte district produces only 12 to 14 per cent of the copper of the world and less than 25 per cent of the copper of the United States. Of this output a large part is produced by companies other than those owned by the Amalgamated Copper company. L. C. Evans, chief counsel for the Anaconda company, represented to the court that the facts conclusively showed that the Alice company as a corporation had outlived the purpose of its creation, and was absolutely unable to carry out or conduct its business, a dissolution or reorganization of some character being essential in order to give even the color of value to its property. The mine was practically worked out and the company couldn't pay a debt of $34,000 that was due for the care of its property. With reference to the alleged restraint of trade due to the fact that John D. Ryan was a director in both companies, the Anaconda company claimed that that fact was in reality an important factor in the revivification of the Alice company rather than a detriment. The Anaconda company paid for the Alice on a stock exchange basis by which the Alice shareholders got $1,200,000 for its property in the north Butte district, and it has been admitted by the defense in the suit that it is worth to them $1,500,000. The plaintiffs want a great deal more than that. The property has not been productive in many years, and the Anaconda company has made no effort to do any work on it since the purchase because of the litigation that was started by the Alice minority, a few shareholders residing in Boston.

Initiative and Referendum.

The prize fighters of Montana and their backers have come forward to test the constitutionality of the state initiative and referendum law, which vitally affects the mining companies and other corporations. Many eminent attorneys have expressed their opinions that the law is unconstitutional because of some technicality or oversight in the publication of the election notice in some cow county weekly papers or the erroneous insertion of a fly speck in the affidavits of publication, or some such thing. Proceedings have been instituted in the supreme court and it is charged that in ten counties of the state the proceedings leading up to the voting on the constitutional amendment were not proper or according to the latest rules governing technicalities of the law and courts. The prize fighters are interested and will take the odium from the mining companies, because a law has been initiated and is to be voted on this fall to put the fighters out of business in the state and put Montana back into the decent columns of states where prize fighting is not permitted. If the constitutional amendment is declared invalid because of the fly specks on it, it will prevent a vote this fall on a proposed mine tax law, workmen's compensation and employers' liability law, a farm loan law, a measure to consolidate the state educational institutions, and will annul the direct primary law, the corrupt practices act, presidential primary, direct nomination of United States senators.

Practically an Open Town.

To all purposes Butte, so far as the mines are concerned, is an open town. The miners, a large majority of them, have repudiated the Western Federation of Miners and their own union. President Charles H. Moyer, who came to Butte over the protest of the jurisdiction and authority of the federation, had to flee from Butte to save his life, and only got away after some of his armed followers had killed a man and wounded several. The rebels and seceders are in control of the situation and practically in control of the town. Since the strike and dynamiting started, Butte has been filling up with I. W. W. wreckers, the direct action men of whom Butte's worthy clergyman and Socialist mayor was once so distinguished a member and leader. The Butte chamber of commerce was asked to meet and consider the astounding situation of lawlessness, and some of the members received warnings from the dynamiters to drop the subject, and then the members of the chamber dropped it and begged that no publicity be given to their meeting and discussion of the subject.

"A call was issued for a meeting of independent citizens in order to form a committee of safety and of law and order, one of its announced purposes being to demand the resignation of Mayor Duncan or institute impeachment proceedings against him. The law and safety citizens, who had been called to meet in the office of a man who once preached the virtue of dynamite when it was applied in the Coeur d'Alene mine troubles, also got warnings to go home and drop the I. W. W. and dynamiting question. A dozen attempted to meet but when they saw two direct actionists in the corridor of the building taking note of every man entering the meeting place they wilted and went home. Appeals were made to the governor for aid to restore order and punish the dynamiters, and the governor of the great state sent a telegram to the chief of the rebels and destroying force and offered to help him to restore order and peace in Butte. The rebel chief replied and snubbed the governor.

SOME NEW WORK IN BISBEE DISTRICT

Drift Being Run From Cole Shaft to Higgins Claims.

Bisbee, Ariz., July 4.—One of the highly important pieces of new work now being carried out, and in which there is large general interest in the district, is the drift being run from the Cole shaft to the Higgins claim purchased in the early spring by the Calumet & Arizona. This drift will close up a gap in the proven area, or rather make an extension. It has so far gone about 200 feet. Latterly it has been in very hard lime formation, and the going has been exceedingly slow. The sort of material they are in, however, is of the kind that seldom fails in this district to produce results and it will not be surprising if they run into good pay ore at any time. Recently it has looked as if ore might be very close.

While the value of the Higgins claims might not be determined by any early strike that might be made in this drift, encouragement would be extended. However, the latter is not lacking. The conditions so far found to exist give very strong confirmation of the conclusions reached by Calumet & Arizona management before the purchase of the Higgins group. These were that the claims must be in line of the ore and that conditions found through other development made them practically certain of coming in with results of a handsome sort. All the work to date has tended to strengthen this opinion and it will be surprising if the Higgins claims do not prove one of the very wisest investments of the numerous ones Calumet & Arizona has made in the district.

FAST WORK IN ALPHA FIELD

Strippers Remove 150,000 Cubic Yards a Month at Balkan Mine.

Purcell Property in New Hands; Cliffs Iron Shippings Small.

With the earth being excavated at the rate of 150,000 cubic yards a month, good progress is being made with the work of stripping the Balkan property of Pickands, Mather & Co. of Cleveland in the Alpha field of the Menominee iron range. The method employed is as interesting as it is unusual. Two drag-line machines are employed, each now working day and night. Together with their roots, huge stumps are withdrawn as easily as teeth are extracted by a dentist. Clay, gravel and sand constitute the overburden. So much stripping is to be done and so deep will be the pit to be created that an area of forty acres has been set aside as the dump where the ground shall be desposited and with the work completed the tract will be wholly covered. The Balkan will enter the shipping ranks next year. It will be the second big open pit in Upper Michigan at which mining will be conducted by steam shovel. The other is the Wakefield property M. A. Hanna & Co. of Cleveland are stripping on the Gogebic range. Three small open pit mines are in operation this season—one the Hanna company's Richmond, in the Cascade district of the Marquette range, where the ore is hard and is broken with dynamite before being handled by the shovel; the second is the Republic Iron & Steel company's Traders property, at Iron Mountain, Menominee range, operated on the milling system, and the third is the Portland, in the Michigamme field, Marquette range, a property on Rogers, Brown & Co. With these exceptions, however, the mining in Upper Michigan is wholly of underground nature, with the deepest shafts down nearly 2,500 feet.

Purcell Property in New Hands.

The Purcell property, in Section 14, 43-35, in the Iron River country of the Menominee, has passed into new hands. The McGreevy Steel company of Duluth having forfeited its rights the tract reverted to the original holders of the lease. These men have now transferred the property to a syndicate in which John S. Kennedy, Alfred MacPherson and William Hayden are interested. Development will be commenced at once. There is a 220-foot shaft, along with considerable lateral openings, and some 20 tons of ore has been shipped. The plant of machinery had passed into possession of the MacPherson Developing company, and this has been turned over to the new operators. Other equipment will be installed. The syndicate will be transferred into a mining company under the probable presidency of Mr. Kennedy. Another Iron River property at which work has been resumed is the Buchholz, previously under option to the Iron River Ore company. The Buchholz Mining company, in which Michigan and Wisconsin men are interested, has succeeded the former holders and lately has been engaged in unwatering the workings. Energetic search for ore will be made. The Florence Iron company is preparing to ship from its Ernst mine at Commonwealth, Menominee range, an order of considerable size having, it is understood, been booked. With ore going forward, the present working force of forty men will be doubled. Tests in Florence mine of the company may result in the installation of a drying plant. A Denver concern has the work in charge. The Florence product contains an excessive amount of moisture. Provided it is found feasible and economical to dry the ore, the drying plant probably will be installed. The mine is idle at present. In the Iron Riven region the Florence company is operating the Bates property with practically the normal force.

Iron Shippings Are Small.

The Cleveland Cliffs Iron company is shipping but 500 tons of ore a day from its two North Lake mines, three miles west of Ishpeming, Marquette range. This is about one-half the quantity that is mined. Later on, it is expected shipments will be made from stockpiles. The ore is of Bessemer grade, and part is a silica low in iron. Only development work is in progress at one of the two branches. From its Chase mine, several miles still farther west, the company's shipments to date this season have totalled but several thousand tons. The stockpile is growing steadily. It is expected that 100,000 tons will be sent out this year from Rogers, Brown & Co.'s Portland property at Michigamme, Marquette range. The ore is being mined under contract by the Hoose & Person Construction company of Iron Mountain and shipments now are being made daily. The ore this season is going out via Escanaba and Lake Michigan, whereas last year it was forwarded via Marquette, Lake Superior. While it has been announced that operations at the Jones & Laughlin Steel company's Lake Angeline mine at Ishpeming will be suspended the last of this year, because the ore bodies already are practically exhausted, there is a belief in the field that there exists a chance for the discovery of additional deposits. It is the idea that a systematic search in ground possibly not yet thoroughly explored might result in further important finds. However, whether or not work of this nature is undertaken the Lake Angeline already is the possessor of an enviable record. It has been one of the richest properties ever developed in the Lake Superior region. Opened in 1864, it has produced 9,000,000 tons of ore. More than $8,000,000 has been disbursed in payment for labor, equipment and other items of expense. The dividends probably have aggregated an even larger sum. The Lake Angeline has graduated many mining men who have become eminent in their profession. Workmen have become gray in its service, and many of these are still on the payroll. Provision of some kind will be made for the old employes.

To Erect Chemical Works

During the present summer the Lake Superior Iron & Chemical company will start the erection of a chemical works at its furnace at Ashland, Wis. The plant will replace the one destroyed by fire several months ago. Its construction will provide work for the greater number of men thrown out of employment when the furnace recently suspended operations. The equipment of the plant will be the most modern procurable. The capacity will be double that of the old works. The Zaremba company of Buffalo, will erect the greater part of the plant. Contracts for other parts of the work have been awarded to the Vulcan Copper Works company of Cincinnati and the Detroit (Mich.) Heating & Lighting company. The Lake Superior Iron & Chemical company's furnace at Newberry, Mich., was blown out the last of June. Operations at the retort plant had been suspended previously. Repairs will be made, and this will employ part of the working forces. One hundred and fifty wood-choppers have, however, been laid off. The sawmill operated in connection with the furnace, will continue in commission. The company's Manistique (Mich.) plant has been shut down for the last fortnight and more. It will remain out of blast for an indefinite period. Extensive improvement work is planned, including the installation of the retort system of manufacturing chemicals. The Elk Rapids (Mich.) plant of the company is in blast again. Part of the Newberry force has been transferred to that establishment. At Gladstone the Kipling furnace of the Pioneer Iron company is again producing charcoal iron, after having been out of blast for several months, during which period much-needed repairs were made.

Furnace to Be Ready Soon.

Such excellent progress has been made with the erection of the Jones step-process furnace of the New Process Metals company at Marquette that the plant will, it is expected, be completed and ready for operation within three months. The larger part of the basic construction work has been finished and the installation of the machinery and other apparatus is now being started. The large tube that will be used in the melting process, sixty feet long and nearly four feet in diameter, is being erected. This tube will occupy an almost horizontal position, inclining three-fourths of an inch to each foot. It will be rotated by electricity. In this tube will take place the electro-magneto process perfected by John T. Jones, metallurgist of Iron Mountain, after many years of study. Before being subjected to this process, the ore will have gone through a heating process, in which it is metallized by combination with hydrogen gas from the burning of wood. The upper end of the rotating tube will connect with a large stack, from which the crystaline ore will enter the tube through a hopper at the base. The stack will be of brick and steel construction, and is now being erected. Accommodations will be provided at the plant for the storage of a large amount of wood. Some coal will be used. It will be a special grade, 40 per cent volatile. There will be no waste, as the volatile gases will be utilized and the other 60 per cent will remain in the form of coke.

Record Ore Train.

The longest train of loaded ore cars ever hauled over a railroad in Upper Michigan by a single engine was pulled into the Chicago & Northwestern's yards at Escanaba by one of that company's monster "Class Z" locomotives. The train consisted of 133 cars, containing upwards of 5,000 tons of ore. The train was hauled into the yards at regulation speed and apparently without effort. Ninety of the cars were hauled by the single engine from the Menominee range and at a siding several miles out of Escanaba an additional forty-six cars were picked up. The train was nearly a mile in length. Several of the big locomotives are in service in the Northwestern's ore trade this season and exceptionally large trains are being hauled daily from the Menominee range assembling yards.

SUPERIOR ACTIVE DEVELOPING CAMP

Calumet & Arizona Company Going Deeper With Its Shaft.

Bisbee, Ariz., July 4.—E. C. Seeley, owner of mining claims in the Superior district and enthusiastic as to the future of that newest of prominent developing camps in the state, is a visitor here.

Calumet & Arizona and the Gunn-Thompson interests are the largest mining organizations at work about Superior. Beside these there are a number of smaller concerns, some of them backed by abundant means and mining experience.

Calumet & Arizona is saying but little about its progress at Superior. They are putting a pump station on the 800-level and are going deeper with the shaft than the Superior public generally expected when the prospecting campaign of the company was started. From this it is reasonably argued that while there has not as yet been anything big found, the findings encouraged more extensive research than at first contemplated.

Gunn-Thompson operations come under the same conservative careful sort of conduct. In the Superior district these people have been engaged for a longer period than have the Calumet & Arizona interests. They have made pretty much of a rich copper mine of the Magma and are repeating over at the Rayneft.

BUTTE-MILWAUKEE SALE AUTHORIZED

Butte & Superior Company Becomes Absolute Owner of the Property.

Butte, Mont., July 4.—At a special meeting of the stockholders of the Butte-Milwaukee Copper company, held Tuesday in the Butte office of the company, a resolution was passed authorizing the directors to sell all the properties and assets of the company as an entirety at the price of $500,000.

The terms of the sale are that 2½ shares of Butte-Milwaukee stock are to be traded for one share of Butte-New York, and stockholders who prefer to pro rata will be paid at the rate of 30 cents a share.

It was decided that the directors be instructed to distribute the proceeds of the sale pro rata among the stockholders after the payment of the company's debts.

This means that the Butte-Milwaukee company passes out of existence and that the Butte & Superior company, through stockholding in the Butte-New York company, will become absolute owner of the property of the Butte-Milwaukee, for this is the sale planned.

The Butte-Milwaukee owns some ground that is regarded as quite valuable. It owns the Col. Sellers and Pollock group of claims, located north of the Butte & Superior, and it also owns a promising group of claims in Madison county.

It is reported that the new owners of the Butte-Milwaukee—the Butte-New York—will now proceed to borrow capital with which to resume operations on the Col. Sellers group of claims. It is said the latter are not to be merged with the Butte & Superior, but will be worked through a separate company, and that work will also be done on the Madison county property.

Another report has it that the Butte & Superior company will control and work all the newly-acquired property.

ADULTERATED FOODS COMMON IN ENGLAND.

London, July 4.—The United States pure food laws are held up as a model by Alfred Moore, secretary of the British Pure Food and Health society, who upbraids the Englishman for his apathy along this line. The British public, he says, is defrauded of over $300,000,000 annually through adulterated foods, yet refuses to take the slightest interest in protective laws.

"In this country," asserts Mr. Moore, "the people seem to prefer to go on having plaster of Paris in their flour, foreign fats and unwholesome preservatives in their butter, imitation cream, cheese with the rind made of barytes and tallow, re-dried tea leaves instead of tea, chicory instead of coffee, starch and powdered bean shell instead of cocoa. French chalk masquerading as rice, water and salicylic acid as wine, and so on ad nauseam."

Besides adulteration, Mr. Moore charges that the people also tolerate filthy ways of handling foods, such as carting meat uncovered through the streets.

Well Filled Fissure Passed Through Below Third Level.

Wyandot Has Best Disclosure Ever Made at the Property.

Houghton, Mich., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Keweenaw Copper has passed through the Armstrong fissure about fifty feet below the third level, finding it to be about thirty inches wide and to be pretty nearly filled with mass copper. The ground now encountered is growing gradually much firmer and richer and it would appear that the shaft would soon be out of the disturbed zone. It is probable that drifting will be done sometime on the fissure as notwithstanding its narrowness there is so much mass copper that this work would be very profitable. This drifting will most likely be deferred until the mine is sufficiently opened to begin stoping. Many of these fissures have proved in the past to be of very great profit. The fissures were probably cracks that were made by earth movements long after the formations, both igneous and sedimentary, were laid down, and the metal was deposited from aqueous solution at the same time as in the interstices of the conglomerates and in the lava pores of the amydaloids. The width of the fissures varied from the fraction of an inch to about eight feet, and almost all of them were very nearly vertical in dip, and nearly at right angles with the regular formations, although at the old Minnesota, now a part of the Michigan, a fissure parallels the formation. The contents were copper, silver, calcit, or the carbonate of lime commonly called spar by the miners, chlorite, and other products resulting from the decomposition of the various kinds of rocks, mostly traps. The coppers had more space in which to collect than in the amygdaloids and conglomerates and ran to masses that differed in size and shape from the thinnest sheets to long slabs of a foot or more in thickness, and from the smallest nuggets to mass found at the Minnesota in 1856 with the dimensions of 12½ by 18½ by 46 feet, and the weight of 527 tons, and another somewhat larger disclosed at the Phoenix. As these masses were much more easily mined than the amygdaloids and conglomerates, the fissures were the formation first worked and in some cases, while they lasted, paid good dividends. The Cliff, which declared the first dividend in the history of the Copper country in 1849 and which paid in dividends in nineteen years $2,518,620 against assessments of only $111,000, and the Central opened in 1854 and closed down in 1898 and which declaring its first dividend in 1864, paid in twenty-eight years $1,970,000 against assessments of only $100,000, were mined wholly on fissure veins. A fissure that is now being mined north of No. 2 shaft at the Ahmeek on three levels is quite an important factor both in production and yield. Here on the old Phoenix property there were five fissure veins, and one of these, the Robbins fissure or West vein, under the management of F. G. White as agent and Capt. W. E. Parnall, subsequently the general manager of the Bigelow properties, netted $187,000 from 1874 to 1876 inclusive, paying its only dividend of $20,000 in 1875. From one of the veins there was taken from under the bed of the Eagle river one of the largest pieces of silver ever found, which weighed eight and two-thirds pounds and which is now in the mint at Philadelphia.

Wyandot.

Wyandot has sunk the winze, which was started from the 700-foot, or seventh level, 100 feet from the 815-foot, or eighth level. In the twenty-five last feet a high grade of the metal has been constantly encountered and the most of the copper seemed to be of the smallest barrel grades. The bottom of the winze in the best showing so far disclosed, there being good values on all sides. Drifting in both directions will be begun in a few days. The shaft was sunk thirty feet last month which is a very good rate for one shift with the miners doing their own mucking. To the extent so far opened there was every indication that the values would continue laterally and with depth. Supt. F. L. Van Orden states that it is much the best disclosure ever made at the property.

Copper Range.

Copper Range Consolidated is shipping daily 160 cars of forty tons each to its three mills. This tonnage, 6,400 tons, compares very favorably with the normal of 5,500 before the strike. Beginning with Monday the Baltic increased its output ten cars per day. The sand shafts, three in number, have been completed and are now in use. The Champion mill has just about finished the installation of the Hardinge conical tube regrinding mills and two or three more weeks will see the end of the same work at the Trimountain.

Allouez.

Allouez is steadily raising its daily tonnage and is forwarding approximately an average of 1,425 tons to the Centennial-Allouez and Tamarack No. 2 mills. About 880 tons are going to the latter mills, as both stamps are now in operation.

Calumet & Hecla.

Calumet & Hecla within about eight months before labor troubles, the period when trammers were so scarce, was putting forth every effort to attain the long sought for goal costs $1 per ton for mining, which would be, of course, exclusive of every expenditure except that necessary for placing the rock upon the surface. The figure that had most closely approached that standard with $1.10 that arrived at the South Kearsarge, where there is no expense for development work. The management and especially the efficiency department have again taken up the quest for this much desired result. The single man drill, particularly its latest and most satisfactory type, the Leyner-Ingersoll, which is now exclusively used by this company for all of its own work except on the conglomerate and for all of the subsidiaries, was before the eight months' period alluded to above not sufficiently placed in the different mines so that its value as a factor in reducing costs could be estimated. Even now with the present force taken as a whole with so many new men and so many miners unaccustomed to these machines, the highest degree of efficiency has not yet been reached. In a few months more this will be attained and then undoubtedly the great saving will be realized. The second great factor is the great increase in production which has not by any means arrived at its limit. At all of the Calumet & Hecla properties with the exception of the Tamarack, where only two-thirds of the mine is being worked and at the Allouez, where the average reached before the scarcity of labor was felt, has not yet been attained, the production is equal to and in most cases greater than when labor was fairly plentiful before the strike. Undoubtedly with the concentration of energy and purpose along these lines new improvements contributing to this achievement will be conceived of and introduced. The realization of this great object, which will require considerable time, will mean a saving of from 20 to 30 cents a ton as an average.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

MANY RESIDENCES AND LOTS SOLD DURING WEEK

Deal for West Duluth Factory Site Expected to Be Closed.

Duluth Men Will Go to Pittsburg Convention Next Week.

While there were no deals of any special import in the real estate market during the past week, a fair number of transactions were closed up, mainly in the way of residences and building lots. Interest appeared to be well distributed over the East end residence district, Lakeside, the Central hillside, West Duluth and the steel plant districts. Announcements are expected to come out shortly regarding the sale of other building lots in the high-class restricted residence areas, the building of an expensive home being under contemplation in each instance.

Negotiations regarding the purchase of a large block of property in West Duluth to be utilized for a factory site, referred to in The Herald a week ago, are said to be making progress. It is now thought likely that the transaction will be closed up within the next three weeks. An outside manufacturing concern and local capitalists are interested in the proposition which will involve the erection of a building estimated to cost over $75,000, and the establishing of an industry that will employ a large number of hands.

Waverly Park Sale Postponed.

Despite the fact that the public sale of lots in Waverly Park was blocked by rain on two successive Saturdays, members of the Duluth Real Estate exchange who had underwritten the proposition, have been actively at work with the result that 123 lots out of the 147 have been already disposed of.

Owing to the annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate exchanges being listed at Pittsburg for next week, and the National Association of Building Owners and Managers being scheduled to hold its convention at Duluth beginning on July 14, the public sale of the remaining lots in Waverly Park has been postponed till the latter part of this month. It is pointed out that the unsold lots offer good investment opportunities and that some of them are to be had at lower average prices than those already sold.

Duluthians For Pittsburg.

Duluth will be well represented at the Pittsburg convention to open next Wednesday, July 8. The delegation from here will include, Henry Nolte, G. T. Eagling of W. M. Prindle & Co.'s office; A. H. Brown, of Stryker, Manley & Buck; Thomas W. Wahl, T. W. Hoopes, N. J. Upham and H. C. Nicholls of Charles P. Craig & Co.'s office.

With the delegates from Northwestern points they will leave Minneapolis next Monday night on a special train. They will stop over for a time at Columbus, Ohio, on Tuesday, and will reach Pittsburg on Wednesday morning in time for the roll call. The members of the Duluth delegation expect to attract some attention in the course of the convention proceedings. They will be in position to tell of the satisfactory results which attended the Waverly Park sale conducted by the exchange here for the National Realty Associates. It is felt that the practical closing up of a proposition involving such a heavy capital investment within a few weeks, will be regarded by the delegates from other points as stamping this city as a profitable point for realty investment. It is regretted that the near approach of the building owners and managers convention prevented more Duluthians from journeying down to Pittsburg.

Arrangements for the National Association of Building Owners and Managers to be held here, are being pushed forward by a strong local committee, headed by Whitney Wall. From the hotel reservations made thus far, it is taken for granted that a crowd of at least 500 will be on hand.

BUILDING TRADES WILL BE ACTIVE DURING SUMMER

Third Story Will Be Added to Phoenix Block to Cost $30,000.

Hospital for Crippled Children Will Be Built on Boulevard.

Work of a high class nature, and involving heavy outlays came out during the present week, and the indication now are that all interests engaged in the building trade will be fully occupied from now till the close of the season.

An interesting development in the week came in the announcement that another story is to be added to the Phoenix building at the corner of Superior street and Fourth avenue west, owned by the Massachusetts Real Estate company. An estimated outlay of $30,000 will be entailed. According to the plans prepared by the architect, W. P. Allred, the new floor will be laid in attractive modernly equipped offices. The additional story will add materially to the appearance of the block. It is understood that the plans will be ready to go out for figures in a short time, and that the work will be proceeded with immediately.

New Children's Hospital.

A hospital designed especially for the treatment of crippled children is to be built on the Boulevard at the head of Eighth avenue east. The plans as prepared by Bray & Nystrom, architects, are for a three-story brick building estimated to cost $30,000. It is to be equipped throughout with all conveniences designed to aid in the efficient treatment of the young patients. The funds for the structure were donated to Bishop McGolrick by Thomas L. Feigh, the well-known mining man who last winter contributed a similar sum for the building of three Roman Catholic churches in this district, one of which is located at New Duluth. It is expected that the hospital plans will go out for figures shortly.

The East end residence district is to be embellished with another handsome home. It is announced that the plans for a house of brick and stucco construction, estimated to involve an outlay of $25,000, will go out for figures next week from the office of F. G. German, architect.

Much Work Coming Out.

The volume of new city work coming out during the week made a creditable showing. Thirty-two permits for construction estimated to cost $58,875 were issued, and with but few exceptions, they were for residence work.

The largest permit in the list was issued to John Markell for a brick home on First street, between Thirty-first and Thirty-second avenues east, to cost $11,000. A permit for $9,000 was taken out by F. C. Murphy for a frame dwelling on Fifth street between Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth avenues east, and Mrs. Marie R. Richter obtained a permit for $7,400 for a frame house on Twentieth avenue east between First and second streets.

During June 165 permits were issued for work estimated at $251,205, which compares with 163 permits for improvements, estimated at $145,284, taken out during the same month last year.

New work in the city carried through during the last six months ran up into record proportions. Permits issued by the building inspector numbered 828, for improvements estimated to cost $1,608,002. This compared with 681 permits for $2,657,759 issued during the same period in 1913. Last year's figures included a permit for $1,500,000 issued to the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad for its new steel ore dock. Eliminating that, the aggregate work for the present year showed an increase of $450,244.

A marked improvement in interest in the steel plant districts was reported by A. W. Kuehnow, president of the Gary Land company. During the week his company disposed of eight lots in Gary Central division to outside investors, some of whom plan to improve in the near future. Twenty-two buildings are now under erection in Gary and it is estimated that scores of others will be built during the present season. Mr. Kuehnow looks forward to the development of an active selling campaign during August and through the fall months.

Plans for a two-room school to be built in district No. 19 at Atkinson, Minn., will go out for figures next Tuesday from the office of W. P. Alred, architect. It will have two class rooms and a library on the ground floor with a manual training department and a heating plant in the basement. Its cost is estimated at $5,000.

The contracts for a two-story brick residence for John Sinclair at Woodland avenue and Sixth street have been awarded as follows: The general contract to Dr Calgney & Paepe; plumbing to A. J. Harker & Co., and the electric wiring to George Shuler. It will cost $4,500. The plans were prepared by Edward P. Shurick and Oscar L. Solheim, associate architects.

Additional contracts in connection with the addition to the Normal school have been let. The heating and plumbing job was awarded to S. Spencer of Minneapolis at $10,688; the plumbing to the American Heating company at $1,000 and the electric wiring to the Duluth Electric company at $1,200. McLeod & Smith, the general contractors, are making good progress, and it is taken as assured the building will be completed in time for the fall school term. It will entail an outlay of $70,000. A. W. Hunt was the architect.

NEW SCHOOL DEPARTMENTS

Board Provides for Course in Printing, and Music Supervision.

Summer School Attendance Reported at 300—Other Reports Made.

One of the most important actions taken last evening at the meeting of the school board was the adoption of the report of the committee on schools. Chief among the items was the recommend employment of Mrs. Ann Dixon of Des Moines, Iowa, as instructor in music in the high schools at a salary of $1,400 and that of Miss Helen Garvin, as supervisor of music for the grades at a salary of $1,200 to succeed Miss Clara Thomas who resigned. By accepting the committee's report, the board also sanctioned a course in printing and gave authority to procure the necessary equipment for such a course.

While other items appear in the report adopted, these are the chief ones for the reason that they establish two entirely new departments; that of musical instruction in the high schools, which, heretofore, has been an incidental study; and that of printing, an innovation, considered by many of radical proportions.

Summer School Report.

A report was made that a six-weeks' summer school is in progress, and in addition to the committee's report on this, Supt. Denfeld stated that when it opened on June 22 it had an enrollment of 275 and has increased now to 300. He also reported that work is offered for pupils in the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades and in the various subjects taught in high school. No class has been organized for less than seven pupils; and to the work offered last year has been added the work in the commercial subjects, bookkeeping, stenography, commercial arithmetic and commercial geography.

Raises in salaries of several teachers were allowed, and G. A. Glyer, teacher of history in the Central high school, was allowed $200 a year extra as director of athletics for the coming year.

The rule of the board which precludes the employment of teachers who have not had at least one year's experience outside of the city, came up two ways. The committee on schools recommended its amendment so that it will permit of the employment of graduates from normal schools as substitutes and as teachers for outlying schools; and a letter from J. L. Washburn, resident director of the Duluth normal school protested against the rule, and urged that graduates of the Duluth normal school be given recognition. As, under the rules of the board, an amendment to a rule must be offered in writing and lay over one week, in this case this was done on motion of Director McGiffert, and will come up at the next meeting.

Good Agricultural Work.

The superintendent, in his monthly report, aside from the matter of the summer school, already mentioned, reported that the agricultural work is going along well in the schools, and Mr. Denfeld looks for excellent results from Mr. Gibson's instruction. The superintendent also reported that Harold G. House, G. A. Wyly, Miss May Dorlan and Miss Gertrude Ellison are engaged in taking the school census.

Resignations received from the following teachers were accepted: Mary L. Reed, no reason given; Evelyn Colby, no reason given; Clara Thomas, musical supervisor in the grades, no reason given; Agnes E. La Vallee of the Franklin school, to be married; Alphine D. Anderson of the Gary school, getting better position in Biwabik; Lelia Mae Stickles, Estelle Chase and Inez V. Sterrett, no reasons given.

Superior

GOOD PROGRAM AT SUPERIOR

Duluthians Attracted Over the Bay By City's Celebration.

Numbers of Duluthians visited Superior today to take part in the local celebration.

There was something going on every minute of the time, and the promoters of the day's sport are being congratulated on the varied nature of the program arranged.

Two Northern league baseball games between Superior and Fort William were carded. One took place at 11 o'clock and the other will be started at 3 o'clock this afternoon. This evening, what promises to be an exciting boxing card, will be started at the Grand opera house at 10 o'clock.

Other features of the day will include a band concert all the afternoon on the Hotel Superior lawn and the battle of Vera Cruz and fireworks on the bay front in the evening.

BOXING BOUT FATAL.

Martin Thompson Dies of Heart Failure After Making Lunge.

A friendly boxing bout resulted in a tragedy in an alley between Fourth and Fifth street near Becker avenue yesterday afternoon. Martin Thompson, laborer, residing at 206 West Second street, and David Tomily were discussing boxing and the former made a few passes at Tomily. Making a lunging swing to demonstrate the art of boxing, Thompson leaned far forward as the other dodged. The next moment he toppled over. Heart failure caused his immediate death. The funeral arrangements will be made today. Thompson leaves a widow and one son.

FOURTH CLAIMS THE FIRST VICTIM.

The "safe and sane" celebration yesterday claimed its first victim in Superior. Ralph Dahl, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Dahl of Denham, Minn., who are visiting in the city, was watching other boys exploding firecrackers at the corner of Tower avenue and Fifty-eighth street when one of the lads put a dynamite cap in a cracker. In the explosion a part of the cap hit the Dahl boy in the arm, causing a bad wound. The lad was rushed to a physician where the wound was cauterized.

Held for Burglary.

Thomas Dailey was arrested last evening on a charge of burglary. The charge was made by Mrs. G. J. Dietz, 1811 Twenty-first street, who asserts that the man had burglarized her home. The man returned to the house last evening in a drunken condition and an officer was called. The burglary is alleged to have taken place the night before.

TWO BOYS HURT IN EXPLOSION.

The explosion of a gas reservoir of the gas company at Belknap street and Susquehanna avenue yesterday afternoon resulted in serious injuries to the two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Gust Balzer, 1515 Susquehanna avenue. The boys were playing with fire crackers and one of these lighted fell into a manhole leading into the gas storage plant near Belknap street. The explosion cast the two lads high in the air. Both boys were seriously injured and one may die.

THE WEATHER

The weather man is still being "jest as good as he kin be," for he promises what will be practically generally fair weather for tonight and tomorrow. He is making good on his prediction for today and the general expression is, "A perfect Fourth." His prediction for tomorrow is as follows:

"Partly cloudy tonight and Sunday with possibly local showers. Slight change in temperature. Light to moderate winds, mostly southerly."

Following are the general forecasts for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m., Sunday:

Wisconsin and Iowa—Generally fair tonight and Sunday; not much change in temperature.

Minnesota—Generally fair tonight, becoming unsettled Sunday, with probably showers north and west portions; no important change in temperature.

North Dakota—Unsettled weather tonight and Sunday probably local showers; somewhat warmer tonight northeast and central portions.

South Dakota—Unsettled weather tonight and Sunday probably local showers; not much change in temperature.

Montana—Generally fair tonight and Sunday; cooler Sunday and in west and central portions tonight.

Upper Michigan—Generally fair tonight and Sunday, warmer extreme east portion tonight.

Lower Michigan—Generally fair tonight and Sunday.

SUNDAY PARCEL POST DELIVERIES

Sub-Carriers Are Provided to Deliver Perishable Goods.

Beginning tomorrow the special and extra carriers will be employed at the postoffice to deliver all perishable goods received by parcel post up to 4 o'clock in the afternoon on Sundays. Heretofore no parcel post deliveries have been made on Sunday.

The foregoing ruling was received today by Postmaster William E. McEwen, who will put the order into effect at once.

The reason this special service is that many perishable goods become damaged by being held at the postoffice over Sunday. This is especially true during the hot weather period.

One delivery of mail was made in all parts of the city this forenoon. It is customary for carriers to have a full holiday on the Fourth, but as two holidays come together, it was found necessary to make a delivery today to prevent the accumulation of mail.

THEY MAY UNITE AGAINST RUSSIA

Norway and Sweden Likely to Form Defensive Alliance.

Stockholm, July 4.—The campaign for an alliance between Norway and Sweden continues without a dissenting note. Prominent politicians of all parties are advocating such a course on the public platforms, and in the newspaper. The movement, however, still lacks any official action.

Sven Hedin, the Swedish explorer, and Sigurd Isben, have exchanged visits between Stockholm and Christiania, and each has found public sentiment agreeable to the proposed alliance. The irreconcilable differences which led to the disruption of the union between the two countries in 1905, and which barely escaped causing war, seem to have smoothed out to the extent at least that both peoples desire to unite in a defensive alliance against possible Russian aggression.

The increase in the army and navy of Sweden, instead of exciting the concern of Norway, is greeted there with the utmost satisfaction, it is said, and Norway itself has a strong movement under way for an increase in armaments. Isben, in his lectures here, has argued that the two foreign offices and the general staffs should have some formal arrangement for working together in case of war.

CROP IS BEST IN THIRTY YEARS

Frank X. Gravel Enthusiastic Over Outlook in North Dakota.

Frank X. Gravel of the Stone-Ordean-Wells company has returned from a month's trip over North Dakota.

He avers that during the thirty years in which he has traveled over that state he never saw the crop outlook so bright as at present. He thinks that without question one of the heaviest crops in the history of North Dakota will be harvested. The yield in the western and central portions of the state are likely to be enormous, and including the Red River valley, the average all around will be high if nothing unforeseen intervenes.

Farmers and merchants in all sections of the state are consequently optimistic, and they are already beginning to anticipate their requirements in placing merchandise orders.

ROBINS WOULD BE ILLINOIS SENATOR.

Chicago, July 4.—Raymond Robins of Chicago, chairman of the Progressive state central committee will be the candidate of his party in Illinois for United States senator. His consent to the filing of a petition for his nomination was wired from Florida to Medill McCormick, national committeeman of Illinois.

Farmers in Feud.

Bemidji, Minn., July 4.—A feud between two prominent Beltrami county farmers broke into the police court yesterday when A. P. Ritchie caused J. C. Smith to be arrested, charged with having threatened his life. Smith did not plead guilty, but says that whatever was said, followed Ritchie allowing his cattle to run on the farm Smith superintends.

NURSES AND INSPECTORS

School Board Will Continue to Safeguard Children's Health.

Dr. Schroder Resigns; Urges Many Improvements in System.

At the regular monthly meeting of the school board, held last evening, Dr. C. H. Schroder, chief medical inspector of the schools, who has resigned, made his annual report of work done by the medical inspection department in the schools during the past school year. Coincident with this report came the appointment of three medical examiners and three nurses for the work during the coming school year, and the adoption of rules governing them.

The new medical inspectors, each of whom is to receive $100 a month for his services, are Dr. Frank A. Grawn, Dr. J. H. Andres and Dr. M. A. Nicholson. The nurses who will each receive $75 a month are Misses Grace McIntosh, Betty Gamble and Jane Conroy.

Rules For Inspectors.

The rules for the medical inspectors, as adopted, follow:

"That each inspector must give full time each morning that the schools are in session and report at their respective buildings at 8:40 a. m.

"That each inspector must report each case of disease or defect of child to both principal and teacher, keeping a record of each case and making a report at the end of each month to the superintendent of schools.

"That each inspector must give at least one lecture during the year on children's diseases to the teachers of each building visited.

"That the medical inspectors must examine the teachers of the Duluth public schools free of change and within two months from the time the teacher begins his or her work. Formerly $1 each was charged for examing teachers.

As for the nurses, they will be required to devote six days a week, Saturdays included, to the care of such cases as may be reported to them by the inspector under whose direction they work, and that they confer with the principals and teachers in reference to other cases as in the judgment of the latter, need special attention.

More Efficient Work.

Dr. Schroder, in his report, says that in the last year, the fifth of school inspection, co-operation of the public has been better, the interest shown by the teachers has been greater, and as a result, the inspection department, with its limited number of inspectors and nurses, has been able to keep the schools very free from contagious disease, and has succeeded in making children get medical and surgical care, which otherwise might have been delayed. Dr. Schroder says, however, that however satisfactory the work may have been under the limitations to which it was subjected, it is far from what the medical inspectors desire to see accomplished. He says the corps of inspectors and nurses is inadequate; that there should be one doctor and one nurse to each 3,000 children. He urges an immediate beginning for the supplying of open-window rooms for anemic children and those predisposed to tuberculosis.

The doctor also urges the resumption and development of the work of providing for backward children, with a specially trained teacher, aided by a corps of those from the regular staff who are interested in such work, the setting apart of rooms in the various parts of the city for such pupils.

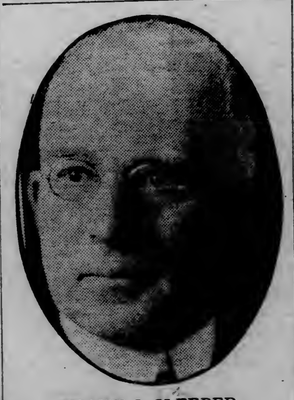

Dr. Schroder also says that the work of the doctors and nurses would be greatly facilitated by the board installing a well-equipped clinic room where children may be properly loked after. Durlng the past year the number of regular examinations made by the doctors was 7,214; and the number of visits made by nurses was 2,083.

DEATH ENDS LONG ILLNESS

Frank S. Sleeper, Well Known Produce Dealer, Is Summoned.

Frank S. Sleeper, 67 years old, one of the most prominent business men in Duluth, president of the Knudsen Fruit company since its reorganization in 1907 and a resident of Duluth for the last twenty-four years, died at 8:46 o'clock last evening at his residence, 221 North Sixteenth avenue west, following an illness of more than two years. He was recently operated on at Rochester, but it was too late for an operation to be effective.

Mr. Sleeper was born on April 6, 1857, at Manchester, N. H., from which city he came to Duluth in 1890. His father was William F. Sleeper, who died in 1899, and his mother was a granddaughter of John Stark, of Revolutionary war fame. She also died several years ago. Besides a widow, Mr. Sleeper is survived by a nephew, Walter Sleeper, who has made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Sleeper for the last six years. Mrs. Sleeper was Miss Imogene Austin, whom he married at Manchester in 1886.

In 1896 Mr. Sleeper was made secretary of the Fitzsimmons-Palmer company and he was actively engaged in the commission business from that time on. He remained with that firm until 1906 and in 1907 he reorganized the Knudsen Fruit company and became its president, secretary and general manager, which position he held up to the time of his death.

Mr. Sleeper was a member of the local lodge of Elks and the Odd Fellows at Manchester. The body will be taken there tomorrow evening and the funeral will be held in Manchester next Wednesday afternoon under the direction of the Odd Fellows. A short funeral service will be held here at the residence at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. C. J. Stewart, undertaker, is in charge of the funeral arrangements.

BUTTE MAYOR IS STABBED

Shoots Assailant After Receiving Three Knife Wounds.

Attack Is Due to His Refusal to Order Altonen Out.

Butte, Mont., July 4.—Louis P. Duncan, mayor of Butte, was stabbed three times late yesterday, and while prostrate, shot his assailant, Eric Lantala, a Finnish miner, in the abdomen. Both men probably will recover.

The affray took place in Mr. Duncan's office, whither Lantala went to enter protest against the presence in Butte of Frank Altonen of Negaunee, Mich., correspondent of a Finnish newspaper of Hancock, Mich. This paper has sided with officials of the Western Federation of Miners as against a faction of Butte miners, local No. 1, which recently broke away and formed a new organization, and the mayor had been asked to order Altonen out of town. He was told that 250 Finnish miners favoring the new organization had decided that Butte was not a good place for the man, and had adopted resolutions calling for his deportation.

"I have no power to force an American citizen to leave," the mayor is said to have told his petitioners, some of whom appeared not to agree with him.

Demanded Altonen Leave.

When Lantala appeared at the mayor's office he reiterated the demand that Altonen be ordered from town. The mayor stated his position again and Lantala began stabbing him. His attack felled the mayor, who shot from the floor.

Lantala was overpowered by Alderman Davis and Building Inspector Van Horne, who ran into the mayor's office when they heard the scuffling. By this time he had inflicted three wounds on the mayor. Duncan and Lantala were taken to hospitals, where it was said after a full examination that the mayor's wounds were superficial cuts in the neck, back and shoulder, while Lantala's wound would have to be examined further to ascertain whether the liver had been pierced, in which case, it might prove fatal. The mayor was later removed to his home.

Lantala first appeared in the present trouble when his arrest was caused by friends of Altonen. Lantala, when called upon to plead, indicated that he could not speak English. Police Judge Booher, believing that the man was not speaking the truth, sent him to jail for twenty-four hours. Later his punishment was fixed at a fine of $10 on a charge of attacking Altonen, and he paid the fine.

Altonen Will Stay.

"I shall remain in Butte until I am either assassinated or forcibly run out of the city," said Altonen, who is a former organizer for the Western Federation of Miners.

"Red" Foley, charged with larceny of $1,000 from the miners' union safe at the time it was dynamited, was arraigned yesterday and his case continued until Monday because he had no counsel.

James Allen and Tom Bolan, arrested yesterday, and W. A. Wylie, all charged with participating in and inciting riot the night of June 23, and William Cullen and William Usuary, charged with carrying concealed weapons at that time, were arraigned, their cases being continued until Monday. They went to jail in default of $5,000 bonds.

Lazar Tomich, John Tomich and Mike Miller, charged with robbery of the Stewart mine, from which dynamite was taken, were arraigned and their cases were continued pending apprehension of P. T. Moriarity on the same charge. They also went to jail in default of bonds of $5,000. Two of them could speak no English.

A meeting of the new union this afternoon at the public boxing arena, was announced last night. It is for organization purposes.

BEEF KEPT FOR EIGHTEEN YEARS

Put Back Into Storage to Be Object of Curiosity.

London, July 4.—A quarter of beef kept for eighteen years in cold storage was exposed to the public view for an hour and a half at the Smithfield markets recently. No test was made of its eating qualities, but the meat appeared perfectly sound, although slightly faded. It was put back into storage to remain an object of curiosity, the owners hoping it may be allowed to complete a century, at least.

The quarter was shipped from Brisbane, Australia, in February, 1896, to a firm of military contractors at Malta, who used it for experimental purposes. When the government recently took over the storage at Malta, the firm shipped the piece to London.

The system of refrigeration employed during this period was brine circulation produced by an ammonia compression machine.

IS ON GRAND JURY.

Man Drawn on Body to Investigate Jury on Which He Served.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—George Hyslop, who was foreman of the jury that discharged McLain Cooper from the charge of murdering James Ross, and which jury is accused of having been bribed, has been drawn as a member of the district court grand jury that will investigate the alleged briberies.

The grand jury reports in Grand Forks on July 22. It is probable that the state's attorney will challenge Mr. Hyslop's right to act on the grand jury in question.

EXCURSION TRAIN WRECKED IN SOUTH.

Macon, Ga., July 4.—Six persons were seriously injured and more than a score of others hurt late yesterday when a Fourth of July excursion train on the Georgia Southern & Florida railroad collided headon with a Macon & Birmingham local passenger train seven miles south of here.

MICHIGAN NAVAL RESERVES HERE

Visitors Arrive on Yantic and Are Entertained By Gopher Crew.

About seventy-five members of the Hancock and Escanaba Naval Reserve arrived in Duluth this forenoon on the U. S. S. Yantic to spend today and tomorrow at the Head of the Lakes.

Members of the First and Second divisions of the Duluth Naval Reserves boarded the Gopher last night and met the Yantic down the lake. Both vessels came to Duluth together.

While in Duluth the Michigan men will be guests of the Duluth Naval Reserves and will be entertained until tomorrow noon when will start on their return trip. This afternoon the visitors will be given an automobile ride about the city under the direction of the Commercial club.

The Michigan reserves are under the command of G. T. Stephenson and P. J. Ruppe. The Duluth party was under the command of Lieut. R. T. Hugo in the absence of Commander Guy Eaton.

CHICAGO HAS SANEST OF SANE FOURTHS

No Explosions, No Gongs, No Fires—Just Oratory and Rain.

Chicago, July 4.—This was the most sane of Chicago's sane Fourths. The old noises of explosions, the rumble of ambulances speeding to and from scenes of carnage, and the din of gongs, marking the ceaseless activities of the fire department, were conspicuously missing. Even oratorical demonstrations were at a low ebb, although Governor Dunne spoke in the suburb of Maywood. The program of sports was meager and was marred by a light fall of rain.

QUARANTINE RULES APPLIED TO SHIPS

Federal Authorities Extend Fight on New Orleans Disease.

New Orleans, La., July 4.—Federal authorities today began the enforcement of quarantine regulations on outgoing vessels as a part of the campaign for the eradication of bubonic plague. The fumigation of shipping in the harbor was begun today.

Congregations of the various New Orleans churches will be urged at services tomorrow to assist in the eradication work.

Of the thousand rats that had been caught up to last night it was said none was found infected.

NIGHT FIREWORKS FOR MILWAUKEE.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 4.—Milwaukee and many other cities throughout Wisconsin were prepared today to celebrate a "sane" Fourth.

In Milwaukee the program includes patriotic celebrations by school children in all of the public parks, at which appropriate addresses will be made, to be followed by flag and other drills by many thousands of school children.

The festivities will close with an elaborate fireworks display in all of the city parks and different sections of the lake front.

EPWORTH LEAGUE ENDS SESSIONS.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 4.—A patriotic demonstration and a parade marked the last day of the ninth annual International Epworth League convention. Charles W. Fairbanks, former vice president, and N. W. Rowell, M. P., of Toronto, were the speakers at the demonstration. The singing of "Nearer, My God, to Thee" by a chorus of 10,000 voices massed around the McKinley monument, was a feature.

SEEK YOUTH TO TELL OF BOMB EXPLOSION WHICH KILLED FOUR

New York Police Are Looking for Michael Murphy.

Girl Declares Victims of Affair Were Murdered.

I. W. W. Leaders Say Caron Was Not One of Them.

New York, July 6.—Michael Murphy, 19 years old, the only member of the group of free speech advocates who escaped with his life from the fatal explosion of Saturday morning that wrecked the tenement at 1626 Lexington avenue, is being sought by every policeman and detective in New York today as the one person most likely to know the real story of what occurred in the little flat.

Murphy disappeared after being in the hands of the police before they were aware of the identity of the victims of the explosion. He visited a nearby police station, was given clothes to replace his own, which were torn to bits, and then dropped out of sight.

Just what charge could be placed against Murphy the police say they do not know, but it is believed he might be induced to throw some light on the cause of the explosion and perhaps explain why alarm clocks and other things used in the making of bombs were kept in the Berger apartment.

Says They Were Murdered.

Louise Berger declared that the three men who died in the explosion

TARRYTOWN CASES DELAYED TWO WEEKS

Baiters of Rockefellers Get Postponement of Their Trial.

Tarrytown, N. Y., July 6.—Nine free speech advocates, most of them identified with the Industrial Workers of the World and all of them associates of the four victims of Saturday's premature bomb explosion in New York, came to Tarrytown today to face trials on charges growing out of the demonstrations some weeks ago against John D. Rockefeller and his son. Special guards surrounded the court room, and extra guards patrolled the always closely watched Rockefeller estate near here.

ALL MEN IN BRITISH ARSENAL ON STRIKE

Twelve Thousand Employes at Woolwich Join Walkout.

Woolwich, England, July 6.—The entire working staff of 12,000 men of the government arsenal here, which supplies most of the guns and ammunition for the British army, struck today. The action of the men was a protest against the dismissal of an engineer who had refused to erect machinery on a foundation constructed by non-union laborers.

IS PUBLICLY REPUDIATED

Minister Williams' Words Disclaimed in Note to Powers.

He Interviewed Everybody But Commission, It Is Said.

Washington, July 6.—President Wilson has notified the principal European powers that the United States disclaims any responsibility for the statements regarding Albania attributed to George Fred Williams, American minister to Greece and Montenegro. The president refused to discuss Mr. Williams' resignation today, but it was understood it had not yet been received.

Interviewed Everybody.

London, July 6.—According to the Athens correspondent of the Times, after the international commission declined to receive George Fred Williams, the American minister at Athens set himself the task of interviewing various persons, high and low—the ministers of Prince William of Wied, municipal and naval officers, the commissioners, officers of the gendarmerie, Christians and Musselmans—with the

TAKES ANOTHER CHANCE IN MARRIAGE LOTTERY

JOHN O. SCHENK.

Wheeling, W. Va., July 6.—John O. Schenk, wealthy pork packer, whose wife, Mrs. Laura Schenk, from whom he was subsequently divorced, was tried four years ago on a charge of attempting to poison him, was married here July 4 to Miss Grace E. Fendt, a school teacher. The jury disagreed at the trial of Mrs. Laura Schenk, and she was not brought to trial a second time.

HOW TO MAKE SCHOOL BEST

President Swain Talks to N. E. A. Meeting Delegates

Message From Wilson Read —"White Peril" Seen in Orient.

St. Paul, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Given a cultivated, trained teacher of sound mind and body, who goes to work at peace with God and man, the school will be the best place in the world for the growth of the child in practical righteousness and American citizenship."

This was the declaration of Joseph Swain, president of Swarthmore college and president of the National Education association, at the first general session of the association's annual convention here today. The session was devoted principally to a discussion of the teacher's relation to American citizenship.

Secretary Durand Springer said today that registration indicated a record-breaking attendance at the convention, which is expected to be one of the most important in point of actual accomplishments in the history of the association.

Busy With Politics.

Interest in the election of a president to succeed Dr. Swain was at a high pitch today, and the campaigns of Dr. D. B. Johnson of Rock Hill, S. C., and Dr. David Starr Jordan were being carried forward by the candidates' respective friends in lively fashion.

President Swain's address followed speeches of welcome by state and city officials and a response by Z. X. Snyder of Greeley, Colo. Pointing out the need of religion in schools, President Swain said:

"Not much instruction, either secular or religious can be given without a well equipped teacher whose personality, learning, moral and religious life

TRY TO PATCH UP THE BUTTE LABOR FIGHT

Heads of Five International Unions Meet In Helena.

Helena, Mont., July 6.—Five international heads of unions affiliated with the Western Federation of Miners arranged to meet in a conference here today to adopt a plan whereby it is hoped to settle the labor troubles in Butte. The conference was called a week ago by Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, the Butte local of which is disrupted by factional strife.

Mayor's Assailant Dead.

Butte, Mont., July 6.—Eric Lantala, the Finnish miner who attacked Mayor Louis J. Duncan in the latter's office last Friday because of the city's executive's refusal to deport a correspondent here of a Michigan Finnish newspaper upholding the policies of the Western Federation of Miners, and who was shot by the mayor, died Sunday of the wound. The bullet penetrated his liver.

Lantala refused to make a statement to the county attorney in regard to the affair, although to others he asserted that the mayor shot him before he stabbed the mayor.

The constitution proposed by the executive committee of the new miners' union was made public yesterday and caused friction in the ranks of the insurgent miners. Those who oppose it consider it too radical, and allege that it is modeled on principles of the I. W. W.

FOUR SLAIN WITH AN AX

Laborer and Family Killed —Son-in-Law Is Missing.

Man, Wife, Daughter and Infant, Chicago Murder Victims.

Chicago, July 6.—A family of four all were killed by blows from an ax in their home in the German settlement of Blue Island, a suburb, last night.

The victims were Jacob Neslesla, a German laborer, 52 years old, his wife, their daughter, 25 years old, and the latter's infant child.

The bodies and the bloodstained ax mutely told the story when the crime was discivered by neighbors today.

Whether the butchery was the work of a maniac or of a person seeking revenge was not disclosed in the first cursory investigation. It was learned that the young mother of the infant had been living away from her husband for some time, and efforts to locate him were begun. There was nothing in the house to show his name.

The murderer, according to Benjamin Knirsch, chief of police of Blue Island, proceeded with great deliberation. Each member of the family was struck in the head.

Found Ax Near Beds.

Neslesla slept in a front bedroom on the first floor of the little frame dwelling. In the attic the two women and the infant had their beds. The ax was found near these beds.

Nothing was taken from the house. It was the home of a laborer, and the few trinkets the inmates boasted were of slight value.

The crime was discovered by Jacob Neslesla, Jr., a son of the old couple, living in another part of Blue Island. He is a track laborer and went to the home of his parents, which is near the tracks, to get a pail of water. He told the police he observed that the back door of the place was open, and he called a greeting to his mother. There was no answer and he entered to investigate and found the bodies.

He said that his sister's husband's name was Hamilton. Hamilton, he said, left her a year ago.

TEN DEATHS DUE TO FIREWORKS; 687 HURT

Sane Fourth More Than Cuts 1913 Fatalities in Two.

Chicago, July 6.—Revised figures announced by the Sane Fourth committee, a Chicago organization, show a total of ten deaths caused by fireworks throughout the nation in this year's celebration of Independence day. This list doubtless will be increased by deaths of injured, of which 687 were reported. In the 1913 celebration 25 deaths resulted and 1,037 injuries.

Agreement Is Reached at the Conferences at Torreon.

Washington Is Encouraged to Look for Peace in Mexico.

Rumor of Huerta - Zapata Coalition Promptly Denied.

Saltillo, Mex., July 5, via Laredo, Tex., July 6.—The Division of the North, Villa's army, has agreed to acknowledge the authority of Gen. Carranza as "first chief" and Villa will remain commander of the Division of the North, as a result of the conference between representatives of Villa and Carranza, according to news received here.

Washington Hopeful.

Washington, July 6.—President Wilson and members of his cabinet were encouraged today by reports that an early adjustment was indicated of differences between the Constitutionalist leaders. Secretaries of the parley between representatives of Carranza and Villa declared they expected the meeting would end today with satisfactory results.

In the promised removal of such a stumbling block, administration officials and some of the revolutionary agents in Washington saw added cause for hope that Carranza would send agents to confer with Huerta's dele-

KORITZA CAPTURED BY THE MUSSULMANS.

Durazzo, Albania, July 6.—It was reported here today that the Mussulman insurgents in Southern Albania, who are fighting against the government of Prince William, had captured the important town of Koritza. The troops of the garrison, which included some Dutch and Austrian officers of the Gendarmeries, were taken prisoners after they had offered stout resistance.

"TWO RATS TO EVERY HUMAN IN THE CITY."

Charleston, W. Va., July 6.—Declaring there are twice as many rats as people in Charleston and that they do damage approximating $125,000 every year, Mayor J. F. Bedell today set aside July 8 as "rat extermination day." Many rat hunting parties are being organized throughout the city.

Mrs. Carman's Negro Maid Testifies — Sister Changes Story.

Freeport, N. Y., July 6.—An unopened box of 38-caliber revolver cartridges said to have been found in the attic of the Carman house were exhibited by Assistant District Attorney Weeks at the resumption today of the inquest into the death of Mrs. Louise Bailey, who was shot to death last Tuesday night while in consultation with Dr. Edwin Carman in his office. Mr. Weeks pointed out that a 38-caliber bullet killed Mrs. Bailey. He said Dr. Carman told him he did not know how the cartridges came to be in the house.

Despite assertions of Dr. Carman that several shots were fired at him last night by a man on a bicycle near Rockville Center, while returning to his home here after visiting a patient at Roosevelt, Lewis Smith, district attorney, and Sheriff Stephen P. Pettit today declared they still were firm in the belief that it was a woman who shot and killed Mrs. Bailey.

W. J. W. Haff, Jr., of Lynbrook, near here, who greatly resembles Dr. Carman and drives an automobile of the same type, reported to the Freeport police that early this morning, while driving his machine not far from where Dr. Carman was fired upon last night, a man standing beside the road fired one shot at him. Haff is a long-time friend of Dr. Carman.

HALE THREE DOZEN PLUMBERS TO COURT

All Will Plead Not Guilty of Breaking Sherman Law.

Des Moines, Iowa, July 6.—Thirty-six plumbers from eight Central States will appear before Judge Smith McPherson in the Federal court here tomorrow to answer an indictment charging them with violation of the Sherman anti-trust act. According to their attorneys, all of the accused men will enter pleas of not guilty.

A similar plea also will be entered by Thomas Hyman, sales manager for a supply house in St. Louis, who faces a charge of perjury. Hyman is alleged to have given false testimony before the grand jury during the investigation into the plumbers' operations.

Twenty of the plumbers to be arraigned are residents from Nebraska, three from Missouri, three from Illinois, one from Indiana, four from Wisconsin, one from Minnesota and one from Michigan.

MINNESOTA MILITIA GET TASTE OF WAR

First and Second Regiments in Maneuvers With Regulars.

Sparta, Wis., July 6.—Problems intended to better acquaint them with conditions of actual warfare will be given the national guardsmen of Minnesota and South Dakota who encamped here today for joint maneuvers with a detachment of Federal troops, under the direction of regular army officers.

Two regiments of infantry, the First and Second, including the machine gun company and hospital corp of the former, constitute the Minnesota force, while South Dakota is represented by its entire guard, consisting of one infantry regiment. All are equipped for heavy marching orders. The Minnesota militiamen will break camp on July 15, while the Dakotans will remain until July 18.

Twelve Federal army officers will conduct the tests, which are intended to show the militia's preparedness for actual hostilities. Each morning military problems will be given to the various divisions to be worked out during the day. These, so far as possible, will represent actual conditions of attack and defense in time of war.

Dr. E. B. Coolley Seeks the Nomination to Congress.

Danville, Ill., July 6.—Dr. E. B. Coolley, a wealthy physician of Danville, today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for congress in opposition of Joseph G. Cannon in the Eighth Illinois district. Dr. Coolley, in making his announcement, said he was impelled to do so by the complaint that "Uncle Joe" is no longer in touch with the younger element in his district.

"AFRAID WHAT RICH MAY SAY"

Rabbi Wise Makes Charge Against "Reactionaries in Conference.

Increase in Crime Among Jews Is Stoutly Denied.

Detroit, Mich., July 6.—"What you want us to do is to cater to the wealthy employers of labor, who so largely support the synagogue. You are afraid of what the rich may say if we take a stand for social and economic justice. You quote the Scriptures that 'justice shalt thou preach,' but you are afraid to practice what you preach."

With these words, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York attacked what he called the "reactionary" members of the Central Conference of American Rabbis at last night's session of the convention, being held in Detroit, and demanded the adoption of the report of the committee on "the synagogue and industrial relations" which was submitted by Rabbi Solomon Foster of Newark, N. J.

The committee recommended that the conference "indorse heartily" the principles of the minimum wage industrial insurance, workmen's compensation, old age pensions, prohibition of child labor and the right of workmen to organize.

Opposed by Enelow.

Rabbi H. G. Enelow of New York declared the conference was not ready to approve his economic creed, and moved that consideration of the report would be put over until next year.

When the test came the "conservatives" won. It was voted to have copies of the report printed and sent to all members of the conference to be acted on at next year's convention.

Rabbi Louis Bernstein, in telling of the work of the synagogue for defective, delinquent and dependent Jews, declared that in twenty-one penal institutions in the Middle West, including penitentiaries, reformatories and industrial schools, there are only 125 Jews in a total of more than 14,000 prisoners.

"The figures we have collected," he said, "are proof that the statement that Jewish criminals are on the increase is false."

Yesterday was anniversary day for the conference, and addresses reminiscent of the twenty-five years of its history, prepared by former presidents of the organization, were read.

TAGS TO WIPE OUT DEBT OF CHURCH

African M. E. Church Will Conduct All-Day Sale on Saturday.

The efficacy of the tag in lifting church mortgages and other debts will be tested in Duluth next Saturday when St. Mark's African M. E. church will attempt to wipe out a $5,000 indebtedness.

Tags will be sold on the main streets from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. and the members of the congregation will make an effort to catch most Duluthians before the day is over. They hope to raise a big sum, at least, to help lift the debt, which consists of a mortgage of $3,000 and liens and debts of $2,000.

The church, which is a large, handsome structure on Fifth avenue east and Sixth street, was completed not long ago at a cost of $15,000. Rev. George G. Holt, the present pastor, is giving excellent satisfaction to the congregation and the church is making good progress in its various lines of activity. The congregation is able to meet the running expenses, but the indebtedness is a constant source of worry.

ELOPED FROM DULUTH; HUSBAND GUILTY OF BIGAMY

MRS. BESSIE SPRINGER NOURSE.

An elopement from Duluth shortly before the Christmas holidays last year had its aftermath in a Chicago courtroom Friday afternoon, when William K. Nourse, boy broker, thrice a husband, was convicted of bigamy. A jury found that Nourse had married his third wife, Miss Bessie Springer of Detroit, without having first divorced his second wife, Mrs. Grace Joiner Nourse. The penalty fixed by statute for bigamy in Illinois is from one to five years in the penitentiary, or a $1,000 fine, or both imprisonment and fine.

In the courtroom with the broker when the verdict was read were his three wives: Mrs. Mamie Plumridge Nourse, No. 1; Mrs. Grace Joiner Nourse, No. 2, and Mrs. Bessie Springer Nourse, No. 3. His third marriage took place in Chicago on Christmas day of last year, after an attempt had been made to have the knot tied in Duluth.

Miss Springer has an aunt in Duluth, and has visited with her on two or three occasions.

When Miss Springer visited here for a week last December, she and Nourse had planned to get married in spite of objections which had been raised by O. M. Springer of Detroit, the girl's father. Mr. Springer is a Detroit attorney, and when he learned that Nourse had followed his daughter from Detroit to Duluth, he wired his sister to do everything in her power to prevent the wedding. The plans were thwarted. The clerk of the district court here was instructed not to issue a marriage license.

Eloped From Here.

Shortly before Christmas Miss Springer told her aunt that she was determined to become Nourse's wife, and that she was going to leave Duluth and go some place where they might get married. They left Duluth for Chicago on different trains. They met there on Christmas eve and were married.

The romance between Nourse and his third bride started about four years ago at a Yale-Harvard football game. Nourse represented himself to the girl and to her family as being a single man and it was not until after they were engaged to be married that he disclosed the fact that he had a "great secret" to tell her. He then informed her that he had been married before, but had secured a divorce and that everything was all right.

Nourse, from all that can be learned, is a "black sheep" of a prominent and well connected Kansas City family. Miss Springer is well known in Detroit. Her mother was formerly Miss Emma Wreford and is said to be the only heir to a large Detroit fortune.

At the trial of the bigamy case in Judge Brentano's court last week, O. M. Springer, the father of Mrs. Nourse, No. 3, testified that Nourse was "as skillful and versatile a liar" as he ever knew. He said Nourse told him while courting his daughter that he had $61,000 invested in North Dakota property; that he was drawing a salary of $20,000 as manager of a Minnesota paper concern and that he was a Harvard graduate.

Was "Four Flusher."

"He lied to me in almost everything he told me," Mr. Springer declared. "When he asked me for my daughter's hand in marriage I objected because his actions convinced me he was a four-flusher."

Mrs. Emma O. Springer supported her husband's testimony. She said Nourse had told her his home was in Boston, but that he was living in Detroit.

With Mrs. Springer's testimony the state closed its case.

The state scored a victory when it obtained the introduction of a letter written by Nourse to Mr. Springer, Sept. 1, 1913, in which he said that he was a single man and had never proposed marriage to any other girl.

Revenge becuse Nourse failed to support her father in business deals is the motive ascribed to her father by Mrs. Bessie Springer Nourse. The father, however, asserts that his motive is only to punish the man who deceived him and to wreat his daughter from the alleged bigamist.

On the stand Nourse admitted that he was still married to Grace Joiner at the time he wooed his present wife. Under cross-examination he admitted he had lied when he represented himself to be a single man, a Harvard graduate and a fraternity man.

Wife Is Loyal.

In defense, Nourse's testimony was an attempt to establish and uphold the validity of his two divorces, while the state battled to make him admit that his decrees were illegal and void.

The defendant was encouraged through his ordeal by the smiles of Mrs. Bessie Springer Nourse, who declares her loyalty despite the charges made. The other two wives sat in the courtroom.

Nourse testified that he married Mamie Plumridge in St. Louis May 28, 1903, and obtained a divorce from her on the ground that she deserted him while they were living in Minneapolis in August, 1905.

Divorces Second Wife.

This divorce was granted at Devils Lake, N. D., he said. He told of his marriage to Grace Joiner in Milwaukee Sept. 20, 1909, and their divorce in Cleveland Jan. 15, 1913, on desertion charges. He married his third wife in Chicago Christmas eve, 1913.

Mrs. Nourse No. 3, who is 24 years old, trembled [illegible] nervousness when the verdict [illegible] returned against her. Her faith and loyalty, howe[illegible]r. [illegible] sent to the penitentiary?" she asked sadly: "This thing is sure—I shall not go home. I am through with my family forever. Mrs. Nourse, Sr., wants me to come and live with her, and there I shall go."

NAVAL MEN DEPART.

Michigan Reserves Pass a Pleasant Fourth in Duluth.

The Escanaba and Hancock (Mich.) Naval Reserves, which passed the Fourth in Duluth as guests of the local naval men, left for their homes yesterday on board the U. S. S. Yantic. The Duluth men boarded the U. S. S. Gopher, and accompanied them for several miles down the lake.

There were about seventy-five of the Wolverines in the party, commanded by Lieuts. Stephenson and Ruppe. They were given an automobile ride Saturday afternoon under the direction of the Commercial club. The Duluth reserve was in command of Lieut. R. T. Hugo in absence of Commander Guy Eaton.

"PATRIOTS" TOO LOUD; ARE FINED

Of the five men arrested since Saturday noon on a charge of being disorderly and creating a disturbance, four pleaded guilty in police court this morning and they were each fined $5 and costs or five days in the county jail. The fifth pleaded not guilty and he will be tried this afternoon.

Carl Mattison, 26 years old, was celebrating the Fourth in explosive style Saturday afternoon and declared while walking along Superior street that he could fight anyone in the world. He would prove it, too, he said. But when he ran into Patrolman Thompson he found that he had taken in too much territory for the officer arrested him. He pleaded guilty and paid his fine this morning.

Thomas Matulis, 40, who was arrested by Patrolman Ricketts on a charge of creating a disturbance in celebrating the Fourth, pleaded not guilty, and his trial was set for this afternoon.

Charles Halki, 37, and Fred Yoeshook, 22, were discussing the great wrestlers, when Halki declared he could easily put Yoeshook on the ground. They made a bet and the match started. Halki threw his friend to the ground with such a force, that Yoeshook's face was cut. They were arrested and this morning they each paid a fine of $5 and costs.

For creating a disturbance on a street car last evening, Peter Tobin, 24 years old, this morning paid a fine of $5 and costs. He was arrested by Patrolman Montgomery and in police court, pleaded guilty to the charge of disorderly conduct.

"WHEN THE HARVEST DAYS ARE OVER."

Paris, July 6.—Miss Marion Deering, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Deering of Chicago, was married here today to Chauncey McCormick, also of Chicago, son of Mr. and Mrs. William McCormick of Baltimore.

Only the members of the two families and a few friends were invited, among them Ambassador Myron T. Herrick and Mrs. Herrick.

Philip Goodwin of New York was best man. The bride was unattended.

HUNGRY MAN TRIES SUICIDE

Lodger at Police Station Cuts Throat With Shears —Can Recover.

Showing signs of insanity when he came into police headquarters last night for free lodging, Michael Dennery, 26 years old, tried to commit suicide at 5:45 o'clock this morning by attempting to cut his throat with a small pair of shears he had with him and with the cover of a sardine can, which he found in his cell.

Jailor Wanvick heard Dennery yelling in his cell and when the officer rushed in, he found Dennery bleeding from a severe cut across his throat. Police Surgeon Murphy was called and after dressing the wound, made out a complaint against Dennery and the latter will be taken before Judge Gilpin of the probate court and examined as to his sanity.

Early last evening Dennery came to Lieut. Barber and asked if the police would not shelter him for the night. There were several men chasing him from Superior, he told the police, and he wanted protection for the night. Dennery was taken downstairs and placed in the lodger's room, but he had been there only a short time, when he shouted for help. The men were knocking on the windows, and attempting to get in, he cried, and begged the police to give him a single cell on the jail floor, where he would be safe. The police granted his request.

About 5:45 o'clock this morning Jailor Wanvick heard Dennery yelling for help and crying "Murder" at the top of his voice. He rushed in and found Dennery bleeding, with a small pair of scissors and the cover of a sardine can lying on the floor. Had either of these been sharp enough, Dennery would undoubtedly have succeeded in taking his own life.

Asked by a Herald reporter this morning why he attempted to commit suicide, Dennery told a story of how he had been fired from his job as marine fireman on the steamer E. L. Wallace last Tuesday, how he had been without a place to sleep all week and with but little food. He was desperate and tired of living, he said.

Dennery was born at Shenandoah, Pa., where his parents, five brothers and six sisters still live, he said. He has been away from home for about five years, most of which time he was spent on the lakes.

ASSESSORS ARE TARDY

Many Have Not Yet Reported to the County Auditor.

Board Will Meet to Hear Complaints on Monday, July 20.

Although today, the first Monday in July, is the day fixed by law on which township assessors should make a return of their assessment rolls to the county auditor, about ten or fifteen towns are yet to be heard from. St. Louis county has about seventy-five tax districts outside of its cities and according to L. A. Marvin, deputy county auditor in charge of tax matters, only about sixty assessors have turned in their books.

The county board of equalization will hold its annual meeting on the third Monday of the month, which this year falls on July 20. The board consists of the county commissioners and the county auditor, who has a voice and vote in its proceedings. The duty of the equalization board is to hear taxpayers who have complaints to make on the 1913 valuation of personal and real property. It is expected that all of the assessment rolls will be in by the time that the board meets.

More work confronts the equalization board this year than last, owing to the fact that this is not an off year for real estate valuations. Valuations on real estate are placed every even numbered year and are not usually altered by equalization boards during the odd numbered years. It is also expected that some difficulties will be presented in the personal property valuation because of the operation of the new classified personal property assessment law.

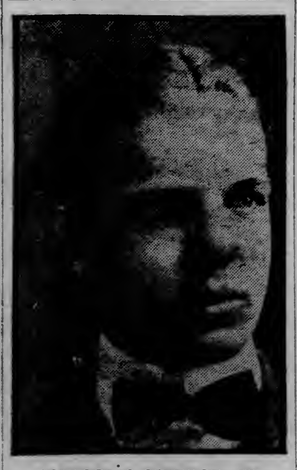

After the board of equalization adjusts the valuations to suit its approval, the assessment rolls will be returned to the county auditor, who will prepare a corrected abstract and forward it to the state tax commission at St. Paul. The final changes in the valuations, if any are made, are ordered by the state tax commission.

It is expected that the 1914 assessed valuation will show a substantial increase over the 1913 and 1912 figures.

The assessment figures for the past two years in St. Louis county are as follows:

	1912.	1913.
Taxable real property	$294,516,545	$295,853,103
Taxable personal prop..	16,866,825	18,964,165
Total	$311,383,370	$314,817,268

JURY DISAGREED IN HIS MURDER TRIAL

MALCOLM GIFFORD, JR.

Albany, N. Y., July 6.—The jury that heard the case of Malcolm Gifford, Jr., son of a wealthy Hudson manufacturer, charged with having murdered Frank J. Cute, failed to reach a verdict and was discharged by County Judge Addington. The jury was out twenty-four hours.

EDUCATORS AT MEET.

Several Duluthians Go to N. E. A. Meeting in St. Paul.

Several Duluth educators left last night for St. Paul to attend the fifty-second annual convention of the National Educational association which opened there today. The program includes eighty-three addresses by the foremost educators of the country and a large number of auxiliary meetings. It is estimated that the attendance will reach 12,000. A lively contest is expected over the presidency, a three-cornered fight having already begun.

West End

CELEBRATION FOR NEW "WHITE WAY"

Commercial Club Will Work Out Elaborate Program for First Night.

Members of the West End Commercial club are planning on a special demonstration to take place on the first night of the lighting of the "White Way" on West Superior street. It is expected that this will be ready to open officially about Aug. 15.

A celebration in honor of the event will be planned. What the nature of this will be is to be worked out between now and then by a committee and officers of the club. It is expected that at that time the paving of the thoroughfare will be nearly completed so as to allow a greater freedom to crowds during the evening.

A member of the club has suggested a parade similar to that held during the night of the "Lark o' the Lakes" celebration last year.

The officers of the club propose to ask for the co-operation of all of the merchants of the street to make the celebration a success. Committees from these men will also be asked to work in conjunction with members of the club.

The principal celebration will be held between Eighteenth and Twenty-second avenues. It is between these streets that the "white way" is being installed. The light standards are being put in ten to a block, five on each side of the street. The improvement will cost the property owners about $3,500.

"We certainly are entitled to celebrate the first lighting of the new system," said S. W. Hill this morning. "We have had a hard time getting the property owners to consent to install the system, but have finally been successful after several years of work. We should celebrate this in a fitting style for I am of the opinion that it will mean the opening of a new era of business for this section of the city. The entire city will be invited to join in the affair."

WHO WILL CLEAN THE PLAYGROUND?

Whose duty will it be to clean up the Harrison playground on which the carnival was located last week? That question is being asked by "kids" who arrived this forenoon to spend the day in play.

The ground is littered with paper, refuse of all kinds and the entire neighborhood for some distance around is said to be in similar shape. No start has yet been made toward cleaning up the place and when the children began gathering many became disgusted and returned home.

The ground will also have to be rolled before organized play can be resumed, according to some of the older boys. Many parts of the ground have been torn up by stakes and other apparatus used by the carnival people.

Class Initiation.

A class initiation will be held this evening at the meeting of Duluth Homestead, No. 3131, Brotherhood of American Yeomen, at the Woodmen hall, Twenty-first avenue west and First street. The degree team will put on the work. Following the initiatory ceremony J. A. Bellmeou, district deputy will give an account of the recent gathering of Yeomen at Des Moines, Ia., during the dedication of the order's new home office building.

Want Creek Covered.

The Fifth Ward Improvement club will hold its regular monthly meeting tomorrow evening at the Emerson school, Eleventh avenue west and Third street. Members of the club propose to urge that the city begin immediately the proposed work on the construction of a culvert to cover up Buckingham creek above Superior street. The creek is now being used as a dumping place for refuse by a number of families, it is said.

"The New America."

The Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Society of the Second Presbyterian church, 1615 West Superior street, will hold its meeting in the church Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. "The New America" will be the subject of discussion and Mrs. J. McInnis will be leader. A paper on "Encouragement for the Future Work" will be read by Mrs. S. M. Larson. The hostesses who will serve tea following are: Mrs. R. J. Gillon, Mrs. James Maghan, Mrs. J. A. McGaughey, Mrs. Arthur Farrar, Mrs. George Trevitanus; Mrs. E. Mallett and Mrs. J. R. Ross.

Trinity Church Notes.

The Sunday school teachers of the Trinity English Lutheran church, Twenty-seventh avenue west and Third street, will hold a business meeting in the church this evening.

The Luther League will entertain tomorrow evening at a "patriotic" program in the church parlors. The program will include national songs and music.

Mrs. Arthur Asplund, 2701 West First street, will entertain Wednesday afternoon for the Ladies' Aid society.

A special service will be held in the church Friday evening for the congregation. At that time a new altar painting will be exhibited for the first time.

West End Briefs.

Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Wennerlund, 2321 West Second street, returned last evening from an automobile trip to Virginia and other range cities.

Mrs. George Morton, 2129 West Second street, has returned from a short visit with relatives in the Twin Cities.

Miss Ellen Anderson, 2509 West Fourth street, returned this morning from Lake Vermilion, where she has been camping with a party of young people from Virginia.

Jay, Marvin and George Coon of Houghton, Mich., are guests at the home of their brother, Fred W. Coon, 2112 West Second street.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Anderson of Ely, Minn., who have been guests of their daughter, Mrs. Hugo Swenson, 1910 West Second street, left yesterday for their home. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson made the trip in an automobile.

Mrs. Emma Collins, 2301 West Superior street, has gone to St. Paul, where she will make her home in the future.

Mrs. R. A. Long of Twenty-eighth avenue west returned yesterday from a two weeks' visit with relatives at Ashland, Wis.

REFERENDUM WILL BE TAKEN

Commercial Club Members Will Give Expression on Trust Legislation.

The attitude of Duluth business men toward proposed trust legislation will be expressed at a meeting of the public affairs committee of the Commercial club at the club rooms tonight. This will be a part of the referendum being conducted by the chambers of commerce of the United States upon the congressional trust program.

A complete report of the special committee which has had this matter in charge is expected to be given tonight. A list of ten questions touching the most vital phases of the problem as contained in the report will be voted upon.

BRAINS THE BEST ASSET.

Brawn No Longer Chief Requirement of Police, Says Troyer.

Bulk is not the chief requirement of the present-day policeman, according to Chief Troyer. He says that the day of the big, tubby "cop" with the prominent "front" is gone and that he has been replaced by the wiry, active man who has high intelligence as well as muscle.

He states that this is not only true of Duluth, but applies to the whole country. He explains that the civil service requirements are a large factor in bringing about the change. Men do not get places on the force through political preferment, but through ability, and they advance on merit.

MARINE NEWS

FIX LANES OF TRAVEL

Lake Carriers' Association Seeks to Reduce Number of Collisions.

Inside and Outside Courses Important Safeguards in Fogs.

Determined measures are now being taken by lake vessel owners to reduce to a minimum collision in fog and to insure a strict observance of the pilot rules by the masters. The time is psychological in which to make such measures effective as the general public has become quite thoroughly aroused on the subject. Several fine ships have recently collided in fog in various parts of the world and many lives have been lost. One vessel has been lost on the lakes through collison in fog, though fortunately no lives were sacrificed. Vessel owners realize that the danger must be eliminated as far as possible from lake navigation and it can only be accomplished by strict compliance with the pilot rules.

While the bridge of the modern steamer is crowded with appliances for the respect to fog where he has always stood helpless as to the direction of sound or the bearing of any object. The only safeguard in fog is cautious navigation and the adoption of separate courses for ships going in opposite directions.

Last spring the Lake Carriers' association made a definite rule that the vessels enrolled in the association, numbering 500, should follow separate courses in the Great Lakes. East bound ships are to follow an outside course and west bound ships an inside course. Some masters of one or two of the leading fleets had voluntarily followed the practice for a year or two preceding with such splendid results that the association was unanimous in adopting it as a fixed rule to be departed from only under stress of weather. All rules of navigation are obviously predicted on the weather.

The great steamship lines plying in the North Atlantic trade long ago established lanes of travel to minimize the danger of collision and the international conference on safety at sea, which recently adjourned in London could add nothing to that feature making of greater safety. This is precisely the thing that the Lake Carriers' association is seeking to achieve on the lakes and if its example means anything it will eventually accomplish it. Atmospheric conditions on the lakes are such that a great deal of fog is to be expected during the summer months.

Many Offenders.

There is not a master employed on a lake carriers' vessel who does not thoroughly understand that separate courses are to be followed on the lakes and yet a recent letter received by the Pittsburg Steamship company from one of its masters would seem to indicate that there are a considerable number of offenders though he does not state who the offenders are. In his letter he says:

"I have given a great deal of thought to 'safety first' and steering the outside and inside courses is certainly along that line for everyone in the sailing business. It seems to me that it will cost many lives and a lot of property before we can get the captains in line and I think it is time something was done.

"When one talks to a captain that does not run the outside and inside courses the chief argument he gives us is 'I don't want our office to tell me how I shall steer my boat.' Anyone will have to admit one cannot do much with him by talking. When one looks back at the many collisions that have cost so many lives and property it is plain that had the outside and inside courses been lived up to by all the masters many of the collisions could have been avoided.

"I seem to have had a good deal of fog this season and you would be surprised, with the small fleet in commission, to see how many boats we meet head to head and even inside of us. Coming up Lake Superior, say from Whitefish Point to Manitou Island, I have met no less than fifteen bonts and I think from a master's stand point it is time to act."

H. Coulby, president of the company, immediately sent a copy of this letter to all of his captains and made several straight-from-the-shoulder comments on it. There can be no mistaking his meaning in relation to the vessels of his own fleet. He has told his masters that if he finds any violation of the rule, even though the ship may not meet with disaster, that he shall feel it his duty to take such action, with reference to the navigating officer, as though there had been a serious collision. That ought to carry its meaning home to every one.

"I have many times heard that the statement has been made," said Mr. Coulby "that the master does not want the office to tell him how he shall pilot his ship. Men making these statements do not seem to realize that there is a responsibility upon the management to see that the men in charge of their ships obey the law, and any manager having knowledge of his captains wilfully violating the law, such as running his ship in full speed in the fog, is in my judgment just as vulnerable to the most severe criticism as is the master himself.

"Sometimes I think the masters lose sight of the fact that they are not only responsible for the safe navigation of their own ship, but they have an obligation upon them to so navigate their ship as not to jeopardize the safety of the crew and passengers of other ships, and it was with this thought that the vessel owners of the Great Lakes adopted the inside and outside courses."

Congested Route.

The Great Lakes are unquestionably the most congested roadstead of commerce in the world, and the observance of separate courses is annually becoming more necessary. Vessel owners are therefore wise in establishing them before the government steps in to do the job for them. The man most prone to ignore courses is the old time navigator who cannot comprehend the changed conditions and how much more is at stake, both in life and property, than ever before. He still believes that he pleases his owner by a quick passage regardless. Quick passages are as desirable as they ever were but not at the expense of safety. The only way he can be convinced that chances should never be taken is to rebuke him severely when they are taken even though successfully performed. Some of the wisest owners are taking that very course. Hutchinson & Co., of Cleveland recently commended one of their masters for being late in reaching his destination even though they had wired him to hurry. He was delayed through proceedings under check during fog, and the company thanked him for putting the proper interpretation upon their instructions, sending a copy of the letter to all of its masters.

On the other hand, a master who through great skill got his boat safely out of harbor through obstacles, was roundly rebuked by the company because the element of chance entered into the maneuver, and he was most emphatically told never to attempt such a thing again. That is the policy which is making for safe navigation on the lakes.

OPPOSITION TO LICENSE

More Protests Filed Against Saloon in Grand Hotel.

Council Will Authorize the School Bond Issue of $200,000.

Opposition to granting J. J. Frey a saloon license at 5217 Ramsey street, in the Grand hotel at West Duluth, is piling up.

The application came up for action last week but was laid over until today. It will be brought up again at this afternoon's meeting of the city council. The indications are that the application will be refused or again postponed for a week.

"You never heard or saw a mother of a young man petition for a saloon, but men, prompted by greed and lust for money and without conscience," states part of a communication sent by Morning Star lodge No. 17, I. O. G. T., asking that the license be refused.

The Swedish Finnish Temperance society, in asking that the application be denied, points out that the building is 200 feet from one church and 250 feet from another. The church council of the Bethel Lutheran church, Fifty-third avenue west and Wadena street, declares that the saloon would be a menace to their church work, to the Sunday school, to the church membership in general and the young people in particular.

Another petition with a large number of signers who oppose the saloon, was filed with the clerk this morning and will be presented to the council this afternoon.

The council will pass a resolution authorizing the issuance of $200,000 of bonds by the Independent school district. The proceeds are intended for the construction of a grade school at Gary and New Duluth, a grade school at Morgan Park division near the steel plant, a six-room addition to the Merritt school and a junior high school adjacent to the Lincoln school in the West end. The law requires this action by the council and the question will be submitted to the school election July 18.

It is likely that the hearing of Henry Casmir, proprietor of the saloon at 505 West Michigan street, will again be continued. Casmir is cited to appear to show cause why his license should not be revoked as his bartender was recently convicted of selling liquor to a minor.

The ordinances appropriating $9,500 for an aerial truck for the fire department and $12,000 for the season's coal supply will be given their third reading and will likely be passed. If a resolution awarding the contract for the truck is introduced it will probably be opposed by Finance Commissioner Fred Voss.

Ordinances appropriating $3,500 for material for the repair of the Sixth avenue viaduct and $447 for a steam drill outfit for the works division will be introduced.

BRITONS GIVE BOSTON SOUVENIR.

London, July 6.—The British delegates to the International Congress of Chambers of Commerce, held in Boston in 1912, today presented to the Boston Chamber of Commerce a silver cup and salver as souvenirs of their visit to the United States. The cup bears a quotation from a speech of Former President William H. Taft, "What Can Be Done Towards Peace?" and the British delegates' reply that "Nations Combine to Prevent the Horrors of War."

EXEMPTS FOURTEEN FROM CIVIL SERVICE

President Issues Order as to Commercial Attaches.

Washington, July 6.—By executive order, President Wilson today exempted from civil service examinations the fourteen commercial attaches authorized by the new legislative appropriation bill. They are to be attached to embassies and legations in South America and Europe for investigation and acceleration of American trade abroad. Congress, after a long fight, put them under civil service, against the recommendation of the administration.

It has been estimated that during the present year 1,248,000 factory hands in Russia have already participated in strikes, in addition to 215,000 others who are employed in establishments not under the factory act.

TEN DEAD IN AUTO WRECKS

Fifteen Hurt, Some of Whom May Not Survive.

Daughter of Illinois Governor in One Sunday Accident.

Aurora, Ill., July 6.—While an automobile was attempting to cross the Burlington railway, three persons were killed and one fatally injured when struck by a freight rain near Shabona, Ill. The dead:

DR. H. P. GREELY AND WIFE of Lee, Ill.

MRS. C. W. RICHARDSON, 4121 Wilcox avenue, Chicago.

The injured: C. W. Richardson, Chicago.

The automobile, which was being driven by Dr. Greely, darted out on the tracks from behind a clump of trees that obscured the view until too late for efforts of himself or the engineer to be of any avail.

Two Dead, Two Dying.

Washington, July 6.—Two young women were killed and two young men were probably fatally injured near here last night when an automobile in which they were riding went into a ditch. The dead:

EDITH PFIEFFER, 22 years old.

HAZEL PFIEFFER, 24 years old.

The injured: Virgil Bryant, aged 28; Darius Clary, aged 24.

The automobile belonged to Bryant and he was driving. With him in the front seat was Miss Edith Pfieffer. It is said that Bryant and Miss Pfieffer attempted to change places, and that before Miss Pfieffer could take charge of the wheel the machine ran into the ditch and overturned.

Two Dead, Three Dying, Three Hurt.

Somerset, Pa., July 6.—Two were killed and six seriously injured when an automobile driven by James Topley of East McKeesport skidded when he attempted to pass another automobile on the Lincoln highway near Stoyestown late Sunday, and rolled down an embankment. The dead:

DOLLIE PRICE, 6 years old, daughter of William Price, Everett.

JAMES TOPLEY, aged 40, contractor, East McKeesport.

Mrs. Topley, J. J. Hildinger, aged 50, of McKeesport, and Mrs. Hildinger are in a Johnstown hospital and will die.

Two Dead, One Dying.

New York, July 6.—Two persons were killed and another badly injured when an unmanageable automobile broke through the gates of a Long Island railroad crossing at Hempstead last night, overturned, and was wrecked as it crashed into a passing electric train. Samuel Molostowski, aged 40, owner and driver, was killed instantly. Miss Bessie Zarulove, aged 20, an occupant of the car, died at a hospital and her sister, Irene, aged 26, probably will die.

Dunne's Daughter Hurt.

Chicago, July 6.—Miss Mona Dune, daughter of Governor Dunne of Illinois, narrowly escaped death at Williams Bay, Wis., Sunday in an automobile accident in which her companion was killed.

With a party of friends, Miss Dunne was returning from Lake Geneva when a rear tire on the machine explanded. The car skidded off an embankment and overturned, pining Frank Nelson Gifford of Chicago, a companion of the governor's daughter, beneath it. He was crushed to death. Miss Dunne, although slightly injured, aided in the attempt to rescue.

Other members of the party were brought here for medical attention.

Four Injured.

Ocean City, N. J., July 6.—Gilbert Nichols, a well-known golf player of the Wilmington Country club, and W. O. Rowland, Jr., of Jenkintown, Pa., were seriously injured in an automobile accident near here last night. Two other persons were slightly hurt.

Rowland was taking a party of friends, among whom was Nichols, from Cape May to Atlantic City, when his car, in rounding a sharp curve, collided with another machine driven by B. A. Headley of Swedesboro, N. J. Nichols and Rowland were taken to a hospital at Atlantic City, where it was said the former sustained a fractured knee and internal injuries, while Rowland has a dislocated shoulder and was injured about the face and body.

AMERICAN FLAG STAINED, IS CHARGE

Rafael Reyes of Colombia Writes to President Wilson.

Paris, July 6.—"The American flag was stained by the manner in which Panama was torn from Colombia," writes Former President Rafael Reyes of Colombia, who is now in Paris, in a letter addressed to President Woodrow Wilson. The letter was written in view of the approaching submission to the United States congress of the Urrutia-Thompson treaty between Colombia and the United States, signed last April.

Gen. Reyes expresses the hope that congress will approve the treaty and in so doing will satisfy not only Colombia, but the whole of Latin-America.

SAGAMORE HILL GATES BARRED.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 6.—The gate leading to Sagamore Hill was barred Sunday for the first time in years, and Col. Roosevelt was inaccessible from the outer world. It was learned that he cherishes the hope as strongly as he expressed it in 1912, of breaking the "solid south" through the Progressive party. Although he has given up his trip to the Pacific coast on account of the condition of his health and has cancelled several other engagements, he agreed to go to New Orleans next month to make a speech. He probably will make a few other speeches in the South during this trip.

"YOU CAN'T HARNESS UP THE HOLY SPIRIT"

Boston Pastor Talks to Baptist Young People.

Kansas City, Mo., July 6.—"You can't harness up the Holy Spirit to work out your own little private schemes," Rev. F. W. Hunt of Boston said at one of the closing sessions of the twenty-first convention of the Baptist Young People's Union of America, meeting jointly with the B. Y. P. U. of the South here. "Too many people attempt it, and by so doing they earn no good for themselves or for the church.

"The problem of the church today is the problem of power," he said. "The question of the church is, 'What has become of the power of God?' The world of the world is in our churches. The thing lacking is the power of God to build up and equip them.

"The next ten years are going to be the greatest ten years in which to live since time began, because of the fertile field for Christ's work offered."

OPPOSITION WINS PANAMA ELECTION.

Panama, July 6.—The opposition for the national assembly won from the government candidates yesterday in what is considered the quietest election ever held in Panama. The contest was between factions of the Liberal party, that under Carlos Mendoza, ex-president of Panama, gaining a decisive victory over the faction of which President Belisario Porras is the head.

The balloting was fairly orderly and was not supervised by the American authorities.

DIES WHILE AT WORK ON SHED

While at work in a shed on his farm near Palmer Siding, Olaf Emmanuel Bergman, 52 years old, died suddenly Saturday afternoon. Heart disease is given as the cause of his death.

The body was brought to Duluth yesterday and is now at the Crawford undertaking rooms, where a post mortem examination will be conducted this afternoon by Coroner McComb. Bergman leaves a widow and three children.

Tomorrow morning the body will be taken to Palmer's Siding, where burial will take place in the afternoon.

Many Bridges Gone.

Mandan, N. D., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fully 60 per cent of the bridges in Morton county were either completely destroyed or put out of commission by the recent cloudburst that flooded this district. In Simms township eleven bridges were carried out. Between Cannon Ball and Solen every bridge except two over the Cannon Ball river was wipped out. Seven bridges across the Louse creek were torn out.

RAILROADERS ARE CHEERFUL

Estimate Value of Crops at More Than $10,000,000,000.

Will Give Outlet for All Idle Cars and Idle Cash.

Bankers, manufacturers and railroad officials entertain optimistic views regarding the busines outlook during the coming fall and winter months. Expression of opinion are practically unanimous that with record-breaking crops to be marketed this fall, and everything in a business and financial way down upon a rock bottom basis to start with, unusual activity in all branches of trade should be assured.

Discussing the situation, S. W. Straus, a New York banker, said in the course of an interview: "All told the production of new wealth from the soil in 1914 may reach $10,000,000,000. This enormous crop will require tremendous railroad facilities to move it to market. The surplus of 241,000 idle freight cars, as shown at the end of the first half of the year, is therefore a favorable feature. One may be very sure that this car surplus will be whittled down to little or nothing when the wheat and corn come from the farms this autumn. The banking and currency system ought to be in active operation by the time the annual call for cash comes from the country to finance the crop movement. This should enable us to handle the harvest this fall with less financial disturbance than we have ever known.

"When one considers all the favorable factors in the situation, there seems to be an abundant basis for confidence in the future, and for confidence on the part of the investor. Interest and dividend payments and maturities in July will release many hundreds of millions of dollars which will become available for reinvestment.

George M. Reynolds, president of the Continental & Commercial National bank, Chicago, expressed the opinion that American agricultural yields, including live stock, will this year reach the stupendous total of between $11,000,000,000 and $12,000,000,000. He thinks that should be a deciding factor in determining the volume of business during the fall months.

A. J. Earling, president of the St. Paul railroad, said in a recent interview: "The outlook for the coming year is exceptionally good in consequence of the unsually large crops in prospect in the Northwest. I look for very substantial improvement in railroad earnings and in business generally."

The Chicago & Northwestern railroad's Chicago agent expects the largest tonnage that road has ever handled from over Minnesota and North and South Dakota. Its reports from all sections of the country are most assuring.

WILL CANVASS SENATORIAL VOTE

Officials Will Go Over Primary Returns of Fifty-Seventh District.

The vote cast for senatorial candidates from the Fifty-seventh legislative district at the recent primary election will be officially canvassed at a meeting of the legislative canvassing committee at the office of County Auditor Odin Halden this afternoon. The board is composed of the auditors of St. Louis, Cook and Lake counties, the chairman of the St. Louis county board and two justices of the peace, one from Hibbing and the other from Proctor.

The legislative district comprises the First and Second wards of the city of Duluth and a portion of St. Louis county outside of the city in addition to the entire counties of Cook and Lake. The entire territory will be canvassed as to the senatorship. The territory in St. Louis county comprises a separate representative district. The vote for the senatorial candidates at the primary election was as follows: Charles E. Adams, 2,057; A. G. McKnight, 973; E. N. Edes, 298. Adams and McKnight, being the two highest, received the nomination.

CONVENTION MECCA HERE

July Will Bring Thousands of Delegates to Zenith City.

Men of National Reputation Will Appear on Programs.

The fact that Duluth has an ideal summer climate and also that this fact is well known throughout the country, is attested by the coming of five big conventions to this city during July. Soveral of these are of national importance, and speakers of wide reputation will give adresses. A list of these meetings follow:

List of Meetings.

National Association of Building Owners and Managers, July 14, 15 and 16.

Northwestern Laundrymen's association, July 20 and 21.

State Federation of Labor, July 20 to 22.

Advisory Council to the Royal League, July 24 to 26.

Independent Scandinavian Workingmen's association, July 22-25.

Arrangements for the Building Owners and Managers' convention are being made by a committee composed of Whitney Wall, chairman; Henry Nolte, W. M. Prindle, J. L. Cromwell, C. F. MacDonald, T. W. Hoopes, S. G. Collins, J. A. Stephenson and R. M. Sellwood.

On the opening day of this convention Mayor Prince will give an address and talks will be given by J. E. Randall, president of the national association. Frank N. Wentworth, secretary of the National Fire Protection association, will also speak. Others who will speak during the convention are: Simon Straus, president of the S. W. Straus company, Chicago; E. W. Doty, member of the Ohio Public Utilities commission.

Big Labor Problems.

The convention of the federation of labor is expected to be the largest and most important of any ever held in the state. Important matters for legislation are to come up and speakers of national influence are coming. Among these are Samuel Gompers, head of the American Federation of Labor, and presidents of several state federations. About 500 delegates are expected.

The Royal League and Scandinavian workingmen are expected to come 1,500 strong.

Another meeting of great importance will be the convention of the American Peat society on Aug. 21, 22 and 23. An elaborate exhibit of peat soil and its products both in fuel and crops, will be on display at the Commercial club rooms.

L. B. Arnold is chairman of the Duluth committee on arrangements, and Col. H. V. Eva, secretary of the Commercial club, will be the committee's secretary. The other members are: Julius H. Barnes, G. G. Hartley, W. A. McGonagle, F. E. House and J. J. Hill

NORTH DAKOTANS PRESENT STATUE

Bronze of Lincoln Given to Norway By Governor Hanna.

Christiania, Norway, July 6.—A tribute to the Scandinavians who supported the American Union and fought in its armies during the Civil war was paid here by Governor L. B. Hanna of the state of North Dakota, who, at the head of a delegation of his fellow citizens, presented to Norway a bronze statue of Abraham Lincoln on July 4 in honor of the centennial of Norway's independence.

Of the men who settled the Northwest part of the United States, said Governor Hanna, none from foreign lands made more valued citizens or rose to greater eminence than those of Norwegian parentage.

"Among the peoples that for many years have come flowing into North Dakota from Europe, there have come many men and women from the northland," said Governor Hanna. "About one-third of the several hundred thousand people who live within the borders of North Dakota came either from Norway direct or are of Norwegian parentage. They established towns, villages and cities, and in the years that have gone by, they have done their part in the building up and in the making of a great state. And now in this year of 1914, the eyes of the Norwegian people of America have turned again with love and reverence to the fatherland of Norway. A people who have respect and love for the country of their ancestors have in them the making and the ideals for the building up of a nation which is theirs by adoption.

"Today I am glad to bring to you from the people of North Dakota her kindest and most cordial greetings. On behalf of the people of that state, I present to you a bronze bust of the greatest American that ever lived—Abraham Lincoln."

In commemoration of the presentation, James W. Foley of North Dakota read an original poem entitled "Abraham Lincoln."

HALF HOLIDAYS FOR THE DOCTORS.

Prague, July 6.—The Association of German Physicians here has introduced, for its members, during the summer months, a half holiday on all Sundays and legal holidays, under a system whereby there are designated, in rotation for each such half holiday, certain members of the association who hold themselves in readiness to respond to all sick calls from patients of any member. At the office of each physician not on duty may be learned the names and addresses of those on duty for the particular half holiday.

Annual Grange Meet.

Mandan, N. D., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Many Grangers are expected at the annual meeting of the granges of Morton, Oliver, Mercer, Burleigh and Stark counties here tomorrow. Robert Seeds, a well known farmer, will be the principal speaker at the Tuesday session.

RAPS DOUBLE STANDARD

Sowing of Wild Oats and Butterfly Existence Are Scored By Dr. Hovis.

Illustrates "Disillusionment of Matrimony" By Ibsen's "A Doll's House."

The double standard of morality, the butterfly existence of girls and the sowing of wild oats by young men were given as the most vital causes of divorce by Dr. William Forney Hovis, pastor of the Endion M. E. church, yesterday morning, when he preached an eloquent sermon on "The Disillusionment of Matrimony." He chose as his text:

"A man shall leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife; and they shall be one."

His sermon in part follows:

"I do not mean by 'the disillusionment of matrimony' to imply that the institution which forms the basis of human society is necessarily an illusion. On the other hand, I would venture to suggest that no reality is so much an unmasked actuality as the conjugal condition when two hearts truly beat as one.

Theory Is Ideal.

"Theoretically, matrimony is the ideal mating of the sexes for the purpose of the propogation of the human race and of the increase of the total of earthly joy. It would so work out in practice were it not for the dissimulation with which sin has cursed the wicked heart. The lottery of love lies in the danger of the risk that the object of its tender passion shall prove to be a thing entirely different than it seems. Moreover love is sometimes blind to the ugly which is often shrouded in the glamour of romance.

"The fact that one marriage in eight now ends in divorce and statisticians say that at the present rate of increase it will soon be one in five, calls for serious investigation of the cause of this wholesale dissolution of the hymeneal bond. In 1912, year before last, 100,000 people were granted legal separation from the companions of their choice. Such an appalling record incriminates the race. But manhood especially is placed on the defensive in the face of the charge that 80 per cent of these decrees were granted unto women.

The Woman's Part.

"Added to the increasing army of women who will not stay married is another company who will not get married. Fifty years ago, according to figures available in one of our higher institutions of learning, 85 per cent of college women married, while in recent years out of a total of 7,000 graduates less than 50 per cent were married. There is clearly a reason why to many women marriage does not seem 'a consummation devoutly to be wished.' It is not only the voice of economic independence, the self-assertion of personal liberty, the cry of female sovereign right—the cause is deeper and darker and sadder than any desire to free self from the entanglements which entail loyalty to the restrictions of domestic duty.

"It is now thirty-five years since Henrik Ibsen gave 'A Doll's House' to the world. This realistic drama visualized, startlingly, if crudely, an idea which had long stirred the consciousness of the race, but till then had lacked expression. He removes one wall from an ordinary dwelling, shows a wife and husband at their fireside and reveals the secrets of a home. It is a real and not a picture man and woman and Ibsen not only tests and analyzes their relations but marks their marriage with a question point. A German enthusiast called the Norwegian author 'the deepest-down-divingest, the longest-understayingest, most-mud-upbringingest' moralist of his time.

Fall of Conventions.

"'A Doll's House' is essentially a study in disillusion. It represents the collapse of conventions and the fall of ideals. It presents a typical, normal family—husband, wife and children. The members of the household are mutually tolerant of ordinary personal weakness and there is no evidence of serious difficulty to mar the tranquillity of the scene. Prosperity appears to be their fortune and withal the young husband and wife seem to possess a home which the average heart would covet.

"But back of the seeming there is always the real. Behind the scenes things are often different than they seem. The actual has its base in history, while the apparent may only be a show to cover up a fact. The stability of a home depends largely on the history of its founders, which is sure to involve the sincerity of relationship. Nora was not wholly to blame because she had learned to wheedle and lie, dissemble and pretend. She had been the petted child of an indulgent father and was now the wife of a man who held her as his plaything and his doll.

"In the final tragedy of the dissolution of her home, when her whole world comes crashing down upon her misguided and therefore foolish heart, she tears off the doll fripperies, one by one, and turns out to be a woman after all. Her sleeping intelligence is awakened. She reminds Helmer, her husband, that in the eight years of their married life they have never once sat down to talk of serious matters nor have they ever tried to go to the bottom of anything. She sees her life objectively as a stranger might look upon it. The spectacle is staggering and revolting. Her ignorance had led her, unwittingly, into crime. The husband she had worshipped she finds is nothing but a god of common clay. The sum that seemed waiting to shield her is only raised to strike her down. She differs in degree but not in kind from women who sell themselves to men for fine clothes and houses in which to live. She is worse than they, for they sell only their caresses, while she has sold her conscience, her will, her soul. She reaches out for a chance to start again. She demands the right to be an individual and to cast aside the garments of a doll. She must work out a philosophy of things as they are. Until then she can be neither wife nor mother.

Some Divorce Statistics.

"We may differ in our opinions as to what justifies the breaking of a home or contend that 'what God hath joined together' no man has any right 'to put asunder,' but the fact that 100,000 people in a year refuse to continue in the marriage state, brings us face to face with a condition rather than a theory. It would scarcely seem possible, at least it is not probable, that so vast an army could be characterized altogether by a spirit of fickleness which lightly regards the taking of a vow.

"As members of the human family who are interested in the amelioration of social life, we are driven to a rational investigation of the reason why 80,000 women and a fourth as many men, every year, decide that they were mistaken and that connubial bliss was chimerical and unreal.

Reason Are Numerous.

"Following a natural impluse with which God had endowed them, everyone of the aforesaid 100,000 who later repented of their deeds, left father and mother and clave unto a mate, but the difficulty arose out of the fact that they did not become 'one.' The reasons for the lack of unity that kills domestic harmony are varied and pathetic.

"As was the case with Ibsen's "Nora," many a lass is spoiled with her bringing up at home. She learns to be a butterfly and flit about in sunlight, but she lacks the eagle pinions for flight above the clouds. I have no word of condemnation for the 'airy, fairy Lillians' that trip the light fantastic and grace the festal hall with skill of Terpsichore, but God pity the frivolous creature who learns nothing more than how to be a doll! The day will come when she will scorn the puny weakness that handicaps her strength. What is true of daughters is just as true of sons. Match the above incarnation of feminine gayety with a masculine specimen whose sole achievement is a knowledge of him to inhale a cigarette, speed the 'old man's' motor car, and tilt his hat upon his ears until he looks like a phrenologist's manikin used to represent the type of 'genus homo' which is called 'non compos mentis' and you have a combination fit for all sorts of 'stratagems and spoils.' To all such couples, it is impossible that wedded life shall be what they had dreamed.

Butterfly Life of Girls.

"The ideal of the modern young woman who has learned how to look pretty and to dress with taste but knows nothing of housekeeping or any kind of work and who is fond of boasting that she cannot cook, make it impossible for the average young man to provide a home for her that will not mean the shattering of air-castles and the blasting of the illusions of hope. The young man who spends all he makes in courting the young women he expects to marry finds himself in the post-nuptial experience utterly unable to continue his spendthrift mode of living and the result is bitter disappointment. Parents contribute to the probability of the future unhappiness of their sons and daughters when they train them to desire luxury and to live without work. It is every young man's business to learn to be a producer and not a parasite, and every young woman should be taught that the art of making a home and keeping a house well is an accomplishment not to be despised. I know a lady who lives in a rock-bound castle and counts her money by the million who could dismiss her servants even to the cook and do the work herself.

"But the saddest disillusionment of all, and the one that has wrecked more homes than any other is the discovery of innocent virtue that it is wedded to a partner that is socially impure. The double standard of morality has permitted the young manhood of the land to scatter wild oats with impunity. But oh, the cursed harvest too often gathered by the pure and good! Legislation can scarce protect the daughters of our land; we must have a better manhood. It is estimated that 65 per cent of infant mortality and a large proportion of the epileptics, feeble-minded, insane, and other denizens of the almhouse, can be attributed to the excesses of sin-cursed manhood. What an indictment of manly vigor! O God! The disillusionment of matrimony is sometimes an awful fact!

The Root of Evil.

"What is the matter with the world? Sin. What destroys the happiness of hearts and the race? Sin. What emasculates the manhood of the race? Sin. What transforms the heaven where woman reigns by angelic right into the torments of a living hell? Sin What makes divorce more moral than the marriage it dissolves? Sin. O Sin! Thou foulest whelp of Satan's brood, we loathe thee! O Christ! Thou mighty Savior! Thou hast power to slay the beast! We yield ourselves to Thy protecting care.

"There is nothing in the world more beautiful than a pair of birds which build a nest and rear a little brood, except a man and maid who leave the old roof tree and found a home in holy love. It is natural, divine. But there must be no secrets, no skeleton in the closet, no dissembling. There must be loyalty and fidelity, openness and mutual trust; unity of spirit, unity of desire, unity of purpose, unity of task. When two hearts rejoice together, weep together, and bend beneath the burden of a common load, it is 'holy' matrimony—they two become one. Sometimes their path lies over sunlit slopes and flower-filled fields and all goes 'merry as a marriage bell.' Sometimes they encounter serious problems, face stern realities, wrestle with gigantic difficulties, walk through dark valleys, climb steep mountains, fight fierce battles, go through fire and flood, but they keep together and share the joy or sorrow because they two are one.

Advocates Single Standard.

"The parity of the sexes, a single standard of morals for both alike, a recognition that strength and beauty are complemental parts and that each can give the other what it could not have alone, the keeping of virtue unsullied for conscience sake and for the joy of soundness, the belief that love is a heavenly boon, will go far toward relieving society of the serpent's curse and restoring the holy institution without which there could never be a home, to its pristine beauty so that what God's aid at the beginning may still be true. "For this cause shall a man leave his father and his mother and shall cleave unto his wife; and they two shall be one."

BURGLARS GET $1 AND SOME STAMPS

Burglars broke into the Anton Ringsred paint and paper store at 110 First avenue west some time Saturday night and stole $1 in cash and a few postage stamps from a cash drawer.

The theft was discovered yesterday by Mr. Ringsred himself and he reported the matter to the police. The authorities have so far been unable to obtain any clew to the identity of the thieves.

The burglars gained entrance into the building by forcing open the window of a coal chute in a building next door and then making their way to the Ringsred store in the basement and upstairs to the office.

BODY OF ACCIDENT VICTIM BROUGHT HERE

The body of Louis Faucault, 35 years old, who was killed by a Great Northern train at Brevatore last Friday evening, was brought to Duluth Saturday evening and is now being held at the Crawford undertaking rooms pending word from relatives.

Faucault was employed in a log drive gang near Cloquet, where he had made his home and met his untimely death in escaping one train, just to walk in front of a Great Northern engine. He was horribly mangled.

Faucault was a member of the Owls at Cloquet.

SLANDER THE WORST SIN

Rev. Robert Yost Parallels Slander and Unforgivable Sin.

Envy and Malignancy Are Responsible for Slanderous Talk.

Rev. Robert Yost of the First Presbyterian church, preached a most interesting sermon yesterday morning on "The Sin of Slander." This he classed with the unforgivable sin, and asserted that he believes that Jesus meant, in a measure at least, that the sin of slander is the unforgivable sin. He took for his text the thirty-second verse of the twelfth chapter of Matthew:

"Whosoever speaketh a word against the Son of Man, it shall be forgiven him; but whosoever speaketh against the Holy Ghost, it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this world, neither in the world to come."

Dr. Yost characterized criticism of Christ as "petulant" and that of against the Holy Ghost as "malignant." While he condemned the criticism of Christ and emphasized the absurdity of human beings presuming to criticise the Master, he issued a warning against the sin of slandering or detracting from the efforts for good of others, and, in a way, cast new light on an old subject.

He said that criticism of Jesus is petulant because it is a criticism of what persons may believe to be shortcomings or faults, and its source is more on the ground of dissatisfaction or ignorance than from the basis of malice; but, he pointed out, when one speaks against the Holy Ghost it is from the point of pure malignancy.

Dr. Yost expressed pity for the person or persons who seek to criticise Jesus, chiefly because of their absurd position and because of their inadequacy of intellect.

"Who among you would presume to criticise Socrates, this morning?" asked Dr. Yost. "Or who would criticise Plato? What one of you would feel capable of criticising Washington; or who would dare to criticise Lincoln? And yet the very man who would feel unfit to criticise any of these will feel himself perfectly capable to enter the sacred circle of the Christ and find fault."

As to the criticism of the Holy Ghost and the sin of slander, Dr. Yost declared that the sin is being committed every day.

"It is not necessary," said he, "that criticism of the Holy Spirit should be made direct; when you decry the spirit of the God you commit the unforgivable sin. Often when some man takes some stand or some action that is of benefit to mankind or to the community certain people will say: 'Huh, I never knew him to do anything when he did not have an ax to grind.' That, is criticising the spirit; that is the unforgivable sin. Such men decry and denounce, shaken with envy, until their very souls are shrivelled up, and soon they have no soul. Such are among the most despicable of the race and they are the ones who are committing the unforgivable sin. The sin of slander is the most terrible in its consequences that one can imagine, and terrible must be its punishment."

PROPHETS FOUND AMONG MODERN MEN

Rev. George R. Gebauer Sees One of Them in Ruskin—His Social Ideal.

Rev. George R. Gebauer of the First Unitarian church yesterday began a series of interpretative sermons on modern prophets, the first one being on Ruskin. He spoke in part as follows:

"We cannot know the heavens by merely gazing at the great sun. We do not apprehend the riches of literature by simply confining ourselves by Shakespeare or Dante. There are minor prophets in the world and they may often give the truths the greater prophets darken by their very splendour. They generally talk the plainest and write their message in such clear large letters that he who runs may read. And the race of the prophets is not confined to any time and place. There are prophets in our own generation who may be as great as those ancient Hebrew bards, whom so many admire without understanding and perhaps the more so on account of that.

"Now such a prophet of these latter days was John Ruskin, so well known as an art critic and the discoverer of the genius of Turner. It was Ruskin, who first in England raised his voice against the idolatrous worship of classic art. He challenged the art world to go back to nature and listen to her. That was a brave thing to do, but braver still it was to attack the prevailing principles of art. He was the one man of his time, who saw that truest art is something holy, something that made a contribution to moral life. He had no use for the shibboleth 'art for art's sake.' He contended that art must serve life, must raise it higher, give it inspiration. That art is highest which lifts us on high. Is not Ruskin right in this? Is not in painting the message more than the form and the spirit more than the color? And because to him art was the expression of the highest, he contended that no great art could be produced without a great personality behind it. And again no great and noble character could be formed if the life of a man was out of living touch with the beautiful, be it in art or nature. Through some avenue the grace of God should come into the life of man.

His Social Ideal.

"But as Ruskin looked at art from the standpoint of life, so he looked at life from the standpoint of art, beauty, harmony. His social ideal was the city of God with gates beautiful. Ruskin's soul was stirred by the unharmoniousness, yes, ugliness of social life; he saw the ills of the social body through the eyes of the artist. And aroused in his artistic as much as his ethical nature he became the great advocate for human betterment on socialistic lines. Whatever we may think of his reform schemes, his heart certainly was in the right place and his vision clear and his maxims of life noble. Some treasures are heavy with human tears as an ill-stored harvest with untimely rain, says he in his poetical way. To him there is no true wealth, but life. The treasures of all the gold and diamonds of Kimberly would not outweigh one drop of human blood. He is no admirer of the Republican form of government because it is so apt to become mobocracy. He would educate the young to become fit members of a state which did not rest in ruthless competition, but in fraternal co-operation. And the practical reformers of the world, while rejecting his schemes of communistic co-operation, yet realize with him the great duty involved upon society to bring about wholesome social conditions, conditions in which the individual would attain its fullest and best life.

"This is the object of all true policy and true economy; utmost multitude of good men on every given space of ground, good honest, sound men, not a mob of white-faced thieves. The true veins of wealth are purple and not in the rock, but in flesh—perhaps even that the final outcome and consummation of all wealth is in producing as many as possible full-breathed, bright-eyed and happy-hearted human creatures. This is prophetic indeed.

Manhood the Standard.

"I believe with Ruskin, that as highest art must rest upon purity and goodness, so highest civilization is only possible where human welfare and social health are made paramount, where the standard of life is not money, but manhood. As long as money instead of manhood rules the world, or money without manhood behind it, we are not Christians, but mammonists. But Ruskin's was not merely an artistic temperament and an ethical nature, but a deeply religious character. Indeed out of his religious being issued his moral estimates. In his artistic temperament he naturally turned away from the hard theology of puritanism in which he was raised but he cared as little for hard rationalism and a scientific interpretation of Christianty and the Bible. With the graceful hand of the artist he removed everything that was distasteful to him in dogma and ritual, and his poetical soul took hold of all that is good in scripture. Indeed he never ceased to love the old tock though he plainly saw its limitations. It had formed his character and it had formed his literary style. He says: 'I am a simpleton, am I, to quote such an exploded book as Genesis? My wise acre readers, I know as many flaws in the book of Genesis as the best of you, but I knew the book before I knew its flaws, while you know the flaws and never have known the book nor can know. And indeed it is at present much worse for you; for indeed the stories of Genesis have been the nursery tales of men mightiest of whom the world has yet seen in art, policy and virtue and none of you will write better stories for your children yet a while.'

"His religious creed may be summed up in consisting in faith in God and in service to man. That personal faith and service alone has saving power and not the faith and works of another. He writes: 'There are only two forms of possible Christian, pagan or any other gospel; one that men are saved by themselves, doing what is right; and the other, that they are saved by believing that somebody else did right instead of them. The first of these gospels is eternally true and holy; the other eternally false—damnable and daming.'"

Thirty Years With Stomach, Kidney and Bladder Trouble

Wonderful are the reports received daily from the use of the grand old Quaker Remedies. Here is one of the many just such reports that are being received daily.

Mr. J. H. O'Brien, who resides at 1350 Bedford avenue, Lynchburg, Va., who called to have a talk with the Quaker Health Teacher and told how he had suffered for the past thirty years with stomach trouble and for the past fifteen years with a severe case of kidney and bladder trouble, was treated in a hospital for two weeks but only received a little temporary relief, and has taken every different treatment and remedy he could find without results. He had such aches and pains in the back that he could scarcely get up and down. Also very severe pain in the side and stomach; belching and bloating. Gases would form which would cause shortness of breath and was very restless at night. His kidneys and bladder caused him to get up as many as seven or eight times during the night; was very weak and nervous and was unable to work.

Mr. O'Brien asked the Quaker Health Teacher what the Quaker Remedies would do for such ailments as his. His answer was: "Give the Quaker Herb Extract and Oil of Balm a trial. Use them according to directions on the label and watch for quick results."

Mr. O'Brien purchased a three bottle treatment of Extract and one bottle of Oil of Balm, and after using these remedies one week, reported his condition and said: "I can now sit down and eat a hearty meal without my stomach distressing me in the least and have scarcely an ache or pain at all now, and can lie down at night and get a good night's rest without any kidneys or bladder bothering me, and I would not take any price for what this medicine has already done for me and certainly recommend it to anyone suffering from any such ailment as I have suffered from. My address is 1350 Bedford avenue, Lynchburg, Va., and would be only too glad to tell anyone what the Quaker Remedies have done for me."

Now, Gaskin says: "Investigate and find out for yourself if this is true or not. I came here, not only to say, but to prove to the most skeptical person in your city that the Quaker Remedies do cure when all others have failed."

Gaskin, the Quaker Health Teacher, is now at the Orpheum Pharmacy, 201 East Superior street, Duluth, Minn., and invites all who suffer from catarrh in any form, rheumatism, kidney or bladder troubles, stomach, liver or blood troubles, or worms of any kind to call and have a talk with him. He is at the drug store from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., and charges nothing to talk with you. Quaker Extract is sold in treatments 6 bottles for $5.00; 3 for $2.50, or $1.00 single bottle. Oil of Balm for aches or pains, 50c. Cough Syrup, 25c. All Healing Salve, 25c. Call tomorrow and get well.—Advertisement.

Sowing of Wild Oats and Butterfly Existence Are Scored By Dr. Hovis.

Illustrates "Disillusionment of Matrimony" By Ibsen's "A Doll's House."

The double standard of morality, the butterfly existence of girls and the sowing of wild oats by young men were given as the most vital causes of divorce by Dr. William Forney Hovis, pastor of the Endion M. E. church, yesterday morning, when he preached an eloquent sermon on "The Disillusionment of Matrimony." He chose as his text:

"A man shall leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife; and they shall be one."

His sermon in part follows:

"I do not mean by 'the disillusionment of matrimony' to imply that the institution which forms the basis of human society is necessarily an illusion. On the other hand, I would venture to suggest that no reality is so much an unmasked actuality as the conjugal condition when two hearts truly beat as one.

Theory Is Ideal.

"Theoretically, matrimony is the ideal mating of the sexes for the purpose of the propogation of the human race and of the increase of the total of earthly joy. It would so work out in practice were it not for the dissimulation with which sin has cursed the wicked heart. The lottery of love lies in the danger of the risk that the object of its tender passion shall prove to be a thing entirely different than it seems. Moreover love is sometimes blind to the ugly which is often shrouded in the glamour of romance.

"The fact that one marriage in eight now ends in divorce and statisticians say that at the present rate of increase it will soon be one in five, calls for serious investigation of the cause for this wholesale dissolution of the hymeneal bond. In 1912, year before last, 100,000 people were granted legal separation from the companions of their choice. Such an appalling record incriminates the race. But manhood especially is placed on the defensive in the face of the charge that 80 per cent of these decrees were granted unto women.

The Woman's Part.

"Added to the increasing army of women who will not stay married is another company who will not get married. Fifty years ago, according to figures available in one of our higher institutions of learning, 85 per cent of college women married, while in recent years out of a total of 7,000 graduates less than 50 per cent were married. There is clearly a reason why to many women marriage does not seem 'a consummation devoutly to be wished.' It is not only the voice of economic independence, the self-assertion of personal liberty, the cry of female sovereign right—the cause is deeper and darker and sadder than any desire to free self from the entanglements which entail loyalty to the restrictions of domestic duty.

"It is now thirty-five years since Henrik Ibsen gave 'A Doll's House' to the world. This realistic drama visualized, startlingly, if crudely, an idea which had long stirred the consciousness of the race, but till then had lacked expression. He removes one wall from an ordinary dwelling, shows a wife and husband at their fireside and reveals the secrets of a home. It is a real and not a picture man and woman and Ibsen not only treats and analyzes their relations but marks their marriage with a question point. A German enthusiast called the Norwegian author 'the deepest-down-divingest, the longest-understayingest, most-mud-upbringingest' moralist of his time.

Fall of Conventions.

"'A Doll's House' is essentially a study in disillusion. It represents the collapse of conventions and the fall of ideals. It presents a typical, normal family—husband, wife and children. The members of the household are mutually tolerant of ordinary personal weakness and there is no evidence of serious difficulty to mar the tranquillity of the scene. Prosperity appears to be their fortune and withal the young husband and wife seem to possess a home which the average heart would covet.

"But back of the seeming there is always the real. Behind the scenes things are often different than they seem. The actual has its base in history, while the apparent may only be a show to cover up a fact. The stability of a home depends largely on the history of its founders, which is sure to involve the sincerity of relationship. Nora was not wholly to blame because she had learned to wheedle and lie, dissemble and pretend. She had been the petted child of an indulgent father and was now the wife of a man who held her as his plaything and his doll.

"In the final tragedy of the dissolution of her home, when her whole world comes crashing down upon her misguided and therefore foolish heart, she tears off the doll fripperies, one by one, and turns out to be a woman after all. Her sleeping intelligence is awakened. She reminds Helmer, her husband, that in the eight years of their married life they have never once sat down to talk of serious matters nor have they ever tried to go to the bottom of anything. She sees her life objectively as a stranger might look upon it. The spectacle is staggering and revolting. Her ignorance had led her, unwittingly, into crime. The husband she had worshipped she finds is nothing but a god of common clay. The arm that seemed waiting to shield her is only raised to strike her down. She differs in degree but not in kind from women who sell themselves to men for fine clothes and houses in which to live. She is worse than they, for they sell only their caresses, while she has sold her conscience, her will, her soul. She reaches out for a chance to start again. She demands the right to be an individual and to cast aside the garments of a doll. She must work out a philosophy of things as they are. Until then she can be neither wife nor mother.

Some Divorce Statistics.

"We may differ in our opinions as to what justifies the breaking of a home or contend that 'what God hath joined together' no man has any right 'to put asunder,' but the fact that 100,000 people in a year refuse to continue in the marriage state, brings us face to face with a condition rather than a theory. It would scarcely seem possible, at least it is not probable, that so vast an army could be characterized altogether by a spirit of fickleness which lightly regards the taking of a vow.

"As members of the human family who are interested in the amelioration of social life, we are driven to a rational investigation of the reason why 80,000 women and a fourth as many men, every year, decide that they were mistaken and that connubial bliss was chimerical and unreal.

Reason Are Numerous.

"Following a natural impluse with which God had endowed them, every-one of the aforesaid 100,000 who later repented of their deeds, left father and mother and clave unto a mate, but the difficulty arose out of the fact that they did not become 'one.' The reasons for the lack of unity that kills domestic harmony are varied and pathetic.

"As was the case with Ibsen's "Nora," many a lass is spoiled with her bringing up at home. She learns to be a butterfly and flit about in sunlight, but she lacks the eagle pinions for flight above the clouds. I have no word of condemnation for the fairy, fairy Lillians' that trip the light fantastic and grace the festal hall with skill of Terpsichore, but God pity the frivolous creature who learns nothing more than how to be a doll! The day will come when she will scorn the puny weakness that handicaps her strength. What is true of daughters is just as true of sons. Match the above incarnation of feminine gayety with a masculine specimen whose sole achievement is a knowledge of him to inhale a cigarette, speed the 'old man's' motor car, and tilt his hat upon his ears until he looks like a phrenologist's manikin used to represent the type of 'genus homo' which is called 'non compos mentis' and you have a combination fit for all sorts of 'stratagems and spoils.' To all such couples, it is impossible that wedded life shall be what they had dreamed.

Butterfly Life of Girls.

"The ideal of the modern young woman who has learned how to look pretty and to dress with taste but knows nothing of housekeeping or any kind of work and who is fond of boasting that she cannot cook, make it impossible for the average young man to provide a home for her that will not mean the shattering of air-castles and the blasting of the illusions of hope. The young man who spends all he makes in courting the young women he expects to marry finds himself in the post-nuptial experience utterly unable to continue his spendthrift mode of living and the result is bitter disappointment. Parents contribute to the probability of the future unhappiness of their sons and daughters when they train them to desire luxury and to live without work. It is every young man's business to learn to be a producer and not a parasite, and every young woman should be taught that the art of making a home and keeping a house well is an accomplishment not to be despised. I know a lady who lives in a rock-bound castle and counts her money by the million who could dismiss her servants even to the cook and do the work herself.

"But the saddest disillusionment of all, and the one that has wrecked more homes than any other is the discovery of innocent virtue that it is wedded to a partner that is socially impure. The double standard of morality has permitted the young manhood of the land to scatter wild oats with impunity. But oh, the cursed harvest too often gathered by the pure and good! Legislation can scarce protect the daughters of our land; we must have a better manhood. It is estimated that 65 per cent of infant mortality and a large proportion of the epileptics, feeble-minded, insane, and other denizens of the almhouse, can be attributed to the excesses of sin-cursed manhood. What an indictment of manly vigor! O God! The disillusionment of matrimony is sometimes an awful fact!

The Root of Evil.

"What is the matter with the world? Sin. What destroys the happiness of hearts and the race? Sin. What emasculates the manhood of the race? Sin. What transforms the heaven where woman reigns by angelic right into the torments of a living hell? Sin What makes divorce more moral than the marriage it dissolves? Sin. O Sin! Thou foulest whelp of Satan's brood, we loathe thee! O Christ! Thou mighty Savior! Thou hast power to slay the beast! We yield ourselves to Thy protecting care.

"There is nothing in the world more beautiful than a pair of birds which build a nest and rear a little brood, except a man and maid who leave the old roof tree and found a home in holy love. It is natural, divine. But there must be no secrets, no skeleton in the closet, no dissembling. There must be loyalty and fidelity, openness and mutual trust; unity of spirit, unity of desire, unity of purpose, unity of task. When two hearts rejoice together, weep together, and bend beneath the burden of a common load, it is 'holy' matrimony—they two become one. Sometimes their path lies over sunlit slopes and flower-filled fields and all goes 'merry as a marriage bell.' Sometimes they encounter serious problems, face stern realities, wrestle with gigantic difficulties, walk through dark valleys, climb steep mountains, fight fierce battles, go through fire and flood, but they keep together and share the joy or sorrow because they two are one.

Advocates Single Standard.

"The parity of the sexes, a single standard of morals for both alike, a recognition that strength and beauty are complemental parts and that each can give to the other what it could not have alone, the keeping of virtue unsullied for conscience sake and for the joy of soundness, the belief that love is a heavenly boon, will go far toward relieving society of the serpent's curse and restoring the holy institution without which there could never be a home, to its pristine beauty so that what God's aid at the beginning may still be true. "For this cause shall a man leave his father and his mother and shall cleave unto his wife; and they two shall be one."

BURGLARS GET $1 AND SOME STAMPS

Burglars broke into the Anton Ringsred paint and paper store at 110 First avenue west some time Saturday night and stole $1 in cash and a few postage stamps from a cash drawer.

The theft was discovered yesterday by Mr. Ringsred himself and he reported the matter to the police. The authorities have so far been unable to obtain any clew to the identity of the thieves.

The burglars gained entrance into the building by forcing open the window of a coal chute in a building next door and then making their way to the Ringsred store in the basement and upstairs to the office.

BODY OF ACCIDENT VICTIM BROUGHT HERE

The body of Louis Faucault, 35 years old, who was killed by a Great Northern train at Brevatore last Friday evening, was brought to Duluth Saturday evening and is now being held at the Crawford undertaking rooms pending word from relatives.

Faucault was employed in a log drive gang near Cloquet, where he had made his home and met his untimely death in escaping one train, just to walk in front of a Great Northern engine. He was horribly mangled.

Faucault was a member of the Owls at Cloquet.

SLANDER THE WORST SIN

Rev. Robert Yost Parallels Slander and Unforgivable Sin.

Envy and Malignancy Are Responsible for Slanderous Talk.

Rev. Robert Yost of the First Presbyterian church, preached a most interesting sermon yesterday morning on "The Sin of Slander." This he classed with the unforgivable sin, and asserted that he believes that Jesus meant, in a measure at least, that the sin of slander is the unforgivable sin. He took for his text the thirty-second verse of the twelfth chapter of Matthew:

"Whosoever speaketh a word against the Son of Man, it shall be forgiven him; but whosoever speaketh against the Holy Ghost, it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this world, neither in the world to come."

Dr. Yost characterized criticism of Christ as "petulant" and that of against the Holy Ghost as "malignant." While he condemned the criticism of Christ and emphasized the absurdity of human beings presuming to criticise the Master, he issued a warning against the sin of slandering or detracting from the efforts for good of others, and, in a way, cast new light on an old subject.

He said that criticism of Jesus is petulant because it is a criticism of what persons may believe to be shortcomings or faults, and its source is more on the ground of dissatisfaction or ignorance than from the basis of malice; but, he pointed out, when one speaks against the Holy Ghost it is from the point of pure malignancy.

Dr. Yost expressed pity for the person or persons who seek to criticise Jesus, chiefly because of their absurd position and because of their inadequacy of intellect.

"Who among you would presume to criticise Socrates, this morning?" asked Dr. Yost. "Or who would criticise Plato? What one of you would feel capable of criticising Washington; or who would dare to criticise Lincoln? And yet the very man who would feel unfit to criticise any of these will feel himself perfectly capable to enter the sacred circle of the Christ and find fault."

As to the criticism of the Holy Ghost and the sin of slander, Dr. Yost declared that the sin is being committed every day.

"It is not necessary," said he, "that criticism of the Holy Spirit should be made direct; when you decry the spirit of the God you commit the unforgivable sin. Often when some man takes some stand or some action that is of benefit to mankind or to the community certain people will say: 'Huh, I never knew him to do anything when he did not have an ax to grind.' That, is criticising the spirit; that is the unforgivable sin. Such men decry and denounce, shaken with envy, until their very souls are shrivelled up, and soon they have no soul. Such are among the most despicable of the race and they are the ones who are committing the unforgivable sin. The sin of slander is the most terrible in its consequences that one can imagine, and terrible must be its punishment."

PROPHETS FOUND AMONG MODERN MEN

Rev. George R. Gebauer Sees One of Them in Ruskin—His Social Ideal.

Rev. George R. Gebauer of the First Unitarian church yesterday began a series of interpretative sermons on modern prophets, the first one being on Ruskin. He spoke in part as follows:

"We cannot know the heavens by merely gazing at the great sun. We do not apprehend the riches of literature by simply confining ourselves by Shakespeare or Dante. There are minor prophets in the world and they may often give the truths the greater prophets darken by their very splendour. They generally talk the plainest and write their message in such clear large letters that he who runs may read. And the race of the prophets is not confined to any time and place. There are prophets in our own generation who may be as great at those ancient Hebrew bards, whom so many admire without understanding and perhaps the more so on account of that.

"Now such a prophet of these latter days was John Ruskin, so well known as an art critic and the discoverer of the genius of Turner. It was Ruskin, who first in England raised his voice against the idolatrous worship of classic art. He challenged the art world to go back to nature and listen to her. That was a brave thing to do, but braver still it was to attack the prevailing principles of art. He was the one man of his time, who saw that truest art is something holy, something that made a contribution to moral life. He had no use for the shibboleth 'art for art's sake.' He contended that art must serve life, must raise it higher, give it inspiration. That art is highest which lifts us on high. is not Ruskin right in this? Is not in painting the message more than the form and the spirit more than the color? And because to him art was the expression of the highest, he contended that no great art could be produced without a great personality behind it. And again no great and noble character could be formed if the life of a man was out of living touch with the beautiful, be it in art or nature. Through some avenue the grace of God should come into the life of man.

His Social Ideal.

"But as Ruskin looked at art from the standpoint of life, so he looked at life from the standpoint of art, beauty, harmony. His social ideal was the city of God with gates beautiful. Ruskin's soul was stirred by the unharmoniousness, yes, ugliness of social life; he saw the ills of the social body through the eyes of the artist. And aroused in his artistic as much as his ethical nature he became the great advocate for human betterment on socialistic lines. Whatever we may think of his reform schemes, his heart certainly was in the right place and his vision clear and his maxims of life noble. Some treasures are heavy with human tears as an ill-stored harvest with untimely rain, says he in his poetical way. To him there is no true wealth, but life. The treasures of all the gold and diamonds of Kimberly would not outweigh one drop of human blood. He is no admirer of the Republican form of government because it is so apt to become mobocracy. He would educate the young to become fit members of a state which did not rest in ruthless competition, but in fraternal co-operation. And the practical reformers of the world, while rejecting his schemes of communistic co-operation, yet realize with him the great duty involved upon society to bring about wholesome social conditions, conditions in which the individual would attain its fullest and best life.

"This is the object of all true policy and true economy; utmost multitude of good men on every given space of ground, good, honest, sound men, not a mob of white-faced thieves. The true veins of wealth are purple and not in the rock, but in flesh—perhaps even that the final outcome and consummation of all wealth is in producing as many as possible full-breathed, clear large letters that he who runs may read. And the race of the prophets is not confined to any time and place. There are prophets in our own generation who may be as great at those ancient Hebrew bards, whom so many admire without understanding and perhaps the more so on account of that.

And aroused in his artistic as much as his ethical nature he became the great advocate for human betterment on socialistic lines. Whatever we may think of his reform schemes, his heart certainly was in the right place and his vision clear and his maxims of life noble. Some treasures are heavy with human tears as an ill-stored harvest with untimely rain, says he in his poetical way. To him there is no true wealth, but life. The treasures of all the gold and diamonds of Kimberly would not outweigh one drop of human blood. He is no admirer of the Republican form of government because it is so apt to become mobocracy. He would educate the young to become fit members of a state which did not rest in ruthless competition, but in fraternal co-operation. And the practical reformers of the world, while rejecting his schemes of communistic co-operation, yet realize with him the great duty involved upon society to bring about wholesome social conditions, conditions in which the individual would attain its fullest and best life.

"This is the object of all true policy and true economy; utmost multitude of good men on every given space of ground, good, honest, sound men, not a mob of white-faced thieves. The true veins of wealth are purple and not in the rock, but in flesh—perhaps even that the final outcome and consummation of all wealth is in producing as many as possible full-breathed, bright-eyed and happy-hearted human creatures. This is prophetic indeed.

Manhood the Standard.

"I believe with Ruskin, that as highest art must rest upon purity and goodness, so highest civilization is many possible where human welfare and social health are made paramount, where the standard of life is not money, but manhood. As long as money instead of manhood rules the world, or money without manhood behind it, we are not Christians, but mammonists. But Ruskin's was not merely an artistic temperament and an ethical nature, but a deeply religious character. Indeed out of his religious being issued his moral estimates. In his artistic temperament he naturally turned away from the hard theology of puritanism in which he was raised but he cared as little for hard rationalism and a scientific interpretation of Christianity and the Bible. With the graceful hand of the artist he removed everything that was distasteful to him in dogma and ritual, and his poetical soul took hold of all that is good in scripture. Indeed he never ceased to love the old book though he plainly saw its imitations. It had formed his character and it had formed his literary style. He says: 'I am a simpleton, am I, to quote such an exploded book as Genesis? My wise acre readers, I know as many flaws in the book of Genesis as the best of you, but I know the book before I knew its flaws, while you know the flaws and never have known the book nor can know. And indeed it is at present much worse for you; for indeed the stories of Genesis have been the nursery tales of men mightiest of whom the world has yet seen in art, policy and virtue and none of you will write better stories for your children yet a while.'

"His religious creed may be summed up in consisting in faith in God and in service to man. That personal faith and service alone has saving power and not the faith and works of another. He writes: 'There are only two forms of possible Christian, pagan or any other gospel; one that men are saved by themselves, doing what is right; and the other, that they are saved by believing that somebody else did right instead of them. The first of these gospels is eternally true and holy; the other eternally false—damnable and daming.'"

Thirty Years With Stomach, Kidney and Bladder Trouble

Wonderful are the reports received daily from the use of the grand old Quaker Remedies. Here is one of the many just such reports that are being received daily.

Mr. J. H. O'Brien, who resides at 1350 Bedford avenue, Lynchburg, Va., who called to have a talk with the Quaker Health Teacher and told how he had suffered for the past thirty years with stomach trouble and for the past fifteen years with a severe case of kidney and bladder trouble, was treated in a hospital for two weeks but only received a little temporary relief, and has taken every different treatment and remedy he could find without results. He had such aches and pains in the back that he could scarcely get up and down. Also very severe pain in the side and stomach; belching and bloating. Gases would form which would cause shortness of breath and was very restless at night. His kidneys and bladder caused him to get up as many as seven or eight times during the night; was very weak and nervous and was unable to work.

Mr. O'Brien asked the Quaker Health Teacher what the Quaker Remedies would do for such ailments as his. His answer was: "Give the Quaker Herb Extract and Oil of Balm a trial. Use them according to directions on the label and watch for quick results."

Mr. O'Brien purchased a three bottle treatment of Extract and one bottle of Oil of Balm, and after using these remedies one week, reported his condition and said: "I can now sit down and eat a hearty meal without my stomach distressing me in the least and have scarcely an ache or pain at all now, and can lie down at night and get a good night's rest without any kidneys or bladder bothering me, and I would not take any price for what this medicine has already done for me and certainly recommend it to anyone suffering from any such ailment as I have suffered from. My address is 1350 Bedford avenue, Lynchburg, Va., and would be only too glad to tell anyone what the Quaker Remedies have done for me."

Now, Gaskin says: "Investigate and find out for yourself if this is true or not. I came here, not only to say, but to prove to the most skeptical person in your city that the Quaker Remedies do cure when all others have failed."

Gaskin, the Quaker Health Teacher, is now at the Orpheum Pharmacy, 201 East Superior street, Duluth, Minn., and invites all who suffer from catarrh in any form, rheumatism, kidney or bladder troubles, stomach, liver or blood troubles, or worms of any kind to call and have a talk with him. He is at the drug store from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., and charges nothing to talk with you. Quaker Extract is sold in treatments 6 bottles for $5.00; 3 for $2.50, or $1.00 single bottle. Oil of Balm for aches or pains, 50c. Cough Syrup, 25c. All Healing Salve, 25c. Call tomorrow and get well.—Advertisement.

ONE VICTIM ON THE FOURTH

Jacob Cayo, Aged 10, Hurt By Blank Cartridge Explosion.

Wadding Inflicts Deep Flesh Wound—Day Very Quiet Here.

One accidental shooting is Duluth's Fourth of July toll for this year, Jacob Cayo, 10 years old, having been wounded by a blank cartridge while playing with several boys Saturday afternoon.

Young Cayo, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund M. Cayo, 527 West Seventh street, was struck in the back with a wad from a blank cartridge fired by Louis Signorelli, 13 years old. Several boys were playing in the street at Fifth street and Fifth avenue west when the accident happened.

Inflicts Flesh Wound.

The cartridge wad cut through Jacob's clothing and buried itself about an inch in the flesh just above his waist line and to the left of the middle of the back. Young Signorelli and the other boys carried Jacob to his home and a little later he was taken to St. Mary's hospital, where his condition was this morning reported to be much improved. He slept well last night, an attendant said this morning. The boy is being treated by Dr. F. J. Lepak.

The shooting of young Cayo is the only Fourth of July accident reported to the police. There was not even a urday, and but one blaze at 2 o'clock urday, and but one blazeat 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when an awning at the Anderson & Ogg store, 102 East Fourth street, caught fire from a cigarette that had been carelessly thrown out of a window. The total damage is estimated at $50.

But few arrests were made on the Fourth and all day yesterday, there having been four men taken into custody for creating a disturbance, while fifteen were charged with drunkenness.

Lost Children Found.

Five children reported lost on the Fourth, were found and returned to their parents before the day was gone. Not a single lost child was reported yesterday. The only accident yesterday occurred at Lester park, where Ruth Beaston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Beaston, 5107 Colorado street, broke her right arm when she fell off a teeter-totter. The little child was given temporary treatment by Dr. H. E. Webster, who lives nearby and she was later taken to her home. She was reported much improved this morning.

result set forth in this report in which he says, referring to Prince William:

"I am not afraid to match my efforts for freedom with his bloody rule before the great judgment seat."

Doesn't Know He's Fired.

Athens, July 6.—George Fred Williams, the American minister to Greece, whose recent statements regarding conditions in Albania have aroused much discussion, said yesterday he knew nothing of the report that President Wilson had invited him to resign. He reiterated that he had received instructions from his government to visit Epirus and confer with the international commission, but admitted that the state department at Washington was not responsible for his report.

Referring to the Corfu protocol, he said that it gave the Epirotes no effective guarantee because a majority of the powers, including Great Britain, refused to send troops to the interior of Albania; moreover, it rejected the Epirote demands that the gendarmerie should not be employed, even in the case of "force majeure" outside the borders of Epirus, and that for a time the governors should be foreigners belonging to a neutral state.

A member of the international commission at Durazzo informed Mr. Williams that these demands were not accepted and never would be accepted, and without these guarantees Mr. Williams declared the promises of the powers were absolutely illusory.

DENTISTS GATHER AT ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Rochester, N. Y., July 6.—Dentists from all parts of the country are arriving today for the eighteenth annual convention of the National Dental association, which will convene in Exposition park tomorrow and continue through Friday. Preparations have been made to care for more than 5,000 delegates. Governor Glynn is expected to welcome the delegates on behalf of the state.

SEEK YOUTH TO TELL OF BOMB EXPLOSION WHICH KILLED FOUR

were murdered. She made this statement as she was being taken from the morgue where she had identified Berg's body, to a police station for further questioning.

"Those boys were murdered; I know they were," she said. "Somebody sent or brought that machine that killed them all."

In the ruins of the wrecked tenement house the authorities found evidence that Caron's apartment was a center for the distribution of inflammatory literature, which was printed there, and at the time of the explosion it was apparently a bomb factory, filled with the ingredients of death-dealing missiles.

A small printing press, revolutionary pamphlets and circulars, an electric dynamo, two electric batteries, cartridges and bits of steel were among the articles uncovered which tend, in the opinion of the police, to show an anarchistic plot at assassination.

Against Rockefeller.

That a demonstration, halted by the bungling of someone who was preparing an infernal machine for its mission, was planned against the Rockefeller family in Tarrytown, is the theory upon which the authorities are working.

Two of those killed in the wrecked apartment were prominent agitators who were to be placed on trial at Tarrytown today on charges of disorderly conduct in connection with the campaign of demonstration inaugurated against John D. Rockefeller, Jr., as a protest against his attitude in the Colorado mine strike.

The body of a fourth victim of the explosion was found and proved to be that of Charles Berg, known in I. W. W. circles as "The Big Swede," an associate of Caron. The other victims were Charles Hanson and Mary Claston. The woman lived in an apartment next to the one occupied by Caron and his associates.

Identification of Berg's body was made by Louise Berger, step-sister of Hanson, who lived in the flat where the explosion occurred.

"Not in the I. W. W."

Equally interesting with the discovery of anarchistic literature and electrical machinery in the ruins of Caron's room, was the assertion by I. W. W. leaders that Caron was not a member of that organization, having recently been refused admission. They declared that the I. W. W. had nothing to do with the explosion. Why Caron was denied a place among the workers was a point they did not make clear.

A grewsome but suggestive piece of evidence was a severed hand which clutched pieces of wire made ready for connections. The authorities believe that the owner of this hand was in the act of making an electric connection for one of the bombs and a battery when the explosion occurred and he was blown to pieces.

Louise Berger and Eleanora Fitzgerald, a teacher in the Francisco Ferrer school, were closely questioned today as to what they knew of bomb-making in the flat. They disclaimed all knowledge of it. The police tried to trap Miss Berger into admitting some knowledge of a plot to use the bomb either on the Rockefellers or the Tarrytown police court but not a single admission could be drawn from the young woman.

Alexander Berkman, anarchist and associate of Emma Goldman in the publication of Mother Earth, an anarchistic paper, who was questioned at length by the police, declared that none of the dead men was a member of the I. W. W. He said that a number of anarchistic organizations were already making plans to hold an impressive public funeral Saturday afternoon.

HOW TO MAKE SCHOOL BEST

appeal to those under her care. The teacher cannot teach what she does not know, and cannot give to others the religious life which she does not possess."

Abandon Hope of Wealth.

The speaker declared that any one taking teaching as a life work must abandon all idea of accumulating wealth. He made a plea for a living wage for the teacher; said the best person for a position should be chosen regardless of sex, and advocated an old age pension system, to be provided by the states.

A telegram from President Wilson to President Swain, expressing regret that public duties made it impossible for him to attend the meeting, was read at the general session. President Wilson said in part:

Telegram From Wilson.

"Thoughtful people all over the country follow the deliberations of the National Education association with genuine interest. The problems of education are really problems affecting national development and national ideas. I think that no one long associated with the profession of teaching can have failed to catch the inspiration of it, or to see how great a power may be exercised through the classroom in directing the thinking and the ambition of the generations coming on, or can have failed to realize that nothing less than a comprehension of the national life is necessary to fit a teacher for the great task of preparation and adaptation to the future that education attempts."

Tells of "White Peril."

Systematic instruction in our public schools was suggested as a means of solving the problem of how to attain and maintain peace and good will between America and Asia by Prof. Sydney Lewis Gulick of the imperial university at Kioto, Japan, who spoke on the responsibility of American educators in the solution of America's Oriental problem. He emphasized the Far Eastern viewpoint of "the white peril" as against "the yellow peril," and urged recognition of the good in the Oriental civilization.

Prof. Hughes Johnston of the University of Illinois outlined a plan for the reorganization of the public school system before the commission on the reorganization of secondary education, and Harry B. Wilson, superintendent of schools, Topeka, Kan., spoke before the national council on economy of time in education.

Time Wasted in School.

Mr. Wilson pointed out four sources of waste and therefore four possible avenues of economy, as follows:

First—A large amount of waste results because the course of study contains much obsolete subject matter.

Second—Much waste results from attempting to train and educate pronounced deviating children in the same classes with normal children.

Third—Children advance more slowly in their mastery of subject matter and school tasks than they should because they are not trained in their habits of study.

Fourth—Large waste exists in all grades of the public schools and in all subjects that are taught, due to the failure of teachers to employ a technique in teaching which is appropriate to the subject matter under study and to the results desired.

Remodel School System.

Prof. Johnston said: "The ideal scheme for the reorganization of our whole public school system is as follows:

"Kindergarten, one year with a plan of supervision of this and the first grade, possibly, together.

"Following this we must have an elementary school of six years with a normal deftly planned environment for the pre-adolescent child to grow in —not memorize in.

"Then would come our intermediate or junior high school of, in most cases, three years. Here the problem obviously made to hand as a primary purpose is to deal adequately with the early adolescent, whom up to this point we have done least for, by common consent, in our public schools, although we have talked a great deal about him.

Senior High School.

"Following this will come our senior high school of three, four or five more years, depending on the size and character of the community. This will be the great socializing and vocational, as well as cultural institution of our democracy. We could then leave the state universities and those on large and permanent foundations the training of experts of every sort and the prosecution of research.

Coupled with and in some way affiliated with this great differentiated public high school system will be our national system of school extension. Part-time schools of every variety, continued education opportunities for every class and for every age.

"Coupled with all of this will come another phase of high school extension. This will be that of the high school taking over from the universities the sort of elementary community service work which should be better rendered by the local high school, and much more cheaply done, even if the state were to do it all in this way for the community.

"There are some thirty cogent psychological, pedagogical, and administrative reasons why some such reconstruction of our public school system should be gradually undertaken by any community—some features at a time in most cases.

Movies in Schools.

Moving pictures in public schools, the negro question and several other problems were taken up at the meetings of various departments.

Tonight's general session is to be devoted entirely to a discussion on the "Status of Women," with four well known women educators as the chief speakers.

BOX OF CARTRIDGES FOUND IN THE ATTIC OF THE CARMAN HOME

inquest, said that after dinner on the night of the shooting, Mrs. Carman complained of having a headache and said she was going upstairs. The witness saw her leave the dining room and later heard footsteps she believed were those of Mrs. Carman on the stairs.

The maid admitted having talked with George Levy, Mrs. Carman's attorney, the morning after the murder. She insisted that no one else was present at the conference.

"Do you know what perjury means?" asked the district attorney.

The witness answered that she did. The district attorney then asked several times if she had not told him previously that Mrs. Carman was present. The witness said she didn't remember. Her memory was faulty regarding these things.

Memory Was Faulty.

Her memory was faulty regarding the things Levy had talked about, but she was sure Mrs. Carman had never spoken to her about the shooting and that the physician's wife had not asked her about what she had seen the night of the murder.

"When did you change your mind about what you told me Mrs. Carman had told you, and when did you lose your memory? Who told you to change your statement?" asked Mr. Smith.

"Nobody," said the negress.

The witness admitted that she had signed a paper for Mr. Levy without reading it or without having it read to her.

Mrs. Jennie Durica, mother of Mrs. Bailey, testified that her daughter had been complaining of feeling bad and that it was she who urged her to go to the doctor.

William D. Bailey, husband of the murdered woman, said his wife had not complained to him of feeling ill and he was not aware that she ever knew of Dr. Carman.

Madeline Bailey, 17-year-old daughter of the Baileys, said her mother had never mentioned Dr. Carman's name to her.

Saw Nurse Kiss Doctor.

The next witness, Miss Hazel Combs, said she arrived at Dr. Carman's office about 7 o'clock and a man and woman she did not know were in the waiting room. She said she saw Mrs. Carman go into Dr. Carman's office.

Mrs. Carman denied on the stand that she ever entered her husband's office since she saw Mrs. Variance, the nurse, kiss him.

Charles Anderson, a negro youth, then testified that as he was passing the Carman house about 8 o'clock last Tuesday night he heard a report he thought was caused by a firecracker. He looked in the yard and saw a man running toward the back fence. The man jumped over the fence and Anderson later saw him emerge from an alley in the next street.

Has Strong Evidence.

According to Sheriff Stephen P. Pettit of Nassau county, sufficient evidence has been discovered to warrant the arrest of a woman for the murder. The sheriff refused to disclose the exact nature of this evidence. He announced that the woman would be taken into custody before the end of the week, possibly at the close of the inquest. The sheriff added that the important evidence in his possession would not be presented at the inquest.

"We have no desire to show our hands," he asserted. "The arrest will be made, and we will then present the evidence, sufficient to have the prisoner held for the action of the grand jury."

Will Change Testimony.

Mrs. Ida Powell, sister of Mrs. Francis Conklin Carman, wife of the physician, will be recalled to the stand, Coroner Norton said. It is understood that she will be given an opportunity to change that part of the testimony she gave Friday concerning her whereabouts just before the murder.

George Golder, son of Dr. Carman's patients, who was in the house when the shot was fired, testified he saw Mrs. Carman on the front porch of her home when he entered the house a half hour before the shot was fired. When it was suggested she might have mistaken Mrs. Carman for her sister, Golder was confronted with the two women, and immediately identified Mrs. Carman as the woman he had seen, not only on the porch before the murder, but in the doctor's office just after it.

Mrs. Carman and Mrs. Powell both denied they were on the front porch at all last Tuesday night. Now, Coroner Norton says, he understands that Mrs. Powell has "refreshed her memory," and remembers she was sitting on the porch when Golder arrived with Mrs. Platt Conklin, her mother.

Mrs. Conklin is too ill to testify at the inquest, so the coroner will visit the Carman home with a stenographer and take down her story. Mrs. Conklin, according to District Attorney Smith, who has already interviewed her, will say she was on the porch when Golder arrived.

Told of Night Attack.

Dr. Carman told the police the story of the attack upon him last night. He had been out making professional calls all afternoon, and passed through Rockville Center on his way home. There he met Garland Gaden, an actor, and invited him to ride home with him.

"Gaden accepted the invitation," continued Dr. Carman in telling his story, "and got into the car. We stopped in a store, and as we again got into the car, a small coupe, I noticed a man on a bicycle near the curb. We drove off without paying any particular attention to the man.

"When about a mile and a half out of town, I heard a report and thought one of the tires had exploded. My friend got out on one side and I on the other. As soon as I put my foot on the ground I heard another shot, and when I looked around I saw the same man I had seen when we came out of the store, standing beside his bicycle with a revolver in his hand. Gaden shouted, 'My God, Carman, he's trying to kill you.'

"We both jumped into the car, there was another report and a bullet went singing by my head. Gaden and I leaned far over in our seat to be out of range of bullets, and I opened the throttle as far as it would go."

Hurried to Police.

Dr. Carman, on his arrival in Freeport, hurried to police headquarters and told his story. Sheriff Pettit quickly sped to the scene of the shooting in a high-powered automobile, closely followed by a posse. At midnight an automobile full of detectives and policemen went to the scene and other detectives were rushed off to the nearby towns of Baldwin, Rockville and Lynbrook to hunt for the man on a bicycle described by Dr. Carman.

The authorities placed special significance on the fact that the would-be assassin was said to have been riding on a bicycle. During the night following the murder of Mrs. Bailey, when bloodhounds were used, they circled the Carman house once and then started off down the same road on which Dr. Carman was returning home last night. The detectives who had charge of the hounds at that time said they had much difficulty in following the scent, and expressed the belief that the person they were following was riding a bicycle.

CARRANZA TO STAY AS FIRST CHIEF, AND VILLA TO HEAD ARMY

gates over establishment of a provisional government.

Election News Awaited.

Developments in the election about Mexico City yesterday, in which Huerta apparently was named for president and Gen. Blanquet, now secretary of war, was elected vice president, anxiously were awaited here.

When President Wilson was asked today to comment on yesterday's election in Mexico, he laughed and said:

"I hardly think any comment from me is necessary."

When asked if he knew anything of Gen. Huerta's plans for leaving Mexico, he smiled again and said:

"I am afraid I am not in his confidence."

The president refused to discuss mediation, saying the mediators were in recess at present in the hope that the warring factions will get together.

Vasconcelos Returns.

Jose Vasconcelos, one of the Constitutionalist junta here, will leave tonight for Saltillo to report to Gen. Carranza on mediation, the attitude of the United States and plans for the resumption of business in Northern Mexico. He would not discuss his return to Saltillo further than to say that he expected to make a full report to Gen. Carranza on Mexican affairs as viewed in the United States.

Rafael Zubaran said no final answer had come from his chief relative to participation in the proposed conference over peace plans with the Huerta delegates. The opinion in Constitutionalist circles prevalent here was that no answer would come until the conference at Torreon between adherents of Villa and Carranza was concluded.

As to the election yesterday, in which Gen. Huerta appears to have been re-elected, Constitutionalist leaders would not comment, further than to say that it made no difference in the general situation. They intimated, however, that Huerta might still be planning to appoint a secretary of foreign affairs to succeed him and then retire.

Huerta-Zapata Alliance?

Vera Cruz, July 6.—It is rumored here that an alliance between Provisional President Huerta and Emiliano Zapata, the revolutionary leader is to be formed soon. Such a combination is regarded by most Mexicans as inconceivable on account of the long enmity Zapata has borne Huerta, who as a general under Madero, gave him the hardest fight he has ever had.

Both here and in the caulital conviction exists that a crisis is imminent. Recent statements by President Huerta have not been such as to indicate that he contemplates abandoning his power. Mexicans prominent in the political, commercial and social life of the capital, have been joining in increasing strength the army of fugitives.

Several foreigners other than the British have taken the advice of Sir Lionel Carden, the British minister, to get out of what he regards as dangerous territory.

Elections a Joke.

Mexicans from the interior and those just beyond the American lines do not regard seriously the elections held yesterday. It is pointed out that such elections could scarcely have a conciliatory effect on the Constitutionalists and never could be regarded as legal, since the government is powerless to comply with the provisions of the law that the votes be cast freely throughout the territory.

That Gen. Huerta proposed to repeat the virtually compulsory choice of himself and Gen. Blanquet for the vice presidency, as he did last year, was the story brought here by a judge from Jalapa. He said he had received instructions to prepare the ballots, publish an announcement that an election was to be held, and to establish polling places in the usual manner, but to see to it that all votes cast were for Huerta and Blanquet.

According to this judge he inquired into the penalty should he fail to follow these instructions. He was told that he would be fined 200 pesos and committed to jail.

SOCIALISTS ADOPT NEW YORK PLATFORM

Declare Party Sole Political Representative of Working Classes.

Rochester, N. Y., July 6.—The Socialist party last night at its state convention indorsed a platform opening with a preamble which set forth that the party enters the campaign of 1914 as the sole political representative of the working class. The planks include these:

An eight hour-day, with a gradual shortening in keeping with the increased productiveness of modern machinery, and a period of rest of one and a half days each week;

Prohibition of child labor under 16 years of age.

Protection of safety and health workers.

State insurance against unemployment.

Prohibition of employment of women within three months of confinement, but full reimbursement of such women.

Pensions to dependent mothers with children under 16 years.

MORE AUTHORITY TO BE GIVEN FILIPINOS

Bill Approved By House Committee Sanctioned By President.

Washington, July 6.—President Wilson and house leaders have agreed substantially on a bill granting a larger measure of self government to the Filipinos. The president told callers today that he approved the bill introduced by Representative Jones of Virginia and modified by the house insular affairs committee, but made it clear that he did not expect the bill to be passed by both houses during the present session.

The president and Representative Jones conferred on the bill today and afterward Mr. Jones said he planned to introduce the measure this week.

As described by Mr. Jones, the bill will abolish the Philippine commission and create an elective senate. No time will be set for independence. The bill will make certain classes of residents citizens of the Philippines. The voting privilege will be based upon certain property qualifications. The right of managing the foreign affairs of the islands will be reserved to the United States.

WILL TRY TO BREAK STRIKE THIS WEEK

Westinghouse Agents Seek Employes for the Mills.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 6.—Offices were opened here today by agents of the Westinghouse companies whose plants are affected by the strike, for the purpose of filling the 10,000 or more vacancies in the shops. It was reported in East Pittsburg that a determined effort would be made this week to break the strike. Troopers of the state constabulary still were on duty in the town, scores of pickets watched every entrance to the factories and all saloons were open, but there was no disorder.

EXTEND PROTECTION OF MINING PROPERTY.

Washington, July 6.—The agreement between the United States and Great Britain to protect mining properties in Mexico will be extended to include Spanish and Swiss property. Mr. Riano, the Spanish ambassador, today asked Secretary Bryan to admit his country as well as Switzerland to the compact.

HEAVY RAINFALL HAS SWOLLEN GULL LAKE

Veritable Cloudburst Raises Water in Lake Three Inches.

Brainerd, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—A veritable cloudburst with nearly an inch of rainfall in twenty minutes, struck the Gull lake dam early this morning. Gull lake is now three inches higher than ever before in its history, receiving the flow of Sylvan and other Long lakes. The whole dam is open and even this is doing little to reduce the abnormally high stage. John Wade of St. Paul of the United States engineers, is expected at the dam today.

Red River Valley Soaked.

Crookston, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—A heavy rain fell this morning from Crookston to Cass Lake and north to the Canadian boundary. It did immense good to the northern part of the Red river valley. The fall here was 1.7 inches. The crops are in magnificent shape, corn showing a wonderful growth.

Union Church Notes.

The Endeavor society of the Union church will hold its monthly business meeting this evening at the home of Miss Mary Chamberlain, 3422 Minnesota avenue, Park Point. Mrs. C. J. Hockin, delegate to the state Christian Endeavor convention, will give her report. Wednesday evening the midweek prayer service will be held at the K. P. hall. James C. McConkey of Harrisburg, Pa., will have charge of the meeting.

Woman's Realm

Miss Frances Earhart has returned from Washington, D. C., where she attended the thirty-sixth annual convention of the American Library association that was characterized by the largest attendance in the history of the organization, the greatest number of sections and the greatest number of sectional and general sessions.

Many subjects of interest to librarians were dealt with, but the chief ones were characterized by Miss Earhart as the practical, the scholarly and the educational.

The practical side was an exhibit of labor saving devices for librarians. On the second floor of one of the libraries were booths in which manufacturers displayed all kinds of articles used in libraries, such as furniture, adding machines, requisites for indexing systems, work room tools, paste, ink, gummed labels, cleaning apparatus, cleaning preparations and many other things associated with the care, handling and housing of books.

The Cultural Side.

"Probably the most scholarly address of the convention," said Miss Earhart, "was that made on 'Prestige,' by W. N. C. Carlton, the librarian of the Newberry library of Chicago, who made a plea for the cultural side of librarianship, culture for librarians and the public. Mr. Carlton maintained that scholarship is the keynote of librarianship and supported his point by quoting liberally from the master minds of literature. He said the popular side of librarianship is over-estimated to the detriment of the scholarly side and that he was in revolt against the authority of the man in the street. It was his opinion that librarians are not concerned sufficiently in regard to the dignity and power of their profession and called attention to the fact that despite the many celebrated librarians there have been, comparable in many instances with sages, seers, artists, statesmen and rulers, no statutes have ever been erected to them by librarians or by the public they served.

"Library schools are making a decided effort to raise the standard of scholarship and to select persons they consider fitted in all-round ways to go into the profession," Miss Earhart said, in telling of the opinions advanced by some of the foremost teachers of library schools, such as June R. Donnelly, associate professor of library science at Simmons college; Josephine A. Rathbone, vice-director of the school of library-science of Pratt institute and Mary W. Plummer, director of the library school of the New York public library.

"Library schools are becoming more independent and in some cases refuse to admit students upon certificates or diplomas, insisting that special examinations are necessary to eliminate those who, regardless of their general scholarship, are not suited to become librarians.

Tests Inadequate.

"Miss Donnelly thought that although entrance examinations for library schools are inadequate, testing only the educational and cultural background, they cut out those candidates who are hopelessly below par. It was her opinion that good examinations in addition to testing the results of cramming should test spelling, and English, the ability to read and copy accurately from the printed page, the candidates' knowledge of 'things generally known,' the ability to marshal their knowledge into logical order and to show what cultural judgment they have.

"Miss Rathbone of Pratt thought every school graudates students of whose fitness there is doubt, and that on the other hand, desirable material is sometimes shut out. She considered a library school entrance examination as fair a test of judgment, power of discrimination, systematic and orderly habits of mind, originality, resourcefulness and mental alertness as the possession of an A. B. or a Ph. B.

"Miss Plummer of the New York library emphasized the point that correct answers to questions are not the only significant points in an examination, as honesty, frankness, depth of information, versatility, social and educational background, sense of proportion and values, as well as their opposites, might be read between the lines of an examination paper.

Books for Immigrants.

"Among the interesting addresses was the one on 'The Library and the Immigrant,' by John Foster Carr, director of the Immigrant Education Society of New York, who said: 'In the great work of education the library has a far greater opportunity than the school. It makes less strenuous demand upon the attention of a man who is often very tired after a long day's work. It welcomes those who think themselves too old for school. It is open throughout the year, where the night school at most is open only seven months of the year. It can furnish papers and books in the immigrant's own language and thus provide a familiar and homely air.

"'It is the unvarying experience of librarians that every attempt made in opening libraries to our recent immigrants has had large and unexpected results. Providence reports that the hunger for books among the foreign born is keen and universal. Boston, welcoming the unskilled laborer as well as the cultured student of the classics, has had striking progress in these new efforts the last three or four years, and incidentally has discovered eloquent testimony to the ambition in the homes of these workers—that the children of foreign born parents read a better class of books than their American brothers and sisters.'

Killing the Imagination.

"E. K. Mathiews, the Boy Scout librarian, said: 'The difference between a "Treasure Island" and a "Nick Carter" is not difference in the elements but the use each author makes of them. Stevenson works with combustibles but he confines them, directs them with care and caution, always thinking of how he may use them in such a way as will be of most good to the boy. In the case of "Nick Carter" the author works with the same materials but with no moral purpose, with no intelligence. The result is that as boys read these books their imaginations are literally "blown out," "shot to pieces," "burned out." Why are there so few men readers of the really good books or even of the passing novels sometimes of real worth? Largely, I think, because the imagination of so many men as boys received such brutal treatment at the hands of authors and publishers and booksellers who have no concern as to what they write or publish or sell so long as it returns constantly the expected financial gain.'

The next meeting of the American Library association will be held next summer at Oakland, Cal. A strong plea was made by Seattle for the convention but the California city won because its nearness to San Francisco will make it possible for the librarians to attend both the convention and the exposition. About 1,300 attended the meeting. Washington offered many advantages through the library of congress and the opportunities for sight-seeing both in and around the city.

After the close of the convention on May 29 Miss Earhart visited in the East.

MISS LUSK WINS SHRINE CONTEST

MISS FLORENCE LUSK.

Miss Florence Lusk won the $200 diamond ring in the "Shrine Lady" contest conducted at the Shriners' carnival of last week, while John Kerns of the Sixth avenue hotel was awarded the $1,050 automobile.

The carnival came to a close Saturday evening, when it is estimated 10,000 people were at the grounds to witness the final race in the "Shrine lady" contest and the awarding of the automobile. The weather was ideal.

At 6 o'clock Saturday evening Miss Lusk was third in the "Shrine lady" contest, while Miss Nellie Doig was first and Mrs. Frank Hamm was second. When the voting booths was opened at the grounds at 6:30 o'clock friends of the three highest contestants began a campaign for votes that continued until 10:30 o'clock, when the ballot was declared closed. The voting was spirited. Miss Lusk made a gain of over 17,000 votes during the evening and was declared the winner with a total of 27,555 votes.

Mrs. Frank Hamm won the second prize, consisting of a gold watch. She had a total of 16,037 votes, while Miss Nellie Doig won third honors. She was the recipient of a silver mesh bag. Miss Doig had 13,717 votes.

"Cherries Are Ripe."

According to Good Housekeeping for this month, sound, ripe cherries are excellent food adjuncts but should not be eaten at the end of a heavy meal. The beginning of breakfast or luncheon is the proper time to eat cherries that should be fresh, not too cold and without sugar. Among the suggestions made by that magazine for the serving of cherries is a way of making that attractive fruit even more pleasing to the eye. Red, black and white cherries make a pretty combination when arranged in a shallow glass dish upon a bed of ice. Care should be taken that they do not become too cold before they are served.

The following are recipes given in Good Housekeeping:

"Cherry Sorbet—Boil two quarts of stoned cherries ten minutes in a pint of water, stirring all the time. Press through a colander, add a cupful of sugar and two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice. When cold freeze, turning the freezer very slowly.

"Cherry pudding—Separate two eggs. Beat the yolks, add one cupful milk, one-half teaspoonful salt, one tablespoonful melted butter, two cupfuls flour sifted with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, and beat all until smooth. Fold in the well-beaten whites of two eggs and then one pint of drained stoned cherries. Pour into a kettle or mould and let boil continuously for an hour and a half. Serve hot with cherry sauce.

"Cherry salad—Strip a piece of skin from the side of a large banana and take out the fruit without breaking the remaining skin. Wash, stone and skin one pint of large sour cherries, dust very lightly with salt and pepper and pour over them three tablespoonfuls of olive oil and one of lemon juice. Mix and put the cherries into the banana skins. Arrange on a dish of shredded lettuce. Use the bananas for baking or serve them with cream.

BORGEN-CHRISTIANSEN.

Duluth Girl Is Bride at Pretty Home Wedding.

Miss Ruth Borgen, daughter of Representative and Mrs. Anton Borgen of 116 West Fifth street, and Ansgar Bertel Christiansen of Superior were married at noon today at the home of the bride. The ceremony was performed by the bridegroom's father, Rev. C. Christiansen of Washburn, Minn.

The bride wore a gown of white crepe de chine and a veil caught with roses and lilies of the valley. Her bouquet was of the same flowers. The bridesmaid, Miss Ingeborn Leraan of Superior, wore a white costume, as did also the flower girls, Virginia and Katherine Borgen, nieces of the bride, and the ring bearer, little Ruth Borgen, another niece. Edward Borgen, brother of the bride, was the best man.

Miss Rose Leraan played the wedding march and before the ceremony Mrs. Lief Larson sang "O Promise Me."

The house was decorated with palms, ferns and pink and white roses and carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Christiansen left for a short trip to Minneapolis, after which they will spend two weeks with the bridegroom's parents at Washburn before going to Superior, where they will make their home. The bride wore a black going-away suit.

Tennis Dinner.

Fortnightly dinner dances will be given at the main house of the Boat club under the direction of the different departments of the club. The one Thursday evening will be under the direction of the tennis division and the tennis idea will be carried out in the table decorations. It is desired that the club members make their reservations early for the dinner that will be served from 6 to 8 o'clock. All diners will be given an hour's instruction by Mrs. Helen Shores Savage in the new dances. La Brosse's orchestra will play for the dancing.

Church Picnic.

The West side auxiliary of the First Presbyterian church will hold a picnic at Lester Park tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

YOUNG WIFE, SUN AND TANGO DEFEAT AGE.

New York, July 6.—Washington I. Romaine has a brand new recipe for longevity. He does not attribute his 80 years to chewing tobacco, whisky, meat diet, open-air sleeping or the lack of any of these things. His recipe is this:

Have a young wife.
Get plenty of sunshine and air.
Tango every day.

Mr. Romaine's wife is thirty years his junior. In other ways he practices what he preaches.

AT THE LYCEUM.

Baldwin Players Present "A Butterfly on the Wheel."

"A Butterfly on the Wheel," a play full of intensely dramatic situations, was the offering of the Baldwin Players at the Lyceum theater yesterday, and the hearty reception given the opening performances, augurs well for the production for the remainder of the week.

The courtroom scene, which is one of gripping potentiality, was remarkably well put on through the clear and vigorous interpretation of A. Romaine Callendar and Miss Lola May. Mr. Callendar's cross examination, which was of the gruelling character, was made very realistic by many nicely done bits of stage business, and the part of the cross examined witness, taken by Miss May, was interpreted with great emotion, well sustained.

The scene was greatly strengthened by the witnesses at the examination, who, while taking no speaking part, paid rapt attention expressing, in the most fitting manner, the various emotional sentiment due the scene.

Walter Baldwin, injecting a breezy flow of humor along the course of the dramatic action, relieved the situation of its over-serious trend and was pleasing and diverting.

Homer Barton as the husband of the prosecuted heroine was natural in his varying attitudes and Joseph de Stefani and Miss Pearl Melville were popular at every turn.

The play is one that will be highly enjoyed by the Duluth public, and while it preaches a sermon, the preachment is artistically indirect.

The play will be presented for the remainder of the week with matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

Refined vaudeville and the best in photoplays will comprise the bill of entertainment at the Empress theater for three days, opening with the matinee this afternoon. Headlining the program is the comedy act, "The Isle of Joy," as put over by the Zeb Zarrow troupe. This organization is one of vaudeville's best and cleverest acts of its kind. In fact, they are the originators of the tramp characters doing comedy feats on cycles. The company has added to its act with each passing year and at the present time has an act that is very novel and highly entertaining.

Lorraine and Cameron are billed "The Top Notch of Scotch Singing and dancing," and from all reports on the two boys they are very good. They render their songs in a funny Scotch way, while their Scotch dances are true to the careful study of long years.

Allman and McFarland are high-class entertainers of the comedy line. They have an act called "Going to the Ball" and its comedy lines are new and bright.

Bob Sandberg is a comedian of splendid ability. His stories go big everywhere, while his parodies have been the hit of many shows.

"Our Mutual Girl" will again be seen at the Empress. Chapter 24 relates the adventures that befell Margaret while lost. Also "Tennessee," a two-part film of the love and feuds in the hills of Tennessee of two antagonistic families completes a rare program.

NORTHERN LIGHTS AID IN FOURTH DISPLAY

Even nature joined in to celebrate the Fourth of July. On that night a brilliant display of northern lights, aurora borealis, or whatever one may choose to call them, were plainly discernible in the North, and the heavens over the hill were a beauty mass of shooting and wavering white lights.

The northern lights are usually taken to mean frost, but none has been reported. They are rather unusual in midsummer, but they formed a pretty attraction just the same. In old days, when northern lights flashed it was considered ominous to people who sat in high places. It is expressed in Aytoun's "Edinburgh After Flodden" in this way:

"All night long, the northern streamers
Flashed across the trembling sky;
Fearful lights that never beacon
Save when kings or heroes die."

It proved true in that case for King James and his army got a drubbing at the hands of the English that made the defeat of Jeffries by Johnson seem puerile. But nobody has heard of a king or a hero getting his on the night of the Fourth. In fact it was very safe and sane.

STUDY EUROPEAN SOCIAL INSURANCE.

New York, July 6.—A preliminary inquiry on social insurance will be made this summer in England and on the continent of Europe by a committee of three appointed by George W. Perkins, chairman of the social insurance department of the National Civic Federation.

J. W. Sullivan of the Typographical union; Arthur Williams, president of an electric lighting company, and P. Tecumseh Sherman, an attorney, will gather data from employers and wage-earners abroad regarding the effect of English and German insurance legislation.

Results of an investigation by the Civic federation in the United States will be compared with those of the foreign inquiry.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Certain Noises in Cities Should Be Stopped.

Noise as it is dispensed in a large city at all times of night and day is indeed a matter worthy the sincerest consideration of those who have the power to decrease its volumne even slightly. In fact the noise manifest in a city of any size is quite worth attention in the respect that it be lessoned. For not a few of the sounds that disturb our ears and rattle our nerves are totally unnecessary and in no way compulsory to the maintenance of business interests.

The charcoal vendor and the old clothes man, the huckster and the man with fish for sale, who blows a horn to apprise the neighborhood of the fact, are not the worst offenders against the desires for quiet. Although being individuals and more or less obscure they are the ones usually blamed.

A steam fire-engine tearing down the street at a frightful rate of speed, with whistles shrieking, makes a noise that is terrifying and is harmful on the effect on the nervous system. Quieter means of heralding the approach of fire apparatus and of clearing a passageway might be devised in the interest of quiet which should be cultivated in cities at every opportunity.

The automobile horn is bad enough as a noise maker, but there is a noise nuisance which exists in practically every city, town and village through which the trolley lines pass which is excruciating in the torture it may inflict, and should be catalogued under the head of unnecessary noise if anything should be. It's the crunch, the squeak, the rasping, rolling, soul-penetrating noise that an electric car makes as it rounds a bend in the road and is caused sometimes by flat wheels and at others by the condition of the rails, which can be remedied by the companies.

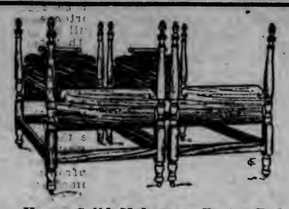

I suppose railroads must shunt their freight cars and other rolling stock. But it seems a pity they can do it in close proximity to residential neighborhood and keep people awake half the night with the cracking and filling which the act necessitates.

The fish peddler's horn is pleasant music compared to the phonograph of a neighbor which pours forth popular ditties until midnight. You hate to complain and be considered too finicky but the fact remains that you suffer discomfort.

THE ISSUES.

Though candidates seek to shape political issues as best suits them, the issues usually have an embarrassing way of shaping themselves.

For instance, Governor Eberhart in his primary election campaign undertook to make the issue the fate of the primary election system; but of course this attempt failed. The issues insisted on shaping themselves.

Attempts will be made in the state campaign this fall to shape the issues artificially, but unless we miss our guess public attention will center on relatively few things, and among them will be these two:

First, the need of checking state extravagance and waste and stopping the headlong process of expenditures that has brought about the appalling increase in state expense and the state tax rate.

Second, the need of a broader and more humane and business-like state land policy, one that will speed the development of Northern Minnesota and profit the whole state.

It is interesting to note at this time that the state conference of Democrats which met March 30 and placed the name of Winfield Scott Hammond before the party at the primaries adopted a set of resolutions in which both of these points are met squarely and without equivocation or evasion.

On the issue of state business management the Democrats said:

> The present cost of state government is appalling. The people are burdened with a heavy load of constantly increasing taxes caused by a multiplicity of unnecessary boards and bureaus, obsolete and antiquated business methods, irresponsible and unchecked squandering of state funds, and the employment of a vast army of petty officials whose chief duty seems to be that of advancing the political interests of the party in power.
> WE PLEDGE OURSELVES TO STOP THIS NEEDLESS AND EXTRAVAGANT DISSIPATION OF THE PEOPLE'S MONEY BY THE ABOLITION OF USELESS AND CUMBERSOME BOARDS AND COMMISSIONS, AND BY SYSTEMATIZING THE BUSINESS OF THE STATE TO THE END THAT STATE BUSINESS MAY BE CONDUCTED EFFICIENTLY AND ECONOMICALLY.

Fortunately, the efficiency and economy commission has given close study to the situation and with the help of experts has prepared a plan which will be a foundation on which the structure of compliance with this promise can be built.

On the issue of a new state land policy the Democrats had this very concrete and definite plank:

> Our state should adopt a systematic and business-like plan of developing and settling its rich resources of public lands, now idle and fruitless through state neglect. To this end, we recommend the creation of a state reclamation revolving fund, to be used in improving state-owned lands by draining submerged areas, by building roads to inaccessible areas, and by partial clearing of stump-covered lands; the cost of such improvements to be charged to the land benefited and recovered into the revolving fund when such land is sold. Wherever lands privately owned are benefited by such improvements, they should be assessed their full share of the cost. We urge this not only as a measure of true conservation and development for the relief of Northern Minnesota but as a business plan that will profit the entire state.

Thus the forces back of one candidate, at least, are positively in line with the two greatest needs of this state.

Siam produces a seedless grapefruit. Next thing will be to get one that will cut itself open.

THE BENEFIT OF THE SANE FOURTH.

In all the United States there were but ten Fourth of July fatalities, and only a few serious accidents.

Before the Fourth was tamed, the yearly fatalities numbered hundreds and the accidents were counted in thousands.

This in itself is enough to make it worth while to have adopted the sane Fourth generally.

That the insane Fourth has not been replaced by suitable celebrations, so that in Duluth there was nothing at all, is no argument for returning to the old days.

Between the noisy and catastrophic old Fourth and the tame Fourth with no celebration at all there is no choice so far as patriotism is concerned. There is no patriotism in noise and destruction.

But another year Duluth ought to do something, if nothing more than to spill a few hundred dollars in a fireworks display for the benefit of everybody.

Turkish rugs, says a consular report, are largely made by women and children who are paid an average of ten cents a day. Why don't they form a trust over there and reduce the cost of production?

DULUTH'S FOURTH OF JULY WEATHER.

Never have there been fairer days, anywhere or at any time, than Duluth enjoyed for the Fourth and Sunday.

Saturday's highest temperature was 77 degrees, and Sunday's highest was eighty. Saturday's lowest was 59, and Sunday's 61. But the figures cannot begin to express the ineffable glory of these twin days of purest delight, with their brilliant sunshine, their gentle warmth tempered with an eight-mile breeze from the lake, and the inexpressible luxury of the cool evenings.

Two days like that make up for a month of northeasters.

These were typical Duluth summer days, days that if the world knew them would bring the world to Duluth.

Milwaukee is talking about getting rid of five hundred and ninety-one saloons. But as that will leave something over sixteen hundred, it seems odd there should be any worry over the matter.

ROOSEVELT AND COLOMBIA.

"I took Panama."

Thus the Colonel, who is now declaring that it is an abject apology to express regret for what happened, and blackmail to pay twenty-five millions for the property taken.

But Panama belonged to Colombia—every foot of it.

Yet we "took it," we still have it, and we are going to keep it.

And Roosevelt bullies and abuses anybody that proposes to pay for it—though his administration offered a small sum in payment—or to express "regret that anything should have happened to disturb the relations between this country and Colombia!"

In his autobiography Roosevelt says: "I DEEPLY REGRETTED AND NOW DEEPLY REGRET THE FACT THAT THE COLOMBIAN GOVERNMENT RENDERED IT IMPERATIVE FOR ME TO TAKE THE ACTION I TOOK."

If it is shameful for this government to express regret formally in a treaty, what was it for the Colonel to "deeply regret?"

A Roosevelt administration may concoct a revolution and make it the pretext to "take" valuable property, and no succeeding administration may right the wrong even by a pleasant word without "forfeiting all right to public respect."

A Roosevelt may "deeply" regret an act which would not have been dreamed of if Colombia had been Germany or England; but no succeeding administration may "regret" in any form whatever without being blackguarded from hades to breakfast.

Everybody is expected to be truthful and consistent except the Colonel.

While Mrs. Wiley was on that trip to the White House, was the doctor taking care of that pure food baby?

Didn't Need the Cap.

Philadelphia Telegraph: The talk topic at a recent social session turned to the superior advantages of the highly intellectual, when this story was told by Congressman J. M. C. Smith of Michigan:

Party named Jake Meyers, who works with a gang of linemen for a Western telephone company, doesn't like to wear a hat on a hot day. One afternoon he was digging away in the sweltering sun, when an elderly woman living close by saw him and offered him a hat belonging to her husband. Not wishing to offend the woman, Jake took the bonnet.

"Here is the hat you loaned me, madam," said Jake, returning the chapeau later in the day. "I am very much obliged to you."

"You must keep it," insisted the motherly one. "You will bake your brains out if you don't wear something on your head this hot weather."

"Oh, no, I won't, madam," was the positive response of Jake. "I haven't got any brains. If I had I wouldn't be digging postholes."

All for Johnny.

New York Times: Mrs. Briggs is so good looking that Mr. Briggs seldom finds it in his heart to be angry with her, but he was really cross when she returned from Florida.

"I understand," he said, "that you passed yourself off as a widow while you were away. How about it?"

She admitted it.

"You ought to be ashamed of yourself," said Briggs, "but I suppose you are not."

"Of course I am not," said Mrs. Briggs serenely. "I only did it on Johnny's account. I wanted him to have a good time, and he had it. You have no idea how kind all the gentlemen were to him."

A Refining Influence.

Snow—"Well, speaking personally, we have been fined and refined."

Roosevelt the Reactionary

Editorial in the New York World.

The tariff part of Mr. Roosevelt's Pittsburg speech reads as if it had been written by Uncle Joe Cannon or Sereno E. Payne.

The trust part of his speech reads as if it had been written by Frank A. Vanderlip of the National City bank.

Mr. Roosevelt offers himself to Wall Street and extortionate protection as the White Hope of reactionary Republicanism. He is more than ready to reaffirm the economic principles of Hanna and Aldrich. All that he asks in return is that the Republican party shall rid itself of certain minor bosses, like Barnes and Penrose, who have incurred his personal displeasure and are personally offensive to him.

In respect to economic principles, however, Mr. Roosevelt stands where Barnes and Penrose stand, where Cannon and Payne and Aldrich and Gallinger stand, where every Republican reactionary stands, where Wall Street stands and where all predatory wealth stands. His tariff program is the tariff program that was accelerated by the lobby of the National Manufacturers' association and that the World exposed through the Mulhall correspondence. His trust program is the good old "co-operative" system for which Wall Street always clamors whenever it is threatened with something substantial.

The Democrats, of course, have messed up the tariff beyond description. In one breath Mr. Roosevelt finds that "the cost of living has not been reduced," and in the next breath he finds that the employer has sometimes "been able to struggle along with loss of profits, sometimes he has had to close his shop" because he could not meet the cheaper prices of foreign competition. In other words, tariff reduction has lowered prices, but the lowering of prices has not reduced the cost of living.

It is the same way with the trust question. The Wilson program is hopelessly inadequate because it does not destroy monopoly and because it forbids monopoly by compelling competition.

In the end, "the polices of the administration should be rebuked by the people, and senators and congressmen returned to Washington who will strive to end these policies." That is what Wall Street wants. That is what every form of special privilege wants. That is what every sinister financial and corporation interest in the country wants. That is the golden dream of a plutocracy which realizes that in Woodrow Wilson it has found a master, not a servant.

Reactionary Republicanism now knows the terms on which it can get Theodore Roosevelt. And it can get him cheap.

What Next?

Farm, Stock and Home: The primaries over, and the candidates for the many offices from governor down having been selected, some of them wisely, others without any knowledge as to their fitness for the serious business of running the affairs of the state, the problem now before the voter is to choose those men who will best serve his interests.

The natural tendency is to let things political slide until a few days before election and then make up one's mind, largely along lines of political prejudice. That is a splendid way to get "machine" rule. The politicians have it all figured out on that basis, and as long as the people vote, not their business judgment, but their political prejudices, the "machine" will exist, no matter how loudly reform may be talked, and no matter what party may be in power.

There is especial need this fall for the selection of men who will upset the plans of the politicians. Such men need not be "agin" everything and everybody. If so they will accomplish nothing. What the state today needs is a legislature made up of men who are not merely personally but collectively honest—who will treat the affairs of the state as they would the affairs of a great private business.

So it is now time to study the candidates. Have they shown business capacity as well as moral uprightedness? If not, do you want to send them to help spend your tax money? And remember that it is the legislature and not the governor that is responsible for the growth in taxation, and the direction that that growth takes. The governor many advise, but he cannot control. If the men sent to the senate and house are improvident and wasteful it is easy for the looters to pad appropriation bills and easy for them to get them passed, and then it is practically impossible for the governor to stop the waste, because vicious appropriations are tied up with expenditures that are necessary.

It is all well enough to say "Elect a governor with the backbone to prevent waste!" Doesn't it seem wiser to the reader to elect a legislature that is honest enough, and has business sense enough to prevent waste at the start?

From this time on until election day keep an eye on the candidates, and decide, without regard to politics, whether they are the sort that one would trust in charge of his own private business. And when such a man is found, work for him, vote for him and elect him!

One Way to Get Votes.

The Popular Magazine: When Tom Shipp was running for congress in Indianapolis, he received a visit one day from a colored man.

"Mr. Shipp," said the visitor, "you've got a bunch of negro voters in your district, and they probably want some money."

"Yes," agreed Shipp weakly.

"Now, Mr. Shipp," pursued the self-elected adviser, "don't you go paying those fellows individually. That's not the way to handle them. The right way is to find an influential negro, the most solid citizen among them, and give him the money and let him distribute it as he sees fit for the delivery of the votes."

Being opposed to the use of money in elections, and not having any money anyway, Shipp welcomed this advice with a long and well-developed silence.

"Mr. Shipp," said the visitor finally in an extremely confidential tone, "I see got a lot of influence among those niggers."

Philanthropy and Justice.

Edward T. Devine in the Survey: The appeal to justice is good but it is not enough. Not theology only but social economy makes Portia's confession that in the course of justice none of us should see salvation. The total annihilation of injustice might leave us bankrupt of progress, prosperity and good will. The appeal of the future as of all the past is for a genuine philanthropy of which justice is a part, for a passionate concern that our neighbor shall have from us not just dealing only, but the electric touch of human sympathy and understanding, the partnership of man with man which keeps us above the brutes and below the gods on the more congenial levels of our common humanity.

"Full Speed Ahead"

Editorial in the Omaha World-Herald.

In these days of political outspokenness, when so many newspapers seek rather to express sound and sane judgment than to promote partisan advantage, some of the best Democratic editorials appear in Republican papers. For example, no Democratic newspaper will be able to produce an abler defense of the position taken by President Wilson in his speech to the Virginia editors, than appeared editorially in the Springfield Republican. And the beauty of it is that the Republican editorial was published before the president made his speech. The Republican editorial is so well and fairly reasoned, it so clearly illuminates the relationship between business and present-day politics, that we can devote this space to no better purpose than its reproduction entire. The Republican says:

The Democratic congress will stand better in the public estimation by far if it makes the most of its opportunity to carry out the administration program, while it has the power. If it turns tail and runs in a condition of terror because opponents are trying to frighten it from its task by crying business depression, so much the worse for it. The Republican hopes that congress will remain in session until the Democratic policy for the further regulation of monopoly is worked out in the form of law; and the conservation bills should be included in the program. If it takes all summer, let it be all summer.

There is nothing novel or unexpected in the legislation which has passed the house and which is now pending in the senate. As much as the tariff law and the income tax it was clearly foreshadowed by the presidential campaign of 1912. Scarcely any subject was more prominent in the campaign discussion than that of the trusts. All parties professed a purpose to destroy private monopoly; they differed in their methods. How thoroughly committed they all were appeared in the fact that the Democratic bills recently passed by the house, exposed to criticism as they were from various viewpoints, received Republican and Progressive votes. The trade commission bill was favored in principle in the Republican and Progressive platforms; and the railroad securities bill has virtually no party opposition in the country today. If there is anything in election returns, even the labor sections of the Clayton bill were overwhelmingly approved and demanded by the voters in 1912.

In a broad way, the bills embody the present consensus of public opinion. The bulk of the people want private monopoly destroyed; but they are not ready, because they are not convinced, to accept the Socialistic solution of the problem. There is sure to be agitation of this issue for years to come, and business must put up with it for the simple reason that we are necessarily in for a period of more or less experimentation in determining the correct relations between government and all enterprises having monopolistic tendencies. The utterly artificial, the palpably forced, the viciously immoral and flagrantly unfair methods used to establish so many of the great monopolistic industrial combinations in the past have left an immense number of citizens still wedded to their old faith in competition; and their demand is that before we go toward Socialism another inch the competitive principle shall have as far and thorough a try-out as law and government can give to it. The pending bills attempt to meet that demand.

If business men, big and little, would see in the situation no rest from agitation so long as great bodies of voters remain unconvinced, one way or the other, by the teaching of experience, they would join in demanding the enactment of the pending measures at the earliest possible moment consistent with careful and unequivocal legislation. But the legislation should be pushed through without their aid, if their opposition is implacable. Let us have something done. Postponement can bring no relief from political warfare over the trust question, but the actual inauguration of a definite policy in practice must bring results in a few years which would enlighten the people and guide them toward a solution that should be fairly permanent.

The complaint that this kind of lawmaking will disturb business is doubtless true. But business is already disturbed. It has been disturbed for years. The panic of 1907 and the ensuing severe depression in trade under President Roosevelt were more disturbing developments than one often sees. President Taft was bitterly reproached by the so-called big interests for disturbing business by his suits for the dissolution of trusts. The Roosevelt and Taft administrations never got beyond lawsuits. What we want now is a distinct trial, under laws as favorable as possible to the test, of the competitive principle in large business operations; and with such laws provided immediately, the country could settle down for three years of genuine rest from further legislation along these lines. For this administration would not reopen the question, having accomplished its task, while no political changes as the result of the next autumn elections could make more legislation possible in the next congress.

The second half of the Wilson administration should be a period of freedom from legislative "harassment" of business such as we have not experienced in years, in case the president is permitted to carry through his program at this session. By the time the presidential campaign of 1916 had opened, the people would have learned enough by experience of the Democratic tariff law, the Democratic income tax, the Democratic bank and currency law, the Democratic laws for the regulation of monopoly, to form something besides a snap judgment concerning them, and it must be to the verdict of 1916, rather than the verdict of 1914, that the administration itself must appeal if a fairly mature and intelligent opinion of its work is to be recorded.

A Tribute to the Candidate.

The Popular Magazine: One morning, when Tom Shipp was running for congress in Indianapolis, a man called him up on the telephone and requested an interview with him. Shipp had a busy day before him, and intimated that opportunities for interviews were limited.

"Well, Tom," said the voice over the telephone, "you certainly ought to talk to me. I've known you ever since you were a little bit of a kid. You know that, don't you?"

"Yes," said Tom mendaciously. "I know that."

"And I've loved you as if you were my own son," continued the voice. "I've always been devoted to your interests. You know that, don't you, Tom?"

"Certainly," replied Tom, whose arm was beginning to ache from holding the receiver.

"You say you're too busy to see me in your office?" asked the admirer in an incredulous tone.

"I've got an engagement somewhere else," explained the candidate.

"Where will you be about half an hour from now?"

Shipp considered for a moment.

"In the lobby of the Claypool hotel," he gave the information.

"What part of the lobby?"

"Say, why do you want to know that?" asked Shipp.

"Well, you see," confided the other, "I want to be sure of finding you—and I really don't know what you look like."

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, July 6.—One of the penalties of being president of the United States is having a doctor constantly at one's heels. Either an army or a navy physician is assigned to stick around the White House and guard the president's health. The first thing Woodrow Wilson does each morning when he comes downstairs is to let young Dr. Grayson have a look at his tongue. Sometimes he even lets the doctor feel his pulse or put his ear to his chest and listen to his heart tick. Obviously it must be an infernal nuisance to get up every morning knowing that as soon as one is dressed one must stick out one's tongue and let somebody look at it. Tongues are so much alike in their general contour that it is not easy for one to feel any thrill of pride in such an exhibition. Even if one had a particularly clever design of tongue there would in time be a certain monotony in showing it morning after morning to the same person.

Moreover, if there is any truth in the modern theories of mental suggestion it is a wonder the president has any health at all, with a doctor hanging around him all the time. The president comes downstairs feeling chipper and full of ginger, with never a thought of indigestion. Then the doctor looks at his tongue and frowns. Immediately the president is likely to begin feeling sorry for himself.

President Wilson, however, is greatly attached to Dr. Grayson, and likes to have him along with him. Almost any day one may read in the papers: "In the afternoon the president went out for a game of golf with Dr. Grayson." Or, "accompanied by Dr. Grayson, the president went for an automobile ride."

Within a short time after he became president Mr. Wilson made Dr. Grayson his main companion. But he likes to have him around not because he is a doctor so much as in spite of the fact that he is a doctor. The real reason for the president's attachment to Dr. Grayson lies in the fact that the doctor has little to say, and usually does not talk until talked to. He has the gift of silence. President Wilson is a long way from being an unsociable man, and he likes polite conversation as well as anybody. But after working hard until the middle of the afternoon at being the Big Chief of the nation the president likes to sit back quietly in his auto without the need of using up any further energy in providing small talk for his companion. He may desire to take the initiative in the matter himself. In this connection one may remark that the president has a knack at dropping off to sleep in an automobile. He may be riding along viewing the scenery and as wide awake as anybody. But if it occurs to him that he would like to get a little sleep out of his system he can shut his eyes and lose consciousness almost before one could say Jack Johnson.

Dr. Grayson, whom we have just been discussing, looks much less like a physician than one would expect. One unconsciously pictures a man who ministers to the health of a president as wearing a Van Dyke beard, an abdomen, and two different kinds of eye glasses. Grayson has none of these things. He is below average height, of rather slight build, smooth-faced and with the earnest expression of an accountant or a teller in a bank rather than a physician.

Up in Minnesota dwelt an old man who had a great deal of money that he was extremely reluctant about spending. He also had two charming and vivacious daughters who worried constantly because they were missing a heap of fun that would have fallen to their lot if father had been willing to spend it. One of the foremost ambitions of these daughters was to make a journey abroad, and they well knew that the cost would not put even a noticeable dent in papa's pile. They coaxed and coaxed, but he failed to catch their enthusiasm over the project. He said it would not only take much money, but would be a tiresome thing to go through, and that they were all vastly better off at home.

In desperation the girls one day confided their troubles to Senator Moses E. Clapp, whom they had known for some time. They believed that a man of Clapp's resourcefulness and sagacity would be able to think of a way. And he did.

"Every time there is a moving picture exhibition here of travel scenes," suggested Clapp, "take your father to it and in a little while he'll become so interested that he will desire to visit those foreign places and take you along."

They tried it and in the next few months father had a glimpse of pretty much everything from the banks of the Nile to the fjords of Norway.

When the time seemed to be ripe one of the girls suggested:

"My! wouldn't you like to visit all those wonderful countries abroad!"

"Should say not!" replied father. "Wouldn't I be a mutt now to spend my money to go to Europe when I've seen it all in the moving pictures?"

A Blotted Score.

"A blotted score," I said, and tossed it by,
But he, with reverent hand and meaning smile
Lifted its pages to the instrument,
And o'er the ivory keys his fingers drew,
Ah, what a strain! My listening soul threw off
The heavy burden of her wild desires,
And memory hushed her sad, importunate song.
In the swift-flowing music's tide I flung
My baffled hopes and my ambitions vain,
As a child throws aside its withered flowers,
And sudden calm upon my spirit fell—
I bowed my head and dreamed of death and heaven.

O life of mine! Albeit thy weary years
Perplex me with their seeming emptiness;
Though good and ill, sharp joy and sharper grief,
Success and failure, discord, harmony,
Stand side by side in contradiction strange—
A purer sight than mine perchance discerns
Some heavenly meaning in thy hopeless maze
And, at the last, the Master's tender touch
May draw from thee a symphony divine.

Governorship Talk

What the State Press Thinks

Progress the Victor.

Alexandria Post-News: The nominations for governor in last week's primary election have clearly shown that the more progressive elements of all parties are in the ascendancy in Minnesota. The final victory of Congressman Hammond over Daniel W. Lawler proved that fact beyond a doubt. The latter contest was overshadowed by the Republican gubernatorial race and Mr. Hammond barely escaped defeat at the hands of the old-line Democrats who hold a vested right in the Democratic vote of our large municipalities—a vote which largely follows the flag for the spoils of office rather than for service to country. Mr. Hammond's cause was espoused by the more progressive Democrats and that support came more largely from the country districts. Mr. Lee's nomination was accomplished through a union of all forces opposed to the continuation of the present state administration. That support came largely from the so-called "progressive Republicans," who opposed Governor Eberhart two years ago and to whom Mr. Lee's platform made a strong appeal, but also represented the entire opposition to Governor Eberhart and his administration. Mr. Lee has promised that if elected he will give the state a reform administration, an administration of economy and efficiency, and that he will overthrow all those interests which have so seriously handicapped the work of legislation in the past, especially the brewery interests. Hugh T. Halbert, the nominee of the Progressives, represents in the highest sense the principles of his party and those principles are the highest which have ever been promulgated by any party since the days of Abraham Lincoln. On state issues, his party has emphatically declared for woman suffrage and county option. Personally, these candidates are able, clean men, men of ideals and representative of their parties and their nominations are a source of satisfaction to those who have supported them for this high office. These progressive victories are one of the encouraging signs of the day.

Not So Cock-Sure.

Anoka Union: The Lee gang is not feeling so well, thank you, as they did when they thought Lawler was nominated.

Sure It Does, Bill.

Beaudette Region: It looks like Hammond for governor.

Good Men to Pick From.

St. James Plaindealer: The people of St. James, irrespective of party, were very glad that Mr. Hammond won the Democratic nomination for governor. It means that whether Lee, Halbert or Hammond should be elected in November, Minnesota is sure to have a man of large caliber and strong character for governor. Mr. Hammond's chances for being elected are as good as any of the other candidates.

Indications Point That Way.

Cambridge Independent-Press: Four months is a long time in which to campaign and at this date there is no telling how the cards will turn. Minnesota is usually considered safely Republican and it remains to be seen if a Hammond can succeed as well as a Johnson.

Wreck It in November.

Monticello News: For the next two years it will be the Lee machine, and it will be an iron-clad one, too, for no man in the state believes in the machine more than William Lee, and state house boys are already jumping from Eberhart's wreck to Lee's machine wherever there is a chance, but most of the boys will walk home because there's no room.

S—Sh!

Little Falls Herald: Governor Eberhart says Lee did not support the Republican administration in 1912. Which means that Eberhart and his friends are under no obligation to support Lee.

Those Happy Roosevelt Days!

Johnstown, Pa., Democrat: More than 2,000 men march to city hall at Detroit and demand work.—Jan. 28, 1908.

Twenty Years Ago

From The Herald of this date, 1894.

Judge Stearns, J. A. Willard and A. R. Macfarlane have disposed of all their stock in the Duluth Street Railway company to Eastern parties. It is not known whether Messrs. Mendenhall, Hartley and Lowry have sold any of their stock, but it is believed that the controlling interest is now held in the East.

The American yacht Vigilant was beaten yesterday by the Prince of Wales' cutter Britannia, admitted to be the fastest boat in Europe, in a race for the Muir memorial cup over the course on the firth of Clyde. A collision occurred between the Valkyrie and the Satanita, which resulted in the sinking of the Valkyrie and the serious disabling of the Satanita.

There was considerable interest taken in a horse race at West Duluth on the Fourth. The flyers were A. J. Filiatrault's Tom, driven by himself, and J. A. Scott's Bessie Lee, driven by Charles Birch. The race took place on First avenue west and Filiatrault's horse won two out of three heats.

Chris Caustens, the painter on Dodge street, Lakeside, lost the thumb and little finger of his right hand, together with portions of other fingers, by the explosion of a giant firecracker on the night of the Fourth.

In the bicycle meet at Superior on the Fourth the Duluthians had things pretty much their own way. Ed Mellen of Duluth won the first time prize. There was a 7-mile handicap road race. Mellen made the distance in 18:52. Miller of Superior took second prize, his time being 18:59. The other prizes were taken by Duluth riders.

The steamship Mirania, which has been chartered for Dr. Fred A. Cook's Arctic expedition, has arrived at New York. Among those who will accompany Dr. Cook are Prof. William H. Brewer of Yale, Prof. S. F. Wright of Oberlin, Prof. B. C. Jillson of Pittsburg, Prof. L. L. Dyke of Kansas and Prof. Elias P. Lyon of Harvard.

Miss Mary Wishart, deputy clerk of the United States court, left on the United Empire last evening for a six weeks' visit to New Jersey.

Mrs. Rebecca Miller and her daughters, Clara and Regina, left last evening for Southern Wisconsin, where they will visit for two months.

New York Audiences Not Representative.

Walter Prichard Eaton in the American Magazine: During the past year the American theatrical business has descended with greater rapidity, perhaps, than ever before toward a chaos of mismanagement. We have a vast country, with ninety millions of people, with thousands of theaters, with scores of cities large enough to support excellent local theatrical companies playing at reasonable prices. Yet practically all our plays are produced by a group of men operating in New York, and the success or failure of those plays through the country depends upon their reception in New York.

This New York reception, in turn, is not determined by representative audiences, but by audiences made up for the most part of people able to pay $2 (or more often $2.50) for a seat; people out for an evening's pleasure, as all theatergoers are, to be sure—but usually "pleasure" for them must be spiced highly, must have some element of unusual novelty, for their appetites are jaded. Many of them, as F. P. Adams once said, see as through a wine glass, lightly; or else that they are narrowly provincial in their views and tastes, for New York is the most provincial city in America. The people who would naturally sit in the galleries, and we are a gallery nation, as the number of income taxpayers attests, do not sit in the gallery any more. They go to moving pictures, because the pictures are cheaper, or else they stay at home and read, or else they don't live in New York any longer.

Yet without the guarantee of a New York "run" a play cannot succeed through the country, because the business has been so dishonestly conducted that the New York run is the only guarantee an outside town has that the play has any merit at all. The tastes of the Broadway "two-dollar crowd," then, absolutely dictate the style and spirit of our plays, hamper our dramatists at every turn, narrow their choice of subjects."

In the Wrong Pew.

Philadelphia Telegraph: Judge Richard C. Flannigan of Michigan told this one at a recent banquet when reference was made to the great medical specialists:

Some time ago an esteemed citizen who was having some trouble with his stomach consulted a specialist. For a moment the great doctor looked the patient over and then came the questioning.

"What are you eating?" asked the physician. "For instance, what did you have for lunch?"

"Let me see," thoughtfully responded the patient. "Some soup, soft shell crabs, a little turkey, some salad, pickles, cheese, ice cream, coffee and a few things like that."

"That's what I thought," answered the doctor, turning away. "You don't need a stomach specialist; what you want is a brain specialist."

PRESIDENT WILSON WOULD SQUARE PUBLIC POLICIES BY THE IMMORTAL DECLARATION

Philadelphia, July 6.—Advocating a modern application of the Declaration of Independence by applying its principles to the business, the politics and the foreign policies of America, President Wilson in his Fourth of July oration here thrilled a huge crowd assembled in Independence square, within a few feet of where the original declaration was signed.

The president touched on Mexico, the Panama tolls repeal controversy, his anti-trust program, business conditions and his ideas of modern patriotism. Following is his address:

"Mr. Chairman and Fellow-citizens: We are assembled today to celebrate the 138th anniversary of the birth of the United States. I suppose we can more vividly realize the circumstance of the birth standing on this historic spot, than it would be possible to realize it anywhere else.

"The Declaration of Independence was written in Philadelphia. It was adopted in this historic building. I have just had the privilege of sitting in the chair of the great man who presided over those whose deliberations resulted in its adoption. Here my hand rests on the table upon which the Declaration was signed. We can almost feel we are in the visible and tangible presence of a great historic transaction.

Preliminary to War.

"But have you ever read the Declaration of Independence? When you have heard it read, have you attended to its sentences? The Declaration of Independence is not a Fourth of July oration. The Declaration of Independence was a document preliminary to war. It involved a vital piece of business, not a piece of rhetoric. And if you will get further down in the reading than its preliminary passages, where it quotes about the rights of man, you will see that it is a very specific body of declarations concerning the business of the day—not the business of our day, for the matter with which it deals is past—but the business of revolution, the business of 1776.

"The Declaration of Independence does not mean anything to us, merely in its general statements, unless we can append to it a similarly specific body of particulars as to what we consider our liberty to consist of.

Substance of Liberty.

"Liberty does not consist in mere general declarations as to the rights of man. It consists in the translation of those declarations into definite action. Therefore, standing here, where the Declaration was adopted, reading its businesslike sentences, we ought to ask ourselves what is there in it for us?

"There is nothing in it for us unless we can translate it into terms of our own condition, and of our own lives. We must reduce it to what the lawyers call a bill of particulars. It contains a bill of particulars—the bill of particulars of 1776—and if we are to revitalize it, we are to fill it with a bill of particulars of 1914.

"The task to which we have to address ourselves is a proof that we are worthy of the men who drew this great Declaration, by showing we know what they would have done in our circumstance.

Congressional Patriots.

"Patriotism consists of some very practical things; practical, in that they belong to every day life, in that they belong to no extraordinary distinction, but to those things which are associated with our every day commonplace duty. There are some gentlemen in Washington, for example, who are showing themselves to be patriotic in a way that does not attract very much attention. The members of the house and senate, who stay in hot Washington to maintain a quorum of the houses and transact public business, are performing an act of patriotism. I honor them for it, and I am mighty glad to stay there and stick by them uneil it is over.

"It is patriotic also to know what the facts are and to face them with candor.

Business Conditions.

"I have heard a great many facts stated about the present business conditions in this country, for example; a great many allegations of facts, at any rate, and it is strange that these facts as stated do not tally with each other. Now the truth always matches the truth, and when I find gentlemen insisting that everything is going wrong when it is demonstrable that most things are going right, I wonder what they are trying to do. Are they trying to serve the country, or are they trying to serve something smaller than the country? Are they trying to put hope into the hearts of men who work and toil every day, or rather are they putting discouragement and despair into these hearts? If they love America and anything is wrong, it is their duty to put their hands on the task of getting it right.

"And when the facts are known and acknowledged; the duty of all patriotic men is to accept them in candor and address themselves to common counsel and to work in harmony and universal concert.

Bank Law and Bankers.

"I have had some experiences in the last fourteen months which have not been entirely refreshing. It was universally admitted that the banking system of this country needed reorganization. We set the best minds we could find to the task of discovering the best methods of reorganization. We met with hardly anything but criticism from the bankers of this country. We met with hardly anything but resistance from the bankers of this country, or at least from the majority of those who said anything. And yet, just as soon as the act was passed, on the very next day there was a universal chorus of applause from the bankers of the United States.

"Now if it was wrong the day before it was passed, why was it right the day after it was passed? Where had been the candor of criticism by the concert of counsel which makes a great nation successful? It is not patriotic to concert measures against one another; it is patriotic to concert measures for one another.

The Declaration Historic.

"You know the Declaration of Independence has in one sense lost its significance. Nobody believed we could be independent when that document was written. Now, nobody would dare to doubt we are independent. As a Declaration of Independence, it is a mere historic document. The independence is a fact so stupendous that it can be measured only by the size of the energy, ability, wealth and power of one of the greatest nations of the world.

"But it is one thing to be independent and it is another thing to know what to do with your independence. It is one thing to come to your majority and another thing to know what you are going to do with your life and your energies. One of the most serious questions for sober minded men to address themselves to in these United States is, what are we going to do with the influence and power of this great nation? Are we going to play the old role of using that power for our own aggrandizement and material benefit? You know what that means—that means we shall use it to make the people of other nations suffer in the way in which we said it was intolerable to suffer when we uttered the Declaration of Independence.

"Dollar Diplomacy."

"The department of state of the United States is constantly called upon to back up commercial enterprises and the industrial enterprises of the United States in foreign countries, and at at one time went so far in that direction that all its diplomacy was designated as 'dollar diplomacy.' It was for supporting every man who wanted to earn anything anywhere if he was an American. Now there is a limit to that.

"There is no man more interested than I am in carrying the enterprises of the United States all over the world. I was interested in it long before I was suspected of being a politician. I have been preaching it year upon year as the great thing which lay in the future of the United States to show her wit, skill, enterprise and influence in every country of the world.

"But there is a limit to that which was laid upon us more than any other nation in the world. We set up this nation and we proposed to set it up on the rights of man. We did not name any differences between one race and another; we did not set up any barriers against any particular race or people, but opened our gates to the world and said for all men who wish to be free to come to us and they will be welcome. We said this independence is not merely for us—a selfish thing for our own private use—but for everybody to whom we can find the means of extending it.

Enterprise Abroad.

"Now we cannot, with that oath taken in our youth; we cannot, with that great idea set before us when we were a young people, and practically only a scant 3,000,000 people, take upon ourselves, now that we are 100,000,000, any more conception of duty than what we entertained at that time. So if American enterprise in foreign countries, particularly in those foreign countries which are not strong enough to resist us, takes the shape of imposing upon and exploiting the mass of the people in that country, it ought to be brought to a stop, not encouraged.

"I am willing to get anything for an American that money can buy, except the rights of other men. I will not help any man buy a power he should not exercise over his fellow being. You know what a big question there is in Mexico. Eighty-five per cent of the Mexican people have never been allowed to have a look in, in regard to their government and the rights which have been exercised by the other fifteen per cent. Do you suppose that circumstance is not sometimes in my thought? I know the American people have a heart that will beat just as strong for those millions in Mexico as it will beat for any other millions anywhere else in the world, and when they once know what is at stake in Mexico they will know what ought to be done in Mexico.

Those in the Background.

"You hear a great deal stated about the property loss in Mexico and I deplore it with all my heart. Upon the conclusion of the present disturbed condition in Mexico undoubtedly those who have lost properties ought to be compensated. Man's individual rights have met with many deplorable circumstances, but back of it all is the struggle of the people, and while we think of the one in the foreground, let us not forget the other in the background.

"Every patriotic American is a man who is not niggardly and selfish in the things he needs that make for human liberty and the rights of man, but wants to share with the whole world. And he is never so proud of the great flag as when it means for other people as well as for himself the symbol of liberty and freedom. I would be ashamed of this flag if it ever did anything outside of America that we would not permit it to do inside of America. We stand for the rights of men, women and children who make up the vitality of every nation.

Honesty Perfectly Simple.

"The world is becoming more complicated every day. Therefore, no man ought to be foolish enough to think he understands it; and that is the reason why I am so glad to know there are some simple things in the world. One of those simple things is principle.

"Honesty is a perfectly simple thing. It is hard for me to believe that when a man's dishonest he does not know it. It is hard for me to believe, under most circumstances, when a man has to choose between two ways, that he does not know which is the right way and which is the wrong way. And no man who has chosen the wrong way ought ever to come to Independence Square; he ought to be put out of Independence Square. That is not where he belongs. He ought not to come within the sound of a voice uttered where the Declaration of Independence was adopted.

Dishonor vs. Free Tolls.

"So I say it is patriotic, sometimes, to regard the honor of this country in preference to its material interests. Would you rather be despised by all nations of the world as incapable of keeping your treaty obligations, or would you rather have free tolls for American ships? The treaty may have been a mistake, but its meaning was unmistakable. When I have made a promise as a man, I try to keep it. The most honorable and distinguished nation in the world is the nation that can keep its promises to its own hurt.

"I want to say parenthentically, that I don't think anybody was hurt. I am not enthusiastic for subsidies to a monopoly, and nobody can get me enthusiastic on that subject. But assuming that was a matter for enthusiasm, I am much more enthusiastic for keeping the integrity of the United States absolutely unquestioned and unsullied.

Patriotism and Popularity.

"Popularity is not always successful patriotism. The most patriotic man is sometimes the man who goes in the direction in which he thinks he is right, whether or not he thinks anybody agrees with him, because it is patriotic to sacrifice yourself it you think you are right. Do not blame anybody else if they do not agree with you. That is not the point. Do not die with bitterness in your heart because you do not convince anybody. But die happy because you believe you tried to serve your country without selling your soul.

"Those were grim days—the days of '76. Those gentlemen did not attach their names to the Declaration of Independence on the table expecting a holiday the next day. That Fourth of July was not a holiday. They attached their signatures to that document; if they failed, the extreme likelihood was that everyone would be hanged for the failure. They were committing treason in the interest of the liberty of 3,000,000 people in America and all the rest of the world was against them. All the rest of the world smiled with a cynical incredulity at the audacious undertaking. Do you think if those gentlemen, if they could see this great nation, would regard that they had done anything to mae themselves unpopular and to draw the gaze of the world in astonishment and condescending surprise?

Starting an Idea.

"Every idea has got to be started by somebody, and it is a lonely thing to start anything. Yet you have got to start it if there is any man's blood in you, and if you love the country that you are pretending to work for. I am sometimes very much interested in seeing gentlemen supposing that popularity is the way to success in America. The way to success in America is to show you are not afraid of anybody except God and His judgment. If I did not believe that I would not believe in democracy. If I did not believe that I would not believe people could govern themselves. If I did not believe that the moral judgment in the minds of men, as well as at the tribunal of God, I could not believe in popular government.

"But I do believe these things and therefore, I earnestly believe in the democracy, not only of America, but in the power of an awakened people to govern and control its own affairs. So it is very inspiring to come to this that may be called the original fountain of liberty and independence in America, and take these draughts of patriotic feelings which seem to renew the very blood in America's veins.

Down in Washington.

"Down in Washington, sometimes when the days are hot and business presses intolerably, and so many things to do that it does not seem possible to do anything in the way it ought to be done, it is always possible to lift one's eyes above the past for the moment, and as it were, to take into one's whole being that great thing of which we are all a part—that great body of American feeling and American principles.

"No man could do the work he has to do in Washington if he allows himself to feel lonely. He has to make himself feel he is part of the people of the United States, and then he cannot feel lonely. And my dream is this, as the years go on and the world knows more and more of America, it also will bring out this fountain of youth and renewal; that it will also turn to America for those moral inspirations that lie at the base of human freedom; that it will never fear America unless it finds itself engaged in some enterprise inconsistent with the rights of humanity; that America will come to that day when all shall know she puts human rights above all other rights, and that her flag is the flag not only of America, but the flag of humanity.

"What other great people, I ask, has devoted itself to this exalted ideal? To what other nation in the world can you look for instant sympathy that thrills the whole body politic when men anywhere are fighting for their rights.

America Lifted the Light.

"I don't know that there ever will be another Declaration of Independence, a statement of grievances of mankind; but I believe if any such document is ever drawn, it will be drawn in the spirit of the American Declaration of Independence, and that America has lifted the light that will shine unto all generations and guide the feet of mankind to the goal of justice, liberty and peace."

HEALTH TALKS

By William Brady, M.D.

Fashion a Factor of Bad Health

IN at least three details of fashionable dress we have ample reason for complaint against the decrees of the arbitrary Dame. Hats for the male slaves, and corsets for the female slaves, and shoes for all the slaves of Mistress Fashion, give the skin specialists, the specialists for women and the orthopedic pecialists altogether too much work to do.

In these days of gymnastic dances and outdoor freedom if a woman here and there goes uncorseted, her heavy-harnessed sisters are pretty sure to criticize the departure. Yet it is certain that the corset has done and still does much harm to the health of women.

Common Sense No Match for Fashion.

Likewise a youth who ventures forth hatless, for the sake of his falling hair, exposes himself to all sorts of uncomplimentary jibes from his weaker brethren who wear just what their hatters order. Nevertheless there is no other reasonable excuse for the limitation of baldness to the male; his hat deserves the blame.

Most of us are plastic as putty in the hands of the shoe clerk. We enter the shop with the idea that we are going to buy a pair of shoes that will fit our feet. The clerk sells us the latest thing, and if our feet fail to fit the shoes, so much the worse for our feet.

If there is a factor of suffering for people of both sexes and all ages, that could be avoided by independence, of the dictates of fashion, it is bad footwear. All the corns, bunions, broken arches and related foot troubles of the millions are due to incorrectly shaped shoes.

Tendency to Improvement in Fashion.

Fortunately there is apparently an effort on the part of present day shoe manufacturers and corset manufacturers to consider the requirements of health in designing their products. Women's corsets are incomparably better than they were a generation ago. Shoes are gradually hewing around to the straight inside line. Bunions are becoming unfashionable, and corns are scarcely to be mentioned in polite circles.

Why should a child with normal feet attempt to remould those feet to suit the ideas of a shoemaker? Why should a young man with a thatch of hair wear a germ-protector in pleasant weather? Why should a young woman without deformity encase herself in a spinal brace and abdominal supporter?

Because it is the fashion.

Questions and Answers.

Miss E. R. B. writes: Will you kindly state what difference, if any, there is between an oculist and an optometrist?

REPLY.

An oculist is a physician, a legally qualified doctor of medicine, who devotes his attention wholly to the eye. An optometrist is not a physician, but a man who holds himself out as being able to prescribe and furnish spectacles.

Despondent writes: I have stomach trouble so bad that I am unable to work. I have a family to support, and things look pretty gloomy. I have always tried to take good care of myself. Never drank, smoked or abused myself in any way. This trouble started over a year ago. I have lost weight and strength. It seems to be a very obstinate form of dyspepsia, kind of a nervous dyspepsia, I am told. Will you please suggest a good diet?

REPLY.

No. I haven't any knowledge of your case. "Stomach trouble" and "nervous dyspepsia" both sound vague. Why don't you consult a good doctor? Or if you can't afford a doctor, why not enter a public hospital or visit a free clinic? The first thing for you to do is to find out what ails you. Don't fool away your time and money on remedies for "dyspepsia," because you'll be disappointed in the result.

BITTER ROW OVER ARCHDUKE'S FUNERAL

Friends of Duchess and Those of Husband Are Alike Angry.

Vienna, July 6.—Now that the bodies of the murdered Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife, the duchess of Hohenberg, repose beneath the castle chapel at Artstetten, a bitter controversy is raging over the manner in which the funeral was conducted. The newspapers are devoting columns to the discussion. Moderate opinion inclines to the belief that the court officials made the cremeonial too painfully correct, while the friends of the duchess are indignant at the emphasis laid on her inferior birth.

According to reports published in the leading Vienna papers, the reception of the bodies at Paechlarn, across the Danube, was attended by scandalous proceedings. A violent thunderstorm upset all the prearranged ceremonies, and the coffins were hurriedly carried to the waiting room of the station, where they were placed on the stone-paved floor and remained there two hours or more.

Smoked Near Coffins.

Meanwhile the volunteer firemen, who were supposed to be assisting the local gendarmerie in controlling the arrangements, were drinking beer and eating sausages, while the more important persons strolled about smoking cigars in close proximity to the coffin containing the body of the late heir to the throne.

The torrential rain drove everybody into the waiting room, and, says one account, all the ordinary rules of behavior seemed to have been forgotten and the scene might be described as resembling the turmoil and noise of a country fair.

The highest court functionaries are attacked for their part in the conduct of the funeral, and it is said that but for the personal intervention of the emperor, the body of the duchess would not have been permitted in the hofburg chapel, but would have been conveyed alone direct from the Vienna station to Artstetten.

BIG CIRCUS COUNTS NOSES MONTHLY

Census of Ringling Show Totals 1,371 People—19 Nationalities.

Taking the census of a circus the size of Ringling Brothers' is no small task even though the recorders find all for whom they seek within the area of the twenty acres covered by the tents of the canvas city.

In this moving municipality such a procedure is pursued once each month throughout the entire circus season. Three men begin operations very early in the day to complete their task. The last census of the Ringling Brothers' circus disclosed a population of 1,371 men, women and children; 535 horses, 41 elephants, 32 camels, 10 zebras, 5 giraffes and 1,003 wild animals. The greatest increase over past seasons is evidenced by the fact that the new spectacle of Solomon and the Queen of Sheba is being presented upon a much larger scale than any production of this nature yet offered by the Ringling Brothers. One hundred more dancing girls are introduced in the ballots than ever before, and other features have been enlarged in similar proportion. The new spectacle has also been responsible for the increase in train facilities, a total of 89 double-length cars now being required to haul the wonders of this marvelous circus.

Gigantic means are employed to feed this city of Ringlingville. More than 4,000 meals are served daily to its people alone in a vast canvas hotel said to be the largest ever traveled. The range upon which all fried and broiled stuffs are prepared, is on wheels and weighs upwards of ten tons. It is not unusual to hear the head chef place an order for 5,000 griddle cakes and a proportionate amount of eggs and bacon for a 6:00 breakfast. Practically all purchases are made daily and in the particular city in which the circus is to exhibit. The average daily expense of running the commissary department is over $2,000. Ringling Brothers will exhibit here Thursday, July 23.

SHOWS CHINA'S NEED IN WAY OF MEDICINE

Rockefeller Commission Reports on Findings—Drugs for Breaks.

Pekin, July 6.—The Rockefeller commission which is here investigating China's needs in a medical and surgical way has already found that a most important point is this: the Chinese must be taught to doctor themselves along modern lines and not rely, except for the present, upon the foreign medical men.

The country is so vast and the need of the medical men so extensive that all the doctors and surgeons in America could be utilized in China. The solution must be the training of the Chinese doctors. At present there are only a few score of them trained along modern lines, and these have difficulty in making a living. The Chinaman is suspicious of the second-hand training of the modernized Chinese doctor, and if he is moved to resort to foreign treatment he prefers to go direct to the foreign doctor. And so, while the class of Chinese who prefer the old style Chinese doctors is still in the majority, the foreign doctors have more than what they can do.

No Knowledge of Anatomy.

Chinese medicine is a poor thing. The Chinese have had for centuries remedies for certain well-known diseases, remedies which are often very effective. But they have never, apparently, studied anatomy, and know little or nothing of the reasons for actions and counteractions. Much if not most of their work is quackery. They have very little knowledge of surgery. As a rule the Chinese doctor cannot set a bone. Men whose broken limbs could be stuck together by an ordinary man in Europe or America become permanent cripples in China. Such are to be seen even on the streets of Canton, Shanghai and Pekin, where the services of the foreign doctors are always available. They are men who have gone to their own instead of foreign doctors, and probably have received plasters, or even medicine to take internally, for their broken bones.

Sound Like Miracles.

Some of the tales that go through the country about the missionary doctors are to these people like stories of the Bible. A man learns of a surprising cure, which seems to him miraculous. A friend has been shot by brigands or by marauding troops of the government and is paralyzed down one side as a result. The foreign doctor opens his head, takes out a little piece of metal, and the man begins at once to walk and talk. Or it might be in the case of a woman who was blind from a cataract and has been given sight.

It used to be the case that malicious tales were spread of the mission hospitals. These tales were current up to the time of the Boxer rising, but they are now seldom heard.

Upsets Boat as He Leaps and Companions Drown.

Poquonock, Conn., July 6.—Three members of a fishing party of four men were drowned in the Farmington river here Sunday when their boat capsized. According to the survivor the tragedy was due to the determination of one of the men to commit suicide. He leaped into the water and, in doing so, overturned the boat.

The drowned men were:

MICHAEL MITELENONUS, aged 35.

JOHN WATYUSKY, aged 22.

WILLIAM ZARAZATKI, aged 37.

THIRD RAID ON "JUNGLE"

Aged "Dean of Hoboes" Only One of Six to Plead Guilty.

Philosopher of the Road Gives Sidelights on Tramp Life.

For the third time in the last two weeks the police early this morning raided the "jungle" at the foot of Sixth avenue west causing the arrest of six men on a charge of vagrancy. All but one pleaded not guilty and they will be tried in police court this afternoon.

Among those arrested in the raid is John Hubbard, 73 years old, "dean of the jungle hoboes," as he has been called. The others are Henry Russell, 68; John Miller, 28; Andrew Benson, 49; Walter Dary, 24, and Charles Bredeson, 49. "Uncle John" Hubbard pleaded guilty and he was given a suspended sentence on his promise to leave the city. The others declared they were innocent and they will be tried this afternoon.

The "jungle" is the name given to the rendezvous of a large number of idle men at the foot of Sixth avenue west on the site of an old doock. The men eat and sleep there on improvised tables and beds.

The first raid on the "jungle" was made about two weeks ago when thirty-one men were arrested. They were all given their liberty on condition that they leave the city. The second time six men were taken into custody. The raid this morning was made by Sergeant Roberg and Patrolman O. Olson.

GOOD SAMARITAN LOSES BY KINDNESS

Peter Hanson's kind heart taught him a lesson Saturday night that he won't forget in many moons to come.

Hanson, who is a foreman of a cement crew at the steel plant, invited George Herkovich, one of his men, to spend the night with him at the Nicollet hotel. Herkovich was out of funds and Hanson offered to share his bed and buy Herkovich a meal the next morning.

When Hanson awoke yesterday morning he discovered that Herkovich was gone, as were also his watch and $5 in cash. Hanson reported the matter to the police and declared that he would never again attempt to play the "good Samaritan" act.

The police have been unable to find Herkovich.

FALSE ALARMS SERIOUS.

Attempts Being Made to Catch and Punish Offenders.

Joseph Randall, chief of the fire department, states that false alarms are becoming altogether too common in Duluth. He declares that many of the calls are sent in by women over pay-station telephones, and that others come from mischievous boys and a few from men.

He points out that the offense is serious, as every run has its possibility of accident and its expense. In addition to that, the department is not available for quick service should a serious fire break out. The chief says that special effort is going to be made to apprehend and punish the offenders who turn in false alarms.

JOY NIPPED IN BUD.

Beer Party Broken Up By Officers Just as It Begins.

A belated celebration of a Fourth of July baseball victory was rudely broken up last evening by Sergt. Andree and Patrolman Peterson just about the time it got under way. The celebration was being held by some supporters of the Big Duluth baseball team in honor of downing the Zenith baseball team Saturday afternoon.

Seven young men, ranging in age from 18 to 22, were in the party when arrested. They had, according to testimony given in police court this morning, purchased a case of beer and this was taken in a suitcase from the home of one of the boys down to the playground at Fifty-seventh avenue. The party was just about to begin when the officers appeared.

Those arrested were Lyle Baker, Theodore Stahl, Fred Miller, Oscar Linderberg, Floyd Blasack, John Dykman and Joseph Clark. After giving the young men a lecture on beer drinking and the law against furnishing liquor to minors, Judge Lanners this morning fined each $5 and costs. Sentence was suspended and all were placed on parole for a year.

PIKE LAKE ROAD IN GOOD SHAPE.

Charles Kauppi, county commissioner, has a large crew of men placing the Pike Lake road in excellent shape. The roadway when completed will have a long stretch of one of the finest pieces of road in the county.

From the Jackson school for about two miles north the roadway is being widened from 16 to 24 feet. The roadway is also being straightened and all of the grades have been reduced so that now the heaviest grade does not exceed 1½ per cent. The road is being also graveled and rolled.

Women Will Entertain.

Women of the Westminster Presbyterian church, Fifty-eighth avenue west and Ramsey street, will entertain at another of the series of social parties Thursday evening. It will be held in the clubrooms of the West Duluth public library, Central avenue and Elinor street. A musical program has been arranged. The women in charge will be Mrs. C. G. Futter, Mrs. E. D. Burr, Mrs. Samuel Clark and Mrs. James Ritchie.

Rich Is Poorer.

Carl Rich is $10 poorer because he failed to appear in police court this morning. Rich was arrested Saturday afternoon by Lieut. C. E. Wilcox and Humane Officer R. D. McKercher on a charge of fast driving and cruelty and abuse to animals. Rich is alleged to have been driving too fast on Grand avenue while treating his "best" girl to a buggy ride. He was released on $10 and this was forfeited in court this morning.

Book Club Picnic.

Members of the West Duluth Book club will hold their annual outing on Tuesday, July 14. The members will be entertained at the cottage of Dr. and Mrs. C. R. Keyes at Fond du Lac. The train leaving West Duluth at 8:55 a. m. will be taken by the members.

West Duluth Briefs.

The Sunshine Circle of Our Savior's Norwegian Lutheran church will be entertained this evening at the home of Miss Hilborg Anderson, 607 North Fifty-ninth avenue west.

Miss Sadie Thompson, 524 North Fifty-fourth avenue west, is spending a few days visiting relatives at Thompson, Minn.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Ritchie and family 606 North Fifty-seventh avenue west, left Saturday for Sunset Lake, where they will spend the summer camping.

Mrs. Victor Munson and son, Ralph of Hibbing, are guests at the home of Mrs. A. F. Fredin, 17 North Fifty-third avenue west.

Mrs. W. A. Lilldale of Chamberlain, Wis., who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. I. P. Swangle, 10 South Fifty-eighth avenue west, has returned home. She was accompanied by Mrs. Swangle who will spend several days visiting at Chamberlain.

Frank Dodge of Ashland, Wis., has left for his home after spending several days visiting West Duluth relatives.

Clifford Stowell, 130 North Fifty-fourth avenue west, returned yesterday from a short trip down the lakes.

Misses Claire Powers and Belle Harkowski of Ashland, Wis., are spending a few days visiting at the home of Mrs. McVey, 619 North Fifty-eighth avenue west.

Miss Agnes Keller, 115 North Fifty-eighth avenue west, returned this morning from the Twin Cities, where she has been visiting relatives.

R. J. Myrick of Danielson, Sask., who has been visiting at the home of hs mother, Mrs. E. J. Melhorn, 507 South Fifty-seventh avenue west, left this morning for the southern part of the state. He will return here before going home.

ANNEXATION FEARED.

W. E. Culkin Declares That Cubans Are Apprehensive.

That the fear of annexation to the United States is causing considerable apprehension and perhaps some ill-feeling in Cuba is the opinion of William E. Culkin of this city, who returned on the steamer Tionesta Saturday after a several months' visit in the East and two weeks in Cuba.

Mr. Culkin said that the general attitude of the people was friendly, but that the mass of people believed that no good could result from annexation.

"I noticed while in the East," said Mr. Culkin, "that Duluth is a city that is now prominent in the public eye, and conceded to be one of great possibilities. It is regarded as a comer."

FRATERNAL OBLIGATIONS.

Philadelphia Ledger: "We will now take up our annual collection for the benefit of the heathen," announced the Rev. Dr. Fourthly at the close of his sermon, "and I hope those young men in the back seats who have been making so much noise all through this service will be especially liberal in their contribution. They are in duty and honor bound to help their brother heathens."

WILL ASSESS THE OWNERS

Commission Favors Improving Steel Plant Road on Petition Only.

Believes That Paying Part of Cost Would Be Bad Precedent.

Although some of the property owners along the New Duluth road want the city to pay a large part of the cost of concreting the highway, the sentiment of the city council appears to be that they should secure a petition for the work and pay full assessments. They feel that the city should pay for only intersections as in other street improvements.

"We must follow the procedure outlined by the city charter," said Mayor Prince this morning. "It is not for us to change the system. If the people of Duluth want the city to pay for street improvements, or for a larger share than street intersections, they can change the charter accordingly. I believe that the other members of the council feel the same way."

"The city would establish a dangerous precedent by paying for more than street intersections when the New Duluth road is improved," said Finance Commissioner Fred J. Voss today. "The argument that it is a through thoroughfare connecting different parts of the city and that the sole benefit will not accrue to the property which should be assessed, does not strongly appeal to me. It holds in that instance it will hold in others. It would apply to Woodland avenue, the principal thoroughfare between Woodland and the city; it would apply to Grand avenue, the main thoroughfare between the West end and West Duluth; it would apply to West Michigan and West Superior streets, the main thoroughfare leading from the downtown district and the western suburbs, and so on. Where could we stop? I do not see how or why we should make an exception of the New Duluth road."

Commissioner Murchison stated that he would present no resolution relative to the New Duluth road to the council at its regular meeting this afternoon. He stated that he had high hopes of the property owners presenting the necessary petition, under which the work might be done this fall and the cost, except the city's share, assessed against the property.

Property Owners' Claim.

Representing property owners of about one and three-quarters miles of frontage along the road, A. C. Volk & Co. sent each of the commissioners a letter asking if the abutting property will receive exclusive benefits to warrant assessing it for the whole cost, or if the major benefits accrue to the city at large. It then goes on to recite why the property owners think the city should foot most, or all, of the bill.

The letter gives the property owners' reason for securing the vacation of a portion of the present "narrow and tortuous county road" and why the substitute, although 1,400 feet longer, is much more suitable.

The resolution vacating the road was passed nearly four years ago, at which time the property owners agreed to grade and gravel the substitute. Thus far the work has not been done. The letter says that the owners of the frontage are now and have been for two years ready to gravel their part of the road. The reason given for not doing the work last year was that the street car line was expected to be built, which would have resulted in destroying the road and wasting the gravel. Relative to this feature one of the commissioners pointed out this morning that even if the car line had been built no extra expense would have fallen upon the property owners if the road had been graveled. The reason given for not doing anything this year was that the commissioner of public works held it up. To this Commissioner Murchison said that he made this request only about two weeks ago. He said that last fall the property owners told him positively that they would commence the gravelling the first thing this spring.

Letter to Commissioners.

The letter received by the commissioners this morning was as follows:

"Honorable F. J. Voss, commissioner of finance: Just a few facts regarding the new proposed concrete road from Eighty-first avenue west along what is known as Grand and Commonwealth avenues.

"In view of the tremendous traffice that would result after the operation of the Minnesota steel plant and subsidiary concerns, and realizing the inadequacy of the narrow and tortuous country road to provide a suitable highway under coming conditions, the Minnesota Steel company and property owners in that immediate section and the then city council got together and arranged for an 80-foot highway from Smithville west to take the place of the old county road running through and splitting up the steel plant site, thereby providing for the coming traffic a suitable highway of sufficient width on a railroad grade with less dangerous curves than the old road, although increasing the distance about 1,400 feet. It has always been conceded by those who have made a fair investigation, that this new highway of eighty feet width, straight and practically level, offers a large and practically incalculable benefit to the city at large and particularly to that section of the city lying beyond and west of Smithville, so much so that the 1,400 feet shorter distance of the old county road is not to be considered.

"Owing to topographical barriers and in order not to prevent and hamper the proper planning and location of new and additional plants on the Minnesota steel site, the new eighty-foot highway offers the only road for travel and communication to the steel plant suburbs, and as this highway will always be the only link connecting the down town section, it was considered necessary and wise to plan a suitable street that would facilitate and stand up under immense traffic that will result to, from and beyond that section of the city.

This new highway, in its very character, will become a city business thoroughfare; an intracity traffic transportation facility; as part of an interstate auto and Wrenshall farmer's truck carrying road; a part of a park boulevard to the branch boat club and to the beautiful and scenic park region of the upper St. Louis river.

Benefits Accruing.

"Will the narrow fringe of lots abutting on this proposed improvement receive the exclusive benefits of the new road to warrant assessing it for the whole cost of the work, or will the major benefits accrue to the city at large?

"In considering the benefits to accrue from this proposed improvement it might be well to keep the main feature in mind, and that is, that this new eighty-foot highway is the only suitable and available highway, and must of necessity stand the wear and tear of all trade and traffic of every kind from the down town section to, from and beyond the western limits of the city.

"It certainly is reasonable to say, that the improvement of this new highway will be of material assistance and result in saving to the down town jobber, wholesaler, brewer, retailer, baker, butcher, launderer, and in fact every line of business in the down town district.

"That this highway will be the direct route to the branch boat club, New Duluth, Fond du Lac and the Upper St. Louis river, and to the new state road to the Twin Cities, when the county builds the new bridge across the river at Fond du Lac, also will be the main artery of cummunication for the farmers in the Wrenshall district.

"In presenting these facts, the owners of about one and three-fourths miles of frontage on the new highway, wish to add, that they are desirous of co-operating with the city commissioners to secure the suitable improvement of the road; that they have twice held up making a contract for gravelling their part of the road; last year because the street car line was expected to be built and this would have resulted in destroying the road and wasting the gravel, and this year the work of gravelling was held up at the request of the commissioner of public works, until the question of the new improvement was discussed and decided. The owners of the above mentioned frontage are now and have been for two years ready to gravel their part of the road."

THE CAMPHOR, QUICK!

Indianapolis News: Margaret and Van were breakfasting together late one morning. Van was hungry and Margaret fractious.

"Van, how can you eat so much?" demanded Margaret irritably.

"Oh, I'm a Van, you know," returned he good humoredly. "I can carry a good deal."

"Yes," retorted Margaret, "you're a regular carry-van."

CHISHOLM ENJOYS SANE CELEBRATION

No Untoward Events Mark a Very Successful Day.

Chisholm, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Fourth of July celebration here was a complete success in every respect. At an early hour crowds began streaming toward the center of town where bands were playing. The streets were profusely decorated. At 10:30 the parade started down Lake street and covered about twelve blocks. The parade was one of the longest and most elaborate ever seen here. The judges of the parade were Clyde Blough, Harry Austin and Maitland Tripp. They awarded the first prize for societies to the Royal Neighbors; second to the Eagles; third to the Christopher Columbus society and fourth to the Spanish American War veterans.

For the merchants the first prize went to Hackett & Parks livery and second to Sapero & Sons.

Following the parade Ray Hughes of Duluth delivered the oration and Miss Margaret Ryan read the Declaration of Independence.

Sporting Events.

The rest of the day was given over to races of all kinds, and prizes were awarded as follows:

Sack race—John Iipovitz; three-legged race, Alguire and Hubbard; ladies' race, Miss Gandsey; boy's race, Pete Grosse; girl's race, Miss Grosse; fatmen's race, John Push; egg race, John Lipovitz; 100-yard dash, first, Joe Gladtke; second, John McDougal; motor boat race, first, Phil Ploof; second, Geo. Donoghue.

Over $50 worth of free ice cream and popcorn were given the children. The local baseball team went to Hibbing and was defeated 9 to 10. The club then returned with the Hibbing team and was again defeated 3 to 8. In the evening the Commercial band headed a red light masked parade to the shores of the lake where the immense crowd witnessed the fireworks. A dance, given at the Finnish opera house by the Spanish-American War veterans, was largely patronized and completed one of the largest and sanest Fourths ever held in Chisholm. No accidents or fatalities marred the pleasure of the day.

MARRIED MAN AND PARAMOUR ACCUSED

Chisholm Woman Has Husband and Sister-in-Law Arrested.

Chisholm, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Alleging adultery Mrs. Jessie Daracunas living at No. 20 Great Northern location, swore out a warrant for the arrest of her husband, Carl Daracanus, aged 25, the father of two children, and Mrs. Valentine Miller, aged 24, sister-in-law of the complaining witness, and the two were arrested at Kinney late Saturday in the woman's home.

The woman put up her diamond ring for $75 bail while the man was unable to secure bonds. Mrs. Miller claims her husband left her some time ago and she does not know where he is. The accused will have a hearing here.

KITTZVILLE BOYS HURT CELEBRATING

Get Hold of Antiquated Fireworks and Are Injured.

Kittzville, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Though safe and sane in Hibbing proper the residents of the locations were not so careful in their observance of Independence day. Adolph Tischer, age 5, will lose his eye, James Oswald, age 4, has a serious cut in his head and John Tischer and William Oswald, both under 6 years of age, were peppered with powder burns at Kittzville when they attempted to celebrate with a collection of antiquated fireworks that had been secured in some mysterious manner.

The parents of the lads are unable to account for the forbidden collection and it is expected that an investigation will be made to determine where they were procured.

CHISHOLM HOSPITAL.

Work Progresses on Structure Being Built By Dr. Webber.

Chisholm, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Work is progressing rapidly on the hospital which Dr. E. E. Webber is erecting on the corner of First avenue and Chestnut street. The foundation is nearly finished. The building will be of stone and brick and have the very latest equipment and appliances. It will be absolutely fireproof. Dr. Webber has just returned from a three weeks' trip through the east where he has been studying the modern buildings of this class with a view of using whatever has been proven a success.

WAS FINE AFFAIR.

Two Harbors Celebration Was Success in Every Way.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Fourth of July celebration held here Saturday was a grand success from start to finish. The parade which started from the Scandia hall at 10:30 a. m. was the best ever staged here. It was led by Clifford Fortman, in the role of Uncle Sam, followed by two American flag bearers, Marine band, city officials, 100 girls dressed in white and carrying the American flags, then came the floats which numbered about a dozen, these were followed by the clown band which offered considerable amusement to the large crowd. After arriving at the park the main program was held and several speeches were listened to. In the afternoon and evening dancing was held in the park pavilion.

TOWER RELIC NOW USED FOR STATION

Bus Taken There From Duluth Thirty Years Ago Used.

Tower, Minn., July 6.—An old relic of the early pioneer days went up the lake the other day loaded onto a barge. It was the old Vermilion hotel bus. This coach was brought to Tower nearly thirty years ago by E. E. Barnidge. It was purchased in Duluth and for years it was a familiar object to Tower people. It was never on wheels but went on runners altogether. It is still fairly well preserved. It will spend its last days as a shelter for passengers at the De Caigny docks at Vermilion Dam.

John Mahady is putting the finishing touches on a new boat and as soon as the paint is dry it will be launched on Lake Vermilion. The power is a two-horse Waterman outboard motor.

Joe Bracco has a fine field of hay. The water is running in his irrigation ditches and the rain of Saturday made the big field a beautiful sight in this timbered country. It now looks as if he would have a good crop of hay. This is a hay farm and Mr. Bracco has a large acreage cleared.

Miss Mayme Murphy of Virginia is to visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Murphy. While here Miss Murphy will have a cottage built on her island up the lake and where she will spend her summer vacation.

Alleged to Have Shot and Killed L. S. McDonald of Ely.

Ely, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—An inquest into the murder of L. S. McDonald, a local mining man, late Saturday will be held this evening in the Lang Hardware company's morgue.

County Attorney Greene and Deputy Coroner Ayres will be in charge. McDonald was shot in the back of the head while taking Semon Petroff, Peter and John Christo and Steve Peyte to Section 30 in his automobile and it is claimed by some of the party that Semon Petroff did the shooting. All four men were located and jailed about 4 o'clock Sunday morning.

TWO DROWNED IN LAKE VERMILION

Rowing in Boat While Intoxicated and Craft Capsizes.

Virginia, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—According to word received here Lans Croogstad, aged 28, single, of Cook and William Bengman, aged 56, married, of Tower, were drowned at Peterson's landing, Lake Vermilion on July 4, when the boat in which they were riding was capsized. It is said the men were intoxicated. The bodies were recovered.

KITZVILLE YOUTH GETS WRONG BOTTLE.

Kittzville, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dan Kalovich, age 15, drank a half a pint of gasoline here Saturday and it was only after strenuous work on the part of the attending physicians that he was declared out of danger. The gasoline was in a bottle similar to the kind in which alcohol is kept.

VILLAGE MARSHAL HURT.

Four Men Arrested for Crime at Holman, Minn.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sheriff Riley and Deputy Sheriff Gunderson went to Holman, on the Mesaba range, Sunday and took into custody four of five men, said to be Austrians, who are accused of beating Village Marshal Joseph Kloski at Holman late on the night of the Fourth, following a row in a saloon. One is said to have hit the officer over the head with a rock and it is feared his skull is fractured. The men will be detained pending the outcome of Koski's injuries when they will have a hearing. The fifth man, accused of being in the attack on the officer, is still at large.

MOUNTAIN IRON NOTES.

Trolley Car Comes Near Killing Doe and Fawn on Tracks.

Mountain Iron, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles Oakman, former president of the village council, was in town recently. Mr. Oakman's home is still here, but he has large property interests at Pelican Lake, and much of his time is spent there. He owns and operates a sawmill there and has something like sixty acres of land under the plow. He also owns and operates a threshing machine on his land, which in this part of the country at this time is somewhat out of the ordinary.

Glenn Ricks of Virginia, mine inspector for an insurance company of Duluth, and Mr. Ives, representing a mining journal of New York, visited the Brant mine. They went from here to Hibbing and will make a trip over much of the range.

The paving contractors suspended practically all of the work on Wednesday for the rest of the week.

George E. Wood, deputy game warden, was in the village recently on official business.

Passengers on a street car a few days ago, a little to the west of this place, saw a mother deer and little fawn cross the track just ahead of the car. They were so near the car that the motorman had to slow down in order to let them cross. At this point or near it, last fall, two or three deer were run down and killed by the cars at night.

A small boy and a smaller firecracker started a fire in the roof of a building on the main street Thursday afternoon. The building belongs to Otto Kastinen and was not damaged to any extent. The efficiency of the volunteer fire department was clearly demonstrated.

Eddie Beech, a former resident of this place, but more recently of Minneapolis, was in town for the Fourth.

F. A. Wilder of Hibbing visited the Hanna mine on Thursday.

Miss Clara Baldwin of the state library board spent a part of Thursday in the village, conferring with members of the recently organized library board.

HIBBING EXPENDED BIG SUM IN PRIZES

Parade and Other Features Made Celebration Notable One.

Hibbing, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nearly $500 were awarded as prizes in the sport events and parade incidental to the Fourth of July celebration here. Nearly $300 was distributed among those participating in the races, after the parade and after the baseball game in the afternoon. Each event was full of interest and hotly contested. St. Julien was accidentally spiked in the first race.

The judges of the parade announced that Meaner Brothers, whose automobile was elaborately decorated with the wares carried in the store and manned by dignified clerks garbed in white aprons and caps, will receive the $25 for the best industrial float; the Island Farm Creamery whose truck was massed with artificial flowers will get $15 and the Merchants Warehouse company with patriotic banners and colors on their truck was awarded $10.

In the automobile section Frank Dear easily won the $15 prize with a machine that was massed in national colors, streamers and floral decorations; McGovern with a handsome Overland won $10 and the little Oaktick child with a foot power cart carried off the $5 award.

Firemen Get Prize.

The firemen received the $25 offered for the best appearing organization and the militia $15 for second prize. The entire equipment of the village proper turned out and the boys had spent muc htime and trouble in decorating the trucks.

The St. Louis Agricultural Association received $10 for having the best comic feature. W. Hartman with a four-boy power racer received $5 and Ben Karon's newsboys were awarded the $3 prize. The celebration including the music and fireworks cost close to $1,800.

Headed by Marshal Ansley and his aides the head of the parade swung along Pine street shortly after the appointed time. The Hibbing concert band was never in better form and their numbers were applauded heartily all along the line of march. Hibbing's "finest" thirty strong followed the band, their brass buttons glittering in the sun and their clubs swinging in unison. The fire department had every piece of apparatus in the village in the parade, the trucks and carts decorated with bunting. The militia had a splendid showing in line marching in platoon formation under the command of Lieut. Kohrt.

The industrial section of the parade was particularly creditable. More than a dozen large trucks were in line each representing the business of the owners. The private automobiles, also decorated, extended for more than a block. Several excellent comic features were introduced.

The sport events for the adults were pulled off after the parade at the ball park.

Many Hear Speaking.

At 1:30 p. m. the Armory held a large audience that listened with attention to the program. Following a number by the Hibbing Concert band, Rev. Sears Thomson pronounced the invocation. A quartet number by Mr. Blazing, Miss Gulas, Mrs. McEachinrnd Mr. Spensley was in turn followed by the address of the day delivered by Rev. F. C. Coolbaugh. The duty of every patriotic citizen, a brief review of some of the great achievements of the United States and a resume of the problems that confronted the country were combined by Rev. Coolbaugh into an exceptionally interesting address. A solo by Miss Julia Gulas and the singing of "America" by the audience concluded the program.

In the evening the attention of the celebrants was turned towards the land south of the village where the large display of fireworks secured by the committee was presented. The collection was varied and made a splendid showing.

WAR VETERAN IS CALLED AT WARBA.

Warba, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—George Corell, aged 84, of Spring Valley, Minn., an old soldier of company D, Minnesota Volunteers, passed away here at the home of his son, Frank. The remains were taken to the old home. He is survived by two sons, Frank J. Corell of Warba and Fred C. Corell of Big Falls.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

RAIN

After doing wonderful work in the way of providing absolutely ideal weather for the Fourth and for Sunday, probably Duluthians will not kick much now that Weather Forecaster Richardson is about to lay off and let the rain come. He says today that there will likely be local showers and thunder storms this afternoon, tonight and probably tomorrow. But who cares? He is entitled not only to a vacation but to the heartfelt thanks of the community for the brand he furnished for the last two days.

A year ago today was beautiful. The sun rose this morning at 4:20 and will set this evening at 8:05, giving fifteen hours and forty-five minutes of sunshine, a loss of ten minutes since the longest day of the year.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Local showers fell during Sunday or last night over Saskatchewan, Manitoba, the Dakotas, Western Minnesota, Nebraska, Colorado, Eastern Kansas, Western Missouri, Arkansas and from Virginia southward to Florida. Heavy rain occurred at Kansas City, Mo. Hot weather prevails in the Central valleys and Southern states.

BOYER WILL RECOVER.

Wife's Hearing on Shooting Charge Continued Till July 10.

Deer River, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ray Boyer, who was shot by his wife while he was at work in the Minnesota & Rainy River railroad shops here recently, getting a bullet through the fleshy part of his arm and into his lungs, is reported getting on nicely and will probably recover. The woman had a partial hearing before Justice Tellin and the case was continued until July 10.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller of Duluth are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Pendergast at their summer house at Bowstring lake. Mr. Pendergast is manager of the Empress theater at Duluth.

H. W. Chase has closed a deal for the purchase of 160 acres of land known as the Minnie Ochs place, which adjoins his land at Spring Lake.

Rev. Magnus Johnson, for years a field pastor of the Swedish Baptist church in Minnesota, now located in New York city, is visiting his sister, Mrs. J. F. Sundloff, and family at Little Turtle lake.

Next Tuesday evening the Commercial club will meet. It is desired that a good attendance respond as there has not been a quorum at a meeting for some time.

Two Harbors Funeral.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Godfred Peterson, who was drowned in the swimming pool at the Y. M. C. A. Thursday evening was held yesterday afternoon from the Swedish Lutheran church, Rev. Nelsenius officiating. Interment was made in the Two Harbors cemetery.

Will Start Launch Line.

Cohasset, Minn., July 6.—Berton Stockwell of this place has put in service a gasoline launch between this point and Vermilion brook. This river route promises to be a popular means of traffic as the roads are far from satisfactory, particularly during wet weather.

Rush Virginia School.

Virginia, Minn., July 6.—Work is being rushed on the new $70,000 South side school by Contractor John Donlin of Superior. It is planned to have the structure ready for occupancy in the fall.

JOSEPH CHAMBERLAIN GOES TO LONG REST

Townspeople, Barred From Funeral, Bare Heads Beside Cortege.

Birmingham, Eng., July 6.—The body of Joseph Chamberlain, the Unionist leader who for many years occupied a prominent position in British politics, was buried today in Hookley cemetery, in the constituency he long represented in the house of commons.

A memorial service was attended by the lord mayor of Birmingham, the members of the city council and other civic dignitaries.

Apart from the civic element, the mourners at both the church and the cemetery consisted solely of members of the Chamberlain family, as the late statesman had expressed the desire that his funeral should be free from everything of a public nature.

Nothing, however, could prevent a great crowd of the citizens of Birmingham, among whom Joseph Chamberlain was a popular hero, from lining the route along which the funeral passed from the dead statesman's residence at Highbury to the church and from there to the cemetery. As the procession went by the men reverently uncovered.

Services in London.

London, July 6. — Simultaneously with the burial in Birmingham, memorial services for the late Joseph Chamberlain were held in St. Margaret's church, Westminster. Premier Asquith, the members of his cabinet, many of the late Mr. Chamberlain's colleagues in the house of commons, members of the house of lords and of the foreign diplomatic corps, together with a large number of persons prominent in the official and social life of the capitol, attended.

A service was also held in the church of St. Lawrence Jewry, which adjoins the Guildhall of the city of London and in which parish the late statesman's ancestors lived for many years.

OLIVE BRANCH IN SUFFRAGIST MARCH.

Paris, July 6.—The feature of the French suffragists' demonstration here Sunday was the absence of the police, who are usually in evidence at all manifestations in the French capital. Another distinctive feature was the large number of advocates of the franchise for women who carried olive branches.

The crowds were addressed by leading women lawyers and authors and at the end of the speeches there was a parade to Condorset's statue, outside the Institute of France, which was decked with flowers.

The procession was headed by brass bands and numbered about 2,000, but a large proportion of those who marched were merely Sunday afternoon strollers.

PEOPLE WITH THIN BLOOD

Some people have a tendency to become thin-blooded just as others have an inherited tendency to rheumatism, or to nervous disorders. The condition in which the blood becomes so thin that the whole body suffers comes on so gradually and stealthy that anyone with a natural disposition in that direction should watch the symptoms carefully. Bloodlessness, or anaemia, as the medical term is, can be corrected much more easily in the earlier stages than the later. It begins with a tired feeling that rest does not overcome, the complexion becomes pale, and breathlessness on slight exertion, such as going up stairs, is noticed.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a home remedy that has been most successful in the treatment of diseases caused by thin blood. With pure air and wholesome food these blood-making pills afford the correct treatment when the symptoms described are noticed. A former sufferer from anaemia says: "I was emaciated and did not have a particle of color. I had severe headaches, had no ambition and could just drag around." Dr. Williams' Pink Pills quickly restored appetite, flesh and health. A full statement of this case with directions regarding diet will be found in the booklet, "Building Up the Blood," sent free by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

BOTH SISTERS ARE NOW IN HOSPITAL

Because of her highly nervous condition caused by the absence of her sister in the Kenwood road woods for four days, Miss Margaret McGovern was Saturday taken to St. Luke's hospital, where her sister, Marie McGovern, the Nopeming hospital nurse, has been recovering for about a weeek.

Miss Marie was found a week ago Saturday and since then she has improved, while her sister's condition continued to grow worse. The latter was in such an extremely nervous state Saturday that it was deemed advisable to remove her from the Y. W. C. A. to the hospital.

An attendant at the hospital said this morning that Miss Margaret's condition is worse than that of her sister, but that she would recover.

BONDHOLDERS BUY K. C., M. & O. RAILROAD

Receivers Dispose of the Property for $6,001,000.

Wichita, Kan., July 6.—The Kansas City, Mexico & Orient railway was sold here this morning for $6,001,000 to the reorganization committee representing the bondholders of the company. The bid was made by A. M. Wickwire of New York city. There were no other bidders.

Application for the receivership of the Kansas City, Mexico & Orient railway, which the Federal court ordered to be sold here today to a reorganization committee of New York and London capitalists, was made before Judge John C. Pollock in the Federal court in Kansas City, Kan., March 7, 1912.

Raised $15,000,000.

Eleven receivers were appointed to take over the company's affairs in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. Immediately afterward the holders of the company's stocks and bonds began work on plans for the refinancing and reorganization of the road, and $15,000,000 of European capital was raised for the purpose of finishing the road and putting it into operation from Kansas City to the Pacific coast of Mexico.

On April 27 last, Judge Pollock having been informed the reorganization committee had completed its plan for the rehabilitation of the Orient, ordered its sale for an amount not under $6,000,000.

THOUSANDS ENJOY CITY FREE CONCERT

Ideal Weather and Third Regiment Band Prove Fine Attractions.

Several thousand Duluthians enjoyed the city's third free band concert at Lester park yesterday afternoon.

Attracted outdoors by ideal weather the large crowds listened to the excellent program rendered by the Third regiment band, strolled along the shady banks of beautiful Lester river, lolled along the lake shore or cooled themselves in the shadows of the trees. Hundreds passed the entire day at the park, bringing picnic lunches with them.

Yesterday afternoon's program was featured by the flag raising on the natural flag pole prepared by Henry Cleveland, manager of the park department. Miss Agatha Norton raised Old Glory to the top of the 81-foot pole and George H. Bush read the Declaration of Independence. The G. A. R. drum corps, which was to have participated in the flag raising, was unable to attend.

WOMAN PROVES TO BE AN AUSTRALIAN.

London, July 6.—The woman who was arrested at the gates of Buckingham palace, where she demanded entrance and insisted on seeing King George, has been identified as an Australian who was suffering from hallucinations. She carried two revolvers in her pockets at the time of her arrest.

Skin Peeling Nature's Aid to New Complexion

Ordinary mercolized wax is a natural beautifier. By flecking off the devitalized surface skin, it merely hastens Nature's work. The second skin layer, brought gradually to view, exhibits the healthy, youthful color produced by capillary circulation. This because the capillaries are thus brought nearer the surface; also because the new skin is unsoiled by sun, wind or dirt. This wax, to be had at any drug store (an ounce will do), is put on nightly like cold cream, washed off mornings with warm water. Its work usually is completed in from seven to ten days, long enough not to show too marked results from day to day, or cause discomfort or detention indoors.

A face bath to remove wrinkles, made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel, is another natural beautifier, since its astringent and tonic properties smooth out wrinkles in accordance with Nature's own process.

PIECES OF DEAD COW

Instead of Portions of Human Being, Taken From River.

Elgin, N. D., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—When a sheepherder disappeared some weeks ago after drawing $300 from the bank, there were rumors of foul play. Recently the high water on the river washed two gunny sacks ashore, each of which contained what were thought to be portions of the dismembered missing herdsman. The coroner investigated and found that the sacks contained pieces of a cow that had become sick. The farmer owning the animal cut the carcass up and placed pieces in a sack and threw them into the river to avoid burying them. The high water brought the contents to the shore and created the greatest excitement that has been experienced in this part of the state for years.

DEERWOOD YOUNG MAN IS DROWNING VICTIM

Hugo Barthelme Loses His Life Swimming in Serpent Lake.

Deerwood, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hugo Barthelme, aged about 26, a bookkeeper in the First National bank of Deerwood, was drowned in Serpent lake here Sunday afternoon. He ate a hearty dinner, then went bathing. He was drowned in the presence of a crowd of men and women. The body was recovered immediately by Louis and William Raymond in a launch. There was very little water in the lungs. Men worked two hours attempting to revive him. The body was taken to Crosby for embalming and will be sent to his home at Adian, Iowa. His parents were notified. Barthelme was one of the most popular young men on the Cuyuna range.

WHOLE TRAIN DROPS INTO KNIFE RIVER

Softening of Roadbed Is Cause of Peculiar Accident in North Dakota.

Bismarck, N. D., July 6.—The entire equipment of an accommodation train on the Bismarck-Stanton branch of the Northern Pacific lies at the bottom of Knife river in Morton county. No lives were lost and the only injuries sustained were slight bruises to the engineer and fireman.

The train, consisting of the engine, a freight car, combination express and baggage car and two coaches, went into the river on the return trip from Stanton, where it had been held up for a week on account of washouts.

The accident was caused by the softening of the roadbed.

The property loss will be heavy.

BOY ACCUSED OF HORSE THEFT.

Marmarth, N. D., July 6.—(Special to the Herald.)—A 15-year-old boy is in custody here on a charge of horse stealing. He gives the name of Jerry Davis and claims Montana as his home. He arrived here a short time ago and was given work on the White ranch. Stealing a revolver and some money he was in the act of taking a horse when detected. Not wishing to prosecute him the boy was sent back to Marmarth and a short time later took a horse from William Art. For this last offense he was taken into custody.

TWO NORTH DAKOTA CHILDREN DROWNED

Two Young Boys Lose Their Lives in Streams.

Stanton, N. D., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Knife River has claimed another victim in 10-year-old Howard Brewster, son of the local Northern Pacific agent. He was drowned just where the Knife River enters the Missouri. Both streams were swollen as a result of the heavy June rainfall.

Steps Into Hole.

Reeder, N. D., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—While wading in the creek near town Millard Puariea, 10 years old, stepped into a hole that had been washed out by the recent rains and was drowned. He was unable to swim and there was no one near who could rescue the lad for a long time.

COURT AT SPOONER.

Judge Stanton Will Hear Citizenship Petitions July 17.

Spooner, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge C. W. Stanton of Bemidji will open the term of court set for the 17th of this month here and will hear the applications for citizenship, of which there are about thirty, also a couple of ditch petitions. After this term will be adjourned until Wednesday, the 22nd, when Judge B. F. Wright of Park Rapids will preside over the trial of such cases as may be up for trial.

Rev. J. J. Strand of St. Peter, Minn., who was the first purchaser of a residence lot in East Baudette townsite, when New Spooner was first put on the market, was in town Thursday. He is an uncle of J. A. O. Preus, who was recently nominated on the Republican ticket for state auditor.

The Hugh Roberson home at Rainy River, Ont., witnessed the marriage of Miss Clara to B. Hicken Thursday evening, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Mr. Rowan of the Methodist church in the presence of a number of friends and relatives. The young folks left for a honeymoon trip of two or three weeks in Western Canada. Mr. Hicken is the ticket agent for the Canadian Northern and the bride is one of Rainy River's popular young ladies.

PARTY HEADQUARTERS.

Republicans Probably in Minneapolis and Democrats in St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., July 6.—It is probable that The St. Paul hotel will be selected for the headquarters of the Democratic state central committee and that the headquarters will be opened as soon as the N. E. A. is over. R. W. Hargadine, secretary, will be in charge.

Headquarters of the Republican state committee are maintained at the Dyckman in Minneapolis. Neither committee, however, plans any active campaigning until September.

ENLARGING PLANT.

Munising Paper Company Adding to Its Paper Concern.

Munising, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Additions and improvements of extensive nature are being made to the plant of the Munising Paper company at Munising here. The estimated cost is $250,000. Heretofore the company has manufactured only wrapping paper. The enlarged plant will, in addition, produce bond and similar high-class papers, the capacity of this department to be twenty tons daily. Employment will be given to fifty or seventy-five extra hands. The various new buildings will be of concrete and stone, as are the present structures. The sulphite mill will be remodeled so as to treat both bleached and unbleached pulp. A slab mill is to be added to the big manufactory, as is a bleaching plant with a capacity of twenty-five tons daily. The finishing room will be enlarged to four times its present size. Various other alterations will be made. Much new machinery will be installed. The Munising Paper company is controlled by the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company interests. Its timber holdings are of very large extent.

Two hundred cords of hemlock bark are being shipped from Boivin Siding, Baraga county, by the Baraga Lumber company, consigned to Boyne City, Mich. The 500,000 feet of logs from which the bark was peeled have been sent to the company's mill at Baraga.

MUCH LAND LEFT.

Still Many Good Farms in the Williston Land District.

Williston, N. D., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—There are 167,220.36 acres on the Williston land district still open to entry, according to figures announced by the Williston land officials. This should make over 1,000 farms of 160 acres each. Much of the land, of course, is not good farming land, being in the Missouri river bottoms. Following is the land according to counties:

Burke, 923.79 acres; Divide, 10,646.34 acres; Mountrail, 10,340.14 acres; McKenzie, 113,853.23 acres; Williams, 31,356.86 acres.

WISCONSIN POSTAL CLERKS' ELECTION.

Eau Claire, Wis., July 6.—The Wisconsin branch of the United National Association of Postoffice Clerks in session here elected those officers: President, W. E. Sullivan, Madison; first vice president, W. E. Hunter, River Falls; second vice president, Miss Ella Keogh, Sturgeon Bay; secretary, T. H. Murphy, Eau Claire; treasurer, R. C. Goetzsch, Wausau; chairman of finance committee, C. A. Lind, Menomonie.

National President John H. Rogers addressed the meeting. The next convention is to be in Wausau July 5, 1915.

FIRES AT HORSES; KILLS COMPANION.

Garrison, N. D., July 6.—Rudolph Steinmund, age 18, a son of John Steinmund, a prosperous farmer living a few miles east of this place, was shot in the forehead by John Peters and after lingering for five hours died. The accident occurred about ten miles southwest of this place on the banks of the Missouri river, where three Steinmund and the Peters boys had gone to gather June berries.

Peters, who is 17 years of age, had a .22-caliber rifle with him and when a bunch of horses began to bother the team he fired a shot into the bushes to frighten the horses with the noise and was not aware of the whereabouts of the boy at the time. The bullet fired lodged in the boy's forehead and it is presumed it entered the brain.

SHOOTS WIFE AND SELF.

Dr. Teigen of Minneapolis Kills Helpmeet, Then Takes Life.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 6.—Dr. Knut Teigen, philosopher, shot his wife dead in their little attic room at 1812 Hawthorn avenue Saturday night, lay down by her side and shot himself through the brain.

Loyal to her eccentric husband through thirty years of married life, Mrs. Teigen was loyal to him in death. Near her body was a note in her hand-writing, written with a steady hand and headed, "To let the world know that I die of my own free will. I do not want to live without him."

Near Dr. Teigen's body was a note signed by him, declaring that the public had not done him justice, referring to difficulty he had had in arranging for the publication of philosophical works and declaring that posterity would vindicate him.

"We die for truth. We die happily," read a third note signed by both.

Dr. Teigen, who was 55 years old, and Mrs. Teigen were well known in Minneapolis. Ten years ago the physician had an extensive practice in South Minneapolis. Then he became interested in philosophy, a believer in monism. Always a student, Dr. Teigen devoted his entire time to the study of books.

SHOOTING CANE HURTS FARMER.

Bemidji, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—James Olson, a former, Saturday, loaded a shooting cane with a dynamite cap and struck the wrong end of the cane against the pavement—he may lose his right hand.

Edgeley Church Union.

Edgeley, N. D., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Church union between the Methodists and the Presbyterian congregations here may be established at an early date. The advocates of the plan assert that neither organization is strong enough to accomplish certain things that should be done, but that with union there would be one large congregation that could do more effective work.

ROBBER WORKS IN BAGGAGE CAR.

Courtenay, N. D., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—While the baggageman on the Soo passenger were working in one car, robbers entered the other, locked the connecting door and looted the trunks, grips and other containers of valuables. It is thought they jumped from the train at Wendal. Four suspicious characters were chased at Carrington and two captured but they ga none of the loot.

AGED COUPLE SEEK DIVORCE.

Mandan, N. D., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—With a 73-year-old plaintiff and a 72-year-old respondent in a divorce case, Morton county claims the oldest couple that ever sought legal separation in the state. They are Willis T. and Mary C. Inman. Judge Nuchols has the case under advisement. Desertion is charged. The aged couple have grown up children in this county.

MINISTERS' SON SECRETLY WEDS.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. Winthrop Hall, a medical student at the University, and Miss Norma McCurdy of this city, have been married two years and their wedding has just become public. They were married at Elk River, Minn., Aug. 14, 1912, as the culmination of an automobile elopement.

Mrs. Hall told her mother of the wedding a month afterward, but since then she has continued to live at her home. The groom is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. W. J. Hall, who live at Ellendale, N. D. His father was formerly pastor of Bethany Presbyterian church here.

Deafened by Lightning.

Elgin, N. D., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—A bolt of lightning which struck George Fleigh of Miner robbed him of his hearing, and burned him along his right side. Fleigh was alone in a field and when he regained consciousness he called for help. When a neighbor arrived Fleigh found that he had been made deaf.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Janesville—Thirty-five thousand people enjoyed Janesville's sane Fourth. It included addresses by Congressman H. A. Cooper, a burlesque circus parade in which 1,500 citizens took part, a flower automobile parade and free vaudeville.

Grand Rapids—Fred Fritsche was seriously injured by his horse, which he was holding while it was being shod. The animal reared and struck.

Milwaukee—Strict enforcement of Baker law by the council in granting saloon licenses this year was demanded at a public mass meeting in the auditorium Sunday, held under the auspices of civic and religious societies.

Grand Rapids—Ex-Senator Theodore W. Brazeau was seriously injured in a wreck on the Green Bay & Western railroad Friday when the cars jumped the track. His scalp was lacerated and he was otherwise bruised.

Washburn—Mrs. Edward Everts of Seattle, Wash., and Mrs. M. S. Hull of this city were injured in a runaway Friday. Mrs. Everts had her collar bone broken and Mrs. Hull was so badly bruised that she will be confined to her bed for a week. The Everts' child escaped without a scratch.

Oconto—Mort Morrison was hit and thrown into the river while unloading logs at the Holt Lumber company landing. He was injured internally and is at the Oconto hospital. He narrowly escaped drowning.

Stevens Point—Joseph Shepreaux, Jr., was probably fatally injured when he fell twenty feet from the top of Wisconsin river bridge here Saturday after touching a live wire. Shepreaux had climbed to the top of the span to dive into the river. He struck on his head.

Washburn—Miss Jessie N. Smith was called to Cass Lake, Minn., Wednesday by a telegram announcing the serious illness of Mrs. Wm. O'Neil.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Jamestown, N. D.—E. F. Patton, for the last year assistant secretary at the Jamestown Y. M. C. A., resigned and left Friday for his home at Boulder, Col., to enter the medical department of the University of Colorado this fall.

Bismarck, N. D.—Thursday, July 9, has been selected as Bismarck day at the Mandan chautauqua. The Bismarck Commercial club is making arrangements for a special train, to leave Bismarck at 7:45 p. m. of that day. The Bismarck band will accompany the special train and, besides giving a short concert here, before the train leaves, will also give a half hour's concert on the chautauqua grounds at Mandan.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Funeral services for Mrs. McMahon, aged 50, pioneer resident of Grand Forks, who died Wednesday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. L. S. Kenny, were held at St. Michael's Catholic church at 9 o'clock Saturday morning.

Bismarck, N. D.—A. J. Ostrander has completed the F. E. Titus house at 19 West Thayer for F. E. Titus, and commences the erection of a modern home for Frank Everetta on Ninth street, near Thayer. A number of new homes are being built this summer over the city.

Osnabrock, N. D.—Mrs. Jens Ottem, an aged citizen, died last week aged 76. Mrs. Ottem with her husband were one of the early settlers of Cavalier county, arriving here in 1882 and enduring the hardships usually met in with a pioneer life. The funeral took place at Doyre church on Wednesday afternoon.

Grand Forks, N. D.—North Dakota grain men who were entertained by the Duluth board of trade last week, at the Zenith City, claim that they had a great time. Men from several towns went through Grand Forks on their way to Duluth and also returned this way.

Fargo, N. D.—William P. MacLean, who for the last two years has been athletic director of the high school, has accepted a similar position in Topeka, Kan.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Onamia—Officials of the new Mille Lacs & Northern railroad are very active in this part of the state. Meetings were held at Glen and Maimo, on the north side of Mille Lacs lake, pertaining to the matter of financing the proposed road.

East Grand Forks—Ralph Hamrick, the 7-year-old son of Warren G. Hamrick of Helgeland, was the victim of an unusual accident last week, when a part of his foot was cut off. The boy was plowing with his brother. He fell from the plow and got one foot under the rolling coulter, making a clean cut through the middle of the foot.

Detroit — Thieves broke into the Square Deal Robe and Tanning company's storehouse Tuesday night, and escaped with over $200 worth of valuable furs.

International Falls — The Catholic church steeple is now completed and the work of placing the cross on the top of it has just been finished.

Hill City—The great amount of rain is causing considerable anxiety regarding the haying operations. Many meadows are now under water, and it is feared that this will interfere in harvesting the crop of hay.

Spooner—Radena Syite died at her home in Wabanica township last week of senility at the age of 66 years. She was born in Norway and emigrated to this country about eighteen years ago. She lived at Argyle for several years prior to her removal here about seven years ago, where she has since made her home.

Crookston—Gratifying reports continue to arrive of the wide interest manifested in the Northwestern fair which opens at Crookston July 14. And that the livestock section of the coming fair will be an unusually excellent feature is also quite evident from the number of entries coming in.

Bagley—Mr. and Mrs. A. Meyer have announced the marriage of their daughter Anna to Ralph Darrel Holt of Staurder, Sask.

Stillwater—Arthur H. W. Quincy has commenced an action in the district court against Cousins Gay. He demands $15,300 for alleged personal injuries of a permanent character sustained Sunday morning by the falling of a porch at 311 North Second street.

St. Cloud—Bernard Mutschler, aged 29 and a native of St. Cloud, the son of Martin Mutschler, died early Friday morning after an illness of but three days. The immediate cause of death was heart failure, which followed a severe attack of pneumonia.

Onamia—A. J. Wagner of Wahkon came to Onamia to install a Dreadnought gasoline lighting system in the M. E. church.

Wahkon—Patrolman Magee and his crew are working on the state road between here and Isle. Among the improvements to be made are the removal of the culvert in the turn at the Mayo corner and one that is about 200 feet south of the corner.

Walker—Work will commence soon on the construction of two substantial store buildings on Minnesota avenue. The block will be of solid brick with pressed brick and plate glass front, occupying 50-foot frontage and made to accommodate two stores.

Mahnomen—The Mannomen Co-operative creamery is having a splendid run this year, with about twenty patrons more than it had last year. Buttermaker Lysaker finds it necessary to churn three times a week, with full churnings each time.

Akeley—The Red River Lumber company is operating the big sawmill a quarter of a day overtime, which will probably be continued until late in the fall or early winter, there being an ample log supply on hand for the run. The box factory and other departments of the Red River Lumber company all appear to be busier than usual.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Marquette—With seventy-five grangers in attendance, representing every grange in Marquette county, a Pomona grange was organized at Skandia. Officers chosen are as follows: President, Robert Shaw, Scandia; secretary, W. S. Ewing, Harvey; overseer, William Koepp, Green Garden; lecturer, Frank H. Vandenboom.

Negaunee—Dr. John Winter of Duluth came here to attend the homecoming celebration. His sister, Mrs. Delia Cummings, and children, of Chicago, were also here to visit with her mother, Mrs. Sarah Winter.

Ishpeming—Samuel F. Miller, general freight agent; Henry C. Cheyney, assistant general freight agent, and C. E. Webb, general agent of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway company, were Ishpeming visitors last week.

Marquette—The Dollarville (Luce county) lumber and shingle mill has been closed for an indefinite period, because of the unfavorable market conditions. The mill is owned by the South Shore Cedar company.

Escanaba—John Jodalski, a prisoner here held to appear at the next term of circuit court, charged with shooting and slightly injuring A. W. Roberts of the Mashek chemical plant, has become violently insane, and it is feared if he is not closely watched he will do harm to himself or others.

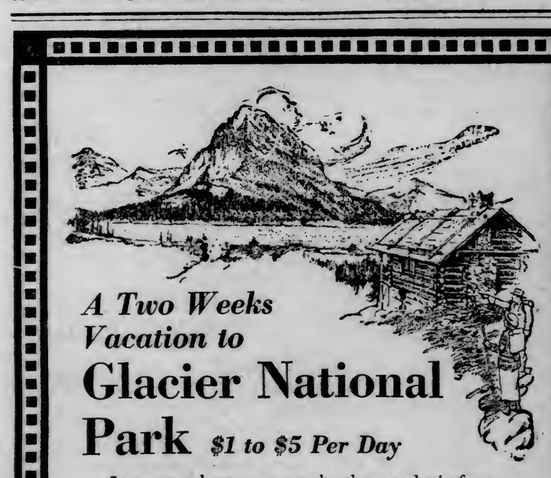

Ishpeming—Mrs. M. Schumacher and Miss Agnes Flannigan left Friday night for Duluth to meet their sisters, Misses Josephine and Katherine Flannigan, and will board a boat for a lake trip.

Marquette—Elizabeth Ranta, wife of Jacob Ranta, died at St. Luke's hospital after a brief illness. Mrs. Ranta was 34 years of age. She is survived by her husband. Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the Finnish Lutheran church. Burial was made in Park cemetery.

Crystal Falls—Fishermen report many deer in evidence in the woods surrounding this city and it looks as if the game in that line will be more plentiful this season than last. In the paint dam country, especially, many deer have been seen.

Escanaba—Rev. Father Barth of St. Patrick's church of Escanaba and well known in Hancock has just celebrated the nineteenth anniversary of his ordination. The affair was celebrated in a very modest manner by him. His brother, John Barth of Chicago, and Rev. Father Bucholtz of Negaunee assisted in an informal observance of the occasion.

Lake Linden—The 80th birthday anniversary of Joseph Benedict was celebrated at the home of his son, C. H. Benedict, where a family reunion was held. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Herchel Benedict and Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Benedict and family of Pittsburg.

Blood Purified Quickly in Summer

All the Body Responds to Action of Famous Remedy

Just as thunder shakes the ground and stirs it into action; and lightning clears the air, burns up impurities; so does S. S. S. arouse action in the blood. It is cleansed, purified and impurities are converted into substance easily and quickly eliminated.

In the winter time we get our natural purifying agency in fresh, cold, frosty air but most people spoil the effect by habits of living. And so we rely upon summer with the help of S. S. S. for it is now that the liver, lungs, kidneys and skin will be more active without the danger of severe colds.

All such troubles as pimples, boils, rash, blood risings, eczema, acne and other forms of impure blood will be rushed out of the system and new skin will quickly replace the diseased tissue.

Get a bottle of S. S. S. today of any druggist but don't permit anyone to fool you with something claimed "just as good."

Write to The Swift Specific Co., 111 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. for a beautiful book "What the Mirror Tells." And if you want advice on any severe form of blood trouble write the company's medical department.

SIMPLY because you like a perfumed bath is no reason why you should buy high priced perfumed soaps. Buy Ivory Soap at a few cents per cake and follow the suggestion below. Not only will you have the desired perfume but you will enjoy the purest, cleanest, most refreshing bath that soap can give.

DULUTH WINS OPENING GAME FROM THE TWINS

Fort William Is Easily Vanquished By 7-to-1 Score.

Dooks Drop Both Independence Day Games to Flickertails.

Duluth opened the home series yesterday by the conquest of Fort William by the score of 7 to 1. Boardman was on the mound for the home team and held the Canadian invaders to four hits. One of the blows of the visitors was of the order of the scratch. At all times was the newly acquired southpaw the master of the situation.

Furchner started for the Fort William gang, but was pulled in the second round and old and equally reliable Michael Angelo Kramer was sent shuffling to the mound. Mike was not accorded the best treatment in the world his delivery being nicked in lively fashion by the sluggers of the home team.

Jimmy Collins hit the ball over the fence in the second round. He was called out because Darby O'Brien shook hands with him before he crossed the plate. Ford also swatted one over the paling. Wolfe walked and Edmunds singled and Furchner was yanked. Boardman singled and Wolfe crossed the plate.

In the fourth Edmunds, Hargrove, Boardman and Brackett singled and Croake was safe when Kramer threw wild on his offering. Bond hit a sacrifice fly and four rounds were counted as the total of the rounds were counted.

Two singled and a sacrifice fly in the fifth scored the final run for the home team.

A walk, an infield out and a single from the trusty bat of Lizette produced the solitary run of the visitors.

Loxe Doublcheader.

At Grand Forks on the great and glorious Fourth the Dooks dropped both games of the double baseball bill to Eddie Wheeler's Grand Forks team. The Flickertails won the first game by the score of 5 to 2. Morse holding the Dooks to four hits. Blancke was hit when hits did the most good for the homers. A single, walk and a long single were responsible for both of the Duluth runs.

Cunningham and Boardman were driven from the mound in the afternoon game, Hi Brackett being called in from the outfield to finish the game. Donley was strong all the way through for the home team. Sensational catches by Altman and McGraw featured the contest.

St. Louis Wins Double-Header.

Detroit, Mich., July 6.—St. Louis won both ends of a double header yesterday, the first game 6 to 5 in fourteen innings and the second 2 to 0 in the regulation distance. The visitors took an early lead in the first because of Boeler's wildness, but Hall who relieved him, pitched fine ball, keeping the hits well scattered. Hamilton went the whole fourteen innings for St. Louis and was strong in the pinches. The winning run came on singles by Shotten, Pratt and Leary. Wellman's home run over the fence with a man on base and a one-hand catch by C. Walker featured. Cavet got a bad start in the second game, but would not have been scored upon except for Burns' errors. He allowed only three hits. Wellman though hit often was air tight when danger threatened. Score: R. H. E.

White Sox, 6; Naps, 3.

Chicago, July 6.—Ed Walsh made his "come-back" yesterday. He started against Cleveland and pitched seven innings allowing three hits and three bases on balls, netting the visitors three runs. He was taken out to let a pinch hitter bat for him in the seventh and Faber finished the game which the White Sox won 6 to 3. Chicago's victory was due to a terrific home run by Demmitt with the bases filled in the seventh. This overcame a lead taken by Cleveland and put the home team comfortably ahead. Chapman's triple and an out gave Cleveland its first run. Two passes followed by Kirk's double netted the other two. Score: R. H. E.

RICKENBACHER WINS BIG RACE.

Sioux City, Iowa, July 6.—Traveling at the rate of seventy-eight miles an hour, Eddie Rickenbacher drove his car to victory in the 300-mile automobile race here Saturday afternoon and captured $10,000 of the $25,000 prize, $15,000 being divided up among the other contestants. Spencer Wishart made a desperate effort to capture first money and failed, finishing 3 1-3 laps behind Rickenbacher. Ralph Mulford, whose car was disabled in the 175th lap, took the place of his team mate, Thomas Alley, when the latter was burned by an explosion of gasoline at the pits, and finished third after a close race with Anderson, who landed in fourth place.

Patschke finished fifth and Wetmore and Shrunk in sixth and seventh.

Rickenbacher's time was 3:49:02; Wishart, 3:51:20; Mulford, 4:00:26; Anderson, 4:01:54, and Patschke, 4:02:56.

One of the remarkable features of the race was the freedom from accidents, only one of the drivers, Alley, being injured, and his injury is not considered serious.

About 30,000 people witnessed the contest.

SABLE NAGS IN BASEBALL

Boston Red Sox and Chicago Cubs Successful Fighting Clubs.

Latter Endangering Giants' Position in League—White Sox Coming.

New York, July 6.—The Red Sox and the Cubs loomed up as the dark horses in the two major league races during the week just ended.

New York, leading the National, put in a more successful week than for some time past, but even that was outpaced by Chicago, which topped the league in games won, took a firm hold on second place and displayed a driving power that if kept up, will make the team a dangerous contender for the honors so long held by McGraw's men.

Boston, coming fast from behind in the American league struggle pulled the Athletics' lead down to little more than a shade by beating them four games in five and then played Washington to a standstill in four games of their series.

Aside from Chicago, no National league club seems now to be in a position to give the Giants a battle for the lead. Cincinnati, after starting the week well, with the double victory over Pittsburg, fell afoul of the Cubs and dropped four in a row, topping off the week by losing two in three to St. Louis. Pittsburg, dropped to sixth place. St. Louis did fairly well, but mostly at the expense of the slumping Reds and Pirates.

Aside from Chicago, Brooklyn made the best showing of the week, again outbatting all other league clubs.

American Race Closer.

The American league race is far closer than the National and more interesting. It is possible for one of six clubs to work to the top by a sustained winning spurt. Detroit has been playing Cobbless ball for a period now and has shown sufficient winning power to work to within little more than a game and a half of the leaders. Washington had a severe time of it in the Philadelphia series, but moved up at the expense of New York and held its own with the Bostons, being now only four games removed from the top.

Bright as seem Boston's chances, however, the prospects of the White Sox are not to be overlooked.

The only teams without a chance are the New Yorks and the Clevelands, neither of which seems able to get going, although both have excellent material in most departments. These two clubs had a stirring battle for first position during the week, with Cleveland still having the better of it.

The week of the Fourth was the busiest of the major league session, the total number of games played being 62.

Hot Fight in Association.

Milwaukee and Louisville kept up their hot fight for the leadership in the American association. Clever pitching by Dougherty and Braun gave the Brewers both games of Sunday's double header with St. Paul, but on Monday Minneapolis with Flene in good form, defeated the champions, and Louisville, batting out a victory over Columbus, went into the lead.

Both leaders won on Tuesday, bunched hits giving Milwaukee the better of the argument with Minneapolis, while Louisville downed Columbus. A double victory on Wednesday put Milwaukee back into the lead, Dougherty again being a hero and Youngberg mainly responsible for the two defeats handed to Minneapolis. At the same time Louisville dropped one to Columbus and fell back into second place.

Thursday Milwaukee lost and Louisville won, the Colonels again taking the lead. On Friday, with Powell pitching against his old Kansas City team mates, Milwaukee won an easy game, and meantime Columbus batted Louisville pitchers all over the lot so that the champions once more slid to the top.

A crucial series between Chicago and Indianapolis featured the Federal league contest. For the greater part of two weeks the Hoosier team had held the lead in the outlaw organization, following the close running of the early part of June.

TWO AMERICANS WIN.

New York Athletes Take Title From English Holders.

London, July 5.—W. M. Oler, Jr., and Homer Baker carried the colors of the New York Athletic club to victory on Saturday in the high jump and the half mile flat race, respectively, at Stamford Bridge and wrested the championship titles from their British holders. W. F. Potter, of Yale university, also made a splendid bid for the 120-yards hurdles title. He won his heat easily but in the final lost to the British holder, G. H. Gray, by only two feet. James I. Wendell, N. Y. A. C., did not start.

Oler, with a magnificent effort in his last try, took the high jump title from B. H. Baker of Liverpool. Both cleared 6 feet 2 inches. The Englishman failed thrice at 6 feet 2½ inches. The American failed twice at that height before he successfully negotiated it and won the title. W. R. Applegarth, of the Polytechnic Harriers, in addition to winning the title for the 100 yards took that for the 220 yards spring, which he did in 21 1-5 seconds, equalling the record.

J. C. Patterson of Pennsylvania university ran in one of the preliminary heats of the 100 yards but was beaten by V. H. A. d'Arcy, Polytechnic Harriers, in 10 seconds flat.

BROWN WINS DECISIVE BATTLE FROM WHITNEY

Leads in Six of Ten Rounds and Carries the Fight.

Jack Doyle Has Shade Over Couture and Nelson Beats Clark.

BY BRUCE.

The Herald's Selections.

Pal Brown decisively beat Frankie Whitney.

Jack Doyle shaded Freddy Couture by a narrow margin.

Art Nelson easily beat Bud Clark.

Showing the most convincing form of the entire career, Pal Brown Saturday evening decisively beat the tough and experienced Frankie Whitney in the ten-round no decision contest that was fought at the Grand Opera house in Superior before the Twin Ports Athletic club.

At no time in his career has the range boxer exhibited the pugilistic wares that he set forth for the inspection of the fans in the bout against the redoubtable Whitney. The win of Pal was the more surprising in that he showed rare boxing form, exhibited remarkable accuracy with his blows and used his left with the ability of a true boxer.

In his last two fights Brown has looked bad. This led many of the staunchest friends of the range lad to predict his defeat at the hands of a boy who has successfully met all of the best lightweights in the ring. Pal came back in sensational manner, outboxing, outfighting and outpunching his rival and winning the decision by so wide a margin as to leave not the least doubt as to the result of the contest.

The first round was even. There was little damage done in the second. Brown led in the third. The fourth was even. Brown had the fifth and sixth by wide margins. The seventh was Brown's. The eighth was even and the range lad came back and took the final two sessions. The range boy led decisively in six of the ten rounds and Whitney cannot claim a round to his credit.

How the Battle Went

There was little doing in the opening round. Both boys were feeling each other out. Whitney gave an intimation of his punch when he let one loose that grazed the cheek-bone of Brown and whirled him around like a top. Brown was remarkably fast upon his feet and seemed full of confidence. Whitney kept forcing the range boy.

The second session brought forth little real fighting. Pal began to quicken the pace. He seemed to have satisfied himself as to the quality of his opponent and began shooting in left jabs. He varied two left jabs by swinging a hard right uppercut to the body. Whitney got in close and pumped a right uppercut into Brown. Pal caught the Iowan a hard right uppercut and sent his head back. Brown led left to head and then swung right to face. Whitney uppercutted in close.

Third round—Brown forced the fighting. He was dancing around and never permitted his opponent to get set. Brown landed a hard left and shot Whitney's head back. He jabbed his left to face repeatedly and Whitney seemed unable to avoid the punch or to land effectively Brown swung an uppercut to Whitney's head. Whitney missed a hard right swing, the effort turning him nearly completely around. As Whitney came in Brown again caught him with a right uppercut to head. Whitney landed right to body as the gong rang.

Round four—Whitney sent a short right to Brown's head. Brown came back with a hard right swing to head. Whitney came in close and worked both hands to body. Brown jabbed twice to face and then hooked his right to head. Whitney missed a terrific right, but coming in close worked a short left to face and then uppercutted with right.

Round five—Brown carried all the fight to Whitney. The range boy caught his opponent a savage right uppercut to head and jabbed him several times without a return. Again Brown shot over a hard right uppercut to the jaw and the smile of confidence vanished from the face of his adversary. Whitney began to look worried. A cut was opened up over the Iowa boy's eye and he looked somewhat the worse for wear. Brown jabbed and then uppercutted. Whitney missed a return but swung a right to head. The boys were fighting fast and Brown was having all the better of it.

Round six—Brown opened the hostilities by swinging a cracking left to his opponent's jaw. Whitney was bleeding and was looking tired. Whitney worked a resounding right to Brown's body and repeated a minute later with another body blow. Brown retaliated with a right cross to the jaw which shook Whitney up. Brown jabbed and then swung in the old right uppercut just as the gong rang.

Round seven—This was not as strenuous as the preceding round. There was not so much damage done. Brown swung a right to face and in close Whitney pumped in two uppercuts with left and right. Brown jabbed and then missed a hard right swing.

Round eight—Whitney uppercutted hard in this round. Brown swung over a right and carried the visitor along at a fast pace. Again Whitney uppercutted and Brown jabbed. Whitney missed a hard right. Brown was bleeding slightly from the nose. Brown jabbed and the round ended with little damage done.

Round nine—Brown swung two beautiful uppercuts to his opponent's head. The range boy was carrying the fight. Near the ropes Brown swung a hard right to jaw. Whitney missed a terrific right, but later caught Brown going away with a pile driving right which lost its force on the retreating Brown. In close Whitney shot in an uppercut. Brown jabbed twice without a return and then again rocked Whitney's head with a hard right.

Round ten—Brown jabbed twice to head. Whitney missed a right and Brown danced in and jabbed with left. The Range boy crossed his right to head and then came back with a right uppercut. Whitney swung right to body. Brown landed with left and then landed twice with his right as the gong ended the battle.

The Doyle-Couture Fight.

The scrap between Jack Doyle of New York and Freddy Couture of Milwaukee was one of the greatest fights ever seen at the Head of the Lakes. There was not a great deal to choose between the two boys. The bout could have been called a good draw. What shade of difference there was belonged to Doyle.

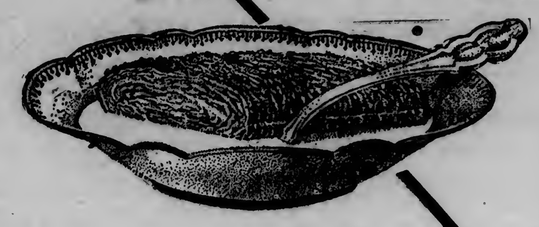

From the opening gong in the first round until the final gong in the last round the boys fought like demons. Cleverness and speed and punching ability were displayed by both boys. Couture swung both left and right with well timed precision, while Doyle used a left jab and a right to the body as Couture came in. The scrap kept the crowd on its feet all the way through.

Art Nelson of Hawthorne, Wis., beat Bud Clark of Eau Claire in the curtain raiser. The boys went ten rounds and the bout was a bear for real fighting. Neither of the lads knew a great deal of the fine points of the manly art of self defense, but some mighty blows were delivered and the toughness of Clark was something clearly out of the ordinary. Three times the Eau Claire man took the count, and the mere fact that he weathered the ten rounds is a credit to him.

Taken all and all the bill was the best that has ever been staged across the bay. It produced some real scrapping, and what is more, showed that Brown is entitled to be ranked with the best fighters of the country.

What's A Party Without A Few Bottles Of Fitger's Beer

THERE is "something missing" at the party when a cool, refreshing glass of beer is not served during the evening. No other liquid refreshment can take its place, for none has such genuinely satisfying results.

When a host serves Fitger's Beer he knows he is serving the very highest grade, and his guests know it too.

There's satisfaction in serving the best. Keep a case in your cellar and you will always be ready for emergencies.

SPECTACULAR FEAT SAVES WOMAN'S LIFE

American Cavalryman in Fourth of July Contest at Vera Cruz Performs Daring Act of Horsemanship in Roman Race.

Vera Cruz, July 6.—The United States navy vanquished the army and marine corps in a long program of athletic sports which marked their celebration of the Fourth of July on Mexican soil.

Hundreds of natives thronged the beach where the events were staged and marvelled at the madness of the Americans who toiled in the fierce tropical heat and called it sport. At noon the total number of points made by the navy in the athletic events was greater than that of the army and marine corps combined and the results of the events still to be decided could not bring about any change in their positions.

During the Roman race of the cavalrdy a native woman standing in front of the galloping teams after they had crossed the finishing line became panic stricken and was unable to move as the horses approached her. The driver of the first team, unable to stop his horses, forced them apart and the animals passed on each side of the woman at full gallop with the rider straddling across the space between the saddles. The woman was untouched and thousands of soldiers and sailors looking on at the daring feat cheered the rider.

Promptly at noon cannon from the ships and shore thundered a national salute of twenty-one guns, to which the foreign warships in the harbor replied gun for gun.

RUNS ON ONE MOTOR.

Curtiss Disproves Belief Concerning Balance of Trans-Atlantic Air Craft.

Hammondsport, N. Y., July 6.—Glenn Curtiss yesterday made a test flight in America, the Rodman Wanamaker trans-Atlantic flying boat, with only one motor running. The machine flew steadily and little adjustment of the rudder and aileron were required to offset the torque of the single propeller.

It had been held by many that should one motor stop while the machine was in flight it would be necessary to immediately shut down the other in order to avoid overturning the craft, but Mr. Curtiss flew yesterday with first one propeller stopped and then the other without affecting the machine's balance enough to be noticed by the crowd watching the flight.

Mr. Curtiss hopes that the trial flights may be concluded this week.

STINGS STOVALL HARD.

Kansas City Federal Manager Fined for Threatened Sulks.

Chicago, July 6.—George Stovall, manager of the Kansas City club of the Federal league, was fined $500 last night by President Gilmore for threatening not to play yesterday's game with Chicago unless Harry Neily, business manager of the club, who had been discharged, was reinstated. Neily returned to Kansas City with the team last night to seek reinstatement from C. C. Madison, president of the club.

"That's a question for Neily and Mr. Madison to settle," President Gilmore asserted, "but I will not stand for a ball player or a manager threatening certain actions unless he can have his own way. Fining Stovall $500 will make him think the next time."

WISHART PROTESTS AGAINST CUP DECISION.

Sioux City, Iowa, July 6. — Spencer Wishart, who finished second in the 300-mile automobile race here Saturday, has filed a protest against the scoring with officials of the Sioux City Speedway association. He alleges he had not been given a lap he was entitled to which would have landed him in first place, thus putting Eddie Rickenbacher, the winner, in second place.

So strong was Wishart's protest that Referee Keeder ordered a recount of the laps. Wishart's protest as to being short a lap, was not sustained, but Rickenbacher, seeing an endless controversy in sight, consented to give his second car driven by Ralph Mulford sixth instead of third place. Patschke was moved from fifth to third and Billy Knipper from sixth to fifth. Gil Anderson held on to fourth place. By the agreement, the winners of third, fourth and sixth positions pooled their money, each taking down $1,700.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

After the Pease Hardware team of Superior had forfeited Saturday to the Big Duluths of this city, the clothing team took on the Gustafsons and defeated them by the score of 6 to 1. Deiburn twirled for the Gustafsons and McLaughlin for the clothiers.

BROOKSTON STILL WINS.

Defeats Pease and Twin Ports Nines in Succession.

Brookston, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Pease Hardware baseball team of Superior was defeated by the locals in a one-sided game here Saturday afternoon, 8 to 2. The game was nip and tuck for the first five and one-half innings, the visitors leading by a score of 2 to 1. In the last of the sixth Brookston commenced to hit Wedge hard.

The Twin Ports Clothing company's team of Duluth was beaten in an interesting game Sunday afternoon, 5 to 4. McAndrews was in the box for the home team, and while he was hit opportunely and was wild at some stages of the game, he received good backing and there was good hitting at opportune stages of the game by the locals. Miller started out for the visitors, but was taken out in the sixth inning and Baker relieevd him. The latter did not pitch as well as Miller and it was through him that the game was lost. Brookston scored two in the sixth, one in the seventh and two in the eighth, while the Twin Ports scored their runs in the second, fifth and eighth inning. This makes eight straight games for Brookston.

NEW SWIMMING RECORDS

Time-Breaking Events in National Invitational Tournament at Frisco.

San Francisco, Cal., July.—A new world's tank record in the 440-yard swim, a new American record in the 300-yard relay race and a new Pacific coast record in the 200-yard breast stroke swim were established yesterday in the last day's tournament of the national invitational swimming championships here. The meet was won by Illinois Athletic club with a margin of 25 points over its closest contender, the Hunalu club of Hawaii.

Ludy Langer of Los Angeles did the 440-yard in 5 minutes, 22 1-5 seconds, four-fifths of a second under the world's record.

The I. A. C. men made a new relay record, going the 300-yard in 2 minutes, 44 3-5 seconds.

German Wins.

Lyons, France, July 6. — The grand prize of the Automobile Club of France was won Saturday by Lautenschlager, driving a German machine. Louis Wagner, with a French machine was second; Salzer also with a French machine, third, and Jules Goux, another Frenchman, fourth. The winner's time for the course of 467.6 miles was 7 hours 1 minute 18 1-5 seconds.

CLABBY WANTS TO FIGHT CARPENTIER

American Middleweight Is Anxious to Face French Heavy Champion.

Sydney, N. S. W., July 6.—George Carpentier, champion of France, was cabled today an offer of $20,000 to meet Jimmy Clabby of Hammond, Ind., claimant of the middleweight championship of the world.

Clabby's latest victory was July 4 when he won from Eddie McGoorty of Oshkosh, Wis., on a foul in the eighth round of a scheduled twenty-round fight.

PATRICK WINS SHORTSTOP PLAY

R. S. Patrick was the winner of the Fourth of July shortstop tournament at the Northland Golf club. Patrick and Cullum were the finalists in the first flight and Towne and Marble in the second flight. Rice and Mitchell reached the last round in the third flight. Patrick defeated Cullum, Marble defeated Towne and Mitchell defeated Rice.

SEVENTEEN BILLS IN COLORADO VOTE

Initiative and Referendum Furnish All But Three.

Denver, Colo., July 6.—Seventeen legislative questions, consisting of eight initiated bills, six referendum petitions and three proposed constitutional amendments, are on file in the office of Secretary of State J. B. Pearce for submission to the voters of Colorado at the November election. Three of the referendum petitions relate to the public utilities bill. Suit to prevent the submission of these petitions has been started.

Among the bills to be referred is one to prevent the appointment of deputy sheriffs or peace officers of persons who have not been residents of the state for at least one year.

THIS WEEK'S WEATHER

Washington, July 6. — Temperatures averaging normal over the entire country, with local rains fairly well distributed, are forecasted by the weather bureau for the coming week.

"A distrubance that is now over the Northwest," the bulletin added, "will move slowly eastward, crossing the great central valleys Tuesday, attended by rising temperature and local showers and thunder storms.

"This will be followed by a change to cooler weather over the Northern states east of the Rocky mountains."

ABOLITION OF GRADE CROSSINGS.

Engineering News: The work that is being done in this country in the direction of the abolition of grade crossings is shown by that of one corporation, the Pennsylvania company. It has in eleven years abolished 1,052 grade crossings, at a total cost of $66,641,294, or an average of more than $63,000 for each crossing removed. But that road has still 12,027 grade crossings to remove, which would cost $600,000,000, if only $50,000 were allowed for each. As it has spent on this work an average of about $6,000,000 a year, it would take a century at the present rate to eliminate the rest.

GIRL IS REPORTED HURT JOYRIDING

Injured Near Detroit and Reported Abandoned By Escort.

Fargo, N. D., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is reported here that while joy-riding between here and Detroit, Minn., S. Sharp, an insurance agent, upset his car at the same spot where Dr. Nelson of Moorhead was killed last fall. The girl who was with him was caught under the machine, seriously injured, and, it is reported, hurriedly taken to Detroit and abandoned on the steps of the Hotel Minnesota, where she was later found and taken to a hospital.

LIPTON'S DROPPED AS ARMY CONTRACTOR

Action Is Result of Recent Scandals at British Capital.

London, July 6.—Baron Lucas, as representative of the government, formally announced in the house of lords today that Lipton's, Ltd., had been removed from the list of contractors for the British army. This step was taken as a consequence of the recent scandal in connection with army canteen contracts, for which several army officers and civilian employes of Lipton's, Ltd., were convicted on charges of receiving and giving bribes.

DENOUNCED AS COWARD

Attorney Says James Ryia Was Afraid to Let Wife Testify.

Mother-in-Law Held All Offices on the Family Ship.

James J. Ryia, who is seeking $6,000 from Charles and Sarah Atol, his father-in-law and mother-in-law, for the alleged alienation of the affections of his child-wife, 14-year-old Victoria Atol Ryia, was bitterly denounced as a "coward" by Attorney Charles O. Baldwin in his closing argument to the jury for the defense in Judge Ensign's division of the district court this morning.

Ryia was scored because he exercised his legal right and refused to allow his wife to tell the jury of the treatment she is alleged by the defense to have received at his hands. Since their marriage last August, Ryia has been twice made defendant in a divorce suit. The first case was dismissed after a reconciliation. The second case, instituted a few weeks later, is still pending.

In both divorce actions, Ryia, aged 23, is charged with having struck, beaten and abused his wife and to have called her vile names. Ryia, in his suit for damages for alleged alienation of affection, charges that her parents induced her to bring both suits for divorce against him and are responsible for breaking up his home. Their defense is that they took their daughter back into their home as a matter of protection to the child.

Attorney Baldwin scored William Abalan, a brother of Mrs. Atol, as the real instigator of all the family trouble. Abalan and the Atols have been avowed enemies for the past ten years and according to the attorney for the defense, all of the trouble may be traced back to him. Abalan has been in constant court attendance since the beginning of the trial. On cross examination, however, he declared that he had no interest in the outcome of the case. Abalan appeared as Ryia's star witness against the Atols.

John H. Norton, attorney for Ryia, in his closing remarks to the jury, blamed the trouble in the Ryia household to the young man's mother-in-law, Mrs. Atol. She was more to blame, according to Attorney Norton, than was her husband. "Atol does not have anything to say around his house," he declared. "Mrs. Atol is the captain, first mate, second mate and chief engineer of that family ship. Take that from me, gentlemen of the jury."

The case was given to the jury about 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

DRUMMER ACCUSED OF ATTEMPTED ASSAULT

Alleged to Have Invaded Rooms of Women at Fargo Hotels.

Fargo, N. D., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. V. Donahue, traveling man for one of the big packing companies, was arrested in a hotel today, on a charge of attempted criminal assault. It is claimed that by impersonating hotel clerks, he had secured entrance into rooms occupied by women guests at different Fargo hotels, and in at least one instance had committed an assault. It is said an attempt was made last night and his arrest resulted. He wore a handkerchief over his face for a mask.

BULL MOOSE TO DROP STRAUS FROM SLATE

May Put Seabury in His Place for the Senate.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 6.—While Col. Roosevelt is improving rapidly as a result of the rest cure treatment, it was plain today that it was growing irksome to him. He showed signs of becoming rebellious at being shut up on Sagamore Hill.

He said he would go to New York Wednesday and visit Progressive national headquarters to confer with New York state leaders. At this meeting another effort will be made to decide on the party program in this state.

It was learned today that at Wednesday's conference in New York, the name of Justice Samuel Seabury of the New York supreme court will be presented as a possible nominee for United States senator. It is said the proposed nomination for this office of Oscar Straus, Progressive candidate for governor in 1912, has been dropped because Mr. Straus' position is at variance with that of the Progressive party in regard to the Panama repeal act.

NEW WITNESS FOR DEFENSE OF PETRAS

He Challenges Story That Girl Was Followed From Car.

Geneva, Ill., July 6.—A new witness was produced by the defense at the Petras murder trial today, to challenge the testimony introduced by the state to show that Petras got off a street car the night Thersa Hollander was murdered, and ran back towards a crossing a block away, where Miss Hollander left the car.

The state has put in evidence to show that but one man of the two, Petras and Walter Hickman, a negro, who got off the car a block beyond where Miss Hollander alighted, went up Indiana avenue, the street paralleling Ohio street, which Miss Hollander took on her way towards her home. This man, according to the testimony of several state witnesses, including the man himself, was Hickman.

The witness produced by the defense, L. W. Fowler, said he saw two men go up Indiana avenue, although he could not tell who they were.

Petras has claimed he went up Indiana avenue.

ACQUIRE SITE FOR COAL DOCK

Northwestern Fuel Company Will Erect Structure Costing $500,000.

Deeds passed today for the purchase by the Northwestern Fuel company of a tract of land with a frontage of 550 feet on the government dock line lying between the Peavy elevator and the Capitol elevator at Rice's point. The amount involved is understood to have been approximately $125,000. As reported in The Herald, the agreement in this transaction was signed several weeks ago, but it has only just now been definitely closed. The sale was effected by the Little & Nolte company.

The site will be entirely covered by a coal dock of the most modern construction, to be equipped with the latest devices in electrical unloading machinery and involving an outlay of over $500,000. Work upon it will probably be started in the fall.

The new owners, together with the owner of the tract immediately to the south have agreed upon the dedication of a waterway 150 feet wide extending from the government dock line back to the right-of-way of the Duluth & Thunder Bay Railway company, a distance of 1,760 feet, which will give the new dock over 2,000 feet of frontage.

FIRST DULUTH TO TWO HARBORS TRIP

Herald Excursions Begin Tuesday, Weather Permitting.

Under auspices of The Herald there will be the first Duluth-Two Harbors excursion of the season tomorrow—weather permitting. These excursions, run during the summer months by The Herald on the steamer America, have become the most popular of the many pleasure trips given out of this harbor, for the reasons that everything possible is done for the passengers' comfort and they start and return at convenient hours.

The America will leave Booth's dock at the foot of Lake avenue at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and will remain one hour at Two Harbors, reaching Duluth on the return trip at 9 o'clock in the evening. The hour of starting, it has been found in past years is a popular one, for at that time the weary business man can "bunch it" so far as work is concerned, collect a few good cigars, get the boat, cock his feet up on the rail and bid dull care a tearless adieu. Many business men avail themselves of this trip as regularly as it is given and they are in the city, for, they say, they get the cool breezes of the lake, get away from work, acquire for the time that don't-give-a-hang-whether-school-keeps-or-not feeling, and come back in the evening lulled by the lake winds and the swish of the water into a condition where they can drop off into dreamless sleep, and get up in the morning ready to tackle any old problem that may arise. It is a trip where dull care gets no passage.

So much for the restful part of it. But aside from that, there is the enfamile part. Many families take the trip and many of them take their lunch baskets along. Accommodations for these are given. To those who do not care to do this, the boat's table is available, or dinner may be taken up-town in Two Harbors. The sight-seeing feature of the trip is by no means the least, for it is agreed by those who visit here that it is hard to duplicate the wild, rugged beauty of the north shore as seen between here and Two Harbors. Many Duluthians, having guests for a few weeks or the summer, gladly seize these occasions for entertaining them in this way, and never fail to find appreciation.

NO HUMAN PLAGUE IN NEW ORLEANS

Surgeon General Rupert Blue Says Rats Are Victims.

New Orleans, La., July 6.—"There is no human plague in New Orleans," said Dr. Rupert Blue, surgeon general of the public health service today, "and we must seek to remove the only means to such an epidemic, the bubonic plague among rates.'

Dr. Blue estimated the number of rats in New Orleans at 400,000. To exterminate these a minimum of six months will be required. A wholesale trapping campaign will be instituted within the next few days. Dr. Blue expects to leave the latter part of this week. Dr. William C. Rucker, assistant surgeon general, who is expected to arrive tomorrow, then will be in active charge.

Quarantine Unjustified.

Washington, July 6.—Surgeon General Blue of the public health service today advised the treasury department that the bubonic plague situation in New Orleans does not justify the quarantine imposed by Costa Rica and Honduras, and that commerce may be resumed immediately with perfect safety.

OBITUARY

Rev. W. B. Palmore of St. Louis, editor and publisher of the Christian Advocate, died at the home of a niece in Richmond, Pa., July 5. The doctor, according to close friends, has left his entire fortune, estimated at more than $50,000, to the Methodist Episcopal church, south.

Martin L. Clardy, vice president and general solicitor for the Missouri Pacific railroad and former member of congress, died in St. Louis, Mo., July 5, after a short illness. Mr. Clardy was for many years prominent in Democratic state politics in Missouri. He served in the house of representatives from Farmington, Mo., before going to St. Louis.

Max Weyl, the landscape painter, died in Washington, D. C., July 6, at the age of 77, after an illness of four months. His works are in many American galleries and private collections and he won distinction as self taught.

Lady Jane Stone, widow of Sir Benjamin Stone, died in London, July 6, four days after the death of her husband. She was seriously ill when Sir Benjamin succumbed.

William Bangs, former newspaper publisher, died at his home in New York, July 5 after a long illness. Mr. Bangs was 60 years old. He was one time publisher of the New York World and later joint publisher of the New York Mail. Afterward he went to Rochester, N. Y., where he produced the Post Express. Many short stories from his pen have appeared in magazines.

NEW PITCHER FOR THE SOX

Oshkosh Twirler Will Join the Duluth Team at Once.

Big League Scouts to Look Over Work of Local Players.

A pitcher by the name of Allen will join the Duluth White Sox sometime today. Josh Clarke, manager of the Sioux City team of the Western league, has also wired to President Blume, stating that he will give him the optional use of one of his twirlers for the remainder of the season.

Allen is considered one of the stars of the Wisconsin-Illinois league, and his services with the Duluth team will be of an optional nature. It is expected that the new twirler will work in one of the Fort William games. Allen comes from Oshkosh.

It is also stated at the local baseball office that the offer of Clarke will be accepted and the Sioux City twirler secured.

Sharin was released at Winnipeg. The former member of the Minneapolis team of this league failed to show any form. With Allen the Dooks will have five twirlers. In the event of the Sioux City twirler coming and making good, it may be the case of the survival of the fittest on the team.

Babe Meyers, a Cleveland American league scout, is in the city today and will take in the series between Duluth and Fort William. According to the general belief, the big leaguer agent is given several of the local players the once over. Brackett and Cunningham are among the members of the squad who will be closely observed.

John McCloskey, former manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, is another of the scouts making the rounds of the Northern league, and this scout, on the salary list of the Cincinnati club, is expected to be here during the present series or within the next few days.

Eddie Herr and Ted Sullivan are also making the swing of the circuit. The veteran Sullivan looked the White Sox over at Grand Forks, and Herr has asked that a price be set on the services of Harry Wolfe.

As in the case of Meyers and McCloskey, Sullivan is expected to visit Duluth and take another look at some of the Sox in action.

MRS. COLE LEADS WOMEN GOLFERS

Wins Annual 18-Hole Handicap Contest on the Fourth.

Mrs. T. F. Cole won the annual 18-hole handicap flag day golf contest at the Northland club Saturday. Mrs. Cole won out over some of the best women players of the club, Mrs. Ward Ames, Jr., Mrs. George H. Crosby, Mrs. A. W. Hartman, Mrs. Rufus Redman, Mrs. Edward Savage, Miss Markell, Miss Muriel Prindle and Mrs. E. H. Windom being among those who contested.

It was the third annual contest for the trophy. The quality of play was the best that has as yet marked any of the flag day contests.

ENGLISH LAWN TENNIS.

All-Comers' Doubles for Titles Are Played at Wimbledon.

Wimbledon, July 6.—Norman E. Brooks of Australia, and Anthony W. Wilding of New Zealand, today won the all-comers lawn tennis doubles championship by defeating the English players, H. Roper Barrett and C. P. Dixon. The score was 6-1, 6-1, 5-7, 8-6.

Miss E. Ryan of California, and Miss A. M. Morton captured the all-comers ladies doubles lawn tennis championship from the holders, Mrs. Lorcombe and Mrs. Hannam whom they beat by 6-1, 6-3.

LINCOLN JUNIORS DEFEAT THE SLUGGERS.

The Lincoln Juniors defeated the Piedmont Avenue Sluggers by the score of 12 to 9 yesterday. The feature of the game was the uphill playing of the Lincolns. The Lincolns would like to arrange games with any of the 16-year-old teams of the city. Call Grand 1769-D.

The score:	R.	H.	E.
Lincolns	12	12	6
Sluggers	9	6	7

Batteries—Lincolns, Stack and Smith; Sluggers, Stortze and Almquist.

THE JUTENS SHOW CLASS IN TWO GAMES.

The Jutens won from the Spaldings on the Fourth of July by the score of 9 to 7. The game was played on the Thirty-second avenue west grounds. The batteries were Lundstrom and Hedberg for the Jutens and Adams and Olson for the Spaldings.

Two Harbors was beaten Sunday by the Jutens by the one-sided score of 13 to 2. The feature of the game was the heavy hitting of the Jutens. Le Neau and Jentoft worked in the batteries points for the Jutens and Anderson and Kernan for the Two Harbors team.

THE NORTHERNS WIN AND LOSE.

On the Fourth of July the Northerns defeated the Kelley Colts by the score of 4 to 0. Alder for the Northerns performed the remarkable feat of allowing no hits and no runs. He also struck out all but five of the opposing team.

Yesterday the Northerns defeated the New Duluth team by the score of 11 to 7. Alder was on the mound for the Northerns and pitched steady ball. The fielding of Anderson and Benze of the Northerns was the feature of the game. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Northerns	11	7	7
New Duluth	8	5	5

Batteries—Alder and Di Santo; Neff and Tollers.

DEFENDERS READY FOR CRUCIAL TESTS.

Newport, R. I., July 6.—The American cup yachts, Resolute, Vanitie and Defiance are ready to begin tomorrow the series of races off Newport that will determine which sloop will be selected to defend the America's cup against Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger, Shamrock IV. While the official trial races do not take place until August, the America's cup committee that will make the choice has decided to consider every point made by the three yachts in all contests henceforth.

Vanitie took a four-mile thrash to windward today and there was not a wrinkle in her sails as she beat into a ten-knot easterly breeze.

Defiance reached here in tow late last night. Capt. Howell tried out his head sails during the morning.

Chase Case Postponed.

MONTANA MINING MAN KILLS SELF

Martin Mulvahill, Brother of Duluth Couple, Takes Own Life.

Helena, Mont., July 6.—While despondent presumably over unsuccessful mining ventures, Martin Mulvahill, aged about 52, a well known Montana mining man who has operated in this section for years, shot and killed himself in his room in this city two days ago, using a 32-caliber pistol. His body was found lying on the bed full dressed by friends who became suspicious when he did not appear on the street and investigated. He has a brother and a sister living in Duluth with whom Coroner McCabe has communicated.

Mr. Mulvahill was a native of Canada and had lived in Montana about thirty years during which time he had been actively engaged in mining.

He was one of the organizers of the Butte-Superior and the Butte-Corbin mines near the Corbin camp. He also interested James J. Hill in mining properties at the head of Clancy creek, which resulted in Mr. Hill spending $200,000 on that property.

INJURY ACTION WILL BE RETIRED

Abel Laitinen Seeks $10,550 Damages From G. N. Railway.

A jury will be drawn in district court this afternoon to retry the personal injury action brought by Abel Laitinen against the Great Northern Railway company, in which Laitinen is seeking $10,550 damages from the company for injuries sustained when a train struck his automobile and threw him out. The case was tried before a jury in Judge Ensign's division about two weeks ago but the jury failed to agree after having been out for several hours.

Laitinen claimed that he was driving his machine on a public highway between Hibbing and Alice Sept. 28, 1913, when a Great Northern train ran him down. The impact of the collision threw him out of the machine, causing injuries which resulted in a paralysis of the left side of the face. Laitinen claims that owing to the peculiar nature of his injuries he will never again be able to follow his profession, that of a musician.

BREACH OF CONTRACT

Is Alleged By A. Rakowsky as Basis of Damage Suit.

The Duluth Sand & Gravel company is defendant in an action which was brought to trial in Judge Dancer's division of the district court this morning in which Gustav Rakowsky, as plaintiff, is suing for $1,250 damages.

Rakowsky claimed that he was engaged by the company as foreman for one of its gravel pits in Carlton county on May 1, 1913, and was afterwards discharged notwithstanding the fact that he had a contract for employment. He is suing to recover on an alleged breach of contract.

BELIEVE SOO IS GOING TO BUILD.

Ryder, N. D., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fear of the homesteaders on the Berthold reservation that the Soo will not lay its tracks across that section this summer appear to be groundless. Late advices from the general headquarters of the company are to the effect that the road will be constructed this season. It is also pointed out that representatives are now soliciting cattle and other shipments that could not be made unless this end of the line is constructed this summer.

"HAS ANY ONE SEEN KELLY?"

Duluth Police Search Over Northwest for Clever Forger.

Man Who Passed Three Bad Checks Thought One of Gang.

Three forged checks, each for $20, were passed on three local furniture stores on June 20 by a man who gave his name as F. E. Kelly and the local police are now scouring the entire Northwest in their efforts to locate him. It is believed he is a member of a gang of forgers operating throughout this part of the country and the police in every adjoining state have been notified of the local cases.

The man forged the name of Martin Rosendahl, making the checks all payable to himself at the First National bank. These he cashed at the French & Bassett store, the Kelly furniture store and B. Kenner's furniture store. Mr. Rosendahl just received the canceled checks, the banks having refused to honor them, and every effort is being made to find the forger.

The system employed by this man is a novel one and is explained in the notices that are being sent out to the authorities in other cities. Kelly, as he called himself, came into Mr. Rosendahl's office in the Phoenix block and said that he was an upholster and repairer of furniture. He was told to fix a desk and chair and while Mr. Rosendahl went out of the office, is believed to have taken a check book belonging to Mr. Rosendahl. These he used in forging checks, using the name of Mr. Rosendahl.

Kelly is described as being 35 years old, five feet, nine inches tall and weighing about 150 pounds. He is dark and wears a beard.

Superior

OLD SETTLER IS FOUND DEAD

J. A. Harris, Aged 90, Dies in Swamp Near Road to Cabin.

The body of J. A. Harris, 90 years old, a settler near the town of Wascott, was found lying in a swamp near the main road leading to his cabin. Exposure and starvation are believed to have been the cause of death. The body was found Saturday by neighbors who had become worried about the aged man's absence

Harris was last seen on Thursday, June 25, when he went to one of the neighboring farm houses and borrowed a few matches. His pride is believed to have kept him from seeking food. When the body was found it was still in fairly good condition. Coroner Downs brought the body yesterday to the city and the funeral was held today.

BATTLE OF "VERA CRUZ" FINE AFFAIR

Big Celebration Proves Big Success in Every Detail.

The greatest Fourth of July celebration ever pulled off in Superior closed without any disarrangement of the program anywhere in the city Saturday night. Thousands of people of the city as well as from surrounding towns were in the city during the day and witnessed the Venetian fete and fireworks in the evening.

The festivities began with a monster parade during the forenoon. Practically every civic body as well as nearly all business houses of the city were represented in line. Five full bands furnished the music.

Sports of all kinds were furnished for the people during the afternoon. These affairs took place at various parts of the city, the principal celebration under the direction of the central committee took place at Hammond park.

It is estimated that fully 25,000 people witnessed the closing feature of the day. This was the battle of "Vera Crux," accompanied by a grand display of fireworks, fired from a large scow and a sand bar on the bay front near Central park. The sham battle was said to be the best affair of its kind that ever took place in the city.

FACES FOUR CHARGES.

Too Much Celebration on Fourth Gets L. J. Pope in Trouble.

Lewis J. Pope of Allouez was arrested yesterday and the police have placed four charges against him. The charges abusing his family, malicious destruction of property, resisting arrest and threatening to do great bodily harm.

Pope is alleged to have had too strenuous a celebration of the Fourth, which included assuming the task of loading himself up with liquors of various kinds. He is said to have arrived home early yesterday morning and began abusing his family as well as breaking up the furniture.

School Board Meets.

A meeting of the school board will be held this afternoon at the Blaine school building. The board will re-organize. Two new members, Robert J. Shields and T. S. Graffer, will take their seats at this meeting. These two men were recently appointed by the city commission.

BORAH FIGHTING NICARAGUA PACT

Demands Open Session Conduct of All Discussion.

Washington, July 6.—Senator Borah began a fight today to force consideration of the Colombian and Nicaraguan treaties in open session. He presented a resolution also calling for the publication of all investigations by the foreign relations committee. It was put over until tomorrow under the rules.

"If I cannot get the consent of the senate to have this Nicaraguan treaty considered in the open," said Senator Borah, "I will be forced to disregard the rules of the senate. I have not attended a single session of the committee since the present hearings began, because I did not propose to submit the results of my investigation to the clamp of secrecy in executive session. If the Nicaraguan treaty is brought out into the open it will die as it ought to die."

PREUS DEMANDS CHANGE OF VENUE---SCHMAHL DEFIANT

New Complications Develop in the Auditorship Squabble.

Secretary of State Will Not Obey Stahlberg Order.

St. Paul, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—It was reported today that State Insurance Commissioner J. A. O. Preus, Republican nominee for state auditor, had demanded a change of venue in the hearing on the order issued by Judge Stahlberg of the Nineteenth judicial district, calling for a recount of the votes cast throughout the state for state auditor. Mr. Preus wants the case transferred to Hennepin county.

In the absence of Mr. Preus, employes of the insurance department today admitted that such a step was in contemplation, but they did not know whether J. F. McGee, attorney for Mr. Preus, had served the necessary papers in the new proceedings. They indicated that Mr. Preus, as the one attacked, should at least have the naming of the judge before whom his case would be heard.

Schmahl Complains.

That the recount demanded by Henry Rines, the defeated candidate for state auditor, is to be a long drawn-out one and will be fought at every point by Mr. Preus and his associates, was indicated today when both Mr. Preus and Secretary of State Schmahl carried grievances to the state legal department for settlement. The matter in question was that of service covering the order made upon both Mr. Preus and Secretary Schmahl by Judge Stahlberg last Friday. This order called upon both to show cause why Mr. Preus' name should not be withheld from the official ballot until the recount desired by Mr. Rines was completed.

Neither Mr. Preus nor Mr. Schmahl were in their offices when the papers signed by Judge Stahlberg were served Friday. However, in the case of Mr. Preus they were left on his desk, and a clerk receipted for the secretary of state.

Will Not Accept Service.

This morning Secretary Schmahl announced definitely that he would not accept service from Judge Stahlberg or any other minor judge. He said that if any interruption in the make-up of the state ballot was contemplated, the order would have to come from the higher authorities. Mr. Schmahl said the only authority he would recognize would be the state supreme court.

The controversy has reached a point where, it is said, those attacked are making every effort to involve the situation, and the legal features may run well into the summer. Henry Rines, who has demanded the contest, is now at Mora, his home town, but it is expected he will be in the Twin Cities within the next twenty-four hours. He was apprised today of Mr. Preus' demand for the change of venue and a possible attack on the legality of the order issued for a recount.

MINNEAPOLIS GRAIN MAN PASSES AWAY.

Word has been received on the board of trade of the death of Albert Harrington of Minneapolis, grain broker and member of the Minneapolis chamber of commerce, who died Saturday afternoon of heart failure. He was 64 years of age. A. W. Frick of the Van Dusen-Harrington company of Duluth is a brother-in-law.

Mr. Harrington was found dead sitting in a chair in his home in Minneapolis on Saturday, when his family returned from a day spent at Lake Minnetonka, where he had promised to join them. Since the dissolution of the G. W. Van Dusen company, of which he was a member, in 1899, Mr. Harrington has been in the grain business for himself. He has large property interests in Duluth and was well known here.

RECEIVERS ASKED FOR LORIMER BANKS

City Deposits Never Got to Destination, It Is Claimed.

Chicago, July 6.—Receivers were asked for three of the lesser of the Lorimer-Munday string of banks today. These banks closed with the failure of the parent bank, the La Salle Street Trust & Savings bank. They are: The State bank of Calumet, the Illinois State bank of Chicago, and the Ashland Twelfth state bank.

The application was made by attorneys for certain depositors. It is charged that $75,000 of city deposits allotted to the Calumet bank and smaller city deposits allotted to the other two branch banks never reached them, and were in fact deposited in the La Salle Street bank.

Assessment of stockholders under the double liability act, is requested.

PLEADS GUILTY IN DISTRICT COURT

Man Charged With Attempted Forgery Admits Attempt.

Alfred H. Stewart, alias F. W. Cameron, alias M. S. Bartlett, this afternoon in district court, pleaded guilty before Judge Fesler to a charge of attempted forgery. In view of the fact that it is believed that Stewart has a record, and the authorities wish to look the matter up, the court continued the time for passing sentence.

The crime to which Stewart pleaded guilty today was committed on June 26. Stewart came over from Superior and presented to the Oak Hall Clothing company a check drawn on the United States bank over there for $50, and ostensibly signed by M. S. Bartlett, as an officer of the North Wisconsin Colonization company. He presented cards introducing himself as Mr. Bartlett, put up a good front and was accepted as being the individual whom he represented himself to be. His identity was not doubted, but as a matter of precaution the Oak Hall people called up the bank to ascertain the standing of the North Wisconsin Colonization company and found that its balance at the bank was only 50 cents. Stewart, was then arrested on the charge of attempting to obtain money on a worthless check. Later, when it turned out that he was not Bartlett, the charge was changed to that to which he has pleaded guilty.

FORD WILL GO TO THE WHITE HOUSE

Will Tell President His Views of Business Conditions.

Washington, July 6.—Henry Ford, the Detroit manufacturer who was invited by President Wilson last week to call at the White House to discuss business conditions, has accepted the invitation and will take lunch with Mr. Wilson Thursday. He is understood to agree with the president's opinion that the business outlook is good.

A different story will be told the president Thursday by a delegation of Chicago business men. They plan to protest to him against certain features of the pending anti-trust measures.

NO LONGER AN "UNDER DOG"

Wholesome Respect for "the Duluth Crowd" in Traffic Circles.

Magazines Coming to Headquarters for Articles on Rate Problems.

Two years ago would a magazine of national circulation have come to Duluth for an article on rate problem?

The answer is "It would not."

Two years ago would railroad heads have consulted Duluth on rate making?

The answer is: "They would probably have asked where Duluth was."

Two years ago Duluth was the "under dog" in freight rate making in the United States. Today it is the national leader and recognized as such, and the "Duluth crowd" is now the most widely respected contingent of freight experts in the United States.

The reason is brief—the members of the Duluth traffic commission know more about freight rates than any other body of men in the United states, unless it be the interstate commerce commission itself.

The rate problem is probably the most complicated that faces business men at the present time, and many of them make no effort to master any of its details. The result is that rate problems have been largely left to traffic experts and railroad men. In Duluth, however, the traffic commission has made a real study of the rate situation, and the result is that the "Duluth crowd" has made itself most wholesomely respected in traffic circles. The grain case first attracted attention to Duluth. Then came the lake and rail case, and later the butter and egg case. Then came the hearing on the Alexander bill, many clauses of which were based directly on the testimony of Julius H. Barnes, head of the local commission.

Now at Top of Heap.

And now Duluth stands at the top of the traffic heap instead of the bottom. Railroad men, traffic managers and all who directly or indirectly make freight rates, are inclined to wait to see what "that Duluth crowd thinks of it" before making changes that will affect this city. Other cities follow its lead and indorse the Duluth policies.

None rejoice at this change in attitude more than the active members of the commission. Formerly they were met with a chilly reception. Their suggestions and requests were either promptly refused, or ignored. Now all is delightfully different. They are sought after by railroad men, and their opinions are asked in advance.

No better evidence of this can be offered than the attitude of the magazines with a national circulation. The Review of Reviews this month contains an article by Julius H. Barnes, in which the editor of the magazine refers to him as follows: "Mr. Barnes writes on rates as the spokesman of the Duluth Board of Trade and as himself one of the largest grain shippers in the world. He is the ablest advocate of use of the Great Lakes and interior waterways in competition with the railroads."

This is but the beginning of a series of magazine articles which will advertise Duluth and its rate victories. Both Mr. Barnes and other members of the commission have been asked to contribute articles for other magazines. Apparently the rate victories are attracting more attention outside of Duluth than they are in the city itself.

TWENTY-NINE NOW IN LIST OF "AX MURDERS"

Chicago, July 6.—Twenty-nine persons have been murdered in the last three years in Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, Iowa and Illinois by means of blows from an ax. The details of almost all of the murders are the same, and in most of the cases the murderer's ax has wiped out entire families. The crimes were committed at night, while the victims lay asleep in their beds, and in each instance the murderer left but slight clews.

A list of the so-called "ax murders" follows:

H. C. Wayne, wife and child, and Mrs. A. J. Burnham and two children, Colorado Springs, Colo., Sept. 1911.

William E. Dawson, wife and daughterfi, Monmouth, Ill., October, 1911.

William Shawman, wife and three children, Ellsworth, Kan., October, 1911.

Rollin Hudson and wife, Paola, Kan., June 1912.

J. B. Moore, four children and two girl guests, Villisca, Iowa, June, 1912.

Mrs. Mary Jane Willson and Mrs. George Moore, Columbia, Mo., December, 1912.

Jacob Neslesla, his wife, their daughter and the latter's infant child, Chicago, July 6, 1914.

Giddings' Sale.

Giddings began today their half-yearly riddance sales of spring apparel, always an event of great importance, and judging by the crowds of buyers there today, will surpass all of their previous sales records.—Advertisement.

IOWA BLUE SKY LAW DECLARED INVALID

Decision Is Given By Smith, McPherson and Pollock.

Des Moines, Iowa, July 6.—Iowa's so-called blue sky law, providing for the regulation of investment companies, was held unconstitutional in a per curiam opinion handed down today by Walter I. Smith, United States circuit judge, and Smith McPherson and John C. Pollock, United States district judges.

TWO DYNAMITE PLOT MEN OUT ON PAROLE

Cunnane and Pennell Leave the Leavenworth Prison.

Leavenworth, Kan., July 6.—Michael J. Cunnane of Philadelphia, and Murray L. Pennell of Springfield, Ill., convicted at Indianapolis with other labor leaders of conspiracy to transport explosives illegally, were released from the United States penitentiary today on parole, having served half their three-year sentences.

Cunnane and Pennell came to the prison Jan. 1, last year. They did not leave the prison on bond, as many of the other labor leaders did.

MORRIS NOMINATED TO GO TO STOCKHOLM

Peters of Massachusetts May Join Treasury Department.

Washington, July 6.—Ira N. Morris of Chicago was nominated today by President Wilson for minister to Sweden.

Representative Peters of Massachusetts is foremost among those whom the president is considering for appointment as assistant secretary of the treasury to succeed Charles S. Hamlin, appointed to the Federal reserve board.

JENKINS-GARDNER.

Well-Known Duluth Young People Are Married at Eveleth.

Miss Emma Jenkins, telephone operator for the Soo line, and William T. Gardner, traveling salesman for the Duluth Candy company, were married a week ago today at the home of the bride's sister in Eveleth, where Miss Jenkins was visiting.

Both are very well known in Duluth; and while the affair was not wholly unexpected, it is a fact that Mr. and Mrs. Gardner stole a march on their friends. Nothing was known of the wedding among Duluth friends until Saturday, when they announced it.

They have not yet taken up housekeeping, but will make their home in Duluth.

HANDY WINDOW POLE.

Washington Star: Take an old broom handle. Paint it to harmonize with your room and insert at one end a screwhook. Screw into the upper sash of each window in the room a ring screw for the hook on the pole and your window pole is ready for immediate use. This will save you from having to run up and down and through the house looking for a window pole, or climbing on chairs to reach the sashes every time you wish to raise or lower a window.

CALENDAR IS COMPLETE

List of Cases for Approaching Term of Federal Court.

Capt. Thomas H. Pressnell, deputy clerk of the United States court, this morning prepared the calendar for the regular July term of Federal court, which will convene on Tuesday evening, July 14. Judge Page Morris will preside during the term.

Alfred Jaques of this city, who last week took the oath of office of United States district attorney, will not handle the cases for the government during the term. Burt Oakley, assistant, who has held the office the last four years, will conduct the cases for the United States.

Among the more important cases is the one of the government against the Duluth & Northern Minnesota Railway company, in which the department of justice seeks to have a fine imposed on the railroad for an alleged infraction of the law regarding over-employment of labor. It involves a fine of about $10,000. The Davis Real Estate company is also endeavoring to have set aside the award made by the board of public works of this city in its condemnation of the company's property along Lester river for the proposed boulevard to Two Harbors.

The cases scheduled for the calendar follow:

Law Cases.

The United States of America vs. the Duluth & Northern Minnesota railway.

In the matter of the Davis Real Estate company from the ward of the board of public works of the city of Duluth in the matter of the condemnation for the extension of Lester park along Lester river and Amity creek.

Davis Real Estate company, petitioner.

Frank Urban vs. Whitney Bros. & Co.

George Ojovsky vs. Minnesota & Ontario Power company.

Charles W. Kotcher vs. Vermilion Lumber company.

Joseph Pienkosski vs. Northern Pacific Railway company.

Max Kosbek, a minor, by Walter G. Bonham, his guardian, vs. the Shenango Furnace company.

G. W. Makery vs. Clara M. Crabtree.

Frank Smith vs. Eli Loisell.

Motions, Demurrers, Etc.

Poor Hand Maidens of Jesus Christ vs. Duluth Log company and Abner Smith.

Oliver J. Lund vs. Great Northern Railway company.

Alsop Powers company, vs. Princeton Roller Mill company.

Commonwealth Thust company, vs. New York State Steel company, its receivers, E. F. Du Pont de Nemours Powder company, John Maki and the M. A. Hanna & Co.

Challoner company, vs. Diamond Calk Horse Snoe company and Otto Swanstrom.

MOTOR CARS ARE SPEWED OUT BY MODERN FACTORIES.

It Takes Only Ten Minutes After the First Assembling Work Is Done to Have a Ford Car Running.

John A. Fitch in the Survey: "They don't just produce motor cars at Fords," a man in Detroit remarked; "they spew them out." Fifteen thousand men work in gangs on the track system. Each gang, and each man in each gang, has just one small thing to do—and to do over and over again. It's push and hustle and go. The man behind may shove his work along to you at any moment—you must not hold him back; at any moment the man in front may be ready for another piece to work on—he must not be kept waiting. Up one line and down another goes a continual stream of motor parts in process of assembling. One man fits the parts together so that the bolt holes come right. The next man slips the bolts into place. The next has a pan of nuts before him and all day long he scoops them up and with his fingers starts them on the thread of the bolts. The next man has a wrench and he gives them the final twist that makes them tight.

A Man For Every Task.

Over in another part of the great factory there are four or five parallel tracks. On every track are a dozen motor cars in all stages of being put together. Each is slowly moving from one end to the other, and—like a snowball rolling down hill—gathering itself together as it travels, until with a snort and a whir it dashes out at the door on its own power.

The last of these tracks is formed by moving belts. Without a stop from start to finish the machine moves steadily forward on the belt, and, either sitting on different parts of it or walking alongside for a moment, each man adds the bolt, or gives a turn to the screw for which he is responsible. One fellow has to lie on his back underneath and hammer away at something. He has a little platform on wheels to support him, and with a bent rod he "hitches on" the front axle. "Bing"—"bang," instantly he lets go and drops back to hitch on to the next machine.

Ready to Run in Ten Minutes.

Piled up along the way are the different parts, each to be added as the growing machine passes by. Each man does his part, and gives it a shove. First, to a mere skeleton of a frame two men attach the rear axle. They fasten it in haste and give it a push—someone else will tighten the bolts. Three men seize it and in a moment the front axle is in place and the four wheels put on. It's easier to move now; a touch sends it on to another gang of three, who put on the truss rods and tighten up things all around.

Another shove and it goes to where a motor is dangling from chains, directly over the track. A word from someone and down comes the motor to its place, the bolts go in and on goes the machine. Then comes the steering gear and the control levers—on again, and from overhead a hose is pulled down and a gallon of gasoline squirted into the tank. One more shove and the rear wheels drop into a slot where there are rapidly revolving pulleys. The wheels begin to whirl—the motor starts—a man seats himself on the tank, grasps the wheel and cuts loose, and with a snort and a cough, out of the door they go. What was, ten minutes ago, a pile of rods and gears and lifeless steel is now a motor car.

SALT FROM SEA WATER.

St. Nicholas: Salt is manufactured near San Diego, Cal., by evaporating sea water. During the very high tides, which occur about twice a month, the water flows into a large storage pond, and after a short time is pumped into small, shallow ones, where it is kept until partly evaporated by the sun's heat. It is then let into smaller and still shallower ponds, known as lime or pickle ponds, in which it stays until it is so nearly evaporated that the remaining brine is about 60 per cent salt and about 40 per cent water, and where the gypsum, magnesium and other foreign substances are deposited, so that when the brine is drawn off into the crystallizing ponds or "vats," as they are called, it is rid of most of its impurities.

In the bottom of these vats most of the salt in the brine then gathers in the shape of crystals, when the water is pumped out, being replaced by fresh brine. The operation is repeated again and again until the layer of salt is about ten inches thick, when it is broken up and taken to the washer. Here it is forced through water which is too salty to dissolve any of it, but which cleans it thoroughly. The salt is then taken up in wire baskets, sprayed with fresh water and passed to a conveyer by which it is dumped on the stack shown in the cut. It is still "commercial" salt, however, and good only for tanning, pickling, freezing ice cream and the like. Before it is fit for absolutely pure water and crystallized again, this second process being repeated over and over until all of the impurities are removed.

MARKET HAS SHARP UPTURN

Wheat Bulges Around Close on Northwest Black Rust Reports.

Flaxseed Trading Quiet, With Quotations Firm on Light Offerings.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 6.—Wheat bulged sharply at the close on black rust reports from South Dakota and large export trade in winter grain. July wheat closed ⅜c up, September ⅝ cup and December ⅝ @ ½c up. July durum closed unchanged and September ¼c up. Oats closed ¼c up at 34¼c. Rye closed unchanged at 58c for on the track or 57c for to arrive. Barley closed unchanged at from 46c to 50c.

At Winnipeg, July oats closed at 38⅞c bid and October at 35⅜c bid.

Puts on Minneapolis September wheat closed 80½c and calls at 82¼c.

Except in cash and July option the wheat market was weak today. Cables were mixed and the weight of the increasing wheat offerings was a depressing factor on all the American markets. Optimistic reports came to hand regarding threshing outturns in the winter wheat territory, and marketings of it are beginning to assume some proportions. At Kansas City today for example, 199 cars of wheat came in, and practically all of it was new grain. Advices from crop reporters from over the Northwest were mainly good. There were however, reports of the appearance of black rust at a couple of points in South Dakota, and that stayed the downward trend of the market, and led to a firming up around the noon hour. The crop news from over North Dakota was all to the good. A wire received by a local house from a correspondent said: "From Fargo, N. D., to Miles City, Mont., everything I have seen and all the information I can gather from good sources, is that the promise is for the best crop on record. Black rust is a joke. We have red rust every year."

Wheat supplies in Duluth elevators are getting down to a low point. At the close of business last Friday, there were only 1,352,000 bu of wheat in store here against 9,170,000 bu a year ago. From that is to be deducted 321,000 bu since loaded on steamers but not yet reported out of store.

The American visible supply showed a decrease of 1,751,000 bu for the week, bringing supplies down to only 13,248,000 bu., compared with 29,470,000 bu a year ago.

July wheat opened ⅛c up at 90c and gained a fraction up to the final hour. September opened unchanged at 82¼c and weakened ⅜c, and the December option opened unchanged at 83c and declined ⅜c. While there was some Eastern inquiry for durum, the market for it also ran off. July opened ⅛c up at 86½c, and declined ½c. September weakened ½c to 82½c.

Trading in flaxseed was quiet with operators showing a disposition to await the appearance of the government crop report for June due on Wednesday, before increasing their commitments. Quotations held firm running at a fraction over Friday's close. Final prices showed fractional advances.

The foreign markets were mixed. Buenos Aires closed ½c up; London unchanged and Antwerp ⅝c off.

July flax opened ⅛c up at $1.60 and closed ⅛c up at $1.60 asked. September opened unchanged at $1.61⅛, and closed ⅜c up $1.62¼ asked. October opened unchanged at $1.62, and closed ¼c up at $1.62¼, and November opened unchanged at $1.62 and closed ¼c up at $1.62½ bid.

At Winnipeg July flax closed at $1.39⅛ bid, and October at $1.43⅝ bid.

The following letter from Huron, S. D., was received by a trader: "I have talked to farmers every day that came into town and they tell me that wheat, oats and corn are the best they have seen for years. Two-thirds of the wheat is headed out and in the early fields, some of the kernels are full grown. I drove forty miles out from Huron yesterday, and in some fields that will average thirty bu to the acre and many that will run from 20 to 25 bu. A party in the office from Crookston, Minn., in the low, wet territory, says crops are looking fine with wheat in the boot."

Lewis & Co., Minneapolis, wired Baker as follows: "We have the following letter from Antwerp: 'The weak tendency of our market during the past week has been still accentuated and prices are showing another severe decline on the whole list. It is not necessary to look very far for the reasons of these severe breaks. The fact is that we are governed entirely by the Chicago advices and have to follow the American decline step by step. The purchases of American wheat made by European buyers this week have again been enormous to all directions, but the United States seems disposed to let them have all they want and even still more at daily lower prices. So far, the European buyer is swimming against the tide, and the unfavorable outlook of some of the European crops has been a misfortune for those who invested in wheat on the strength of the shortage in Europe. The 900,000,000 bu crop has beaten every and all bull arguments for the benefit of the European consumer. On the other hand there is also a good deal of short selling going on and one of these days there might perhaps may be a reckoning when least expected.'"

The Nebraska state board of agricultural report says: "With a general average of 100 per cent reported by crop correspondents, the largest wheat yield in the history of the state is assured. The harvest is practically over except in the northern and northeastern section of the state. The yield will be heavy in the eastern section of Nebraska, merging to a good crop in the southwestern section of the state."

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Saturday wheat was under pressure ⅜ to ½d lower with favorable American crop advices. Corn was easy ⅛ to ¾d lower with lower American cables and free Danubian offers. The market today opened with shorts covering ¼ to ½d higher than Saturday and during the morning it further advanced ¼ to ½d with offers light. Lighter American offers, smaller world's shipments and light shipments to the United Kingdom with continued unfavorable reports from Russia and firmness in spot here helped the advance. July wheat was multilated and this is being confirmed. At 1:30 p. m. it was ⅝ to ¾d higher than Saturday and ¼d higher than Friday."

Broomhall's Russian News says: "In the southern belt rains are hindering harvesting, and causing damage to the crop already harvested. The weather is generally unsettled with parts heavy rain. In the Volga and Don Teys prospects are deteriorating, owing to great heat and dryness. Many estimates are coming to hand of a disappointing kind and the belief is that the wheat crop will be an average one. Holders of old wheat are very firm and shipments light."

The past thirty days was a period of declining prices in the grain trade due to the pressure of the enormous winter wheat crop on the market and some slackening down of late in the export demand owing to a disposition on the part of foreigners to await a readjustment of quotations before adding to their commitments. As however, the American markets had become the cheapest in the world, it was thought by experts that the selling had been carried too far and a fair upturn came about during the closing days of last week. At 89¾c at the close of business last Friday, the figure in July wheat showed a decline of 3¾c compared with June 1, while the September option was 6⅞c lower at 82¼c.

Through the co-operation of the Saskatchewan provincial government a contract for the sale of the product of wool growers in Saskatchewan has been concluded with Flisemann Bros., Boston, Mass. Growers of the province will receive from 16¼ to 16¾ cents net. This compares with prices from 8 to 10 cents for last year's clip. Removal of the United States tariff on wool is partly the cause of improved prices. The higher quotations are expected to stimulate wool-growing throughout Western Canada.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Is Bullish With Bad Weather for Spring Crop.

Chicago, July 6.—Unfavorable weather in the spring crop region had a bullish effect today on wheat. Fear continued as to black rust, some traces of which were suspected to have been found near Larimore, N. D. Exceptionally heavy receipts of new winter wheat in Chicago tended, however, to act as an offset. The opening, which varied from ⅛ @ ⅝c off to ¾c advance, was followed by a material rise all around, though afterward the gain entirely disappeared and July underwent a decided sag.

Assertions that the largest yield known in Nebraska was assured counted against the bulls but reports that black rust was general along the southern edge of South Dakota brought about a rally. The close was firm, ½c to ⅝ @ ⅝c net higher.

Heavy selling by commission houses broke the price of corn. Rain southwest where the crops have been suffering for moisture furnished the incentive. After starting unchanged to ⅝c lower, quotations rallied somewhat and then went sharply down-grade.

December prices touched a new low level for the crop, but a liberal decrease in the visible supply total helped cause a reaction. The close was steady at ⅛c to ⅝ @ ⅝c net decline.

Complaints of rust held the oats market relatively steady. Nevertheless, prices showed a little sympathy with the corn weakness.

Higher prices for hogs had only a temporary influence on provisions. Demand was almost wholly confined to ribs.

Chicago Livestock.

Chicago, July 6.—Hog prices bounded upward today, the volume of receipts being only half as large as on the corresponding day last week. Cattle offerings also were too few for the immediate requirements of the trade, but buyers were slow to take hold. A similar condition existed as to sheep and lambs.

Hogs—Receipts, 19,000; strong, higher; bulk, $8.20@8.55; light, $8.20@8.52½; mixed, $8.20@8.62; heavy, $8.05@8.62½; rough, $8.05@8.20; pigs, $7.40@8.30.

London Stocks.

London, July 6.—American securities were quiet with a good undertone during the forenoon. Later fair Wall Street buying stiffened quotations and made the closing steady.

EVEN.

Delineator: A small boy had been given a penny with a hole in it. Handing it to a still smaller companion, he said:

"Jimmie, I dare you to go into that store and buy something with this penny."

Jimmie was quite willing. Entering boldly, he said:

"I want a doughnut." And, taking it, he hastily presented the penny.

"Here," said the clerk, "this penny has a hole in it."

"So has the doughnut," announced Jimmy, triumphantly holding it up.

SHOW SIGNS OF STRENGTH

Representative Stocks Are Sustained in Wall Street.

Moderate Gains Are Made in Unimportant Specialties.

New York, July 6.—The more hopeful feeling manifested by the speculative element last week, was again in evidence at the outset of today's dealings in the stock market. Early prices here were generally above last Friday's close. Union Pacific was the feature, soon gaining a point, with fair advances in Southern Pacific and Amalgamated. Other active issues were only slightly higher. Rock Island common moved contrary to the general list, with a new low record and Sears-Roebuck yielded a small part of its recent spectacular rise.

Following the prevailing tendency, the market fell back into its customary dullness after the first hour, with moderate recessions from the best. Northern Pacific, Norfolk & Western and Amalgamated were the only important stocks to rival Union Pacific, with 1 point gain. The special group, however, advances of 1 to 2 points were scored by Pittsburg Coal preferred, Goodrich, Steel, Foundries, American Coal products preferred, and United States Express. The only pronounced feature of the irregular bond market was a new low record for Missouri Pacific convertibles, at 58⅞.

London maintained its bearish attitude throughout the session, selling about 10,000 shares of Union Pacific, Reading and Steel, in addition to its sales in the home market. This was partly offset by moderate buying of coppers. Trading was stagnant at midday, with only the merest fractional changes in the leaders.

An easier trend was shown in the late trading, but for the most part the list was motionless. Final prices resulted in a sprinkling of small gains.

Except for underlying strength in representative issues and moderate gains in unimportant specialties, trade throughout the day was without significance. The closing was firm.

NOTICE OF EXPIRATION OF REDEMPTION.—

Forfeited Tax Sale Held Under Chapter 543 Laws of 1913.

State of Minnesota, County of St. Louis.—ss.

Office of County Auditor:

To Lido E. Hanger. You are hereby notified that the following piece or parcel of land, situated in the County of St. Louis, and State of Minnesota, and known and described as follows, to-wit: Lot eleven (11), Block twenty-seven (27), Dodge's Addition to Duluth, according to the recorded plat thereof, is now assessed in your name.

That a real estate tax judgment was entered in the District Court in and for the above named County on March 24, 1914, against the above described piece or parcel of land in said county, in proceedings under Chapter 543, Laws of 1913, to enforce payment of real estate taxes which had become and were delinquent for each and all of the fifteen (15) years next prior to the year 1914, and said piece or parcel of land was not redeemed from said judgment before the sale hereinafter mentioned.

That on the 12th day of May, A. D. 1914, the said piece or parcel of land was sold at public sale by the county auditor of said county in accordance with the provisions of said Chapter 543, Laws of 1913, for the sum of Thirteen dollars and no cents, which sum was duly paid to the county treasurer of said county.

That the certificate of sale for said piece or parcel of land executed and delivered by said county auditor upon said sale last above mentioned has been presented to me at my office by the holder thereof for the purpose of having notice of expiration of time for redemption from said tax sale of said property given and served.

That the amount required to redeem said piece or parcel of land from said tax sale, exclusive of the costs to accrue upon this notice, is the sum of Thirteen dollars and no cents, and interest thereon at the rate of twelve per cent per annum from the date of said sale to the day such redemption is made.

That the time for the redemption of said piece or parcel of land from said tax sale will expire sixty (60) days after service of this notice, and the filing of proof of such service in my office.

Witness my hand and seal of office this 10th day of June, A. D. 1914.

O. HALDEN,
As Auditor of St. Louis County, Minnesota.

By L. A. MARVIN,
Deputy County Auditor.

(Official Seal County Auditor, St. Louis County, Minnesota.)

The above form of notice is hereby approved February 25, 1914.

LYNDON A. SMITH, Attorney General.
D. H., June 22, 29 and July 6, 1914.

DEFAULT HAS BEEN MADE IN THE conditions of a mortgage containing a power of sale, executed and delivered by Charles Evans Holt and Rebecca E. Holt, his wife, mortgagors, to William M. Hubbard, mortgagee, bearing date the 6th day of July, 1912 duly filed in the office of the Registrar of Titles in and for the County of St. Louis and State of Minnesota on the 9th day of July, 1912, at 2:30 o'clock P. M., and registered as Document Number Nine Thousand Six Hundred Sixty-one (9661), and said mortgage was then in fact so registered and a memorial thereof was then duly entered upon the certificate of title to the land affected by said mortgage, which land, upon the date of said mortgage, was, and is now, registered and said certificate of title thereto appears in Volume 4, at page 209, in said office and is numbered 944. Said mortgage was given to secure the payment of one principal note for $4,500.00 and six interest coupons representing the several installments of interest on said principal note. Said mortgage contains a provision that should default be made in any of the provisions of said mortgage, or in the payment of interest thereon, or the taxes on the premises therein described, the holder of said note may declare the principal due and may sell said premises agreeably to the statute in such case made and provided, and whereas, default has been made in the payment of the sum of eighty-three dollars and twenty cents ($83.20) interest, evidenced by the interest coupon which became due January 6th, 1914, and the same remains unpaid at the date of this notice, and default has been made in the payment of the taxes for the years 1912 and 1913, and each of them, and the same remain unpaid at the date of this notice, the holder of said mortgage hereby declares the principal note due. The amount claimed to be due and which is actually due at the date of this notice is the sum of $4,756.20. No action at law or otherwise has been commenced for the recovery of the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof. Notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz:

Lots one hundred one (101), one hundred three (103), one hundred five (105), one hundred seven (107) and one hundred nine (109), in block thirty-four (34), Duluth Proper, Third Division, according to the recorded plat thereof on file and of record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said County and State, in St. Louis County, in the State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said St. Louis County, at his office in the Court House, in the City of Duluth, in said County and State, on the 11th day of August, 1914, at 10 o'clock A. M. on that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt of $4,756.20 and interest and taxes, if any, on said premises, and $75.00 attorneys' fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale as provided by law.

Dated June 29th, 1914.

ORDER TO EXAMINE FINAL ACCOUNT—

State of Minnesota, County of St. Louis.—ss.

In Probate Court. In the matter of the estate of Theron Holbrook Hawkes, decedent.

The petition of Florence Curtis Hawkes, Wm. M. Prindle and A. W. Frick as representatives of the above named decedent, together with their final account of the administration of said estate, having been filed in this court, representing, among other things that they have fully administered said estate, and praying that said final account of said administration be examined, adjusted and allowed by the Court, and that the Court make and enter its final decree of distribution of the residue of the estate of said decedent to the persons entitled thereto, and for the discharge of the representatives and the sureties on their bond. It Is Ordered, That said petition be heard, and said final account examined, adjusted, and if correct, allowed by the Court, at the Probate Court Rooms in the Court House, in the City of Duluth in said County, on Monday the 20th day of July, 1914, at 10 o'clock A. M., and all persons interested in said hearing and in said matter are hereby cited and required at said time and place to show cause, if any there be, why said petition should not be granted. Ordered Further, That this order be served by publication in The Duluth Herald according to law.

Dated at Duluth, Minn., June 27th, 1914.

By the Court,
S. W. GILPIN, Judge of Probate.

WARBURG OFF BANK BOARD---QUORUM WILL ORGANIZE THE WORK

Harding, Miller and Hamlin Confirmed By the Senate.

Jones Faces Committee and Shows His Business Pedigree.

New York Man's Withdrawal Not Unexpected at Capital.

Washington, July 7.—Paul M. Warburg of New York today formally requested President Wilson to withdraw his nomination to be a member of the Federal reserve board. The president will do so today.

Mr. Warburg, a member of the banking nouse of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., was nominated for a four-year term. When the senate banking committee began examining personally all the five candidates nominated by the president, Mr. Warburg indicated he did not wish to be questioned by the committee as a condition to taking the appointment. Today he called the White House offices by telephone and personally requested the president to withdraw his nomination.

Quorum Already Secured.

There was no indication whom the president might choose to fill the place. The change in personnel, however, will not further delay the actual organization of the new currency system. The senate yesterday confirmed W. P. G. Harding, A. C. Miller and Charles S. Hamlin as members of the board, and they with Secretary McAdoo and Comptroller Williams, who serve as members ex-officio, constitute a quorum, which now may proceed with the work.

Withdrawal Was Expected.

Members of the banking committee thought Mr. Warburg's communications to officials here several weeks ago indicated a desire to have his name withdrawn, but Acting Chairman Hitchcock telegraphed an invitation for him to appear Thursday and submit to the committee's questions. It was suggested, however, that Mr. Warburg probably would decline the invitation, and that this would be followed by an announcement from the White House that the nomination had been withdrawn.

Mr. Hamlin, Mr. Miller and Mr. Harding will take the oath of office within a few days, and the setting in motion of the new Federal banking system can begin at once.

Jones Before Committee.

Thomas D. Jones of Chicago, was

DOUBT NEW CRIMES ARE PART OF SERIES

Chicago Police Seek Motive for Murder of Family.

Chicago, July 7.—Hampered by an apparent total absence of motive, the police today continued the search for the murderer who, with an ax, killed Jacob Mislich, his wife, their daughter, Mrs. Martha Mansfield, and her 7-month-old infant, Sunday night. The police were loathe to believe that the slayer was the mysterious ax murderer credited with the deaths of twenty-five other persons killed by ax blows in the last three years in the Middle West.

Principal object of the search was a half-witted man, a former boarder with the Mislich family, who had difficulties with Mislich. William Mansfield, son-in-law of Mislich, who has not been seen by the family for a year, was also sought. No evidence implicated either.

Michael Cheriwinki, another former boarder, was questioned and released yesterday.

DOT BRITISH COAST WITH AIRSHIP FORTS

Series of Towers Armed With Quick-Firing Guns Is Planned.

London, July 7.—As a defense against attacks by aircraft, the British government today decided to dot the coasts of the British Isles with a series of towers, each armed with two quick-firing guns of special design. A complete series of towers is to be erected around naval stations such as Portsmouth and Rosyth and at other especially vulnerable points.

WINS 5,000-MILE RACE WITH DEATH

Revenue Cutter Captain Rushes From Alaska to Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 7.—Capt. P. H. Uberroth of the revenue cutter service ended a 5,000 mile race from Unalaska today when he arrived at the bedside of his wife in this city. Mrs. Uberroth was stricken several weeks ago, and a serious operation became necessary. Her husband, who was in command of the revenue cutter McCulloch in Alaskan waters, was notified, and left on his long journey fourteen days ago. His son, Lieut. F. E. P. Uberroth, who was on the battleship Vermont at Vera Cruz, was also summoned and arrived home Saturday night.

Mrs. Uberroth's condition today was unchanged. She refused to undergo the operation until her husband and son arrived.

WILL SEEK FATHER'S SEAT IN PARLIAMENT

AUSTEN CHAMBERLAIN.

London, July 7.—J. Austen Chamberlain has decided to resign his seat in parliament in order to seek re-election in his late father's Birmingham constituency. Mr. Chamberlain now sits for the Broms Grove division of Worstershire.

DENY STORY OF DEFENSE

New Witnesses Called By State in Petras Trial.

Defendant Testifies and Contradicts All Important Points.

Geneva, Ill., July 7.—Several witnesses were put on the stand today in the Petras murder trial to dispute the testimony of two witnesses for Petras who said that Walter Hickman, the negro who told that Petras got off the car on which the defendant and Theresa Hollander rode the night of the murder and ran back towards where the girl alighted a block away, had told a different story on the stand than what he told acquaintances.

The state's witnesses said that they had heard the conversation the witnesses for Petras had had with Hickman, and that Hickman had told the Petras witnesses the day after Miss Hollander's body was found in St. Nicholas cemetery, Aurora, identically the same story he told on the witness stand.

Three members of the Aurora police force were also called to take issue with the testimony of Petras that he saw lanterns flashing near the Hollander house the night of the murder, and thus got an idea as to what had occurred.

Defendant on Stand.

Petras took the stand yesterday in his own behalf, and disputed the vital testimony of every important witness for the state. He denied that he ever asked the girl to marry him, as her mother testified. He asserted he did not ride a block farther than the Hollander girl on a street car the night she was killed, and then run back toward her, as Walter Hickman had said. He contradicted the testimony of the street car conductor and passengers that Hickman got off the car with him.

Petras swore he never saw the knife which was found in St. Nicholas cemetery near the girl's body. Several witnesses said they saw the same knife at a house where Petras boarded, and one of them asserted he saw Petras have it.

The testimony of other men that he had threatened them for going with Theresa was false, Petras swore. His wife is the only woman he has ever loved, he said.

Calm Under Examination.

The defendant was calm under a rigid cross examination. The defense practically closed its case with his testimony, there remaining but two or three minor witnesses to be called.

EIGHT MEN ADRIFT IN FISHING BOAT

Revenue Cutter Seeks Craft Off New Jersey Coast.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 7.—The Maritime Exchange in this city was today notified by the Hereford Fish company of Angelsea, N. J., that eight men are adrift in a fishing boat off the southern New Jersey coast. A revenue cutter has been requested to search for the men.

DOMINICI COMES TO SUCCEED ROJAS.

Washington, July 7.—Santos A. Dominici has been appointed minister from Venezuela to the United States, succeeding the late Minister Rojas. Senor Dominici now is minister to Great Britain, Germany and Belgium, and formerly was president of the Venezuelan National university under Former President Castro.

DISCORD IS RUMORED IN FREEPORT MURDER PROBE---INQUEST HALTS

Private Detectives Are Hired By County for Investigation.

Mrs. Carman's Story Is Disputed By Two Women.

THREATENED DR. CARMAN.

Philadelphia, July 7.—John Howe of this city says a woman with whom Howe was cruising threatened to kill Dr. Carman. He would not give her name.

Freeport, N. Y., July 7.—Private and county detectives continued today their investigation of the murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey, who was mysteriously shot June 30 while in the office of Dr. Edwin Carman.

Dr. Carman said today that he welcomed the arrival last night of the head of a national detective agency and his men.

"If the county had not hired this man, I would have done so when the inquest was concluded," he said. "During the interviews this man and his subordinates have had with my wife they did their best, just as the county authorities did, to make her change her story. I believe she has told the whole truth. The detective chief is welcome. I will give him all the help I possibly can."

Inquest Suddenly Ended.

The abrupt ending of the coroner's inquest into the slaying of Mrs. Bailey, and the announcement that the Nassau county grand jury would begin an investigation of the case on Thursday next led to reports today that the testimony of the most important witnesses was being withheld while clews developed at the hearing yesterday could be followed up.

A disagreement between Coroner Norton and Sheriff Stephen P. Pettit was also hinted at, and it was even said that the sheriff and district attorney had determined to present their case to the grand jury, thereby ignoring the coroner's inquiry.

Insists on Woman Theory.

District Attorney Smith made no effort today to conceal his theory of the case. He insists that the murder was accomplished by a woman, but so far has kept the object of his suspicion a secret. The district attorney's action in retaining a detective agency to investigate the murder served to prove in the minds of many who have watched the progress of the case that

PIG IRON RATES UNREASONABLE

Washington, July 7.—In the so-called Birmingham pig iron case, the interstate commerce commission today held that the existing rates on pig iron from the Birmingham district to Louisville, St. Louis, Chicago and Boston by rail and water are unreasonable.

No change was ordered on proportional rates to Ohio river crossings, but it was ordered that they be revised so as not to throw all the reductions on the southern lines.

Existing rail and water rates to interior New England are pronounced unreasonable, and reasonable rates to Portland, Me., Springfield, Mass., and Lowell, Mass., are prescribed, with reductions to interior New England points.

Speakers at N. E. A. Meeting Discuss Salaries of Teachers.

Johnson Claims Enough Votes to Win the Election

St. Paul, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—"The indifference of the public to all forms of intellectual effort is the discouraging characteristic of our times," declared Charles William Dabney, president of the University of Cincinnati, in an address today before the National Education association.

Prof. Dabney was one of the chief speakers at a session devoted to a discussion of teachers' salaries and pensions.

Several different departments held meetings today, taking up problems which it is hoped will be solved before the close of the convention.

"The rich man who employs a $25,000 lawyer or a $10,000 physician," Prof. Dabney said, "regards a $1,500 college professor as good enough to train his son. Money-making, politics, sports and picture shows are holding the interest of the public. The teacher, to the ordinary man, is a mere bookworm."

Asked Increased Salaries.

He made a plea for increased salaries and professors, whom he termed finders of new knowledge and makers of men, and added:

"The higher cost of living, and the cost of higher living, combined, bear more heavily on college professors than any other class. The effective

EMPRESS OF IRELAND DECISION SATURDAY

Collier Storstad Is Sold in Admiralty Court for $175,000.

Montreal, July 7.—The judgment of the commission which inquired into the wreck of the Empress of Ireland will be delivered next Saturday, according to advices today from Quebec.

The collier Storstad, which rammed and sunk the Empress in the St. Lawrence river on May 29, was sold today in the admiralty court for $175,000. It is understood that the purchasers were the original owners.

The Storstad was held as security for damages in the $2,000,000 action brought by the Canadian Pacific railway, owners of the Empress.

INDIAN SONG LOWERS BARS

Blackfoot, Imprisoned as Murderer, Is Pardoned By President.

"Injustice Probably Done" Is Decision After 34 Years.

Washington, July 7.—After thirty-four years behind the bars under a life sentence for murder, Spopee, a Blackfoot Indian, was unconditionally pardoned today by President Wilson. He will be released at once from the Federal hospital for the insane here, to return to his daughter at Browning, Mont., whom he has not seen since she was a baby.

A party of Blackfeet sight-seeing in Washington months ago, happened upon Spopee, who had grown gray with his long imprisonment. They established his tribal identity by an Indian song, and one of the interpreters recognized in Spopee the hero of an old legend, who had disappeared a score of years ago into some white man's jail. Blackfoot mothers have been singing their children to sleep with a song about him ever since.

Officials of the Indian office, advised

REPORT FROM GEN. FUNSTON IS RECEIVED

Says He Has Been Warned By Mexican Federal Commander.

Carranza's Dismissal of Angeles May Spoil Peace Plan.

Results of Torreon Conference Anxiously Awaited at Washington.

Washington, July 7.—Brig. Gen. Funston, in a dispatch to the war department, today confirmed reports of a mutiny among Gen. Huerta's forces before the American outposts at Vera Cruz. Gen. Funston reported the Mexican commander had informed him of the uprising and of the threat of the mutineers to attack the American lines. If an attack should be made, in view of the Mexican commander's action in notifying Gen. Funston, it would not be regarded as "an attack under orders."

Gen. Funston also informed the war department that Marine Private Heinrich Thobe, who recently mysteriously disappeared, was within the Mexican lines and unharmed, but gave no details.

Englishman Released.

Official confirmation of the release of St. Clair Douglas, the Englishman charged with assisting the Federals and sentenced to death at Zacatecas by the Constitutionalists, has reached the state department. The United States made representations in his behalf.

Carranza's action in dismissing Gen. Felipe Angeles from the Constitutionalist army, with its prospects of another break with Villa, was the principal topic of discussion today among Constitutionalist agents here. Charles

ALL EAGER TO BE HEIRS OF UNKNOWN

French Villagers All Excited Over Story From California.

Montpelier, France, July 7.—The people of the little village of Fraissinet-de-Fourques are in a state of feverish excitement over the news that a former resident of the village named Combemale, who left many years ago to seek his fortune, had recently died in California, without issue, leaving an estate valued at 30,000,000 francs ($6,000,000). There are many families of that name in the region, and all are searching among their private papers and the public records for evidence by which to establish their relationship, with the object of setting up a claim for the millions.

NO STAMPEDE TO THE WESTINGHOUSE SHOPS

Strikers Are in No Hurry to Reclaim Old Jobs.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 7.—The expected rush of strikers to claim their old jobs at the plants of the Westinghouse companies did not take place this morning, although a hundred or more men were added to the working force in the electric shops. State troopers and strike pickets experienced no difficulty in maintaining good order.

It became known today that a number of radical labor leaders had asked the general committee for permission to address the strikers, but when they were told they must not advocate violence it was said they withdrew their requests.

WILL WARN GENERAL TO GUARD HIS TALK

Reprimand to Evans in the Form of Letter From Chief.

Washington, July .—The reprimand which President Wilson ordered for Brig. Gen. Robert K. Evans will take the form of a letter from Secretary Garrison admonishing that officer not to discuss controversial subjects in public.

At a banquet recently in New York, Gen. Evans, temporarily in command of the eastern department, was reported as referring to the United States as "the most meddlesome nation." Although he declared he had been misquoted, Gen. Evans admitted discussion of American diplomacy. Secretary Garrison's letter will close the incident.

WHITE WAY GROWS DARK

Property Owners Unwilling to Maintain Lights on Superior Street.

Commissioners Opposed to Having City Assume the Expense.

The city's original "Great White Way" on East Superior street from First avenue east to Seventh avenue east, is going "on the blink."

It's only about one-half "Great White Way" now and the remainder is steadily decreasing. Quite soon it seems likely to be a dark and lightless "Great White Way."

Last month G. G. Hartley, owner of a considerable part of the property on that part of Superior street, notified the Duluth-Edison Electric company and the city that he would no longer be responsible for current burned in the lights in front of his holdings. At the same time he informed Mayor Prince of his decision. The mayor took it up with H. J. Mullin, who was largely responsible for the creation of the "Great White Way." Mr. Mullin replied that he thought Mr. Hartley was entirely right in his decision and added the encouraging information that other large property owners were contemplating similar action. Mr. Mullin averred that it was a sad commentary upon the city that improvements of this sort received scant attention from city officials.

That other property owners have followed Mr. Hartley's lead is evident, for C. L. Van Bergen, secretary and general manager of the Duluth-Edison company, said this morning that only half of the lights are now being maintained, stop orders having been filed on the other half.

Wants City to Pay.

In his reply to the mayor's letter, Mr. Mullin said that it is time that the city made provision for paying for the lighting of the "Great White Way." He pointed out that the property owners have purchased and installed the "Great White Way" at their own expense and have maintained it for about five years.

Commissioner Leonidas Merritt, head of the utilities division, to whom the matter was referred at the meeting of the council yesterday afternoon, said that his recommendation would be to let the lights go out, as he did not think that the city could go to that expense with the limited lighting funds at its command. He pointed out that there are many sections of the city without lights to which that money could be applied, if any were available, where it would be more needed than a "Great White Way" on East Superior street.

Finance Commissioner Voss said substantially the same. He stated that if the property owners would no longer pay the bills he would favor letting the lights remain out and reinstalling the corner arc lamps.

At the time the "Great White Way" was placed along that part of Superior street the property owners bought the standards and agreed to pay the bills. Some time ago they turned them over to the city. When the proposition was first started, the city agreed to pay as much for the lighting of the standards as was being paid for arc lamps. The city was not enthusiastic and when the standards were turned over to the city it was with the express provision that the city would not accept any responsibility for their maintenance. And from present indications the city will continue the same attitude which it has maintained from the inception of the project.

SCHMAHL IN PREUS FIGHT

St. Paul, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The recount of the vote for the Republican nomination for state auditor threatens to be long drawn out. This morning Secretary of State Schmahl announced that he had joined with J. A. C. Preus in a demand upon Judge Stahlberg of the Nineteenth judicial district for a change of venue to either Ramsey or Hennepin counties. Hennepin county is preferred by the two as the seat of operations.

Today Mr. Preus, who is the contestee, said the demand for a change of venue had been filed with the clerk of Kanabec county. This particular clerk is a newspaper partner of Mr. Rines. He said he had reasons to believe the change of venue would be granted without any further controversy.

War Sinews Ready.

It was said today that both Mr. Preus and Mr. Rines are backed by friends who stand ready to put across the necessary money to get them over the line. Rines, it is reported, is backed by Northern Minnesota attorneys and admirers, while Preus has his chief backing in Minneapolis and St. Paul.

At the office of Mr. Preus, his deputy, Mr. Peterson, while acknowledging that he knew nothing regarding a possible demand for change of venue, said if such was taken, it would be because of the fact that Mr. Preus desired as the contestee to have the presiding court in the home of his friends.

Poor Farm Cares For Many.

A total of 249 persons was cared for at the three institutions maintained by St. Louis county at the poor farm during the month of June, according to the superintendent's monthly report. Out of this number there were thirteen deaths, ten in the tuberculosis pavilion, three at the hospital and none in the almshouse. Six of forty-five patients cared for during June at the tuberculosis hospital were discharged, one being deported from the country and the other going to Nopeming sanitarium.

Not Enough Evidence.

Because of lack of evidence the cases against John C. Wright, Robert English and Walter Stahl, who were accused of having stolen a box of shoe strings from a shining parlor last Friday, were dismissed in police court yesterday afternoon when the hour set for trial arrived. The trio pleaded not guilty when arraigned following their arrest.

"Decks" Make Good Record.

During the month of June the police recovered 72 per cent of the property lost or stolen in the city, according to the report for the month submitted to Chief Troyer yesterday by Detective Lieut. Terry. The property lost and stolen was valued at $8,206.53, while the police succeeded in recovering property worth $5,944.75.

Where's the Baby?

A baby's go-cart found yesterday afternoon at Third avenue west and Fourth street is being held at police headquarters for the owner.

Blind-Pigger Fined.

Charles Govin, proprietor of a summer resort at Vermilion lake, who was arrested over a week ago on a charge of selling liquor without a license and who pleaded guilty at the time, was yesterday afternoon fined $10 or sixty days on the work farm. He was given a stay in order that he might raise the money.

Now at Vera Cruz.

Chief Gunner's Mate McClure, who was stationed at the local navy recruiting office for a year up to May 1 last, is now on board the battleship Vermont at Vera Cruz, according to a letter received yesterday by Chief Quartermaster Erickson. McClure reports the weather to be extremely hot in the Mexican port.

Died of Ruptured Artery.

Following a post mortem examination, Coroner McComb yesterday afternoon declared that Olaf E. Bergman, 42 years old, who dropped dead in a shed on his farm near Palmer's Siding last Saturday, died of a ruptured artery. The body was taken to Palmer's Siding this afternoon.

Father Is Missing.

Irving Birdno, Jr., of 125½ East Fifth street reported to the police last night that his father failed to return home. He is janitor at the Manhattan building and about 8 o'clock his son came down to relieve him, as he complained of being ill. The police have not yet been informed of his return home.

Scots Will Sail.

The annual moonlight excursion of Clan Stewart, Order of Scottish Clans, will take place this evening. The steamer Columbia has been chartered and will leave the Lake avenue dock at 8:30, with, what is expected to be, a large crowd. The bag-pipe band of the clan will march from the hall at Fourth avenue west and First street to the dock, and the others will follow the band.

Condition Is Critical.

Mrs. Charles R. Haines of 501 East Third street, who was taken to St. Mary's hospital several weeks ago, is still critically ill. Her condition has changed but little in the last ten days.

Case Goes to Jury.

In Judge Fesler's division of the district court this afternoon, the case of Louis Sandstrom against the Western Sales Stables company was given to the jury. The case is one in which the plaintiff is suing the defendants for $728 claimed to be due on a series of horse deals. The defendant concern denies the liability.

Mayoralty Contest Continued.

The Silberstein-Prince mayoralty contest, which was scheduled for a hearing before Judge Cant in district court yesterday afternoon, was, by mutual consent of the attorneys interested, continued until the latter part of the present week.

HEIR TO FORTUNE; DOES NOT KNOW IT

Traveling in some part of Northern Minnesota is Ernest La Rose of London, Eng., in ignorance of the fact that he is heir to a large fortune left by his uncle in England.

The young man came to America with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. La Rose, and his brother, Edward. The parents remained in New York and the two sons started out to see the West. Ernest came to this part of the country and while he frequently sent postal cards telling of his travels, his parents do not know where to reach him. After he left New York news was received of the death of an uncle of the young man, in England, and the parents and the brother are planning to sail for London on July 15.

Edward La Rose is in Duluth. He stopped at 122 East First street and advertised in The Herald for news of his brother.

BARITZ IS RELEASED

Socialist Orator Says His Language Was Figurative Only.

Moses Baritz, the Socialist orator, didn't mean it literally.

He was charged in police court with having said in a street speech: "To hell with heaven and to heaven with hell."

To Judge Cutting today, when arraigned, he said that he did not mean his remarks literally. It was a figure of speech, he declared, and intimated that he did not really want to make such a jumble of the hereafter as his remarks would indicate.

So, seeing that he did not want to disturb destinations, Judge Cutting discharged him with an admonition not to be so ambiguous another time.

Courtroom Crowded.

When the case was called at 10:30 o'clock this morning the courtroom was crowded to the doors, with a large number of men standing in the aisles and in the rear. City Prosecutor Gurnee conducted the prosecution, while Richard Jones, Socialist, and candidate for state senator, represented Baritz.

Patrolman C. W. Cavaneugh, the officer who arrested Baritz, was the first witness called and he told how he had listened to the address made by the Socialist orator at First avenue west and that after telephoning headquarters had received orders to bring Baritz in. Among the remarks he accused Baritz of making were: "To hell with the ministers," " to hell with heaven" and "hell" three other times during the course of his address.

Isadore Natelson and Nate Natelson, brothers, who listened to Baritz's address for an hour, were the next witnesses called by Prosecutor Gurnee. They substantiated the statements made by Patrolman Cavanaugh and declared they also heard "To hell with the ministers" and " to hell with heaven." Charles Schultz, another bystander, also testified.

Baritz was put on the stand by Mr. Jones and he denied the allegations and declared he was reading from vice commission reports when he used alleged profane language. At noon both sides had concluded their testimony and Judge Cutting continued the case until this afternoon, when he heard the arguments of the counsel before passing sentence.

Baritz is a native of England, but has been in this country for several years. He is a prominent Socialist and is very well known as a street lecturer throughout Canada and the United States.

FIVE REFUSE NOMINATION

C. A. Bronson, clerk of the board of education is today making up the ballot for the annual school election to be held on July 18, which will be one week from next Saturday. At the school board meeting last Friday evening the matter of fixing up the ballot was left open until today in order that the clerk might find out who, among the twenty nominated, would permit their names to be used, it being a matter of doubt as to several. The result is that five of those nominated have withdrawn. Two others were nominated for both the long and short terms. It has been determined that O. J. Larson, nominated for both the three-year and the one-year terms will be on the ballot for the three-year term and that Dr. D. E. Seashore, also doubly nominated, will be listed for the one-year term. This was determined because of the fact that Mr. Larson had more signatures to his nomination petition for the three-year term than for the other and in the case of Dr. Seashore, the situation was the opposite.

Frank Crassweller, who is in Detroit, Mich., wired to have his name withdrawn. Andrew Nelson withdrew the night of the meeting, Dr. A. J. Braden has refused to be a candidate, and so has E. G. Church, while W. E. Magner had refused before the nominations were made and has since reiterated his decision. That leaves the candidates as follows:

For three years—E. R. Cobb, L. Q. Greeley, John H. Norton, D. E. Stevens, G. W. C. Ross, H. J. Grannis, W. J. Dutcher, L. M. Johnson, Nicholas Visti, O. J. Larson, John Alvin and W. H. Hoyt.

For one year—D. E. Seashore and Mrs. Selma Henrickson.

WILL EXTEND TWO RURAL PHONE LINES

Permission to construct rural telephone lines along county highways was granted by the county board this morning to the Homestead Farmers' club and the Alborn Telephone company.

The Homestead Farmers' club desires to use a county highway from Palmers ,north and west six miles to the West Knife River road.

The Alborn Telephone company, at a previous meeting of the board, was given permission to use the Swan Lake, Stony Brook and Shipley roads. Today it was granted permission to extend its line along the Miller Trunk, McArthur, Culver, Agnew and Eklund roads.

BOYS WILL GO SWIMMING

The weekly outdoor swimming trip for members of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A., will be held tomorrow afternoon. Boys going may meet at the boys' building at 2:15 or at the aerial bridge at 2:30. Each boy will take tights.

The weekly Saturday outing will be held at Park Point. The program will include swimming and other acquatic events, games, bonfire, lunch and marshmallow roast. After supper a regular campfire program will be pulled off. All members of the club are invited.

These hot days are drawing many to the swimming pool. Boys who do not know how to swim, are being taught. The swimming days are Mondays and Fridays at 2:30; Tuesday and Thursdays at 7:30. The clubrooms of the boys' department are open every day.

Plans for Camp Miller are progressing. Reports from the lake state that everything is in readiness for the opening of the camp July 27.

PAVING FIRM HAS ALL LOWEST BIDS

A hearing of property owners will be held in the office of the works division in the city hall at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning to select the kind of paving to be laid on South First avenue east from the railroad tracks to Buchanan street and on Sutphin street between South First avenue east and Lake avenue.

Bids on the jobs were opened yesterday. The low bids were all by D. H. Clough & Co., as follows

Brick with sandstone curb, $33,363.93; brick with granite curb, $35,018.08; creosote block with granite curb, $35,252.28; sandstone with sandstone curb, $36,113.48; sandstone with granite curb, $36,459.33; one-course concrete, $26,770.91; two-course concrete, $26,573.11. Three other bidders submitted figures but all were higher than those of D. H. Clough & Co.

The works division plans to do the work this season and will probably award a contract as soon as the kind of material has been decided.

WOULD PREVENT CHANGE OF ROAD

Seeking to prevent any changes from being made in that portion of the Lester river road which traverses his farm, Louis R. Birch has started an injunctional suit against St. Louis county and Henry J. Dickey, a road foreman, in which he asks that the county be permanently enjoined from making a proposed alteration of the road where it crosses his land. The Birch farm is located in section 28, 51-13.

A temporary restraining order forbidding the county and its road foreman in that district from taking any steps to change the road was served upon County Auditor Halden today by attorneys for Birch. The order will remain in effect until the morning of July 11, when a hearing will be had on the question of whether or not a temporary injunction will be granted pending a trial of the suit on its merits.

County officials who have to do with the building of roads, are required to appear in court on July 11 and show cause, if any they have, why they should not be temporarily enjoined not only from constructing the proposed change in the route but from paying out any money for such work.

The road is in Commissioner T. H. Little's district. It is proposed to change the route where it crosses Birch's land by swinging it to the east line of section 21. Birch objects claiming the road is all right the way it is now and that no proceedings have ever been established which authorize the change. He also claims that his property will be cut up into pieces by useless and unnecessary roads.

OBITUARY

Frank Knox Morton Rehn, an artist of New York, died suddenly just outside his summer home at Magnolia, Mass., July 6. Mr. Rehn, who was born in Philadelphia 66 years ago, had been awarded medals and prizes for his marines, landscapes and portraits in many exhibitions.

BOARD HAS TWO WHITE RIBBONERS

T. H. Little, newly appointed commissioner from the Second district, made clear his stand on the liquor license question today when he registered his vote against the granting of a license renewal to Hugh McCoy of the town of Great Scott. The board now has two anti-license men, Commissioner Little and Commissioner Swanstrom of the Third commissioner district. The latter has consistently voted against every application for a liquor license since he has been on the board.

The county board will stand pat on its decision at its June meeting not to issue any more saloon licenses this year. The county now has seventeen saloons, and this was considered by the board to be enough for the present. When the application of Ellis Walsh for a license to conduct a saloon near Virginia came before the board this morning, it was tabled after some discussion.

The board this morning granted a license for the sale of cigarettes on the application of A. S. Wittich.

"ELLSBURG" IS NEWEST TOWN

"Ellsburg" is the name of St. Louis county's latest town.

The new town came into being this morning when the board of county commissioners passed a resolution authorizing its incorporation.

The territory comprised by the new town is described as townships 55-16 and 55-17. The first meeting of the town will be held at the Cameron hotel at Ellsburg station on the Canadian Northern line on Aug. 1.

TIMBER TRESPASS CASE.

A jury was drawn in Judge Ensign's division of the district court this morning to try a timber trespass action brought by John Swanson, homesteader, against Saari Brothers, loggers. Swanson asks for $818.16 as treble damages for pine and spruce timber claimed to have been taken from his land between Nov. 1, 1911 and April 1, 1912. The defendants do not deny the trespass, but allege that the damages did not exceed $8. A tender of $25 as treble damages is made in the answer of the case. Swanson's land is described as the northeast quarter of section 32, 56-16.

'TIS NOT TRUE

Is What Some Doubters Will Say About This Case—You Should Surely Investigate It.

Mrs. John Elliott, of Mt. Clemens, expelled two separate and complete tapeworms after taking Quaker Extract only a week. There will be quite a few of the usual doubters, who never believe any thing they hear and not much of what they really see, who will express doubts as to the truthfulness of this lady's case. Now, for the especial benefit of such persons (and any others who are inclined to disbelieve), here are the details of Mrs. Elliott's case, which have been procured for this publication. Read carefully just how she suffered, and how she got rid of the CAUSE of her sickness; then, if you investigate and find that this statement of hers is NOT true, call on Gaskin with the proof, and you will be given a $250 check.

Mrs. John Elliott lives at 167 Meadle street, Mt. Clemens. She is the wife of John Elliott, an engineer of that town, and has a very interesting family of three children. About nine years ago she first began suffering from a very bad case of stomach and intestinal trouble, which began slowly but increased in severity with the passing months. Her foods would distress her greatly; she would have a sharp, darting pain across the stomach; she would bloat fearfully, and have risings of sour food and gassy formations; her food would lie like a piece of iron in her stomach; her digestion was very bad; her tongue was coated, and her breath foul; her head would ache terribly; she was losing weight and strength very fast, and she was not within 40 pounds of what she ought to have weighed. Sometimes she had a good appetite, and again she would be sickened at the sight of foods; recently she had no appetite for anything at all. She could hardly drag her weakened body around the house; a cough began several months ago, and its terrible paroxysms have almost caused her to be completely exhausted at times. Many of her neighbors thought she must surely be in the throes of tuberculosis. Imagine, if you can, a lady suffering in this way, and almost given up all hope of ever finding relief of any kind, much less a real cure! And then think of the same person, with the entire CAUSE of all that long nine years of agony completely removed, and getting back to their normal self again. That's what happened to Mrs. Elliott. How, you may ask? Just by taking a medicine that had the proper ingredients to get right down into the SEAT of the whole trouble, and not dope along, like ordinary remedies, most of which (if it MUST be said) are only intended for a temporary relief.

Mrs. Elliott got six bottles of Quaker Extract. She and her husband started taking it. She felt better soon after beginning the use of this grand old remedy. But lo, and behold, after only a week's use or a little over, she one morning expelled TWO COMPLETE AND DISTINCT TAPEWORMS, TOTALING 168 FEET IN LENGTH! Both are to be seen at the Orpheum Pharmacy, 201 East Superior street, Duluth, Minn., where Gaskin is proving the powers of the Quaker Remedies. Quaker Herb Extract, 6 bottles for $5.00; 3 for $2.50, or one bottle, $1.00.—Advertisement.

MIGHT HAVE BEEN SAVED

He was only an employe. Still his life was worth saving. He died, however; passed away when only thirty, leaving an unprovided widow and a baby boy. He wasn't even privileged to be one of the hundreds who die gloriously on the field of battle; he was among the thousands who peacefully and humbly pass away each year in commercial life, victims of the dread white plague and bad air. He might have been strong and vigorous today had the counting room in which he worked been properly ventilated. It was not. The air he daily breathed was laden with poisons that finally undermined his health. His name? Why, yes! It was "Legion."

CHANGES IN POSTOFFICE

McEwen Plans to Reorganize Service After Studying Conditions.

Consults Minneapolis' New Postmaster on System Established There.

There will be no reorganization of the Duluth postal service for the present, but that several changes will be made within the next three months, was the statement of Postmaster William E. McEwen this morning. He returned today from Minneapolis, where he went Saturday to inspect the newly reorganized postoffice here and to meet with the minimum wage commission, of which he is a member.

"Mr. Purdy, the postmaster at Minneapolis, has made several changes that are interesting and should bear watching,' said Postmaster McEwen in discussing his visit to the Mill City. "But he has been in office nearly three months now and could make these changes very easily. I plan to study each department carefully and feel my way before taking any action. That there will be several important changes in the management of the departments and the relation of each office to the other, I am almost certain.

"For the present there will be no reorganization at all and we will go along the same way. I hope to increase the number of carriers, but this matter will have to be taken up with the department at Washington."

Last Wednesday Postmaster Purdy established what he calls the two-division service in the Minneapolis postoffice and his plan is being watched with interest throughout the country. The new plan separates the Minneapolis postoffice into finance nd mail divisions. The assistant postmaster is in charge of the former, while the superintendent of mails directs the other division. The organization is formed in this way:

Division of finance, head reports to postmaster. Including money order, postal savings and cashier sections, each section head reports to the division head.

Division of mails, head reports to postmaster. Including mailing section, city delivery section, registry section, general delivery, box and inquiry section and special delivery sections, each section head reports to division head.

FACE WAS FAMILIAR; MUST FINISH TERM

Gust Lahti's Memory of Faces Brings Doyle Back to Work Farm.

Gus Lahti's faculty for remembering names and faces yesterday afternoon caused the arrest of James J. Doyle, 41 years old, who escaped from the city and county work farm on June 26. He will be taken back today to finish his eighty-five day sentence on a charge of drunkenness.

Lahti and Detective Irvine were in the police station at Superior yesterday afternoon when Doyle was brought in on a charge of peddling some brass. While being booked up Lahti recognized Doyle from a photograph he had here in Duluth and immediately began to question the prisoner.

Satisfying himself that Doyle was the man who escaped from the work farm, Lahti and Detective Bradley brought him over to Duluth. He was sentenced on June 12 and escaped after serving fourteen days.

SUICIDE THEORY NOT ENTERTAINED

Helena Mining Man's Duluth Relatives Hear of Accident.

A dispatch from Helena, Mont., published in The Herald last evening to the effect that Martin Mulvehill, a mining man of that city, had committed suicide by shooting, is denied by his sister, Miss Annie Mulvehill of 30 Washington avenue, Duluth. Miss Mulvehill received a telegram yesterday from her nieces, Misses Katie and Gertrude Doyle of Duluth, who went to Helena last Friday in response to the news that their uncle was dead.

They yesterday wired their aunt that, according to his custom, when about to take pay to his men at the mines, he was getting his revolver ready for possible use, and in doing so, the weapon was discharged, with the result that he was instantly killed.

The suicide theory is scouted by those who knew Mr. Mulvehill, as, they say, it was entirely contrary to his nature, and the suggestion that some mining ventures had been unsuccessful would not have mattered owing to the fact that he had plenty of resources in reserve. Mr. Mulvehill, who was 48 years of age, was a bachelor. Two sisters live in Duluth and a brother resides in Superior.

AUTO MEN URGE GOOD ROAD WORK.

Bretton Woods, N. H., July 7.—Cooperation between the Federal government and the states in the good roads movement was urged by Governor Felker and other speakers at the annual midsummer meeting of the American Automobile association's board of directors here. Among those at the meeting were Dr. H. M. Rowe, president of the Automobile club of Maryland, and Royal R. Scott, president of the Automobile club of Toledo, Ohio, and David Jameson of Newcastle, Pa.

TWO DISCHARGED IN LAND FRAUD CASES.

San Francisco, July 7.—Norman D. Cook and W. A. S. Nicholson, San Francisco attorneys, who, with John W. Logan of Portland were indicted by a Federal grand jury of Oregon for alleged land frauds, were discharged yesterday by United States Commissioner Krull, who declared it had not been shown they conspired with Logan and others to commit fraud. Logan's trial is scheduled to commence in Portland Thursday.

United States Attorney Clarence L. Reames of Portland consented to the release of Nicholson, but indicated that other indictments hanging over Cook will be prosecuted.

MOVEMENT IN STEEL BETTER

July Brings Bigger Volume of Buying in Various Products.

United States Corporation Is Operating at 65 Per Cent of Capacity.

Steel manufacturers report a better movement in all seasonable products since the first of the month. A decided gain in the volume of buying is said to be showing in rails, wire products and tin plates. Orders being placed are almost entirely for early shipment, specifications in most cases accompanying the contract.

Taking the business coming to hand as a basis, it is thought the present month will be a fairly busy one at the mills. The change that has come about in the general situation is being emphasized in the fact that predictions made early in June that there would be a wholesale closing down of plants in July, are not being borne out, but that on the contrary operations are on a more extended scale.

U. S. Steel Output Larger.

Operations of the United States Steel corporation are now on a basis of sixty-five per cent of ingot capacity, or considerably better than two weeks ago. Of late new bookings have been around 30,000 tons a day. The corporation's foreign trade is also reported to have improved, the far east leading in the betterment and South America following. Running schedules of the sheet mills through the country are said to be showing gains due to the recent break in quotations having brought out considerable new business. The American Sheet & Tin Plate company is running at sixty-three per cent of capacity after having dropped to below forty per cent not long ago.

Boom to Follow Rate Decision.

The rendering of the decision in the rate case by the interstate commerce commission is expected to automatically release a large volume of orders for railroad equipment. These are placed at 10,000 cars and in addition it is said that a number of other roads are preparing to enter the market.

Quotations through the steel list are reported to be a trifle firmer, with advances predicted in some lines in the near future.

St. Cloud Minister Hurt.

St. Cloud, Minn., July 3.—Rev. J. L. Haack is in the hospital and Peter Spaiol is suffering slight injuries as results of a runaway that occurred after the Adam Damm funeral Sunday.

Makes Third Degree Unlawful.

Atlanta, Ga., July 7.—The Georgia state senate passed a bill making it unlawful for police, detectives or others to subject prisoners to the so-called "third degree" examinations. The measure now goes to the house.

WHAT DYSPEPTICS SHOULD EAT

A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE.

"Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble are, nine times out of ten, due to acidity; therefore stomach sufferers should, whenever possible, avoid eating food that is acid in its nature, or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Unfortunately, such a rule eliminates most foods which are pleasant to the taste as well as those which are rich in blood, flesh and nerve building properties. This is the reason why dyspeptics and stomach sufferers are usually so thin, emaciated and lacking in that vital energy which can only come from a well fed body. For the benefit of those sufferers who have been obliged to exclude from their diet all starchy, sweet or fatty food, and are trying to keep up a miserable existence on gluten products, I would suggest that you should try a meal of any food or foods which you may like, in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralize any acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of uneasiness and fullness, you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Bisurated magnesia is doubtless the best food corrective and antacid known. It has no direct action on the stomach; but by neutralizing the acidity of the food contents, and thus removing the source of the acid irritation which inflames the delicate stomach lining, it does more than could possibly be done by any drug or medicine. As a physician, I believe in the use of medicine whenever necessary, but I must admit that I cannot see the sense of dosing an inflamed and irritated stomach with drugs instead of getting rid of the acid—the cause of all the trouble. Get a little bisurated magnesia from your druggist, eat what you want at your next meal take some of the bisurated magnesia as directed above, and see if I'm not right."

BLACK HAND LETTER HAS CONVINCED VIRGINIA MEN OF DANGER TO MINE BOSS

Frank Kovacich Is Threatened—Writer of Screed Not Caught

Two Suspects Are Released and Search Is Continued.

Two Thousand Dollars Demanded By "Greek King's Slayers."

Virginia, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Jake Vukovich and Joe Thompson of Biwabik, held as suspects in the writing of a black-hand letter to Frank Kovacich, trammer boss at the Bangor mine, were released from custody this morning by Chief Deputy Sheriff Witte, acting under instructions from Assistant County Attorney Mason Forbes. Efforts to apprehend the authors of the letter to Kovacich and to discover the members of the mysterious "anarchist association," which it hints at will continue.

Convinced of Plot.

The authorities are convinced that there was a genuine plot to blackmail and perhaps kill Kovacich, but that it has for the time being been thwarted. The following letter was received by Kovacich last week:

"Biwabik, Minn., June 29, 1914.

"To Mr. Frank Kovacich: This far we have done that we come to agreement to take your life, that is we anarchist association in which there is more than twenty men, in a fact just eight men of our association have received orders from our association that we have to take your life for two thousand dolars, which can free your life, again don't say that this couldn't be done or that you do something with court, you could tell the court or anybody else only you can't save your life without this money, if you had the Holy Ghost, because from our association the Greek king, George, couldn't get away. Then have any hope in your mind that you could get away, we are telling you that we will wait until the fourth July.

"Take money to the school on top of the hill, where you will find a peeled wood and a white flag on this wood. There leave the money in gold where you will find a small ditch dug out. Again we are telling you that we will wait until the fourth July, from that day on we will not accept the money, but we will take you on that we can get.

"ANARCHIST ASSOCIATION."

Found "Peeled Wood."

The letter was signed with two black hands. Kovacich immediately reported the matter to Chief Deputy Sheriff Fred Witte and a quiet investigation was begun. A sapling stripped of bark and mounted with a white flag was found as described in the letter.

The sheriffs had Kovacich leave a package in accordance with the instructions in the letter, but it remained untouched and they are of the opinion that notoriety given the incident in gossip about the village frightened the Black Handers away. The spot was closely watched for several days without developments.

Joe Thompson was a former employe at the Bangor mine and had been discharged by Kovacich. It is alleged that he has made ugly threats. He was found loitering about Kovacich's home. The handwriting of Vukovich tallies exactly with that in the letter received by Kovacich. Both men, however, have been able to establish an apparently conclusive alibi.

Kovacich's peace of mind and that of his friends has been destroyed. He is in fear for his life and the authorities are doing everything possible to unravel the mystery.

Vukovich and Thompson had been in jail since the night of July 3.

PLANT WORTH $907,940.54

Duluth-Edison Appraisal Is Fixed By W. B. Rittenhouse for City.

Work Begun Last Fall and Will Cost Duluth $8,500.

The present physical value of the Duluth-Edison Electric company's plant is $907,940.54, according to the appraisal which has been made by W. B. Rittenhouse.

This figure is reached by compiling the cost to reproduce the plant, which is given as $1,215,703.69, and deducting the depreciation. The approximate figures given in The Herald two weeks ago are thus shown to be correct.

The figures are divided into two classes, one giving the cost to reproduce the plant in actual use and the actual value of the plant in use and the other giving the cost to reproduce the plant in reserve and the present value of the plant in reserve. The cost to reproduce the plant in actual use is placed at $935,735.42 and that of reproducing the reserve is given as $279,968.27, making the total production cost $1,215,703.69. The present value of the plant in use is placed at $765,293 and that of the reserve is appraised at $142,647.54, making the total present value $907,940.54. The difference shows that $307,763.15 has been charged off for depreciation.

Work Takes Eight Months.

The valuation of the plant was begun last fall as a preliminary to the city acquiring the plant of the company. It has taken about eight months and the city council has appropriated $8,500 for the work. It was expected that the work would be finished in three or four months and would cost considerably less than the first appropriation of $7,000. The appraisal was practically completed about two months ago but the figures were not officially made public pending an effort of the city and the company representatives to agree upon a price. This dragged from week to week without anything of value being accomplished, although some hopes are still being entertained that this may still be accomplished. Commissioner Leondas Merritt, head of the public utilities division, has stated several times that if the city and the company cannot agree upon a fair price he will proceed to acquire the plant by instituting condemnation proceedings in the courts.

The present report does not take into consideration what has been termed "good will." This will be dealt with in a second report which will be prepared by Mr. Rittenhouse and C. L. Pillsbury, who acted as consulting engineer for the city during the inventory. They will meet in Washington, D. C., where both will be engaged in a big valuation which has been started in that city. It will probably be forwarded in a short time. Whatever this amount is, it will be added to the physical value.

Basis of Population.

The report on the valuation states that it is evident that the entire problem lies in the interpretation of the term "fair value," derived from a study of three figures. The first is the cost to reproduce a plant practically identical with the existing one. The second is the present value, or the first figure depreciated in accordance with the present state of the existing plant, taking into consideration its present physical condition and probability of continued life. The third is termed "actual cost," or the capital costs which have been actually and legitimately incurred in bringing the existing plant to and business to their present value.

"A 'fair value,' says the report, will not necessarily be identical with any one of those but will be determined from an analysis of all three, and will ordinarily be the second, the present value, plus an amount frequently called 'going value,' which may be determined from an analysis of the third figure, together with a broad study of any peculiar circumstances which may be had, or are likely to have, an effect on the business. This report, however, deals only with the first two figures. The third, together with 'going value' and a study of 'fair value' will be treated in the second report."

WILL ARRANGE FOR BOND SALE

County Board Expected to Authorize Bids for Ditch No. 3

Coming Installment Will Be for $65.000; Desirable as Investment.

A resolution vesting the county auditor with authority to advertise for bids for the sale of the second and last block of the $160,000 issue of county bonds in connection with the construction of Judicial Ditch No. 3, a drainage project in the southwestern portion of this county and the northeastern part of Aitken county, will, in all probability, be passed by the board of county commissioners at its meeting this afternoon.

Bonds Issued By Installments.

The first block, which was for $35,000, was sold by County Auditor Halden, under authority of the county board, to William M. Prindle & Co. last December. The Prindle company bid par and accrued interest and an additional premium of $37.50, making it possible for the county to dispose of the block without the usual expense of attorney's fees usually required by bond dealers.

The second block will be for $65,000. In view of the fact that the contract for the project does not call for the completion of the ditch until Dec. 31, 1915, it was decided last fall to sell the bonds in installments as the money was needed. The bonds are issued in denominations of $100, $500 and $1,000 and will bear 4½ per cent interest payable semi-annually in New York exchange. The remainder of the issue which will be offered for sale will mature serially at the rate of $6,500 a year for ten years.

Bonds Secured By Liens.

The bonds are secured by ditch liens on about 80,000 acres of land which will be drained and benefited by the project and are also a general obligation of St. Louis county, the assessed valuation of which is, according to the 1913 figure, nearly $315,000,000 as against a present bonded indebtedness of less than $1,000,000. Another thing which makes the bonds a very desirable form of investment is the fact that they are exempt from the Federal income tax as well as the state and local taxes.

The Butler-Coons Construction company, which has the contract for the big ditch, is making good progress and now has three or four large dredges in active operation.

ON TOUR OF INSPECTION

City Commissioners Spend the Morning Investigating Complaints.

The city council took a long trip in the works division automobile this morning to visit various places about the city where improvements or relief are needed or desired.

The first stop was at the end of Vermilion road near Ontario street, where the owner of several lots claims that the assessment for the improvement of the highway will practically amount to confiscation of his property. He says that the lots are worth about $100 each and that the assessment on them will be more than that figure. The matter was taken under advisement.

On the same road near Wallace avenue the owners of a couple of low lots want the city to build a storm sewer before the street is paved. The commissioners thought from an examination of the ground that it might be possible that the owners would not object to having the city drain their lots for them without expense to themselves.

From the Eastern suburbs the commissioners journeyed to the West end. They decided to move the city scales from their present location at Garfield avenue and Superior street to Nineteenth avenue west below First street. The avenue is quite level and a man living nearby was found to care for them.

The damage done by storm water at Twenty-third avenue west and Eighth street was looked over. A considerable part of the paving was washed away. The council thought that this could be avoided in the future by diverting the water through a storm sewer at Twenty-second avenue west. Twenty-third avenue was paved only last year.

The commissioners were absent from the city hall all forenoon and will be away again this afternoon, when they will meet with the county commissioners at the courthouse relative to repairing Mission creek at Fond du Lac to prevent further storm damage. They will try to agree upon the share of the expense to be borne by the city and the county.

License Not Required.

Madison, Wis., July 7.—Attorney General Owen in an opinion to State Treasury Agent D. E. Davies holds that a person who buys cigars from a manufacturer and carries them through the country selling them in wholesale lots to stores and saloons for the purpose of reselling, is not required to take out a peddler's license.

CORRESPONDENT FOR HERALD BEREAVED.

Washington, July 7.—Mrs. Martha J. Stevens, wife of Harry C. Stevens, Washington correspondent for The Herald, died Saturday, June 27, after an illness of more than a year. The funeral was held Tuesday. The interment was at Rock Creek cemetery. Both Mr. and Mrs. Stevens were born in Washington, had lived here all their lives and had many friends in the city who sent flowers and messages of condolence to Mr. Stevens and Mrs. Stevens' mother.

The entire house delegation in congress from Minnesota sent a large wreath of lilies, roses and orchids.

Dust in the Air

WITHOUT dust "every blade of grass and every branch of tree would drip with moisture deposited by the passing air; our clothing would become wet and dripping, and umbrellas useless; but our miseries would not end there. The insides of our houses would become wet; the walls and every object in the room would run with water," said Aitken, a scientist who has made a special study of the effects of dust.

Origin of Dust.

Most of the dust in the air is torn from the earth by winds; a great deal of it comes from the carbon in smoke; minute grains of salt derived from sea spray constitute a considerable proportion of it; and large quantities are derived from volcanoes. Then there are disintegrated particles of organic matter from both animal and plant kingdoms—epithelial scales, pollen, fluff of various sorts, fragments of hair, its of insects, bacteria, spores and the like.

Dust from mines, stone quarries, iron factories and cotton factories acts as a direct irritant to the lining of the breathing passages and paves the way for the entrance of disease germs. But the theory that dust directly conveys infection is now scarcely accepted by sanitarians. Even dried particles of tuberculous sputum are not so much feared as formerly, for it is growing more and more certain that any bacteria carried in this way must have lost their virulence or perhaps have been destroyed by the influence of oxygen and sunlight before reaching a susceptible person. However, the presence of dust in a house or a factory is a fair indication of the lack of sanitary supervision or cleanliness.

Scientifically, tubercle bacilli obtained from dust have produced tuberculosis when injected into the abdominal cavity of guinea-pigs with a hypodermic needle. Such conditions are very artificial, though. The weight of evidence tends to support the view that tuberculosis is only acquired through direct contact with tuberculosis individuals.

Dust is refined dirt. Let the housewife attack it in the refined, sensible way—with a vacuum cleaner.

Questions and Answers.

Arthur S. asks: Is the use of a nasal spray or douche advisable for the prevention of "colds?" What antiseptic should be employed?

REPLY.

On general principles, no. Not unless prescribed by the personal medical adviser. Careless or ignorant use of sprays often causes severe nasal inflammations, and sniffing things up the nose is a dangerous practice. We cannot suggest any remedies for personal use; let the family physician suggest one for you.

* * *

Mrs. H. B. T., Jr., asks: Do ——'s worm powders dissolve the worms inside the bowels as the manufacturers claim?

REPLY.

Certainly not. No medicine chemically powerful enough to do that could be taken by child or adult. If any alleged "worm medicine" rids the patient of worms you will see the worms, living or dead, in the evacuations.

Dr. Brady will answer all questions pertaining to Health. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. REFERENDUM VOTE TAKEN

Public Affairs Committee Considers Many Phases of Trust Legislation.

Result of the Vote Will Be Forwarded to President Wilson.

The public affairs committee of the Duluth Commercial club in taking a referendum vote on the proposed trust legislation now before congress took a decisive stand upon several of the recommendatons of the committee's report.

Before the vote was taken, however, Julius H. Barnes, who acted as chairman of the meeting, explained that the recommendations did not necessarily refer to particular phases of the bill pending in congress but that they were suggestions which congress might incorporate in the bill if it so desired.

Results Mailed to Wilson.

The results of last night's meeting were mailed to President Wilson today as the president is desirous of getting an expression from all the chambers of commerce of the country on trust legislation at once.

Only part of the members present last night took any part in the discussion of the recommendations, but Judge Fesler, C. A. Congdon and Senator Henry W. Cheadle formed a trio of disputants that kept the meeting alive.

A strong vote of 30 to 8 was recorded against the recommendation that any proposal to compel persons controlling mining products to sell to all applicants, who may be responsible, was wrong in principle and unworkable.

Interlocking Directorates.

The vote also showed strong opposition to the interlocking of directorates among competitive business corporations and between railroads and industrial corporations with which they transact a substantial amount of business except when the interstate commerce commission deems interlocking not detrimental to the interests of the public. The vote stood 36 to 2.

Requests made by several outside business bodies that the Duluth board urge congress to adjourn and take no action at present were considered by the legislative committee, but that body reported that no such action should be taken.

The same committee recommended that the club should indorse the Booher convict goods bill before congress, which provides that goods manufactured in prison and shipped to other states shall be subject to the laws of the state in which they are offered for sale.

Publicity Reports Made.

Before the consideration of the trust program, George D. McCarthy made a report for the publicity committee on the work done by the information booth, the distribution of folders and Duluth literature, and various articles in the magazines. G. Roy Hall gave a short history of free storage at Duluth by railroads, and reported its recent abolition.

After an opportunity had been given for a complete discussion on the proposed trust program, the final vote was taken as follows:

1. The committee recommends that there should be no attempt by statute to forbid discriminations in prices of commodities. Aye, 12 nay, 25.

2. The committee recommends that a proposal to compel persons controlling the product of mines to sell to all applicants, who may be responsible, is wrong in principle and unworkable in practice. Aye, 8; nay, 30.

3. The committee recommends that there should be no statutory prohibition of conditions accompanying sales and leases to the effect that buyers or lessees cannot handle or use the products of competition. Aye, 22; nay, 16.

4. The committee recommends that the final decree in an equity suit brought by the government, which establishes the existence or the non-existence of a restraint of trade or of a monopoly, should be conclusive evidence as to the same general fact in private actions brought against the same defendants under the anti-trust laws. Aye, 33; nay, 5.

5. The committee recommends that interlocking of directors among competitive business corporations, including railroad corporations, should be prohibited, regardless of the size of corporations, if elimination of competition among the corporations in question would constitute a violation of the Sherman act. Aye, 36; nay, 2.

6. The committee recommends that interlocking of officers and directors between railroads and industrial businesses with which they transact a substantial volume of business (for example, in the relation of buyer and seller), should be prohibited except in such instances as the interstate commerce commission may determine are not detrimental to the public interest. Aye, 36; nay, 2.

7. (A) Should interlocking of officers and directors between railroads and bankers with whom they have financial transactions be entirely prohibited. Aye, 8.

(B) Should there be legislative prohibition of such interlocking with a provision that a finding of the interstate commerce commission to the effect that in a particular instance there was no detriment to the public interest would prevent illegality in that instance? Aye, 8.

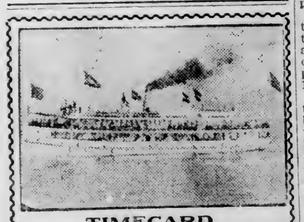

(C) Should there be legislation in a form which would not pronounce illegal existing conditions, but would authorize the interstate commerce commission upon finding a detriment to the public interest in any interlocking to order that it be terminated? Aye, 19.

8. (A) Should the problems involved in preventing concentration of credit be referred for investigation and recommendation to the federal reserve board or some other competent body. Aye, 28.

(B) Should these problems be the subject of immediate legislation, for example, in the form or a prohibition of interlocking of officers or directors among banks, if any bank in question is of a certain size? Aye, 5.

9. The committee recommends that corporate ownership of stock, directly or indirectly, of competitor corporations should be prohibited is elimination of competition among the corporations in question would constitute a violation of the Sherman act, except in such cases as the interstate trade commission, (or the interstate commerce commission in the case of railroads) may determine are not detrimental to the public interest. Aye, 33; nay, 4.

10. The committee recommends that there should be no attempt to regulate the shares of stock issued by corporations engaged in interstate commerce. Aye, 21; nay, 16.

MOYER PREDICTS PEACE IN BUTTE.

Helena, Mont., July 7.—Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, after a conference here yesterday with representatives of different crafts affiliated with the Western Federation, at which the Butte situation was discussed, left for Denver to prepare the report of the national executive committee for the convention to be held in Denver July 15.

Mr. Moyer said the results of the day's conference were satisfactory and that he believed the meeting would result in a solution of the labor troubles. Today the other conferees left for Butte, where the president of each union affiliated with the Western Federation will meet the local officers and receive first-hand information as to the cause of the labor troubles and suggestions as to a possible solution.

Thursday the conferees will return to Helena, where a conference will be held.

CHINESE SMUGGLER STATION IN SAGINAW

Saginaw, Mich., July .—What is believed to be a distributing station maintained by men engaged in smuggling Chinese into the United States was raided here last night by government officers and local police, and six Chinese were arrested, charged with being in this country unlawfully. A seventh, who the officers believe is the leader of a smuggling syndicate, is under police guard in his laundry. Officers say he will be arrested as soon as a warrant can be obtained from the Federal court in Bay City.

The Chinese under guard is Lee Sing Jog, a brother of Joe Lee, a Chinese interpreter in the United States government secret service with headquarters in Philadelphia.

WANTS MORE DRASTIC LAWS AS TO BANKING

Doyle of Michigan Addresses Association of Supervisors.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 7.—Pleading for more drastic banking business reform, Edward H. Doyle, commissioner of banking for Michigan, in his annual address as president at the opening session of the annual convention of the National Association of Supervisors of State Banks, said that officers of banks must be prohibited from engaging in outside business, directly or indirectly, and especially in connection with concerns which were borrowers at banks in which they were interested.

"The psychological moment has arrived," said Dr. Doyle, "when systems in use for many years must be revised, chiefly because of the new currency bill, which in my opinion is one of the best laws ever enacted and will prevent money panics for all time. The same influence which enacted the law, wisely eliminated guarantee of bank deposits; and I sincerely trust this convention will unanimously put its seal of disapproval on such a law."

In speaking of the business outlook generally, Mr. Doyle said he hoped the "present business depression has turned the corner and that the banks may use the enormous sums of idle money at fair rates."

President Wilson, it was announced, has requested the association, which represents nearly every state in the Union, to frame regulations by which the banking laws of the various states would conform to the new bank act. A delegation from the association will report the result of their efforts to the Federal reserve board at Washington next Thursday, after which they will meet President Wilson.

Oil Treatment for Stomach Troubles

A simple prescription made up of a combination of pure vegetable oils is producing wonderful results for sufferers from stomach, liver and intestinal troubles. The remedy, which is said to have originated in France, where it has been used for years by the peasantry, was introduced into this country by George H. Mayr, a leading Chicago druggist, who cured himself of severe stomach, liver and intestinal troubles by its use. Those who have used it say the first dose is sufficient to convince any one of its remarkable merit, and that within twenty-four hours the sufferer feels like a new person. This medicine, which has become known as Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy, is now sold by first class druggists everywhere. It is now sold here by your nearest druggist.

TRAFFIC ON INCREASE

Demurrage Bureau Reports Gratifying Figure on Freight Movement.

More Than 1,200 Cars of Material Shipped to Steel Plant.

Marked betterment in freight traffic at this point during the last couple of weeks, is reported by Duluth officials. The volume of outgoing freight moving from the Head of the Lakes since the first of the month is said to be especially gratifying.

That is attributed to the good crop outlook over the Northwest and increased shipments of general merchandise by Duluth wholesale establishments. A notable feature during the past month was the heavy shipments of building materials out to the Minnesota Steel company's plant. During June over 1,200 cars of steel, cement and sand were received at the plant for use in the various departments. This record is said to have been exceeded only in two months last year, and is taken to indicate that construction is being pushed ahead all along the line out there.

Cars of freight handled at the Lake Superior demurrage bureau during June aggregated 22,342 cars, showing an increase of 2,263 over the preceding month, according to the report of the manager, A. E. Piering. There was, however, a decrease of 5,499 cars over the same period last year, attributable mainly to a falling off in coal shipments. The volume of grain and general merchandise handled showed substantial increases. Shipments of building materials from here also made a favorable showing, due to the amount of new construction in progress in the various towns through the district.

It is intimated that the Northwestern railroads are now making every effort to put their rolling stock in shape to take care of the expected heavy crop movement to start in about the last week of August. All out-of-order cars are being rushed to the repair shops, and some of the roads expect to receive new equipment within the next few weeks.

A fair proportion of the current earnings reports are affording grounds for gratification. The Northern Pacific's net earnings in May, for example, were $1,384,001 as compared with $1,299,038 last year, an increase of $84,963. The St. Paul system's net revenue in May was $1,830,218 as against $1,804,898 last year.

It is said that the managements of the Western railroads have not as yet taken any action regarding their proposed petition to the interstate commerce commission for rate increases. So far all discussion has been of a preliminary nature. Freight officials are, however, reported to be working on schedules of increased rates, and it is expected that a petition will be filed within six months.

COUNCIL HAS BUSY SESSION

Highland Street Will Be Prepared—Frey's License Application Tabled.

School Bond Issue Approved—Aerial Tire Truck Appropriation Made.

The city council passed Commissioner Murchison's revised resolution ordering the grading and graveling of Highland street from Fifty-seventh to Sixty-seventh avenues west at its regular meeting yesterday afternoon.

This work is proposed in connection with the subway which the D. M. & N. has agreed to build under its tracks where they cross Highland street. When the work is completed Highland street will connect with the Getchell road near Sixty-sixth avenue west and as it will afford a much easier grade than the present route it is expected to become the principal highway to Proctor and the tributary country. Later a street car line is planned to run back of the city over this route.

Under the resolution passed yesterday the cost to be assessed against the property owners will be but $9,242.70. The total estimated cost is $42,039.69, but the difference will be paid by the railroad and the city. The city's share will be about $2,500 for intersections.

Under the charter the resolution must lay over sixty days before it becomes effective. This is to give the property owners an opportunity to present a remonstrance. Commissioner Murchison and the other members of the council do not think that any objection will now be made, as the cost to the property owners will be very small compared with the benefits to be derived.

Frey Application Tabled.

Upon motion of Safety Commissioner W. A. Hicken the application of J. J. Frey for a saloon license in the Grand hotel, 5217 Ramsey street, West Duluth, was tabled. Much opposition to the granting of a license in this location has developed in the last two weeks. Two big petitions have been filed against it and several churches and organizations have passed resolutions opposing it.

No action was taken on other liquor questions pending. The amendment to the blind-pig ordinance, designed to stop wholesalers from selling in quantities of less than five gallons, was laid over for another week. The hearing of Henry Casmir, proprietor of the saloon at 505 West Michigan street, cited to show cause why his license should not be revoked, was laid over another week. Casmir was cited following the recent conviction of his bartender for selling liquor to a minor.

A resolution was passed approving the proposed issuance of $200,000 of bonds by the school board. The issue will be submitted to a vote of the people at the school election July 18. The proceeds will be used for building a grade school at Gary and New Duluth, a grade school at the steel plant, a junior high school adjacent to the Lincoln school in the West end, and a six-room addition to the Merritt grade school.

Will Condemn Alley.

The city attorney was instructed to institute proceedings for the condemnation of an alley through block 37, Endlon division, lying between Seventeenth and Eighteenth avenues east above London road. Property owners favoring and opposing the alley appeared before the council yesterday afternoon and quite a discussion as to the merits of the alley ensued. The council felt that a sufficient petition having been presented the resolution should be passed, provided J. Latshaw and H. B. Keedy, who appeared to urge the alley, would guarantee the cost of the appraisal, which they agreed to do. Mayor Prince voted against the resolution.

P. R. Mork, manager of the Crane-Ordway company, appeared before the commissioners to urge the construction of a new stairway from the Lake avenue viaduct to Michigan street. He said that the work should be done without further delay, as the present stairway is dilapidated, leads past the side door of a saloon and lands under the viaduct, where it is poorly-lighted and dirty. The commissioners said that they would visit the place before making any decision.

The ordinance appropriating $9,500 for an aerial motor truck for the fire department was passed by a vote of 4 to 1, Finance Commissioner Fred J. Voss opposing it. He said that he did not think ordinance No. 321 had been complied with in that bids were not advertised for as required. Commissioner Hicken said that the machine could be bought without advertising as it is a patented article. The finance commissioner answered that he did not think that because a machine has a patented bolt or spring or other patented appliance it should be considered a patented article in the meaning of the charter. The resolution awarding the contract to the American La France company was not acted upon but was laid over for a week. When it comes up for a vote the issue will probably be discussed further.

The ordinance designating the parts of blocks 95, 96, 97 and 98, Duluth Proper, Third division, lying within 133 feet north of the boulevard, and the parts of blocks 72, 73 and 74, lying within 133 feet south of the boulevard, as a residence district, was given its third reading and passed.

Minor Appropriations.

The ordinance appropriating $12,000 for the season's coal supply was passed. Ordinances appropriating $3,500 for materials for the repair of the Sixth avenue viaduct, $447 for a steam drill out of the works division, $280 for a balance governor for the water and light department and $130 for water and gas extensions in Sixty-eighth alley west were introduced.

Charles Evans Holt informed the council, that, although he obtained an order for $18 from A. L. Austin, or A. E. Bellows while the latter was in the employ of the city, the money had not been withheld from Bellows for him. He wanted to know if relief could not be afforded him. Commission Murchison said that if Bellows works for the city again it might be possible to help Holt collect his claim.

C. G. Futter, secretary of the works division, wrote the council that he had an opinion from the city attorney that the protest against the improvement of West Michigan street, Piedmont avenue and Superior street between Twelfth and Fifteenth avenues was insufficient. After the protest was filed three property owners withdrew their objections, leaving the protest insufficient, according to the attorney.

The council approved a settlement of the damage claim of Emma Johnson against the city for $160. She was hurt when she fell on a walk near Sixth avenue east and Third street last winter.

L. A. Ball filed notice of a claim of $78 against the city for damages alleged to have been done to property in the basement of his home at 2222 East Fifth street, through water backing into it from an insufficient sewer.

The water and light department was authorized to increase its contingent fund from $4,000 to $6,000. Commissioner Leonidas Merritt said that the present sum is being found insufficient.

A petition was received for the grading and graveling of the alley between Fourth and Fifth streets and Fourteenth and Fifteenth avenues east.

Water and gas extensions were ordered in Hawthorne road between First and Third streets. The work was held up until the assessments for the paving of the avenue had been paid.

The contract for concreting Third alley from Lake avenue to First avenue west was awarded to D. H. Clough & Co. on their bid of $1,501.16.

Allen avenue and Eighth street from Woodland avenue to Irving Place were ordered sprinkled with oil.

The park department was given a contingent fund of $50, the money being transferred from the welfare fund.

HOW RESINOL CURED ITCHING SKIN TORMENT

Baltimore, Md., May 23, 1914: "My limbs from knee to ankle were completely covered with eczema for a year. It commenced with several small water pimples, which burst when I scratched them, until they developed into sores, and oozed a yellowish fluid. I hated to go in company, it itched and burned so badly. I had no rest at night. I tried a good many remedies for eczema, both liquid and salve, but they did me no good, only made the skin more rough and scaly. I learned of Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap and tried them, and was relieved of the severe itching and burning AT ONCE, and after a month's steady use was completely cured." (Signed) T. S. Lewis, 1821 Summit St.

Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment are sold by all druggists. For free trial, write to Resinol, Dept. 26-R, Baltimore, Md.

COUNTY BOARD CASE DISMISSED.

Dickinson, N. D., July 7.—Charges brought against three county commissioners of Dunn county for alleged irregularities in allowing bills for various services to the county, are dismissed in a decision filed by Judge Crawford of the Stark county district court.

Judge Crawford holds that proof of the alleged irregularities must be unimpeachable and he holds that insufficient evidence has been adduced to warrant the removal of the officials in question.

FOOD NOT TO BE HANDLED

Illinois Will Have Strict Rules Covering Lunch Counters.

Health Officer Favors Similar Regulations for Duluth Cafeteries.

Lunch counter patrons who pinch ham sandwiches to see if they are fresh will have to take them on trust, if the new health regulations just adopted in Illinois are made part of the laws of Minnesota. Health Director H. E. Webster of Duluth is very much in favor of these requirements and would welcome their adoption in this state.

The state food commission of Illinois has just sent out a statement to all restaurant and lunch counter men that they must in the future keep their food out of reach of customers. The days when a man could go to the counter of a quick lunch establishment, finger the exhibits and select the most appetizing are gone in Illinois. Eating will from now on resemble banking in that a customer will get his meal slipped out through an aperture similar to the windows of a bank. The regulations also affect kitchens, the employes and the keeping of animals in restaurants.

That a customer should only see and not feel his food before giving an order is the proper method, said Dr. Webster this morning. Glass partitions must be built in Illinois.

It is the aim of the food commissioner in Illinois to keep food as pure as possible and to make the eating in lunch rooms less dangerous to the health of customers. Among the new requirements in Illinois are the following:

"Food may no longer be displayed in lunch rooms if exposed to flies.

"All milk and cream must be covered.

"Cafeterias must place a railing eight inches from the tables, so that patrons may not cough, breathe or sneeze over food.

"Cafetarias must place food under glass shelves.

"No cats or dogs will be permitted in restaurants or kitchens.

"No persons will be permitted to sleep in kitchens.

"Every employe handling food, dishes, or napkins must wash his hands whenever he goes back to work after leaving off for any reason.

"Proprietors must furnish an ample supply of water, soap and towels.

"No proprietor may employ help with tuberculosis, venereal disease or other contagious disease.

"Kitchen girls must cover their hair with caps.

"Waiters are forbidden to use same towel to wipe off tables and chairs, perspiration and plates."

BROTHER KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Dr. and Mrs. L. Q. Greeley of this city, have gone to Lee, Ill., to attend the funeral of Dr. and Mrs. H. P. Greeley of that city, who were both killed in a railway and auto collision near Shabona, Ill., as reported in The Herald last evening. Dr. Greeley, victim of the accident, is a brother of the Duluth man.

The accident occurred when the automobile attempted to cross the Burlington tracks. A freight train struck the auto, killing three persons and fatally injuring another. The auto was driven by Dr. Greeley, who came out from behind a clump of trees that obscured the view of the train until it was too late for either him or the engineer to avert the collision.

PROGRAM AT TRINITY.

Luther League Will Give Patriotic Entertainment at Church.

The Luther League of the Trinity English Lutheran church will entertain this evening at a patriotic program to be held in the church parlors, Twenty-seventh avenue west and Third street. The program will include addresses and vocal and instrumental musical selections.

ROAD FOREMAN IS UNDER ARREST

Is Accused of Having Sworn Falsely to Pay Roll.

Gust Banks, former road foreman for the St. Louis county commissioners, will this afternoon be examined in police court on a charge of having made and sworn falsely to a pay roll on Aug. 1, 1913. He was arrested last week and his hearing was at that time set for this morning, but owing to a change in the court calendar, it was postponed until this afternoon.

Axel Johnson of 1024 Garfield avenue makes the complaint against Banks and alleges that the former road foreman entered his name on the July, 1913, pay roll, when in reality he was not employed in the road crew and that Banks himself collected the $10 credited to Johnson.

Banks, who is a farmer near the town of Duluth, was foreman during the summer of last year on the Ryan road. On Aug. 1 he made out his monthly payroll and the allegation is now made that he swore falsely, besides making an extra entry. The charge is a serious one and Banks denies his guilt.

The charge against Banks is made under the road foreman law of 1905, which was passed by the state legislature that spring and gave each county with a specified population the right to employ a foreman on its roads. In addition to this, provision is also made in this law regarding to the false swearing and entries made by foremen, which are described as felonies. In the event of his conviction Banks faces a penitentiary sentence, ranging from one to five years.

Cases Are Postponed.

Owing to the fact that the lawyers were not ready to conduct the scheduled cases at the regular jury term in municipal court this morning, Judge Windom excused the jury until further notice.

Arrangements are now being made to conduct the cases scheduled as early as possible. These are: Schulman vs. Goldberg; Eklund vs. Duluth Street Railway company; Wisconsin Lime company vs. Bradley Timber company; Schribners vs. McAlpine; Goldberg vs. Smith, and Silver vs. Duluth Street Railway company.

Dentists Open Meeting.

Rochester, N. Y., July 7.—With nearly 4,000 delegates the eighteenth annual convention of the National Dental association opened today in Exposition park. The day's program included the annual address of President H. C. Brown and discussion of operative dentistry and kindred subjects.

Woman's Realm

Wednesday, always a popular day with brides, has been chosen by four brides of this week. Tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock Miss Ethel Margaret Smith and Edwin T. Ramsted will be married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Smith, 625 North Central avenue. The service will be read by Dr. A. W. Ryan of St. Paul's church, and the bride's father will give her away. Miss Alfva Smith will be the maid of honor, Miss Selena Carlson the bridesmaid, and Lillian and Beatrice Ramstad, little sisters of the bridegroom, will carry the ribbons that will mark off the aisle. George E. Sjoselius will be the best man. The ceremony will be followed by a small reception.

Tomorrow evening Miss Florence Watt and Frank P. Le Tourneau will be married at 8 o'clock at the Lester Park M. E. church. A reception will follow at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Edward Watt, 5703 Otsego street. Mr. Le Tourneau entertained the members of the bridal party at dinner at the Commercial club last evening. Miss Watt has been the guest of honor at a number of entertainments.

Miss Suzanne Irvine and William David Jones will be married at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. John Irvine, 429 Fourth avenue east. Charles Irvine, brother of the bride, will give her in marriage, but there will be no attendants. The ceremony will be performed by Rev. Dr. Thoburn.

Another wedding of tomorrow evening will be that of Miss Minnie Gottschald and Joseph S. Nordal that will take place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Max Gottschald, 6 South Thirteenth avenue west. Miss Gottschald has been honored by many showers and other entertainments since her engagement was announced.

BIRTH REGISTRATION.

Committee of Duluth Women Will Make Investigation.

At the meeting of the Federated Women's clubs held in Chicago in June Mrs. F. L. Barrows was appointed by Miss Julia C. Lathrop, head of the children's bureau of the United States department of labor, to take charge of the plan to test birth registrations in Duluth. Miss Lathrop started the movement to investigate the completeness of birth registration in states having registration laws. Investigations are being made in thirteen states. Duluth is the first Minnesota city to engage in the work. The ten Duluth women who will work with Mrs. Barrows are Mrs. H. H. Phelps, Miss Margaret McGiffert, Mrs. Agnes L. Atwood, Mrs. J. M. Hickox, Mrs. John Frazer, Mrs. David Gray, Miss Schmeller, Mrs. Marvin C. McLaren, Mrs. F. C. Bowman and Mrs. A. A. Kerr.

Physicians vary widely in their faithfulness in registering births and many children are lost sight of each year. The Children's bureau and the Women's clubs hope by their co-operation to protect the rights of children in matters relating to heredity, legitimacy, identity and property rights. An accurate record of births will make it possible to pursue a more complete study of infant mortality and to enforce the laws regulating school attendance, child labor and the age of consent.

The Duluth committee engaged in this humane work will register 100 children born in 1913, without previous recourse to health department records. Their report, and reports from other investigating committees will be sent to Washington.

The following societies are interested in this excursion: First Presbyterian, Second Presbyterian, Glen Avon Presbyterian, Lakeside Presbyterian, Highland Presbyterian, Westminster Presbyterian, Pilgrim Congregational union, First Christian, First Baptist and Proctor M. E.

Meeting Postponed.

The regular meeting of the Women's auxiliary to the R. M. A. has been postponed on account of the death of little Marguerite Armstrong. The next meeting will be held Wednesday, July 15, at the home of Mrs. E. M. Hansen, 2631 Minnesota avenue.

"As You Like It."

Dr. Edgar C. Abbott gave the second of his series of lecture-recitals yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. G. Hartley. His subject, "As You Like It," gave the lecturer an opportunity to dwell upon the women characters of Shakespeare. The poet portrayed many types, such as Lady Macbeth who was all mind but no heart, Ophelia who was all heart but no mind, and Rosalind who was a combination of all desirable womanly characteristics. Dr. Abbott referred to Shakespeare's familiarity with the Bible and with the lives of Plutarch.

Dr. Abbott's series of lectures will be concluded with "Hamlet," to be given tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mille Bunnell, 2017 East Superior street.

A Skin of Beauty is a Joy Forever.

LACE OVERSKIRTS MUCH IN VOGUE

This is not only an excellent picture of one of the newest Paris gowns showing the lace overskirt so much in vogue but it is an excellent picture of a very pretty woman keenly interested in the result of a race. It was taken at the race track near Paris ten days ago.

Amusements

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS

LYCEUM—Baldwin Players in "A Butterfly on the Wheel."
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

Amusement Notes.

Vaudeville for a half-week's engagement again took the boards at the Empress yesterday together with two high class photo-play features.

"Our Mutual Girl," a series of pictures that has won a host of admirers in this city, was again featured, and proved to be a big drawing card. It is probable that this picture is now a better attraction than most vaudeville acts. Margaret's thrilling experiences in New York are of intense interest to all admirers of the film-made plays. "Tennessee," another feature film is full of romantic situations of Tennnessee life.

The Zeb Zarrow troupe of comedy cyclists in an act called "The Isle of Joy," proved to be an act full of originality and cleverness. Three men and one pretty girl rider compose the company, and all do some fast and novel turns. Riding a grindstone, a one-wheel bike without a tire, and many other odd and grotesque makes of bicycles makes good comedy and brings out some skillful manipulation of the pedals.

Lorraine and Cameron, Scotch singers and dancers, do the Highland fling and other turns that bring joy to the lovers of Scotch entertainment.

Allman and McFarland in a blackface sketch offer a light but amusing bit of entertainment. Bob Sandberg, a story teller, was well received for his breezy but slightly amateurish comedy.

Beginning Thursday Arthur Clamage, Don Clark and his associate musical comedy favorites will appear for four days at the Empress in "Hurdy Gurdy," a bright comedy of songs, dances and jokes. The laurels already won by the company assure a large attendance and a good entertainment.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Eat Rationally During the Hot Spells.

Some authority on the subject has declared that one should eat in hot weather about a quarter of the food ordinarily consumed. I can't agree with him, although I do believe that certain things should be eliminated from the bill of fare when the thermometer is soaring up around 90 in the shade. But diminishing rations three-quarters when the heat is exhausting one's strength and vitality more rapidly than it can be generated, seems to me to be exactly opposite to the sane and safe way of guarding one's health.

I know that I was never more ravenously hungry than during the recent hot spell and often steaks and chops and roast beef was included in my order. I suffered no ill effects in following my usual practice.

I have thought, and still think, that the very general tendency to eat the lightest sort of food is partly responsible for the many cases of prostration and for the weakness and lassitude experienced by most people in hot weather. However, eating more than a normal quantity of food or filling up on rich, heavy, highly seasoned viands is not my advice to the seeker after comfort and health in hot weather.

I believe that meat should be used in greater moderation in hot weather than in cold, but if I was in the habit of eating it once or twice a day, I should say that it was unwise to eliminate it altogether from the day's menu, unless I was well enough versed in food values to substitute something that would take its place.

It is surprising how limited people's diet and knowledge of and taste for food are. I know many people who are hardly acquainted with the taste of any vegetable except the potato. They exist on meat and potato and bread. Little wonder that their appetite falters and turns sick at the fault of this combination of edibles on a hot day and falls back on crackers and milk until they become so famished that their usual affair appeals to them again.

It seems to me that a beter knowledge of the values of different foods to the human body and a liking for a variety would help people during such weather as we have recently endured.

WILL DECIDE GIRLS' WAGES

Committee Will Confer Friday to Fix Minimum Scale in Duluth.

Conference Held Monday Fails to Bring Any Definite Conclusions.

The minimum wage scale for girls in Duluth factories and mercantile establishments is expected to be fixed next Friday, at least so far as the report of the advisory committee goes.

Discussion preliminary to such a settlement took place yesterday afternoon when William E. McEwen, Bentley P. Neff and Lydon D. Stickles held a conference and went over the principal phases of the question. Wages for girls during the apprenticeship and learners' period as well as for regular experienced workers, were discussed, but no definite conclusions were reached by the committee.

A phase of the question that is causing considerable trouble is "How can the minimum wage be fixed high enough to cover the necessary expenses of a girl's keep without making it necessary to discharge a large number of inefficient workers?" Merchants say that they are employing many girls at present who cannot earn more wages than the present scale calls for. Others, however, assert that the present scale for such workers is now far too low, and that no girl who is not living at home and securing part of her living expenses from her parents, can lead a respectable life without going without the necessary food and clothing to keep her in good health and comfort. This difficult problem may cause indefinite discussion before all the details of the question are decided upon.

The committee, however, hopes to settle upon definite conclusions Friday.

THE VILLA-CARRANZA ROW.

"Villa and Carranza have reconciled their differences, and will work in thorough harmony and accord hereafter."

"Villa and Carranza are hopelessly at odds, and the split between them is widening every day."

So runs the news. Even in the same day's grist, Torreon reports harmony while El Paso reports widening dissension.

The situation is ticklish and important. If Villa and Carranza can agree and work together, one chapter of the Mexican difficulty will be closed quickly, for with proper cooperation Villa can continue his victorious career into the capital and put Constitutionalist rule in place of the rule of Huerta and the Cientificos. And that seems Mexico's best chance for peace.

If the Constitutionalists cannot work together, chaos and more chaos must ensue. It will mean that Mexicans cannot tranquilize Mexican affairs; and that will mean that somebody else must do it. If somebody else must do it, that probably will mean us; for we can let no other nation handle the job. Worse still, if Mexicans cannot patch up their own affairs, how can they keep them going if somebody outside patches them up? If it is necessary for outsiders to go in and straighten out the snarl, will they not have to stay indefinitely to keep the snarls out?

It will be a great relief to everybody if Villa and Carranza will quit their quarrel and go in and finish Huerta.

Only ten deaths due to fireworks on the Fourth. Pretty soon the Fourth will get down into the football season class.

"INTERFERING WITH PROSPERITY."

To hear some of the reactionary agitators clamor, you'd think President Wilson and the Democratic congress planned to rip business wide open, turn it inside out, stand it on its head and shake all the change out of its trousers, wouldn't you?

You'd surely think, if you took the calamity talk at its face value and did no more thinking than that implies, that the administration's trust regulation measures were the most high-handed and revolutionary proposals ever made.

But do you know what they amount to, boiled down into as few words as possible? They amount just to this:

That laws shall be passed forbidding and punishing UNFAIR COMPETITION.

That's all. There are three bills, and there is a good deal of language in each. It is a good deal of a task to read them all and analyze them and reduce them to their lowest terms, but after all they are simple, and their purpose is plain.

Whether or not competition can be made alive again where it is dead we do not know. Whether or not large aggregations of capital are a public benefit or a public wrong is not yet clearly determined. There are plausible arguments that combination works economies which are a public benefit, and there are plausible arguments that beyond a certain point bigness in business organization ceases to be economical and becomes wasteful.

These are questions yet to be decided.

But one thing everybody knows beyond any doubt whatever, and that is that certain kinds of competition—unfair competition—kill off competitors and so in the end destroy competition and set up monopoly.

For instance, the oil trust attacks its competitors in a given selling district, and lowers the price of oil until they are driven out of business. Then, supreme and alone in the field, it runs the price of oil up again to a point where the trust is recouped for its losses during the fight, and for losses elsewhere through similar fights.

That's unfair competition, and it ought to be forbidden by law.

That kind of competition kills competition in the end, and makes monopoly. It makes it impossible for the small business man to live, and if permitted would put everything, ultimately, into the hands of monopolies.

Isn't that clear? Isn't it perfectly clear, too, that competition of that sort—competition of the kind that kills competition in the end—ought to be forbidden by law and punished?

Well, that's the nub of the administration's trust program.

It cannot possibly harm any legitimate business or industry. It cannot fail to benefit every legitimate business and industry that is in need of protection from the assaults of the powerful aggregations of capital.

It will do great good, and it can do no harm—except to those men and methods that should be harmed in the public interest.

One of the most noticeable things about the sane Fourth is its remarkable power as a breeder of reminiscences.

THE EX-AMBASSADOR TO GREECE.

George Fred Williams isn't our ambassador to Greece any more. His startling leap into European international politics has been repudiated, and his resignation has crossed in passage a request for his resignation.

Yet no doubt he told the truth about conditions as he found them in Albania. We haven't the slightest doubt that things are pretty bad there.

Then is his humiliation deserved?

Oh, yes! He was not at Athens as George Fred Williams, a warm-hearted, rattleheaded, brilliant, erratic, radical, impulsive and generous individual. He was there as the official representative of the United States government. Nor was he the United States government. Williams seems to have been in error on both these points.

It is not the business of the United States to interfere in Albania. And if it was the business of the United States, it was the business of the United States and not of George Fred Williams, its representative. The United States could not criticize conditions in Albania unless it were prepared to step in and correct the things it criticized. And heaven knows this country has enough troubles in its own back yard, even if it hadn't enough to keep it busy in its kitchen and dining room.

It was not the representative of the United States who said those true but indiscreet things about Albania. It was just George Fred Williams, a man with more human sympathy than judgment—one of those extraordinarily well meaning men who do so much mischief with their maladroit good intentions.

Three dozen plumbers in court all at once down in Des Moines. And were the common people able to restrain themselves from going to look on?

BONDS FOR NEW SCHOOL BUILDINGS.

The school board will lay before the voters at the school election July 18 a proposal to authorize the issue of two hundred thousand dollars' worth of bonds for new school buildings.

The board does not intend to use all this money now, and perhaps it would have been as well if the bond issue for which authorization is asked had been fixed nearer to the actual amount needed. However, nobody has any idea that the board will issue any of these bonds before the money is needed, or that it will build any schools that are not required, so no great harm is done.

The city is growing, particularly in the outskirts; and this bond issue proposal is proof of it. Schools must be provided to keep pace with the growing population and the expansion of the community. The money for the schools must come from bond issues. Bond issues must be authorized by the voters. Therefore the voters should vote "yes" on the proposed bond issue at the coming election.

Moreover, the voters should participate in this election. It is open to women as well as men, and there must be at least twenty thousand citizens, men and women, who are eligible to take part in it. Yet in all probability the total vote will not exceed a very few thousands.

A bond issue of two hundred thousand dollars is to be passed upon, and three directors are to be elected out of a pretty large field of candidates. These things ought to stir up interest and draw a large vote, whether they actually do or not.

Even George Fred Williams's most intimate friends will probably avoid all reference to "the parrot story" the next time they see him.

Now some Michigan people are shouting for anti-alien laws. If this keeps up, the time will come when the poor alien will be compelled to stay alien all his life.

Nerves

From the New York Sun.

Mrs. Preston put on her wraps and stepped into the elevator of the apartment house. On the way down to the ground floor the green elevator boy reversed the lever by accident and the sensation was startling. Mrs. Preston smiled at the fright of the elevator boy.

On the way out one of the employes who was cleaning the entrance hall dropped a mammoth incandescent bulb which shattered with a report like that of a young cannon when it struck the tesselated floor.

"Too bad, Tony; they'll probably take that out of your wages," she said to the cleaner.

As she made her way downtown she stopped to chat with a friend at a corner where a building was going up. Automatic riveters made the air hideous as they tapped bolt heads into steel girders, but Mrs. Preston and her friend pitched their voices a little higher and continued their conversation.

Later as she passed beneath the elevated structure one of the trains thundering, groaning, shrieking around the curve made a short circuit, whereupon vivid blue flashes filled the air and loud reports brought crowds. Mrs. Preston watched it with interest for a few moments and then passed on.

As she was crossing a street she stepped back out of the way of an electric truck just in time to prevent being run down. As she stood there the truck, apparently beyond control, dashed into the side of a crosstown car. The air was filled with shattered glass and shrieks of frightened passengers.

"The driver of that car was certainly careless," murmured Mrs. Preston as she went on.

A policeman stepped forward and held up a warning hand to her just as several pieces of fire apparatus came swinging around the corner in a wide half-skidded arc, the gongs clanging and sirens howling.

"Is the fire near here, officer?" she asked. The policeman did not know.

Just as she was entering a department store a woman pushed her hurriedly aside and tried to get through the door.

"Stop her!" yelled several voices.

Two salesgirls grabbed Mrs. Preston, but a third came running up, crying that she was not the woman. Mrs. Preston went along to the glove counter, and as she made her purchases she remarked:

"Wasn't that some shoplifter trying to get out?"

The girl at the glove counter admitted that it was.

"How interesting," commented Mrs. Preston.

The hour was late and she took a taxi to her home. On the way up the avenue there was a loud report. The inner tube had suffered a blowout and Mrs. Preston laughingly got into another taxi.

At home that evening in her apartment all was quiet and comfortable. In the adjoining room her maid, while passing through, accidentally knocked a small book from the table and it fell to the floor with a sharp little slap.

"Good heavens, what was that?" screamed Mrs. Preston, turning pale and clasping her hands to her heart.

Mrs. Preston scolded the maid roundly and then sent for her physician.

"Oh, dear, doctor," she said when that gentleman arrived, "you positively must do something for me at once. I assure you my nerves are absolutely wrecked."

Might Have Said More.

Philadelphia Telegraph: Reminiscences in the lobby of a Washington hotel the other night drifted to hoboes, when Congressman Charles H. Burke of South Dakota was reminded of an incident that happened in a suburban village.

One afternoon a small sized youngster was playing in front of a quiet looking residence when a hobo came along. Seeing that the child was alone, and taking it for granted that nobody was around, the tramp waded right in.

"Look here, kid," he roughly remarked, "I want all the money there is in that house, and I want it quick! Tell me where it is, an' I won't hurt ye."

"All the money that we have," was the quick response of the youngster, "is in an old vest in the kitchen."

Instantly the hobo disappeared in the house, and just as instantly he came back. In transit he lost his hat, half of his shirt and some of his vest, and by the time he hit the ground there was hardly enough left of him for the ambulance to cart away.

"He was foolish," softly soliloquized the kid, as the hobo heavily landed. "If he hadn't been in such a hurry I might have told him that daddy was also in that old vest."

Fireside Fishermen.

Toledo Blade: This is the time when the fireside fisherman ceases to read the classics of his favorite sport. He puts the last drop of oil into his several complicated patent reels. He stows away his lines with care. He ties a string around his book of flies. The poles are in their covers, the dewdads and jewsinflickers in the minnow bucket. They are all to go away in the depths of a closet or in a corner of the attic until next spring when the April skies proclaim the time of fishing at hand.

You see the fireside fisherman doesn't fish. Perhaps he has at some time in the past, or has some sincere intentions of doing so at some indefinite time in the future. His fishing is an indoor sport, a sort of periodical intoxication of imagination. He loves the touch of well-made equipment as a cat loves the stroke of a human hand. He loves to possess everything that goes with angling, even to the useless and incumbering mechanisms that make fishing difficult. He is the mainstay of the sporting goods dealer. And, if he can help it, he never wets a line. This might roughen it and muddy it.

We would not say how many of these non-fishing fishermen there are in this country. But the center of population, we suspect, is in the newspaper offices.

Came Down Gently.

San Francisco Star: Gladys' mother was entertaining visitors when suddenly the door was flung open and in burst Gladys like the proverbial whirlwind.

"My dear child," said the mother, rebukingly, "I never heard such a noise as you made coming downstairs. Now go right back and come downstairs properly."

Gladys retired and a few moments later re-entered the room.

"Did you hear me come down that time, mamma?" she asked.

"No, dear," replied the mother. "Now why can't you always behave like that? You came downstairs like a lady then."

"Yes, mamma," said Gladys dutifully, "I slid down the banisters."

Is Reaction Good for Business?

San Francisco Bulletin.

San Francisco Bulletin: The progressive movement has been jogging along at a fairly brisk pace for about ten years, and it has naturally got ahead of some of those who became winded after the first year or two and some of those who never started out at all. From these persons the suggestion now comes that our ten years of advance ought to be rounded out this year, and give way to a few years of reaction, reaction being considered especially good for business.

Why reaction is good for business is a matter which has never been explained. One of the reasons for the liberal movement, in the first place, was that conditions were bad for the greater part of the business of the nation; that is, for the men who had only small quantities of goods or only their labor and intelligence to sell. Business had been good for a few people on top, but not so good for the rest of the country.

A year or so ago an upstate New Yorker flashed into momentary fame by taking a few thousand dollars and going down to the metropolis with the intention of living like a millionaire as long as his money lasted. He went in a special train, lived at the best hotel, and did everything he could think of that cost money. Altogether he had what in nations would be called an era of prosperity for the twenty-four hours which New York consumed in getting all his money away from him.

No illustration could express much better what the people of the United States were doing between the close of the reconstruction era and the beginning of the new period in 1904. We were drunk, individually and as a nation, with the riches which we saw within our grasp. Our idea of individual liberty was to allow everybody to make free with the national resources—our money in the bank, so to speak, our inheritance from the centuries before the discovery, the estates which we should have administered for our children. We burned our candles at both ends and in the middle; we used up forests, mines, land and human beings with the recklessness of those who know there is more; and there was more, but it belonged, not to us, but to the generations who are to follow us.

If it had been only things that we wasted the results would not have been so deplorable, but what we were really wasting was human life and happiness. Somewhere in our mad course we forgot the Declaration of Independence and lost the rights of man. The rights of property, which have been far more tenacious throughout history, swallowed them up. Democracy went glimmering. The United States was almost as little a democracy as Rome under Augustus Caesar was a republic.

Somewhere in human life is the love of liberty and democracy. It never dies. It is the one cause of all the ages. It was this force, wonderful and resistless, which swelled up behind the progressive movement. It may be misled by its leaders, it may be deceived by those who are now trying so hard to deceive it, it may move more slowly at some time than at others, but its standards are planted on the ground it has won; it will not go back and it will go forward. To those who ask it to halt, to equivocate, to compromise, because that is "good for business," the only answer is that they have not yet begun to comprehend what business is.

Is Wilson Waning!

Harper's Weekly: In any public work there soon comes a moment when mere fatigue makes many hostile. After they have done their barking they wag their tails again. The public has now had sixteen months of Wilson. Nobody knew better than he that his first months would be his safest. Hence his determination to force the great policy measures at once. The tariff, currency and trust pledges had to be redeemed to keep the party's word and to free the country of financial controversy. They had to be redeemed before one of the false reactions that mean only short wind. What looks like a lessening of the president's prestige the last few weeks is a temporary illusion. It is the spirit of restlessness that comes over the public when it is held to a high plane. The president has given it high thinking, straight and hard action, absence of buncombe and many want a "new set." The Democratic politicians, the Republican and Progressive politicians, and the disgruntled interests are concentrating with some confidence, and Roosevelt's return was timely, like all his movements. It is not so much his many sterling merits that help him now as the contrast he makes. Part of the public is for the moment ready for a man who discovers rivers, eats monkeys, upbraids freely and promises much.

How long will this recession in the president's popularity last? Not long. Of course, there will be a lessening of the Democratic majority in the house, because the size of that majority was the result of Mr. Roosevelt's strength as a candidate for the presidency, and also because some voters always charge all known evils to the administration. But the Democratic loss will not be as great as many now expect. The average voter will ask himself a few questions. Would he like to have the tariff changed back? Would he like to have the currency where it was? Does he wish to weaken Wilson in his own party and put the Hearst-Clark-Tammany group on top? Next fall, and still more in 1916, answers to such questions will count more than the nervous fatigue that comes along once in so often when will and attention are kept at work.

Wasn't to Be Tricked.

Philadelphia Telegraph: They were speaking of the unsophisticated the other evening when Frank Funk of Illinois, who is identified with the Progressive movement, told of a resident of the rural zone who refused to be tricked.

The rural one emerged from the woods one day and was walking along the road when he saw an automobile for the first time. The thing didn't look natural to him, and he started down the middle of the pike at a speed that made the automobile burn gasoline to keep him in sight.

"Hey, there!" shouted the chauffeur, who wished to pass, as he loudly honked his horn, "get out of that road!"

"Won't do nothin' o' the kind!" defiantly called back the native, slightly increasing his pace.

"What's that!" indignantly cried the chauffeur, still working the horn. "Do you mean to tell me you won't get out of the road?"

"That's jes' what I said!" cried the speeding native. "Ye want ter git me over in that plowed ground where ye kin ketch me!"

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Not long ago two or three new watchmen were assigned to guarding the doors of the treasury department and it has taken them some time to familiarize themselves with the faces of the higher-up officials who work there.

It is a little difficult to get into the building after 2 p. m. and employes or visitors who try it have to stop and explain and show good moral character.

One afternoon recently Byron R. Newton, poet, violinist and assistant secretary of the treasury, made bold to enter the door after 2 o'clock.

"Who do you want to see?" asked the guard.

"Won't know till get upstairs," replied Newton.

"Are you a senator?"

"Oh, no, I'm no senator."

"Congressman?"

"No, I'm not any congressman."

"Whose office are you going to?"

"Newton's."

"We'll call him up and see if it's all right."

"Don't think he's there," suggested Newton.

"Why?"

"Because I'm the guy myself. Quit your kiddin' and let me by here."

It wasn't five minutes after that until Assistant Secretary Hamlin came along.

The guard told him he simply could not go in.

"But I've got to get in or I'll lose my job. I work here," said Hamlin.

"Ah ha-a!" taunted the guard, "then you're late. It's after 2 o'clock. You've run over your lunch hour."

"I know," said Hamlin, "but if you'll just let me in I'll promise it'll never occur again.

Representative John Henry Goeke of Ohio is a good lawyer with a great knack at plausible argument. Some years ago when he was still in his 20's, Goeke defended a man for murder. The man had confessed that he was guilty and then on reflection changed his mind. It is not an easy task to convince a jury that a man is innocent when he himself has admitted his guilt, but Goeke undertook the job. He explained that the defendant was greatly mistaken when he called himself guilty.

When the jury was out deliberating, the prisoner turned to Goeke and said gravely:

"I was satisfied I was guilty, but that last argument convinced me that I wasn't."

"Well, if I convinced you, with your natural prejudices, based on your inside knowledge of the case," said Goeke, "perhaps I convinced the jury, too."

And he had. The man went free.

The late Senator Bradley of Kentucky was passing through one of the doors into the senate one afternoon when Reed Smoot of Utah came galloping past him with head erect and eye a-glitter with the excitement of it all. Bradley stood looking at Smoot for some moments and then to a bystander remarked:

"I reckon, now that the main floor walker of this store has arrived, we can proceed to business."

Here is an instance of the difficulties of defeating for congress a man who is already in.

When Representative William P. Borland came here as a member of the house from Kansas City, two or three terms ago, he fell into the practice of filing away the name of every man who wrote him a letter asking even the slightest favor.

Even if a man asked only for a small package of radish seeds, Borland had his name placed on a card in his filing case. And in sending the seeds he also wrote a letter suggesting that he hoped there would be other and greater services he could perform.

When he ran for re-election it looked like a rather spirited fight.

By the merest accident Borland's campaign manager learned of the file of names of people who had received favors.

"How many are there?" he asked.

"Never counted them," said Borland, "but there must be at least a couple of thousand."

When the names were counted it was discovered that there were 10,000 or more.

The campaign manager gave a sigh of relief.

"They can't beat you," he said.

"We'll send each one of those men a nice little letter asking for their support and there will be nothing to it."

And he was right.

War.

To bind the wounds of nations, heal
each bruise;
To make all races one in purpose,
thought;
To sheath the sword, spike cannon, unship guns;
To be so big that injury be forgot.
And smaller peoples, looking toward the great,
Shall know them as their friends, and feel assured—
These form the inspiration to contend
'Gainst war and all its fearful cost in woe,
War is a lust for vengeance or for power,
Glories in roar of battle shots, and groans;
It means that homes shall flame, the fields be bare,
And women wander lone upon their way,
While in the wasted space where grain
had waved,
Prone in the dust, red with rich blood
they shed,
Shall lie the country's proudest sons,
and best,
And all for what? Perchance, a fair
land's weal
Then, loving those who fell, we bring a wreath,
Or tell in song how brave they were,
how true.
But oftener that some money is at stake,
And capital, that queer and timid
thing,
Stands by its coffers not afraid to fight,
By proxy, scorning risk of its soft skin.
One truth stands forth, as might a marble shaft
Set on a hill, and firm as its own base,
And this it is: Who, from his coign secure
Shouts loud that war must be, and murder reign,
So that his honor, as he terms his purse,
Shall be intact, and fat with tainted
pelf,
Is knave and fool, a traitor in his heart,
Disloyal to his fellows, and his God.

Hammond for Governor

Views of State Press on the Democratic Nominee.

A Man of Principal and Force.

Detroit Herald: With Hammond in the race, and the dissentions in the Republican party overcoming the hitherto predominate majority of that party, the election of the Democratic nominee is almost assured.

Mr. Hammond is a strong man, a good man, a man of principles and ideals. He is an able lawyer, a calm and level-headed counsellor. He is a progressive, but neither a radical nor a visionary. He is not a handsome man and as a campaigner he lacks personal magnetism, but in congress, with 200 conferees he has made his mark as one of the first half dozen in ability and in the normally Republican district which has successively sent him to congress he is not only respected but well loved. The state would be immeasurably strengthened by the change from Eberhart, the weak opportunist, to Hammond, a man of principle and force.

They are Proud of Him.

Crosby Crucible: Winfield Scott Hammond, the victor in the race for the Democratic nomination for governor, is a gentleman whom the Democrats of Minnesota may well be proud to present to the voters for election to the highest office in the state.

Back of him is a record for faithful performance of duties in the service of the people. It is such a record as any man can be proud to claim. From Republicans of strong standpat principles you hear nothing but words of commendation for Mr. Hammond, while in the Second congressional district, which he has served for several terms, he is spoken of in the highest terms. He is a prophet with honor in his own country—something quite remarkable for a man in public life.

Mr. Hammond's sterling qualities as the man were to be seen in his telegram of congratulation to Hon. Daniel Lawler, whom he thought had defeated him for the nomination.

If the voters of Minnesota choose Mr. Hammond for their next governor, as we firmly believe they will, this state will have a man in the executive chair of whom it may be proud. He is a man that will lend dignity to the office and to the state he represents; he is a man who will do things for the good of all the people of all parts of the state, and, in doing that, he will be doing things for the best interests of the state as a commonwealth that should lead all of its sisters. He will be a Democratic governor, but not in the partisan sense.

Elimination Not Ended.

Anako Union: The elimination campaign is likely to be continued in the November campaign, with Lee the victim.

Right, Old Top.

Stillwater Gazette: This is the eloquent tribute paid by The Duluth Herald to the next governor: "There is an assurance, now, that Minnesota will have a governor of caliber and capacity, of sympathy and humanity, of courage and ability, of broad powers and high purpose." Some might guess the paper meant Lee, but knowing The Herald's inclination to Democracy, possibly they referred to Hammond.

Prospects Never Brighter.

Mahnomen Pioneer: Prospects for Democratic success in the state were never brighter than they are this fall. The greatest single factor pointing to success is the candidate for governor, Congressman Winfield Scott Hammond, a man who has a record as a "vote-getter" equaled by few. He would be a strong candidate with a united opposition, but following the strenuous primary campaign of the Republicans, Mr. Hammond's prospects are doubly bright. He has not been at home during the primary campaign, but later in the summer will make an energetic canvass of the state.

Vassaly Shown Keen Discernment.

Little Falls Herald: Congressman Hammond is the Democratic nominee for governor. It would not be fair to say that the tremendous vote rolled up for Lawler indicated disapproval of the nominee. Mr. Hammond has a great opportunity before him, to bring the party together, to make the organization truly representative. To secure thousands of disgruntled Republican votes will not avail much in November, if thousands of Democratic votes are lost. We have every confidence that the Democratic nominee has the farsighted ability, wisdom and statesmanship to free the Democratic party, and go into the fall campaign with a united and inspired party behind him.

Will Be Felt and Will Triumph.

Fergus Falls Wheelock's Weekly: Before this campaign is over Mr. Hammond's personality will be felt beyond the borders of his own congressional district. In that district he is already known, with the result that the counties of Blue Earth, Brown, Martin and Watonwan gave him 2,200 votes and Lawler 438.

Nailing Another Lie

New York World: The Journal of Commerce prints an infamous cablegram from London stating that—

The cotton-cloth business at Manchester is the smallest for years, and the market is very irregular.

This, of course, is a deliberate and unqualified lie, circulated by English cunning to deceive credulous Americans as to the real operations of the Underwood-Simmons tariff. Our old friend, Wilbur F. Wakeman of the American Protective Tariff league, must get after it at once.

The Manchester cotton trade was never so prosperous. Every trans-Atlantic liner staggers into New York with the burden of Manchester cotton cloth, while billions of New England operatives are slowly starving to death and some of the less prosperous New England mills are barely earning 40 per cent dividends.

But if it should really happen that the Manchester cotton cloth trade is the worst in years, that is because President Wilson refuses to give business a rest and because congress persists in debating anti-trust bills.

Things You Never Hear.

Columbia, S. C., State: "No, madam, these eggs are not very fresh."

"You're sure $10 will be enough, old man?"

"Let me bat again, umps; that hit was foul by a foot."

"That cigar costs more, sir, but I think you will like this brand much better."

"What an ugly baby! Aren't you ashamed to own such a little satyr?"

"Please tell the society editor not to write up my reception tonight."

"The reason I spent so much last term, dad, was poker and booze."

Impossible.

Detroit Free Press: It's going to be hard work to find a Mexican who will be perfectly satisfactory to more than eight or nine other Mexicans.

Profanity Among Golf Players.

In the July American Magazine James Montgomery Flagg, the celebrated wit and artist, does a piece about golf. Following is an extract concerning the use of swear words on the golf course:

"What incentive would it be for the tiresome business man to skip out onto the links in the spring if he couldn't feel that at least there was one spot where he could unload some outdoor language that he had been accumulating all through the long winter?

"As some one has said: 'Breathes there a man with soul so dead that to himself (or even before relatives) he hath not said,"——— ——— ! ? $! ! ? & %!"'

"Restraint and artistry should always be used. In other words make the Cuss fit the Shot! The truly great golfer knows just what language to use for each shot or mishap. He doesn't waste a night letter size anathema where a ten-word blight would answer. Below is a table of carefully selected epigrams for the man who takes his game seriously. As you see, these are necessarily in cipher. I might send translations to readers who are on the level, on receipt of two dozen new $9 per dozen golf balls. No agents.

"Swinging over the ball ——— ———!
Swinging over the ball in presence of witnesses ——— ———!
Slicing when you have advanced your right foot to correct the tendency ——— ———!
Topping your drive for the third time \———!
Lofting the ball out of sand pit over bunker into another sand pit ——— ———!
Hitting elm tree and having to go back 200 yards for ball ——— ——— ? ! ! ! ! ! ! ? ?
Driving ball into pond and head of club coming off ——— ——— ? 9 0 8 3 7 3 1 d h j e u t ! ? !
Own caddie nudging opponent's caddie when you address ball O—O T K J O U R T !—!

When you start out with a joyous private hunch that you are on your game and you foozle every shot in eighteen holes. O Prowg the Flurbestial Bolofeathered Smorcken to Eternal Gadunkensloam ——— ———

"See what I mean? President Wilson could have done much better than 'Tut, Tut!' A man of his education and advantages! He probably didn't realize that it was a snobbish thing to do—holding back the correct expression when everybody had a right to expect so much more of a man in his exalted position!"

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

HAMMOND'S RECORD.

To the Editor of The Herald:

During the month of April, 1914, the house of representatives of our national congress passed the so-called convict labor bill, which provides that convict-made goods imported from one state to another shall be subject to the laws of the state into which they are shipped. The vote thereon was 302 to 3.

For twenty-five years efforts have been made to secure legislation which would put an end to the prison contract labor graft. Only one small, but well organized and wealthy body opposed this needed legislation and that body was composed of the prison contractors. This year, as always before, these prison labor contractors again fought to head off this bill, but they could only get three men in congress to stick up for them. One of these men is a man you have recently praised and boosted for governor of this state, namely, W. S. Hammond.

Congressman Hammond showed that he believed in gang rule when he voted for the Democratic secret caucus. This secret caucus is much worse than Cannonism. It is standpatism intensified. In view of the foregoing facts, which can easily be established by the records of congress, there are many of us who would like to know if The Herald honestly believes that W. E. Hammond, if elected governor, will be subservient to the Minnesota special interests, or work for the benefit of all the people. Will you kindly give us your frank opinion how you harmonize your splendid editorials on Hammond and his standpat record in congress?

Just why he voted to sustain this graft system has not been publicly explained. Yours very truly,

GEORGE H. FUNCK,

Ormonde hotel, Virginia, Minn., July 4.

The Herald has not the slightest doubt about Mr. Hammond's freedom from control by any special interest. It has not the slightest doubt that as governor his loyalty and service will be undividedly to the commonwealth of Minnesota and to all of its people. If it had such doubts it would not be supporting him for the governorship. Moreover, his record in congress is anything but a "standpat record."

As to Mr. Hammond's vote on the prison labor bill, when the campaign gets under way—for which two months hence is plenty soon enough—no doubt he will justify it to the satisfaction of every fair-minded citizen of Minnesota. In the meantime, let the campaign abide until the dog days are over, at least. September is soon enough for political debates, and there will be plenty enough of them then.—The Editor.

VOTE ON IRISH BILL.

Lords Will Pass It in Order to Amend It.

London, July 7.—The house of lords yesterday passed by 273 to 108, second reading of the bill to amend the Irish home rule bill.

That the house of lords would pass the bill in order to amend it in the later sessions was a foregone conclusion.

The marquis of Crewe in closing the debate for the government challenged the opposition to guarantee that there would be no civil war in Ireland, even if the bill was amended totally excluding Ulster. Concerning the possibility of a solution by conference if dropping the amendment bill and breaking down the government's policy was to be a preliminary, it would be impossible for the government to accept it, but short of entailing such a sacrifice, the government was most anxious to facilitate a conference, he said.

For himself, he did not hesitate to say that if John Redmond, the Irish Nationalist leader; Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster Unionist leader; William O'Brien and two or three other Irishmen could get together, it would be a better augury for some permanent arrangement than any other kind of a conference.

After division was taken, notices of several amendments were handed in providing for the exclusion from home rule of the whole of Ulster.

PIONEER LUTHERAN MISSIONARY DIES.

Evansville, Ind., July 7.—C. F. W. Scholz, 93 years old, the last of eight pioneers who came to this country in 1844 for the purpose of spreading the Lutheran faith, died at Secor, Ill., yesterday.

AN OLD-TIMER GONE

By SAVOYARD

Washington, July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Hiscock, who died the other day at the advanced age of 80 years, very nearly missed the speakership of the national house of representatives and had Tom Platt willed it he might have been president of the United States. He was a man of very superior mind, a learned lawyer, a capital public speaker, a formidable forensic debater and thoroughly honest. I first saw him in 1880, when he was conspicuous for his talents in the ablest congress, in both houses, that has deliberated at this capital in my time, though there were then fewer senators and 100 less representatives than now.

Unfortunately Hiscock was constitutionally indolent, mentally and physically. What he did was without effort, and when making a great speech he looked bored and it was evident that he resented the necessity for the effort. He would have been an awful failure as speaker, and a far more calamitous failure as president. Had he been the steam engine in breeches that old Joe Cannon is there is no telling to what political heights he would have attained.

The Republican party when it was first organized contained a large number of Democrats, who were in accord with their associates on the slavery question only. They composed at least one-third of the new party. If you are curious, read the tariff plank of the platform on which Lincoln ran in 1860 and you will see how tenderly the G. O. P. handled its large Democratic following. Frank Hiscock was one of those Democrats who became Republicans on the slavery question, and subsequently, in 1872, he favored Horace Greeley for president against Gen. Grant. Had the Democratic party supported Greeley as loyally as it had Seymour four years earlier, or Tilden four years later, Grant would have been worse beaten for president in 1872 than Parker was in 1904. Frank Blair and Gratz Brown were to blame. Had they held their peace Charles Francis Adams or Lyman Trumbull would have been nominated instead of Greeley and the Democrats would have voted the ticket with enthusiasm.

Many Democrats who left their party to join the Greeley movement remained in the Democratic party, but Frank Hiscock returned to the G. O. P. along with Chauncey Depew, another enthusiastic Greeleyite. And it is safe to predict that if Mr. Roosevelt's party goes out of the political business many thousands of them, once Republicans, will join the Republican party, and as for that, more than 1,000,000 votes cast for Mr. Roosevelt in 1912 came from the Democratic party.

The Republicans had a small majority in the forty-seventh congress, and there was a free-for-all race for speaker. Garfield, who had been the real leader of the minority in the forty-sixth congress, had been elected president and was assassinated. Old Pig Iron Kelley, the titular leader, knew about enough parliamentary law to move to adjourn and gloried in his ignorance of that science as it became when Carlisle was speaker.

And there was a field of candidates for speaker in 1881. Reed and Hiscock were from the East, Maine and New York, and Keifer, Burrows and Cannon from the West. Though he had been in congress four years, few knew what a tremendous man Tom Reed was. Everybody knew the splendid talents possessed by Hiscock; but everybody realized how unfit he was for speaker. Burrows was dreadfully unpopular personally. Like that other Michigander, Alden Smith, he had but a single speech, which William L. Wilson said he kept under glass, taking it out once a year to air it. Cannon was not then "Uncle Joe" and not as great a man among the giants of those days as he subsequently became among the lesser folk of the new century.

Page of California and Hazelton of Wisconsin, two of the brightest fellows you ever saw, took charge of Keifer's campaign and brought their man in a winner. They organized the house, appointed the committees, named the chairmen and ran the whole show. You can bet there were some mighty angry great men on the Republican side at the outcome.

Frank Hiscock lived at Syracuse and there also dwelt the Hon. James Belden. They were in eternal warfare, sometimes one victor, sometimes the other. Belden was a business man and had millions; Hiscock was a thinker and had brains. After serving a dozen terms in congress, Hiscock was elected United States senator to succeed Warner Miller. Belden was in the Republican national convention of 1880, a delegate from New York instructed for Gen. Grant, but bolted and joined with those of the delegation who voted for Blaine. Roscoe Conkling was chairman of the delegation and upon one roll call he sat stolid, refusing to cast the vote. Repeatedly the state of New York was called with no response. Finally Conkling arose, perhaps the most magnificent figure and presence America has seen since John C. Breckinridge, and after a graceful apology for his seeming rudeness, he continued: "I had discovered that Mr. Jimmy Belden was meditating a cumulative treason and I was only giving him opportunity to consummate it."

Old Belden took it into his head to go to congress and was a member in 1892. In the Republican primary to nominate a candidate for mayor of Syracuse, after a terrific fight, his man was named over Hiscock's. The election came in April and Belden left Washington and spent two or three weeks working in the city campaign; but when the vote was counted it turned out that the Democratic ticket had carried that Republican city two to one. The Hiscock men who voted at all voted Democratic.

* * *

Old Belden got back and young fellows in the New York delegation—Warren Hooker, Chickering and others—surrounded him in the Republican cloak room and there was a chorus, "How, how did it happen, Uncle Jimmy?"

"Damned if I know!" he roared. "I gave 'em all the money they wanted!"

He couldn't understand it. It was a mystery to him that money would not buy anything in this world.

It is a great pity that Frank Hiscock did not have the dash of Blaine, the will of Conkling and the ambition of Roosevelt. He had the brains.

JUST WHAT IS ART, ANYWAY?

Picnic Committee of Palestine Lodge Has Hard Nut to Crack.

A new point has arisen in the kodak contest to be held on the Palestine picnic at Fond du Lac Saturday, July 11. The committee on the prize picture is struggling more hopelessly than ever in a jungle of doubt, indecision and unmixed wrath.

The style of picture has been narrowed down to the most "artistic," but—at the moment when a ray of hope for a speedy and amicable settlement appeared, someone on the committee—probably that newlywed—brought up the question of what stuff "art" is made. Of course, if the committee had not barred baby pictures this might not have happened.

At 10 years of age a full face view of the lunch table would undoubtedly appeal to the sense of the artistic.

At 18, one would unquestionably send in pictures of himself, arrayed in the latest fashion from hat to boots.

At 20, one would submit prettily arranged groups of lovely girls.

At 25, one would narrow this down to the one girl and then say things about the committee, if it did not win the prize.

At 30, one would proudly and hilariously present a picture of the twins.

At 40, one would send in a fine half-tone of our new wholesale house or office building.

At 50, a group picture showing the grandchildren would be a sure winner.

This will be settled by Saturday. A photo supply house has donated a beautiful camera for this contest, which is very decidedly worth working for.

GIFFORD HAS LOST SOME OF HIS HOPE.

Albany, N. Y., July 7.—Malcolm Gifford, Jr., son of a wealthy Hudson manufacturer, who is alleged to have slain Frank J. Clute, a chauffeur, near here fourteen months ago, has had withdrawn the privileges he has enjoyed while a prisoner in the Albany county penitentiary. A jury which heard Gifford's trial could not agree and was discharged last Saturday. This Sheriff Peasley said seemed to have shaken Gifford's confidence in his ultimate acquittal.

Before the disagreement of the jury, Gifford apparently was care-free and declared he expected quick vindication, but since Saturday prison officials declare he has appeared downcast and it was believed best to guard him closely.

Sheriff Peasley had Gifford searched and a small nail file was taken from the prisoner.

WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE LEADING QUESTION.

Madison, Wis., July 7.—Woman's suffrage proved the most popular of 1,167 subjects treated in the package libraries sent out by the department of debating and public discussion of the University of Wisconsin from last July to April of this year. Restriction of immigration, the minimum wage and commission government ranked next in popularity.

In the nine months 2,741 packages were sent to 365 localities. Seven hundred and five inquiries were answered by letter and 567 packages were sent to ninety-four libraries.

BULL MOOSE MAN "HEART BREAKER."

Mount Pleasant, Iowa, July 7.—H. D. Tade of Pillsboro, Progressive party candidate for state treasurer of Iowa, is made defendant in a $25,000 damage suit for alleged breach of promise. The case was filed in the district court, Miss Nellie Irwin, a teacher, being the complainant.

WHALEY NAMED FOR FOSSTON POSTOFFICE.

Washington, July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—President Wilson sent to the senate the nomination for postmaster of J. D. Whaley of Fosston, Minn.

NEW WAY TO PICK RHODES SCHOLARS.

London, July 7.—With the object of giving to Oxford university a new contingent of American students every year, the Rhodes trustees announced a change in the method of electing scholars. Instead of as hitherto choosing from the forty-eight states in two consecutive years and skipping the third year the scholars will be chosen yearly in the future from two-thirds of the states.

The sixteen states to be omitted at the 1916 examinations are Arizona, Delaware, Florida, Idaho, Louisiana, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Carolina, South Dakota, Utah, West Virginia and Wyoming.

From these states scholars will be selected in 1917, when another sixteen states will be omitted.

RIVER AND HARBOR BILL UNDER FIRE

Trade Commission Bill Is Sidetracked in the Senate.

Washington, July 7.—The administration trade commission bill, heading the anti-trust program, was laid aside temporarily in the senate yesterday for debate on the rivers and harbors appropriation bill. No senators were ready to discuss the trade commission measure.

Consideration of the river and harbor bill developed some of the strongest opposition which has been slumbering in the senate. Throughout the day Senator Burton continued to attack the measure, in a detailed analysis of the various projects appropriated for. Senators Kenyon, Borah and Norris were ready to aid him in preventing an early vote on the measure, and frequent points of no quorum brought a bare majority of the senate to the floor.

It was made plain that obstructive tactics would be resorted to in an effort to defeat the bill.

NEW ORLEANS BARGE ON WAY TO ST. PAUL.

New Orleans, La., July 7.—The transportation of freight on the Mississippi river from its head waters to the government dam was resumed yesterday after a twenty-days' suspension when Barge No. 6 left here for St. Paul. The barge is one of a line to be used in river traffic. It is fashioned after those used on the canals of Holland and is propelled by its own power.

PRESIDENT HELPS FORMER SERVANT.

Trenton, N. J., July 7.—Through the efforts of President Wilson a woman who was employed in his Princeton home as a domestic ten years ago will be released from the Mercer county jail, to which she was committed on a charge of habitual drunkenness. The woman's name is being withheld at the request of the president, who desires to give her a new start in life.

Her predicament was discovered by a former Princeton school teacher, who wrote to the president. Governor Fielder of New Jersey was asked by the president to investigate the case and later ordered the county authorities to release the woman.

BURN OLD NEGRO TO DEATH AS A JOKE.

Salisbury, Md., July 7.—Joseph Darby and George Slopps, young white men, were brought to jail from Hebron yesterday, charged with pouring coal oil on Benjamin Goslee a negro 71 year old, and then setting fire to his clothing, burning him to death.

Darby made a statement in which he assumed sole responsibility for the deed, saying it was intended as a joke. He said the three had been drinking and the negro became stupefied. Unable to arouse him, Darby poured the contents of a kerosene lamp on his clothing and ignited it. The flames were extinguished too late to save the man's life.

IMPERIAL FUNERAL IS GIVEN DENISON.

Tokio, July 7.—The funeral of the late Henry Willard Denison, legal adviser to the Japanese department of foreign affairs, was held yesterday under imperial auspices. The body was escorted by troops and buried beside that of Count Komura, who, as foreign minister, was Denison's close friend. An imperial mandate voiced the sorrow of the Japanese government and dwelt upon the great services rendered by Mr. Denison in the promotion of international relations. Baron Kato, the foreign minister, and G. W. Guthrie, the American ambassador, were among the pallbearers.

PRISONER ESCAPES WHILE DEPUTY SHERIFF DOZES

Forger Awaiting Sentence Leaps From Window in the Courthouse.

Police Claim They Were Not Notified Until Two Hours Later.

Opportunity had to knock but once at the door of Harry W. Guirl, confessed forger awaiting sentence, who yesterday afternoon saw a chance to escape from the custody of the sheriff and took it.

Guirl's opportunity came while he was waiting to be transported from the courthouse to the county jail. The crucial moment arrived when Frank Carlson, a deputy in charge of the prisoner, dozed off for a short nap while the two were waiting for an automobile in a rear room of the sheriff's office.

It is believed that as Guirl satisfied himself that his guard was in slumberland, he opened a window and quietly made his get-a-way. At any event, when Carlson caught himself napping, he found that his bird had flown. Up to a late hour this afternoon, no trace of the fugitive had been found.

HARRY W. GUIRL.

Guirl, arrested under the name of Alfred H. Stewart alias F. W. Cameron, alias H. Albert Stewart, alias F. W. Allen, pleaded guilty before District Judge Bert Fesler yesterday afternoon to a charge of attempted forgery. Guirl put up a good front to the court and asked the judge to give him a chance by putting him on parole. Judge Fesler, as well as Mason M. Forbes, first assistant county attorney, thought it might be better if his case was continued for sentence, in order that his record might be looked into.

Denied Having Record.

The prisoner denied that he had a record, although he admitted that he had been arrested before. Since the prisoner's escape, it has been learned that he is wanted at Memphis, Tenn., Cincinnati, Ohio, Indianapolis, Ind., Omaha, Neb., Chicago, St. Louis and Denver, Colo.

Guirl's last offense was an attempt to pass a $50 check on the Oak Hall Clothing company of this city. The check was drawn on the United States National bank of Superior, June 26. Guirl forged the name of M. S. Bartlett, an officer of the North Wisconsin Colonization company to the check and presented it at the local clothing store after having identified himself by means of cards as Mr. Bartlett, at the store. The proprietor of the store, not doubting that the man who had presented the check was Bartlett, telephoned the bank to see if the check was good. When he received the information from the bank that the firm had only 50 cents on deposit at that time, he telephoned for the police to arrest the man for attempting to pass a worthless check. Later investigation developed the forgery and the attempted fraud.

Find Other Checks.

In his baggage at his room in a local hotel, detectives discovered several checks similar to the one that he had presented at the Oak Hall store. The amounts ranged from $10 to $60. Among his possessions were also found a number of blank checks of different Superior banks and a stamping outfit with which he printed the name of the North Wisconsin Colonization company on the checks. Guirl was registered at the hotel under the name of Allen. He also traveled under the alias of Albert H. Stewart and a number of cards bearing this name were found among his effects. Guirl admitted that he had worked for a firm of wholesale druggists in Indianapolis under the latter name.

The escape from the sheriff's office took place about 4 o'clock, but no organized search for the prisoner was under way until two hours later, when Sheriff Meining notified the police department of the get-a-way for the first time. As soon as Chief Troyer took hold of the case, he had a typewritten description of the fugitive placed in the hands of every patrolman in the city last evening. The chief remained in his office until a late hour last evening to take personal charge of the search.

A description of the man is as follows: Age, 25; height, 5 feet 4⅝ inches; weight, 123 pounds; slight build, light chestnut hair, blue eyes, light complexion, wears glasses and has good teeth.

Police Not Notified.

It was stated at police headquarters this morning that the sheriff's office made no report of the escape until 6:30 o'clock last evening, and that as a result Guirl had an opportunity to make his get-a-way. He is now believed to be either in Superior or in the Twin Cities.

One of the police officials said this morning that Guirl might have been captured, if he attempted to go to Superior, if the police had been notified at once. Two of the local detectives were at work on a case across the bay yesterday afternoon and they could have been detailed to watch the ferry and the interstate bridge. They both know Guirl from his photographs and would have had no trouble in recognizing the fugitive.

That Sheriff Meining and a deputy were on a hunt in Superior yesterday afternoon and that they met these two detectives, but said nothing of the escape, is another claim made by the police.

Guirl's get-a-way calls to mind the spectacular escape of George Harrison, swindler, from the county jail on the morning of Aug. 15 last year. Harrison had been permitted to come down to the jailer's office to receive a visit from his "brother." A plumber who was working on sewer pipes in the building at the time stepped out of the room, leaving the door open. Harrison dashed out, the "brother" followed, and neither of them has been seen since. Harrison had served time in a number of penitentiaries and jails and was a much wanted crook.

WARBURG OFF BANK BOARD

before the committee for nearly four hours yesterday to tell about his relations with the International Harvester company and the New Jersey Zinc company, both so-called trusts. No proposal was made to vote on a report to the senate on his nomination, but it is regarded as probable that if approval is given it will be by a close vote.

Senator Hitchcock was authorized to give out the information secured from Mr. Jones. His report in substance was:

Mr. Jones was asked questions about his relations to two large business enterprises, one of which was the International Harvester company, now being prosecuted by the government as a trust. Mr. Jones said he became a director of that company in April, 1909, purchasing one share to qualify as a director. He became a director at the request of Cyrus H. McCormick, an old friend. He said he fully approved all the actions of the company since he became a director, and believed they were proper, legal and within the law.

Approves Policy.

Mr. Jones announced that he is in accord with the policy of the Harvester company at the present time, and said there is no difference of opinion among the directors. He receives no compensation, he said, other than the nominal director's fee.

When elected he received the votes of the voting trust which controlled the company—George W. Perkins, Cyrus H. McCormick and William Deering. This voting trust has since been dissolved. Mr. Jones said he had nothing to lose or gain by the decision of the courts in the anti-trust suit in the Harvester case.

Prior to 1897, Mr. Jones told the committee, he owned and was president of a zinc company at Mineral Point, Wis., capitalized at $400,000, which came to him and his brother in satisfaction of a debt. This company was taken over by the New Jersey Zinc company, which at that time was capitalized at $4,000,000, and the Jones brothers were given $800,000 in stock of the New Jersey company for their $400,000 in the Wisconsin company. The New Jersey company acquired other properties and increased its capital to $10,000,000. It now produces 20 per cent of the spelter of the United States, 3 per cent of the sulphuric acid, and 85 per cent of the oxide of zinc. As a result of various consolidations, the dividends of the New Jersey company last year were $6,000,000 and the year before $4,000,000.

INDIAN SONG LOWERS BARS

of the discovetry began an investigation which resulted in his pardon.

Accused of Murder.

Spopee was charged with the murder of a white man near the Canadian boundary, north of the Montana line. It is thought by the department of justice that the murder probably was committed in Canada, and that the territorial courts of Montana which tried him at Fort Benton had no jurisdiction. Moreover, it is now believed that Spopee committed the murder in self-defense.

He and another Indian, Good Rider, asked a white man for food. Their request was denied and the white man denounced Spopee, finally attacking him with an ax. The Indian claims to have fired in self-defense, and his story now is credited by the department of justice.

Saved by Odd Conduct.

After Spopee's conviction at Fort Benton and sentenced to death he was removed to the Federal prison at Fort Leavenworth. While awaiting execution the Indian maintained absolute silence. He has since told interpreters he felt sure he would be hanged, and decided not to talk or make any efforts to be released. His conduct was so unusual that he was believed to be insane, and after two years was removed to the Federal hospital here, where he has been held a prisoner for thirty-two years.

Spopee is regarded as an intelligent Indian by physicians who have examined him since the movement to obtain his release was begun. Interpreters find he still gives practically the same account of the tragedy which he related thirty-four years ago at Fort Benton.

Commissioner Sells of the Indian office took the case up personally, and arranged today to send Spopee back to his people.

DISCORD RUMORED IN FREEPORT MURDER CASE

the county officials are not satisfied with the results already obtained, and now proposed to draw their clews to a head for presentation to the grand jury.

Aside from developing a case based on his own theories, the head of the detective agency, it was intimated, was prepared to investigate the stories told by Dr. Carman and W. P. W. Haff, that they were shot at by an unknown man. Haff, who resembles Dr. Carman, told the police that he believed the shots fired at him were intended for the doctor.

Tells of Left-handed Man.

Dr. Carman yesterday insisted that the man who fired at him was riding a bicycle which he guided with his right hand, using his left to fire the revolver. This follows his theory that a lefthanded man fired the shot that killed Mrs. Bailey.

Another clew being followed today has to do with a threat alleged to have been made by a woman that "I'll murder that man if it takes all my life." The woman, according to the informant, pointed to Dr. Carman as the object of her anger.

Re-Enacted Crime.

After a conference with the authorities, the chief of the private detectives went to the Carman home. There they inspected the ground and then with three of his men searched the house. After the chief had been in the house half an hour the murder was rehearsed, with the chief acting the part of the murderer. Two of his men inside the office took the parts of Dr. Carman and Mrs. Bailey. When this rehearsal was concluded, the chief and his men searched the Carman place and the property adjoining.

The authorities are investigating the story told by Dr. Carman that a bicyclist who had followed his automobile from Rockville Center, near here, had fired three shots at him while he was driving along a lonely stretch of road. Four persons living near the spot where Dr. Carman said the attempt was made upon his life told investigators that they had heard shots.

None to Bear Out Haff.

Detectives were unable, however, to find anyone who had heard the shot which J. W. Haff, Jr., a resident of Lynbrook, a neighboring village, said was fired at him early yesterday morning while he was driving his automobile outside Freeport. Haff, who resembles Dr. Carman in figure and face, is the owner of an automobile of a type similar to the one owned by the physician.

Before the inquest was adjourned, several witnesses had been heard. Two of these witnesses, Miss Hazel Combs, a patient of Dr. Carman, and Miss Anna Kehn, a friend, contradicted Mrs. Carman's statement that she was not walking around the ground floor of her home that night, was not in her husband's office, and had not admitted any patients who called. Both these women swore they had seen Mrs. Carman enter her husband's office to answer the telephone, and corroborated the testimony of George Golder, a witness, who testified Friday that Mrs. Carman had admitted him to the house.

Dr. Carman has obtained a permit to carry a pistol. In making application for the permit, he told a justice of the peace he feared another attempt would be made to kill him.

Wabeno, Wis., Fire.

Marinette, Wis., July 7.—The business section of the town of Wabeno, Forest county, was destroyed by fire on Saturday entailing a loss of more than $50,000, according to information received here today. Three guests of the Siowe hotel, which burned, are unaccounted for.

No Trouble to Keep Skin Free From Hairs

(The Modern Beauty)

There is no need for any woman to countenance superfluous hairs, because with a paste made by mixing some powdered delatone with water it is easy to get rid of them. The paste is applied for 2 or 3 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed. This treatment will rid the skin of hair without leaving a blemish, but care should be taken to see that you get real delatone.—Advertisement.

STEEL PLANT SUBURBS SERVIA IS AFTER SONS

Government Agent Trying to Get American Immigrants to Return.

Makes Offer of Tract of Land and a Home.

Servians living in the city are being offered inducements to return to their native land. The offer is made by an envoy of the Servian government, whose name is said to be Pinto Urbanovich, who has been visiting countrymen of his at New Duluth, Gary and in West Duluth.

A piece of land, a home to live in and for the single man, the added inducement of a wife are offered if the men will return. The size of the land is not stated but it was intimated that the parcel would be large enough for a man to live comfortably on in that country.

With each piece of land the government also proposed to build and present a small home to those taking up the proposition.

A meeting of Servians was held in Gary last week at which the offer was said to have been made. Information as to whether any of the men in Duluth had accepted the offer could not be secured, but it is thought that some of them will take it up and return to their native land this fall.

An attempt to find the envoy proved fruitless yesterday and it is probable that he has gone to some of the range cities. He is said to have been sent here by the Servian nobility, who, it is claimed, are lamenting the depopulation of the country.

Thousands of Servians have emigrated to the United States during the last few years. These are now principally located in the centers of steel and iron industry of this country. Some have arrived here with their families, while the majority have their families still living in the mother country. It is claimed that owing to the men leaving the country, that fully three-fourths of the people now in Servia are women and that most of these are doing the men's work, that of tilling the soil. Recent wars have also tended to depopulate the country of its men.

The envoy is said to make a special effort to secure those men who have been in this country for three or more years. The reason for that is said that these men have picked up a smattering of knowledge of industry as well as English, that will be valuable to the entire Servian nation. It is claimed that some of the men who have been here a long time have had far more flattering offers than those mentioned.

Hand Is Crushed.

Steve Janiek, an employee of the steel plant sustained a bad accident to his left hand yesterday afternoon. While directing the movements of a hoisting bucket containing a quantity of concrete he got his hand caught between the bucket and a wall of the building. The hand was badly lacerated.

The man was taken to the infirmary at the plant where the injury was dressed by Dr. O. S. Olson. The man will fully recover the use of his hand according to the opinion of the surgeon.

DEPLORE PAY IS SO SMALL

salary of the professor is only about one-half what it was twenty years ago. The university's income does not increase automatically, and the larger the number of students, the poorer does it become."

"Our Common Cause—the Children," was the subject of a paper by O. M. Plummer, director of the board of education, North Portland, Or. He said: "Successful instructors must bring to their work knowledge of a degree equal to that of the lawyer or doctor, and at the present time what successful lawyer or doctor is contented with a salary of from $1,200 to $1,800 a year? If we had a diamond in the rough, of great value, and wished to have it skillfully cut, we would hunt the highest priced and most skillful lapidarist. At the same time we turn over our most valued possessions, our children, to the care of an underpaid, and in some cases, unappreciative teacher, expectin to receive from their hands at the end of ten or fifteen years, a beautifully finished gem.

"Every child who is compelled to come under a poor and inefficient teacher is robbed of its birthright."

Grace C. Strachan, district superintendent of schools of Brooklyn, N. Y., spoke on equal salaries. She took a firm stand on the question, and contended that a salary should be based on the position and not on the sex.

"In making up a school budget it usually happens that everything else is provided for before any provision is made for increasing teachers' salaries," said John W. Carr, superintendent of schools, Bayonne, N. J. "The result is that other school expenses are increasing far more rapidly than teachers' salaries."

He suggested standardization of expenses as a possible solution of the question.

Retirement Funds.

Marked progress in the development of retirement funds for teachers has been made by this country, W. I. Hamilton, Boston, Mass., said in an address on pensions.

"Seven years ago," he said, "two states were paying retirement allowances to teachers out of state funds. Now twelve have made more or less satisfactory provision for such payment. These states contain over 25 per cent of the population of the country. Twenty-three states have enacted laws of varying scope regarding teachers' retirement allowances, with the result that nearly one-third of the teaching force of the public schools of the United States now have the protection afforded by some sort of a pension system."

Johnson Confident.

The various state delegations elected members of the nominating committee last night and today those supporting Dr. David B. Johnson for the association presidency were claiming at least twenty-five of the forty-seven states represented at the convention—enough to assure his nomination.

While the friends of Dr. David Starr Jordan's candidacy made no definite claims they seemed not to fear the outcome of their campaign for the Californian.

The nominating committee will make its selection Thursday morning, shortly before the annual business session of the convention.

Educator In Cabinet.

A proposal by E. E. Scribner of Ishpeming, Mich., for a Federal bureau of education with a representative in the president's cabinet, was well received by the convention, and may be taken up by a committee.

It was announced unofficially that those in favor of simplified spelling will make no effort to place the matter before the convention this year. "Simplified spelling occupies about the same place as 'the River of Doubt'" said John MacDonald of Topeka, Kan., editor of the Western School Journal. E. O. Vaile of Chicago, chief advocate of the new form, declared it was gaining strength and soon would be adopted.

New Carnegie Fund.

Philander P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education, created surprise at a meeting of state superintendents by announcing that Andrew Carnegie has under consideration a plan for the establishment of libraries in country districts that would call for a contribution of between $75,000,000 and $100,000,000 from the steel magnate.

One of the most notable social center movements and extensions of high school activities inaugurated in the Middle West was outlined today by Principal Thomas J. McCormack of the township high school of La Salle and Peru, Ill., an institution organized under the Illinois township high school laws and combining all the features of a junior college for an urban and rural community, with the avoidance of the multitudinous dissonances between cultural and vocational education now perturbing the minds of advanced educators.

Township High School.

"In the four buildings which constitute this unique plant," said Mr. McCormack, "not only is instruction given and contemplated in all practical and cultural lines, including subjects so far removed from one another as agriculture, art and technical music, but private donations by F. W. Matthiessen have permitted the construction of two buildings that both contribute to the educational facilities of the school and subserve distinctly civic and recreational purposes for the community. These are:

"(1) A social center and gymnasium, with swimming pool, bowling alley, billiard room, club and reading rooms, library, music, art and lecture rooms, which, with the large high school auditorium, are used both day and night by school and public; and

"(2) A hygienic institute, under a trained medical expert and assistants, with a bacteriological and pathological laboratory, not to be duplicated outside of the great metropolitan centers; a milk station with a trained nurse, and a class room for the instruction of girls in the care of the baby and the general hygiene of the household.

Supported by People.

"This institute, while primarily founded to safeguard the health interests of the cities of La Salle, Peru and Oglesby, is directly affiliated with the school, and its officials assist in its instruction of the school classes.

"It is a hopeful augury for the ultimate success of our democratic system of education that the social center of this school is supported entirely by the taxes of the people who, in this mining and industrial community, by their loyal and generous support of the school board's plan, are setting an example for work in social amelioration that wealthier communities might not be ashamed to follow."

MEXICANS MUTINY AND MAKE THREATS TO ATTACK THE U. S.

A. Douglas, Gen. Carranza's counsel, declared openly that Angeles must be removed from the situation before peace could be brought about between Carranza and Villa.

Villa Predicts Agreement.

According to one personal message from Villa, received here today from Torreon, differences between himself and Carranza are being satisfactorily adjusted. No mention was made of Gen. Angeles.

Pending the outcome of the Torreon conference, Carranza's agents continued their waiting for his decision as to the proposed conference with Huerta's delegates.

While news from Torreon declared the results of the meeting would be "entirely satisfactory to the Constitutionalist cause," reports from other sources asserting that the conference was in deadlock caused some uneasiness.

Plans for a meeting between the representatives of Huerta who took part in the Niagara mediation proceedings and delegates of the Constitutionalists, would await the results of the Torreon parleys, it generally was believed here today. The crux in the Torreon situation, it appeared, was based on disputes over the personnel of the "advisory boards" surrounding both Carranza and Villa. Each side, it was said, was demanding the elimination of certain counsellors of the other.

Warrant for Winfield.

Santiago S. Winfield, an agent of the Mexican Constitutionalist treasury department, charged with embezzlement in a warrant issued here and transmitted to the police at El Paso. Winfield was the Carranza inspector at the printing of 3,000,000 pesos in Constitutionalist currency. When he shipped it to El Paso, Carranza agents here obtained an injunction to prevent its delivery to him, contending he intended to deliver it to Villa. The warrant followed. The injunction proceeding still is pending.

Other Arrests Promised.

El Paso, Tex., July 7.—Other prosecutions may follow the warrant issued at Washington charging Santiago Winfield with embezzlement in connection with the fight between Carranza and Villa agents for the posession of several millions in Constitutionalist fiat paper currency.

This was declared by persons here, who also asserted several Mexicans prominent in public Mexican affairs had assisted in conveying a small amount of the money to Juarez last week. The other warrants will be issued, they assert, under the Federal conspiracy statute.

Winfield was not located here, but Carranza agents declared that six trunks, supposedly containing the missing money, had been located in an express office at San Antonio, Tex.

$450 FOR LOSS OF WIFE'S AFFECTIONS

James J. Ryia Given Verdict Against His Wife's Parents.

James J. Ryia, who sued his wife's parents, Charles and Sarah Atol, for alienation of the affections of his wife, Victoria Atol Ryia, was this morning in district court, awarded a verdict of $450 damages. The jury came in with a sealed verdict a few minutes before 10 o'clock last night, and this morning the verdict was opened in Judge Ensign's court, and announced. Ryia sued for $6,000 damages, but the $450 was considered large enough for a heart-balm.

Mrs. Ryia was in court during part of the trial. A suit for divorce, brought by the wife, is pending.

BANKRUPTCY FOR LORIMER CONCERN.

Danville, Ill., July 7.—Involuntary petitions in bankruptcy were filed in Federal court yesterday against the Lorimer-Callagher Construction company of Mattoon and East St. Louis. The petitioners are Leonard Gray for $716 for excavating work; the Priwer Feed company of East St. Louis, and H. J. Keefe of East St. Louis.

Milwaukee Firm Bankrupt.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 7.—Dunphy-Fridstein company, engineers and contractors, yesterday filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy. The liabilities are given at $87,246 and assets $19,070.

FEAR TWO BRANDON MEN ARE DROWNED.

Brandon, Man., July 7.—J. J. Mildge, inspector of the Union bank, and John Hines, financial manager for the John Hanbury lumber interests, both of Brandon, are believed to have been drowned. Evidence was discovered by searching parties. The two men, in a small boat, were driven off shore in Lake Manitoba Sunday afternoon and tugs later discovered the overturned boat in midlake, with bits of drifting wreckage.

When last seen the two men were nine miles off shore.

Mill City Boy Drowns.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 7.—Ralph Hafslund, 23 years old, 2111 Twenty-third avenue south, was drowned in the Mississippi river at the upper government dam about a mile this side of the Lake street bridge Sunday. His body was recovered by the St. Paul police.

HELD FOR RANSOM BY THE ZAPATISTAS

Rich Mexican's Case Is Taken Up at Washington.

New Bedford, Mass., July 7.—Juan Velasco, a wealthy Mexican cotton manufacturer, is held for a ransom of 1,000,000 pesos by a band of Zapatistas, according to John Furnans of this city, who today invoked the aid of the state department in obtaining Velasco's release.

Furnans is United States representatives of the Velasco factories. In a message to Secretary Bryan, he said Velasco was threatened with torture unless the ransom were paid.

Proclamation

Old Style Lager is now on sale in DULUTH By the E. MADSEN COMPANY 934 Garfield Avenue

Old Style Lager is the outgrowth of a lifetime of brewing experience. Our Brew-Master learned the business in Germany over 50 years ago, therefore there is a reason for the individuality about the "Heileman Way" of making beer that puts "Old Style Lager"—the beer with a snap to it—in a class of its own—and brings back pleasant recollections of the Fatherland.

It is not the material alone that produces good beer, it's the knack of knowing how to blend the different materials to get that snappy taste and aromatic flavor that makes "Old Style Lager" so much different from other beers.

NEW SCHOOL FOR SUBURBS

Building to Serve New Duluth and Gary Will Cost $60,000.

Plans for a New Duluth-Gary school building to cost approximately $60,000 will be submitted at the next regular meeting of the Duluth school board on Aug. 7. It is expected that the building will be erected this fall and be ready for use at the opening of the second term in January.

A building of not less than twelve rooms will be erected. This size of building is thought necessary for the school population of the suburbs at this time. The building will be erected on block 43 located about midway between the two suburbs and will be easy of access to the children of both districts.

During the last school term the Stowe school at New Duluth was overcrowded to such an extent that it was necessary to rent a store building to care for the overflow. At Gary the temporary building used was also crowded to its capacity.

School Director W. B. Getchell said this morning that the school board intended to provide for this new building whether the proposed $200,000 bond issue passed or not. The money raised by the bonds, provided that they are acted on favorably at the election on July 18, will be used partly for this building, the construction of another building at Morgan Park on a site furnished by the Minnesota Steel company, the building of a six-room addition to the Merritt school and the construction of a junior high school adjacent to the Lincoln school.

The latter three improvements will be planned for early in 1915. The improvements will be made pending the issuance of the bonds and residents of the western end of the city will likely conduct a campaign to get the voters out to vote favorably on the issue.

PLAN PICNIC AT FAIRMONT PARK

The members of the Holy Apostles' Episcopal church have planned to hold their annual picnic tomorrow at Fairmont park. The affair has been arranged by the ladies' guild and a program of several events has been planned for the afternoon.

The members will leave for the picnic grounds at 9 o'clock in the morning. Luncheon will be served at noon, and at 6 o'clock the men are expected to join their families for supper.

The afternoon's program of sports follows: boys' 50-yard dash; girls' 50-yard dash; young women's 50-yard dash; girls' potato race; boys' broad jump; married women's 50-yard dash; ball throwing contest for women; tug of war between the women and spelling match. A prize will be given to each winning contestant. These prizes were donated by local business men. A prize will also be given for the best toast given by members of the guild, and to the largest family on the grounds.

Demented Man Found.

West Duluth police picked up a man whose name is said to be Rade Riga, lying on the Northern Pacific right-of-way near Fifty-seventh avenue and Waseca street late last night, and he is believed to be in a serious condition. He was taken to the Duluth hospital for treatment. The hospital physician is of the opinion that the man is slightly demented and his case has been referred to the poor commission. He was discovered by the night watchman at the Zenith Furnace company.

WILL CONDUCT TEST FOR EMBALMERS.

M. J. Filiatrault, 5411 Ramsey street, left this morning for Minneapolis, where he will sit on the examining board at the Minnesota university at the examination of students of embalming. Mr. Filiatrault is a member of the state board of examiners for embalmers and funeral directors. He will return home tomorrow evening.

APPENDICITIS PROVES FATAL.

Cloyed Barnhill, 26 years old, 219 North Fifty-first avenue west, died yesterday afternoon at the Duluth hospital following an operation for appendicitis. The young man was taken ill Friday. He leaves a young widow.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home of Mrs. Barnhill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Linder, 209 North Fifty-second avenue west. Interment will be in Oneota cemetery.

HELD FOR SELLING LIQUOR TO MINOR.

Bob Klasaya, 32 years old, a beer peddler, was arrested last evening on a warrant charging him with having furnished liquor to a minor. The offense is alleged to have taken place on July 4. The warrant was sworn to by Lieut. C. E. Wilcox, who alleged that Klasaya had sold a case of beer to a boy 17 years old.

In police court this morning Klasaya pleaded not guilty. Bail was placed at $100 pending trial in the near future.

Assaulted Gateman.

Thomas Maloney, 25 years old, was arrested last evening on a warrant charging assault in the third degree. The complaint was sworn to by George W. Albertson, a gateman at the Minnesota steel plant. Maloney is alleged to have assaulted Albertson on July 2 during an argument as to whether Maloney was entitled to go into the plant. Maloney pleaded guilty in police court this morning and Judge Lanners will pronounce sentence this afternoon.

Broke His Parole.

Ole Johnson, who some time ago was placed on probation, was arrested last evening on a charge of having imbibed too freely. He was turned over to Probation Officer Hicks.

WILL STAND PAT ON CREAM CITY MILK

Milwaukee, Wis., July 7.—Mayor G. A. Bading today said he would oppose any attempt to change or rescind the tuberculine milk test ordinance governing milk supplied to the citizens of Milwaukee by dealers.

"The law is supported by the highest medical authorities. Milwaukee enacted it after much delay and the courts have sustained it as reasonable," declared the mayor.

Health Commissioner Ruhland likewise will oppose changing the law.

The supply of milk received in Milwaukee today was about 50 per cent of a normal day's receipts, the falling off being due to the fact that only milk that conforms to the law is permitted to be received and delivered by dealers.

ALL THE PLUMBERS PLEAD NOT GUILTY

Des Moines, Iowa, July 7.—Pleas of not guilty were entered in Federal court before Judge McPherson today for each of the thirty-six officials and members of the National Association of Master Plumbers, recently indicted on charges of conspiracy in restraint of trade in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

None of the defendants appeared in court in person, the pleas being tendered by counsel. Judge McPherson set the cases for trial on Dec. 8. The Federal grand jury indictments were returned June 4 last. All of the defendants are at liberty on bond. They reside in Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri and Nebraska.

RAIL COMMISSION MEETS AT FARGO.

Fargo, N. D., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state railway commission commenced a three-day session here this morning. An effort is being made to secure standard charges on the construction of spurs, switch tracks and for switching. Other railroad matters will be taken up and there will be hearing on elevator matters for the balance of the session.

BIG PARTIES OF TOURISTS

Four Passenger Boats Arrive in Duluth on Same Day.

Between 500 and 600 Visitors Come By Way of Lakes.

Between 500 and 600 tourists came in on the various passenger steamers that arrived in the harbor today, and for a short time Superior street was crowded with sightseers and shoppers, and the carry-alls and autos did a thriving business taking groups out over the boulevard for the drive and magnificent view of the lake and city.

The steamer Juniata arrived this morning with about 200 passengers and shortly afterwards the steamer South American tied up at Dock No. 4 with about 250 passengers on board. The Lakeland also came in with about fifty passengers. These were all here at the same time.

It became a question as to what was to be done if the Northern Navigation company's steamer Noronic happened to arrive on time; but she did not. She was due to tie up at noon and as the South American was not due to go out until noon and she and the Juniata filled No. 4 slip, there was a question as to where the Noronic was going to be docked. However, it happened that the Noronic was almost an hour late and by that time the South American was under way. The Noronic came in about 1 o'clock this afternoon with less than 100 passengers.

The South American was delayed by the thick fog which hung over the western end of Lake Superior yesterday and last night. She was due in Duluth shortly after 7 o'clock this morning, but did not get in before 10:30, the time when she should have been pulling out. She stayed several hours at Port Arthur, waiting for better conditions. On her way back, she took fifty passengers from this end of the line for the round trip. The Juniata of the Anchor line will take about 125 from here tomorrow, in addition to those who came up with round trip tickets. The Noronic also expects to take out quite a number. The latter was due to leave at 4:30 this afternoon.

MORE WEATHER DATA.

Naval Radio Station Will Issue Storm Warnings Each Afternoon.

In addition to the weather information and storm warnings for the Great Lakes that are sent out a little after 10 p. m. each day by the naval radio station at Radio, Va., storm warnings for the Great Lakes issued in the forenoon will be distributed broadcast immediately after the noon time signal, the service to begin July 15. This distribution will be made exclusively by the station named.

The Great Lakes will be divided into upper and lower lakes: Lakes Superior, Michigan and Huron being considered the upper lakes, and Lakes Erie and Ontario the lower lakes.

The warnings will be in ordinary language and will cover a period of twenty-four hours from the time of issue. The terms used to express the intensity of the winds will be the "designations" as given in the Beaufort scale, which follows:

Force.	Designation.	Miles Per Hour.
0	Calm	From 0 to 2
1	Light air	Over 3 to 8
2	Light breeze (or wind)	Over 8 to 13
3	Gentle breeze (or wind)	Over 13 to 18
4	Moderate breeze (or wind)	Over 18 to 23
5	Fresh breeze (or wind)	Over 23 to 28
6	Strong breeze (or wind)	Over 28 to 34
7	Moderate gale	Over 34 to 40
8	Fresh gale	Over 40 to 48
9	Strong gale	Over 48 to 56
10	Whole gale	Over 56 to 65
11	Storm	Over 65 to 75
12	Hurricane	Over 75

An example follows:

"Great lakes storm warning: Northeast storm warnings ordered Lakes Michigan and Huron 10 a. m. Disturbance over Iowa increasing in intensity and moving east. Northeast gales this afternoon and tonight."

Shoal at Fairport.

Soundings recently taken in the vicinity of the west pierhead at Fairport Harbor, Ohio, by the United States army engineers, show the development of a shoal extending northward about 200 feet from the west pierhead. The eastern edge of this shoal is about in line with the east side of the pierhead structure. The depth of this shoal is about nineteen feet.

Deep draft vessels entering or leaving Fairport Harbor will keep well to the eastward of the line of the west range lights. Te depth through the entrance is 25 feet. These depths are referred to mean lake level, elevation 572.8 feet above mean tide at New York.

WIRED FOR MONEY; NOT WIFE DESERTER

Madison, Wis., July 7.—A man who has left his wife in this city and substantially deserted her is not a fugitive from justice within the meaning of the statutes of the United States relating to requisition, and cannot be brought back from another state on that charge.

This opinion was given to District Attorney E. P. Gorman of Wausau by Attorney General Owen today. The case arose over a baseball player who left his wife in Marathon county and went to Illinois to play ball. He wrote to her frequently, and on several occasions telegraphed for money which she did not send.

About two weeks ago he wired that he had filed suit for divorce and the district attorney desires to bring him back to Wisconsin to face a charge of desertion and non-support.

Notice of School Election

Office of the Board of Education of the City of Duluth.
Duluth, Minn., July 7, 1914.

Notice is hereby given of the annual school election to be held on Saturday, July 18, 1914, between the hours of 6 o'clock in the forenoon and 7 o'clock in the afternoon, for the purpose of electing members of the Board of Education of the City of Duluth.

Four directors are to be elected, as follows:

Three directors for the term of three years each to succeed E. R. Cobb, W. E. Magner and Andrew Nelson, whose terms of office are about to expire.

One director for a one-year term, to succeed D. E. Seashore, whose term of appointment is about to expire.

At a meeting of the Board of Education of the City of Duluth, held on the 3rd day of July, 1914, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

"Resolved, That in the opinion of the Board of Education of the City of Duluth, it is expedient, and it is hereby so declared, that additional bonds of the Independent School District of the City of Duluth, in St. Louis County, Minnesota, in the sum of two hundred thousand dollars, be issued and sold to provide funds for the purpose of erecting, furnishing and adding to four schoolhouses in said district, as follows:

First: A graded school building for New Duluth and Gary Divisions, to be erected on Block 43 of New Duluth, First Division.

Second: A graded school building for Morgan Park Division, to be erected on a site to be furnished free by the Minnesota Steel Company.

Third: A junior high school building to be erected adjacent to the Lincoln School.

Fourth: A six-room addition to the Merritt Graded School.

That said bonds be sold as and when needed to provide funds for said purpose, and that they draw interest at the rate of 4½ per cent per annum, payable semi-annually, and that they run thirty (30) years from their date, with the option reserved to this Board to redeem the same, or any part thereof, at the end of twenty (20) years from their date, or on any interest day thereafter.

That the question of the issue of said bonds be submitted to the voters of the district at the next general election to be held on the 18th day of July, 1914.

That a copy of this resolution be published in connection with the notice of said general election at which the question is to be submitted."

Voters wishing to vote for the issuance of bonds in accordance with the foregoing resolution shall indicate their wish by the use of the following words upon their ballots, namely:

"Shall bonds be issued?— Yes."

Voters wishing to vote against the issuance of bonds in accordance with the foregoing resolution should indicate their wish by the use of the following words upon their ballots, namely:

"Shall bonds be issued?—No."

RECORD TRAVEL TO SUPERIOR

The public celebration in Superior on July 4 brought a record-breaking business across the interstate bridge. From early morning until late at night there was a steady stream of passengers on the cars between the two cities.

According to officials of the company there were 10,918 passengers who rode over the interstate bridge on the street cars on July 4. This breaks all former records by about 1,000 and is nearly double the number for the average day.

CAN NOW BE HIS OWN BOSS

Court Relieves Chisholm Recorder of Accountant's "Supervision."

Former Is Said to Have Slept in Office to Protect Books.

Bert E. Culver, village recorder at Chisholm is not obliged to be "supervised" by Frank L. Austin, "village accountant," an office created by the Chisholm village council last April.

In district court yesterday afternoon, Judge Cant dismissed an alternative writ of mandamus which directed Culver to allow Austin free access to the office of village recorder, its books, records and vaults, or show cause why he had not done so.

Culver has at all times refused to allow Austin to interfere with the conduct of the business of the office of village recorder in spite of the authority vested in Austin by the village council.

Slept on the Job.

Culver had to break into the office to get possession and, according to Chisholm people, has slept there on more than one occasion. The village council attempted to compel him to turn over his books and records for Austin's examination and sued out a writ of mandamus. The writ was made returnable before Judge Martin Hughes of Hibbing on June 27, but a change of venue was obtained and the case was argued before Judge Cant here yesterday. Edward Freeman represented the village council, and Austin and Fryberger, Fulton & Spear appeared for Culver.

The village attorney's petition set forth that the books were not kept properly and that affairs were badly mixed and muddled. Judge Cant in effect stated in his memorandum that to grant the writ would be to require Culver to abdicate in favor of Austin.

Not Removable by Law.

"No doubt," stated the court, "if the recorder is inefficient and unfaithful, the public should be relieved from such a burden, but the procedure is not authorized by law." Judge Cant said that if the facts alleged in the petition are proved to the satisfaction of the governor, the chief executive might exercise his power of removal.

DEER DESTROYING HIS GARDEN TRUCK

Farmer Near Eveleth Wants Permission to Get Rid of Animals.

Eveleth, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Shute, owner of a farm a mile and a half south of this city, wishes to notify the game warden that three deer are running his garden, and as he could not shoot the animals, he thinks it is up to the state to protect his property.

Mr. Shute's farm lies between Eveleth and St. Mary's lake and is planted principally with garden truck. The three deer, a buck, doe and fawn, pay nightly visits to the garden patch, Shute says, and daintily select the choicest of the vegetables. He attempted to fence the deer out, but they had determined on the garden as a feeding place and would not be kept out. Chasing them does no good, as they return to finish their feeding.

Mr. Shute's trouble is common with many settlers near here. It is possible that suits may be started against the state for the damage done by the animals.

EVELETH COUNCIL TO FIX BOND ELECTION

Expected to Decide When People Shall Vote on Buying Plant.

Eveleth, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The principal matter to be taken up by the city council tonight is the purchase of the property of the Home Electric & Heating company. At an informal meeting it was practically agreed to purchase the plant at the figures fixed by appraisers employed by the city and it is expected that tonight a date will be set for a special election to vote on bonds for the purpose of taking over the property.

LA PRAIRIE CLUB MEETS.

Farmers' Club Will Discuss Pertinent Themes Next Friday Evening.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Laprairie Farmers' club will hold its regular meeting at the Laprairie schoolhouse on Friday evening. The program will commence with a recitation by Miss Mary Buell, to be followed by a roll call, during which every farmer present will be asked to give the results of his farm, cattle and poultry for the six months just ended.

D. C. Anderson will discuss "Preserving Eggs," "Fighting the Potato Beetle" will be the subject of a talk by S. E. Bunnell, and Mrs. A. J. McGuire will talk on "Swat the Fly."

TACONITE WINS PRIZES.

Defeats Coleraine at Sixteen-Inning Game and Gets Other Honors.

Taconite, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Taconite certainly carried off the honors at the Fourth of July celebration at Coleraine. The local ball team beat Coleraine in a sixteen inning ball game, 4 to 3, and then defeated Marble, 7 to 4. A local decorated car captured the prize in the parade. Taconite also captured the second prize in the "first aid to injured" contest while Miss Pearl Gorelle of this place won the egg race.

The game in which Taconite beat Coleraine 4 to 3, sixteen innings, was played in the morning and was one of the best ever seen in this section. The afternoon game in which Taconite beat Marble 7 to 4, was also a good one.

The feature of both games was the excellent playing by Taconite and to see Alf Scheedin on the mound in the afternoon for Taconite after playing the long game in the morning. Several times the little fellow got out of some pretty tight holes with bases full. Scheedin struck out eleven men in the morning against Krugen's thirteen and in the afternoon game Scheedin struck out nine men against Wester's six, and Arsnault's 6. Wester of Marble pitched four innings then was followed by Arsnault. Scores:

Morning game—	R.	H.	E.

TWO HARBORS GETS CEMENT BY STEAMER

Large Amount Unloaded for City From the Steamer Yale.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The steamer Yale arrived in the local harbor at 8:30 last night loaded with cement for the city. She was tied up at the merchandise dock and a large crew of men was put to work unloading the cement, and before 7 o'clock this morning over 10,000 sacks were unloaded and the boat cleared for Duluth, where the remainder of her cargo will be discharged. Much of the cement was hauled away by the city truck and teams as fast as it was taken from the boat and the rest of it was loaded on the dock and this morning is being loaded into box cars to be taken to the warehouse.

This large supply will not last the city two months, so extensive is the street improvements this year. Most of this shipment will be used on the completion of Seventh avenue. By getting the cement by boat the city saved several hundred of dollars on the shipment.

SEES HALF NAKED MAN IN CEMETERY

May Prove to Be Missing Carl Anderson of Virginia.

Virginia, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Searching parties composed of friends of Carl Anderson, who, insane and suffering from disease, is at large somewhere in the country about this city, are scouring the countryside for him today. Anderson left the boarding house of Andrew Sockness in Virginia avenue on the morning of the Fourth of July and has not since been seen. Yesterday a bloodhound, brought from the office of the sheriff at Duluth, was used in an effort to trace him, but heavy rains destroyed all possibility of his being traced by the dog.

Sees Man in Cemetery.

Andrew Newquist, an employe at the Virginia & Rainy Lake mill, reported seeing a man half clad and answering the description of Anderson hiding among the tombstones at Greenwood cemetery yesterday. Newquist was badly frightened and did not stop to investigate his identity. It has been learned that Anderson was formerly an inmate of a state institution for the care of the insane. Physicians attending him say he exhibited symptoms of an attack of typhoid fever.

WOOD CONTINUES BUSY.

Guardian of Game and Fish Is Corraling Law-Breakers.

Hibbing, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Game Warden George Wood is still on the job, judging from the record of arrests of the last few days.

Theofield Sauez of Crane Lake Portage was arrested and taken before Judge Burgess of Tower, where he pleaded guilty to having venison in his possession during the closed season. He paid a fine of $25 and costs.

John Bignose, a Tower Indian, was convicted of selling fish caught with a net in Vermilion lake, to an Aurora boarding house keeper and fined $15 and costs or thirty days. He took the jail sentence.

Otto Pereia, proprietor of a Finn boarding house at Aurora, was taken before Judge Block charged with buying pike caught with a net at Vermilion lake. He was fined $10 and costs.

Alex Rushneck of Eveleth, charged with netting fish near Mountain Iron, was fined $10 and costs.

Adolph Rakovitsky, a single Russian, pleaded guilty to netting fish in Hanke lake at Wold, and was given a 30-day workfarm sentence.

Alex Czogosky, who was arrested last year and paid a fine of $50 for having venison in his possession during the closed season, was arrested this year charged with netting fish near Mountain Iron. He was fined $20 or thirty days on the workfarm, and had started for Duluth in the custody of a sheriff when he changed his mind and paid his fine.

NEW CITIZENS.

Judge Cant Issues Papers at Two Harbors.

Two Harbors, Minn., June 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The June term of court will continue July 13. A short session was held by Judge Cant yesterday, when citizenship papers were granted to the following: Enga O. Ikonning, John Saarl, John Hokkoen, John Petkaen, Nick A. Nelson, Christian A. Langren, Joseph J. Kent, Karl E. Karlson, Ingerman Foslond, Oscar Erickson, Peder Klemetson, Carl A. Swenson and Martin B. Fjar.

The court calendar as arranged for the June term of court remains untouched, no action as yet having been taken on any of them.

JUNE PROFITABLE MONTH

Hibbing's Municipal Court Did "Land Office" Business.

Hibbing, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—June was a banner month in municipal court acording to the reports of the clerk. A total of $703.93 was turned over to the village treasury from the proceeds of the court work. The first week in June netted $61.75, the second, $95.26; the third, $160.35; the fourth, $319.26, and the week ending July 3, $67.32. The big week was due to the fines received from the blind-piggers arrested at the Leetonia location.

Greening at St. Paul Meet.

Eveleth, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—B. O. Greening, superintendent of schools, left today for St. Paul to attend a convention of the National Education association.

RANGE PROBATION OFFICER REPORTS

C. E. Everett Tells of His Work During Past Six Months.

Hibbing, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—A decrease in the number of people on parole in the juvenile courts at Virginia and Hibbing, and an increase in district court is noted in the semi-annual report of C. E. Everett, range probation officer, issued today.

On Dec. 1 there were 36 on parole in juvenile court. Forty petitions were filed, 25 for delinquency involving 26 children and 15 for dependency involving 39 children. Thirteen were placed on parole during the half year. Four were committed to the state training school at Red Wing, five to Sauk Center, eight to Owatonna, three to the Duluth home and one to the Duluth county hospital until 6 months old. Two cases were dismissed and twenty remain as pending or continued. Fourteen were discharged from parole, leaving twenty-seven on parole on July 1.

Eight Mothers Pentioned.

Eight mothers were granted pensions, affecting twenty-three children. One pension was revoked. One pension was increased. The general average of pensions per child is $6.34. The offenses in juvenile court are classed as follows: Incorrigible, 8; petit larceny, 7; truancy, 1; improper relations, 11; dependency, 38.

In the municipal court at Hibbing, fifteen persons under the age of 21 were brought before Judge Brady. Fourteen were males and one a female. Four paid fines, seven received suspended sentences, three were discharged and one continued. The offenses were: Violating game laws, 6; assault, 3; indecency, 2; grand larceny, 1; larceny, 1; disorderly conduct, 1; carrying concealed weapons, 1.

The record of prosecutions show that two offenders were in municipal court for selling tobacco to a minor and one for selling liquor. In juvenile court one person was prosecuted for contributing to delinquency.

Mr. Everett was called to a justice's court at Buhl once and once to Chisholm.

Twenty-eight on Parole.

In district court there were twenty-three on parole last December. Thirteen have been placed on parole, one has been discharged, two paroles were revoked and sentences enforced and five absconded leaving twenty-eight now on parole. The offenses in district court were: Assault, 2; furnishing liquor to Indians, 1; forgery, 1; grand larceny, 1; second degree, 7; unknown charges, 2.

Mr. Everett is much pleased with the co-operation that has been afforded him in his juvenile work in the various villages in his jurisdiction and predicts a steady decrease in the offenses and broken paroles.

RANGE WORKED UP OVER "DRY" TREATY

Petitions Setting Forth Unfairness of Its Enforcement, Circulated.

Hibbing, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—That an arbitrary enforcement of the Indian "dry" treaty of 1855 in accordance with the recent supreme court decision would be unfair to the villages comprised in the territory is the claim contained in the petitions that are to be circulated in the towns on the Western Mesaba range for the following reasons contained in the petitions:

First—That it deprives every white citizen in the ceded territory of personal rights and privileges such as while citizens have always enjoyed since the organized government was established.

Second—That the arbitrary enforcement of the treaty provision would be unjust and unwarranted in the invasion of the powers of the state and the authority conferred by the state upon the respective municipalities therein and that such enforcement in the ceded territory would create an unjust and indefensible discrimination as against such communities as are located within the territory covered by the treaty, with reference to which President Taft issued executive orders, and the communities in this portion of the state of Minnesota.

Third—That the decision of the supreme court specifically indicates that the enforcement of the orders should be governed by a reasonable view and should embody a reasonable discrimination and discretion upon the part of the officers charged with such enforcement.

Conditions Changed.

Fourth—That the supreme court recognized that the conditions have entirely changed since the treaty of 1855 was negotiated and that as the Indian population has decreased the warrant for the arbitrary enforcement of such decision has disappeared in proportion and we submit that pending such time as congress can by legislation adjust the enforcement of the decision there rests upon the department of the interior and upon the department of Indian affairs the duty of observing such treaty and of exercising discretion in the enforcement of the court's decision.

The petitions were drafted by a committee appointed at the meeting last week consisting of R. W. Hitchcock, Earnest Drew, A. E. Perrier, J. D. Shellman and Curtis L. Mosher.

The forms will be sent to all of the villages in the territory and when filled out and signed will be submitted to the secretary of the interior and the head of the department of Indian affairs.

Interest is at fever heighth over the action that will be taken by the department and the seriousness of the situation is just beginning to be appreciated by the residents of the affected territory.

Greatest Event in Woman's Life

All human experience looks back to motherhood as the wonder of wonders.

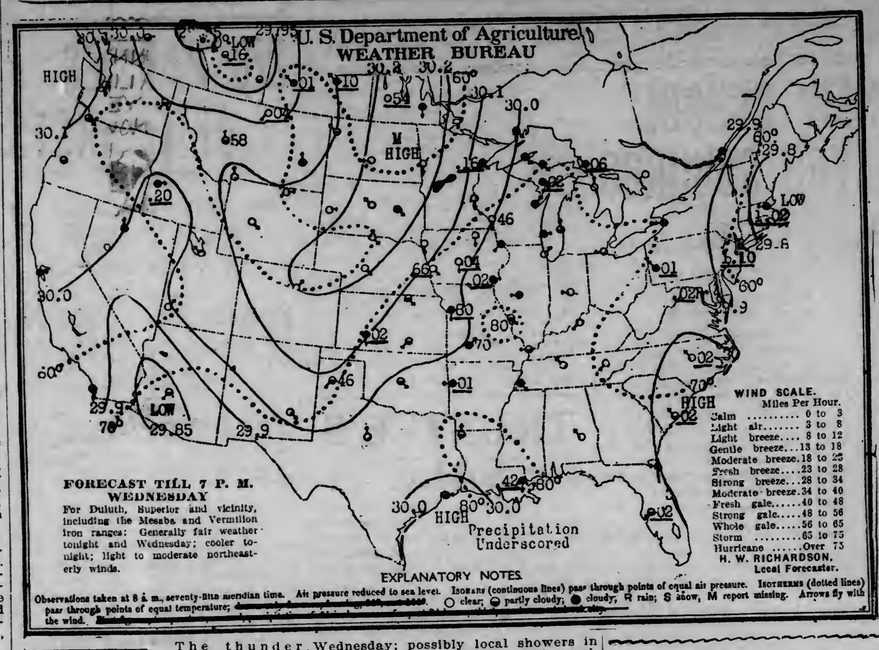

The patience, the fortitude, the sublime faith during the period of expectancy are second only to the mother love bestowed upon the most helpless but most marvelous creation—a baby.

Women are quick to learn from each other those helpful agencies that aid to comfort, and yet are perfectly safe to use and among these they recommend "Mother's Friend."

It is entirely an external application designed to lubricate the broad, flat muscles and skin that protect the abdomen. It has been in favorable use for nearly half a century and is known to mothers in almost every settled community in the United States who highly recommend it. You will find it on sale in drug stores. "Mother's Friend" is utterly harmless, contains no deadening drugs, very beneficial, very soothing and a wonderful help.

Get a bottle of "Mother's Friend" today at any drug store and write to us for our instructive little book to mothers. Address Bradfield Regulator Co., 312 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

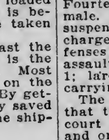

FORECAST TILL 7 P. M. WEDNESDAY

For Duluth, Superior and vicinity, including the Mesaba and Vermilion iron ranges: Generally fair weather tonight and Wednesday; cooler tonight; light to moderate northeasterly winds.

EXPLANATORY NOTES.

Observations taken at 8 a. m., seventy-fifth meridian time. Air pressure reduced to sea level. Isobars (continuous lines) pass through points of equal air pressure. Isotherms (dotted lines) pass through points of equal temperature; ——— clear; ⊖ partly cloudy; ● cloudy; R rain; S snow, M report missing. Arrows fly with the wind.

FAIR

The thunder storms predicted for yesterday afternoon and last night got shunted off somewhere, for perfect weather prevailed after one shower that occurred shortly after noon. Last night was ideal. This morning broke cloudy and remained partly so all morning; but Mr. Richardson says there will be generally fair weather tonight and tomorrow, with the air somewhat cooler tonight.

A year ago today was fair but cloudy. The sun rose this morning at 4:21 and will set this afternoon at 8:05, giving fifteen hours and forty-four minutes of sunlight, eleven minutes short of June 21.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Showers fell over Alberta, Saskatchewan, Montana, Northeastern Minnesota, Wisconsin, Upper Michigan, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Northeastern Texas, Idaho and Atlantic states during Monday or last night. Heavy rains occurred at Boston and New York. Hot weather continues in the Central valleys and Southern states."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, July 7.—Forecasts for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Wednesday:

Wisconsin—Generally fair tonight and Wednesday; cooler in east and central portions tonight.

Minnesota—Generally fair tonight and Wednesday; cooler in northeast portion tonight.

Iowa—Generally fair tonight and Wednesday; cooler tonight.

North Dakota—Partly cloudy tonight and Wednesday; warmer in east and central portions tonight.

South Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Wednesday; not much change in temperature.

Montana—Partly cloudy tonight and Wednesday; possibly local showers in north and west portions; not much change in temperature.

Lower Michigan—Showers this afternoon; generally fair tonight and Wednesday.

Upper Michigan—Generally fair tonight and Wednesday; cooler in central portion tonight.

MAGNET FOR TOURISTS.

Visitors to Duluth to Be Urged to Visit Mines of Hibbing

Hibbing, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hibbing is to be made one of the exhibition points for tourists who visit Duluth and desire to see range life and an organized effort is to be made to send sight-seers to this section.

The Hanna information bureau of Duluth has officially placed Hibbing on its map and when visitors land in the city of cool breezes and ask to see an iron mine they will be routed to Virginia, told to take an interurban car and stop at Hibbing, where the biggest open pit mine in the world is located.

WANT ST. LOUIS VOTES.

Political Managers Expected to Be Busy in This Section.

Hibbing, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—St. Louis county will be a mecca for state politicians this fall, according to Hibbing. men who have just returned from St. Paul and Minneapolis. Both the Hammond and Lee campaign committees, they say, are planning on making this section of the state the field for their most earnest endeavors as it is generally conceded that the vote here will be an important factor in the result in November.

"You can depend upon it," said a Hibbing man, "that Hibbing will be visited by more politicians during the next few months than in any year in the past. Any range man who visits the capital or the political hangouts in the Twin Cities is assured of a cordial welcome and his advice will be carefully heeded."

DRIVE AT POKEGAMA.

Many Logs Reach There for Mill City Mills.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 7.—Kennedy & Klement have arrived at Pokegama dam with a long drive of 55,000,000 feet, cut on the Winnibigoshish reservation for the Weyerhaeuser interests. This will be the largest amount of timber in any one drive to go down the Mississippi this year. The logs were brought from Winnibigoshish dam to Pokegama dam by Kennedy & Klement and will be taken the rest of the way to the mills at Minneapolis by the Minnesota Boom company.

ECZEMA ITCHED AND BURNED CONTINUALLY

On Wrist and Arm. Broke Out With Rash. Could Not Sleep. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Healed.

2406 Copeland St., Cincinnati, Ohio.—"For one year my right wrist and left arm from elbow to shoulder were disfigured with sore eruption. The eczema broke out with a rash and looked like raw beef steak. It itched and burned continually and I had to keep my arms covered with soft linen cloths. I could not sleep at night.

"I was told it was chronic case of eczema and got medicine but it had no effect. Then I sent for a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and the first application seemed to help me. I used them three times daily washing first with the Cuticura Soap and hot water, then covering with the Ointment. I purchased two cakes of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment and in six weeks my arms and wrists were thoroughly healed, not a scar remains and I have had no trouble since." (Signed) Mrs. John Clark, Jan. 26, '14.

ELEVEN PIGGING CASES PENDING

Judge Carey Gradually Disposing of Fruit of Big Raid.

Virginia, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Carey in municipal court is gradually disposing of the fourteen cases resulting from the recent wholesale blind pigging raids conducted by the police. The cases against two of the three women arrested have been disposed of, one pleading guilty and paying a fine of $50. The trial of Fanstini Pienalin which began Friday was resumed yesterday continuing all day. The eleven other cases will at once be tried until all have been disposed of.

PETROFF HELD FOR SLAYING M'DONALD

Coroner's Inquest Is Not Needed to Make Out Case Against Him

Ely, Minn., July 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Without waiting for an inquest into the death of W. J. McDonald, the mining man shot to death while driving Semon Petroff and three others in an automobile near here Saturday night, County Attorney Greene decided late yesterday he had sufficient evidence to warrant holding Petroff for the killing and accordingly had him arraigned before a committing magistrate charged with second degree manslaughter. Petroff, through his counsel, waived examination and was held to the August grand jury. If he can furnish bail he will be released, otherwise he will be taken to Duluth.

His companions at the time of the shooting will be held here as witnesses. Officers are still working on the case and it is possible charges may be entered against the three other men now held.

DEVELOPING SECTION 4.

Work Going on Steadily on Property Near Eveleth.

Eveleth, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Work on the development of the Section 4 mine two miles south of here, on Ely Lake, has been going steadily along this summer despite the depression in the ore market.

The mine is owned by the Section 4 Mining company, among whose officers are State Treasurer Walter J. Smith of this city, F. B. Lynch of St. Paul and C. H. Smith of Duluth. The property has only been worked for sixteen months but high grade bessemer ore is being hoisted onto a stockpile which is assuming generous proportions ready for a time when the market gets a healthier tone. The work being done now is the blocking out of a large body of ore with drifts and crosscuts ready for future disposal. Nick Kent is the superintendent of the mine.

ACCUSED OF PIGGING.

Virginian Living on North Side Accused By Neighbors.

Virginia, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Tom Lulich was arrested last night on the complaint of neighbors on the north side, charged with conducting a blind pig and disorderly house. Lulich has been convicted on blind pigging charges before. He will fight the present charge and has been released under bail.

Grand Rapids Couple Wed.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Announcements have been received of the marriage of Miss Margaret McAlpine and H. Morton Taylor, both prominent and very popular young people of Grand Rapids. The bride was born in Grand Rapids and has made her home here. Mr. Taylor came to Grand Rapids about eight years ago, and is engaged in the plumbing business, being a member of the firm of Kent & Taylor, and being in charge of the Deer River branch of that firm. The happy couple will be at home after Aug. 1 at Deer River.

A FINE COMPLEXION

A girl's complexion is something more than a matter to concern her vanity. It is an indication of the state of her health. Pallor in a growing girl means a thinning of the blood. Eruptions mean impurities in the blood. Parents should be watchful of the daughters' complexions, and should see to it that these danger signs are corrected, not covered up.

When a girl in her 'teens becomes pale and sallow, especially if, at the same time she shows an inclination to tire easily, a listlessness and inattention to her work or studies, she needs Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a tonic which directly and specifically corrects the condition from which she is suffering. A chemical analysis of the blood of such a girl would show it to be deficient in just the elements that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can supply but the physical signs are plain. Every girl should read the chapter on "Chlorosis" in the free booklet, "Building Up the Blood." It tells just what to do and gives directions regarding diet, exercise and rest.

The girl with a muddy complexion should have the booklet "A Dainty Laxative," which tells about Pinklets.

These books will be sent free on request by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y. Your own druggist can supply Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

GATELY BECOMES HEAD OF POLICE.

Virginia, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Acting Chief of Police Owen Gately, who has been in charge of the local force since Chief Richard Rice was dismissed for alleged failure to enforce the laws governing the sale of liquor is now chief of police in fact the fire and police commission last night having formally elected him to that position at $150 per month.

Fire Chief James Stickney was authorized to attend the annual convention of national fire chiefs in New Orleans in October.

Motorcyclists Injured.

Hibbing, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—While practicing for the motorcycle races Steve Delnio, known all over the range as one of the speediest riders in this section of the state, sustained injuries that may prevent his appearing on the track for some time. He was thrown from the machine and his leg hurt. While pleasure riding H. Herbert, employed at the Oliver cafe, was thrown from his machine and sustained a broken collar bone.

Evelethians Going to Shoot.

Eveleth, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—A number of Eveleth sportsmen are making plans to participate in the shoot at Hibbing next Sunday. The local trap shooters will drive to Hibbing in autos to contest with the crack shots of that village and other range towns.

Small Marble Fire.

Marble, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—At 9 o'clock Sunday morning there was a small fire in Nels Erickson's shed, caused by firecrackers which the children set off about the place. The fire department soon had the fire out. There was no loss.

Kiel, Germany, July 7.—Emperor William today went on board the imperial yacht Hohenzollern and immediately left on his annual cruise along the coast of Norway.

SAYS BILBO SOUGHT BRIBE FROM HINES.

Jackson, Miss., July 7.—That Theodore G. Bilbo, lieutenant governor of Mississippi, offered for $50,000 to dismiss a suit brought by the state against the Edward Hines Lumber company, an Illinois corporation, was the charge made late yesterday by Ira Sample, a Chicago attorney, at the trial of the state official, who is accused of bribery. Judge Teat ruled that Mr. Sample's testimony be admitted. The lieutenant governor, on the stand in his own behalf, denied the charge of soliciting and accepting a bribe.

UNIFORMS AND GUNS FOR IRISH FORCES.

London, July .—The increasing probability of an amicable settlement of the home rule question has not been allowed to interfere with the speedy organization and the equipping of the rival volunteer forces in Ireland. Dublin tailors have been overwhelmed with orders for uniforms for the Nationalist volunteers.

It is reported that 200,000 rounds of ammunition were landed yesterday on the County Down coast, under the very noses of the destroyers patrolling the coast. This ammunition was for the Ulster voluteers and was concealed in coal bags on board a collier.

FARGOANS START SOLICITING MONEY.

Fargo, N. D., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—To raise $35,000 additional for the Armory-Auditorium fund, the committees successfully engaged in the canvass for $100,000 for Fargo college two weeks ago will commence active work next Tuesday. All the captains remain and there have been comparatively few changes in the personnel of the committees.

An Easy Way to Get Fat and Be Strong

The trouble with most thin folks who wish to gain weight is that they insist on drugging their stomach or stuffing it with greasy foods; rubbing on useless "flesh creams," or following some foolish physical culture stunt, while the real cause of thinness goes untouched. You cannot get fat until your digestive tract assimilates the food you eat.

Thanks to a remarkable new scientific discovery, it is now possible to combine into simple form the very elements needed by the digestive organs to help them convert food into rich, fat-laden blood. This masterstroke of modern chemistry is called Sargol and has been termed the greatest of flesh-builders. Sargol aims through its re-generative, re-constructive powers to coax the stomach and intestines to literally soak up the fattening elements of your food and pass them into the blood, where they are carried to every starved, broken-down cell and tissue of your body. You can readily picture the result when this amazing transformation has taken place and you notice how your cheeks fill out, hollows about your neck, shoulders and bust disappear and you take on from 10 to 20 pounds of solid, healthy flesh. Sargol is absolutely harmless, inexpensive, efficient. Boyce Drug store and other leading druggists of Duluth and vicinity have it and will refund your money if you are not satisfied, as per the guarantee found in every package.

Caution:—While Sargol has given excellent results in overcoming nervous dyspepsia and general stomach troubles it should not be taken by those who do not wish to gain ten pounds or more.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

RAILROAD TO MILLE LACS

Big Lake May Soon Become Paradise for Sportsmen and Tourists.

Projectors of Proposed Line Outline Plans to Brainerd Concern.

Brainerd, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representatives of the Minneapolis, Mille Lacs & Northern Railway company appeared before the newly incorporated chamber of commerce and outlined what has been done to date.

It was stated that the line will have Brainerd for one of its northern terminals, which has been definitely determined by the directors. The company is pushing its surveys and already thirty-four miles of right-of-way have been purchased, bringing the line within a few miles of Lake Mille Lacs. The road is projected from Anoka to St. Frances, Ont., via Dalbo, Ogilvie, Onamia and Garrison to Brainerd, all on the west shore of Lake Mille Lacs, also from Ogilvie to Wahkon, to Isle, Opstead, Malmo, Glenn, Valparaiso and Aitkin. When built, it is predicted the road will make Lake Mille Lacs a popular resort for sportsmen.

Into Unsettled Section.

The lake is fifteen miles wide and twenty miles long, while the country around is yet in an unsettled state and game, both large and small, are plentiful. The farmers and citizens of the towns to be traversed are enthusiastic and as soon as the permanent survey is made and the right-of-way secured construction work will start immediately at both the northern and southern terminals. Farmers along the route in many cases are donating the right-of-way as well as subscribing to blocks of stock. The road will be an extension of the Minneapolis & Northern railway, which now operates between Minneapolis and Anoka.

Faribault Boy Electrocuted.

Faribault, Minn., July 7.—Kasher Shell aged 17, was electrocuted Monday while at work in Fleckenstein's bottling works. He attempted to change a socket on an electric light and came in contact with the metal and wire. A pulmotor was used in an effort to restore him, but without success.

FIRES AT DAUGHTER; THEN KILLS HIMSELF

Mike Esow of Baudette Ends Domestic Troubles With Suicide.

Baudette, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mike Esow, an employe at the Engler mill, committed suicide at his home here. He shot at his daughter first but failed to do her any injury after which he turned the gun on himself, blowing his head to pieces.

The cause is given as some domestic troubles which preyed on his mind. His wife died some time ago and his daughter was keeping house for him.

PRIMARY CANVASS NOT PROVIDED FOR

Board in Fifty-Seventh Senatorial District Meets Wednesday.

After a board of canvassers had convened at the office of County Auditor Odin Halden yesterday afternoon to canvass the official vote on the state senatorship in the Fifty-seventh district which includes all of Lake and Cook counties and a portion of St. Louis county, it was learned that the law providing for such a canvass referred only to the vote cast at the general election and was not applicable to a primary election.

The board consists of the auditors of the three counties and justices of the peace from Proctor and Hibbing.

The official count on the senatorship, as canvassed separately by counties, was: Charles E. Adams, 2,067; A. G. McKnight, 973; and E. N. Edes, 298. The board adjourned to meet after the general election in November.

FRANK EDDY SPEAKER.

Former Congressman Delivers Baudette's Fourth Speech.

Baudette, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nearly 3,000 people were here for the celebration of the Fourth. A special from the west and the local from the east brought a large crowd. Congressman Frank Eddy gave the address of the day which was the best given here for some time. Prizes amounting to $200 were given for the contests. The sinking of a Mexican battleship was one of the water sports. In the ball game between Spooner and the local nine Baudette won by 19 to 5. The day was ideal.

BOOTH SERVES 155 CALLERS EACH DAY

Commercial Club Information Bureau Is Showing Good Results.

The information bureau conducted by the Commercial club at the corner of Fifth avenue west and Superior street is doing a land office business and is proving itself a valuable asset.

According to the report of George D. McCarthy, assistant secretary of the club, information has been given at the booth to 2,930 since it was opened on June 12. This is equal to an average of 155 a day. This report simply covers the June period.

The booth is operated and maintained by the Commercial club during the summer months. There is always someone on hand to answer questions, pass out folders, time tables, lists of hotels and boarding houses and other information that may be of interest either to citizens of Duluth or tourists. Both telephones are installed, putting the booth in touch with all parts of the city.

NORTH DAKOTAN STILL MISSING

Leaves Farm Near Arnegard and Then Drops From Sight.

Arnegard, N. D., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ole Skovly, who left his farm near here more than five weeks ago for Schafer, is still missing. He was the owner of a half section farm and had four horses. He left the latter with a neighbor, stating he would be absent about three days. At first it was thought he might have suddenly changed his mind and gone to Williston or to the Twin Cities but none of the train crews remember such a man. He was not in debt and was apparently prosperous. He was a bachelor and lived alone. Friends now fear he has either committed suicide or was murdered. He had a crop in on his land and it will be looked after should the man not return before harvest.

TWO CLAIMS SETTLED.

Both Involve Loss of Fingers of Men Employed in Mines.

For the loss of the little finger of his left hand Domenico Di Marco, 34, Eveleth, employed at the Spruce mine, has accepted $210 in settlement of his claim for damages from the Oliver Iron Mining company under the terms of the workmen's compensation act. The accident occurred at the Spruce mine on May 13.

Giovanni Doill, 40, who lost the index finger of his right nand while working at the South Uno pit, May 4, has accepted $236.25 or $6 a week for thirty-five weeks from the Oliver Iron Mining company as compensation for his injuries under the schedule of the new law.

CONTINUANCE GRANTED.

Gran-Heino Alienation Suit Put Over to September Term of Court.

The Gran-Heino suit for alienation of affections, in which Victor H. Gran, a local attorney, is suing his former business associate, John R. Heino, for $15,000 damages, will not be tried until the September term of the district court.

A motion for continuance over the term was granted by District Judge Fesler yesterday afternoon on the grounds that Mrs. Olga Gran, one of the principal witnesses in the case, who has been suffering from a nervous breakdown since the recent sensational divorce trial, is still too ill to appear in court.

COUNTY SCHOOL BOARD.

Repairs to Some Schools Ordered and Dissolution of One District.

At a meeting of the county board of education at the office of N. A. Young, county superintendent of schools, yesterday afternoon, repairs to rural schools Nos. 17 and 18, in Field township, west of Cook, were authorized. The board also gave authority for the drilling of a well to supply water to the Holmberg school, when it is erected in Industrial township, south of the St. Louis river.

The board also approved a petition for the dissolution of school district No. 41, which is in the town of Embarrass. The matter will be referred to the county board for final action at its meeting today.

LUMBERMAN DIES.

Henry Webster of Minneapolis Victim of Over-Exertion During Heat.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 7.—Henry Webster, president of the Webster Lumber company, died suddenly of heart failure Sunday evening at his hime, Burweb farm, a mile south of the city limits. Mr Webster, who was trying a new automobile and having some trouble with it was apparently affected by the heat and the over-exertion.

George B. Webster, a son, was married June 24 and was reached Sunday night by wire at Portland, Me., where he and his bride had gone on their wedding trip. They will arrive in Minneapolis Wednesday. Mr. Webster also leaves a widow and another son, Paul D. Webster. Both sons are associated with the Webster Lumber company.

Mr. Webster was born at Orono, Me., April 5, 1852. In 1874 Mr. Webster came to Minneapolis and entered the employ of W. D. Washburn and company, superintending the loading of cars at their mill near St. Anthony Falls. He had charge next year of the company's wholesale yard, and for a time was in charge at its Anoka mill. For two and a half years he was proprietor of a hotel at Princeton, Minn., but then re-entered the lumber business with the St. Cloud Lumber company. Later he was with Foley Bros. & Guthrie and the Foley-Bean Lumber company, traveling as a salesman and for a while was superintendent of the mill at Milaca.

In 1901 he started a wholesale lumber business in Minneapolis.

AEROPLANE AT DETROIT.

English Aviator Makes Two Successful Flights on the Fourth.

Detroit, Minn., July 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The celebration of the Fourth here drew one of the largest crowds ever assembled in this section of the state and with fine weather was a great success. The parade in the morning in which the Park Region G. A. R., that was in session here, participated, was notable. There was a fine sport program also. During the afternoon and evening, Ralph E. McMillen, an English aviator, made two successful flights in a Curtiss 'biplane. There was also water ball and other aquatic sports. A big display of fireworks in the evening closed a memorable day.

How to Make a Real Wrinkle Remover

In these days of cleverly advertised "beautifiers" of 57 varieties and more, it is hard for a woman to believe she can make a simple home remedy for those hateful marks of age, worry and illness, which will do her more good and cost her much less than the average made preparation. There's nothing in the world so effective for removing or preventing wrinkles, crow's feet and creases as a solution made by dissolving an ounce of pure powdered saxolite in a half pint of witch hazel. Every druggist has the ingredients.

Use this harmless mixture daily as a refreshing lotion, bathing the face in it two or three minutes at a time. The quick and satisfactory results will surprise you. Even the first application produces wonderful improvement. The wrinkles also less in evidence and the face has a firm, youthful, comfortable feeling. —Advertisement.

CUNNINGHAM HURLS NO HIT GAME AGAINST TWINS

Fort William Fails to Register a Blow and Loses, 3 to 0.

Sturgeon Lake Youth Holds the Visitors Helpless All the Way.

BY BRUCE.

Scout Babe Meyers of the Cleveland Americans sat intently in the grandstand at Athletic park yesterday and watched George Austin Cunningham hurl a no hit game against the much abused Fort William team. Duluth won the game by the score of 3 to 0. You have to hit to win. Sturgeon Lake and Cloquet papers please copy.

Interest in the remarkable hurling of the future mayor of Sturgeon Lake increased as the innings of the battle progressed. The question of the no hit proposition began to get exceedingly interesting after the fifth round. The sixth passed without a hit, though Hargrove missed one that some of the fanatics in the stand anxiously wondered over for a moment. The seventh passed hitless. Men sat silent and intent in the stands. The eighth was over and still the Sturgeon Laker went breezing along. Then came the ninth and the intensity of the situation increased. Chapman went down. Weidel whiffed and then old and often reliable Mike Kramer came to bat. It would be the back hand slap of fate to have Kramer hit. But he didn't—he struck out, and the record of George Austin Cunningham was inviolate. At this point three cheers may be given with perfect propriety.

The Lovely Ladies.

Some very estimable and intelligent women are obsessed with the belief that they understand the finer parts of the great national game. It is a delusion. They don't—but what then? Stern men sat in the hushed stillness of the grandstand and bleachers with cigars in their mouths that had smouldered into sleep through cold and ashen neglect. The blanched hush of a great moment hung like a pall on the masculine portion of the grandstand. A grizzled scout sat intent and still and watched with unmoved attention. And in the midst of this several lovely ladies, who had been talking of the bridge party and the extreme early styles in skirts, looked up and exclaimed that the afternoon was one very dull and so quiet. No one seemed to be making funny noises.

Let the lovely things persist in the delusion that they understand baseball—some men have persisted in the belief that they understood poker and the stock market. How about it, Angus?

Returning to George.

What did Mr. Cunningham have? Oodles of speed and a nicely breaking spitter. His fast one was zipping through shoulder high in most instances, and his spitter was breaking around their knees.

In addition to the highly estimable qualities just enumerated, George Austin Cunningham had control. A fast one, and a spitter that breaks with amazing speed, and control are pitching qualities difficult to beat.

During the sultry afternoon two of the visitors reached second base. The first man reached first through an error and pilfered. The second one got on through an error and was sacrificed. But four men reached first base. In the eight round Cunningham retired the side on seven pitched balls, striking out two men and compelling the other one to loft to James Esmond Collins in left field.

Again referring to the statistical department, we have to report that eleven of the visitors whiffed during the passage of the game. But three balls were knocked out of the infield, all of these, it is quite needless to say, going safely into the hands of the outfielders.

There was but one blow that had the semblance of a hit. That came in the second round when Monsuer Lizette, the manager of the opposition, met a fast one on the nose and it went sailing on a line to center field. It looked for a moment as if it would fall safe and would go for extra bases. Brackett tore back and got under it.

How We Counted.

Not until the fifth did the Dooks score off the imperious delivery of that well known gent of Red Wing, Mr. Buggs Weidel. Our first blow came in the third. In the fifth we gathered three blows.

Edmunds hit to right and advanced on Hargrove's hit down the infield foul line. Cunningham whiffed and Edmunds was caught between second and third, Hargrove swiped second and counted on Brackett's to right.

In the succeeding round Bond was safe on the error of Wise, and Collins singled through the box. O'Brien, taking the place of Ford, who was taken ill during the game, stole heroically to bat and sacrified the runners along. Wolfe laid down a little hit and Weidel failed to stop Bond at the plate. Chapman heaved to first to stop Wolfe and the return to the plate to stop Collins was wild and he scored. This ending the scoring for the day.

A. Johnson vs. W. Johnson.

Washington, July 7.—McBride's steal home in the fourth inning yesterday gave Washington the winning run in the odd game of the series with Boston. McBride doubled, took third after Speaker caught Ainsmith's fly to deep center, and starting for home while A. Johnson was winding up, slid under Thomas on a very close decision. A. Johnson and Walter Johnson opposed each other, and each pitched well, but Walter was steadier. Score: R. H. E.

Each Score Win.

New York, July 7.—New York and Philadelphia divided a double-header yesterday, the champions taking the first game, 5 to 4 and Philadelphia evening it up by taking the second, 7 to 2. Larry Doyle won the first game in the ninth inning with a home run. Mattison had pitched good ball, and the score was 4 to 4 in favor of Philadelphia when the champions took their last bat. The Phillies won the second game by hard hitting in the early innings. Scores

Braves Win Both.

Boston, Mass., July 7.—After losing three straight games to Brooklyn, Boston came back yesterday and won both ends of a double-header, 3 to 1 and 1 to 0. The second game was a pitchers' battle between Allen and Crutcher, which Allen lost when he gave Whitted a base on balls in the second and allowed Mann to drive the ball to the center field bleachers for two bases, scoring the only run of the game. Brooklyn out hit the home team, but fast fielding by the Boston players cut off the scoring. Scores:

Goes to Federals.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 7.—Pitcher R. J. McConnaughey, a righthander, drafted by the Chicago Americans two years ago and sent to the St. Joseph club of the Western league, has signed with the Indianapolis Federal league club. McConnaughey refused to report to the St. Joseph club this spring.

BETWEEN BOUTS WITH THE BOXERS

Being Gossip and a General Review of the Doings and Goings of the Knights of the Ring.

BY BRUCE.

Mike Collins writes that the Hudson club is attempting to match Mike Gibbons for a battle that will bear a decisive angle on the middle tangle.

Here and elsewhere it is not believed that Gibbons is exactly hankering after any of the game of Jack Dillon. Curley Ulrich has wires to this effect, so he claims.

Jimmy Clabby, George Chip or Bob Moha, the Milwaukee Cave man, would meetw th the hearty approval of the St. Paul and Minneapolis fans.

Jimmy Coffroth has wired for the best terms for which Gibbons will fight George Chip before his San Francisco club. It is not generally figured among the closest followers of fighting that Chip could do much to Gibbons in ten rounds—over the twenty-round route the result of the bout might be entirely different.

The Holiday Battles.

It is funny how different some things are from what they seem. Tom Jones was talking to us at Hudcon regarding this Matty McCue.

"McCue is the greatest boy I have ever seen outside of the Dutchman," and here Jones fondly looked over in the direction where the swarthy Wolgast was standing.

"I sent Wolgast against Matty in one of the gymnasium workouts and told the Dutchman to put him away," continued the volatile Jones. "Matty knocked Ad down and both boys fought like tigers for three rounds. They were both covered with blood and the battle was one of the fiercest I ever saw. Game! This McCue is one of the fiercest I have ever seen—the best with one exception—they never have made a boy as game as Wolgast."

And in the face of this dope—dope that might have sounded solid enough to copper a bet on, Jose Rivers comes along and trims McCue without effort or exertion.

George Chip nipped the middleweight championship aspiration of Billy Murray in the bud. Joe Mandot showed that he is still the same brilliant boxer by holding the excessively clever Johnny Dundee to a draw. Jack Britton, one of the greatest lightweights in the ring, barring none, had the best of Johnny Griffiths of Akron all of which goes to show the class of Britton.

Pal Brown's Showing.

At home Pal Brown gave the folks a distinct surprise. His showing against Whitney was really remarkable. Whitney floored Mandot twice, beat Joe Thomas, is credited with having the best of Charley White and beating Jimmy Potts and a lot of others, and then Brown gives him a beautiful trimming. It looks as if the range boy is back where he was in the days of old.

It was stated that the Hudson club is negotiating for the services of Jose Rivers. In the event of the Mexican coming to the Hudson club for one show, an effort will be made to have him show here against Brown.

It is generally believed that either Mandot or Rivers will be the next opponent of the range lad.

A rest during the remainder of the summer will put Pal on edge for the fall and winter campaign. In the form he showed against Whitney he has nothing to fear from any lightweight in the ring—a broad statement, but nevertheless freighted with a cargo of truth.

TRIALS MAY HAVE TO BE POSTPONED.

Newport, R. I., July 7.—Whether the cup class yachts Defiance, Resolute and Vanitie will begin their series of trial races off here today will depend largely upon the severity of the hurricane which swept over Narragansett bay at sundown last night. The prospect for racing seems dubious.

Boston, Mass., July 7.—Entries for the elimination races for the selection of three sonder yachts to go to Kiel next spring in the sixth series of German-American races closed yesterday. Of the five yachts which will compete in the trials two were built this year, the Mingo for Commodore Herbert M. Sears of the Eastern Yacht club and the Amie for Guy Lowell of the same club. The trials will be off Marblehead beginning Aug. 24.

LODGE LEAGUE HOLDS A BUSINESS MEETING.

A meeting of the directors of the Lodge Baseball league was held last evening at the Kelley Hardware company's store. In the future all of the games will begin at 2 and 4 o'clock. The protest of the M. B. A. team against the victory of Sunday was overruled.

In comes Summer—vacation time—and that old lazy, yawny feeling. Makes a man get out his pipe, puff away and start dreaming of good times to come. Air's mighty sweet in his nostrils—and so is Tuxedo, too. A grand old tobacco to dream over on days of rest and recreation.

Tuxedo
The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

The new Tuxedo 40c Tin Humidor is a vacation necessity. At the beach, in the mountains, on the farm—wherever you go, this handsome, convenient, air-tight humidor will keep a handy supply of Tuxedo for you, in fresh, delicious condition.

Tuxedo is made from the choicest selected crops of old Kentucky Burley—the cream leaves of each golden season—ripe, mellow, fragrant and—above all—mild.

Treated by the original Tuxedo process so that it can't bite. We've had imitators galore, but the original Tuxedo process is still the best, as it was the first, in the field.

expected that the scheduling of the games will be the means of creating renewed interest in the game among the women players.

Following is the schedule:

Thursday, July 9, 1914; Thursday, July 16 1914; Thursday, July 23, 1914; Thursday, July 30, 1914; Thursday, Aug. 6, 1914; Thursday, Aug. 20, 1914; Thursday, Aug. 27, 1914; Thursday, Sept. 3, 1914.

SCOUT PRAISES DULUTH HURLER

Meyers Says Cunningham Has Making of Great Pitcher.

Fred Boardman, the big southpaw, secured from the St. Paul team of the American association, was released last night. Allen of Oshkosh is expected here early today and Ezells, the pitcher secured from Josh Clarke of the Sioux City team, is also expected late today.

Scout Babe Meyers was mightily pleased with the steller performance of George Cunningham yesterday. It is said that Meyers, an old ball player, will don a uniform today and work with the young pitcher.

"Cunningham has the making of a great pitcher," said Meyers, "but he has some faults in his delivery that I believe I can correct. The boy has all the natural qualifications for a remarkable twirler and I would like to give him all the advice and assistance at my command."

TITLE MATCH ON IN LONDON

Welsh and Ritchie in Pink of Condition for Lightweight Battle.

Welsh Favorite in Betting —Compatriots in Wales Backing Him.

London, July 7.—Fred Welsh, lightweight champion of England and Willie Ritchie, lightweight champion of the world, arrived in London this morning from their training camps at Portcawl, Wales, and Brighton, respectively, for their fight tonight in the great arena of Olympia, in the West end of London. Both boxers declared themselves confident of winning the championship and both said they felt in the pink of condition. Their looks bore out their statement.

Welsh was the favorite in the betting by a slight margin, probably due to the support which his Welsh compatriots have been giving him at Cardiff where most of the betting so far has been 5 to 4 in his favor.

Father Boudier is to act as master of ceremonies at the match, the bishop of Stepney having objected to the Rev. Everard Digby's officiating. Eugene Corri is to be the referee.

The two men weighed in at Olympia this afternoon, when Ritchie scaled 134 pounds, while Welsh was just able to get within the stipulated limit of 135 pounds.

OSMAN AND GLASS HERE

Syracuse Boys Arrive and Are Expected to Join Rowing Squad.

Walter Glass, the stroke of the Syracuse varsity eight, and Art Osman, stroke of the junior varsity eight, reached Duluth yesterday. It is expected that both of the boys will be out in a boat today. It is also expected that Osman will fill one of the seats in the Duluth senior eight.

"Whether the senior four will row as fast this season as last, remains to be seen," said Coach Jimmy Ten Eyck today.

"You know that getting together counts more than any other rowing quality along in the case of a four, and the senior four has not been together nearly as much this season as last. Rheinberger has been away and then we have had to make more use of the boys in the eight. The four should be faster than last year, but whether it will or not, it is difficult to say right now.

"We have been awfully shy of material in the junior eight. Right now I am rowing several bantams in the boat. The boys are willing and have the proper spirit and we may come through all right."

From now on the work will be the hardest of the season. The finish must be put on between now and the time for leaving for Kenora and the Northwestern International Rowing association's events.

There will necessarily have to be a lot of roughness eliminated from the rowing of the junior eight and four and the bantam four. There will have to be more finish and drive put into the senior eight. There will also be a lot of time spent on the senior four—and these boys have been together for three years. This rowing game is one that requires attention to infinite detail.

ENGLISH DON'T LIKE THEIR TEAM

Despondent Over Prospects of Lifting Davis Tennis Cup.

Folkestone, Eng., July 7.—Although a despondent view of England's chances of lifting the Dwight F. Davis international lawn tennis trophy this year, is taken by the English press and the sporting public, much interest was displayed in the preliminary round between England and Belgium down for decision here today, tomorrow and Thursday.

The English team is composed of J. C. Parke, H. Roper Barrett, A. R. F. Kingscote and T. M. Mavrogordato. The Belgian team consists of P. De Borman (captain), W. H. Duvivier, L. Trasenster and A. G. Watson.

The selection of the English players has been much criticised. Parke, it is pointed out, proved a great disappointment at the Beckenham try-outs, where the tennis papers declare he was "distressingly out of form." The judges, however, found it impracticable to leave him out of the team. H. Roper Barrett and his partner at the same meeting were badly beaten in the doubles. A. R. F. Kingsoote, whose style was very graceful, lacked accuracy and strength; while Mavrogordato did not distinguish himself.

Many of the leading critics expressed disappointment because F. G. Lowe, who brilliantly defeated Norman E. Brookes of Australia, did not obtain a place on the English team.

In case the English team should win from Belgium it will meet the French team at Wimbledon on July 11, 13 and 14.

WIN TWELVE STRAIGHT.

McIntosh Pirates Getting in Invincible Class.

McIntosh, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The McIntosh baseball team has been reorganized and is known as the McIntosh Pirates. It is the same team with the same players and management. On the afternoon of the Fourth the Pirates played the fast Mentor team on the Erskine grounds for a purse of $40, and won, 5 to 3. Sunday afternoon they defeated the fast Thief River Athletics on the local grounds, 14 to 0. In this game as in the previous one, Holton and Haaven were the battery. After the Thief River game the Pirates played a fast seven-inning game with Shevlin, winning 5 to 4. Next Sunday the Pirates will play Thief River at Thief River Falls. The Pirates have played twelve straight games without loosing one. They claim the honor of being the best and fastest all-home-team in Northern Minnesota, not having any hired players.

WILL BE PUT WISE TO WEATHER CONDITIONS.

St. Louis, Mo., July 7.—Weather reports from all parts of the United States will be telegraphed to the balloon field here next Saturday afternoon, shortly before the national elimination races start, in order that the balloon pilots may have an accurate knowledge of atmospheric conditions to aid them in navigating their craft.

Arrangements for this service have been completed with the local weather forecaster, according to an announcement made by C. F. Hugo Mueller, who will be field manager of the race next Saturday.

"This arrangement is of great importance from the viewpoint of the aeronauts," said Mr. Mueller. "Each pilot will be given a small weather map showing the conditions throughout the country."

Announcement made yesterday that R. F. Donaldson of Springfield, Ill., had withdrawn from the race, was declared premature. An attempt is being made to obtain a balloon for Mr. Donaldson.

CHANCE GETS A COUPLE OF PLAYERS.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 7.—Pius Schwert, catcher and captain of this year's University of Pennsylvania baseball team, signed a contract yesterday to play with the New York Americans. He left witb Manager Chance for New York last night.

St. Louis, Mo., July 7.—Pitcher Hagerman of the St. Louis National league club last night was sold to the Chicago Nationals for the waiver price.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 7.—Carroll Brown, a member of the Athletics' pitching staff for three years, was released yesterday to the New York Americans.

Rapid Flight Start.

Hammondsport, N. Y., July 7.—With a load of nearly 1,800 pounds, Glenn Curtiss yesterday rose from the water in the America, the Rodman-Wanamawker trans-Atlantic flying boat, in sixty seconds after leaving the dock. Planing on the surface for another 100 yards he was free and clear in the air, one minute and fifteen seconds after the start. This is the fastest rising from the water the America has accomplished.

HEAVY LOSSES ON OPEN ACCOUNTS

Gay & Sturgis Owed $1,224,264 in Addition to Secured Loans.

Gay & Sturgis, stockbrokers, who went into bankruptcy some months ago, had outstanding loans of $616,507 secured by collateral having a market value of $765,036, according to a statement filed with the referee. There are over twenty banks in the list, the largest loan being for $116,500, the value of the collateral against which is placed at $138,599.

The schedule also shows that the firm was indebted to the extent of $1,224,264 to 548 individuals on open account. The largest individual creditor is Mrs. Katherine G. Sturgis, wife of Irving J. Sturgis, who has a claim for $282,985. R. R. Goodell, father of Mrs. Sturgis, is creditor on open account for $38,588, for $50,000 loaned the firm in 1902, and a similar amount loaned Irving J. Sturgis during the same year.

UNCLE SAM WANTS MANY ASSISTANTS

Fourteen civil service examinations will be held here on July 22 and during the first week in August to fill government positions in the United States and the possessions. Information may be obtained from the department at Washington or from E. M. Barker, local secretary of the examining board, who is superintendent of the registry department at the postoffice.

The positions to be filled, with the respective salaries and dates of examinations follow

July 22—National expert, $1,000 per annum; copyish, marine engine and boiler draftsman, $3.04 per day; apprentice plate printer, $700; investigator in poultry and egg handling, $1,200; mechanical draftsman, $125 per month; scientific assistant in marketing and distribution, $1,400.

Aug. 3—Assistant in farm management, $1,800; chemical engineer, $2,400; chief, section of derived products, $3,000; organic chemist, $1,800; assistant engineer of mine tests, $1,800.

LOOP IN AIR KILLS FAMOUS AVIATOR.

Saumur, France, July 7.—Georges La Gagneaux, one of the best known French aviators, was killed yesterday while attempting a double loop in the air. He had completed the second loop when the propeller broke as the aviator was finishing a glide on the wing, and the machine plunged into the river Loire.

Georges La Gagneaux had been prominent in aviation since 1908. In 1910 he made the flight from Paris to Brussels, and several times established world's altitude records. His best record for height was made last year at St. Raphael, when he ascended 20,295 feet.

LARKE SAYS PAPER IS LOSING MONEY.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 7.—Suit for a receiver to operate the Indianapolis Sun has been brought in the circuit court by George H. Larke, who was vice president, treasurer and general manager of the paper until last Friday, when he was removed by action taken at a meeting of the board of directors. Larke asks that a receiver be appointed and that judgment for $33,000 be given him.

He says in his complaint that the company operating the Sun is insolvent, and that the paper is being published at a loss. The question will be taken up by the court Wednesday morning. The Sun was purchased in January, 1913, by Mr. Larke and W. D. Boyce of Chicago.

SAVE DRUNKEN MAN; PRAISED AS HEROES.

Washington, July 7.—Secretary Daniels has sent letters of commendation to Morris Wallace, master of arms, and William Carley, boatswain's mate, for daring and coolness displayed at Vera Cruz recently in rescuing a drunken sailor who had climbed to a yard-arm on the battleship Virginia and was about to dive to the deck, 100 feet below. The rescuers, following their comrade up the mast, threw a line about his body and hauled him safely to the deck.

SHAKESPEARE WITH THE SUFFRAGETTES

Joins Other Pastors in Protest Against Forcible Feeding.

London, July 7.—The Rev. Reginald J. Campbell, pastor of the City temple; Rev. R. F. Horton, pastor of Lyndhurst Road church, Hampstead; Rev. J. H Shakespeare, and several other prominent non-conformist ministers have sent a letter to Premier Asquith appealing to him to stop forcible feeding of suffragette prisoners.

The writers assert forcible feeding is barbarous, cruel and disgusting, and that, regarded as a deterrent, it has proved futile.

Threw Papers at King.

Edinburgh, July 7.—Suffragettes took advantage of the visit here yesterday of King George and Queen Mary and attempted to bombard the royal couple with suffragette literature.

Two women obtained possession of a balcony in a house opposite the station, and as the royal carriage emerged they threw down upon it a lot of suffragette appeals. Two detectives seized them, spoiling their aim. Some of the handbills fluttered into the street and the royal carriage passed over them.

The king, looking up, saw the women struggling in the arms of the officers. They were removed to a police station, the crowd giving them a mixed reception of cheers mingled with hooting.

The women gave the names of Lock and Owen. Among their missiles was a paper bull containing a message "To show King George that women are being persecuted for defending their freedom."

OVERWORKED; HURT; JURY GIVES $75,000

Former Conductor on B. & O. Tells of Strenuous Days.

Chicago, July 7.—A jury awarded James B. Wilson, former conductor on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, $75,000 for injuries received after he had been forced to work sixty-three hours out of seventy-two, according to testimony.

Propped in a wheel chair, Wilson told the jurors he had been made to work three days and nights, from Aug. 19 to 22, 1913, with only nine hours off for rest. He said that while switching a freight car to a side track on the third day he became exhausted and fell between the car and an engine. His right arm was crushed and his spine badly injured.

SAYS WABASH WAS RUN AT A LOSS.

St. Louis, Mo., July 7.—The operation of the Wabash railroad for the ten months ending April 30, 1914, resulted in a deficit of $1,500,000, according to a report of E. B. Pryor, receiver, filed with United States Circuit Judge Adams.

The gross revenue for the ten months, says the report, was $25,300,000, and the operating expenses $20,200,000, leaving a net revenue of more than $5,000,000.

The balance, after providing for taxes, rentals, etc., was $2,600,000, nearly enough to pay the interest on underlying bonds and on equipment obligations. Nothing was left for interest on receivers' certificates or for additions and betterments. The gross revenue, Receiver Pryor reported, continued to show large decreases.

Receiver Pryor reported that he expected to provide for the payment of interest of $212,000 due July 1, 1914, and also of interest of $350,000 on second mortgage bonds. This interest is due Aug. 1.

CANADA'S BAN ON HINDU IS UPHELD

Victoria, B. C., July 7.—The court of appeals unanimously dismissed the appeal of Hindu immigrants seeking admission here, and upheld the validity of the step the immigration officials took in preventing the landing of the Komagata Maru passengers.

The test case was that of Munshi Singh. The court upheld the validity of orders in council followed by the immigration authorities in attempting the deportation of Munshi Singh on the following counts:

1. That the Hindu is a native of India, an immigrant of Asiatic race, and does not possess, in his own right, $200.
2. That he is an immigrant who has come to Canada otherwise than by continuous journey from his native country.
3. That he is an unskilled laborer.

CARLOAD OF "GRAVEL" PROVES TO BE BOOZE.

Bartlesville, Okla., July 7.—A carload of beer and whisky billed as gravel was seized by state and Federal officers. It was the biggest seizure ever made in this section. Twenty barrels of beer and twenty-five cases of whisky were seized. As no one claimed the shipment it is to be destroyed. It was valued at nearly $1,000.

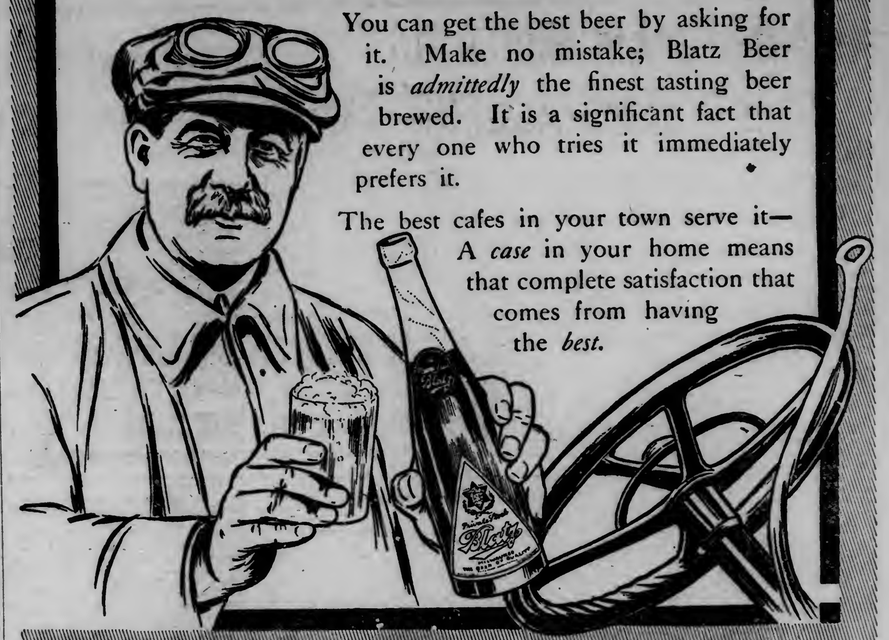

CONGRESSMEN GIVE NO AID TO SALEM.

Washington, July 7.—The $200,000 appropriation for the aid of the Salem fire sufferers asked by President Wilson in a message to congress last Friday was refused yesterday by the house appropprations committee. The majority of the committee contended that Massachusetts was able to take care of the situation and that Federal appropriation was unnecessary. Representatives Phelan and Gillett, the Massachusetts members of the committee, and five others voted for it.

THE TELEGRAPH OPERATOR AND THE GOOD JUDGE

ALL around you men are talking about "Right-Cut"

You yourself are probably telling your friends it's the Real Tobacco Chew.

No "Right-Cut" user wants to see his friends go without it.

Made of pure, mellow tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough.

You get all the good of the rich, sappy tobacco.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the old size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short shred so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary candied tobacco makes you spit too much.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up with molasses and licorice. Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste in "Right-Cut."

If your dealer does not sell it, send us 10c. in stamps for a pouch of "Right-Cut" Chewing Tobacco.

MARKET HAS EASIER TONE

Apart From Sharp Bulge in July, Wheat Closes Fractionally Off.

Flaxseed Has Strong Undertone With Good Inquiry From Crushers.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 7.—The market was slightly easier at the close. July wheat closed 1¼c up; September ¼c off and December ¼c off. July durum closed ½c up and September ¼c off.

Oats closed ¼c up at 34½c. Rye closed unchanged at 40c to 50c.

At Winnipeg, July oats closed at 38⅞c bid and October at 35⅞c bid.

Puts on Minneapolis September wheat closed at 80⅜c and calls at 81⅞c.

The wheat market was a nervous affair today, with trading largely under the influence of black rust rumors in South Dakota. At the start quotations sold off a maximum of ⅞c in the September option on the denial of the reports that brought about the upward swing in the late trading yesterday. Later, on the specific statement that rust is showing at Egan, S. D., the loss was fully recovered. Operators do not place much reliance in rust rumors at the present, thinking these stories largely a bubble. A local house that sent out queries on the situation to a number of its correspondents, received replies today to the effect that the outlook was better than it is now. It is pointed out that the present bright days and cool nights over the Northwest are unfavorable for the development of black rust.

An especially strong situation has developed in the July option at this point. There is said to be a considerable short interest in it, and with the current demand from millers and for Eastern shipment, traders are experiencing difficulty in getting under cover. The quotation in the option consequently advanced 1⅜ to 92⅛c during the first three hours business today, making it 5c above the ruling figure at Minneapolis. Wheat stocks in the elevators here are now down to about 1,000,000 bu, taking into account steamers that have loaded out during the last couple of days.

A fair Eastern inquiry for durum was reported today, and some business was put through in spring wheat for shipment down that way.

July wheat opened ¼c off at 90½c from which it advanced 1⅝c later. September opened unchanged at 82⅝c, and after selling off ⅞c, it recovered to the opening figure. December opened ⅜@½c off at 83c, and sold ¼c higher at the final hour, after following the market course of September. July durum opened unchanged at 86⅜c and gained fractionally. September opened ¼c off at 83c and recovered to that extent later.

Flaxseed Is Strong.

Though the close was fractionally easier, flaxseed had a strong undertone again today, with good inquiry from crushers in evidence. Offerings were light, holders showing no inclination to let go in view of the statistical position of the market. It is estimated by one of the largest operators in the trade here from reports received from correspondents, that the area under the seed this season in the Canadian and American northwest will show a decrease of 700,000 acres.

Foreign markets were weak, Buenos Aires closing 1c off; London 1¾c off and Antwerp ⅜c off.

July flax opened unchanged at $1.60 and closed unchanged at $1.60 asked. September opened unchanged at $1.62¼ and closed ⅛c off at $1.62⅛. October opened unchanged at $1.62¼, and closed ¼c off at $1.62; bid, and November opened unchanged at $1.62¼, and closed ⅛c off at $1.62⅜ bid.

At Winnipeg, July flax closed at $1.39 bid, and October at $1.43⅛ bid.

Baker had the following from Lake Benton, Lincoln county, Minn.: "The crop of Lincoln and adjoining counties are everything that could be desired. They never were better. I do not see any black rust here; a few red leaves that we have every year."

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Wheat—Late steadiness in America and unfavorable reports from Russia caused some support at the opening, and values were ⅛ to ¼d up. Following the opening the market was dull, with some slight recession on a smaller demand for forward shipment and an easier spot market, but more support developed on firmer Manitoba offers and an improved demand from importers. At 1:30 p. m. it was steady unchanged to ¼d higher."

King of Toledo says: "Michigan crop condition of corn is 92 per cent; June 99 and July 87 per cent. Acreage is 1,770,000 acres. Winter rye per acre 17.91 bu; a year ago the final was 15.75 bu. Crop will be about 13,000,000 bu, against 12,000,000 for last year."

* * *

The Chicago & Northwestern's crop report says: "Weather conditions during past week have been ideal and very beneficial to the crops. We do not require more moisture to mature all crops except corn and flax. There are reports of red rust on the leaves which is not out of the ordinary, and if the present favorable weather continues, there is absolutely no danger of damage by black rust. This territory as a whole will harvest one of the heaviest crops of small grain in its history.

* * *

Grain in store on July 6, according to word received by Parker Paine was: Wheat, 532,000 bu; decrease, 250,000 bu; corn, 2,514,000 bu; decrease, 382,000 bu; oats, 2,644,000 bu; decrease, 289,000 bu; contract wheat, 146,514 bu; increase, 10,284 bu; corn, 1,023,000 bu; decrease, 56,282 bu; oats, 598,585 bu; increase, 29,044 bu.

* * *

Foreign crop summary by Broomhall: United Kingdom—Weather favorable, being dry and with occasional rains. Wheat is progressing well and coarse grains are improving.

France—Weather favorable for the development of wheat. Some estimates of the yield of wheat are inclined to show a quantity larger than last year. Outlook for oats is good.

Germany—Outlook for wheat is good. Rye has improved and the outlook for the fodder crop is distinctly damaged from dryness.

Russia—Wet weather continues in the district where harvest is in progress and extreme dryness in others. Crop advices are generally good and bad from the same districts, but our various agents state that there is sufficient deterioriation to justify the assertion that the crop of wheat will be a very moderate one. Oats are suffering from drouth.

Hungary—General outlook is unsatisfactory and some reports at hand from reliable sources reiterate that the outlook is distinctly bad.

Italy—Crop outlook has been made with conditions generally favorable.

Scandinavia—Crop outlook is unsatisfactory as a result of dryness.

Lewis of Minneapolis wired: "The all-important factor in the wheat market at present is the weather. It is definitely determined that black rust exists in the southern part of South Dakota and while no damage has resulted, its mere presence is sufficient to give the trade a great deal of concern. Like all pests which affect the wheat crop, it is present every year to some degree, but only once in a great many years does it do any material damage. The only real rust year we have ever had was in 1904, ten years ago, and every season since then the trade has had to suffer a period of nervousness, due to the fear that we might have a repetition of the famous rust year. In 1904, about the middle of July, reports began to reach the trade that the wheat crop was not looking well, but it was the first of August before experts determined the extent of the ravages of the black rust. Wheat is just starting to head over North Dakota, and no damage to that state can result for some time to come, but Southern Minnesota and South Dakota have reached the stage when they can be injured, but no damage is liable to result unless we get a protracted period of weather favorable to the development of the spores. With clear, cool weather, weather, such as we are having today, rust talk will be minimized."

Summary of weather and crop conditions in the corn and wheat region for the week ending July 6, 1914:

Weather favorable for harvesting winter wheat, which work is well advanced as far north as Nebraska. Threshing progressed satisfactory except in portions of Kansas, and with generally good yields.

In the spring wheat belt moderate temperature and well distributed showers gave excellent growing weather and the crop continues in generally good condition, an exception being some local rust in Minnesota.

Corn made good growth except in Kentucky and portions of the surrounding states where drought continues and rains came too late in some dry sections to the southward. Cultivation progressed rapidly in all portions of the belt and is now well advanced or completed in all central sections.

Oats and hay still further damaged in the Ohio valley and cut short to the southward on account of dry weather, but in the North and West the conditions continue favorable.

Weather favorable for tobacco setting and growth except in Kentucky and portions of the surrounding states.

H. W. RICHARDSON,
Local Forecaster.

HEAVY SELLING IN GREENE-CANANEA

Stock Off on News of Suspension of Mining Labor Troubles.

Quotations in mining stocks were slightly up as a rule at Boston today, with strength in evidence during the greater part of the session on the announcement of another advance in copper metal to 14c a pound.

Greene-Cananea was a weak issue, considerable liquidation developing in it on the intimation of labor troubles and the suspension of operations at the mine. The stock sold off $1.25 to a close of $28.50. Alaska Gold closed a shade up at $27.75; Butte & Superior a fraction off at $37.50; Calumet & Arizona unchanged at $64.75; Granby 50 cents up at $80.75; North Butte unchanged at $25; Shattuck unchanged at $23.50, and Amalgamated Copper a fraction up at $71.25. In the curb list there, South Lake was steady at $3.50 bid.

In Duluth curb stocks, Calumet & Corbin was easy, selling at 14@16 cents. Calumet & Montana sold at 20 cents; Calumet & Sonora at 67 cents; Alex Scott at $5, and Keating at $2.

* * *

Calumet & Arizona and Superior & Pittsburg's output for June was 5,862,300 pounds of blister copper against 5,495,000 pounds in May.

* * *

A wire from Boston said: "Directors of Osceola are expected to meet in the next ten days to act on the quarterly dividend. With the present price of copper and output, there is little prospect of an increase in the dividend. The June output of Osceola was the largest for that month in several years."

Electrolytic copper was advanced to 13⅞@14c a pound today.

A wire from Boston received by Paul Webber & Co., today in reference to Greene-Cananea said: "The company posted notice at the Cananea Mines that the demands of the 2,500 strikers for increased pay and other concessions will not be granted. Operations have been suspended, but pumps are working. It probably will be determined in day or two if the men will return to work."

Paine, Webber & Co. report a good investment demand for the 7 per cent preferred stock issue of the Wisconsin & Minnesota Light & Power company being placed by them through their branch offices. The company owns extensive water power rights, exceeding 100,000 horse power and it will eventually market its surplus power in St. Paul and Minneapolis.

In the territory now being supplied, the company is earning over one and one-half times the dividend on its preferred stock after paying interest on its bond issue.

STOCKS RISE IN LAST HOUR

Union Pacific and B. & O. Help to Lift the Market.

Rumor of Early Freight Rate Decision Is Heard Again

New York, July 7.—Most stocks of speculative importance opened unchanged, but showed later an inclination to recede. Special issues were again prominent, United States Express, Mexican Petroleum, American Tobacco, Studebaker and Central Leather preferred rising 1 to 1½ points. Canadian Pacific and Ontario & Western declined a point. Rock Island recorded a new low point at 1¼.

The morning session wrought no pronounced changes in the representative group, few of which varied more than fractions. The movement in the specialties continued, however, with further gains in the issues already mentioned, as well as in Dry Goods preferred which rose almost 4 points. Rock Island preferred and the collateral bonds joined the common shares in establishing new low records. Sudden activity in Missouri Pacific 4 per cent bonds and the stock, which declined 5 and 1½ points respectively, was referable to the proposed financial readjustment of that property. The bond list was quiet except for some strength in Kansas & Texas firsts, and International Pump fives.

Selling of the Gould stocks continued in the early afternoon, increasing with reports of drastic selling down of Missouri Pacific issues under the reorganization. Missouri Pacific extended its loss to 2 points and Denver's were lower. Active issues shaded in sympathy. A small export of gold to South America, presumably for London account, was announced.

Stocks moved in an irregular manner for the greater part of today's session with marked weakness in the Goulds. In the later operations fairly large transactions in the speculative favorites resulted in a general discovery with net gains of a point or better. The closing was strong.

Under the lead of Union Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio, Pennsylvania and Lehigh Valley stocks were lifted out of their rut in the final hour. The activity, which was relatively greatest of the session, was attended by the time-worn rumor of an early announcement of the freight rate decision.

ADAMS IS REAPPOINTED

Charles E. Adams, special counsel for St. Louis county, was reappointed for another year at the July meeting of the board of county commisioners at the courthouse this morning. Mr. Adams has charge of all of the county's civil cases and tax matters.

The board granted a petition for the dissolution of School District No. 11, which comprised townships, 60-131, 60-14, 60-15, and 61-13. Expenditures on county road repairs in the commissioner districts were made as follows: Second district (2 roads).....$ 317.87
Fifth district (miscellaneous). 1,083.03
Sixth district (8 roads)..... 7,040.77
Sixth district (12 roads)..... 4,832.53
Fourth district (13 roads)..... 6,000.00

The bid of Beckman Brothers for $700 for the construction of three-fourths of a mile of the Bassett road from the Duluth & Iron Range railroad right-of-way to the north line of township 58-12 was accepted and the contract ordered let. The railroad company will defray $500 of this expense.

The board also appropriated $200 from the county's special fund for use on a tool house in the Third district.

STILL FIGHTING PROPOSED BRIDGE

Superior's Congressman Introduces Bill Ordering Approaches.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, July 7.—In an effort to defeat the Miller bill for the construction of a bridge across the St. Louis river at Fond du Lac, Representative Lenroot of Wisconsin today introduced a bill requiring the Interstate Transfer Railway company to construct approaches to its bridge by July 1, 1915.

EXPENSE ACCOUNTS TO BE SCRUTINIZED

St. Paul, Minn., July 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hereafter when any item of personal expense or expenditure for any purpose is incurred by any state official or employe under him, it will have to be sworn to before a notary public. This is the edict of State Auditor Iverson announced today, which will go into effect Aug. 1, when the appropriation for the various state departments becomes available.

Today Mr. Iverson directed the following circular to the heads of all state departments:

"Beginning with the new fiscal year, Aug. 1, 1914, all accounts of claims presented to the department for payment covering personal expenses and expenditures incurred by regular salaried officers and employes must be verified by being sworn to before a notary public or some other officer having a seal and authorized to take acknowledgment. The voucher should contain an itemized statement and all sums in excess of $1 should be covered by a receipt or a subvoucher. When railroad mileage is used, give number of book and mileage between stations."

Department Head Responsible.

Not only will Mr. Iverson demand that every expenditure incurred by either the head of a department or an employe be sworn to, but he insists that when a claim is presented the same shall be carefully investigated by the head of the department and that when he is entirely satisfied as to its correctness, it shall be duly signed by that official.

Mr. Iverson stated today that his latest ru
